"We are looking to play hard and compete against them," Nelson said. 'If we don't serve tough to throw their offense off a little, we'll be

"This Nebraska team is the best team to ever play in Ahearn Field House," Nelso said. "They are twice as good in volleyball as Oklahoma is Sophomore spiker Shawnee Call hits the volleyball over two University of Kansas defenders Monday in Ahearn Field House. K-State took the match, winning three out of five games, 9-15, 15-12, 15-12, 11-15, 15-9.

Tribble's trial date set in Bias case

By The Associated Press

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. - A Monday dismissed charges against two men and scheduled trial for a third in connection with the cocaineinduced death of University of Maryland basketball star Len Bias.

Judge James Rea, at the request of state attorney Arthur Marshall, dismissed possession of cocaine and obstruction of justice charges against David Gregg and Terry

Long, who were with Bias when he died of cocaine intoxication June 19. who also was with Bias the morning he collapsed in a college dormitory room. The judge set Nov. 17 as the trial date for Tribble. Tribble is accused of supplying Bias with the cocaine that killed him and is charged with possession of cocaine, possession with intent to distribute cocaine, distribution of cocaine and possession of PCP.

Long and Gregg are expected to testify in Tribble's trial, but both But the judge refused to dismiss Marshall and their lawyer, Alan Prince George's County circuit judge the case against Brian Lee Tribble, Goldstein, denied that charges were dropped against them as part of a plea bargain.

"For the record, no deal has been consummated," Marshall told the Tribble, Gregg and Long were with Bias when the top draft choice of the NBA's Boston Celtics collapsed after ingesting an unusually pure form of cocaine.

Mossman leads Lady Cats with fairness, strict ruling hand

By TOM MORRIS

Assistant Sports Editor

Editor's Note: This is the last in a series featuring K-State athletic coaches.

Even though K-State's women's basketball team has never had a losing season, Matilda Mossman said she is still rebuilding.

In her third year as the Lady Cats coach, Mossman is a competent contractor when it comes to rebuilding programs. Just look at what she did in three seasons at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville.

The Coaches of K-State

Mossman boosted the Lady Razorbacks - who had never experienced a 20-win season - to three 20-win campaigns and a composite 67-27 record.

Once a solid foundation had been established, Mossman made her move to

"I had taken (Arkansas) as far as it would go," Mossman said. "I was looking to go somewhere that had a chance to win a conference championship...at Kansas State they had a lot of tradition and good administrative support.'

Prior to Mossman's arrival, the Lady Cats, under the guidance of Lynn Hickey, went 25-7 and ranked as high as ninth nationally during the 1982-83 season. But Mossman found the program in disarray.

"The team I took over lost three starters and five players who were recruited weren't really Big Eight material," she said.

So the rebuilding began. K-State has had consecutive 16-13 seasons under Mossman, not bad considering many critics say the Big Eight is one of the four toughest women's basketball conferences in the country.

Plus, the players had to adjust to Mossman's coaching philosophy which is based around the four-letter word favored by most mentors - team.

"I'm not a coach who tries to isolate one player and say 'let's get this player 30 points a game and everybody else get the ball to her.' I've never been a believer in that," Mossman said.

"I think all five people have to be able to score for you and I think all five people have to be able to handle the ball...I'm a very team-oriented coach," she said.

Mossman's strict guidance can sometimes stir controversy, and a conflict of interests led to three players - Cassandra Jones, Shelia Hubert and Cheryl Jackson — leaving the team last season.

'As far as the players that quit last year, it boils down to I'm a team-oriented coach and if you have selfish players, they don't fit in," Mossman said. "But I don't have any regrets because we're going to be successful with the kids that want to be here no matter who's coaching. They have to want to play at Kansas State University."

And the women who want to be Lady Cats must understand Mossman's idea of a coach-athlete relationship.

"I don't think our players should be my best friend. I think that they have to feel that I do care about them and that they can come and talk to me (if they have a problem), but at the same time I'm not going to be looking over their shoulder. Mossman said.

Last year's Lady Cat media guide said Mossman leads her teams with a "firm hand but a gentle heart.'

"We try to instill a certain amount of discipline in our players because women can only play basketball for four years in college," Mossman said. "After that point, you pretty much have to have a career and grow up on your own.

"We try to teach them early a sense of responsibility," she added. "We try to make them accountable and try to get them do certain things outside of basketball in terms of going to study halls, being on time and doing their best and achieving in the classroom. From that standpoint I'm very disciplined."

Women's basketball coach Matilda Mossman is still rebuilding the team to fulfill her desire to win a Big Eight Conference championship. Mossman, in her third year as head coach, has never had a losing season with the Lady 'Cats.

Role of women is declining as coaches, administrators

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

In 1972, 90 percent of the coaches and administrators in women's college sports were female. Currently, 49.4 percent of all women's college teams are coached by men, according to an article in the Sept. 29 issue of Sports Illustrated. K-State employs just one female head coach, Lady Cat mentor Matilda Mossman, and there are 19 women head coaches among the 99 coaches in the Big Eight Conference. Seven of eight of the conference's Oklahoma State's Dick Halterman is the lone exception. The decline in hiring women as coaches and administrators started when women's women's basketball coaches are female.

athletic programs were initiated, Mossman Many females were appointed just because they were women, she said, and not because of their coaching skills or knowledge of the sport. "That gave women coaches a bad rap because all of a sudden the (critics were saying) women didn't know how to coach. Well, they had the wrong people there in the first place," Mossman said. And Mossman said if a woman is an exceptional coach, it isn't automatic that she will be hired unless she has the right con-

"I have a philosophy that says it's not what you know but who you know that gets you in the door, but then it's what you know that keeps you there," she said.

For instance, when Mossman applied to the University of Arkansas as an assistant coach. Mossman was hired partially because a contact of hers knew Razorbacks' men's coach Eddie Sutton, and Sutton in turn recommended Mossman to the Arkansas women's coach at the time, Joan Henn.

"Had I been a female who only knew other females, then I would've had a problem even getting in the door there."

Another reason it is difficult for some women to gain entry into the coaching ranks is that 90 percent of Division I-A athletic programs for men and women, including K-State, have been placed under the direction of men, the SI article titled "The Most Powerful Woman in Sports" stated.

"I don't mind the fact that there's no women's (athletic director) here, Mossman said. "I would rather have a male who knew what he is doing than having a female here just because she is a female." Is it tough being the only woman head coach at K-State? "The only thing that's bad about being the only female (coach) is that you get elected to a lot of committees because you're a minority - you're a female.

"That takes a lot of time away from my job when I have to be on this committee and that committee not because I was wanted on that committee, but because I'm the only female," Mossman said.

Women athletes are improving in athletic ability each year, but Mossman said that won't lead to more women in the coaching ranks. Instead, it will have the opposite ef-

"I think the better the women athletes get, the more of a demand there's going to be for male coaches because males become more interested in a sport that gets a lot of attention," Mossman said.

"Women know there isn't much of a career for them in athletics." she added." Mossman said she has talked with several males who coach female athletes, and reasons cited for selecting women's athletics included less pressure, more job opportunities, and women athletes are more perceptive and easier to work with. "Still, it seems funny to me," Mossman said, "that if you're a male, and you want to nurture the male ego, then wouldn't you naturally want to coach men unless you can't get a job coaching men?"

Window painting

Steve Killian, sophomore in business management, and Stacy Smith, sophomore in philosophy, paint a storefront window Monday along Poyntz Avenue in preparation for weekend Homecoming festivities. The two Phi Eta Sigma honorary members volunteered their services to help raise money for Blue Key scholarships.

GOP will save majority, Ford says

By The Associated Press

WICHITA - Former President Gerald Ford said Monday the Republican Party will retain its majority in the Senate, but winning the right number of seats in November is going to be difficult.

"I think we're going to end up probably with a loss or two, but we'll pick up a couple," he said. "I think the Republicans will still control the Senate, but it's all dependent on about 10 races that could go either way."

Ford, in Wichita to raise money for GOP gubernatorial candidate Mike Hayden, said he likes "to reciprocate very supportive of me," referring to his winning Kansas in the 1976 presidential race.

At a press conference prior to speaking at a fundraising banquet, the former president called Hayden and his running mate a "very firstclass pair."

"I hope that I can persuade a few Kansans to vote for Mike," Ford said. "I'm very impressed by his personality, his record in the state House, his leadership as Speaker of the House, his opportunity to be chairman of the committee on ways and means.'

Ford said he strongly supports for people that were very kind and President Reagan's attempts to bring democracy to Nicaragua by undermining strongman dictator Daniel Ortega.

"I think he's a menace in Central America," Ford said. "He went into power a few years ago with all kinds of promises about a democratic society and he's ended up with oneparty rule. I think he's a disaster. He, along with Castro, are a growing menace in Central America.

During the closing weeks before the November general election, Ford said he is campaigning in states where he thinks he can make a difference in closely contested gubernatorial races.

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

23 Calloway

nian god position

Fleming cupboard

land base

24 Babylo-

25 Sesame

26 Encore

27 Switch

29 Dutch

31 Dined

35 Green-

36 Hair

34 Soothed

eanuts

By Charles Schulz

3 Zoo attraction

4 Rahab of

5 Garden

bower

McClure

7 Sargasso

creature

6 Actor

Sea

8 Scamp

9 Arrow

10 Yucatan

11 Actress

17 Lounge

idly

call

19 Arid

Anna

poison

Indian

Jericho

rossword

40 Part of a bird's wing

43 Fort Knox

47 Police

mega-

phone?

49 Egyptian

skink

50 Sea eagle producer?

brothers

51 Groan

hand

53 Pipe

treasure

1 Ready money 5 Ending for lemon or lime

8 Edges 12 Olive genus 13 Future

fish? 14 Med.

school subj. 52 Close at 15 Wild hog 16 Target center material 18 Breed of 54 Pig's digs canines 55 Yogi's son 20 "...on the DOWN 1 Lee or Ty of life we pass' 2 Name of 21 Hockey star baseball

22 Palm leaf: var. 23 Spiteful 26 Australian beefwood

30 Cuckoo 31 River island 32 Monk's title APE

33 "...paper of the brain... 36 Presents 38 Indian

39 Egyptian

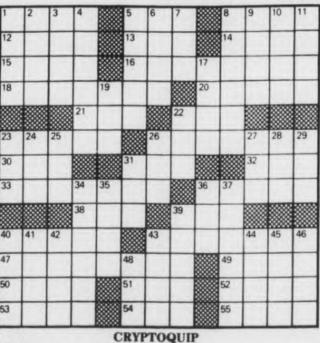

Solution time: 24 min.

Yesterday's answer 10-21

simple 46 Son of Loki styling need 37 "No man is an -22 Umpire's 39 Easter 40 First shepherd

48 Harvest

10-21

UIAZYX UCESA PZXJI UCL, " Z ASGFWY

FYWI.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE VAGUE KINSHIP BETWEEN OUR BANKER AND DEPOSITORS WAS A SAVINGS BOND.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals N

'Excessive' rainfall slows progress in season's harvest, wheat planting

By The Collegian Staff

Although rain has delayed fall harvest and wheat planting, county officials are hoping recent days of sunshine will last long enough to prevent further problems.

Locally, grain elevators reported that loads of soybeans began arriving last Wednesday and Thursday. Although the local elevators reported generally good yields, some sprout damage is also being reported.

Mike Christian, Riley County Extension agriculture agent, said local harvesters were busy late last week, trying to beat forecasted rains.

'We really started rolling around the last part of last week," Christian

For some, timing has become the difference between producing livestock feed or ending up with a crop sprouting in the fields.

"If the crop sits in the field too long, the bean or kernel will begin to sprout," said Eldon Fastrup, head of the marketing division of the State Agriculture Board in Topeka.

"The sprouting has been very minimal so far, and it can still be used in livestock feed," Fastrup said. As of Friday, the Kansas Board of Agriculture estimated that only 30 percent of the state's total harvest had been completed.

Although as much as 70 percent of the total Kansas wheat crop has been planted, a portion of the acres will have to be replanted due to the excessive rains, according to the

"It's hard to tell right now just how much wheat will have to be replanted throughout the state," Fastrup said. Christian said "a couple more weeks" of dry, sunny weather would get local planters through the

There would be little replanting of wheat locally, Christian said, due to the small amount that had been planted before the rains set in. But he said a problem could arise due to the lateness of planting.

Christian said a main factor in the local harvest would be the absence of additional moisture in the next two weeks. He said the moisture content of milo and corn crops has been approximately 15 percent, and grain quality has been reduced due to the

A spokeswoman for C.K. Processing, Route 5, said the company was no longer receiving corn, but was recording moisture contents of about 13.9 percent in soybeans.

Gays' case reaches Supreme Court

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Supreme Court Monday agreed to consider letting a San Francisco homosexual rights group label its quadrennial athletic competition the Gay Olympic Games.

The court said it will review a ruling that the United States Olympic Committee and the International Olympic Committee have trademark control over the term Olympic.

The gay rights group, San Francisco Arts and Athletics, organized the first Gay Olympics in 1982. But the organization was forced by court the title after the two Olympic committees sued.

The second such international competition - called Gay Games II was held last August in San Francisco with some 3,500 athletes participating. The organizers plan to renew the event every four years.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last January that the federal Amateur Sports Act of 1978 gives the USOC exclusive right to commercial use of the term Olympic and related symbols.

The appeals court rejected arguments by San Francisco Arts

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key

stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more,

from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in formation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non-

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537

NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus

or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

1219 Claffin-Next to campus-Furnished one bedroom, new carpet, new paint, $260 plus electric, $200 deposit. No children, no pets. 537-1180. (39-

nam Hall. 1304 North Manhattan, $195. Call 539-

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment. Across Put

1971 VW Station Wagon—automatic, dependable $875. Call 1-494-2388. St. George. (33tf)

1977 HONDA Civic Wagon, 74,000 miles, best offer.

1980 CAMARO-Sunroof, 40,000 miles, good condi-

1977 VW Rabbit, excellent condition, reliable, must

1981 MERCURY Lynx Stationwagon-Good condi-

1979 PONTIAC Sunbird-Yellow, sunroof, stereo.

1974 DODGE Dart Sport-Air conditioning, power

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs

great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49)

SPECTRA 4-channel mixer. Equalizer, powered. Must sell, $240. Call Chris, 539-1089. (38-41)

steering, power brakes, $650. Call 537-0751 after 7

new brakes and clutch, looks good, dependable sell for best offer, 537-0165 or 532-5123 (Stuart).

tion, dependable, air conditioning. Call 776-3499 or 532-5865. (40-44)

starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

04

FOR RENT-MISC

FOR RENT-APTS

7521 or 776-7045 (40-44)

FOR SALE-AUTO

776-1211 or 532-6629 (37-41)

tion. Call 537-0835. (38-42)

$2,300. Call 776-3447. (40-44)

FOR SALE-MISC

p.m., or 776-4794 daytime. (40-44)

(39-43)

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44)

order to drop the word Olympic from and Athletics that the law is designed only to protect against deceptive or confusing use of the term that would suggest an unauthorized event is sponsored by the Olympic commit-

> The gay rights organization also charged that it was discriminated against unconstitutionally because many groups not affiliated with the official Olympic movement are permitted to use the term.

San Francisco Arts and Athletics said the USOC, because of federal financial support and its special trademark rights, is acting in place of the government.

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error ms found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates day: $4.95 per inch; Three conse days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadlis 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, colo religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (1-52) MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m.

Parking in rear. (27-49) COME CELEBRATE Co-op Month with us. People's Grocery Co-op carries organic grains, Basmati rice, imported and domestic cheeses, organic coffee, over 80 bulk herbs and spices, 40 different teas and much more from our latest shipment. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., 811 Colorado. 539-

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free t your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for huge color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (40-44)

ATARI 520ST owners interested in exchange of ideas and information. Call Ken at 776-6202. (41-43) ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, religious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer involved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039.

By Eugene Sheffer

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2 Exp. Date 10/26 (with coupon)

WATERBED—SOLID oak with high gloss finish, mat-tress and heater included. Call Mark, 537-8567. (38-

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, $225. Radio Shack PC-2, $75. 13 inch color TV. $130. Call 532-5136. (38-42)

Hayes House of Music 327 Poyntz DOD Guitar Effects 30% Off

COMMODORE 64-Disc drive, printer, monitor, and modem with various software and other hardware Have all boxes and manuals, $750. Call Clay Wal sten at 539-7561. (39-44) COLOR TV, Hitachi, 19", warranty, $150 or best offer

Duran's Denison & Claffin Buy one steak & get the 2nd one for ½ price.

LIKE NEW! Gibson SG standard hollow body guitar and hard case Cherry finish. $475. Call 537-9309.

(with coupon)

Exp. date 10/26

MIXER, PEAVEY Mark II—7 channel, stereo with reverb, $300. Must sell. 539-5768. (40-44)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 10/26 (with coupon)

537-3335 MEN'S 26" 10-speed, $20; Hoover upright sweeper, $25; wood tennis rackets, $10, $15. Call 537-0751 after 7 p.m., 776-4794 daytime. (40-44)

8" OSCAR fish, $8. Call 1-494-2388 St. George. (41-45)

FOUND

SMALL GOLD bracelet found outside east door of Union. Has inscription inside. Can identify and claim in Kedzie Hall 103. (39-41) FOUND-LEATHER key case and keys in Call Hall parking lot. Come to Call Hall, room 215 to identify and claim. (40-42)

HELP WANTED 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64) OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia, All fields.

$900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA. WORK STUDY student secretary. Typing, word processing—also acts as department receptionist. $3.50 plus, depending on experience. See/call

Marjorie, Department of Management, 19 Calvin, 532-6296. (37-41) COORDINATOR FOR school age child care, 8 a.m. pare for, and lead indoor and outdoor activities. Supervise aide. Closing date October 21. Send resume, three references to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan, EOE. (39-

AIDES NEEDED for school age childcare when USD 383 not in session. Send resume and three refer ences to Esther Gray, KSU Childcare Coop, L-9 Jardine, Manhattan. EOE. (38-41)

OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels $15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. OJ-1000. (38-44)

AVON - PART or full time in Manhattan. Start as low as $5. Call 1-494-8424. (40-44)

THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. Room, board, salary included. 203-622-0717 or 914-273-1626 (41-43)

VOCALIST AND guitarist with vocal ability wanted to complete Rock Band. Interested! Jon Rude. 539-

6390. (41-42)

LOST 14 LOST-RED framed prescription glasses between Farmhouse and AGR House. Reward! Call Kim at 537-3323 (39-41)

SILVER BRACELET, about one-half inch wide, looks woven. Please call 1-784-5856 after 5 p.m. (40-42)

SIGMA CHI Sigma Tri-Homecoming's here and we're having too much fun! Everything's on sched-ule and it's all getting done. Lauhing and drinking as we're chasing about, the judges will love us. 1 no doubt! (41) DDD PURPLE Pride Pompers-this is it, now's the time. ATO's and Tri Delts are in their prime. We've built bodies and yelled like hell. ATO's and Tri Delts can only do well. With screwdrivers and champagne we've shared that Purple Pride, who's going to be number one is really hard to hide. Here's to the best combo in Homecoming '86. Pomp Naked.

THE PIKES-You ran through the house, during the middle of the night; upstairs and downstairs, you gave us such a fright. You've gotten us all psyched. it's true we love the Pike's homecoming naked! The AD Pi's. (41)

The Men of ATO (41)

EFS-CONGRATULATIONS to the new brothers and sisters of the sport who have completed their first skydive. Be proud to be a part of the most exciting club on campus. Blue skies forever. -Gear officer

KAPPA PLEDGES: Hope you're enjoying your first Homecoming Week at KSU. See you at the Big Bash, L & L, Kappa Spirit. (41)

D. ANGUS-Thanks for a great weekend: Memorial Stadium, Aggieville's riot, talking and etc. till the early hours, looking forward to many more. No

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE FOR second semester, $125/month

plus one-half KPL. Great location, fireplace, washer-dryer, two bedrooms, 776-6803. (37-41) FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom, completely fur nished. 776-4794 before 7 p.m., or 537-0751 evenings. (41-45)

OWN BATHROOM plus bedroom in luxury two bed-room detached apartment, $200/month plus utili-ties. 532-5932, ext. 31 (day); 539-2158 (evening). (41-

RESPONSIBLE ROOMMATE, for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neighborhood, November rent is already paid. Call 537-9439, late is okay. (41-

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. C-4 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free. Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Pro-ckish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (27tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

SERVICES

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf)

VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-

Mobile symbolizes organizations

By MAUREEN MURPHY Collegian Reporter

Many K-State students don't realize the body of knowledge contained in the Union Courtyard

J. Cranston Heintzelman, former professor of architecture, designed and constructed "The Tree of Knowledge and Purple Cat" in 1970. The mobile was a gift from that year's senior class.

Heintzelman said the different letters of the mobile symbolize the different organizations that deal with knowledge at K-State.

The mobile is made of polymer plastic and brass. After it was designed, Heintzelman and two other men took about two years to complete the mobile. The different colors of the letters provide interest and variety to observers.

Heintzelman said the original plan for the mobile was to have air circulating and a light underneath, but when the energy crisis developed, those plans couldn't be carried out.

Heintzelman's career started as a faculty member at Rhode Island School of Design. During World War II, Heintzelman worked on the construction of aircraft carriers in Norfork, Va. Some of the aircraft flying today bear a metallic mold of his name, he said.

He came to K-State in 1947 and taught architecture until 1983 when he retired. He was the first professor at K-State to teach a sculpture class, he said.

Heintzelman has other sculptures for viewing at K-State. One, a blue marble sculpture of a little girl holding a skunk, is exhibited in the reading room at the Union. Heintzelman said many people mistake the sculpture as a little girl holding a

Heintzelman said most of his sculptures are made of stone or

An example of Heintzelman's work is also exhibited in Manhattan on North Third Street on the east side of the water works building. It is an imaginative underwater scene made out of hammered copper. He said the city was originally apprehensive about this design, but later gave its

Many of Heintzelman's sculptures are exhibited in museums throughout the United States, he said. The Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, Mo., and the Wichita Art Museum are two galleries which exhibit his work. He said his work is divided between museums and private owners.

COLLEGIAN SPORTS Where the Action

Continued from Page 1

U.S. corporations operating in South Africa have long been the center of the debate on how to exert pressure on the government to

By law and custom, apartheid establishes a racially segregated society in which the 24-million black majority has no vote in national affairs. The 5-million white minority controls the economy and maintains separate districts, schools and health change the apartheid system.

GM

kinko's

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 1110 Laramie 537-7340

In a related development, the chairman of the Royal Dutch-Shell group's South African subsidiary said late Sunday night that the oil company "is not about to disinvest." Responding to a weekend report in the London Daily Telegraph that suggested Shell might pull out of South Africa, John Wilson, chairman and chief executive officer of Shell South Africa Ltd. said in a teletype message to news agencies, "At the outset, let me make an unequivocal statement: Shell is not about to disinvest, neither is it contemplating disinvesting from South Africa."

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

PREGNANT? NEED HELP?

For confidential help, call irthright FREE Pregnancy Tests 103 S. Fourth 537-9180

BONKERS

TONIGHT $1.50 MIXED DRINKS

FRIDAY 10 p.m.-2 a.m. FALCON EDDY at Bonkers

Ramada Inn

TUESDAY

99¢

Gin or Vodka Tonic Tom or John Collins FREE Munchies 4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

Friar

Continued from Page 1

and third servants of war, followed. "I must not stop to think or pray. Reflection's not the servant's task. I did not write the king's decree (of war). I cannot save the enemy, yet my spirit within me and my heart cries 'desolation.' Hope must not be overcome," Bankert chanted as he portrayed Despair.

Bankert's second story was true. It told of a Japanese girl who developed leukemia after the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima in 1945. As the girl lay dying 10 years later, she tried to fold 1,000 paper cranes, symbols of peace. However, she died before she finished, so schoolchildren made the rest for her funeral.

While he told the girl's story, Bankert folded a large sheet of paper into a paper crane.

A brief intermission separated Bankert's pieces. Easom Bond, Manhattan resident, and the Rev. Ron Clingenpeel of St. Francis Episcopal Campus Ministry entertained the group with juggling.

Bankert's second piece was a lighthearted version of creation. While he chanted the story from the Book of Genesis, Bankert used a fan to illustrate night and day. An inflatable globe and a bouquet of bright paper flowers, representing land and seed-bearing plants, soon decorated Bankert's robe. He added an orange paper hat with a blue ball revolving around the brim to illustrate the sun and moon.

Finally, Bankert blew up two balloons to represent God's creatures. One became a duck, the other a dog. To illustrate the creation of humanity, Bankert inflated a mylar balloon to reflect the au-

Bankert's performance was sponsored by St. Francis Episcopal church, St. Isidore's Catholic church, Ecumenical Campus Ministries, the American Baptist Campus Center and the Lutheran Student Move-

k-state union

OF NATURAL FOODS WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS · VEGETARIAN PRODUCTS . NATURAL DIET AIDS

. BOOKS ON NUTRITION

HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m

* STOP BY TODAY * 3112 Anderson

IVAN SAND A Proven Record

Supported

→ KSU Faculty and Staff Pay Raises

State Water Plan - Reorganization of the Court System Accessibility for the Handicapped in Apartments and Motels Farm relief and Farm Credit Legislation

The Deciding Difference Vote IVAN SAND

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

IMPORT BEER NIGHT Featuring

Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers from across the Seas

Memberships Available 616 N. 12th 539-9967 The K-State Union Bookstore

Come In And

Check Us Out!

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

2-For-1 Thursdays Bring in a friend and split the cost of a Design Cut on Thursdays

Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat 8-5

Expires 10/31/86

with this coupon.

Attention K-State Students, Faculty & Staff

We'll give you 25% OFF the KAYPRO PC How You Get the Rest is Up to You

100% IBM COMPATIBLE Come by for Information and a Demonstration

COMMONWEALTH COMPUTERS, INC. 10426 Metcalf

Overland Park, KS 66212

KAYPAU PC NOW ONLY $119625*

*with 20 meg hard disk 1696.25

. 768 kb. Ram Memory

• 2-360K Floppy Disk Drives

• 6 Open Options Slots Monochrome Monitor

 8 FREE Software Packages Including Wordstar and Correctstar

 12 Months Parts and Labor Warranty Serial & parallel ports, color graphics & monchrome video card included.

PLUS $1,800 worth of FREE Software

Dot Matrix Printers from $225 and Letter Quality Printers from '325

(913) 648-8086

Homecoming Buttons and Bumper Stickers on sale all week in the Union.

Buy your button and get these great discounts:

A CUT ABOVE - $2 off haircut and style AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS - $3 off haircuts AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS - TWO FREE CARNATIONS and 10% off with the purchase of any stuffed animal AL'S DELI - 10% discount (excluding specials) ARBY'S - 15% discount

BRASS BUCKLE - 10% off all shirts and sweaters BROWN'S SHOE FIT - 10% discount on all merchandise BURGER KING - 10% off all menu items CAMPBELL'S - 10% discount on any item CHARLIE'S BAR — FREE peanuts or popcorn with a pitcher purchase CLAFLIN BOOKS — 10% off all books only COTTON CLUB/CHEF CAFE - 10% discount on dinner DIAMOND CONNECTION - 15% off anything in stock DUERFELDT'S - 10% discount on all items EEGEE'S - FREE ice cream cone with purchase of an Eegee's

Burger, Fries & Coke (or any substitute approved) ELKIN'S MOTORS - 10% discount on any parts/service FASHION EYES - 12% off all merchandise GODFATHER'S - $2 off a large pizza; $1 off a medium pizza HAYES HOUSE OF MUSIC - 10% discount on all books I CAN'T BELIEVE IT'S YOGURT - 10% off total purchase IMPRESSIONS STYLE & SALON - $2 off haircuts JEAN STATION - 10% off regular priced merchandise JUDI'S CHILDREN'S WEAR - 15% discount on all merchandise

KITCHENS PLUS/CROISSANT CAFE - 15% off any regular priced item before November 1st LADYFOOT SHOES - 10% off purchase

VALENTINO'S - FREE large Coke with purchase WESTLOOP FLORAL - 15% off roses and carnations WOODY'S LADIES' SHOP - 10% off all sweaters YEN CHING - two FREE Crab Rangoon with dinner purchase

KITE'S - 99¢ "Homecoming Special" drink

MANHATTAN TOYOTA/MAZDA - 10% discount on any parts/service MAR Y SOL - $2 tanning sessions MERLE NORMAN COSMETICS - 5% off any purchase OLSON'S SHOE REPAIR - 10% off any repair work PINATA - 10% off total food purchase PIZZA HUT (AGGIEVILLE) - $3 off a large pizza, $2 off a medium pizza PIZZERIA - 10% off any purchase POLLEY FLORIST - 5% off cash purchase (no wire orders) RAOUL'S ESCONDIDO - 10% off all dinners THE RITZ - 10% off any purchase SHOW BIZ PIZZA - $2 off a large pizza SO-FRO FABRICS - 10% discount on any purchase (except sale STRECKER GALLERY - 10% off any poster SUB-N-STUFF - FREE medium drink with purchase of any sandwich SWANSON'S BAKERY - Buy 2 donuts and get one FREE THE BOOK SHOP - 10% off every product THE FASHION SHOP & BEAUTY SALON - 15% off any regularly priced item THE PHONE CONNECTION - $5 off all phones (not valid with any

IMPORTANT - To receive any of the above discounts, you MUST be wearing your Homecoming Button!! THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT!!!!! (Discounts good during Homecoming Week -- October 20-25)

Don't get snowed. . . Be safe on the road.

LOOK!

For the Collegian's upcoming car-care advertising special.

* provided to you for all your winterizing needs.

Issue will run Oct. 28

Wildcat History

Several wildcats have served as K-State's mascot. However, only one survivor remains residing at Sunset Zoo. See Page 6.

Rain likely today. high upper 50s. Winds southerly 10 to 15 mph. Clouds gradually breaking tonight, low mid-40s.

Sports

Topeka KS

66612

First Volley

Intramural volleyball began with the Theta Xis competing against the Phi Kappa Phis in one of the first games Tuesday. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Rain

Wednesday

October 22, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 42

More arrests possible in Aggieville incident

By PAT HUND Staff Reporter

Eighteen people were arrested by police in incidents Saturday night that might be related to the the Aggieville rampage that occurred after the K-State-University of Kansas football game, and more may be arrested, said the director of the Riley County Police Department.

Some of the charges people were arrested for included criminal damage, theft and burgulary, RCPD Director Alvan Johnson said.

Johnson said there may be more arrests after the police department has evaluated several hundred photographs and reviewed videotaped footage of the rampage Saturday night in Aggieville.

"Some people have called (RCPD) with information and we have some information from Crime Stoppers," Johnson said.

More arrests may be made with this information, but Johnson said he doesn't know for sure. "We'll have to wait and see," he said.

No arrests have been made since Saturday night in conjunction with the melee, Johnson said.

Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said no complete property damage estimates are available.

Jacoby said his first reaction of a damage estimate to all the Aggieville businesses was between $20,000 and $30,000. But city authorities have said the damage to businesses and other property might rise to $50,000.

Jacoby said about 40 plate-glass windows in the Aggieville area were damaged and would need replaced.

Steve Jones, contract sales representative for Harding Glass, said the replacement cost of the windows range from $150 to $600. He said company employees were still replacing windows in Aggieville

"I would say the majority (of windows) cost about $300 apiece," he

Jacoby said he has no idea how much the damaged store signs will cost to replace.

Some people in Aggieville Saturday sustained minor injuries, although no major injuries have been reported from the rampage.

David Fiedler, 19, of Emporia, who

See ARRESTS, Page 11

City officials praise police, majority of K-State crowd

By The Collegian Staff

City commissioners commended police and most K-State students who were in Aggieville during the Saturday night disturbance following K-State's 29-12 football victory over the University of Kansas.

Mayor Rick Mann said it was "a small element" of the crowd causing the disturbance, but the property damage "cannot continue."

"The vast majority of the people were partying, having a good time. They basically came to see what was going to happen," Mann said during last night's city commission meeting.

"I was proud of most of the students and most of the people who were down there," Commissioner Dave Fiser said. "Most of them were having a good time.

Like I said before, it was only about 20 percent of the people who were intent on causing property damage and troublemaking.'

Commissioners agreed the K-State students were not solely responsible for all of the problem.

Commissioner Nancy Denning said high-school and junior-high students were involved in some of the property damage.

"I know the (college) students were represented because I saw students that I knew," Mann said. "But I don't want to give any indication this is solely a student pro-

Mann said uniformed and undercover police handled the disturbance in a "reasonable and professional manner by making numerous arrests" but did not in-

Fiser said the police were to be commended for acting as the city commission asked and for allowing "students and the folks that were down there to have a good time."

Commissioners agreed to allow an Aggieville merchants task force to study this year's problems and make recommendations for next year's K-State-KU football game, again scheduled in Manhattan.

Mann said Aggieville merchants were the best qualified to recommend future action because they are directly affected.

"They (the task force) should be concerned with ways of allowing celebration in the Aggieville area while providing saftey for all people and minimal property damage," Mann said.

Teacher says proposed fee is misleading

By The Collegian Staff

The proposed athletic fee for K-State's nonrevenue sports is actually a subsidy to support K-State's revenue sports, David Cox, professor of biochemistry, told Faculty Senate during its meeting Tuesday.

"Behind all the fuzz about minor sports and bargain season tickets is a subsidy to support football and men's basketball, which are programs for public entertainment," Cox said.

Cox said that even though athletics is of interest to "a considerable number of people who are not students," the department "is to be subsidized by a tax on all students and on students alone.

Money generated from an athletic fee would "be added to the considerable subsidy for the athletic program already collected from students to pay for the football stadium and the basketball arena," he said.

Cox also said he could find no fault with K-State Athletic Director Larry Travis for his attempt to "extricate his program from its difficulties" but was "surprised and distressed" that the administration had chosen to "unleash Mr. Travis on the students without any audible comment or visible restraint."

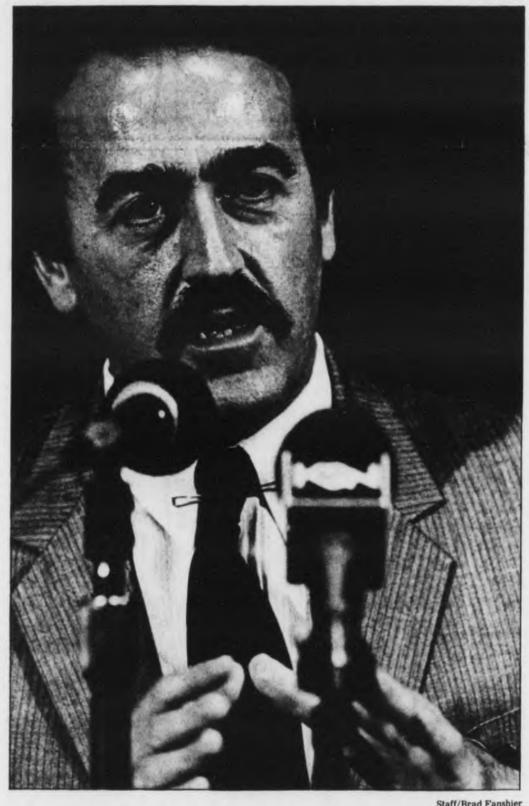

He said the argument that a stronger athletic program would benefit the University may be true, but that the benefits would 'accrue at least equally to people other than students - to the faculty, for example, and to the Manhattan community, especially its hotel keepers and restaurant owners."

For that reason, Cox said he wondered why Travis had not also proposed "an automatic salary checkoff to benefit intercollegiate athletics or the city commission for a dedicated mill levy or a meal tax."

Compared to the proposed "head tax" on students, he said, those ideas were "equally reasonable - or equally outrageous, depending on your point of view.'

Cox said perhaps the students, unsupported by the faculty or the administration,

See FACULTY, Page 11

ble, Viterna said.

Author and ex-spy Peter James talks to reporters about U.S. foreign policy at a press conference Tuesday afternoon in the Union Conference Room. James was speaking to the public on international espionage Tuesday evening in Union Forum Hall.

Author claims Reagan bungled Daniloff affair

By TERESA TEMME Staff Writer

President Ronald Reagan played chess with the Soviets over the Nicholas Daniloff affair and lost, said Peter James, ex-spy and controversial author, addressing an audience in Union Forum Hall Tuesday even-

"President Reagan has totally blown it," the former intelligence expert said during his presentation, "James on International Espionage," which was sponsored by the Union Programming Council.

"Once President Reagan told the world that Daniloff was not a spy," James said, "he fell into a Russian chess game, a game in which the Russians already had the moves worked out.'

James said the Soviets could trump up evidence to make it appear to the world that Daniloff was spying, and then they would find him guilty.

Because the public would assume that Reagan had lied, the Soviets were in a prime position to strike a deal with President Reagan, James said. "Reagan had to make a secret concession, and that concession was the summit conference in Iceland," he said.

James said Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev was in the position at the summit to make what looked liked a beautiful promise to the rest of the world, but it was something Reagan could not agree to.

He said the summit and the Daniloff incident struck at the credibility of Reagan, which was the goal of the Soviets. James said he believes they did this because elections are close, and the Soviets want more Democrats in Congress because they hold viewpoints supportive of Gorbachev's.

James emphasized that Daniloff and Soviet spy Gennadiy Zakharov passed through the same airport within 20 minutes of each other on their return trips, yet Reagan said it was not a trade.

"The Soviets got the president to lie to the American people," James said, also mentioning Reagan's ability to brush off his mistakes without hurting his image.

"We know it's not the truth," he said, "but why do we accept it? What's wrong with us?" James said he gives speeches across the nation "in order to keep the guys in Washington honest and to expand the public data base.

He said the most accurate intelligence comes from the field through talking to knowledgable people. James went to Nicaragua this summer to assess the situation there.

In his assessment, James said he came to the conclusion that there is no way the Contras will be able to take over the government. "The president is not getting the true picture, just like Vietnam," James said. James said he was not afraid of Danial Ortega or the Marxist/Leninist government, but rather the Soviet Connection in Nicaragua in the way of a military build up. James said he is afraid this will eventually lead to a U.S.-Soviet confrontation and added, "I predict that Central America will be resolved in one way or the other within the next two years." He said the United States should act now to prevent the Soviet Union from consolidating a stronghold in Central America, and he outlined a plan for this action. James said Reagan should address the United Nations and announce a reversal in U.S. policy. This policy would consist of three

First, the United States should withdraw all support for the Contras.

Second, the United States should recognize the right of Nicaragua's existence. Along with this, the United States should work to improve the economic situation in the countries south of the U.S. border. James said if a middle class is created within these countries, the communist theories will not mean much to the South and Central Americans Third, the United States should send the message that it will work to build up any nontotalitarian countries. Along with this, the President should announce that the Soviet Union will not be allowed to exploit this peaceful initiative.

James said the United States will quarantine those countries by a blockade checking all incoming ships to inspect their cargo.

Task force hears presentation on students' financial status

By JUDY LUNDSTROM

Staff Writer Times are going to get tougher for K-State students.

Tuition is almost certain to increase and financial aid is going to be harder to come by, Athletic Fee Task Force members learned at Tuesday night's meeting in the Union. Larry Viterna, director of student financial assistance, and Patty Hipsher, senior in political science and campus director of Associated Students of Kansas, spoke to the task force about students' financial situations and expectations. Task force members asked the two to speak as part of their study on the effect an athletic fee would have on students' financial conditions.

Hipsher said the Kansas Board of Regents has recommended that tuition be increased.

The commission that looked into it this summer recommended a 5 (percent) to 8 percent increase in tuition," she said.

Hipsher said the question for the Regents to answer is whether the current financial situation is bad enough to raise tuition.

"I think they'll have to raise tuition," she said. "There's no way we'll be able to keep our universities at the quality they are now without raising it."

Hipsher said that although it is "ridiculous how many schools we have for the population of Kansas,' she didn't think the Regents would close any universities. "They'll just cut back on funding,"

Cutting back on funding seemed to be the theme of the entire meeting.

Because of the Gramm-Rudman act, scholarships will be taxed, interest on college loans will no longer be deductible, and it will become more difficult to be eligible for guaranteed student loans, Viterna

"The new tax laws specify that scholarships will be taxed," he said. "Only the portion of a scholarship or fellowship that covers tuition costs will be tax-free.'

The law applies to scholarship money received after Aug. 16, 1986. Viterna said.

Another area affected is that of tax After 1990, the interest paid on college loans will no longer be deducti-

Starting in 1987, 65 percent of the interest may be deducted on repayment loans, decreasing to 40 percent in 1988, 20 percent in 1989 and 10 percent in 1990, with a total phase-out after that, he said.

The area most immediately affected, Viterna said, is the GSL pro-

"The president signed a bill over the weekend," he said, "and as of yesterday (Monday) morning, part of that bill affected guaranteed student loans."

As a result of the bill, all students must now fill out an application for need - as is the case with the Pell Grant, national direct student loan or college work study programs - in order to get a guaranteed student loan, he said.

"That means you will only get the amount that you have demonstrated a need for," he said. Viterna estimated the number of students who would receive less GSL money or none at all because of the new law to be 10 percent. Viterna said there was a 23-percent increase in financial aid monies available from 1981 to 1986, but with inflation considered, the figure dipped to a 3-percent decrease. Viterna said Congress assumed Gramm-Rudman would save money.

The fewer number of students being eligible for guaranteed student loans, the less interest the government has to pay for those students.

Viterna said that despite all the cutbacks, the bill did provide a few benefits for students. For national direct student loans, , the grace period before making payments was extended from six months to nine months, and the amount of Pell Grants will increase from $2,100 to $2,300 next year.

Bill Majerus, task force member and graduate in agronomy, expressed concern about the financial-aid

"The bottom line is that the money is going to be harder to get," he said. "I think the situation is going to be severe. Students are going to be squeaking by."

The meeting was dismissed immediately after the presentations.

The task force meets every Tuesday in the Student Government Services office on the Union ground floor. The meetings are open to the public.

INTERNATIONAL

7th American missing in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon - The reported abduction of writer Edward Austin Tracy brings to seven the number of Americans who are still missing after being kidnapped in Lebanon.

Eight Frenchmen, two Britons, an Italian, an Irishman and a South Korean are also held hostage in Lebanon.

Altogether 60 foreigners have been kidnapped in Lebanon since January 1984. Thirty-four have been freed or escaped, six have been confirmed killed and three are reported dead.

The missing Americans:

-Terry Anderson, 38, a native of Lorain, Ohio, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press. He was kidnapped March 16, 1985. Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility.

-David Jacobsen, 55, of Huntington Beach, Calif., director of the American University Hospital. He was kidnapped May 28, 1985. Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility.

-Thomas Sutherland, 55, Scottish-born acting dean of agriculture at the American University, of Fort Collins, Colo., on leave from Colorado State University. He was kidnapped June 9, 1985. Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility.

-William Buckley, 57, U.S. embassy political officer, kidnapped March 16, 1984. Islamic Jihad claimed his abduction. It also claimed it executed him Oct. 4, 1985, in revenge for alleged U.S. complicity in Israel's air raid on the Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Tunis. His body has never been found.

-Joseph James Cicippio, 56, of Valley Forge, Pa., acting comptroller at American University, kidnapped Sept. 12, 1986. Revolutionary Justice Organization claimed responsibility.

-Frank Herbert Reed, 53, of Malden, Mass., manager of a private school. He was kidnapped Sept. 9, 1986. A pro-Libyan group called the Arab Revolutionary Cells-Omar Moukhtar Forces claimed respon-

-Edward Austin Tracy, 56, a writer of children's books from Rutland, Vt. Date of kidnapping unclear, but Revolutionary Justice Organization claimed responsibility on Oct. 21, 1986.

Hasenfus' lawyer prepares defense

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - The attorney for Eugene Hasenfus said Tuesday he needs more time with his American client to prepare an adequate defense against charges of terrorism and violating public

Enrique Sotelo Borgen said he was allowed to talk to Hasenfus for just 10 minutes Monday after the opening session of Hasenfus' trial in the People's Tribunal.

The charges presented against Hasenfus said he was acting on behalf of the U.S. government Oct. 5 when the C-123 cargo plane on which he was a crew member was shot down in southern Nicaragua.

It carried supplies for the U.S.-backed Contra rebels who are fighting Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government. Three other men aboard the plane were killed - two Americans and another who has not been identified.

Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., faces up to 30 years in prison if

At the United Nations in New York, Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto of Nicaragua said the Reagan administration practiced the "law of the jungle" against his country but Hasenfus can expect mer-

He "is being tried in Nicaragua and not in the United States, and, therefore, he can expect it will be Sandinista justice, which is always merciful," d'Escoto said. "We are not involved in the ordering of torture and death of any people."

NATIONAL

Reagan approves budget legislation

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, expressing disappointment at Congress' reluctance to cut spending, signed legislation Tuesday to hike the national debt ceiling to $2.3 trillion and shrink the federal budget deficit by $11.7 billion.

The measure authorizes a $189 billion increase in the debt ceiling, which has more than doubled during Reagan's administration. The increase will allow the government to continue borrowing through May 15 to pay its bills.

The legislation, called the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, authorizes $11.7 billion in deficit-reduction actions to allow Congress to say that, at least on paper, it has complied with the $154 billion deficit ceiling required by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act for fiscal 1987, which ends next Sept. 30.

The bulk of the savings come from the sale of federal assets, such as the Conrail freight system, and what some legislators describe as questionable accounting gimmicks.

"It is disturbing and disappointing that this reconciliation bill, which is supposed to reduce spending, not only has few outlay reductions but actually incorporates substantial program expansions, mainly in the Medicare area - increasing outlays on the order of $2 billion in fiscal year 1987 and even more annually thereafter,' Reagan said in a statement.

Two universities receive tax break

WASHINGTON - When the cheering stopped and the 99th Congress became history, football fans at Louisiana State University and the University of Texas found themselves doing high-fives over a special tax break

But their tax advantage, involving full deductions for gifts to their universities' athletic scholarship programs, is likely to be as brief as a first-quarter lead in a closely fought game.

Competing schools are crying "foul," the two universities are telling their fans to forget it and congressional sponsors are ready to drop it.

All of a sudden, it's the tax break that nobody loves. It is one of hundreds of special-interest provisions in the landmark tax overhaul bill that President Reagan will sign into law Wednesday, and it's a textbook example of the unscientific way that federal tax laws are written.

In 1984, the Internal Revenue Service issued a ruling which, though totally logical to tax authorities, was as welcome to football fans as a moocher at a tailgate party in the stadium parking lot.

The IRS held that a fan who makes a contribution to an athletic scholarship program and, in return, is given the privilege of buying preferential seating for home football games may deduct only a por-

The IRS reasoned that the privilege of buying seats on the 50-yard line is worth something. So, the ruling goes, if you give $500 and the privilege of buying prime seats is worth $200, you may take a tax deduction for only $300.

Colleges and their fans demanded a hearing before the IRS. Bills were introduced in the Senate and House. But the IRS stood fast.

As a result, the final version of the tax bill retains the IRS ruling except for those who contribute to LSU or the University of Texas. If they give $500 and get a seating privilege worth $200, they still may deduct the full $500.

In the end, the Senate and House agreed to eliminate the special provision but could not do so because of problems with other parts of the corrections resolution. So officials at LSU and Texas realize that the special treatment of their schools apparently will last only until Congress passes a new tax bill early next year.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be on Monday and Tuesday. For more information, call 532-5566 bet-

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING SPIRIT MARCH AND BONFIRE has been rescheduled for 8:30 p.m. Thursday in West Stadium.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for student cancer research awards for $500 in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec. 5.

PEACE CORPS meets at 4 p.m. in Union 200 The topic will be "Peace Corps Volunteer Ex-

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom The guest speaker will be Steve Johnson, student body president.

UNITED NATIONS COUNCIL meets at 7:30

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ali Husein Ageli at 4 p.m. in Dickens 106. The topic will be "Residuals and Residual Diagnostics in Non-Linear Regression Models."

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will have an orientation at 3:30 p.m. in Justin Lobby for the following majors: consumer affairs, early childhood education, family life and

SPRING BREAK IN EUROPE INFORMA-

Balloon Boutique

Balloons for Homecoming!

16" Wildcat Balloons

*Ask us about our talking balloons!

- Call Today

610 N. 3rd

539-0106

TIONAL MEETING will be at 6:30 p.m. in Union 208. The two-hour undergraduate course is spon-sored by the Department of Adult and Occupa-tional Education and the Division of Continuing

THURSDAY

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208. KAPPA DELTA PI will have a reception for prospective members at 2:30 p.m. in Blu Dean's Conference Room.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 201. ORDER OF OMEGA meets at 4:30 p.m. in

SIGMA DELTA PI meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED

DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Chung Hur Lee at 10:30 a.m. in Durland 127. The topic will be "A Study of the Hydrodynamics and Bubble Phenomena in Gas-Liquid Airlift

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Cafe Latino

606 N. 12th across from Bonkers

NIGHT

$1 SCHNAPPS SHOTS $1.50 FUZZY

Plus...New Chicken Fry Nite!

NAVELS

Chicken Fry Sandwiches

75¢ off Chicken Fry Platters

A Reciprocating Club!

TONIGHT $1.25 MEXICAN BEER One Night Only

FRIDAY Bonkers features FALCON EDDY

CAR WASH 25¢ Wash Everyday!

*Close to campus

*Coin changer available *4 stalls for your convenience

*New facility, new location, no traffic hassle

Conveniently located on the corner of Tuttle Creek Blvd. & Kimball Ave.

Open 7 days a week

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as VISA and MasterCard. A Kansas licensed facility, Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since

Comprehensive Health Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Rov) Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Wednesday's Special 3 tacos, refried beans

$2.95 and ice tea

Aggieville open daily 11 a.m.-lat

on regular with Karie or Dawn on Mondays with this coupon Special ·

Tanning Sessions 10 for $20

expires 11-15-86 717 N. 11th Aggieville

539-8920 Nautilus Towers

Don't get snowed. . . Be safe on the road.

LOOK!

For the Collegian's upcoming car-care advertising special.

* provided to you for all your winterizing needs.

Issue will run Oct. 28

MID WEEK COMMUNION

GATHER WITH US AT NOON EVERY OTHER WEDNESDAY FOR COMMUNION AT DANFORTH CHAPEL, STARTING AUG. 27.

The Presbyterian Church (USA), The United Methodist Church, The United Church of Christ, The Church of the Brethren

Reagan administration orders Soviet diplomats from U.S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration Tuesday ordered 55 Soviet diplomats to leave the country within nine days, but said it hoped the action would not sour the prospects for arms control.

Five of the diplomats were declared "persona non grata" in retaliation for the earlier expulsion of five U.S. diplomats from Moscow. The additional 50 were ordered out to bring the Soviet embassy staff in Washington and consulate staff in San Francisco "to parity" with the size of the U.S. contingent in Moscow and Leningrad.

State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman announced the massive retaliation with "regrets," but said it was forced on the administration by the Soviet Union.

Redman also sought to assure Moscow that the United States did not want to lose the momentum achieved at President Reagan's summit meeting in Iceland with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

"We remain committed to pursuing the dialogue stemming from the Reykjavik meeting in all areas of our relationship," he said. "This problem of espionage is an important one, but it is a separate problem, and our plan is to go ahead with the dialogue."

The administration is preparing new arms control proposals, based on the summit meeting, to present to the Soviets in negotiations in Geneva. Also, Secretary of State George P. Shultz is due to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A.

Shevardnadze in Vienna on Nov. 6. Under the new ceiling, required by Congress last year, the Soviets will be permitted to have no more than 225 people at their embassy in Washington and no more than 26 at the consulate in San Francisco.

This amounts to a reduction of 54 positions in Washington and 15 in San Francisco. But with some of the posts currently unfilled, 38 people will be required to leave the capital and 12 must quit San Francisco.

The five Soviets declared "persona non grata" were identified as counselors Vasiliy Fedotov, Oleg Likhachev and Aleksandr Metelkin and attache Nikolay Kokovin, all at the embassy in Washington, and Lev Zaytsev, consul in San Francisco.

This matches the expulsion of the five Americans from Moscow for what the Soviets Sunday called "impermissible activities.

Redman said the five Soviets were singled out because "they are persons we have reason to believe have engaged in activities inconsistent with their diplomatic status."

This appeared to an allegation that they were involved in espionage activites, but Redman did not make the charge directly. However, he stressed their expulsion was caused by 'the unjustified action by the Soviets in expelling five U.S. diplomats in Moscow.'

In Moscow, Gennady Gerasimov, a spokesman for the Soviet Foreign Ministry, said "if the United States will insist on continuing this game of tit-for-tat, then this can continue indefinitely. We consider it is time to

The official Soviet news agency Tass, in a Russian-language dispatch datelined Washington, said Tuesday that with the expulsion, "the Reagan administration has undertaken the next step aimed at worsening Soviet-American relations." Congress last year, in an amendment by Sens. Patrick Leahy and William Cohen, gave the executive branch three years to bring the diplomatic staffs in the two countries to equality. The amendment permitted the administration to determine how and when to meet the deadline.

A second amendment by Leahy, D-Vt., and Cohen, R-Maine, was passed and signed earlier this month. It requires that within three years the U.S. and Soviet U.N. missions be roughly equal.

working at the U.N. mission in New York were identified as intelligence agents last month and ordered to leave. The Soviets responded Sunday with the expulsion of the five American diplomats by Oct. 31.

Usually, the two sides cool down after a round of expulsions. But the Reagan administration considered kicking out the Soviets in New York a separate issue. Another 70 will be ordered to leave in three steps over the next 18 months.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said the steps taken by the United States should not spill over into other areas.

"We would hope it does not interfere with progress made at Iceland and that we can continue to seek arms control and other Twenty-five Soviets who were agreements with the Soviet Union.'

babwe and taken away in three cars after riot police firing tear gas took ordered frightened white men, women and teen-agers to chant slogans against South Africa. Many

At least six journalists, four work-

Police and government officials

ing for foreign media, were punched refused comment on the violence and gave no details of casualties or ar-

Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, a former guerrilla who led the white-ruled former British colony of Rhodesia to independence as black-governed Zimbabwe on April 18,

1980, cut short a private visit to Britain and returned hours before the

He flew home after learning of the death of Machel, a Marxist who was Before police gained control, mobs over the downtown area.

who refused were beaten.

or roughed up.

trouble began.

Videoprinting helps identify children

By CAROL LENKNER Collegian Reporter

The practice of obtaining children's fingerprints in case the child disappears or is kidnapped has spread across the United States. But a Manhattan business has taken the idea one step further by utilizing videotaping.

National Video is offering a free videoprinting service to parents from 4-8 p.m. through Thursday as part of its Operation Safe Child Videoprinting includes videotaping a child's movements and mannerisms, said Traci Collins, assistant manager of National Video, 1123 Westloop Place, and provides the parents with accurate identification records of their child. If the child is ever lost or abducted, the tape can be immediately aired on television to alert anyone who may have seen the child.

"Videoprints can help find children a lot faster than fingerprints," Collins said. "Viewers can get a better idea of how the child acts and looks than by just airing photographs of the child."

This is the third year National Video has offered the videoprinting service. In the 710 National Video stores across the United States and Canada, over 60,000 children have been videoprinted.

"It's a real good setup for the parents," Collins said. "The service is free and quite a few parents take advantage of it."

During the taping session, the child is asked simple questions to get a voice recording. The child is taped while walking and playing to display mannerisms that make the child unique. The child also is asked to stand up against a wall chart to obtain measurements.

To have the child videoprinted, the parents should bring in a onehalf inch VHS blank tape or purchase one in the store, Collins said.

If the parents prefer, they can bring in the same tape they used last year, Collins said. This provides the parents with a record of how their child changes from year to year.

In addition to the videoprinting service, National Video also is distributing safety brochures and is offering a free overnight rental of a safety video.

The video, "Too Smart for Strangers", has been produced by Walt Disney and features Winnie the Pooh and friends. The characters speak to children about using caution with strangers in a straightforward, yet entertaining manner, Collins said.

National Video has compiled safety tips on fire and poison prevention into brochures and will be offering them to parents free.

Laura Riffel, graduate student in student counseling and personal services, said the services offered by National Video could be beneficial to parents. She plans on having her two children videoprinted.

"I had never heard of videoprinting before," Riffel said. "I have already gotten my children fingerprinted but think videoprinting sounds like a good idea, too."

Leader's death incites citizen demonstration

By The Associated Press

HARARE, Zimbabwe - Mobs of blacks rampaged through Harare on Tuesday in three hours of riots, fires and assaults prompted by the belief that South Africa played a role in the death of Mozambique's president.

In the worst violence since Zimbabwe became independent six years ago, they set fire to two foreign airline offices, overturned cars and stoned missions of South Africa, Malawi and the United States. Malawi is the only black-ruled African country that has full diplomatic relations with South Africa.

Rioters assaulted scores of shoppers and office workers, most of them white.

Several mobs involving a total of about 5,000 people surged through the city's downtown area in what militants said was a protest of alleged South African involvement in Samora Machel's death in an air crash Sunday just across the Mozambique border in South Africa.

Police sources said many people were injured and more than 50 demonstrators arrested. They said none of the injuries were serious.

Zimbabwe's semi-official Inter-African News Agency said two black students involved in the protest were abducted by young whites at gunpoint near the University of Zim-

NEIGHBORHOOD BAR

TO HILLIAM ID

THURSDAY

SDAZES

*Open at 9:30 a.m. Sat.

-Come in before.

during, or after the game, or stay and watch it on the Big Screen T.V.!

FirstBank Center

Zimbabwe's staunch ally. Machel's Soviet-built presidential plane crashed in bad weather on a flight from Zambia to Mozambique. No evidence of foul play has been reported.

Ladies Get . . .

•25¢ Draws

•$2 Pitchers

•$1 Coolers

•Free Adm.

FREE TACO BAR

Professor to discuss future of genetics Applications may be space bound He said he also plans to include in

A primary reason for his presentation is to help initiate thinking about genetic engineering in space, he

By BARRY STEFFEN Collegian Reporter

A K-State professor will present his ideas of genetic engineering for space applications associated with the American Space Program at the American Astronautical Society's 33rd annual meeting.

Terry Johnson, director of the Division of Biology, will be speaking at the meeting Oct. 26-29 in Boulder, Johnson said he will specifically approach many biological applications: how genetic engineering works, what promises it holds for the future and problems scientists foresee and are trying to overcome.

"There are certain things done here on earth that might be better applied under the gravitational forces of a space station," he said.

There were many potential applications of genetic engineering for

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

MEREDITH MANOR INTERNATIONAL EQUESTRIAN CENTRE

Individually structured programs: 1 week through Master's degree Programs in dressage, jumping, western, training, breeding, business, teaching, blacksmithing, leatherworking.

For more information phone or write:

Meredith Manor Waverly, WV 26184 Phone: 304/679-3128

the medical and commercial industries, he said, and there has been great interest on the part of the U.S. government.

One example of an application that could be performed in space and prove to be beneficial is the biochemical separation of a pure human growth hormone from the bacterias surrounding it.

to do something like this in space may eventually find it more economical than performing the same task on earth.

"It's inevitable that there are going to be space stations used medically and commercially," Johnson said. "It's just a matter of

GOODSON

AUTO TRIM

Tailor Made Seat Covers

Tanneau Covers

Boat Covers

Convertible Tops

Vinyl Tops

Complete Auto, Truck

& Boat Upholstery

201 Sarber Lane

(behind Wal-Mart)

Manhattan, Kansas 66502

Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

10 oz. Sirloin

(price includes salad bar, potato & bread

said. Scientists and engineers know how to put stations in space but don't know all the utilizations. "It's like constructing a building." Johnson said. "Once you finish it, you have to utilize it or it's of no use to anyone."

Space stations could be used for other things besides surveilance, defense and warfare applications. "Your imagination is the limit," he

In the past, there have been biological experiments studied on space shuttles, but the experiments were only modest, Johnson said.

his presentation information about the National Aeronautics and Space Administration experiments on climatology and plant growth to take place over the Konza Prarie next summer.

The meeting will primarily cover engineering and future missions in space. Some of the topics discussed will be space optical systems, manufacturing, telemarketing, law and remote sensing, he said.

Most of the speakers are science engineers and NASA officials, but a variety of people will be attending the meeting.

LADIES: THEY'RE BACK!

The Station

THE DREAM MACHINE

Tickets $6 advance-$7 door

Males will be admitted after 10:30 p.m.

AGGIE STATION 1115 MORO

776-0030

PRESENTS PRO MALE DANCERS FROM THE WEST COAST!

—NO RESERVE SEATING—

(offer expires Oct. 25, 1986) Behind Aggie Ski & Sport 776-7874 1214 Moro Welcome Phi Delts & Pi Phis TONIGHT Mexican Beer $1.25 SOUTH Tequila $1.25 Well Drinks $1.50 $1 Wine BORDER 80¢ Draws Sunset Grille Open 5-9 This Week's Special

It prints fast, at a swift eight pages per minute (300 characters per second) with crisp, highresolution letter quality. And beautifully, with your choice of four standard typefaces. Font downloading. And graphics features like underscoring, enlarging, reverse imaging, and shading.

at just 55dBs. About as quiet as a turn of a magazine page.

The NCR 6416 Laser Printer won't make a lot of noise. But what it does on paper will create quite a stir.

NCR

The NCR 6416 Laser Printer.

$1795

Students, Faculty, and Staff only.

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Pari-mutuel wagering would benefit Kansas greyhound breeding industry is already one of the largest in the nation, and if the pari-mutuel wagering amendment passes on the Nov. 4 ballot, that industry will expand tremendously.

Greyhounds have been bred for more than 2,000 years for the purpose of running. Racing is neither dangerous to them or to other animals because live bait is no longer used. Retired greyhounds are not destroyed after their racing careers end. They are far too valuable as pets because of their friendly disposition.

In addition to greyhound breeders moving to the state to raise dogs, legalization of parimutuel wagering would open a vast array of economic development opportunities for Kansans.

Race tracks would draw tourists from other states as well as keeping Kansans who travel to Nebraska at home for the racing entertainment.

The tracks themselves would provide new jobs. Other businesses, including hotels, motels, restaurants, service stations and shopping centers, would profit from the increase in visitors. Those who argue that money would be diverted from

The $5 million Kansas small businesses fail to see that by attracting more people to the area a race track would benefit small businesses.

> Making Kansas a more attractive place to live for young people, so they won't graduate from college and immediately move to another state, has been an increasingly important issue in recent years. To address this issue, the state must first provide jobs, a solution that would be aided by pari-mutuel.

> The second solution to keeping people in the state is to provide entertainment. Moving to a state such as Colorado, Arizona or Florida, where pari-mutuel is legal, is far more appealing than finding a job in Kansas where the local cinema is often the sole attraction.

> However, young people are not the only ones who would benefit from revenue generated by parimutuel. Race track owners would pay taxes on their earnings and the revenue would be used statewide.

The first greyhound race in America was conducted in Kansas 100 years ago. A fitting celebration of the centennial would be the passing of parimutuel wagering in November.

Changes in education to aid future teachers stitutions whose goal is to education.

The Holmes group asks for nine commitments, the first of which is for the University to phase out the undergraduate teaching program. Teacher education, thus, would consist of a prospective receiving teacher undergraduate degree in a discipline other than teaching and then earning a master's degree in education.

K-State's College of Education agrees with the other eight commitments but is unsure about the conditions of a phase-out. If the

The College of Education University decides to accept the recently was asked to join the group's invitation, the phase-out Holmes group, an organization should allow current students to based on a proposal by college of finish their undergraduate education deans from various in- degrees in education. Those entering the program should be remodel the structure of teacher required to follow the Holmes agreement and earn an undergraduate in one field, then pursue a master's in education.

> The Holmes proposal is a positive step toward defining and administering higher education for prospective teachers. Instructors would be required to go through more intensive studies of their chosen undergraduate majors before entering the teaching

> With this proposal, the Holmes group is looking to turn out morequalified and better-educated teachers.

U.S. must terminate retaliation on Soviets

When the United States ousted Soviet officials from the United Nations in September, the Soviet administration said retaliatory measures would be taken.

Now that five American diplomats have been ejected from the Soviet Union, the Reagan administration says it will retaliate.

Where will the retaliation end? Soon, no diplomats from either country will be located in the other.

Both sides accused the other nation's diplomats of spying, although Tass, the official Soviet news agency, called it activities "incompatible with their status." The diplomats from the Soviet Union were U.N. officials and, thus, were not likely to be engaged in spying. The U.S. officials were accused of spying in retaliation for the Soviet ejection, which makes the Soviet accusations suspect.

The Reagan administration has not declared what kind of retaliatory measures will be taken, but a White House official said the response would show U.S. displeasure without "perpetuating the cycle of retaliation and counterretaliation."

However, anything either country does inspires reactionary measures from the other, for example, the Soviet Union's spying accusations against Nicholas Daniloff after the United States accused a Soviet physicist of spy-

For once, the United States should accept the action and end the cycle.

Placing blame where blame is due

Some members of the community are guilty of misplacing the blame for Saturday night's violence in Aggieville. The press, they say, is at fault. They contend its "sensationalized" coverage, both of the first disturbance two years ago and the incident Saturday, provided the fuel for a violent free-for-

However, the blame lies with no one but those who willfully injured people and destroyed private property. To insist that the presence of the press in Aggieville provided the catalyst for the destruction is ludicrous.

Some blame the police for not acting while the damage took place. Some blame the businessmen who hosted "riot" parties. Some blame alcohol. Some blame the press for the destruction Saturday.

However, the store owners are not responsible, the police are not responsible, alcohol is not responsible and the press is not responsible for the damage.

The only ones responsible for the destruction are the ones who broke the signs and windows, burned a car and threw bottles into the crowded street.

Perhaps the 4,000-6,000 people celebrating did come to Aggieville with a singular purpose: to rip it apart. But it is doubtful all of them were driven by the same motive. There is such power in numbers - in the ability to be lost in a crowd and thus escape punish-

Because it is hard to determine what provokes the type of insanity displayed in Aggieville, it is easy for people to rationalize and place the blame undeservedly on defineable groups rather than themselves. It is easy to point a finger at the press

CHRIS STEWART Editor

because of its visibility at news events.

The press is an easy scapegoat for those who choose to ignore where the real blame lies. The blame lies with those, who out of intoxication or immaturity, caused the damage - damage to both life and property.

People don't commit crimes to get attention. Even the most incompetent criminal attempts to cover his tracks. The people in Aggieville Saturday throwing bottles, breaking out store windows and demolishing a car were not there to gain personal notoriety. You can bet there were a few embarrassed, ashamed individuals who, after seeing their picture on the pages of Kansas newspapers. would like to go crawl under a rock and be forgotten. They belong there.

It is about time for those who caused the damage to realize they are totally responsible for their actions, no matter what their frame of mind. If they endanger people's lives while drinking, then they had better not Someone is responsible for the injuries and loss of property to many people. But it is not

It could be any one of you who blindly threw a bottle into the crowd Saturday night, or chanted "Bt rn it!" as gas leaked out of an overturned Volkswagen.

Wednesday, October 22, 1986 - 4

The burden is on your conscience today. You might be the one who threw the bottle that required someone to go to the hospital, caused the loss of someone's means of transportation, or required store owners to climb out of bed at 3 a.m. to find their store merchandise under shattered glass.

Some are treating the press as they would a professor who caught a student cheating on an exam, placing the blame for a failing grade on the professor, instead of where it rightfully belongs - on the person who Journalists caught a good many people cheating Saturday night, and can't be blamed for the consequences.

If not for the press, the good people of the K-State and Manhattan communities would not be aware of the real culprits of the event.

It is the press's responsibility to record the news. And that means being there. The press doesn't have control over people's actions. People's actions dictate the news.

It is a shame that an event like this sheds bad light on the University. Tough. That's not the press's fault. It is the fault of those causing the trouble.

If K-State students were genuinely concerned about their image, they would have done something about it before the damage

After all, of the 18 arrested Saturday night, not one was a working member of the press, an Aggieville merchant or a policeman.

Violence ruins image of University

When I went home last Friday, I crossed my fingers that the precautionary measures city and University officials had taken would prevent any eruption of violence in Aggieville. I was disappointed to find they had not succeeded.

Several people have accounted to me some highlights of that fateful Saturday night: the crowd tossing beer bottles among themselves before hurling them at businesses' windows, people shouting "Let's have a riot," 12-year-old boys staggering through the streets with beer cans in their hands, a young woman standing atop her Volkswagen while an angry male mob shouts, "Burn it!"

After hearing these stories, I was happy that my hometown newspaper didn't receive an indepth report about the late-night events. It would have been very hard to explain to my family why I had always been so positive about K-State and the Manhattan communi-

Before this event, I would brag to my family and friends about the relaxed campus and community environments, the friendly students and the faculty and administration who were eager to help students. Even following the chaos in Aggieville two years ago, it was still relatively easy to sell

K-State. Now the task is more difficult. My enthusiasm for this educational institution has not diminished. The difference is how the public perceives this situation.

Following the first disturbance, fingers pointed in several directions as factors contributing to the violence that evening. University officials blamed the students' excessive consumption of alcohol at the game and the "party" atmosphere.

SUSAN BAIRD Collegian Columnist

In turn, students accused University officials and police of misconduct. Using Mace to discourage students from tearing down the goalposts angered an already spirited crowd. Furthermore, policemen's actions, such as knocking drinks out of customers' hands and arresting those drinking in the streets, only aggravated the situation.

To avoid similar behavior at future home games, University officials banned all beverage containers from KSU Stadium. Anticipating demolition of the goal posts, the University bought plastic uprights to use at this year's game. Morcover, the police had strict instructions not to arrest anyone drinking in the streets or interfere with customers

With the first riot, there were "excuses" for the mayhem that University and city officials could use to "explain" the incident to the public. There were no "excuses" for the violence last weekend. A special task force had studied the incidents surrounding the first occurrence and listened to complaints of students, police and administrators. Officials had implemented measures they thought would best discourage an ugly mob.

Everything that could have been done to avoid another violent ruckus had been done The fault rests solely on the shoulders of the participants.

How can any person associated with the University explain this incident to area residents and the inhabitants of Kansas? How can anyone defend the deliberate destruction of property that took place?

I can't give any concrete reasons for the actions of those participants. I can't justify to others why anyone would want to behave in that manner.

My inability to respond to others' inquiries about the incident tells them that those actions had no credible basis on which to rest. The participants behaved like drunken fools.

There have been several suggestions about further deterrents for the K-State-University of Kansas game next year. Universityaffiliated organizations, organized living groups or the city could provide planned entertainment at various locations in Manhattan to attract people from Aggieville. Drastic measures would be to utilize the National Guard for crowd control or pass an ordinance closing Aggieville businesses for the

The only concrete solution I have is a change in attitude of the K-State and KU fans. Because they were the source of the violence, the remedy must begin with them.

Of course, there is no way to analyze the thoughts of any individual and change his mind, but peer pressure against any type of violent action would be a strong deterrent.

Whatever solution University and city officials derive, it must be implemented immediately and supported by the students and the community. There must be no repetition of this despicable behavior.

Letter

Press causes incident

Re: Press coverage of the incidents in Aggieville following the K-State vs. University of Kansas football game Saturday.

Again, as in two years ago, the majority of the worst troublemakers were non-K-State students (i.e., military, high school kids and others). And again, the troublemakers were a very small proportion of the crowd. Several times during the evening I saw K-State students trying to stop the violence. This action was always met with hostility. The attitudes of the perpetrators seemed to be, "Well, this is what's expected, isn't it?" The atmosphere of the crowd reflected that attitude, and you could feel the anticipation of violence. The crowd was waiting for something to happen.

When incidents broke out, the press was always right there, cameras in hand. The more cameras flashed, the crazier the crowd got - not the other way around. Think about it. At football games, when the television camera is pointed at the crowd, they jump up, wave and yell at the camera. It is an induced reaction. The same thing happened in Aggieville.

When I saw the press swarming around the crowd, I knew what pictures I would see in Monday morning's paper. The crowd gave the press what it wanted. It is unfortunate that the good things didn't make the papers, such as the fact that thousands of people celebrated the Wildcat's victory and didn't participate in violence, or that many K-State students tried to stop the violence of a few. I guess that doesn't sell papers, though.

Sure, the press has a right to cover the news, but doesn't it also have a responsibility to try not to create news? I believe one of the reasons for this year's violence is in part due to the sensationalism of the incidents two years ago. I also believe that continued sensationalism over this year's violence will only ensure the same thing two years from now. Let's not turn our backs from a problem, but let's not make it a self-fulfilling prophecy, either.

> Paul Dubois senior in range management

Letters

War on Iran brutal

Re: Saad Ahmad's letter, "Iraq calls for peace," in the Sept. 30 Collegian.

This letter is for those who love peace in the world, especially in the Persian Gulf. Everyone knows that Saddam Hussein, president of Iraq, started a brutal war against Iran six years ago. In September 1980, Iraqi television showed Hussein break the "International Agreement," which had been accepted by him and the Iranian authorities in 1975 through the United Nations. Then he ordered his army to invade Iranian territory and destroy every sign of civilization in its path. Hundreds of towns and vilages were demolished. Hundreds of thousands of civilians were killed, and thousands more were taken prisoner. No one, not even the Red Cross, has information regarding their whereabouts.

At that time, Hussein, in an interview with the magazine "Arabian Al-magale," said that "he ordered his army to attack Iran to overthrow the Islamic Republic of Iran, with the aim of destroying the country."

It is true that this war has been imposed upon Iraqi Moslems as well as Iranian Moslems by the tyranic regime of Iraq. Hundreds of Iraqi Moslem scholars have been arrested, tortured and killed by the Baath party. Thousands of Iraqi Moslems have been kidnapped, jailed and executed without trial. About 1 million Iraqi citizens were expelled from Iraq. This is the nature of the ruling regime in Iraq.

During the last six years, Iranian Moslems worked hard and paid dearly to defend themselves against a brutal war that has been imposed upon them. They successfully kicked out Iraqi troops from their country. Iranian people want to have real peace, and so have decided to bring the oppressor to Hussein is a war criminal. While he calls for peace, he breaks all international laws. He also uses chemical weapons against civilians, shoots down passenger planes and sinks oil tankers.

Do you remember that Adolph Hitler also called for peace when his army was about to be beaten? Iran has the same situation but worse. At least Hitler did not order the destruction of the cities and villages or the bombardment of civilians with chemical weapons. All peace-loving people should be greatful to the Iranian Moslems who are stopping this criminal war in their country and are not allowing the second Hitler to go beyond Iran. Everyone wants a real and lasting peace. The Iranians have the right to take this war criminal, Hussein, and his supporters to court to punish them for their crimes. Only then can they establish a real and lasting peace in the Persian Gulf.

Z. Chvoshi graduate student in mathematics

Give to Bloodmobile

As one of the two student chairpersons for the KSU Bloodmobile, I'd like to give the K-State community some food for thought while busy preparations are underway for Homecoming 1986.

Remember how elated you were Saturday when we beat the University of Kansas? (Obviously, some of you were too elated.) Well, KU's four-day blood drive only made 727 pints, well short of their paultry 800-pint goal.

Our goal, considering our smaller enrollment, should be less than 800, right? Wrong! We have a four-day goal of 1,400 pints. Can we pull of another drubbing of KU? I hope so.

Circle K, the group that brings the Bloodmobile to campus, is continuing the Blood-mobile challenge. This year, instead of only awarding the greek, small-living group and large-living group division a traveling plaque to the winner, we also are recognizing the best-represented club.

Currently, the awards are residing in the Phi Gamma Delta house, a traditional Bloodmobile power, Smith Scholarhsip House, another power, and Goodnow Hall, the largeliving group champion. This year, Goodnow has issued a challenge to the Association of Residence Halls member halls to try to outdo them.

While this is a good venture, people should not confuse it with the award issued by Circle K International.

Finally, I'd like to ask you to think about what it would be like without the K-State Bloodmobile. How many people would be sick and dying, with no plasma, red cells or whole blood to make them better? How many people would bleed to death because of no platelets?

Think about the old and young children who are helped by your donation. Maybe you know someone who has needed blood, maybe they received K-State blood. Many hospitals all over Kansas receive our living gift. People all over Kansas need your living gift.

Come on K-State! Let's show Kansas - the state and the university - that we K-Staters can do more than attack defenseless Volkswagens in Aggieville. Let's show them why we are the No. 1 Bloodmobile in the

> Troy Millsap senior in secondary education

Our Grill Is Now Open!

Try Our:

Cheeseburgers

Fish Sandwiches

Onion Rings

Hamburgers French Fries Chicken Sandwiches

Corn Dogs Mushrooms Pork Tenderloins

BBQ Beef Sandwiches Chicken & Beef Nuggets Hot dogs & Chili dogs (reg. & super)

Aggieville Dairy Queen Brazier

12th & Moro

CHECK OUT

OUR

PRICES!

PRODUCTS

HAIR CLINIC

WELCOMES YOU!!!

HIS & HERS PROFESSIONAL HAIR STYLING SALON SPECIALIZING IN:

THANKSGIVING SPECIAL! Haircut & Style $8 All Perms $28

(includes haircut & style)

REDKEN MATRIX LAMAUR ZOTOS

 COLORING 8 Stylists to Serve You

PERMS

offer ends 11/28/86 HandiCorner 1106 Laramie Aggieville

• CUT & BLOW STYLE MON.-FRI. 8-8

SAT. 8-6 SUN. NOON-5

> WALK INS WELCOME

SOMEONE'S LOOKING FOR YOU!

Find the 10 most compatable people for you at KSU. Entry fee is $1.

See the Dating Service Booth in the Union, this week only.

5 FREE nights-on-the-town will be given away. Night includes:

Dinner, Limousine transportation, and movie.

Sponsored by Newman Ministries, La Ride Limousine Service and Best Sound Around

Only Three Days left to

This is the last week Yearbook Associates will be on campus taking portraits for the Royal Purple. Don't miss out!! If you forgot to sign up with your living group, it's not too late.

Make your appointment by calling 539-5229.

Take your stamped fee card to Union 209 and don't miss out on being in the 1987 Royal Purple.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m.

By TOM SCHULTES Agriculture Editor

Today marks the beginning of a five-day, four-concert benefit for America's farmers

The event, located at the Wyandotte County Fairgrounds near Bonner Springs, is titled "Red, White & Blue 1986, An All-America Salute to Farming."

The Red, White and Blue Benefit Fund, with offices located at 630 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan., was established as a non-profit corporation to accept contributions.

Merlyn Brown, director of the fund, said he hopes the event can become an annual affair. Activities for next year, including a golf tournament, are already being planned.

Brown, who is originally from Osborne, said he got the idea after the Live Aid concert for famine relief and before the first Farm Aid concert. This week's events have been in the planning stages for about two years.

"Something needs to be done to turn the tide," Brown said. "There's got to be a place for (the farmers') grains and products.

"If 90,000 people are starving to death each day as was testified this year before Congress, then there must be a market for our farm products, which are now being destroyed or left spilling out of overstuffed elevators while farmers go bankrupt and are foreclosed upon.

"This benefit is an effort by a group of extremely committed entertainers and volunteers to seek a remedy for those inequities. Organizers are asking American families to adopt tons of grain at the price of $60 per ton, with the grain to be turned over to existing service agencies of missionaries to feed the hungry in

Among performers scheduled for the benefit are Rex Allen Jr., Leroy Van Dyke and other musicians from Nashville and the Kansas City region. Allen is serving as national spokesman for the Other activities scheduled include seminars concerning selfhelp and stress-reduction programs for farmers. Several representatives from Farmers Assistance Counseling and Training Service, located at K-State, will be conducting seminars.

Brown said representatives of H&R Block will be present to explain how farmers should use recently enacted tax legislation to their advantage.

He said all of the identifiable presidential candidates, as well as candidates for state offices, have been invited. Although Brown has received calls from some of the candidates, none had confirmed attending as of Tuesday noon.

"I felt like something positive needed to be done," Brown said. People need to "buy (the farmer's) product and let him keep working.

Live animals undergo stress as mascots

By KELLY KLOVER Collegian Reporter

Despite his spirit, Willie the Wildcat is only a facsimile. While today's mascot is comprised of human flesh and a hot, furry wildcat head, real wildcats were once a vital part of K-State tradition. The history of the mascot, though, has been less than ideal.

The first mascot was Touchdown I, who debuted March 1, 1922. He was the gift of Herbert R. Groone, a 1905 graduate, and John E. McCoy, a graduate of the class of 1909. Both graduated from the School of Veterinary Medicine. Touchdown I had an unfortunate encounter with a porcupine and died shortly after his arrival in March.

Touchdown II arrived about a week after the death of Touchdown I. From Washington State, he was the gift of Harold P. "Horsepower" Bates, a 1911 graduate. Touchdown II served for 14 years before he was stricken with heat prostration during the summer of 1936.

Two years later, in 1938, Touchdown III came from Arizona. The gift of Dr. F. Schmidt, also a graduate of the School of Veterinary Medicine, Touchdown III fell victim to pneumonia and died soon after.

A few years later, K-State's Alpha Phi Omega purchased Touchdown IV from the Hutchinson Fire Department. Touchdown IV was the first mascot to be housed at Sunset Zoo. Her predecessors had lived hectic lives in quarters on campus. Like Touchdown III, Touchdown IV died of pneumonia.

In 1955, Touchdown V was found dead between Topeka and Lawrence after being "catnapped" by University of Kansas fans during the annual KU-K-State football game.

Touchdown VI died of pneumonia

Touchdown VII, purchased from the Garden City Zoo in 1959, reigned for 12 years before dying in 1971 at the age of 14.

Touchdown VIII was somewhat of a celebrity. He had starred in two Walt Disney movies -Calloways" and "Wahoo" - and was valued at $1,500. He was retired after seven years of service because he was showing signs of age.

The next mascot was actually a duo, a male and female from the Children's Zoo of Lincoln, Neb. The Touchdown Twins, IX and X, died of a rare virus in the summer of 1978.

In October 1978, Clifford Roy of Smith Center donated Touchdown XI, better known as "Billy Bob."

It has been about seven years since a live wildcat has represented K-State at a sports event. Caroline Meek, curator of Sunset Zoo, said the practice was stopped because it was extremely stressful to the cats.

"They're not used to being paraded around in front of thousands and thousands of people yelling and screaming," she said.

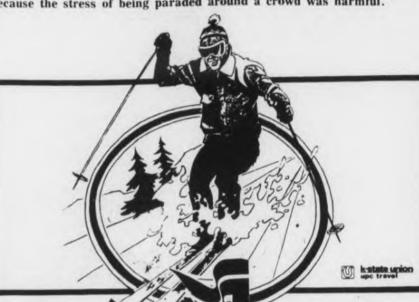

Before a game, each cat was loaded into a portable 4-feet by 3-feet pressed wire and plexiglass cage, which Meek said took at least four people to carry. Alpha Phi Omega, the service organization that sponsored the mascots, transported them to and from games.

During football season, the cats were paraded around the stadium before as many as 40,000 screaming fans while the K-State band played 'Mr. Touchdown." The same ritual took place in Ahearn Field House during basketball season.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Since 1922, 11 wildcats, like this one at the Sunset Zoo, have been used as mascots for the University. However, the practice was stopped in 1978 because the stress of being paraded around a crowd was harmful.

$316/$284 (with your own equipment) (VISA & MASTERCARD accepted) THE CHRISTMAS BREAK PLAYGROUND OF THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS!

TRIP INCLUDES:

Round Trip Motor "Sleeper" Coach Transportation

*Five Nights Lodging at Kutuk Condominiums
*Four Day Lift Tickets

*Four Day Equipment Rental *Pre-Party

*On-Site Trip Advisor 'Moving' & Groovin' Nuts & Bolts Steamboat

SIGN-UP NOW — UNION ACTIVITIES CENTER, 3rd FLOOR

WEDNESDAY MEANS

MARGARITAS

WELL DRINKS ALL DAY & NIGHT!

RELAX ON OUR FAMOUS SANTA CLAUS PATIO!

Wednesday, October 22, 1986 a story of chance

BEING THERE November 15 & 16 Only $32 "A beautifully acted satire that moves handsomely and ingeniously to make a whimsical dream of a story come true... played with brilliant understatement

Explore the Missouri underworld. Under the surface of Missouri is a literal honeycomb of caverns and passages. Exploring these caves, which are still untouched by electric lights and cement walks, is a thrill and a challenge. This weekend of adventure will include exploration of two of the deep, dark caverns of Central Missouri! The trip includes: two nights lodging at Deville Motor Inn, Waynesville, MO.; lunch on Saturday; maps; string and permit costs.

Sign-up: 8:15 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Union Activities Center, Students: Today-November 11

General Public: Tomorrow-November 11 k-state union upc outdoor rec.

by Peter Sellers, who never strikes a false note. The other fine actors -Shirley MacLaine, Melvyn Douglas, Jack Warden and Richard Dysart, form a superb ensemble." -JANET MASLIN, NEW YORK TIMES "You really think so ... "

-Chance the gardener

Today, 7:30 p.m. in Forum Hall & Tomorrow, 3:30 p.m. in the Little Theater &

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

7:30 in Forum Hall

All shows $1.75; KSU ID required Rated PG

"Hannah and Her Sisters" is an exhilarating observation of life in urban America. Woody Allen combines poignancy and humor as he explores the complex tangle of relationships within this family during a two-year period. Stars Mia Farrow, Woody Allen, Michael Caine & Barbara Hershey.

Friday & Saturday, 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. in Forum Hall. $1.75; KSU ID required; Rated PG

MIDDAY ARTS PRESENTS

A Preview from "Oklahoma

by the K-State Players

Get A Sneak Preview-be ahead of the crowd! Today in the Union Courtyard at noon.

K-state union

IBM to sell holdings in South Africa

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - American companies, squeezed by a lagging economy in South Africa and antiapartheid activists at home, are leaving the white-ruled country at a brisk pace, analysts say.

International Business Machines Corp. and General Motors Corp., two industrial giants, are the most recent concerns to announce plans to sell operations in South Africa.

Their decisions increase to 29 the number of American companies that have left or voiced plans to do so in 1986, according to Investor Responsibility Research Center, a Washington-based group that tracks U.S. business activity in South Africa.

The Coca-Cola Co., Procter&Gamble Co. and the Marriott Corp., are among the others who are pulling up stakes.

Thirty-nine American companies

1984. U.S. firms in South Africa number 244, with investment totaling $1.3 billion, down from $2.6 billion in 1981.

Disinvestment has long been a goal of American opponents of South Africa's apartheid system of strict racial separation. They argue that withdrawing U.S. capital sends a strong message to Pretoria's white government.

"This remains a major victory for the anti-apartheid movement." said Randall Robinson of the lobbying group TransAfrica. "We are going to see...increasing isolation of that country."

The announcements by GM and IBM were especially significant because those corporations are big, well-known entities with global identities, Robinson said, predicting that more Americans firms will pull out shortly. Disinvestment, however, is not a left in 1985, compared with seven in requirement of the sanctions legislation passed by Congress earlier this month. The law, which was enacted over President Reagan's veto, prohibits any new U.S. investment in South Africa, among other things. The Rev. Leon Sullivan, a black Philadelphia minister who has dealt with with American firms in South Africa, has called for withdrawal of U.S. investment and a blockade of the country if apartheid is not abolished by May 1987.

For years, Sullivan urged U.S. companies to stay in South Africa as an engine for change, but he set the 1987 deadline as a means of stepping up pressure on Pretoria.

Sullivan, who hailed GM's decision, devised the so-called Sullivan Principles, a code of conduct that many American businesses follow in hiring, training and promoting black workers in South Africa.

South Africa's recession-plagued economy has played a big role in the exodus of U.S. firms.

GM Chairman Roger B. Smith said the automaker decided to sell its wholly owned subsidiary employing about 3,000 people in part because it had been losing money for several years.

But Marcy Murningham, president of the social investment division of Mitchell Investment Management in Cambridge, Mass., said the disinvestment moves reflect a growing consensus on how to deal with South Africa.

The unanswered question is whether disinvestment will have any effect on the white South African government or whether it will become more intransigent, she

The Reagan administration, meanwhile, continues to oppose disinvestment because of the possible "harmful effect on black workers."

Kansan to relate experiences in world outreach program munity assistance in remote villages

English.

By The Collegian Staff

Brian Kleisen, a native Kansan and assistant selection coordinator for an exploration and service program called Operation Raleigh, is scheduled to speak about adventurous opportunities for students at 8 tonight in Union 207.

Operation Raleigh is a four-year, around-the-world scientific research, exploration and community services project for 17-24 year olds called Venturers.

The program, a kind of combination Peace Corps and Outward Bound, began its four-year run in 1984 under the patronage of Prince Charles.

Since 1984, Venturers have helped build a bridge to help Chilean villagers cross a part of the San Rafael Glacier, catalogued a new rain-forest herb in Peru that counteracts snake bites, and coaxed Choco Indians in Panama to go to free eye clinics.

An experienced staff of international scientists and explorers direct the projects, which include marine biology, archaeology, environmental conservation and medical and com-

Ramada Inn

WEDNESDAY

99¢

Wine Coolers

and Spritzers

FREE Cajun

Hors D'oeuvres

4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSL

Abortions Through All Legal Stages

5107 E. Kellogg Wichita, Kansas

Free Pregnancy Tests

Modern Medical Facilities

COLLEGIAN SPORTS Where the Action 5

Operation Raleigh is seeking young people with a high potential for leadership and a demonstrated reliability, ethusiasm and ability to get along with others under arduous physical and climatic conditions.

Potential Venturers must also be able to swim 500 yards and speak

Kleisen, 21, was chosen for sail training aboard the "Zebu," a 75-foot brigantine. Kleisen helped archaeologists map pre-Columbian sites on scattered islands.

Auntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Wednesday

$1.50 House drinks

$2 Blended drinks

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Wines

Pilot's voice recorder tape incomplete

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A recording of cockpit conversations provides no indication that the pilot of a Mexican airliner that collided with a small plane near Los Angeles ever saw the smaller aircraft, a federal safety investigator said Tuesday.

But National Transportation Safety Board member John Lauber also said in an interview that the tape has "huge gaps" because of crash damage, and said that some exchanges between the two pilots may have been lost.

"There's no indication (in the tape recording) that they saw anything (unusual) at all," Lauber said. But he added that because of the tape damage, the board cannot "determine definitely" whether the pilots might have momentarily been aware of the other aircraft, a single-engine Piper PA-28.

Transcripts of the cockpit voice recorder tape, information from the Aeromexico DC-9's flight data recorder and other documents from

Tonite

$2 Pitchers

50¢ Draws

$1 Coolers

Sat.

Homecoming party

with

Spuds McKenzie

Open Sat. 9 a.m.

Friday

Free T.G.I.F

Sandwich Bar

weekend accident are to be made public by the board late next week.

Lauber headed the NTSB investigation into the collision Aug. 30 over Cerritos, Calif., in which at least 82 people were killed, including all 64 aboard the jetliner and three in the Piper plane. At least 15 people were killed on the ground when the jetliner fell into a residential neighborhood. The small, private plane flew without authorization into restricted airspace and collided with the jetliner at about 6,500 feet as the Mexican plane was making an approach to Los Angeles International Investigators had said previously that the small plane apparently struck the tail section of the DC-9, severing the plane's horizontal stabilizer. A plane cannot be controlled without the stabilizer.

Lauber said investigators had obtained "some useful information" from the cockpit voice recorder. He did not elaborate. The recorder uses the investigation into the Labor Day a continuous reel tape to provide a 30-minute record of cockpit conversations and noises in the cockpit.

The other "black box," which houses the flight data recorder, was less heavily damaged. Lauber said technicians have been able to make "a successful readout" although the traces on the recording foil were very light" because of a faulty set-

NTSB spokesman Ira Furman said that transcript from the cockpit recorder and technical reports on information provided by the flight data recorder are to be made public Oct.

On that day, the safety board also is expected to release transcripts of radio communications between air traffic controllers and both the DC-9 and the single-engine plane. Investigators have interviewed nearly a dozen controllers at various Federal Aviation Administration facilities who were involved with handling the jetliner or the Piper aircraft, officials said.

THE DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER LECTURE

"Eisenhower and the American Dream"

presented by

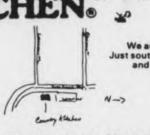

JOHN KEEGAN

Defence Correspondent, Daily Telegraph, London and author of The Face of Battle.

Forum Hall, K-State Union Tuesday, 28 October 1986, 8 p.m. Sponsored by the Department of History

Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner and Dessert Specials Everyday Late Night Snacks

420 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Manhattan (Next to Motel 6)

776-6301

FRIDAY FOCUS ON WOMEN

Each series is from 12-1 p.m.

SCHEDULE FOR FALL 1986 All programs are in the KSU Union (usually Room 206 or 213)

from noon to 1 p.m. "Commuting for Advancement" - Panel discussion with Beth Unger, Carla Lee, Angel Folland, Sharon Union 213

"Children and Television" - John Murray October 31 Union 213 "Women in Science: Or the Lack Thereof" -November 7

Union 206 November 14 "Joint Custody and the Courts" - Judge Jerry

Mershon Union 213

November 21 'Joint Custody: Views of a Lawyer and Union 213 Researcher'' - Linda Graham and Al Davis All programs are open to the general public; students, faculty, staff, women and men are welcome. Feel free to bring your lunch of pick up a tray in the Union.

general practice dedicated to Optometry in a friendly mann We'd like to be your Optometric office TO SLEEP WITH · Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses. • All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.

• Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock. · Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting. Drs Price, Young and Odle
1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan

537-1118

October 27-November 1

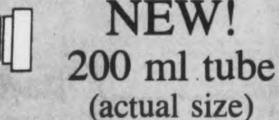

Ben Franklin,

High Quality, durable with excellent lightfastness.

"Better Quality for Less"

Winsor & Newton Oils All colors $5.25 ea.

STANDARD SIZE

Westloop Center Manhattan 776-4910

New Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-7 p.m., Sun. 1-6 p.m.

Manustan, Kansa 6502 (913) 539-3166

1219 Bluemont Avenue

OPEN DAILY 11:00 a.m.

presents

(316)684-5108

Ask a riend. I would like to effect which the for the state of the forther thanks to the forther thanks the forth

K-State Players

OKLAHOMA! Oct. 23, 24, 25 McCain Auditorium 8 p.m. CALL 532-6398 Mon.-Fri. 12-5

Student vote to decide who will be K-State ambassadors

Candy Leonard

We are windows...windows for K-State, and it's time we threw open the shutters to let people see what makes K-State exciting and worthwhile.

We still have the same, friendly K-State atmosphere. We have a diversified student body, with unique viewpoints and ideas to share. We have a dedicated faculty committed to excellence in teaching, researching for tomorrow's solutions and expanding our extension programs. We have tremendous opportunities at K-State to learn and grow both inside the classroom and beyond.

New strategies are being implemented by our administration to make K-State more competitive in recruitment. These necessary changes have helped generate a sense of excitement about the future on our campus. This is the optimistic attitude that I will strive to promote.

Students are only one "window" of K-State. Our alumni play a similar role. Alumni are the tradition that K-State stands on. They are our image in their communities and business lives.

Our future at K-State depends on the combined efforts of these groups and their ability to communicate and work together.

As an ambassador, I will work enthusiastically to bring these aspects together and to be a "window" that showcases K-State wherever I go.

Roger McClellan

K-State's tradition of its friendly campus is one of its best selling points. I believe the warmth displayed by K-State students, the committment of the faculty and the dedication of the alumni forms an image that must be portrayed to prospective students.

One of the concerns of a student before choosing a large university to obtain a higher education is whether he or she will be just another number. But when that student chooses K-State, I am confident that they will be greeted with the same warm and friendly atmosphere and high academic standards that I have found to be an important aspect of our campus. A major role of the K-State ambassadors is to portray this image to those hesitant students.

Because of my continuing pride and involvement at K-State, I would like to represent this university as one of the new ambassadors. The best promoter is an enthusiastic student. By being a K-State ambassador, I would strive to promote to others the "purple pride" and the true meaning of the K-State tradi-

Election to run until Friday

Ambassador voting will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in the Union. Elections will continue through Friday.

Students can vote for one female ambassador and one male ambassador. To vote, students must present their fee card or student ID. Ambassadors travel throughout the state to promote the University's goals and programs, mainly through speaking engagements.

The ambassador results will be announced Saturday at halftime of the K-State-University of Missouri football game.

The ambassador program is sponsored by Blue Key, a senior honorary society.

Jada Allerheiligen

Something old and something new have combined to form the power of K-State pride.

The traditions and new faces create one of the best universities in the Midwest. This winning combination of new people highlighting the importance of K-State makes this year the best time for others to look at what we have to offer.

The ambassadors will be filling a meaningful role for the University this year. They will be carrying the personal-touch programs of K-State with them and reaching out to touch as many people, both alumni and prospective students, as possible.

K-State's unique qualities of a friendly atmosphere and a sense of belonging within this major university are no accident. Eighty-six percent of K-State's student body comes from Kansas. Students already have developed pride in the land and people of Kansas. They bring to K-State their willingness to get involved in the diversified programs and activities offered.

Growing up in Manhattan has conditioned me to expect the student body to exhibit their pride through good times and bad. I have never been disappointed, and I would sincerely represent the enthusiasm and pride for the University. As an ambassador, I would welcome the opportunity to carry with me K-State's old traditions and new excitement.

Libby Turner

The "purple pride" evident at last Saturday's game against the University of Kansas was contagious. It was this type of enthusiasm that sold me on attending K-State when my parents first started taking me to football games while I was still in grade school.

Coming from a long line of K-Staters, my decision about college was easily made. Unfortunately, many high school students have a difficult decision to make concerning college. For this reason, it is important that we make prospective students and their parents aware of the unique qualities an education at K-State has to offer.

Everyone involved with K-State has a lot of reasons to be proud. Our campus is known for its friendly atmosphere, which can be attributed to the type of students, faculty and alumni here. Students are also given the opportunity to become involved. For example, Homecoming offers many different activities in which students can display their spirit and enthusiasm.

Our university can boast of colleges and departments that are widely acclaimed for academic excellence and that continually strive to improve the education they offer their students. K-State is undergoing some exciting changes, and it would be an honor to share my "purple pride" as this University's ambassador.

Mark Buyle

The theme for Homecoming '86 is "Purple Pride...the K-State Tradition." Since the school's creation in the mid-1860s, K-State students have contributed to a foundation of excellence. The positive changes now taking place on campus indicate that we are poised to build upon our already rich tradition.

A new sense of purpose, enthusiasm and optimism is apparent in the K-State community. Now, more than ever, it is important to keep alumni, prospective students and their parents aware of the dynamic changes that are taking Alumni are crucial to the continued success of the University. They offer much-needed financial support, bolster enthusiasm by attending University activities and pass the good word about K-State on to prospective students.

Potential students represent the future of the University. The quality of the students that we attract will determine the direction of K-State and will influence the ongoing tradition of excellence.

Parents share heavily in the decision of which university a student will attend and frequently support the activities of that school

As an ambassador, I feel I could serve as a representative of the student body to these three important groups by keeping them aware of the exciting activities at K-State. I believe that K-State is the best-kept educational secret in the country. It is my goal to keep alumni informed that the K-State tradition is alive and to let potential students and their parents in on our secret.

Matt Wineinger

Recently, two major news developments appeared on the same day.

The first said, "Crash studies now show that the average automobile bumper cannot sustain a crash of five miles per hour without major damage.'

The second reported, "Scientists have developed a tomato that can sustain an impact of five miles per hour without breaking the skin.'

Does this mean that auto bumpers should be made of tomatoes and that restaurants should offer bacon, lettuce and bumper sandwiches?

No. The tomato is "uniquely suited" to the McDLT and the bumper is still uniquely able to provide passenger protection.

Likewise, in considering my past experiences and interests, it is clear to me that they make me "uniquely suited to serve you (the K-State student) as a new ambassador.

This fall, we've experienced the excitement of K-State beating archrival University of Kansas 29-12 in football. We've seen the student talent in productions such as "'night, Mother." This week we will see the creativity, planning and hard work that Homecoming activities inspire in students living in residence halls, greek houses and other participating campus organizations.

As an ambassador, I will strive to represent the potential for personal and academic growth that K-State provides. There's a saying, "There are no limitations in what you can do except the limitations in your own mind...Don't think you cannot - think you can.'

This is the attitude K-State teaches. This is the attitude I will

The Arden Trio is "a splendid ensemble, technically brilliant. with an impressive command of

All Faiths Chapel Wednesday, October 22, 1986 8:00 p.m.

Featuring Suzanne Ornstein, Violinist Clay Ruede, Cellist Thomas Schmidt, Pianist

Haydn . . . Trio in D Major, Hob. XV: 16 Saint-Saens . . . Trio No. 2 in e minor, Op. 92 Ravel . . . Trio in a minor (1915)

Tickets and information (913) 532-6428 MasterCard/VISA accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas mission, a state agency, and the Endowment for the Arts, a federal

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 1110 Laramie 537-7340

"The Strip" *Watch for Halloween Bash info .. THURSDAY

"Sheer Delight" Female Strippers, Hot from K.C.

TONIGHT

* No KSU Student ID required Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

Wichita . Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

Good Luck Ambassador Candidates Candy Leonard Libby Turner

We're behind you all the way! Love, The Pi-Phi's

GLAMOUR WORLD BEAUTY SUPPLY

"Go Bananas over banana clips at Glamour World." (Reg. $1.79)

Assorted colors & sizes to choose from.

Open Daily 9:30-6 p.m. Sat. 9-1 p.m. (with coupon)

Expires 10-31-86

433 Town East Center, Just East of Food 4 Less

Color Monitor Bonus Offer!

Tandy 1000 EX Buy America's #1 PC Compatible and

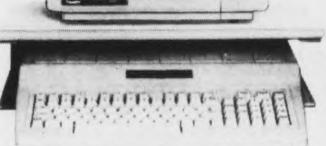

Get a Color Monitor at No Charge!

- 50% Faster Clock Speed Than the IBM® PC
- Built-In Disk Drive 256K Memory ■ Includes Personal DeskMate™

Six-in-One Applications Software A true PC-compatible computer that's ready to use thousands of MS-DOS programs. Improved clock speed means you can run most of today's popular software faster than ever. Plug in joysticks, printer or a second disk drive without buying extra-cost adapters.

Monitor Platform (shown), #26-210, $29.95 Save $299.95-Tandy 1000 SX With Bonus CM-5 Color Monitor. Features 384K memory. two disk drives, five PC-compatible card slots. and DeskMate 11[™]. Reg. separate items $1498 95. #25-1051/25-1023, Sale $1199.00

*CitiLine revolving credit from Citibank, Payment may vary depending upon balance. IBM/Beg. TM International Business Machines. Corp. MS-DOS/TM Microsoft Corp. Personal DeskMate and DeskMate II/TM Tandy Corp.

2609 Anderson In Anderson Square 539-6151

Weekdays 9-6 Saturday 9-5 Closed Sunday

Mets battle back with victory over Red Sox

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Bob Ojeda pitched New York to victory over his former teammates and Len Dykstra ignited the Mets offense as they averted almost certain elimination by beating the Boston Red Sox 7-1 in Game 3 of the World Series.

Down 2-0 after losing the first two games at New York 1-0 and 9-3, the Mets scored four runs in the first inning off Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd. Dykstra led off the game with a homer, and the Red Sox botched a crucial rundown play as the Mets had their biggest inning of the Series.

Dykstra had four hits, and Gary Carter had three RBI with two hits as the Mets unloaded 13 hits, one more than their total for the first two games. Every starter except Mookie Wilson had at least one hit.

The victory sent the Mets into Game 4 Wednesday night with Ron Darling, 15-6, their Game 1 loser pitching on three days' rest against Al Nipper, 10-12, who has yet to throw a pitch in postseason. Darling allowed three hits and one run over seven innings to lose Game 1.

Ojeda, who won 18 games after he was traded to the Mets from Boston last December, allowed five hits in the seven innings he pitched. He allowed only a third-inning run in becoming the first left-hander to beat Boston at Fenway Park in a World Series game since Hippo Vaughn of the Chicago Cubs in 1918. The Red Sox also were in the World Series in 1946, '67 and '75.

Ojeda, 20-17 lifetime in Fenway Park, walked three and struck out six. In the second and sixth innings,

Ojeda got former batterymate Rich Gedman on called third strikes for the third out with runners at second

After the first inning, the emotional Boyd got his delicate act back together, retiring 11 in a row at one point, but the bulk of the damage already had been done. Boyd, who won 16 games this season, allowed six runs on nine hits over seven innings before he was relieved by Joe Sambito gave up a run-scoring double by Ray Knight in the eighth.

Only one team, the 1985 Kansas Royals, has ever lost the first two games at home and won the Series. No team ever has lost the first three games and recovered.

New York also scored a pair of runs in the seventh off Boyd on Carter's bases-loaded, two-out single.

The Mets, who sent nine men to the plate in the first inning against Boyd, were aided in their effort when the Red Sox botched a rundown play on Keith Hernandez between home and Dykstra led off with a homer down the right-field line on a 1-1 pitch from Boyd, who had given up three homers in the playoffs.

Wally Backman followed with a single and went to third on a single by Hernandez. Carter hit a double that rolled to the wall in left-center, scoring Backman and sending Hernandez to third.

Darryl Strawberry struck out, and that brought up Knight, whose bouncer to third started the bizarre

Expansion in NBA's near future

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX. Ariz. - The NBA's Board of Governors voted Tuesday to expand by one to three teams, but not before two years from now at the earliest and possibly not until the 1990-91 season.

NBA Commissioner David Stern announced at a news conference that a five-member expansion committee would be formed and would decide on the sites and timetable for expansion, which will be announced next April in New York.

The new teams would be added between the 1988-89 and 1990-91

The 23-member pro basketball league last added a new team in 1980, when Dallas was granted a fran-

"The NBA has reached a point in strength where the next logical step for us is to expand. The vote was unanimous, 23-0," Stern said. "The collective force of the presentations given by six cities here this week put away any doubts that we should not be moving aggressively forward."

Representatives from six applicants - Toronto, Minneapolis, Miami, Fla., Orlando, Fla., Orange County, Calif., and Charlotte, N.C. all delivered 30-minute presentations to the board Monday.

Stern said the expansion committee "will meet with each of the six applicants again and with any more that come forward. I would not be surprised that in the next 60 days, there are not more applicants.'

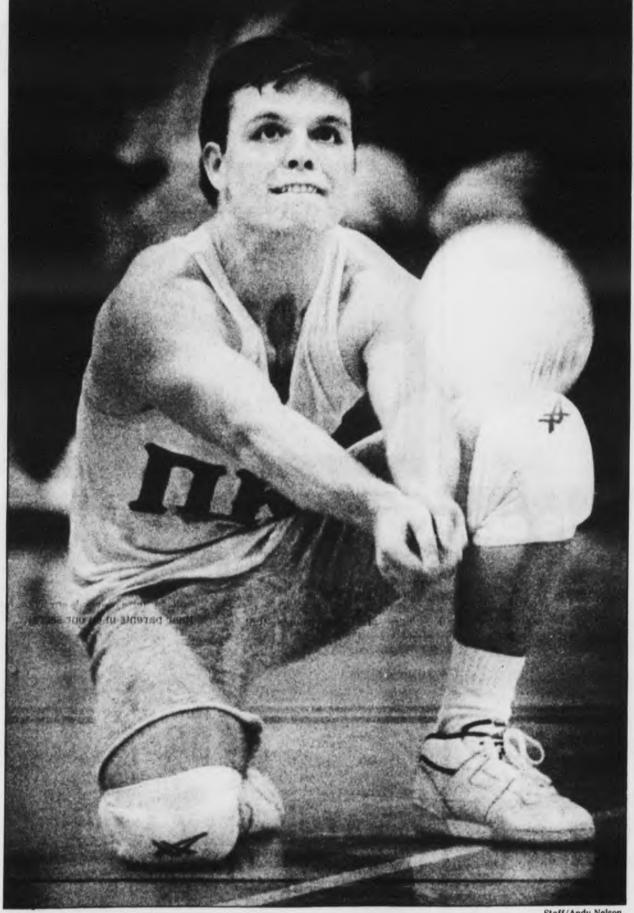

Lewis Schaffel, a former general manager of the New Jersey Nets who is representing the Miami expansion group, said he believes the league may decide to expand sooner than

"If they say there is expansion by 1988, everybody will be happy.'

"I think that it's possible," Stern said when asked about the 1988 timetable. "We're really looking for an orderly program for expansion. We have six first-class cities to chose from so far.' Named as chairman of the expansion committee was Richard Bloch, who is president of the Phoenix Suns.

Miami, Orlando and Minneapolis reportedly are the front-runners in the race to land a franchise.

Total control

With concentration in his eyes, Chris Goepfert, freshman in business administration, of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, kneels to bump the ball during an intramural game against Theta Xi Tuesday evening at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. The Pi Kaps won the match, 15-6, 6-15, 13-11, on the first day of intramural volleyball competition.

Wildcats to meet No. 5-ranked NU

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

Preparing to play the Nebraska volleyball team is a lot like preparing to play the Nebraska football team - neither seldom loses and each owns a trophy case full of Big Eight Conference championship awards.

So the story goes for K-State volleyball coach Scott Nelson and his Wildcats tonight at 7:30 when they face the No. 5-ranked Cornhuskers. NU comes into Ahearn Field House with an impressive streak of four years without losing a Big Eight match and an even longer string of 10 consecutive years as conference champions.

"To be honest with you," Nelson said, "we will have to play with our best intensity level and best effort to date to be competitive with this team. It is no secret to us."

The Wildcats, having just come off a hard-fought, five-game victory over intrastate rival Kansas on Monday night, are going into the match with only one day to prepare for Nebraska. Nelson said his team is trying to concentrate on the play on their side of the net.

"I want us to ignore some of the great plays they will make," Nelson said. "They have the No. 1 offense in the nation and they will do those kinds of things. We need to say 'OK', regroup and go on to the next point.'

'Where our team is, the emphasis is on our side of the net, what we are doing. There are things we can do on challenge. It's just a shame they our side of the court to slow have to be in our conference.

Nebraska down...We are trying to make adjustments not only to stop all their hitters but limit them on what they can do.' Nelson said his team will try to limit Nebraska's powerful hitters by increasing the tempo and velocity of

K-State's service game. "You can't give a great team a chance to set up or they will soon show you why they are the No. 1-ranked offense in the country," he

K-State also is out to control the flow of the contest. "They will make runs at us," Nelson said. "Our points will come a little at a time. I don't anticipate us making any runs on

K-State enters tonight's contest with a 9-10 overall mark and a 2-3 Big Eight record. After falling to 0-3 in the conference, the Wildcats have rebounded to capture their last two matches and even the score with Iowa State and Kansas from earlier road losses this season.

Nebraska, 16-3 overall and 5-0 in the conference, hits Ahearn on the heels of a six-match winning streak and winners of 14 of the last 15. The Cornhuskers' only loss in that string was to No. 9 Arizona State. Earlier this season, they lost to No. 1-ranked San Diego State in four games.

"This particular Nebraska team," Nelson said, "is the best volleyball team ever to play in Ahearn, unless some Olympic team played here that I don't know about.

"We are excited about the Golf team completes schedule ingloriously

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State men's golf team ingloriously ended its fall schedule Monday at the Wichita State Invitational by placing last in a five-team

Tulsa walked away with top honors from the 36-hole tournament by shooting a team total of 586. Nebraska, in close pursuit, finished four strokes back to place second. Kansas and Wichita State finished better than K-State's 624-stroke total.

"I was disappointed because we didn't play well," K-State Coach Rob Sedorcek said. "We had some good first-round scores. We didn't get any (good) second-round scores. I didn't think we could beat Wichita State, but I thought we would be a little closer to KU and Nebraska.

The Wildcats were led by Jeff Sedorcek, who shot rounds of 73 and 78 for a two-day total of 151. The score placed him 10th individually.

"Jeff had a good first round," Sedorcek said. "I think he tried to make up shots in the second round for some of the other guys."

Prevention of future Aggieville antics falls upon K-Staters

I feel like a friend has been raped. Not literally, but figuratively. My friend

Aggieville has been violated.

Unlike many who saw this past weekend's event from the outside, I realize that for the most part, Aggieville was raped and pillaged by strangers - outsiders. Suddenly, Aggieville has gained the image of a place that non-K-Staters can come to and turn loose in a reckless indulgence of violence, lawlessness and inconsideration for the rights of others.

I'm not saying all who were involved were from other places than K-State, but Saturday night I saw a lot of strange faces in Aggieville. I saw a lot of University of Kansas shirts - which took a good mixture of ignorance and guts to wear in the first place as well as many other college T-shirts.

Yes, there were some K-State students involved; the University didn't come out smelling like a rose. But I won't hesitate to say much of the blindness towards civil order came at the hands of strangers to Aggieville strangers who came to participate in

What I still find simply unbelievable is the fact the crowd burned someone's car. The owner's vehicle was burned right in front of her — in front of the law and, luckily, in front of the camera's eye.

I hope those who were involved with this ridiculous deed of destruction are forced to face the reality of their ignorance. I hope they open their hometown paper, after returning home to wherever they are from, and see their smiling chops nice and big for everyone else to witness.

TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

I hope people whose opinions they value (if people capable of such moronic acts such as these know what respect is) see them and judge them for what they have done.

It is time that K-State students stand up for the rights of their friend Aggieville. It exists because of the student body's needs and to turn away from it when strangers are damaging it seems quite unjust.

This problem is not going to go away. Due to the realignment of the Big Eight Conference's football schedule, KU will play here again next season.

You better believe the strangers will come pouring into Manhattan again next fall expecting the same chaotic fun as they've seen during the last two matchups

I think a real solution to this problem might be turning Aggieville into a street party. Give the students a band to listen to, block off the streets at 1 p.m.

These highly publicized occurrences are simply tarnishing K-State's image, and that is not what a victory over a school's archrival should result in. The same thing will happen again and again if the students don't stand up and say enough is enough. Aggieville is one of many prides of this institution and it should not be known as the center of lawlessness for the Tough foes challenge K-State rugby squad

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State rugby team traveled to Swope Park in Kansas City, Mo., this weekend and ran into some tough competition at the Heart of America Rugby Tournament.

The Wildcats won their first game over Springfield, Mo., on Saturday. K-State used a tenacious defense to prevail 4-0. Springfield fought its way through the losers' bracket in the 32-team tournament to place third in the tourney.

In K-State's next game, the 'Cats ran into the Kansas City Blues, the eventual champions of the tournament. The Blues came out on top 14-4, but K-State gave the area powerhouse its closest game of the K-State's final match of the doubleelimination tourney pitted the team against the Denver Darts. The Darts eliminated the 'Cats with a 10-0 vic-

K-State Coach Dave Mullin said he was pleased with the way his team played in the tournament, which featured teams from Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa. He attributed K-State's early elimination on being placed in a very competitive bracket.

The weekend's action drops K-State's record to 5-4 for the fall schedule. The Wildcats return home to play Central Missouri State on

Chiefs' OB situation remains cloudy passed for more than 4,000 yards By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Who'll start at quarterback Sunday for the Kansas City Chiefs? Stay tuned, says Coach John Mackovic, while denying that a quarterback controversy has even overtaken his 4-3 NFL team. "We'll come to grips and make some announcements," Mackovic said Tuesday at his weekly media luncheon. "Whenever we get everything in place. Really and truly, I purposely have not tried to press myself into that decision. I don't like to do things hastily." Todd Blackledge, taken by

Mackovic in the first round of the Great Quarterback Draft of 1983, was handed the starting job in May over veteran Bill Kenney, who and made the 1984 Pro Bowl But Blackledge has struggled all year. He was replaced by Kenney starting the second half of Sunday's harrowing 42-41 victory over San Diego in which the Chargers' Rolf Benirschke missed a last-second, 35-yard field goal.

Blackledge had completed only six of 15 passes for 69 yards and finished the first half by throwing the ball to San Diego defensive end Leslie O'Neal, who returned it five yards for a touchdown.

With Blackledge quarterbacking all the way the previous week in a loss to Cleveland, the offense netted only 126 total yards Kenney completed six of nine passes against the Chargers and helped set up the final scoring drive with a 27-yard completion to Walt Arnold followed by a 28-yard strike to Henry Marshall.

"I think right now, the less said by me the better until we get everything worked out among our staff and our team," Mackovic said. "It's really not a subject at this time that requires a great deal of conversation.

Mackovic said he did not think there was such a thing as a quarterback controversy dogging the Chiefs.

"What is a controversy?" asked Mackovic.

"Confict," someone said. "Who's having a conflict?" responded Mackovic, who in his fourth season is under intense pressure to produce a playoff con-

The Chiefs will be favored at home this week over Tampa Bay, a down-trodden NFC member with only one victory. Mackovic's delaying a quarterback decision, however, could be viewed as a sign of disagreement among his staff and players.

"I hope if nothing else that the guys who are playing on our team can appreciate, No. 1, the maturity of our team and the fact that we've got a lot of things going for us and we've worked hard to get there," Mackovic said.

"This has not come about easily. We've had to sacrifice, discipline ourselves, and work extremely hard in-season and out of season. We've had to taste a bunch of sourtasting days and nights.

Reagan to base pact on U.S. strength

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, expressing confidence the United States and the Soviet Union will reach an arms agreement, pledged Tuesday during a visit by West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl that the accord will be based on allied strength and not "weakness or timidity."

Reagan greeted Kohl at an elaborate welcoming ceremony on the White House South Lawn, and both said that Reagan's meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Iceland provided the basis for further nuclear arms reduction talks.

"There is ... amle reason for optimism," said Reagan, in another upbeat assessment of the Iceland talks that failed to yield any breakthrough toward an arms

Reagan said any future agreement with the Soviets would be based not on trust alone, but on the strength shown by the United States and its allies.

"When the next agreement is finally reached with the Soviet Union - and I say when, not if - it will not be the result of weakness or timidity on the part of Western nations," Reagan promised. "It will flow from our strength, realism and Kohl has said he would oppose any agreement that would leave Europe vulnerable to the overwhelmingly superior conventional forces of the Soviet bloc. He stressed Tuesday that the Allies' security concerns must be taken into account even as the superpowers attempt a weapons cutback.

While Gorbachev seemed in- bright sunshine.

terested in improved East-West ties, Kohl said, only continued negotiations will produce results.

Reagan contended that his proposed space-based missile defense system, better known as "Star Wars," made an arms agreement more likely. He reaffirmed his pledge to share "in the benefits of strategic defense" with the Soviets.

Reagan called his talks with Gorbachev "a giant step forward" compared to past arms negotiations, which he said produced only a cap on offensive weapons while allowing production of more missiles and warheads.

Reagan and Kohl, who have met seven times since the chancellor was elected more than four years ago, chatted amiably and shared a laugh or two as the U.S. Colonial Color Guard passed in review in

While Kohl's four-day visit had been planned for months, Kohl recently expressed a particular interest in hearing Reagan's account of the Iceland discussions on reducing intermediate-range nuclear

The superpowers had tentatively agreed to do away with NATO's medium-range missiles and the SS-20s that the Soviets have aimed at Western Europe, but the talks foundered on Gorbachev's insistence that the cuts be linked to curbs on Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative or Star Wars plan.

West Germany has born the brunt of NATO's 1979 decision to deploy medium-range missiles. Altogether, 108 Pershing 2 missiles have been put in place and 96 of the slower cruise missiles are being installed.

Homecoming activities begin with Union Day

By The Collegian Staff

Homecoming '86 activities will be officially under way with the start of Union Day today. Team competitions and student entertainment highlight the day's events.

Spirit banners, portraying this year's theme, "Purple Pride...The K-State Tradition," will be put up between 8 and 9 a.m. in the Union Courtyard and will be judged at 10 a.m. Points will be awarded for the top three places.

Preliminaries for body building will be at 10:30 a.m. in the Union courtyard. In the body building competition, greek teams will build human pyramids while yelling chants that represent the Homecoming theme. The top five teams will compete in the finals on Thursday.

Yell Like Hell preliminaries will be at 2 p.m. in the Courtyard. The skits incorportate the theme and also use chants. The top five greek groups also will compete in the final competition on Thursday.

Student entertainment will be featured throughout the day.

The purpose of using student entertainment is to get more people in the Union throughout the day, said Crystal Whitebread, senior in political science and a member of Blue Key National Honor Society. Blue Key is in charge of coordinating Homecoming.

"If they (the students) know who it is that will be entertaining, they will be more likely to stay around and watch," Whitebread said.

Football coach Stan Parrish, along with members of the football team and cheerleaders, will make an appearance at 12:30 p.m. Ambassador finalists will be introduced at 12:45

Intramural Injuries Sports

Injuries Call

537-8305 Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractic Family Health Center

3252 Kimball Avenue (In the Candlewood Center)

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

ONFIDENTIAL & CONCERNED CARE

Out-patient pregnancy terminations For appointment or information call (316) 265-4349

SPRING 1987 Two $1,000 Scholarships

in Agronomy for Science Majors

(Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Math) — Career Opportunities —

- * Plant Growth Modeling
- * Soil Physics
- ★ Soil Chemistry
- ★ Genetic Engineering ★ Biotechnology

Apply at Throckmorton 317 Call 532-7236 for more information.

Take This Coupon To Wendy's

ALL YOU CAN EAT SALAD BAR SPECIAL ONLY $1.99

412 N. 3rd Street

3006 Anderson

HALLOWEEN ALL CAMPUS COSTUME DANCE AND SPOOKHOUSE Friday, Oct. 24, 9 p.m.-1:30 a.m.

Admission: $2.50 a person, includes Spookhouse and Dance Intersection of Anderson and Denison (711 Denison)

Rock 'n' Roll music by Best Sound Around

Sponsored by Newman Ministries

Union Day Events October 22

All events will take place in the Union Courtyard
8 00 - 9 00 Spirit Banners Hung.
8 30 - 4:30 Ambassador Voting (voters must have fee 10 15 Alpha Chi Omega/Sigma Alpha Epsilon

10.15 Aipha Chi Omega / Sigma Aipha Epsilon Entertainment
10.25 Ford / Haymaker Entertainment
10.30 Body Building
12.00 Oklohoma
12.30 Coach Patriah, Players, and Cheerleaders
12.45 Introduction of Ambassador Finalists
1.00 Kappa Pickers

1 15 Delta Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega

Yell Like Hell Alpha Xi Delia/Lambda Chi Alpha Kappa Kappa Gamma/Theta Xi/Delta Tau Delta Entertainment

3 25 Boyd/Marlan Entertainment 3 30 Kappe Alpha Theta/Sigma Nu Entertainment 3 40 Announcements

Homecoming Specials K-State Union Bookstore

Art Carved Class Ring Sale! Friday, Oct. 23, Salurday, Oct. 24 $3.00 off any south K-State Sweatshirt in stock! Show your pride at the game, Wed.-Fri. Oct 22-Oct 24 K-State Union Recreation

Bowling Prices 8: 15a-6 00p 60¢ per game

60¢ per game
Purple Pin Bowling 8.15a-5.00c. Get a Strike with a Purp
Head Pin and Win a Free Game
Table Tennis Prices 55¢ per hour 8:15am-10.30pm
Billiards Prices .85¢ per hour 8:15am-10.30pm MACHINE GUN LOU Billiard Trick Shot Artist Free Exhibition in the K. State Union Courtyand, FAday October 24 11:30 a m.

K-State Union Copy Center 03c Copies Thurs Oct. 23-Set Oct. 25 K-State Union Information Desk

Oct 22 20c Popcorn All Day Long

K-State Union Food Service

Oct. 20 Chicken Fried Steak Sand w/lettuce, tomatoes. MON and fries $1.85 served 11 am 9 pm

AYCE Spaghetti $3:15/person 4:30 pm

Birlst. Ham & Chessa Cronsort w/8 oz coffee $1 65 7:00-10:00 am Oct 23

Caremel Apple Bar ser-w $ 95 sech 1:00-3:00 pm

Caramal Apples 5.75 each 11 IXIam 1.60pm K - State Union Program Council

UPC Arts Presents "Historical Ban KSU Archivesi," Union 2nd Floor Oct 21 (tues) UPC Issues & Ideas Persents: "Jan Espionage," a facture by foomer Ca Spm. Union Forum Itali - For Sa

KANSAS STATE VS. NATIONALLY RANKED NEBRASKA

NU Boasts the No. 1 Offense in the Nation

TONIGHT 7:30 p.m.

Students $1 Adults $2

All Matches In Ahearn Field House

Senator calls for agreement to stop 'foolish wheat wars'

By The Associated Press

OSAWATOMIE - Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., said Tuesday grain-producing nations should negotiate an informal agreement to address low prices and oversupplies hurting farmers worldwide.

"It is time to call a truce in these wheat wars before we bankrupt both our farmers and our taxpayers," Kassebaum said in remarks for delivery to the Miami County Farm Bureau.

"The United States, Canada, Australia, the European Community and Argentina are engaged in a foolish and self-destructive battle in the world grain market.'

Kassebaum, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said it could take years to reach a formal pact on agricultural issues even though they are part of new talks under the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs.

"If current trends continue, we will have two kinds of farmers - the hobby farmer and the giant proficient, medium-sized family farms may become an oddity, because they do not have the financial stamina to survive in today's depressed market."

To provide some immediate help to producers, she said, countries should try to fashion an informal farm trade agreement such as that recently developed on monetary policy between the United States, Japan and several European countries.

"I believe it is essential for the major grain-producing nations to face up to this problem now by engaging in a serious search for a solution,' said Kassebaum.

High-ranking Reagan administration officials, she pointed out, were "discouraging" on the chances for reaching an informal agreement. "I can appreaciate the difficulties, but doing nothing also is creating severe difficulties," she said.

Earlier Tuesday, Kassebaum renewed a call for revision of the congressional budget process. Kassebaum has suggested that lawmakers adopt a two-year budget cycle to replace the current system in which Congress authorizes and appropriates money for government programs for just one year.

She pointed out that Congress failed to meet its budget deadlines this year and rolled all 13 money bills into one $576 billion measure which passed in the closing moments.

"Instead of wandering through the minutiae of the budget every year, Congress could focus on setting clear priorities for limited tax dollars,' Kassebaum said in prepared remarks at the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City, Mo.

"We also could focus more attention on the results - or lack of results - from the pending rather than being absorbed in the process of spending.

In another appearance Tuesday in the Kansas City area, Kassebaum said she was not surprised by the decisions of General Motors Corp. and IBM to sell their South African operations to local interests in that

Faculty

Continued from Page 1

Country music show to aid disabled children in county

02 looked "like an easier target."

In other action, senate discussed incomplete policy changes and the University's role and scope docu-

Senate accepted an amendment that would insert a part in the in-

By The Collegian Staff

Citizens Inc. is sponsoring a benefit concert at 8 p.m. Thursday for area disabled and underpriviledged

Renee Cannon, donation supervisor, said the concert will feature country singer Jeannie C. Riley.

Riley is best known for her hit song,

"Harper Valley PTA." Proceeds from the concert, which will be in the Manhattan High School auditorium, will be used for Manhattan chapter

"The money goes towards creating events in the Riley County area.

The Federation for Handicapped complete policy for students who request one

The policy states that incompletes will be given at the request of the student for personal emergencies. The faculty member has the responsibility of informing the student of the work required to remove the incomplete. If the work is later completed by the student, the incomplete will be changed to a letter grade. The revised policy is to be effective social and recreational opportunities for disabled persons, like Special

Cannon said the organization is in

"We started at the end of July and hope to wrap things up pretty soon.

But we really need the support of the

Not only does she need donations,

"A lot of people who work for me are college students, and they can't be here every night," she said. "We can use all the help we can get."

but Cannon said she also needs

Olympics," Cannon said.

community," she said.

workers.

its final push to meet its goals.

for the spring 1987 semester. The role and scope document states the role of the University and its mission. The purpose of the document is to present old and new programs offered by the University. The Kansas Board of Regents requested a role and scope document from each school in the regents' system. K-State's original document was returned for revision. However, the regents would not accept the revised edition because it stated in its summary that there was no intention to eliminate any old programs.

Arrests

Continued from Page 1

was taken to Stormont-Vail Regional Medical Center in Topeka after sustaining head injuries, has been discharged, a spokesman at the hospital said Tuesday. Another person may have been critically injured in an incident relating to the rampage in Aggieville, said Caroline Peine, assistant dean of students, in information given to her by The St. Mary Hospital Tuesday.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

SON, WE WANT TO SEE THIS BASSELOPE THING. NOW.

Garfield

GIVE ME ONE GOOP REASON WHY YOU

WON'T GO OUT WITH ME, POC

Bloom County

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three con days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

A SMALL TACTICAL WARHEAD

WOULD FIT NEATLY BETWEEN

HIS ANTLERS. IT COULD BE

THE 'MX" PEPLOYMENI

SYSTEM WE'VE

BEEN LOOKING &

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (1-52)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2 Exp. Date 10/26 (with coupon)

THE REDS ARE RUMORED

DO YOU KNOW WHAT THAT

MEANS, BOYS

TO HAVE A BASSELOPE. OUR SIDE HAS NONE

YOU'RE OBNOXIOUS, PUSHY, WISHY-WASHY,

SLOW-WITTED AND BORING

OKAY! START THE POTS!

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

COME CELEBRATE Co-op Month with us. People's Grocery Co-op carries organic grains, Basmati rice, imported and domestic cheeses, organic coffee, over 80 bulk herbs and spices, 40 different teas and much more from our latest shipment. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 , Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., 811 Colorado. 539-4811. (39-43)

ZEN MASTER D. Katahiri-Roshi lectures Friday, October 31, 8 p.m. International Student Center on Philosophy and Practice of Meditation. Instruc-tion available Saturday, November 1. (42-46)

BROWN BAG Babblings-Every Wednesday in State Room #1, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. Sharing among

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

OH YEAH? WELL

By Charles Schulz

JUST A LITTLE SPECIAL

EFFECT, MA'AM ..

GIVE ME A SECOND REASON

ATTENTION

childern.

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49) KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more. from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for huge color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81. Manhat tan, Kansas 66502. (40-44)

Duran's Denison & Claffin

Buy one steak & get the 2nd one for ½ price.

Exp. date 10/26 (with coupon)

ATARI 520ST owners interested in exchange of ideas and information. Call Ken at 776-6202. (41-43) ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, religious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer in volved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039.

Hayes House of Music 327 Poyntz

DOD Guitar Effects 30% Off

WEINER ROASTS, barn parties, Christmas parties. reservations, 539-5328. (42-44)

03 FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf) HORSE BOARDING available-Stalls, beautiful

Flint Hill area, three miles west of town. Call 776-5059. (42-46)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44)

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

1219 Claflin - Next to campus - Furnished one bed-room, new carpet, new paint, $260 plus electric, $200 deposit. No children, no pets. 537-1180. (39-

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment. Across Putnam Hall. 1304 North Manhattan, $195. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (40-44)

LARGE TWO bedroom furnished basement apartment—Nice kitchen, 2054 Tecumseh, five blocks from KSU. $325 per month, utilities included. Call 776-9647 evenings. (42)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1980 CAMARO-Sunroof, 40,000 miles, good condition. Call 537-0835. (38-42)

1977 VW Rabbit, excellent condition, reliable, must sell for best offer. 537-0165 or 532-5123 (Stuart). $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar. CA. (39-43)

rossword

By Eugene Sheffer

eanuts

THIS IS THE POEM

I HAVE MEMORIZED.

ACROSS 1 Cleo's killer 4 KGB man 7 Opera highlight 8 Young cod 37 Distorts 10 "The and the Ecstasy 11 Gazed askance 13 A.J. Cronin 40 CIA prednovel 16 Syllable with phone DOWN or ring

17 "Golden Boy" playwright 18 Couple

19 Slight error 20 U.S. flag designer 21 Mature 23 Mild and soothing 25 King or 25 King or Hale

26 Rich soil
27 "Tough and devilish

ER NE PUN NEAR

Geneva
32 Footlike organ
34 Peter,
Pun NEAR devilish

28 Dagwood's dog

5 Plunders 6 Earlier for her times children 7 Turkish 39 Exclama officer tion

FOG" BY CARL

Kiri Te

SANDBURG

8 Slumber 9 Muffle 10 Had a 41 Evergreen snack 12 Nature 1 Biblical deity

Solution time: 27 min. CATTY BULLOAK 30 Fountain sipper BULLETS GIFTS 31 Sight in

Yesterday's answer

14 Wield a blue pencil Kanawa 3 Employer's 15 Turf square concern 4 Fragrance 19 Energy source 20 Battering

21 Singer Jones 22 City in Ohio 23 Kind of 24 Purchase plan

worshiper 25 Residue 26 Cotton thread RIMS 28 Audition cordings 29 Street

Paul and DALE Mary, e.g. 10-22 35 Bargain bonanza

21 22 CRYPTOQUIP

10-22 PWG WFXLELCZHC

JHJLCB: PH ULFKTM'X

CHUWKK X L GXWMT Yesterday's Cryptoquip: COY STRING SAVER MIGHT SAY, "I RECKON I'M A HAVE KNOT."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals ()

1981 MERCURY Lynx Stationwagon-Good condition, dependable, air conditioning. Call 776-3499 or 532-5865. (40-44)

1979 PONTIAC Sunbird-Yellow, sunroof, stereo, new brakes and clutch, looks good, dependable, $2,300. Call 776-3447. (40-44)

1974 DODGE Dart Sport-Air conditioning, powe steering, power brakes, $650. Call 537-0751 after 7 p.m., or 776-4794 daytime (40-44)

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49) 1976 MUSTANG Ghia, 85,000 miles, Great school cal or second car. $850. Call 1-494-8326 or 537-8802 and leave number to call back. (42-44) ONE OF a kind 1971 Karman Ghia Volkswagon. New dash, new tires, runs great, shiny red, overall great condition. More information, (913) 263-3000 or 532-2362, #118, Michele. Leave messages please (42-

1971 FIREBIRD Formula 400-Looks good. good, $1,700. Randy, 776-3347 or 776-2054. (42-44) 1976 JEEP CJ7-Red, soft and hard tops, body semi rough, make offer 537-3692. Brian (42-43)

1975 MERCURY Bobcat - Power steering, power brakes, air conditioning, good condition. Nice. small economical car, $850 or best offer, 532-2028.

FOR SALE-MISC WATERBED-SOLID oak with high gloss finish, mat tress and heater included. Call Mark, 537-8567 (38-

ATARI 800XL, 1050 drive, $225. Radio Shack PC-2. $75. 13 inch color TV, $130. Call 532-5136. (38-42) COMMODORE 64-Disc drive, printer, monitor, and modem with various software and other hardware. Have all boxes and manuals, $750. Call Clay Walsten at 539-7561. (39-44)

COLOR TV, Hitachi, 19", warranty, $150 or best offer. Call Stuart at 537-0165 or 532-5123. (39-43)

LIKE NEW! Gibson SG standard hollow body guitar and hard case. Cherry finish. $475. Call 537-9309. (40-44)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 10/26 (with coupon) 537-3335

MIXER, PEAVEY Mark II - 7 channel, stereo with re-

verb, $300. Must sell 539-5768 (40-44) 8" OSCAR fish, $8. Call 1-494-2388 St. George (41-45) TANDY 1000, 384K, Monochrome monitor, dual disk.

Epson LX80 NLQ printer, software Call Curt, 539-8633 (42-44)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 09

1982 YAMAHA Virago 750. Bought new 14 months ago, $1,200. Call 537-0834 after 4 p.m. (42-44) BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot window sticker, area advertising, $10 Manhattan. Emergency Shelter, 537-3113, (42-43)

FOUND

FOUND-LEATHER key case and keys in Call Hall parking lot. Come to Call Hall, room 215 to identify and claim. (40-42) FOUND-BLACK leather keycase in King 204 Monday morning. Claim at campus police headquarters (42-44) 13

HELP WANTED 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/

year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia. All fields.

92625. (27-46) OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels $15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. OJ-1000, (38-44)

AVON-PART or full time in Manhattan. Start as low as $5. Call 1-494-8424. (40-44)

THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs. Room, board, salary included. 203-622-0717 or 914-273-1626. (41-43) VOCALIST AND guitarist with vocal ability wanted to complete Rock Band, Interested! Jon Rude, 539-6390. (41-42) LIVE-IN Nanny wanted. Need mature adult, nonsmoker, driver's license, enjoys children Room and board, good salary, weekends free Nine-twelve month commitment, Kansas City area. Call (816) 444-6674 collect. weekdays only.

WANTED-PIZZA delivery driver, full or part-time Must have own car and insurance. Apply at Falset-to's Pizza, 1127 Moro between 2 and 5 p.m. (42-46) NANNY POSITIONS - Live in beautiful seaside Connecticut, one hour from New York City. Choose from carefully screened families. Assist with childcare, light housekeeping Room, board, $100-$200 per week, transportation paid, 12 month stay. Care For Kids, Inc., (203) 838-6108/852-

LOST

SILVER BRACELET, about one half inch wide, looks woven. Please call 1-784-5856 after 5 p.m. (40-42)

1184. P.O. Box 27, Rowayton, CT., 06853. (42)

PERSONAL

CO-PERSONS of the RI.T.A. Committee, You're not all that bad! ,- The SAE good guys, E.G.L.P. (42)

ALPHA CHI Omega-Welcome to Homecoming with pride as our theme. Sig Alph's and Alpha Chi's make the most awesome team. We'll Yell Like Hell as we have lots of fun, and we'll build our bodies to be number 1. Our Pant the Chant could never be louder(?) and look at our float, who could be prouder? This is the week for the brew to flow, the Alph's are psyched and ready to go! - The Men of member to make an appointment with O.D. Headroom for pre-pre-pre-enrollment. (42) SIGMA NU: Good morning! We started the day in a playful way, and tho' the week is almost done, to-day's the day to show everyone that Black and Gold is number one! (42)

ELECTRICAL AND Computer Engineering students:

SIGMA ALPHA Epsilon-The time has come, it's now or never, let's win this Homecoming all to-gether. From "A Cramp Man" to the dreaded Glue Boy, we've had a blast, now let's kick some Love ya, The AX's. (42)

C.W.-It's great to be back in the saddle, we'll have a great time in Jamaica or wherever. C.B. (42)

MR. NOV.—Happy 23rd to an awesome business partner. I never knew that business meetings could be so fun! Hope your 9 to 5 is a good one! Your Kappa. (42) FORD HALL Staff-Thanks for all the support of Finkle Bowl XV. You're the greatest. - Hay Staff ing your sweet roomies, yes, us three. Look hot in that new beit but watch out-Maro might get fell Dazzle those Arizona men-remember, Sunday—don't sin! We'll see ya Monday, October 27 at Kite's—that's the date for your 21 B-day bash

ANGIE MAGES-In Arizona soon you will be, miss-so don't be late! We love ya lots Ang., you're a doll, and the greatest roommate of all! Happy B-day again! Love, Shea, Denise and Jenn! (42) JANINE—YOU are my lover, you're my best friend, you're in my heart. Thank you for three perfect.

years Love Doug (42) SIGMA NU Troy - Is it true that you love your electric

TO THE Pi Phi football coaches and players - We had a great season that we'll never forget. Thanks for helping us achieve our goal of being inframural champs! P.S. The 1-shirts are hot! (42)

TO THE extremely hot men of Phi Delta Theta—This will be the most memorable week of our fruitful and happy lives. Together we will be #1. get ex cited! The extremely hot women of Pi Beta Phi (42) JULIO, CHERIO, and Medusa - The weekend was incredible repetition is inevitable. What a riot! Warren, Jo-Greg, and the righteous dudes. (42) SHE DU's-Don't forget pictures on Friday (42-43)

SHE DU's-Check Bulletin about today's pictures BIG BASH Flash #3, to the Kappa Kappa Gamma 70th Reunion Dates Prepare for the party of the past 70 years. See you at the reunion. Gamma Alpha. (42) THE SPIRIT panner's hanging high, in Union Courtyard it will fly. Our bodybuilding is the best, we're head and shoulders above the rest. Today we will Yell Like Hell, we're the finest, if you couldn't fell Doing Homecoming has been a blast. Theta and

Sigma Nu are here to last (42) HOMECOMING IS here. Phi Delts take a look. Pi Phi's are the only girls in our address book. "Pomp Naked?", not us, we'll just drink and shout; but do Phi Delts sleep naked? You'll have to find out! (42)

PI PHI's-The time has come for all those to know who is the best and will steal the show. Wednesday is here, let the challenge begin, Phi Delts and Pi Phis are a sure bet to win. Homecoming '86 is ours at last, with Phi Delts and Pi Phis having a blast We're psyched and we're ready and willing to go let's drink lots of beer and spend lots of dough. So if you haven't figured it out by now, we're going to win this competition, boy and how Let's do it Love—The Phi Delts. (42) TRI SIGMA Edie and Sigma Chi Frank: You ve worked hard and need a rest, but hang on in for you're the best. Just a few more days and you shall see, what winners you made us to be! Thanks for all your work. Becky. (42) TRI SIGMAS: You re not too sneaky but that's okay, for we got you back early today! We're having some fun! Bound to win, Sigma Chis. (42) CHRISTINE-HAPPY 24th Birthday! I'm looking for luck with your long day today. Love, Carl (42) THE PIKES-Yabba Dabba Doo! -Pr's PS The Annex luvs yal (42) PAT AND Vanna are at KSU today, they are funny as hell, whatever they say. The Union Courtyard is the place to observe Pat's humor and Vanna's pretty face. ATO's-DDD's #1. Watch the Wheel. (42)

ward to helping you celebrate this weekend. Good

THE HOMECOMING committees have done super great, everything we planned is certainly first rate We've worked really hard, but more importantly had fun, all to come out on top, #1. Many thanks to DDD's Mary M., Kristie H., Lisa S., and ATO's Jim H., Allen H., Bret F., Tim C., Ed N., and Jeff L. (42)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom, completely furnished, 776-4794 before 7 p.m., or 537-0751 evenings (41-45) OWN BATHROOM plus bedroom in luxury two bedroom detached apartment, $200/month plus utili ties. 532-5932, ext. 31 (day); 539-2158 (evening), (41) RESPONSIBLE ROOMMATE, for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neighborhood, November rent is already paid. Call 537-9439, late is okay. (41-

17

18

22

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180, 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111) MARY KAY Cosmetics-100% fragrance free Clinically tested for skin irritancy and allergy. Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246 (27tf)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-

GRADUATE STUDENTS: Have your dissertation, thesis, or term paper word processed. Letter quality, reasonable rates, 532-2362 (131), leave message.

WANTED TO BUY

494-2388 (41-50)

WANTED-FOUR KSU-MU tootball tickets. Phone 776-6467 evenings. (42-44)

Prices Effective Oct. 22 - 28, 1986 - Limit Rights Reserved - Prices Not Effective in Pittsburg, Kansas.

DILLONS DOUBLE YOUR SAVINGS ON ALL MANUFACTURER'S "CENTS OFF" COUPONS UP TO AND INCLUDING 50¢

IN VALUE.

One Whole 8 Piece Golden

Ready To Eat Fully Cooked. Hot Dogs, Polish Sausage, or Hot Links

35° Each

Hydrox Ice Cream Bars

6 Pack

American 1 Beautv

Elbo-Roni, Shell-Roni, or Long Spaghetti, 16 oz. pkg.

"Bonus Pack"

Coca-Cola Classic, Coke. Diet Coke, Cherry Coke, Diet Cherry Coke, Caffeine Free Coke, Caffeine Free Diet Coke. Sprite. Diet Sprite

BONUS Special

2 Liter

Book Of The Week From The New York Times Best Seller List

Une more Time

from our Plant Dept. . .

Remember Your Mother-In-Law With A

BONUS Special

Each

"Remember Your Mother-In-Law" On Her Special Day,

October 26th With A Beautiful Arrangement of 3 Roses In A Bud Vase

Concentrated

Limit One 12 oz. Can w/Coupon

COUPON BELOW!

BONUS Special!

Pure Vegetable

3 Lb. Can COUPON BELOW!

Limit One 3 Lb. Can w/Coupon

Register for a 12 pc. set of Durand International Gennine Lead Crystal (51 value). See Crisco display in store for details.

The Red McClure Potato

The Red McClure has many outstanding qualities It is probably the outstanding red potato in this country. It has unusual flavor and cooking qualities equally well suited to baking frying boiling or mashing Regardless of the prepar ation it always comes out fluffy light and flavorful. U.S. #1 Colorado Red McClure Potatoes

Limit One 50 Lb. Bag W/Coupon

COUPON BELOW! 50 Lb. Bag

Bulk . . . 12¢ Lb.

10 Lb. Bag . . . $1.29

COUPON BELOW! 5 Lb. Chub

Limit One 5 Lb. Chub w/Coupon

Super Coupon...

U.S. #1 Colorado Red McClure Potatoes

COUPON (Limit One 50 Lb. Bag w/Coupon.) (Double Coupon Program Does Not Apply.

Pure Vegetable Shortening

3 Lb. Can Regular or Butter Flavor COUPON

(Limit One 3 Lb. Can w/Coupon) (Double Coupon Program Does Not Apply.)

Super Coupon... Super Coupon... Frozen Concentrated

Donald Duck Orange Juice

69¢ COUPON High Pulp. (Limit One 12 oz. Can w/Coupon.)

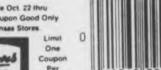

(Double Coupon Program Does Not Apply.)

Super Coupon...

79¢ COUPON (Limit One 5 Lb. Chub w/Coupon.)

(Double Coupon Program Does Not Apply.)

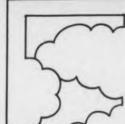

Handicap Access

Students with physical limitations find class attendance and entrance to local businesses difficult because of continuing accessibility problems. See Page 7.

Weather

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy today, high in low 60s. Winds northerly 5 to 15 mph. A 30 percent chance of light rain tonight.

Sports

Running Right

Tony Jordan is leading the pack of K-State running backs while adding to Coach Stan Parrish's passing game. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Thursday

October 23, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 43

Staff/Andy Nelson

Athletic Director Larry Travis announces Wednesday the reinstatement of Norris Coleman by the NCAA to play this season. The information was provided in the letter lying in front of Travis. However, the NCAA declared there was a misunderstanding; Coleman is still ineligible.

Confusion clouds Coleman eligibility

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

K-State Athletic Director Larry Travis announced Wednesday the National Collegiate Athletic Association had informed him K-State basketball star Norris Coleman would be eligible to play during the 1986-87 school year, but the NCAA is denying that is what they told K-State.

At a press conference, K-State announced that an NCAA representative had written K-State's Associate Athletic Director Lee Moon and informed him Coleman would be eligible at the

The National Collegiate Athletic Association

As you know, the Eligibility Committee's original decision in this case was that Culeman was invitigable for intercollegiate athletis participation (cractice and competition) in the spect of banketball for one year (until February 27, 1942) under the provisions of REAR Mylaw 5-1-(1)-(2) and 5-6-(1)-further, the young man was required to impay the value of aid be received improperly or an athletic grant in aid should be withheld from him for the 1986-87 academic year.

In April 79 I spoke by telephone with Nob Smell concerning a sensors by Fancas State to allow the institution to provide Coleman with financial aid during the 1966 H academic year a review of the concluded that it would be permissible for integer with concluded that it would be permissible for integer the ever aid and practice with the team since mylay 5 (1) applied only in the young man's initial year in sentence at the university. However, Coleman was charged with a season of competition pursuant to Lose No. 356 (page 200, 1906 %) REAR Amough). As you know, this decision was upheld to the Subcommittee on Eligibility Appeals.

In reviewing Coleman's whighthis under Sylev 5-1-(d) formatted comparities, it is superior that the young san attached the comparities of the ground san attached compared to the compared that is superior to the compared to nont reoperation in this matter has been appreciated. If you we further questions, please contact me.

beginning of the 1986-87 school year.

The new interpretation - K-State athletic officials thought - stipulated the 25-year-old Army veteran would lose one year of eligibility, but be able to play for the entire 1986-87 season. However, following the afternoon press conference, the NCAA began informing inquiring members of the press K-State had erred in its interpertation of the letter written by L. Douglas Johnson, the NCAA's director of Legislative Ser-

The fourth paragraph of the letter was what generated the confusion. In it, Johnson wrote:

'In reviewing Coleman's eligibility under Bylaw 5-1-(d) it is apparent that the young man utilized one season of competition during the 1985-86 academic year and is charged with one season under Case No. 356. Therefore, he has two years of competition beginning with the 1986-87 academic year."

"Kansas State may have misinterpreted the content of Doug Johnson's letter," Jim Marchiony, an NCAA spokesman, told The Associated Press when informed of K-State's announcement. "But the full decision was made clear to Kansas State in April. The line in Doug Johnson's letter says that he has two years of competition beginning with the 1986-87 academic year is technically correct.

"If he sits out this entire year he's got two full years left. If he sits out til Feb. 26 and plays the

See COLEMAN, Page 12

Norris Coleman's fight for eligibility became more tangled with the announcement by Travis and the denial by NCAA officials.

In reviewing Coleman's eligibility under Bylaw 5-1-(d) [seasons of competition it is apparent that the young man utilized one season of competition during the 1985-86 academic year and is charged with one season under Case No. 356. Therefore, he has two years of competition [under Bylaw 5-1-(d)] beginning with he 1986-87 academic year.

Reagan says America wins, signs tax code "the most sweeping overhaul of the By The Associated Press WASHINGTON - With the stroke of several pens and a renewed vow to oppose tax increases, President Reagan signed into law on Wednesday a far-reaching tax overhaul that he termed a victory for fairness and nothing short of a revolution.

"I feel like we've just played the World Series of tax reform. And the American people won," Reagan said after using a fistful of pens to put his name to the 879-page bill printed on artificial parchment.

'This is a tax code designed to take us into a future of technological invention and economic achievement, one that will keep America competitive and growing into the 21st Century," Reagan told an applauding crowd of aides, a dozen members of Congress and scores of corporate officials invited to the ceremonies on the sunny South Lawn of the White House.

He praised members of Congress and of his administration who led the fight for the bill, which he termed tax code in our nation's history." He mentioned the two chief authors of the measure, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., who did not attend, and Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who did.

The new tax plan, which Reagan put at the top of his second-term agenda, is patterned after the one he sent to Congress on May 19, 1985: significantly lower tax rates and a tax base broadened by elimination or reduction of several deductions and exclusions.

Most provisions take effect next Jan. 1, although many will be phased in gradually. The new law will cut taxes by an average of 6.1 percent for three-quarters of Americans and raise taxes on corporations by $120 billion over the next five years. By 1988 the top individual tax rate will be cut to 33 percent from the present 50 percent; the 46 percent maximum corporate rate will drop to 34 per-

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 will af-

See TAX, Page 11

Retailer questions police management of crowd's actions

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

While city officials and some merchants have commended police response to Saturday night's disturbance, one Aggieville business manager strongly disagrees.

Tammy Saum, manager of Carousel, 1215 Moro St., said she couldn't understand why merchants, who were so upset Saturday night, currently are saying the police did a good job.

Saum said some merchants have told her that "if you cause too many problems, they (the police) aren't going to help you at all (in the future).'

Saum said she was called to Carousel at 11 p.m. Saturday, and upon arrival found "a bunch of people on my roof."

Between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m., both of the display windows were shattered, she said.

Saum said she called the RCPD twice, and the second time was allowed to talk to a lieutenant.

"He told me the majority of officers down here were trying to keep the crowd under control," she said. At that moment a body flew through her window. Saum said the first police officer she saw on the street was early Sunday morning.

"He was standing beside my building smoking a cigarette," she said. "He peeked in my window, and I asked where he'd been all night. He said he'd been in back of my store trying to get people off my roof all

Saum said she knew this was untrue because she had observed another individual defending her store roof.

In an earlier incident, Saum said she saw a man steal a pair of sunglasses from the Optical Studio, and a man from Ballard's grab him. When a police officer arrived, she said, he made the man put the sunglasses back, then let the perpetrator go.

"I couldn't believe the things that went on that night," she said. "If people are causing problems and know the police won't offer any assistance, they have no reason to

Police officers were not instructed to relax law enforcement during the disturbance, said Alvan Johnson, director of the Riley County Police Department.

"We never tell our officers not to enforce the law," Johnson said. "In fact, it was just the opposite."

He said there was some confusion

See MERCHANT, Page 11

Area now eligible for federal grants, loans

L. Douglas Johnson

L. Douglas Johnson

Director of legislative Services

Reagan declares disaster in 7 counties of southeast Kansas

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan on Wednesday signed Gov. John Carlin's request for a declaration of disaster for seven floodravaged counties in southeast Kan-

The disaster declaration covers the counties of Allen, Bourbon, Chautauqua, Labette, Montgomery, Neosho and Wilson and will trigger federal grant and low-interest loan programs for residents and businesses which suffered damage in flooding earlier this month. Flood damage to agricultural land, private non-agricultural land and public property in that area has been set at $122.8 million.

The flooding took place Oct. 2-4 when heavy rainfall inundated the counties, pushing many area rivers out of their banks and sparking flash floods which swamped low-lying agricultural fields, homes and businesses. Besides extensive damage to homes, farms and businesses, hundreds of livestock drowned in the high waters. The presidential disaster designation makes people and businesses in the seven counties eligible to receive grants and low-interest loans to be coordinated by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. Providing temporary housing is a top priority and grants will be offered to those displaced by the

The federal Small Business Ad- disaster centers where victims could loans available to those wishing to rebuild their homes. Flood victims can apply for up to $120,000, to be repaid over 30 years at an annual interest rate of 4 percent or 8 percent, depending on the financial position of each applicant.

The SBA also will offer loans of 4 percent to 7.5 percent for businesses needing to repair physical damage. Those loans must be repaid in three years. Loans to help businesses recover from economic injury suffered due to the floods also will be available.

FEMA officials will announce later this week details for taking applications and is considering opening ministration will make low-interest submit applications for federal assistance. Earlier Wednesday in Topeka, Carlin asked for a presidential declaration of disaster for damage to agriculture, public property and watershed districts suffered in 12 southeast Kansas counties.

In a letter to the Federal Emergency Management Agency's regional office in Kansas City, Mo., Carlin renewed his earlier request for a major disaster declaration for individuals and businesses in seven counties: Allen, Bourbon, Chautauqua, Labette, Montgomery, Neosho and Wilson.

The governor went on to request the declaration for public property damage in those seven counties, plus Cherokee, Cowley, Crawford, Elk and Linn counties. And he requested a major disaster declaration for agricultural destruction in all those same counties except Cherokee and Linn.

"All of this was a result of the heavy rains over a month period that ended with a 5-10 inch rainfall during the period Oct. 2-4," Carlin said in his letter. "The surveys have been concluded, however, undiscovered damage is still being reported."

Damage estimates for agricultural property was placed at $100 million and $12.8 million for public property.

"It has been determined that this disaster is of such severity and magnitude that effective recovery is beyond the capabilities of state and affected local governments and that supplementary federal assistance is necessary," Carlin said.

Carlin is seeking implementation of a public assistance program for damage to city and county roads, bridges and other public property. Under the program, the federal government supplied 75 percent of the funds, the state chips in 10 percent and the local government's share is 15 percent.

The governor also is seeking authorization of low-interest loans for farmers through the Farmers Home Administration to help them recover from the agricultural damage.

INTERNATIONAL

Soviets report execution of traitor

MOSCOW - The official Soviet news agency Tass on Wednesday announced the execution of a Soviet man who was accused of working for the CIA and reportedly was turned in to the KGB by American defector Edward Lee Howard, a former CIA employee.

Tass did not say when the Soviet, Adolf Tolkachev, was executed. A U.S. newspaper reported earlier this year that Tolkachev had been Spy trials and executions are not always reported by the Soviet press, and when they are, the reports sometimes come long after the trials take place.

The announcement of Tolkachev's execution came during a period of heightened Soviet-U.S. tension over a series of diplomatic expul-

A military tribunal convicted Tolkachev of "high treason in the form of spying," Tass said. The agency said Tolkachev was executed after an appeal was turned down. Executions in the Soviet Union normally are carried out by Tass described Tolkachev as "a staff worker of a Moscow research

U.S. troops to pull out of Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia - American troops and helicopters that were sent to Bolivia to assist in an all-out push against the flourishing drug trade will begin pulling out this week, the U.S. Embassy said

At least 30 of the 174 American soldiers and three of their six Black Hawk helicopters have flown from Trinidad to Santa Cruz, 250 miles to the south. From there they will return to their bases in Panama or the United States, said embassy spokesman Mark Jacobs.

Trinidad, a tropical city in the Beni region northeast of La Paz, has been the base for the war against the drug trade. The Americans arrived July 14 and have given logistical support to specially trained Bolivian police during raids on cocaine laboratories.

At least half of the Americans will be out of Trinidad by this weekend and the rest will be out of Bolivia by Nov. 15, Jacobs said. They had planned to leave by mid-September, but Bolivian authorities asked them to stay until Nov. 15 to assure continuity in

After the U.S. troops leave, the United States will loan Bolivia at least six Huey helicopters to replace the Black Hawks and will train Bolivian pilots to fly them, the U.S. Embassy said.

The raids destroyed 18 major jungle laboratories that once turned cocaine paste into pure cocaine, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration says.

REGIONAL

Owner of song-inspiring cabin dies

KENSINGTON - A funeral service was conducted Tuesday for Peter A. Rust, the owner of the cabin where "Home on the Range" was written.

Rust died Oct. 17. He was 82.

In the 1930s, Rust bought the cabin and surrounding land. In 1872, Dr. Higley Brewster wrote the poem that became Kansas' state song. He described in it the abundance of deer and antelope on the banks of West Beaver Creek near his Smith County home in north central

The future of the cabin is uncertain. Rust and his wife, Ellen, who survives him, had maintained the cabin and conducted tours.

NATIONAL

Americans say wealth important

NEW YORK - Money is the leading cause of family arguments in America, people are borrowing record amounts to maintain living standards, and a third of U.S. adults believe their sex lives could improve if they were wealthier, according to a survey released Wednes-

"Americans and Their Money 1986," sponsored by Money magazine, also found that 80 percent of those surveyed prefer U.S.-made goods but believe foreign products are more economical, 54 percent favor import taxes to protect domestic manufacturers, and only 19 percent support the sweeping new tax law.

Other findings in the 262-page national survey: 45 percent of those surveyed were dissatisfied with their financial situation; more people think President Reagan's policies have hurt than helped this past year; one in 10 households has no savings; and women were only about half as likely as men to understand common financial terms, such as "Dow Jones Industrial Average."

The annual survey was released at a news conference by Money magazine, a monthly owned by Time Inc. It was done by Lieberman Research Inc., a New York-based pollster that has conducted the survey since its inception in 1983.

Casual sex dangerous, report says

WASHINGTON - Offering a prescription for avoidance of AIDS, the surgeon general counseled Americans Wednesday to disdain "freewheeling casual sex" and begin sex education for children as early as the third grade.

Dr. C. Everett Koop, releasing a report on the increasing problem of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, said the disease already has killed almost 15,000 people. He said the figure will increase 12-fold in another five years.

Because an estimated 1.5 million people are infected with the virus, and because these people are able to spread the virus to others, each individual must take steps to avoid the disease, Koop told a news

President Reagan had asked Koop to put together a report explaining the disease to the public. In his report, the surgeon general said education and so-called "safe sex" are key weapons against AIDS until vaccines and effective treatments are developed.

American Eagle tender sales soar

WEST POINT, N.Y. - Buyers spurred by "patriotic fervor" snapped up the initial 800,000 American Eagle coins in two days, and officials were scrambling Wednesday to increase production of the nation's first gold legal tender in 53 years.

"They were going like hotcakes and I think it's great," said Clifford M. Barber, superintendent of the West Point Bullion Depository, the only facility minting the coin. The depository has been functioning around the clock, seven days a week since Sept. 8, when the first coin was struck, Barber said.

Treasury officials in Washington said they were postponing sales until Monday.

Some of the 25 dealers around the world authorized to distribute the coins attributed the rapid disappearance of their inventories to surging U.S. patriotism and the allure of a sure investment.

"I think that here's a patriotic fervor within the American public," said Richard Glassman, a precious metals dealer for Credit Suisse in

Other reasons cited by dealers for the coin's attractiveness were the stability of the U.S. economy, the strength of gold as an investment and controversy surrounding the South African Krugerrand because of that country's apartheid system of racial discrimination.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be Monday and Tuesday. For more information, call 532-5566 beteen 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING SPIRIT MARCH AND BONFIRE has been rescheduled for 8:30 p.m. today in Memorial Stadium.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for student cancer research awards for $500 in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec. 5.

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208. KAPPA DELTA PI will have a reception for prospective members at 2:30 p.m. in Bluemont Dean's Conference Room.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 201.

ORDER OF OMEGA meets at 4:30 p.m. in

SIGMA DELTA PI meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Chung Hur Lee at 10:30 a.m. in Durland 127. The topic will be "A Study of the Hydrodynamics and Bubble Phenomena in Gas-Liquid Airlift

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

orrection

In Wednesday's Collegian, it was incorrectly reported that there was one K-State wildcat mascot living at the Sunset Zoo. The zoo has not had a mascot in residence since 1978.

AGC STUDENT CHAPTER SEMINAR meets

AGRICULTURE ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 7 p.m. at Campbell's Distributors, 825 Levee

GOLDEN KEY meets at 6:45 p.m. in Union 212. Yearbook pictures will be taken after meeting. RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 204.

STUDENT SENATE meets at 6:30 p.m. in OMICRON NU will have initiation at 7 p.m. in Union Flint Hills Room.

Union Big Eight Room

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE EN-TREPRENEURS meets for group pictures at 4:20 p.m. in Fairchild 202. Meeting will be at 5 p.m. in Calvin 102.

ZAMBIAN STUDENTS will have a 22nd Independence Anniversary at 8:30 p.m. in the lower level of University for Man.

SHE DUs meet for Little Sister pictures from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. in Quinlan

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Hung Hwan Lee at 2:30 p.m. in Cardwell 143. The topic will be "Structure and Dimension of Direchlet Sets.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Collegian Coupons

Cafe Latino

Thursday's Special

Lg. Beef Sancho, Lg. Taco and Iced Tea $2.95

606 N. 12th across from Bonkers Aggieville open daily 11 a.m.-late

Fun Fun

For

For Fun

Fun

For

For

50¢ Steins

Homecoming Special To "Shampoo" the TIGERS

10% off on all services

10% off on all merchandise

(This includes Lamaur, Nexxus & Redken hair products) Offer expires 10/31/86 (with coupon)

Make an appointment now with Brandy, Cheri, Darlene, Eileen, Kathy or Kitty.

seauty 126 Saber Lane - Between K-mart & Wal-mart

8 P.M., OCT. 24 AHEARN FIELDHOUSE TICKET PRICE $11.50, $12.50 KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

Available in the K-State Union Box Office and the Sound Shop in Aggieville. For more ticket info or charge by phone call (913) 532-6589.

With Special Guests

Wk-state union 97 fm

LIVING ETHICAL WILLS

Union State Room #3 12:00 Noon TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest" of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

> Owen Koeppe University Provost

ROD

FORT SCOTT v. KSU

Alumni Match Rodeo

Where: Manhattan Round-up Club Arena (Turn east on 1st gravel road north of Rocky Ford Trailer Court—signs)

When: performances at 3 p.m. Sat. 10-25-86 & 1:30, Sunday 10-26-86

DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT Presenting: The Arkansas Travelers When: Saturday, 10-25-86, 7-Midnight Where: Fields of Fair ($4 at the door)

Dance is being sponsored by Fields of Fair and B & B Distributor, your local Miller rep.

999999999999999999999999999999

Homecoming 1986 Bonfire

Tonight at 9 p.m. Old Stadium KSU Pep Band KSU Cheerleaders

Larry Travis, Stan Parrish and Team Pant the Chant Contest

Pre-Bonfire Spirit Parade

Starting at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Durland Hall parking lot. Come and join the pep band for a parade to the bonfire!

Don't Forget Ambassador Voting Today in the Union!

Andrea Allen, sophomore in human ecology, takes time out Wednesday to give blood while Kim Stasa, nurse technician, holds a cloth on Allen's arm during the American Red Cross blood drive in the Union Ballroom.

Bloodmobile sets goal for K-State; University may double KU's pints

By LISA ALLSPACH Collegian Reporter

The familiar white trucks with the red crosses parked outside the Union signify another blood drive for K-State students.

The drive is being sponsored by the Circle K International, a service organization for the college community from a chapter of the Kiwanis Club. The bloodmobile is operated by the Wichita Regional Blood Services and members of the Red Cross.

The goal set for K-State for this drive is 1,400 pints, said Troy Millsap, student co-chairman of the K-State bloodmobile. This goal is almost double the goal set for the University of Kansas this fall. For a three-day blood drive, the goal for KU was set at 800 pints. Millsap said KU did not meet the goal and was able to contribute only 727 pints.

"It is not a contest to see how many pints we can get," said Suzanne Malcolm, registered nurse and head

Home-

comina

set goals to meet the needs of the hospitals we supply.

K-State volunteers had already surpassed KU's collection in the first 2 days of the drive. The Wichita service collects close to 100,000 units every year. The bloodmobile visits K-State once every semester.

The Wichita Red Cross bloodmobile services 101 counties including 140 hospitals in Kansas and the northern half of Oklahoma.

The blood collected is also exported around the world as it is needed. Usually exported blood consists of rare types. The Wichita service has a rare donor file and consultation service to help make emergency blood transfers as smooth as possible. Malcolm said she was personally involved with a transfer to a blood bank in Australia.

After the blood has been donated, it is immediately stored in insulated blood boxes, containing ice packs, which cool and stabilize the blood temperature at 37 degrees

Auntie

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

nurse for the bloodmobile. "We have Fahrenheit. Periodically, the blood boxes are transferred to the mobile unit to be taken to more permanent

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight

Once in "permanent" storage, the blood kept for immediate use is held at a constant temperature just above freezing. The blood's shelf life is 35 days. However, with the usage required by hospitals, the bloodmobile's outdate rate for blood has been kept down to 0.5 percent, said Linda Koester, registered

537-7340 1110 Laramie

October 27-November 1

Professors' art to be shown at national museum exhibit

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Collegian Reporter

Artwork by two K-State art professors will be part of the premiere exhibit in the new National Museum for Women in the Arts, in Washington, D.C.

Associate Professor James Munce and Assistant Professor Margo Kren were two of 212 Kansas artists who submitted work. Forty-four of the 212 artists had work sent to Dodge Thompson, curator for the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. Thompson then recommended more than 50 artworks by 24 Kansas ar-

The exhibit, called "A Kansas Collection," will be displayed at the opening of the NMWA. Kansas was the first state invited to display artwork in the museum.

Kren described her paintings as multicolored. She said a piece titled "Blindfolded" is a play on the notion that sometimes one can see a subject when, figuratively, one is in the dark.

The painting is one of 13 Kren did while at an artist residency in Lake Forest, Ill. The residency was sponsored by the Ragdale Foundation. which gave Kren the title of the series, "Ragdale Series.

"It is a place for writers and artists to go to work," she said. "After acceptance, you go there and work as long as you want without any interuptions. Even mail is optional."

Munce had three prints selected. They are titled "St. Francis Ringing Bells," "St. Francis Throwing a Snowball at an Apparition" and "Gadering Swine.

Munce describes his work as figurative images with religious or allegorical connotations. He does prints rather than paintings, and he said it can take anywhere from six months to one year to do a single

Both artists said they have been submitting art for review for about 20 years. Kren said she is at a crossroads now in her work.

"I have accomplished many of the goals I set when I started - not everything, but close," she said. 'Now I'm starting to think about the next 20 years (and) where I want to Kren said she was surprised and happy with the painting that was picked. She thought Thompson would choose a crowd-pleaser, but he picked a difficult piece.

Munce didn't even venture a guess. 'You can never second-guess a juror," he said.

Neither artist plans to attend the opening of the museum, which will take place in April. However, they may get to see the exhibit. Plans are being made for it to be shown in Kan-

Senate to vote on extra allocations

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will vote on whether to allocate money to three campus organizations which overspent last year during its meeting

Senate will also decide whether to increase the amount of money originally allocated for two other groups during tentative allocations last spring.

Student Governing Association is requesting $820 from senate to help cover the $1,648.15 it overspent last

Jennifer Johnston, SGA secretary, said most of the money overspent was for advertising and data processing.

The FONE Crisis Center is reqesting $235.48 so it can purchase a new answering machine. The cost of repairing the old machine would pay for a new one, said Paul Nelson, junior in pre-nursing and representative for the center.

Legal Services is requesting $235.48 to cover its expenditures for professional and scientific equipment and supplies and in private car

Two groups are appealing for an increase in money allocated last year. U-LearN is requesting for a $750 increase and the Women's Resource Center is requesting a $623.18 increase.

Jada Allerheiligen

CONGRATULATIONS CHRISTIE

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

50¢ off All Imports

> All Day THURSDAYS

HOME OF THE AROUND the WORLD BEER CLUB

Open at noon Sundays!

$25 COUPON

With this coupon, purchase a pair of prescription eyeglasses (frame and lenses) and receive $25 OFF our regular low price!

- —Invisible Bifocals
- -Ultra-thin Cataract Lenses
- -Designer Frames
- -Plastic Lightweight Lenses

We can fill your doctor's prescription.

*Minimum cost after discount—$24.95

Some Boutique Frames Not Included. We Use the Highest Quality Lenses! This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical promotion.

SALE ENDS: Oct. 25, 1986

1210 MORO • 537-1574 Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

ALL DRINKS

$1.50 ANY NAME ANY BRAND 531 N. Manhattan

Office: Bar: 539-4321 539-9727

BAR 539-9727

531 N. Manhattan

OFFICE 539-4321

Now even

for prices

State of Kansas Students,

Faculty, Employees.

ONLY

monitor $1178

PC4i - $2615

monochrome

2 drive

PC4i - $2960

2 drive, color monitor

$1399

Super System Special $1599

PC4i, 10Mb hard disk, color monitor

Foresight Solutions of Lawrence is exclusively administering this purchase program.

awarded a contract to supply the State of Kansas with microcomputer equipment. Discount prices are being offered to all students and faculty and to all State employees. This special purchase program will apply to the full NCR microcomputer product line and related accessories. All computers are discounted at least 36%, with a 50% savings on the PC4i.

NCR Corporation has been

Please call for a FREE product brochure.

available only from:

(913) 842-7526 804 New Hampshire

Lawrence, KS. 66044

Open 7 days a week W W A M Free Delivery HUNAM EXPRESS 11 a.m.-1 a.m. 537-0886

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

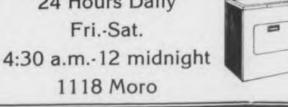

Restaurant 1304 Westloop 539-8888

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH 75¢ Wash

25¢ Dry "Free Parking" Visit our back room.

Open Sun.-Thurs. 24 Hours Daily Fri.-Sat.

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

State should support amendment on liquor hypocritical liquor laws. One of the proposed constitutional the ballot will regard liquor by the drink.

This will not be a wet or dry issue; Kansans will only decide how they will be wet. Currently, any person over 21 can obtain liquor in Kansas at any package store. Kansas is already wet.

This is not a moral, safety, or consumption issue. It is one of economic benefit to Kansas.

First of all, liquor is not immoral. It is used in many religious services, and references to its use are made in the Bible. However, morality should not enter into the decision. Morals are a matter of personal choice and should not be forced on an entire population.

Second, this is not a consumption issue. After the last liberalization of the liquor laws in 1979, consumption increased slightly, peaked in 1982, and has declined since. Per capita consumption is lower today at 1.22 gallons than it was two years before liberalization of the laws when consumption stood at 1.26 more restaurant, convention and gallons.

ve this. Recently, Oklahoma taxes, because consumption in reported that liquor consumption Kansas won't change. actually decreased after the first year of liquor by the drink.

and Texas, states that have approved liquor by the drink since 1970. Consumption has declined help.

On Nov. 4, Kansans will decide nationwide every year since 1979, whether to end the state's and is expected to continue. This is believed to be a result of increased emphasis on health and amendments that will appear on safety factors and stricter enforcement of the laws.

> Regarding safety, research refutes the idea that liquor by the drink causes more deaths on the highway. A study in seven states that have had liquor by the drink for 20 years indicated that there was not a significant change in drunken driving, automobile accident rates, or crime after the liquor laws were changed.

> Recent statistics from Oklahoma show a decrease in drinking-related fatalities and arrests because of tougher laws. However, the most important thing to remember is liquor can be purchased in stores now; we already have liquor by the drink.

> The current drinking laws in Kansas are hypocritical because they say it is all right for Kansans to purchase liquor by the drink using the club card system, but not outsiders.

Liquor by the drink will help tourism grow. Economic advantages will stem from business expansion that will result from recreational trade, not from in-Statistics from Oklahoma pro- creased liquor revenues and

If an end is put to the hypocrisy now, resources now devoted to Consumption also declined in the enforcement of the club North Carolina, South Carolina system, can be diverted toward programs that will help the abuser in need of immediate

Death penalty won't stop criminal actions

Kansans will be confronted with many issues to ponder. One of these issues is whether to reinstate the death penalty in Kansas. It is important for voters to know the facts about the death penalty.

The death penalty does not deter crime. In 1976, the U.S. Supreme Court analyzed a 25-year study of crime statistics conducted by various researchers. The high court found no conclusive evidence that the death penalty deters crime. The United Nations has reached similar conclusions.

The death penalty does not save money. A 1982 study in New York found the average murder trial and appeals, which are required before a criminal can be executed, cost the taxpayers $1.8 million. This is more than twice the amount needed to keep a criminal in prison for life. This does not take into account the costs of the execution itself.

Not all families of murdered loved ones favor the death penalty. In fact, many familes of murdered people realize after the execution that society cannot condemn murder by committing murder. One such widow, Coretta Scott King, has said, "As one whose husband and mother-inlaw have both died the victims of

With the upcoming election murder, I stand firmly and unequivocally opposed to the death penalty. An evil deed is not redeemed by an evil deed of retaliation."

The death penalty cannot be undone. Since the turn of the century an average of one convicted murderer per year was later found innocent. One must wonder how many of the people executed in the United States each year have been innocent.

The death penalty will not solve the problem of overcrowded prisons. There simply are not enough executions to make a significant difference. However, the answer is not to execute more individuals at an increasingly higher cost to taxpayers, but to devote the money now used for appeals and executions to better prison facilities.

In addition, some money could be used to institute more rehabilitation programs for prisoners who can be rehabilitated. This would allow more rehabilitated prisoners to return to society rather than simply letting prisoners go to make space.

The death penalty does not solve problems but distracts the public's attention to make it think that a political candidate is fighting crime.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author must be included.

and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number

Soviet citizens differ from leaders

Re: Phil Nordhus' column, "Soviet travel laws confuse tourists," in the Oct. 14 Col-

It all began with Nordhus' column chastising the lack of across-the-board conformity of West European nations to U.S. policies as somehow insubordinate and mutinous (even in the case of non-NATO member France). More recently printed was the column suggesting, among other things, that the ruled in the Soviet Union would promptly boot out the rulers if only they had the opportunity.

It is the latter I would like to consider by drawing into question the accuracy of Nordhus' conclusions regarding Soviet citizens based on observations during his trip to the Soviet Union. I hope that his article does not reflect the depth of the experience or thought on the matter. But with the exception of the events at train stations, an airport and a border crossing, he could've recounted the same observations just by watching the videotapes of someone else who made the

To begin with, Nordhus' apparent belief that the term "Soviet" refers to the rulers in the Soviet Union while "Russian" refers to the ruled is absolutely wrong. The Soviet Union is comprised of a multitude of nationalities, cultures and languages. The term "Russian," properly employed, thus refers to only one segment, although the predominant one, of Soviet society.

Keeping in mind the meaning of the words "Russian" and "Soviet" as Nordhus employs them, I would like to respond to his sureness that "...if the Russians had it their way, they would have sent the Soviets with us on that plane ride out of Moscow." Such a presumption couldn't be less accurate. Indeed, the vast majority of Soviet citizens (Russians included) approve and are supportive of their government.

Several of my Soviet friends (I recently spent six weeks studying Russian in the Soviet Union) confided that they are among the small percentage who find themselves greatly at odds with the current ideology and power structure in their country. They see the government's tight control on information and ideas as the principle tool for channeling, manipulating and maintaining public support. This helps to explain much of the paranoia and hostility to which Westerners find themselves subjected in encounters with Soviet officialdom.

ROBERT DUBOIS Guest Columnist

Friends also portrayed the basis for this support in a historical context. In spite of widespread chronic shortages of basic goods and services. Soviets rightly see themselves as living in a time of relative economic stability in contrast to the ravages and utter devastation which have repeatedly beset them in this century and centuries past.

Furthermore, the importance of the roles in Russian and Soviet history of the complementary concepts of poryadok, or order and the kolyektive, or collective, cannot be overemphasized. These concepts are the evolutionary products of centuries of intense social forces and play a leading role in what many Westerners see as the passive, complacent submission to the totalitarian authority of the state.

Most Soviets do not see themselves, even in the remotest sense, as active participants in the politics of their government and so also tend not to feel a large degree of responsibility for its policies. Nevertheless, and contrary to what Nordhus would have us believe, they do generally look to their government as both their protector and provider, in a paternal authoritarian sense.

The experiences Nordhus related to us with regard to his encounters with Soviet officials, from customs agents to Intourist guides, are not uncommon to Westerners traveling to the Soviet Union. Such experiences serve well to illustrate a level of contempt on the part of the Soviet government for the rights of its citizens and its paranoid fear of contact between them and unlaundered Western information and ideas. Unfortunately, most Westerners usually find themselves limited by a language barrier and always subjected to strict time and travel restrictions. Hence, opportunities are sparse for getting away from the ominous and cold official side of Soviet society to meet and get to know ordinary citizens.

Thursday, October 23, 1986 - 4

Contrary to Nordhus' suggestion that conformity is assured through "the end of a gun barrel," maintenance of conformity is made possible by limiting the citizenry to a meager diet of ideas and information and by the maintenance of a relatively stable, although stagnant and impotent, economy

For those who play the game well, privileges, many of which are often black market (nalyeva) derived, are frequently more important than traditional workderived income as a determinant of personal wealth, and thus as a factor distinguishing individuals from their peers by economic and social class. For those who choose not to play the game by the rules and for others who simply do not agree with the parameters established under current party ideology, the KGB and militsia do stand by with impressive force to coerce and reform the maleable and sweep the others under the

The presumption that the "Russians, for the most part, are like you and me; they want the same freedoms and rights as we do..." also needs to be redressed. I would argue that while we all want "freedoms and rights," these would likely not be the same freedoms and rights, and certainly the right to take pictures at train stations and airports would not top a typical Soviet's list.

Finally, regarding the departure of Nordhus' group from the Soviet Union, what was the occasion for their applause? Did they feel as though they had just completed the last leg of some sort of treacherous adventure?

The Soviet Union is not comprised of a singular, homogeneous and blind flock of sheep, nor is it a burning caldron of revolutionary protagonists waiting for the proper moment to launch violent revolution. The longer one is there, the more one realizes that Soviet society is dynamic and threedimensional, a complex web of cultural, social and political strata - a land of

Robert Dubois is a senior in milling science and manage-

Press clouds superpower spy

The other day someone asked me a question about politics. What's surprising, though, is this person expected an answer. If I had answers instead of questions, I explained, then I'd be a politician.

Consider, for example, the last round of reprisals and counterreprisals in the ongoing game of superpower spy vs. spy. Earlier this week, the Soviet Union announced the expulsion of five U.S. diplomats for engaging in "impermissible activities."

Someone is defining that phrase, "impermissible activities," as "a diplomatic phrase for spying." What is unclear, however, is who is doing the defining.

The original quote from the New York Times is: "The Soviet Union ordered five American diplomats out of the country Sunday for engaging in 'impermissible activities,' a diplomatic phrase for spying, the press agency Tass reported."

My first question is: How is one to decide whether the New York Times or Tass is claiming that "impermissible activities" is "a diplomatic phrase for spying?" Any answer, of course, would be pure speculation. We just don't know who is implying the diplomats were spying and apparently the Times doesn't care if we don't know or else it would've rephrased the sentence to avoid ambiguity.

This example is indicative of the media's coverage of the superpower espionage games, including its handling of the Daniloff affair (what has since become known as the Daniloff deal). Despite the media perception, both Nicholas Daniloff and Gennadiy Zakharov were accused of spying

For example, an Associated Press article from Sept. 30 begins, "American reporter Nicholas Daniloff was freed by the Soviet Union Monday and flew to West Germany." It goes on to say, "In New York, an informed source at the United Nations said accused Soviet spy Gennady Zakharov also would be freed as part of an exchange.

One must wonder, however, if this "in-

SCOTT MILLER Collegian Columnist

formed source" also convinced the AP that Zakharov was a spy or if the AP took it upon itself to skip due process and try, convict and report to the American people in one fell

The Sept. 22 issue of Newsweek went even further by convicting Zakharov and acquitting Daniloff in a matter of one sentence: "Neither Nicholas Daniloff, the reporter arrested on trumped-up charges, nor Gennady Zakharov, the Soviet agent caught redhanded, was free to go home." My second question is whether there is a presumption of innocence in this country until proven guilty, or if that does not include non-citizens accused of spying?

Some of the more liberal-minded souls have speculated that despite our government's denials, Daniloff was actually spying. They reason that with a reputable job as a cover, the ability to speak fluent Russian and contacts throughout the Soviet Union, what more could the CIA want? Surely the agency propositioned him, they argue.

In one sense these allegations are correct. Daniloff, who is a journalist - someone trained to gather information - decided to gather information without the permission of the Soviet government. All foreign correspondents in the Soviet Union engage in illegal information gathering. If they don't that is, if they send home nothing but the outdated statements from government and Communist party officials - then they supply their newspapers with nothing but what's already available from the wire services.

This example is indicative of the media's coverage of the superpower espionage games, including its handling of the Daniloff affair (what has since become known as the Daniloff deal).

As far as the Soviets are concerned, Daniloff was spying. It is immaterial whether he was sending information to the U.S. government or U.S. News & World Report. The question remains: Was Daniloff spying for the U.S. government? But again, one can only speculate on that.

But returning to the five ousted American diplomats, the New York Times also reported that "Western officials" (which I assume could be anyone from West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl to the director of the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City) speculated that the expulsion order was a retaliatory measure after the United States demanded Sept. 17 that 25 Soviet U.N. diplomats leave the country. The order was part of an effort to reduce the number of Soviet officials because of the Reagan administration's accusations that the United Nations is a cover for Soviet espionage.

It's true that the Soviets have maintained a large U.N. staff. And it's true that the Soviet embassy is on a hill suitable for receiving or transmitting radiowaves. It's also true that Soviet KGB defector Arkady N. Shevchenko identified a number of Soviet diplomats as KGB agents in his book, "Breaking with Moscow." However, one must wonder why former State Department Spokesman Bernard Kalb refused to say whether the 25 expelled Soviets had engaged in espionage.

Kalb is the man who resigned in the aftermath of the "disinformation" brouhaha because he didn't want his name associated

To be honest, this whole business of superpower espionage has me puzzled. It seems I've done nothing in this column but raise questions without providing answers. But then what do you expect - I'm no politician.

pinion

Lawrence view

Editor's note: The following editorial appeared in Monday's edition of the Lawrence Journal-World under the headline "Bad treatment in Kansas State University students, alumni and fans have every right to be extremely pleased with the Saturday afternoon football thrashing of the Kansas Jayhawks. The Wildcats apparently were better-prepared, they were emotionally charged and they made the KU team look lifeless and inept. The only KU winner in Manhattan was the Jayhawk band, which continued to maintain its enthusiasm, its consistently excellent level of performance and atmosphere of professionalism despite the gridiron defeat.

If is unfortunate, however, that the KSU athletic victory cannot be accompanied by a winning performance by many K-State fans in the stadium. If Kansas State officials wonder why so many tickets provided for KU partisans were returned to Manhattan prior to the game, these administrators might get a few tips if they were to sit in the stands anywhere near the area where KSU and KU boosters were seated. The crude, vulgar language, off-color behavior and poor manners exhibited by both college-age and older K-State fans is so ugly that an increasing number of KU people are electing not to attend the game in Manhattan. The outcome on the playing field has little to do with this, as it is the unpleasant situation in the stands that remains so offensive to a growing number of KU followers.

KU's cheerleaders and yell leaders had fruit thrown at them, as well as other objects; KU band members were the targets of trash from the stands; and in many cases the KSU backers seemed to delight in yelling obscenities at women in the Kansas ticket section. It wasn't a pleasant afternoon - regardless of what the scoreboard showed. It wouldn't have been a good day from Crimson and Blue partisans' standpoint even if KU had been winning the football

Again, Kansas State fans deserve to be proud and pleased about their team's 29-12 victory over KU. It was decisive and well-earned. And among those who were enjoying it as much as or more than anyone were retiring Gov. John Carlin, a K-State graduate; GOP gubernatorial hopeful Mike Hayden, also a KSU graduate; and Kansas 2nd District Congressman Jim Slattery, who has completed two terms in the U.S. House of Representatives and is seeking re-election.

Tonite

$1.75 Pitchers

50¢ Draws

$1 Coolers

Friday

Free T.G.I.F

Sandwich Bar

These three politicians were seated with Kansas State's new president, Jon Wefald, and they didn't hide their joy about the Wildcats' manhandling of the Jayhawks.

The victors deserve congratulations, but the behavior of too many fans in the stands painted an ugly picture in the minds of far too many visitors to Manhattan.

Crowd control

As a 1972 graduate of K-State and a long-suffering observer of our perpetually inept football team, I would like to convey my extreme disappointment at the behavior of those individuals who trashed Aggieville after the KU game Saturday.

Thanks to them, our long overdue enjoyment of the 29-12 humbling of the pompous Jayhawks was eroded by this disgraceful repetition of violence. It has been bad enough putting up with the problems of the football team. Now we have to suffer the idiocy of those persons who were either too drunk or too stupid to bear gracefully the spoils of athletic con-

Let me suggest how the problem should be dealt with next year, for the benefit of those authorities who must cope with it. Close every tavern and club on game day. Block off Aggieville completely to vehicle and pedestrian traffic. At the first evidence of disorderly behavior, blast the offenders with water cannons. If that doesn't suffice, mace them into submission and turn loose the German shepherds. If that doesn't stop them, then shoot them.

> Dale Goter 1972 graduate of K-State

Imperfect English

Re: The article, "Professor's accent diminishes understanding. students find," in the Oct. 3 Col-

The article dealt with a professor whom I know well, and I would like to comment on the events involved, via

One day, a space ship landed in a populated but climatically inhospitable corner of Texas, where a large state university was generating graduates. It was clear that this ship had come from a civilization far older than our own, and so the whole university community crowded about to see and hear the creature that emerged. He was unspectacular in appearance but immediately began discoursing in several languages. As soon as he perceived incomprehension in the audience, he would change to another language. Very soon, he hit English and saw that he was communicating. This first session lasted about 50 minutes, and the creature returned to the ship. Many of the students and most of the professors were amazed and excited, eager to try to assimilate the torrent of new ideas they'd jotted down. Over the next few days, word spread rapidly. Scientists and scholars of all kinds descended on the small town from around the world to hear what wondrous things the being would reveal

6 APRILITATION AND ADDRESS OF THE

The extraterrestial proved to be a real boon to the local university: He was eager to communicate his vast knowledge and was a dynamo of energy. Besides an impressive vocabulary and command of the subtleties of English grammar, he had a wonderfully artistic calligraphy with which he recorded his oral presentations completely on blackboard.

One fact not even noted in most news accounts about this marvelous creature was its strange voice timbre: It had a monotonic, computergenerated quality, eerie in its perfection and far removed from the local twang. A small but vocal group of students felt aggrieved by this and, through a sympathetic local judge, sought to "persuade" the college that its prize acquisition should not be entrusted with large undergraduate lectures. The creature was saddened at this turn of events and reproved himself for not having better mastered the 370 earth languages, although a steadily growing circle of admirers assured him that the deficiency was not his, but lay elsewhere.

The New York Times reporter who did pick up this footnote shed some light on why others hadn't. He remarked on the difficulties he'd experienced interviewing the disgruntled group: Their inarticulateness made eliciting the precise facts arduous; written deposition proved even more inadequate.

R.B. Burckel professor of mathematics

'Wellness Week '86'

The KSU "Wellness Week" and

Good health is more than just a matter of chance; it is often a matter of choice. Decisions you make today can have a profound impact on your health in years to come. "Wellness Week '86" is your chance to get involved in your own life.

The second annual "Wellness Week," Oct. 27-Nov. 1, offers more than 20 presentations and activities that will provide the participant free opportunities to increase their awareness of the importance of positive lifestyle changes.

The fifth annual Health Fair will be held 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Ballroom. The free fair, with 30 exhibits, will reflect on health screening and health education. An optional blood test will be available for $7. You must not eat at least 10 hours prior to the test. An optional flu vaccination will also be available for

Find out what all the excitement is about - what others have been talking about for five years — experience "Wellness Week '86." Last year more than 5,000 people shared the pleasure of learning about their health and wellness. Look for the calendar of events in the Monday Collegian or call 532-6544 to have one mailed to you directly.

Cindy Burke Wellness Week Coordinator

Starship tickets

Re: The article, "Starship ticket sales going slowly," in Monday's Col-

The purpose of the article was intended to facilitate sales, however, it severely missed the mark due to omitted details - the writer is in no way at fault.

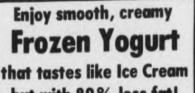

Our committee selects bands which appeal to the overall majority. Financial constraints limit the range of feasible selections. The ramifications of an unsuccessful Union Program's production are felt throughout the Union. Essentially, the monetary losses force cutbacks in other areas. Ultimately, it affects future concert leads. An even greater determining factor of future concerts is the lack of student support. This lack of interest contradicts the common concern for a needed drinking alternative.

Special Events is a composite of students representing a wide range of interests and backgrounds. Our goal is to provide entertainment for the student body and community. Starship was considered to be a fairly low-risk band. Their music diversity, elaborate stage show and Grace Slick's performance promise a fulfilling evening. The question is, if a low-risk production does not break even, what justification can be made to contract a band at twice the price and risk? Are we attempting to perform a task for a non-existent need?

> Kent Cook senior in management and 10 others

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

ANY and ALL MIXED DRINKS

(all brands, all drinks) 80¢ Draws ■ $1.00 Wine ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO • 776-0030

K-State Players OPEN AUDITIONS

TOMORROW,

FROM АПУ ШІПООШ Oct. 26 - 7 p.m.

Oct. 27 - 4 p.m.

Oct. 28 - 6 p.m.

In Nichols Hall Room 008 All Registered KSU Students Invited For information CALL 532-6875

The K-State Union Bookstore RENTS VIDEO

Come In And Check Us Out!

k-state union

on the

Sat. Homecoming party with Spuds McKenzie Open Sat. 9 a.m.

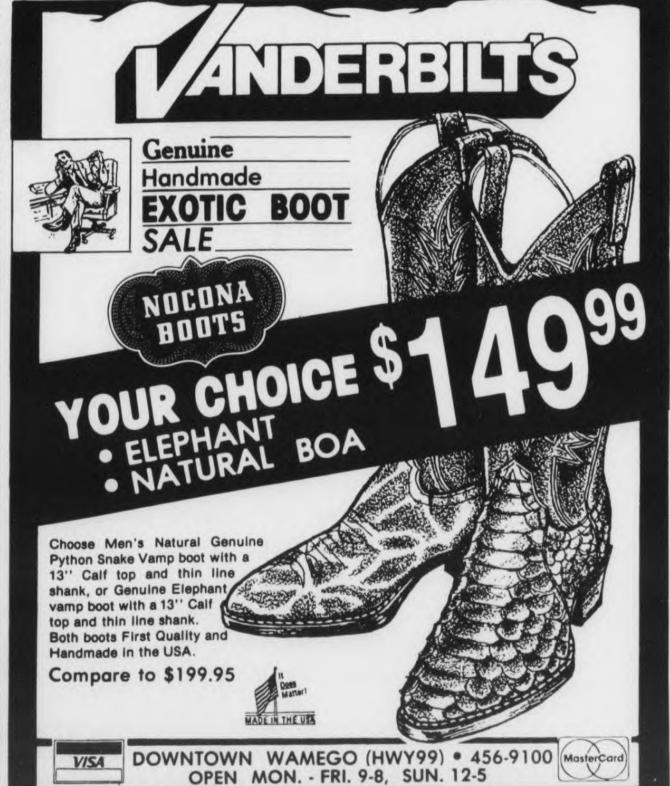

Don't get snowed. . Be safe on the road.

For Safety's Sake:

Look for the Collegian's upcoming Car-Care Special

* Provided to you for all your winterizing needs.

Issue will run Oct. 28

with a rousing yell during the Yell Like Hell contest Wednesday in the Members of Alpha Gamma Delta and Phi Kappa Theta finish their skit Union Courtyard. The top five teams in the Yell Like Hell and the Body Building contests will compete in the finals today in the Union.

Union hosts various Homecoming activities

By The Collegian Staff

Team finalists for body building and Yell Like Hell will be competing for first place as Homecoming '86 activities continue with K-State Day today.

The top five living groups in each event were chosen during Union Day activites on Wednesday. Spirit banners were judged and student entertainment was also part of Union Day's events.

The Body Building finalists competing today will be the teams of Alpha Chi Omega/Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega, Gamma Phi Beta/Sigma Phi Epsilon and Kappa Alpha Theta/Sigma Nu.

Finalists in Yell Like Hell are Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha, Chi Omega/Tau Kappa Epsilon, Omega, Kappa Kappa Gamma/Delta Tau Delta/Theta Xi and Sigma Sigma Sigma/Sigma Chi.

The winning team in each event will receive 50 points. The second place team is awarded 40 points and the third place team 30 points. Fourth place receives 20 points and fifth place receives 10.

The team of Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha placed first in the Delta Delta/Alpha Tau spirit banner competition and received 30 points. The Alpha Gamma Delta/Phi Kappa Theta team placed second receiving 25 points, and the Kappa Alpha Theta/Sigma Nu team placed third gaining 20

Today's events begin at 11 a.m. with student entertainment. Yell Like Hell finals will be at 11:30 a.m. and Body Building finals will be at 1

Worldwide project provides adventure

By RONDA CORLE Collegian Reporter

If you have a longing to help dig a well in Peru, survey sunken ships in Central America or explore a new cave somewhere in the world, then "Operation Raleigh," is the type of adventure you are seeking.

Brian Kliesen, assistant selection coordinator for the project, spoke Wednesday evening to a group of about 15 students in Union 207 about how to become involved with the worldwide project.

Operation Raleigh is a combination Peace Corps and Outward Bound program for students between 17 and 24 years old. Participants, called Venturers, are selected through applications and special selection weekends before they are sent on expeditions around the world for three months at a time, Kliesen said.

During those three months, students participate in three different projects including community-type projects, adventure training and scientific projects, he said. A team of experienced scientists and explorers direct the pro-

Operation Raleigh is a four-year program that began in 1984 and will continue until 1988. When the project has been completed, a total of 4,000 to 5,000 people from around the world will have been involved, Kliesen

This project follows Operation Drake which began in 1978 and ended in 1980. Both projects are sponsored by Prince Charles of Wales, he said.

Kliesen showed slides of recent expeditions and explained the selection process and possible assignments. Students are invited to a selection weekend after they have been accepted from applications.

'We want to see how well you will work in an alien situation doing very strange things," Kliesen said.

The weekend lasts for about 72 hours and applicants are put through various tests to see "basically how well you get along with others and how well you use leadership skills," he said. Kliesen described one recent test in which two students were given a tape measure and were told to measure a tooth and the tail of an animal around the corner that would not hurt them. It was a trained tiger. "We want you to show initiative and common sense like how the group can eat food in the savanna of Africa without being attacked on the ground by hyenas and lions," he

Right now, 1,000 positions are open for American Venturers in Operation Raleigh. Each participant is responsible for raising $5,500 to send himself or herself on the expeditions.

"You're only stopped by your imaginaion on how to raise the money," he said. Students have raised money through local organizations, such as the Lions' Club, pledging money and holding events such as bike-a-thons. Operation Raleigh is hoping to lower the fee by having large corporations pledge more support. The fee may drop to $4,500 or $5,000.

Upcoming expeditions will travel to New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Indonesia and Pakistan. Participants can list three or four choices of where they would like to go and then they are matched up by ability and special interest to expeditions, Kliesen said. Within six months of selection, Venturers are sent somewhere around the world.

"Some of the things we do are very, very rewarding," he said. Kliesen's group helped the Choco Indians in Panama to overcome eye problems by setting up mobile sterile areas where teams of doctors operated on lifetime cataracts and fitted people with glasses.

"One old man had been blind since he was 7 years old," he said.

SOMEONE'S LOOKING FOR YOU!

Find the 10 most compatible people for you at KSU. Entry fee is $1.

See the Dating Service Booth in the Union, this week only.

5 FREE nights-on-the-town will be given away. Night includes:

Dinner, Limousine transportation, and movie.

Sponsored by Newman Ministries, La Ride Limousine Service and Best Sound Around

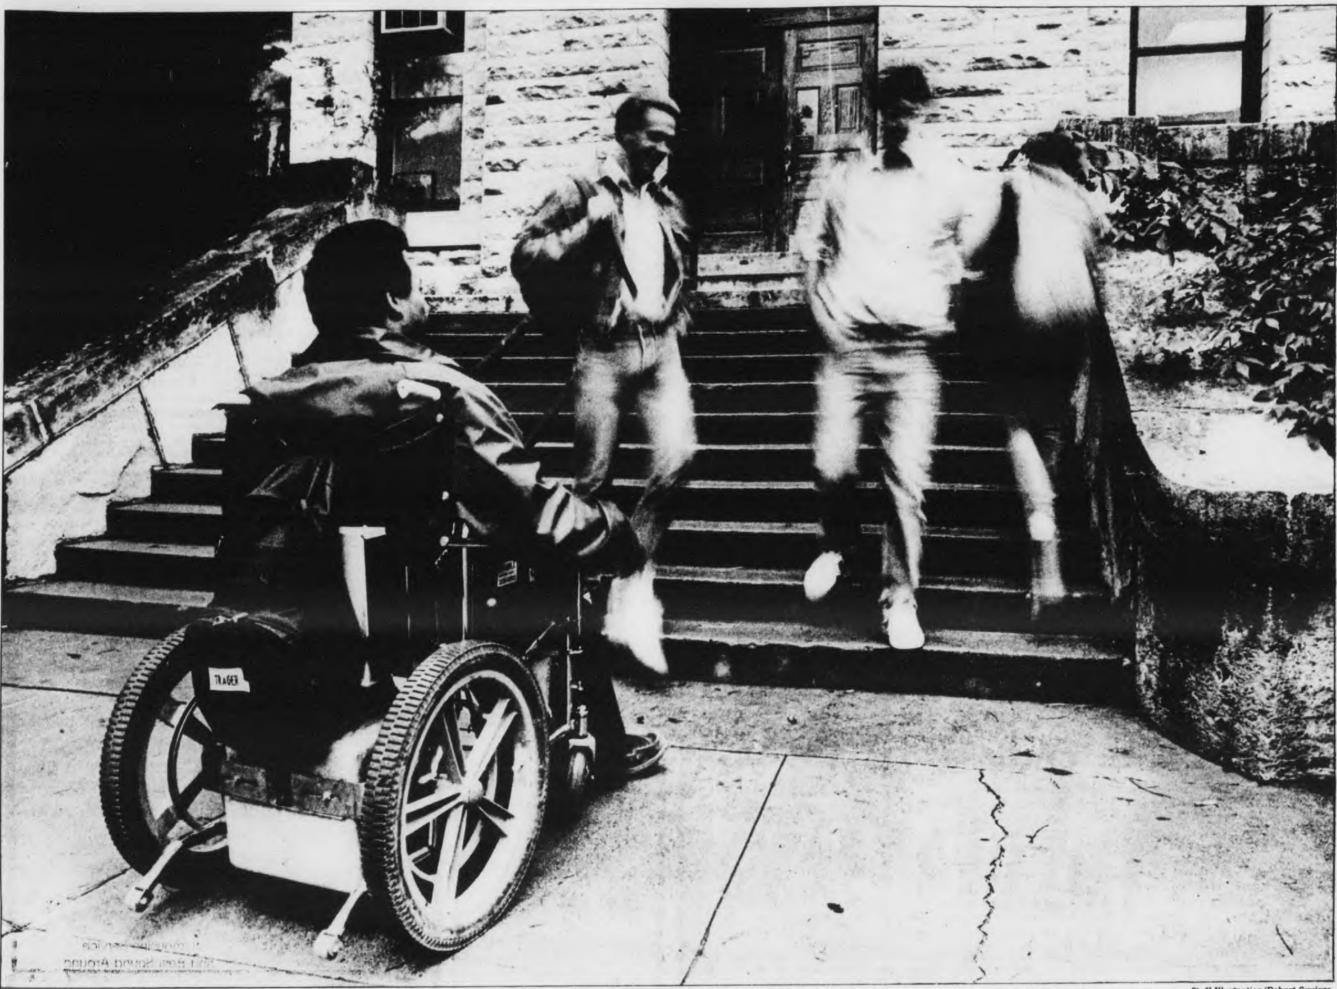

Only Two More Days to

This is the last week Yearbook Associates will be on campus taking portraits for the Royal Purple. Don't miss out!! If you forgot to sign up with your living group, it's not too late.

Come on in between your classes and get your picture taken. For information call 539-5229. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209 and don't miss out on being in the 1987 Royal Purple.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m.

Staff Illustration/Robert Squires Fairchild Hall is almost totally inaccessible to the handicapped student. No elevators or ramps are provided to allow students to get to the financial aid office or other offices housed in Fairchild.

Inaccessibility determines lifestyle

When Bruce Cook, senior in business administration, made out his pre-enrollment schedule last spring, he knew some people had to do a lot of work before he could attend classes this fall. That's because Cook is confined to a wheelchair.

"It's really frustrating at the beginning of every year. You go from building to building and (classes) are so spread out because they have been moved," Cook said.

Gretchen Holden, coordinator for students with limitations, works with handicapped students, including Cook, to move classes located in inaccessible buildings to buildings that are accessible. Since Cook has classes in Calvin and Eisenhower halls, both of which are inaccessible to him because of his wheelchair, Holden began the step-by-step process to get his classes moved.

First, Holden called the registrar's office with a list of the classes that needed to be changed. A few days later, the office called back with possible solutions.

Holden then called the department heads of the classes that needed to be moved. Then she called individual faculty member about the changes to see if the room would work for the classes. The final call was made to the departments' secretaries so they could place notices up about the room changes. Despite Holden's persistent work and Cook's patience, the work still did not produce excellent results. Cook's schedule takes him from Bluemont to Seaton halls - an easy distance for most students - but Cook can only use the east entrance into Seaton and his class is on the west side. The difference is equivalent to a city block. Despite the recent renovations of Kedzie and Thompson halls, students who are in wheelchairs face major problems with accessibility on campus and in the city.

Holden said it was obvious to her that K-State was the least accessible of the Board of Regents' schools after visiting the rest of the schools. Holden estimated that 65 percent of the University is accessible.

However, "They are not the important buildings. The largest college, the College of Arts and Sciences, is in Eisenhower (Hall) and it isn't accessible. Neither is the College of Business in Calvin (Hall)," Holden said.

to wheelchairs, Holden said.

Robert Lagerstedt, freshman in engineering, is one such student. He said the problem of accessibility should be everybody's concern.

"We don't live in a perfect world," Lagerstedt said. "When there are people disabled in our society, it costs the whole society. The only way to make up that cost is to open up the school, cities and universities so the handicaps can be a part of the socie-

He said people who are against spending money to make buildings accessible are not looking at the broad picture.

"Once you make a building accessible, it's that way for life. You don't have to mess with it ever again," he said.

Holden said people ask why the University should spend so much money making the campus accessible when it benefits so few people.

"How many people would be at K-State if it was known to be accessible? People ask me, 'Why do all the handicapped students go to Emporia State (University)?' It's because it's known to be accessible," Holden

In the last two years, Holden said she has received three letters from potential journalism students who were handicapped. She wrote to them and told them that although Kedzie Hall, the building containing the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications, was not accessible, the University would accommodate them.

The students lost interest and did not write back. Since that time, Kedzie has been made accessible, but the students had already decided against

"I wrote to them again and told them that Kedzie was now accessible, but I did not get any replies," she said.

By law, all programs must be accessible if they receive federal funds. Since K-State receives various forms of federal funds it must offer all students an equitable education. Holden said she was concerned about the journalism curriculum before the elevator was built into Kedzie.

Journalism classes are difficult to move because many classes require typewriters and computer terminals. Holden said she was afraid that a student majoring in journalism would

Ten K-State students are confined not be able to graduate because the classrooms were inaccessible.

She said the Service for Students with Physical Limitations' next priority is Calvin Hall where most business classes are held. This semester, three students who are confined to wheelchairs are majoring in business. The top floors, where classrooms and the faculty offices are, are not accessible.

Cook, who has classes in Calvin Hall, said it is hard for him to get to know his professors. He has to call them and ask if they can meet with him in the Calvin students' lounge.

"They're all more than willing to meet me in the students' lounge, but

Michael Nolting, senior in mechanical engineering, is assisted onto the shuttle bus by driver Mike McAdams. The shuttle bus is available for use by permanently and temporarily handicapped students to travel on campus.

it's an inconvenience to me and to the teacher. I'd love to drop by and say, 'Hey, I have a little problem here,' Cook said.

Most of the classes Holden moved this semster were from Calvin to another accessible building. Holden said she moving the classes was not a problem for her, but the knowlege that handicapped students were not able to have the same opportunities as the rest of the business students did bother her.

"You wouldn't even know if there was a club that you wanted to sign up for," she said. "It's hard for you to see your adviser. It's hard for you to get to know the people in the college."

Holden said most of the inaccessible buildings on campus are that way for one of two reasons. Some buildings are old, and it would be difficult to determine where the elevator should be. Also, making the building accessible while doing other improvements is cheaper for the University.

She said a department's budget is not enough to cover a renovation project. The only way the project will get done is if the Legislature funds the project.

Holden, Cook and Lagerstedt agree K-State is making progress on campus. They also agree the city needs to make improvements.

For many handicapped students, finding a place to live is difficult. The only residence hall fully accessible to them is the first floor of Moore Hall. Holden said apartment buildings are often not built according to the law. If an apartment building has more than 10 units, one of them must be accessible.

Most bathroom doors are 24 inches wide, which is too narrow for wheelchairs to fit through. Holden said one engineering student searched for weeks trying to find a house that was accessible. When he finally found one which was partially accessible, he paid to have his own ramp put in.

Aggieville and the downtown area pose another problem for handicapped students. "Aggieville should be ashamed of itself." Holden said. "To get from Ballard's to Varney's you have to get in your car and drive there. Ninety percent of the stores are inaccessible and many only by one step," Holden Lagerstedt said he does not like going downtown because the curb cuts are too steep, and many of the stores are not accessible.

"It is disappointing to go downtown," Lagerstedt said. If you can't get into most of the stores, why go? The curbcuts are so steep I have to go down them backwards.'

He said he does not like to ask for help getting into stores, because storeowners are inexperienced in handling wheelchairs and could hurt

"I look at a store and see if they have a step, to see if I can get in. If I can't, I don't even consider going in regardless of what's on sale,"

Lagerstedt said. K-State students do more than shop for necessities in Aggieville. They go to socialize and meet other students. But handicapped students find this difficult to do.

"If you want to have a beer with your buddy, you better know what you're doing," Holden said. "First you have to know what bars are accessible, and then you better not have more than one beer because you'll have to go to the bathroom and none of the bathrooms are accessi-

"Everybody has got to have the same chance at equality," Lagerstedt said, "And they have to have the same opportunities as everyone else. It's got to be done if you want to offer an equitable education to everybody."

Story by Chris Doll

Photographs by Robert Squires

Staff/Robert Squires

Manhattan firefighter Kevin Dodd puts on a firefighting suit similar to one of the three suits Janice Huck, assistant professor in the Department of Clothing, Textiles and Interior Design, designed for her doctoral research.

Kremlin orders Soviets to leave U.S. Embassy

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — The Kremlin said Wednesday that five more American diplomats must leave the country and withdrew the 260 maids, drivers and other Soviet workers who handle the U.S. Embassy's daily non-diplomatic operations.

Soviet employees may be replaced by Americans but an overall personnel limit placed on the embassy and the U.S. consulate in Leningrad may mean, for instance, that a choice must be made between having a cook or a diplomat.

The Soviet Union seldom uses local employees in foreign missions. Its Washington embassy and San Francisco consulate operate almost entirely with Soviet staff.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady I. Gerasimov announced the expulsions and restrictions the day after 55 Soviet diplomats were ordered out of the United States.

Gerasimov's announcement brought to 10 the number of American diplomats ordered to leave in the current exchange of expulsions, including the army and naval attaches.

About an hour after Gerasimov's announcements, Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told the nation in a televised speech that Tuesday's U.S. expulsion order against 55 Soviet diplomats was "simply wild."

"Of course we will take reply measures," he said.

Researcher designs firefighter uniforms

By LYNETTE HAMILTON Collegian Reporter

Speed in dressing and effective protection have always been emphasized in uniforms for firefighters. Some recent research at K-State concentrated on comfort.

Janice Huck, assistant professor in the Department of Clothing Textiles and Interior Design, evaluated three of her own designs of firefighter protection clothing for her doctoral research last July.

"I've always had an interest in protection clothing, and as I was reading literature on the subject I thought it would be a good area to research," Huck said.

Nine Manhattan firefighters participated in the study conducted at the University's Institute for Environmental Research lab in Seaton Hall.

Currently, to protect themselves from extreme heat, firefighters must wear gear and a uniform that weigh about 55 pounds, said Don Francis, a Manhattan firefighter.

"The clothes are bulky and cumbersome." Francis said, "and Study emphasizes comfort, protection

when they get wet, they're very stiff."

When firefighters go inside a burning building, they must crawl on their hands and knees, making bulky uncomfortable clothes a definite hazard, he said.

Huck's designs include an outer layer to serve as a shell against fire, an inner layer to block vapors and a quilted inside layer to protect the firefighter from heat.

Although Huck isn't the first to do research in this area, she said she is the first to conduct such studies in a controlled environment.

"There were chambers that allowed me to control such things as room temperature and humidity," Huck said. "I monitored the changes in heart beat, body temperature and weight loss and had the firefighters fill out a questionnaire after each of the tests."

One design featured waisted pants and a knee-length coat. However, the extra material in the front got in the way when the firefighters bent over.

Another design featured Velcro bib-pants and a shorter coat with long tails in back. The bib protected the firefighter's chest, and the coat-

the firefighter's chest, and the coattails protected his back while bending. Although this design was the most practical, firefighters didn't like it because of the time factor involved in getting dressed.

"It took us nearly one minute to put it all on," Francis said.

Whether it's hot or cold, day or night, all have an effect on how quickly a firefighter can get dressed. At night he must jump out of bed into his bunker pants which are already over his boots. He then goes to the apparatus room for his slicker, hat and gloves. During the day all he needs to do is slip on his three-quarter length boots. A firefighter should only take 30 seconds maximum to get dressed, he said.

The third design was a variation of the traditional uniform now worn by firefighters. The inner layer was changed to a fabric that allowed body heat to escape but kept moisture out. This particular design was favored by the firefighters.

There is no standardized fire gear that can be found in all countries. The biggest difference is fabrics. For example, in Europe firefighter's don't have access to Nomex, a fabric that doesn't melt or burn, which comprises the outer shell of firefighter's uniforms in the United States. A lot of garments are made of wool and cotton but design is of no major difference, Huck said.

Manhattan firefighter uniforms must pass National Fire Protection Association regulations before they will be worn said Larry Wesche, fire marshall. These regulation include such things as flame retardant and length of wear tests.

The results of Huck's studies will be presented at a Clothing and Textiles meeting in Houston in the near future.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

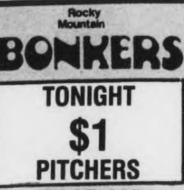

BIG with Collegian Coupons

Homecoming Specials
All Weekend!

Open at 9:30 a.m. on Sat. for the game

FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 539-9619

FRIDAY FALCON EDDY

Aggieville Flowers

12th & Laramie

SWEETHEART ROSES

$7.50 a dozen

Cash & Carry 537-9549

537-9549 Mon.-Sat. 10-5 Why The Hair Experts?

The Hair Experts seeks out the best talent available—Janet Frerichs is from Nebraska. Her skills are matched only by her enthusiasm and ability to make you feel as good as you look.

As a member of an exceptional staff, Janet wants you to experience a true hair design.

Please join us at

The Hair Experts

776-4455

Aggieville 1209 Moro

776-4455

Homecoming 1986

"Everyday is K-State Day!"

11:00 Michele Herl, E.G. Herl, Kelly Beever & Dan Ralston Chi Omega/Tau Kappa Epsilon Entertainment

11:15 Announcement

11:20 Kappa Delta/Phi Gamma Delta Entertainment Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha Entertainment

11:30 Yell Like Hell finals

12:00 K-State Band

12:15 Yell Like Hell winners announced

12:20 Sigma Sigma Sigma/Sigma Chi Entertainment

12:30 Men's Glee

12:45 Moore Hall Entertainment Gamma Phi Beta/Sigma Phi Epsilon Entertainment Pi Beta Phi/Phi Delta Theta Entertainment

1:00 Body Building Finals

1:30 Women's Glee

1:40 Pridettes

1:50 Smith/Smurthwaite Entertainment Goodnow/Putnam Entertainment Alpha Gamma Delta/Phi Kappa Theta Entertainment

2:00 Body Building winners announced.

Don't Forget Ambassador Voting (bring fee card and Homecoming buttons & bumper stickers on sale in the Union.

SUPPORT NATIONAL COLLEGIATE ALCOHOL AWARENESS WEEK

OCTOBER 20-26, 1986

Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wi

Jordan's 'decent' outing boosts 'Cat rush attack

By RON RENO Sports Writer

K-State's Coach Stan Parrish's wellpublicized "Air Parrish" passing attack has received a boost from an unexpected source of late - a running game.

It was the Wildcat running backs, led by Tony Jordan, which enabled K-State to eat up the clock and hold the lead against the Jayhawks last Saturday.

Jordan turned in a sparkling 98-yard performance in Saturday's victory against the Jayhawks - a game which he said was the most satisfying for him so far this season.

"The highlight of the season for me was probably Saturday because we had a big win over KU and everybody was really happy. Anytime I can do well and we have a win, that's a highlight for me," Jordan said.

"I thought I played pretty decent. It was a good game for the team. We were all pretty enthused. The line blocked real well, so it made it easy for me to read their blocks," he said.

Though he strives to be more consistent, both Jordan and Parrish said he has made significant progress in that area.

"He's been improving every week," Parrish said. "He's turning into a pretty reliable ball carrier for us. And I think with Maurice (Henry) back now, it will give us a pretty good one-two punch. But Tony is playing well. We want (him) to continue to be consistent with his performance - no up and down every week.

Jordan, who carried the ball 25 times in K-State's 29-12 defeat of KU, combined with senior Todd Moody Saturday to give the offense some of the balance Parrish has desperately sought.

Moody ran the ball 22 times and was credited with 64 yards.

"When you have balance and diversity, it makes you obviously a more effective team, and a stronger running game makes you a better defensive team," Parrish said.

Jordan, as most successful running backs often do, credited the offensive line as the main reason behind the ground attack's recent success.

"I don't care what anybody says," Jordan said. "The line and the quarterback, they're the key - especially the line. I think the line is important. Right now they're doing an excellent job. I can't say enough about them."

Jordan said he looks forward to Henry's return, even if it means less playing time for himself.

'Maurice is definitely a good running back, and we can use him," Jordan said. "I want us to win. That's the most important thing for me. I don't care if I don't play any. If we win, I get satisfaction out of that. If there's use for me and they need me, I'm ready. If they don't need me, I'm going to be there cheering for everyone else.

Jordan, a Rochester, N.Y., native, said he enjoys playing under Parrish who came to K-State with intentions of building a winning program immediately.

"I like him. He's getting a lot of things done, and the program is starting to improve. A lot of coaches say they are in rebuilding stages, but he's a now person. He wants action now. That's what I like about him," Jordan said.

"I'm not going to be here in three years," he added. "I wouldn't be here when they rebuilt the team totally. Coach Parrish is looking at the present. He wants to win now."

Jordan said the confidence of teammates and coaches in his abilities has been a big boost to his own confidence.

"I think they all know that I can do it now,"

"It feels good to know that they think I can do it. After I fumbled (Saturday), everybody was like, 'C'mon Tony, let's get it done. You can do it. Let's go.' I don't fumble very much, but they were all behind me, getting me back on the right track. It felt good."

After Saturday's game, it appears as though the confidence of Jordan's team-day's game against the University of Kansas. Jordan rushed for 98 their lead against the Jayhawks.

Tony Jordan is leading the pack of K-State running backs after Satur- yards while running down the clock enabling the Wildcats to hold

Nationally ranked 'Huskers hammer K-State

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

Volleyball coach Scott Nelson jokingly said Tuesday that No. 5 ranked three-game sweep of K-State 15-2, 15-2, 15-2.

Nelson's quip almost became reality Wednesday.

Nebraska's potent offensive attack was too much for K-State to handle as the Cornhuskers rolled to a sweep of the Wildcats 15-1, 15-5, 15-6 in Big Eight Conference action which took all of 42 minutes to complete in front of this season's largest crowd of 772.

"I wish I wouldn't have tied my tie Nebraska could come into Ahearn so tight," Nelson quipped, while the knot a following the game. "I just put it

Nebraska jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead in the first game before K-State managed to hit the scoreboard. Nebraska then captured the next 8 points for the decisive 15-1 victory.

"I think we were real nervous at the start of the match," Nelson said. "It took somewhere in the middle of the second game for us to get started. They had a large lead and against a seemed to quicky end the point. great team that is a big hole to dig."

What the 'Cats were yet to realize was the hole was about to get bigger and deeper. Nebraska proceeded to reei of the first 12 points of the second match and had the Wildcats scrambling for answers on how to solve the nation's No. 1 offense.

Every time K-State went for the winning shots, Nebraska seemed to be there to block them back. Every time the 'Huskers had a chance to set up their offensive attack, a kill shot

"It is not uncommon for a team to ome out flat against a great team, Nelson said. "I don't think we even got (Nebraska) elevated to a level they are capable of playing at."

K-State scored 5 of the last 8 points in the second game to finish on an upswing heading into the final game. The 'Cats opened the third game by scoring the first point and forced first-ball offense he mentioned as Nebraska to call a couple of time outs - a feat Nelson said most teams do not get the occasion to see against Nelson's squad made a run at the Big Red and closed the gap to 9-6, but never managed to get closer as Nebraska reeled off the final 6 points for the game and the match.

"We didn't do the things we are capable of controlling," Nelson said referring to the service game and vital to the 'Cats hopes of an upset prior to the match. "Because of the tempo of the game, those things weren't prevalent. That resulted in the shortest match of the year for us The loss dropped K-State to 9-11 overall and 2-4 in the Big Eight race.

Nebraska upped its record to 17-3 and 6-0 in conference action. The 'Huskers haven't lost a Big Eight match in more than four years.

Golf team places 8th

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's women's golf team finished last in the eight-team, 54-hole Kansas Invitational Tuesday in Lawrence. But golf coach Rob Sedorcek said it was the best effort of the season for the Wildcats.

"We played really good. It was the best we played all fall for 54 holes and every score we had was in the 80s. On the whole for the tournament, the scores were really low," Sedorcek said.

KU's blue team won the tourney with their four golfers recording a 954. Iowa State placed second with 956, and Kansas' red squad came in third at 959.

Individual honors went to Iowa State's Penni Peters who shot rounds of 81-75-74 for a 230.

K-State was paced by Erin Andrew with a 255 (86-84-85) and Paige Harrison who tallied a 257 (85-88-84). The Wildcats finished just two strokes behind seventhplace Central Missouri State University.

Terrapins testify Bias ignored warnings

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE - Two University of Maryland basketball players reportedly told a grand jury investigating the death of Len Bias that they warned the basketball star to be careful while snorting cocaine several hours before he died.

Terry Long and David Gregg also testified before a Prince George's County grand jury last week that Brian Lee Tribble possessed the cocaine that killed the star player, the Baltimore Sun reported Wednesday. Long and Gregg, suitemates and teammates of Bias, also told the panel that Bias, regarded by his fans as a notably clean-living young man, had tried cocaine "six or seven times" before the morning he died of cocaine intoxication, sources told the newspaper

Tribble, Gregg and Long were with Bias when he collapsed in his dormitory room early in the morning of June 19. Bias died later at a hospital of cocaine intoxication. Long and Gregg were indicted by the grand jury in July on charges of cocaine possession and obstruction of justice, but those charges were dropped Monday following Thursday's grand jury testimony.

The grand jury indicted Tribble in July on charges of cocaine distribution, cocaine possession with intent to distribute, cocaine possession and PCP possession.

The source said Gregg and Long told the grand jury they were awakened early in the morning of June 19 by Bias and Tribble, the basketball star's friend and a former Maryland student. A large mound of cocaine had been poured onto a mirror on a table in the center of the dormitory suite the players shared, they

For the next several hours, the players testified, the four sat around the table, talked and snorted cocaine directly from the pile.

They said they each did maybe 15 or 20 lines, but that towards the end, Bias started doing more," the source

The others "jokingly warned" Bias to cut down on his intake, but Gregg and Long testified that "he said he could handle it," the source told The Tribble's attorney, Thomas C. Morrow, declined comment.

Mets draw even in World Series with 6-2 win over Boston

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Gary Carter homered twice and Len Dykstra added another behind Ron Darling's pitching and the New York Mets held off the Boston Red Sox 6-2 Wednesday night to square the World Series at two games each.

Dwight Gooden, 17-6, who lost Game 2, was scheduled to start for the Mets in Game 5 Thursday night against Bruce Hurst, 13-8, who worked eight scoreless innings as the winner in Game 1.

Carter's first homer, with a man on, opened the scoring as the Mets took a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning against Red Sox starter Al Nipper, who hadn't pitched in 17 days. The Mets catcher closed New York's scoring with a solo homer over the screen above the left-field wall in the eighth off reliever Steve Crawford. It was Carter's seventh RBI in the Dykstra's two-run homer in the seventh off Crawford made it 5-0 as the Mets continued their offensive resurgence. The Mets won Game 3, 7-1, after scoring only three runs in losing the first two games at home.

Dykstra's second homer of the Series, a two-out shot, tipped off the glove of Red Sox right fielder Dwight Evans and fell into the Mets bullpen.

Darling, working on three days' rest, blanked the Red Sox on four hits before leaving after seven innings. He lost the first game of the Series 1-0, giving up one unearned run in seven innings.

Roger McDowell, who pitched two perfect innings to close the Mets' victhe eighth and needed relief from Jesse Orosco, who got the last out of the eighth with two runners on, and then closed out the Red Sox in the

The victory ensured at least a Game 6, giving the Mets the opportunity to bring the Series back to Shea Stadium. It was news that could have been greeted with mixed emo-tory in Game 3, gave up two runs in tions. The Mets lost the first two games at home, then won two at Fenway Park.

It was the first time since 1923 that visiting teams have won the first four games. The only other time was in

Darling was not perfect, coming back for the first time this season on such short notice. He walked six and

Bosworth, OU's defense 'welcome' Oklahoma State rookie touchdowns so far this season.

that popping and crunching."

terceptions, one kickoff and five punts for

Ken Kaelin, Nebraska fullback, sounds

"We can run the finesse, but when you like he is promoting a breakfast cereal when he talks about the 'Huskers' offensive line.

come back down to the old isolations and traps, that's when you see our big linemen just pounding on people," Kaelin said. "You can just hear it when you run into the line,

Colorado has just allowed its last two opponents, Missouri and Iowa State, to a two-

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

Oklahoma's colorful and outspoken linebacker Brian Bosworth said he and the Sooners' defense tried to "welcome" Oklahoma State's freshman quarterback Mike Gundy into the Big Eight by scaring him into making mistakes

"Mr. Gundy is a freshman and I wanted him to know he was freshman. We tried to impress upon him the fact that we were his worst nightmare come true," Bosworth said. Even though the Cowboys failed to dent the end zone - OU prevailed at home 19-0 -Bosworth admitted Gundy kept his poise. "He didn't rattle a bit. He's going to be a great quarterback. I have a lot of respect for him," Bosworth said.

doesn't mean it...it's part of his style, the way he tries to intimidate. If he plays hard and can back it up, what can you say?'

As for Gundy's opinion of Bosworth, "He Could the next step for the Wildcats be a music video? For the second consecutive week, K-State will appear on the Big Eight/Raycom feature game-of-the-week. The matchup betwen the Wildcats (2-4, 1-1) and Missouri (1-5, 0-2) will be televised Saturday with kickoff scheduled for 12:04

Other conference games are Oklahoma (5-1, 2-0) at Iowa State (4-2, 1-1), Nebraska (6-0, 2-0) at Colorado (2-4, 2-0) and Kansas (3-3, 0-2) at Oklahoma State (2-4, 0-2).

KU-OSU is slated for a 7:05 p.m. kickoff at Lewis Stadium in Stillwater, but it is not a television game.

the Big Eight: No rusher in the Big Eight this year has had a 190-yard rushing day, while it had happened five times by this stage last season. Some football players say they have it rough, or as Rodney Dangerfield would phrase it, don't get any respect. Just ask Colorado nosetackle Kyle Rappold.

"My position is like being a fire hydrant at a dog show," he said. Big Eight teams have returned seven in-

Other quotes and statistics from around game total of 112 yards (75 carries for 1.5 yards per attempt).

Pat Jones, Oklahoma State coach, talking about his team after respectable performances against Nebraska and Oklahoma: 'We're a decent football team, getting to be pretty good. We're not out of the bowl picture, not by any means. We have a chance to go 7-4 and be in a bowl game. I don't think that's out of the realm of reality at all."

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer is 131-25-4 as a head coach - former Sooner mentor

Bud Wilkinson was 130-26-4 after the same number of games.

Kansas had three first-half scoring opportunites inside K-State's 25-yard line Saturday, but the 'Hawks came up empty. KU's coach Bob Valesente said no team can do that and win.

"It was a possible 21 points and we came up empty-handed. I don't care if you're a high school team or the Chicago Bears. You've got to score in the first half when you've got the opportunities.

Colorado is 7-0 in games with 300 or more yards rushing since switching to the wishbone offense.

From the blood is thicker than water department. Missouri quarterback Jeff Henningsen is a Omaha, Neb., native, and his grandfather played at Nebraska in 1941. What Henningsen saw on the sidelines of the Tigers-Cornhuskers matchup surprised him.

"I saw my grandpa on the sidelines. He played at Nebraska...and he wore black and gold today. I didn't think I'd ever see that." There's been only one 300-yard passing day by a Big Eight quarterback so far this year. Kansas' Mike Orth had 321 against Southern Illinois, while it had happened five times by this time of last season.

From the Big Eight archives: Last year's game between OU and Iowa State was the first game quarterback Jamelle Holieway started.

- Missouri running back Darrell Wallace set a school record against K-State last season with 224 yards on 42 carries - the second highest in Missouri history.

Oklahoma State set a conference record by fumbling 15 times in 1974 game with KU. Colorado set a Big Eight mark by holding Nebraska to 31 yards in total offense and no first downs in 1961 contest. Gayle Sayers, one of the NFL's premier running backs, set a conference record when he was with the Jayhawks by averaging 12.9 vards per rush (22 for 283) against OSU in

- The Big Eight record for pass reception average was set by Iowa State's Jim Doran in 1950 vs. Oklahoma.

Women find support from resource center

By TAMA ERICKSON Collegian Reporter

Interest groups formed at the Women's Resource Center provide an opportunity for women to share mutual concerns.

"The Women's Resource Center is interested in increasing awareness of women's issues such as sexual harassment, the harms of pornography and date rape," said Katherine Parker, acting director of the Women's Resource Center, Holton Hall 111.

Support groups formed this semester are addressing the problems of women re-entering school or the workforce, single parenting, lesbianism and victims of sexual assault.

New groups are formed each year to cover any need, demand or interest that is made known to the center, Parker said.

"It's important that women who have been through rape, or who have experienced any other form of problem know they are not alone in facing those problems." Parker said.

The group for "re-entry" women provides support for women who are entering school or the work force for the first time, or who are returning after an extended absence.

The single parents' group is for divorced or single women who are working, going to school or both while raising a family.

The lesbian group is for women interested in the issues concernalternative preferences

The self-help group, is for those who have been victims of sexual assault, ranging from incest to acquaintance rape

"It's hard to know how many women have experienced date rape here at Kansas State University. It's a national problem so there is no reason to think date rape at K-State does not exist," Parker said. "We are trying to inform men and women about it to help them know why it occurs and how they can prevent it."

Group discussions are led by professionals, graduate students and undergraduates. Heather Boss, co-facilitator of the single parents group and junior in electrical engineering, said at least one of the leaders in each group has had personal experience with the problems being dealt with by the individuals in the help groups.

'We know how the people feel. A facilitator is normally a member of the group," Boss said.

Energy costs can be lower, expert says

By SCOTT ROBERTS Collegian Reporter

While the onset of winter brings higher utility bills, simple and low cost weatherization techniques can reduce heating costs.

"Weatherization is the simple, low cost way to tighten the home against cold air," said Doug Walter, Extension specialist in residential energy. "It also improves comfort within the house or apartment during the winter.'

Walter said students can purchase many different weatherization packages at many of the home centers or discount stores in Manhat-

Weather-stripping is one of the most effective and low cost methods to add insulation for an apartment or house during the winter time, he

"Two relatively low cost and easy application weather-stripping packages are the adhesive, V-type weatherization package and the vinyl door-sweep package," Walter

The adhesive, V-type package is applied by sealing the inside of the door frame with the door. The vinyl door sweep is attached to the bottom of the door, creating a seal against drafts when the door is closed, he

Placing plastic sheeting over the window is another technique that can be used to protect the home against either incoming cold air or the loss of heated, interior air through leakage. "Shrink film is a type of plastic that comes with a roll of double stick tape," Walter said. The plastic is taped to the inside of the window, and then heated with a blow dryer to form a tight, wrinkle-free covering. After this process is done, the film becomes almost invisible, as it is sealed to the window. "This method stops cold air leakage through the window and it adds another (layer of) insulation against the dead air space," Walter

Turning down the thermostat on the furnace when not at home and at night will also save energy and, in turn, money.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit!

©PUTT-PUTT

torthefunofit

across from Wal-Mart

Forthefunofit Forthefun

We Make It Here-Just For You!

GREAT FOR GIFTSI
THE TCECREAM
SOCIAL

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

A CAN FOR

ALL REASONS

Filled with

Freshly flavored

or plain

POPCORN

Dave Boyd, Extension specialist in residential energy, said "In this part of the country, you'll save about 1 percent on your total heating bill for each degree you set back the thermostat during an eight-hour period each night.

"For example, if you usually leave the thermostat set at 70 degrees day and night, you can save about 5 percent on your heating bill by setting the thermostat back to 65 degrees for eight hours each night," Boyd said.

The few extra minutes the furnace must run in the morning are insignificant compared with the savings that accrue overnight.'

Walter said students can also invest in a low-flow shower head to reduce hot water energy costs.

'The low-flow shower head is easy to install and they only cost about $7," Walter said. "A student can save over $10 over a period of two semesters by cutting their hot water bills in half. He said the student can easily unscrew the shower head and take it with them when they move out of the apartment or house. The use of fluorescent lights, and turning off lights not needed is another way energy costs can be

'Using fluorescent lights instead of incandescent lights is more cost efficient and it saves energy," Walter said.

Ramada Inn

THURSDAY Margarita Madness 99¢

Margaritas Taco Bar 4-7 p.m.

I'th & Anderson Across from KSI

T-N-T THURSDAYS Ladies Day 99¢ Margaritas

99¢ Fuzzy Navels 99¢ Tacos

THURSDAYS 4-7 p.m.

418 Poyntz

MAYER RETAIL LIQUOR

*Chilled beer, wine, wine coolers

HOMECOMING NEEDS

*COLD KEGS IN STOCK

*Large selection spirits

COTTON

GLAMOUR WORLD BEAUTY SUPPLY

"Go Bananas over banana clips at Glamour World." (Reg. $1.79)

* Assorted colors & sizes to choose from.

Open Daily 9:30-6 p.m. Sat. 9-1 p.m.

(with coupon) Expires 10-31-86

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

"Pink Floyd"

the Wall

12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT

FRI. & SAT. OCT. 24 & 25

ALL SEATS $2.50

433 Town East Center, Just East of Food 4 Less

ENTRY DEADLINE: Friday, Oct. 24, 5 p.m. in the ENTRY COST: $500 per team

TEAMS ARE CO-REC: 5 men & 5 women

RECREATIONAL SERVICES

LATE NITE October 31 from 11 p.m.-2 a.m.

Rec Services Office

Supported

KSU Faculty and Staff Pay Raises

State Water Plan

- Reorganization of the Court System - Accessibility for the Handicapped in Apartments and Motels

Farm relief and Farm Credit Legislation

The Deciding Difference Vote IVAN SAND

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

521 N. 12th—In Aggieville (across from Eegees & next to Southern Sun)

539-5269

Balloon Lift Off

Marking the Opening

"Wellness Week 86"

Monday, October 27, 1986 10:30 a.m. Island between KSU Union and Seaton Hall

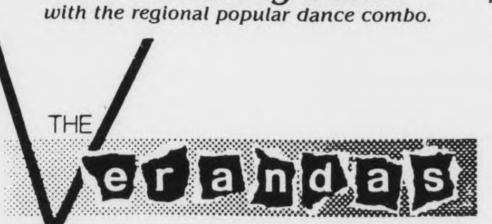

Sponsored by Lafene Health Center & ADES

FREE Balloons

for Everyone

Thursday, October 23, 1986

All University Dance

Thursday, October 30th

Doors open at 8 p.m., Show 9 p.m.-midnight $2.00 Admission Union Ballroom

> In conjunction with "Wellness Week"

Co-sponsored by Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service

> (() k-state union upc eclectic entertainment

Woody Allen's biggest box-office hit since "Annie Hall" has been hailed by critics and audiences as the finest work of his illustrious career. "Hannah and Her Sisters" is an exhilarating observation of life in urban America. Alfen combines poignancy and humor as he explores the complex tangle of relationships within one family during a two-year period. Stars, Mia Farrow, Michael Caine and Woody Tomorrow and Saturday, 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75; KSU ID required; Rated PG-13.

k-state union upc feature films

k-state union

Profound, humorous commentary on the effects of television. Peter Sellers portrays Chance, the gardner, who views the world as he would TV, watching and reacting. His simple solutions make him a national celebrity. Also stars Shirley MacLaine.

Today, 3:30 p.m. in Little Theatre and 7:30 p.m. in Forum Hall $1.75; KSU ID required; Rated PG.

WINNER OF 2 ACADEMY AWARDS PETER SELLERS - Best Actor MELVYN DOUGLAS-Best Supporting Actor

NOV 15 & 16 EXPLORE TWO OF THE DEEP, DARK CAVERNS 132.00 OF CENTRAL MISSOURI!

SIGN-UP: 8:15AM-4:00 PM-ACTIVITIES CENTER STUDENTS - OCT 22 - NOV11 GENERAL - OCT 23 - NOV11

TRIP INCLUDES: 2 Hights Lodging, Deville Motor Inn, Waynesville, Missouri

westate union upc outdoor rec.

Explore the Missouri underworld by attending ORC's Caving Trip. Under the surface of Missouri is a literal honeycomb of caverns and passages. Exploring these caves, which are still untouched by electric lights and cement walks, is a thrill and a challenge. This weekend of adventure will include exploration of two undeveloped caves.

Merchant

Continued from Page 1

because two years ago, police officers were instructed to enforce the law "until such a time that the enforcement of minor violations might incite more serious violations.'

A task force established two years ago to prevent a recurrence of the 1984 near-riot found that enforcement was inconsistent — that is, people on one side of the street were arrested for doing something that those on the other side of the street were getting away with.

"In recognizing that those things did happen, we decided to be consistent in enforcement this time,' Johnson said.

He said he instructed officers Saturday to "go to Aggieville and to maintain consistent application of enforcement."

"That's not at all saying we relaxed enforcement," he said. "No one ever suggested that we keep a low

However, at least one University administrator said police officers had been instructed, at least informally, to relax enforcement.

William Sutton, vice president for educational and student services, said at a meeting he attended Sept. 24, 1986, police had been advised to "take a low profile."

Sutton said although no one specifically told the police department to do so, "it was a term thrown out that everyone seemed to agree with.

The general attitude at the meeting, he said, was that if the police tried to intervene and there weren't enough officers on hand. 'the situation could get bad."

The meeting between officials was conducted so that city of Manhattan and University representatives could discuss plans for the K-State-University of Kansas football game.

Among those attending were Sutton, Johnson, Mayor Rick Mann, Assistant Athletic Director Lee Moon, several Aggieville merchants, city commissioners and representatives of Greek Affairs and the Department of Housing.

Minutes of the meeting indicated that Sutton raised the concern that the RCPD would enforce strict regulations between 3 and 6 p.m. and then relax enforcement in Aggieville.

In response, Johnson said Wednesday his officers were "responsible for using good judgment in regard to attempting to enforce a law which could cause a major disturbance."

That was the attitude taken regarding the car that was set on fire in front of Varsity Theatre, he said.

"The officers tried to remove the car from the area three times, but were simply overwhelmed (by the crowd) when they tried to push it away," he said.

The Manhattan Fire Department did not respond to the scene, said Fire Chief Bill Smith.

"Since it (the burning car) didn't present a problem at that time concerning damage to businesses, we did not respond," Smith said. "We were advised and told to hang back and that's what we did."

Smith said the police department notified his department twice - once about the burning car, and once about a leak in a gas meter, upon which he advised them to call the KPL Gas Service who responded to the leaking gas meter.

Smith said he wasn't at the scene, but monitored the activities over his

"We used the expertise of the police officers at the scene to advise us of the situation," he said. "I'm not saying the police department runs the fire department - they don't."

Smith said though the possibility existed that the burning car could have exploded, that was "not the norm.

"Anytime you overturn a vehicle, there's a possibility it could explode," he said. "But normally, it would just burn.

"Sometimes, it's best not to respond," he said. "We decided long ago that it wasn't to our advantage to be on the scene. We leave it up to the discretion of the police department." As far as crowd control was concerned, Smith said, the fire department was not trained for crowd control and did not have the equipment for it. The nature of the situation, involving a large crowd, influenced the manner in which the police respond-

Johnson said he understood that it would anger anyone to stand inside their business and see people destroying property and "to see officers who, in their opinion, are not doing anything."

"The police were doing what they were supposed to be doing," he said. 'You can't arrest crowds.'

He said by late Saturday night, 65

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for huge color catalog (refunded with first order) to

The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhat-

ATARI 520ST owners interested in exchange of ideas

ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, religious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal and information. Call Ken at 776-6202. (41-43)

tan, Kansas 66502. (40-44)

officers were in Aggieville.

'We had 65 officers on the scene later, which is everybody we've got, except me," he said. "We have an absolute number of people here."

Saum said the department should have had "enough backup to spare a couple of officers to those who needed help.'

"Of course I'm not happy," she said. "But a lot of merchants don't agree with me.'

She said everyone she heard on the radio Wednesday morning was supportive of the police.

"I don't know who's brainwashing everybody, but that's not the way it was," she said.

lax

Continued from Page 1

fect every person who pays a federal income tax and sweep onto the tax rolls many wealthy investors and profitable corporations that have been able to legally avoid the Internal Revenue Service through judicious use of deductions.

More than 20 million couples and individuals, including several milddle-income families whose rate cuts will not make up for loss of deductions, will face tax increases in 1987 and beyond.

Some of the deductions that are being curtailed are the same ones favored by middle-income families: Individual Retirement Accounts, sales taxes, consumer interest, medical expenses, union dues and for those who do not itemize charitable contributions.

On the other hand, the law gradually raises the $1,080 personal exemption to $2,000 and substantially boosts the standard deduction. One major result will be to wipe out the income taxes of more than 6 million working

Analysts are uncertain how the new law will affect the economy, although there is general agreement it will slow growth for the near future before promoting at least a mild up-

Reagan called the bill a tribute to the persistence of the American people, who demanded reform of a tax code that he labeled un-American and "a source of bitterness and discouragement for the average tax-

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15: Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

MAKE WAY! GENERAL

DINK

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

KEEPING

Garfield

Peanuts

IT'S GRATIFYING TO

HAVE A DOG GREET

YOU WHEN YOU GET

HOME FROM SCHOOL

DO TO GET YOU TO GO OUT WITH ME, DOC?

day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecution days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, on, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

BIG FELLER, HOW WOULD YOU

LIKE TO HELP OUT THE CAUSE OF FREEDOM AND AMERICAN

FOREIGN POLICY ?

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

COME CELEBRATE Co-op Month with us. People's Grocery Co-op carries organic grains, Basmati rice, imported and domestic cheeses, organic coffee, over 80 bulk herbs and spices, 40 different teas and much more from our latest shipment. Open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., 811 Colorado. 539-Bloom County

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2

Exp. Date 10/26 (with coupon) ZEN MASTER D. Katahiri-Roshi lectures Friday, October 31, 8 p.m. International Student Center on Philosophy and Practice of Meditation. Instruction available Saturday, November 1. (42-46)

ATTENTION

BUCK-

BUC-KAW!

JPM PAV95 10-25

ENEMY LINES WITH

A TEN-MEGATON

BOMB STRAPPED

TO YOUR

STAND ON YOUR HEAD AND SCREAM LIKE A CHICKEN, FOR STARTERS

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49) KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

DAMMIT, CORPORAL, THE

LITTLE BUGGER TINKLED

ON MY TONY LAMAS

By Berke Breathed

MUST'VE

BEEN A

By Jim Davis

PIGNITY

IS NOT IN

VOCABULARY

By Charles Schulz

$ 516H #

DEMOCRAT

expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer inolved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039. Hayes House of Music 327 Poyntz

DOD Guitar Effects 30% Off Duran's Denison & Claflin

Buy one steak & get the 2nd one for ½ price. Exp. date 10/26 (with coupon)

WEINER ROASTS, barn parties, Christmas parties. We cater. Call Fields of Fair for information and reservations, 539-5328. (42-44)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

HORSE BOARDING available-Stalls, beautiful Flint Hill area, three miles west of town. Call 776-5059. (42-46)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment, 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44)

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campi starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

1219 Claffin-Next to campus-Furnished one bedroom, new carpet, new paint, $260 plus electric. $200 deposit. No children, no pets. 537-1180. (39-

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment. Across Putnam Hall, 1304 North Manhattan, $195, Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (40-44)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1977 VW Rabbit excellent condition reliable must sell for best offer. 537-0165 or 532-5123 (Stuart).

1981 MERCURY Lynx Stationwagon-Good condition, dependable, air conditioning. Call 776-3499 or 532-5865. (40-44)

1979 PONTIAC Sunbird-Yellow, sunroof, stereo new brakes and clutch, looks good, dependable, $2,300. Call 776-3447. (40-44)

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49) 1976 MUSTANG Ghia, 85,000 miles. Great school car or second car, $850. Call 1-494-8326 or 537-8802 and leave number to call back. (42-44) ONE OF a kind 1971 Karman Ghia Volkswagon. New dash, new tires, runs great, shiny red, overall great condition. More information, (913) 263-3000 or 532-2362, #118, Michele, Leave messages please, (42-

1971 FIREBIRD Formula 400-Looks good, runs good, $1,700. Randy, 776-3347 or 776-2054. (42-44)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

36 Peels

40 Vow

41 Porter

45 Skirt

49 Ditto

type

50 Actress

scandal

basis

ACROSS 1 Top fliers 37 Political 5 Director's

8 Famed publisher 12 Caron role 13 Grate contents 14 Rake

15 Footnote abbr. 16 One type of shirt

17 Coven con- 53 Olympus coction 18 Chancel seat

20 '60s musical 22 Like some lenses

26 Cornice supporter 29 Break fast

30 Noisy commotion ALAN 31 Boxer

Spinks 32 Shoot with a ray-gun 33 007

34 Botch up 35 - room

(play area) Yesterday's answer

55 beft DOWN 1 Matures 2 Give as a

930

3 "Gosh," old-style 4 Glass ingredient 47 One vote 5 Supply the chow 6 Exploit Barbara 7 At the 51 Scoundrel top of -8 Satellite 52 "Planet of the path 9 Hallway residents 10 Tint 54 Take to 11 Stitch up court Solution time: 28 min.

LOAM TTERSCASTLE 45 One of th NORMAL precedent 23 Respond to stimuli 24 Hollywood crosser 25 Football players 26 Actor Guinness 27 Pianist Peter 28 Wore away

19 Actor

Chanev

21 Tread the boards

32 Breezes 33 Shop tool 35 Dull routine 36 "Tamerlane' author 38 Pours 39 Furious 42 Cod or May 43 Hymn close

Cologne

46 Altar 10-23 48 — de

CRYPTOQUIP

10-23

JAANSPHJPH'M MNOU NSC

ANPAUCP: WKMAJO WKHPUMM. Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHY AUTOWORKER HAS A WEAK MEMORY: HE COULDN'T STAND TO RECALL.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals C

1976 JEEP CJ7-Red, soft and hard tops, body semirough, make offer, 537-3692, Brian. (42-43) 1976 CORVETTE-34,000 miles, excellent condition. (913) 243-7205 or (913) 243-3510. (43-47)

FOR SALE-MISC COMMODORE 64-Disc drive, printer, monitor, and modem with various software and other hardware Have all boxes and manuals, $750. Call Clay Wal sten at 539-7561. (39-44) COLOR TV, Hitachi, 19", warranty, $150 or best offer. Call Stuart at 537-0165 or 532-5123. (39-43)

LIKE NEW! Gibson SG standard hollow body guitar and hard case. Cherry finish. $475. Call 537-9309.

MIXER, PEAVEY Mark II — 7 channel, stereo with reverb, $300. Must sell. 539-5768. (40-44) 8" OSCAR fish, $8. Call 1-494-2388 St. George. (41-45) TANDY 1000, 384K, Monochrome monitor, dual disk, Epson LX80 NLQ printer, software. Call Curt, 539

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 10/26 (with coupon) 537-3335

VIOLA BY Ernest Heinrich Roth. Excellent condition, $650. Also diving gear including suit, regulators, compensators, etc. Call 539-1311 evenings or

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1982 YAMAHA Virago 750, Bought new 14 months ago, $1,200. Call 537-0834 after 4 p.m. (42-44) BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot. wi dow sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan, Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (42-43)

04

HELP WANTED 13 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701.

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free inform. Write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA,

92625. (27-46) OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels $15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-

6000, ext. OJ-1000. (38-44) AVON -- PART or full time in Manhattan Start as low as $5. Call 1-494-8424 (40-44) THINKING OF taking some time off from school? We need Mother's Helpers. Household duties and childcare. Live in exciting New York City suburbs Room, board, salary included: 203-622-0717 or 914-

LIVE-IN Nanny wanted. Need mature adult, nonsmoker, driver's license, enjoys children. Room and board, good salary, weekends free. Nine-twelve month commitment, Kansas City area. Call (816) 444-6674 collect, weekdays only

APPLICANTS FOR THE POSITION OF EXERCISE LEADER Applicants: must be KSU students, carrying 7 or more hours.

WANTED:

POSITION REQUIREMENTS: 1.) Knowledge of proper exercise technique

2.) Knowledge of aerobic conditioning 3.) Enthusiasm, confidence, poise

* CERTIFICATION PREFERRED * CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recreational Services (532-6980) for an application REC COMPLEX JOB OPENING:

Must be KSU student carrying 7 or more hours Must be available from noon-3:30

EVERY Monday afternoon More work hours will be available next Spring

* Availability to work over vacation periods preferable CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recreational Services (532-6980) for an application.

WANTED-PIZZA delivery driver, full or part-time

Must have own car and insurance. Apply at Falsetto's Pizza, 1127 Moro between 2 and 5 p.m. (42-46) POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Seminar Leaders: Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1987. Specific duties include: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a Social Science or Mathematics class; c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session and d) attending and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) Feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students: c) desire to teach others how to learn; d) are able to relate to many types of people; and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathe matics. Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class. EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit), during Spring 1987 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. (tentative). A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1987 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, con tact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview.(43-46)

PART TIME cook and delivery person. Apply in per son at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison. Contact Jim or Ernie for an appointment. 776-0004. (43-49)

Needed: Experienced carpenters, plumbers, electricians, carpet and/ or lineoleum layers for part-time work during the day, evening or weekends. Must have sufficient expertise to work with limited or no direction. Should also have limited amount of tools for work in the specialty areas.

Call 776-9007

PERSONAL

16 SHE DU's-Don't forget pictures on Friday. (42-43) LISA J. - See you at Charlie's! - The Man in the Hole that you're going with us to Detroit. I know we can make this weekend lots of fun! ILY, M.A.B. (43) UG. Break a leg. Remember: Keep your clothes on! Alka-Seltzer and a lot of P.M.A. (You'll do fine). Your buddy, JordAche. (43)

G.R.A.-YOU don't know how much it means to me

DOUG-I'M so happy to be stuck with you. Happy three year and Happy Birthday. I love you. Janine ART-THIS is the first of many Birthdays to come hope this is a happy one. Happy 22nd. Love ya-Kev. (43) TO THE beautiful, burly men of TKE: We don't have to take our clothes off to have a good time with home-coming. Pomp clothed! Love, the decent gals of

BECKY JO-Happy Birthday From your former "clean" roommates. (43)

PHI TAU Actives: We got Mendo, Fudge, and Rhino (Spew), we even packed a rat and his brother too. Wish you were here. Oh well, life's a beach? The Pledges. (43) TWO-MINUTE Monster (I mean Stanley!): Eight months today, what can we say? From the got can say is I love you! Mrs. Roper. (43) TRI-SIGMA Katrina, (Gertie): My thoughts are with you on opening night. I know you'll be great! Love, Mom. (43) course and Charlie's there's still lots to do, but all I

TO THE Men of Phi Kappa Theta-We've worked hard, but the weeks have been fun. To us, you guys are #1. Love, The Alpha Gams. (43) AD Pi-Sarah-The tests have past and we're ready for fun at last. Come over and have a brew, there's no one I'd rather pomp with than you! AD Pi's and Pikes are #1. Love, your pledge Dad. (43) TO PAT the ATO Wildcat Sajack - Our show is rated # , because of all the work we've done. But all work and no play is not our style; it's time to pomp, get crazy and wild! Love, DDD Vanna Purple. P.S

KAPPA RIDEN-Oh, to be fabulous twenty-twocarefree—no stress—just like you! Even though you can play all day—the stressed one's throwing this wish your way. Happy B-Day! Lisa. (43)

Watch the wheel! (43)

KD's AND Fili's-Hey! Get leied, get pomped Homecoming is going great-just wait until to night, (43)

NAKED POMPERS-Can't you think of anything bet ter to do in the nude? (43) PI PHI Ambassador Candidates, Candy Leonard and Libby Turner: We are so proud of you. We wish you the best of luck this week. Love, your Angel Sis-

DELT CHARLES: Saturday's near, get your suit and tie on; it's the party of the year, we'll party 'til dawn. From Houseboy to Romeo—a rappin' delight; we'll dance and sing with all our might. Love, KKG Patty. BLASTER AND Child - Homecoming's gone fast but hell we've had a blast. Saturday's drawing nearit's the party of the year. I know it's going to be for some fun; because this Personal is now done Love, your KKG Chacks. (43) THETA SUSAN Smith-Happy Birthday! We really hope you don't mind if we celebrate your birthday at a later time. This week is full but Saturday's not meet us at 8:00 and you won't be forgot. Theta love.

great, because you're both first rate. So get ready

Jenny, Jill, Carrie, (43) ROOMMATE WANTED

17 FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom, completely fur nished. 776-4794 before 7 p.m., or 537-0751 eve nings. (41-45)

OWN BATHROOM plus bedroom in luxury two bed-room detached apartment, $200/month plus utilities. 532-5932, ext. 31 (day); 539-2158 (evening). (41-RESPONSIBLE ROOMMATE, for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and rent is already paid. Call 537-9439, late is okay. (41-SERVICES

nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (43tf)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-494-2388. (41-50) GRADUATE STUDENTS: Have your dissertation, thesis, or term paper word processed. Letter quality, reasonable rates, 532-2362 (131), leave message.

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor. 1011
Juliette. 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertations, manuscripts, term papers. (43-45)

WANTED TO BUY

WANTED-FOUR KSU-MU football tickets. Phone 776-6467 evenings. (42-44)

22

Coleman

Continued from Page 1

rest of this season, that will count as one year of eligibility, meaning he'll have only one more year of eligibility," Marchiony said. Coleman, the highest-scoring firstyear player in the nation last year, had been ruled ineligible last February after the NCAA found him to be a non-2.0 grade qualifier out of high school.

The ruling specified that Coleman, a 6-foot-8 forward, could not play in the final two games of the 1985-86 season. It left him with three options:

- He could transfer outside the Big Eight and have three years of eligiblity immediately.

- He could sit out the entire 1986-87 season at K-State and retain two years of eligibility.

- He could sit out until Feb. 27, 1987, and compete the rest of the 1986-87 season but have just one year of eligibility left.

The letter K-State received on Oct. 13 was interpreted as a change in the NCAA's original ruling by Wildcat athletic officials. It was interpreted, in consultation, by the athletic department's attorney and Coleman's attorney Jeff Schemmel. The letter also stated Coleman could practice and receive athletic financial aid from K-State - two things from which he had previously been barred by the first ruling.

"We took a few days to look over it. We waited for over 10 days because the letter went out to the subcommittee on appeals and went out to the NCAA Eligibility Committee. We felt that after those people had gotten a copy of that letter, had there been no other change, the ruling was the one they wanted to pass down," Travis said at the news conference.

Travis said he did not call the NCAA to verify his interpretation of Johnson's letter.

"No, sir, not at all," he said. "They've had a week to digest it and we haven't heard back from anyone. We feel what they stated in the letter is correct.

When told of Marchiony's response, Travis said the NCAA "is opening up a can of worms."

"We took it as fact. The letter could not be more clear. It says he has two years of competition beginning with the 1986-87 academic year," Travis said. 'I can't understand why they'd say something if they didn't mean it. This letter to me seems very specific. I believe they're going to have a hard time changing their mind. I'm really disappointed in the NCAA that they're trying to come back and say something different now. That is not good at all of them."

Coleman, named Big Eight newcomer of the year after averaging more than 24 points and eight rebounds a game, visited five schools after the NCAA ruling last spring. To the surprise of many, though,

Coleman chose to remain at K-State and sit out a year. Indications were that Coleman and Schemmel were prepared to take the issue to court seeking an injunction against the NCAA ruling.

Coleman is taking the new situation in stride. He said he has been through too much confusion with prior NCAA actions to let his moods fluctuate with announcments of new NCAA rulings.

"This is why I didn't get overwhelmed. They've said I couldn't get tuition and couldn't practice; now they say I can," Coleman said. "Now, they've said I can play and I can't. I don't know what is going on. I'm just going to play it by ear, because this is getting routine."

Coleman said he thought the letter from the NCAA was fairly clear, but he'll let his attorney Schemmel worry about the legal implications of the situation.

"It's started up again. I guess I'll just have to consult with my attorney and see what to do next," Coleman

Schemmel told United Press International that Coleman "most definitely" would take the matter to court if the NCAA refuses to abide by K-State interpretation of the letter.

"Quite frankly, I took it to mean it had been reviewed by the NCAA and this was their final decision and this is where they stand. And I don't know why they can't stand on what they tell us," Schemmel said. "If their postition now is that they're not standing by this letter, we are in a big mess — a big legal mess," Schemmel said.

Travis said he did not plan to contact the NCAA over the matter.

"As far as we're concerned, the letter stands. It is very clear. We have checked with our attorneys and our faculty repesentative to the NCAA. They believe it is clear, too."

Hispanic students meet

By The Collegian Staff

The Kansas Hispanic Youth Leadership Symposium attracted about 400 high school and junior college students to campus Wednesday in an effort to emphasize the importance of education.

The purpose of the symposium was to bring together Kansas Hispanic youth between the 10th grade and community college levels, said Dolores Bernal, senior in management and president of the sponsoring organization, Mexican American Council of Students.

During the symposium, speakers encouraged students to seek an education past the secondary level.

The keynote speaker, Samuel Betances, professor of sociology at Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago, spoke about the value of education and bilingualism in a morning presentation in the Union. The afternoon consisted of workshops such as "How to Go to College" and "Doing What I Like and Getting Paid for It.'

A panel of students from K-State and the University of Kansas answered questions in a discussion titled "Meeting the Challenge."

Students were given the opportunity to visit with people representative of a variety of career options during "role model" presentations, Bernal Presentation leaders included faculty members and members of the community representing areas of interest including social services, public administration and law.

"We originally planned on about 150 to 200 students," Bernal said. "I hope it becomes an annual thing."

Traditional bedrest cure can hurt backache victims

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Most people with backaches should get back to work as soon as possible, even if it still hurts, and doctors' traditional prescription of a week in bed is unnecessary and maybe even harmful, new research sug-

Dr. Richard A. Deyo of the Seattle Veterans Administration Medical Center said prolonged confinement can cause patients to lose muscle strength and it also may be bad for the circulatory system.

In addition, he said, "there is a psychological benefit to getting people back to their usual activity and reassuring them that they are going to be fine."

In the study he directed, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, researchers randomly assigned 203 backache sufferers with no evidence of nerve damage to spend either two days in bed or seven days.

In both groups, the pain went away after an average of 11 days. But those told to stay in bed two days missed 45 percent less work, though not everybody stayed in bed as long as they were told.

CLIP, KEEP & SAVE

Save with Style Gals PermsReg. PriceSpecialFeels so Lively. $30 $25Apple Pectin. . $38 $28 Warm & Gentle . . $45 $35

Guys Perms

Body $20 Curly $25

All perms include cut and style FREE can of mousse with perm 539-TAME or 539-8601 404 Humboldt

ARMCO APPLIANCE

VIDEO RENTALS

Free membership and no deposit

Rent 1 tape at $1.50 and get the 2nd one FREE

> (with coupon only) Exp. Date 10/30/86

1122 Laramie St. Handi Corner in Aggieville

539-8786

Dinner Buffet

(with coupon) Exp. Date 10/30/86

FirstBank Center (corner of Denison & Claflin) Hours: 11-2 5-9

Cafe Latino

and Med. Soft Drink

> 606 N. 12th across from Bonkers in Aggieville

Exp. Date 10/30/86

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

We are pleased to announce the arrival of

Sebastian Cellophanes

transparent, temporary hair color $15 with this coupon, a regular $25 value.

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub

12th & Moro-Aggieville

expires 10-29-86 with this coupon only void with other offers

FREE 16" Supreme Pizza

with the purchase of one

A $15.26 Value

Limit one coupon per order

No Expiration Date

Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat. 8-5

Expires 11-28-86

kinko's

Great copies. Great people.

10% Discount on all colored paper Exp. Date 10/30/86

Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 7:30-Midnight Fri. 7:30-7, Sat. 9-5

Sun. 10-Midnight

1110 Laramie 537-7340

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

Any Black Item in Stock

(offer good through Friday, Oct. 24, 1986)

FREE GIFT WEAR UNDERCOVER UNDERSTANDS UNDERWEAR

SPECIAL!

10 sessions for $25 Expires 10/31/86 FirstBank Center

Second Level Denison & Claflin

537-0744

Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 8am.-Midnight Fri. & Sat. 8a.m.-8p.m. Sun. 1p.m.-10p.m.

HOMECOMING SPECIAL 10% OFF

> Any Item In Stock (offer expires Oct. 29, 1986)

HE BOOK

Village Plaza 537-8025

Open Mon.-Sat. 9-9 Sun. 9-8

BURGER

539-383 Hours:

M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat. 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Aggieville Special:

99¢ Whopper after 10 p.m. only (must ask for special before ordering) BUY A CHICKEN SANDWICH

> GET A WHOPPER JR. FREE expires 10/30/86

50¢ off small pizza $1 off medium pizza $2 off large pizza

Exp. Date 10/30/86

11 a.m.-Midnight

7 days a week

Free Delivery

1800 Claflin FirstBank Center 776-0004

THURSDAY IS T.G.I.T. $1 Pitchers!!

HOUR OF POOL (good for one person & one coupon/visit)

Expires 10/30/86

1125 Laramie Plaza Upstairs

776-6338

House Work

Many male students on campus supplement their incomes by working a few hours each day as house boys at sorority houses. See Page 9.

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy today with a 20 percent chance of rain or drizzle, high in low to mid-60s. Wind north 5 to 15 mph.

Sports

Topeka KS

Another Win?

Stan Parrish is looking forward to Saturday's game against Missouri, hoping for a repeat performance of last weekend's victory. See Page 8.

Kansas

Friday October 24, 1986

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 44

Officials expect quieter, not quiet, weekend

Low-profile police action raises questions

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Kansas State University

Controversy about recommendations of a task force formed after the 1984 near-riot in Aggieville continue to cloud responses to police actions in Saturday night's distur-

As some Aggieville merchants criticize what they see as a low-profile reaction by the Riley County Police Department, city officials deny that they recommended relaxed law enforcement.

"I don't think they (the police) were prepared at all," said Tammi Rogers, owner of Aggie Ski and Sport, 1212 Moro St.

"I agree that once all the problems started, there was absolutely nothing they could do, but earlier in the evening, there were people in front of my store jumping up and down on a car," she said. "I could see it was going to get worse."

She said she thought police should have recognized the potential problem earlier in

Alvan Johnson, RCPD director, defended

He said one merchant's complaint that she called and received no response was true.

"That was because all our officers were committed," he said. "Apparently, what they (the merchants) would like to have seen occur was not in line with what the task force recommended.

"Some merchants say police looked the other way," he said. "Our duty was to protect the community. If we'd have put officers in the businesses, we couldn't have protected the community properly.'

Johnson was referring to the task force appointed by the Manhattan City Commission after the near-riot in Aggieville in 1984.

City officials, however, did not seem to agree on the meaning of those recommenda-

One recommendation, Johnson said, dealt with law enforcement, and "our assignments were made in alignment with those recommendations.

However, Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association, said the task force "succeeded in what they wanted to do - keep police from being in-

He said the task force wanted police to be cautious.

"We did not want officers to antagonize, and wanted them to basically be invisible,' he said. "We thought by doing so, the crowd would not be rowdy or cause problems."

Mayor Rick Mann had a different opinion. "The task force made no specific recommendations to the police," he said, "but the Aggieville merchants were very active in conveying the message of what they wanted.'

Johnson also denied the recommendations included relaxed law enforcement in Ag-

Mann agreed. "No, we did not tell the police to keep a low profile," he said.

The main concern of the task force, Mann said, was to make sure no one was seriously

"I know some merchants wish the police could have done more," he said, "but because of the numbers (in the crowd), it would have been hard to take a more active

See POLICE, Page 12

Merchants' official predicts more open-container arrests

By The Collegian Staff

Drinking of alcoholic beverages will not be allowed on Aggieville streets this weekend, said Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association.

"I can tell you right now that this is not going to be tolerated," he said, referring to Saturday night's disturbance.

Jacoby said though no problems have arisen in the past during the weekend after the K-State-University of Kansas football game, the Riley County Police Department wants to eliminate all problems that could

"We just want people to be aware that cereal malt beverage laws will be in stricter enforcement (this weekend)," he said. Jacoby predicts a large number of arrests for the public consumption of cereal malt beverages and liquor this weekend. "I'll bet if you check Monday's police report you'll see a massive number of ar-

"There could be some problems down here," Jacoby said. "We run the chance of an element of individuals coming here looking for something to happen.

He said he believed the police department is setting up the same number of backup units as last week.

RCPD Director Alvan Johnson was unavailable for comment. Thirty arrests were made in Riley County between 12:30 a.m. Saturday and 3 a.m. Sunday, a police report stated. Six of those arrested were KU students and five were

K-State students. Other students arrested were from Wichita State University, Hesston College, Emporia State University and Manhattan High

Charges included driving under the influence, transporting an open cereal malt beverage, theft, minors in possession of alcohol, burglary, criminal damage to property and theft of street signs.

Overspent offices get Senate aid

By The Collegian Staff

After an hour of debate on whether to cover overspending by the Student Governing Association, Student Senate passed all requested final allocations during its meeting Thursday night.

An amendment, proposed by Candy Leonard, junior in human ecology and mass communications, allows for a special allocation to cover the amount of additional spen-

The allocation amounted to an increase from $820 to $1,648 for SGA's cost of printing and advertising. Both expenditures were said to be unavoidable.

Leonard said the printing load was unusually heavy last year because of the need to print special flyers and brochures to inform students about the Fred Bramlage Coliseum and the $700,000, freed by the refinancing of existing student bonds. allocated last spring.

"It was our responsibility to inform the students about these issues, so the printed information was a necessary expense,' Leonard said.

Other senators argued SGA shouldn't be an exception to all other organizations that are required to stay within budget. The amendment passed however, 20-19, in a roll call

Other amendments to the $780,278 budget were a special allocation of $79 to the FONE Crisis Center for the replacement of its broken answering machine, and a special allocation of $235.48 to Legal Services to cover its overspending.

Student Senate meets at 8 p.m. on Thursdays in the Union Big Eight Room. All meetings are open to the public.

Deficit of general-use funds results in $250,000 University reallocation

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity member Doug Scheibe, senior in accounting, leads the Gamma Phi Beta sorority and the Sig Eps in the "Pant the Chant" competition Thursday night

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

Wildcat yells

A general-use unallotted fund deficit of nearly one-third of a million dollars resulted in a $250,000 internal University reallocation process. Previously allocated funds were taken from all accounts in the University's general-use fund on a pro rata basis.

John Moore, assistant vice president of administration and finance, said high priority allocations in the unallocated fund totaled $917.034, and the unallotted balance was only $588,237. This created a deficit of $328,797.

High priorities in the general-use unallotted fund defined by the administration included funding for academic computing, $200,000; instructional equipment, $303,468; University catalogs for the 1986 and 1987 fiscal years, $91,606; science education, $60,000; and funds to pay the salaries of the eight new admissions counselors, $261,960. Moore said the salaries of the counselors were in the unallotted fund and not the general-use budget because they were hired after the budget was drawn up. Their salaries will be included in the general-use program budget next year.

Moore said the deficit cannot be traced to any one of the priorities in the unallotted

"They were all high priorities," he said. The University holds a small pool of unallotted funds every year for the central administration staff to use throughout the year to cover operating expenses like salaries and minor renovations, Moore said.

George Miller, vice president of administration and finance, said the entire general-use program budget was put together before the shortfall was discovered. 'We then notified each department of the impending problem," he said.

The reallocated money was taken from every account in the University's generaluse fund on a pro-rated basis, which means that funds were taken proportionally to how they were originally distributed.

Moore said the internal reallocation may have resulted in some injustices because the administration did not have time to make an in-depth evaluation concerning from where the reallocated funds should have been

"With the time frame they had to work with, this was the most equitable way to split the money," he said.

Using the pro-rated methodology, $167,743 of the $250,000 was taken from University instruction programs to make up for the shortfall. Of that amount, $161,707 was taken in Memorial Stadium. The contest, under the illumination of the traditional bonfire, was won by the Delta Delta Delta sorority and Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

See FUNDS, Page 12

Professors win settlement for product patent rights

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

A $1 million lawsuit concerning a patented invention was settled earlier this week in favor of two K-State professors.

The invention comprises a waterpurifying substance widely used by NASA, Boy Scouts of America and other nationally recognized groups.

Jack Lambert, professor of chemistry and Louis Fina, professor of microbiology, invented a combination of iodine on tiny plastic beads called an ion exchange resin, which destroys bacteria and vires (plural for virus) on contact.

The resin complex, used to purify water, was first patented in 1974. A new patent was obtained in 1980 after the inventors improved the bacteria- and vireskilling power of the complex, Lambert

"Another molecule of iodine was added to the complex, making it effective against Giardia, a germ that causes intestinal inflamation," Fina said. "The process for making this was developed by my son Gary, a K-State graduate and former chemistry instructor, and proven effective by George Marchin, associate professor of biology.

The KSU Research Foundation, which was given rights to the patent by Lambert and Fina, leased the patent rights to Water Technologies Corporation, Ann Arbor, Mich. The corporation developed the Water Tech Water Purifier, utilizing the resin complex invention, Lambert said.

See SUIT, Page 12

NATIONAL

Peace march arrives in New York

NEW YORK - Washington Heights was flooded with a sea of smiles Thursday as hundreds of hardy activists brought their 3,200-mile Great Peace March for Global Nuclear Disarmament to

The diverse group, which ranged from a unicycle rider to four chanting Buddhist monks and from pink-haired youths to whitehaired ladies, was welcomed by politicians and schoolchildren after streaming across a pedestrian walkway on the George Washington Bridge from New Jersey

Many marchers smiled, waved and flashed the two-fingered peace symbol at passing cars while crossing the bridge. In the Washington Heights neighborhood near the bridge, curious residents poked their heads out of apartment windows and someone unfurled a "welcome" sign made from a bedsheet.

NOW delays birthday celebration

WASHINGTON - The National Organization for Women turns 20 next week, but won't observe the birthday until December, when it hopes to celebrate the passage of a state equal rights amendment and the defeat of four anti-abortion referenda

The measures are on ballots Nov. 4 in five states.

"I'm hoping we're going to come through strongly in all of them," NOW President Eleanor Smeal told a news conference Thursday. "We're hoping for some strong surprises.

She said opponents of the anti-abortion initiatives are leading in the polls in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Oregon, but trail in Arkansas. She attributed the Arkansas results to the influence of fundamentalists in a southern state.

All four state measures would cut off government funding of abortions except to prevent the death of a pregnant woman or when a woman's life was endangered.

INTERNATIONAL

Chileans arrest suspected gunmen

SANTIAGO, Chile - Police have arrested five men they suspect fired rifles at President Augusto Pinochet's motorcade during an assassination attempt last month, the military government announced Thursday.

The five young men were the first of 50 suspects identified by an army prosecutor as wanted in the assassination attempt, in which five presidential bodyguards died and 11 were wounded. Pinochet suffered only a cut on his hand.

Francisco Cuadra, secretary general of the government, handed reporters a brief statement Thursday night on the arrests.

Saudis assist Contras, report says

WASHINGTON - Saudia Arabia has spent almost $15 million to supply arms, food, medicine and clothing to the rebels fighting in Nicaragua in the past 18 months, according to a report broadcast Thursday night.

The Saudi Arabian government has denied any involvement in assisting in aid to the rebels, also known as the Contras.

Unidentified sources quoted on "NBC Nightly News" said Lt. Col. Oliver North, on the staff of the National Security Council at the White House, set in motion the Contra-Saudi relationship but did not involve himself in the details of the operation.

The sources said the middle man who did handle the details was retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord. Before his 1983 retirement, Secord was the Pentagon's chief contact with the government of Saudi Arabia. Secord, through his attorney, has denied obtaining materials for the Contras.

REGIONAL

Hayden defends promises to voters

TOPEKA — Republican governor candidate Mike Hayden altered his statements somewhat Thursday, confirming he has made promises to voters during the current campaign but insisting they are only ones on which he can deliver if he is elected Nov. 4.

In an interview with The Associated Press Thursday morning, Hayden strongly backed a statement by his campaign manager, Bud Burke, who told a Statehouse news conference on Wednesday that Hayden "has made no promises" during his campaign with Democrat Tom Docking for the governorship.

Less than an hour later, in a separate interview with a reporter for Radio Station KANU of Lawrence, Hayden modified that stand.

"I'm unaware of any promises that Mike Hayden has made, other than to be a good governor," Burke told reporters Wednesday at a news conference called to publicize the Hayden campaign's claim that Docking has made promises which would cost the state treasury

Authorities close Oklahoma bank

OKLAHOMA CITY - Banking officials closed Stillwater Community Bank on Thursday because of risky lending practices and allowed The Bank, N.A., of McAlester to assume the bank's deposits, officials

Banking Commissioner Robert Y. Empie said the bank would reopen Friday as a branch of the McAlester bank.

The Bank was one of three bidders for the failed bank, Empie said. Empie said the Stillwater bank had applied for assistance through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., but was turned down because it did not meet regional requirements for assistance.

Steve Katsanos of the FDIC said depositors of the failed bank automatically will become depositors of the assuming bank subject to approval by the appropriate court.

The Stillwater bank had total assets of $18.8 million when it was "The bank's management refused to recognize their risky lending practices and institute corrective measures," Empie said.

Drug approved for chemotherapy

TOPEKA - A legislative regulations panel has approved the use of THC, the active ingredient in marijuana, to help control the adverse side effects of chemotherapy in Kansas.

Under a new regulation that goes into effect immediately, the drug is removed from a list of controlled substances which may be used only for research and placed in the category of the most tightly regulated prescription drugs.

The regulation, which the State Rules and Regulations Board approved Wednesday, would allow physicians to prescribe THC for patients undergoing chemotherapy for cancer. The rule was proposed by the State Board of Pharmacy.

Terms of the regulation will allow the use of a synthetic chemical called dronabinol dispensed in a sesame oil-filled soft gelatin capsule.

Rule allows abortion intervention

TOPEKA - New state regulations will enable state officials to intervene with legal action to save the life of an infant born alive as a result of an attempted abortion.

The rules, approved Wednesday by the State Rules and Regulations Board, are aimed primarily at clarifying procedures that hospitals, doctors and others should follow to ensure that medical treatment is not withheld from disabled newborns.

However, Sue McKenna, an attorney for the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, said the regulation also would apply in cases of live births of children who need medical care after an attempted abortion.

K-State Players OKLAHOMA! the Wall Tonight

FRI. & SAT. OCT. 24 & 25

ALL SEATS $2.50

"Purple and White" Swirl CONES and CUPS

& Tomorrow

McCain Auditorium

8 p.m.

CALL 532-6398

50% DISCOU

(on purple & white swirl cones and cups excluding waffle cones)

> This Saturday, Oct. 25 to Everyone Wearing Something Purple!

Enjoy the taste of Ice Cream but with one-fifth the fat and half the calories

GO CATS!

We'll be cheering you on to victory at Homecoming against Missouri

FREE SAMPLES EVERY TIME YOU COME IN

Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. daily Noon-11 p.m. Sunday 705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers, Aggieville

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

"Pink Floyd"

12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT

HOMECOMING SPECIAL

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be on Monday and Tuesday. For more information, call 532-5566 bet-

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for student cancer research awards for 1500 in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec. 5.

TODAY

ZAMBIAN STUDENTS will have a 22nd In-dependence Anniversary at 8:30 p.m. in the lower level of University for Man.

SHE DUs meet for Little Sister pictures from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. in Quinlan

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Hung Hwan Lee at 2:30 p.m. in Cardwell 143. The topic will be "Structure and Dimension of Direchlet Sets."

FRIDAY FOCUS ON WOMEN, sponsored by the Women's Resource Center, meets at noon in Union 213. The panel will discuss "Commuting for

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 6 p.m. in Durland 129. The topic will be "First Jump

SUNDAY

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at

MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. at 421 N. 16th St., Apt. 4.

Balloon Boutique

Balloons for Homecoming! 16" Wildcat Balloons *Ask us about our talking balloons!

- Call Today 539-0106 610 N. 3rd

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS meet

PEO meets at 4:30 p.m. in Call Hall parking lot to drive to meeting together

SHE DUs meet at 9 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon

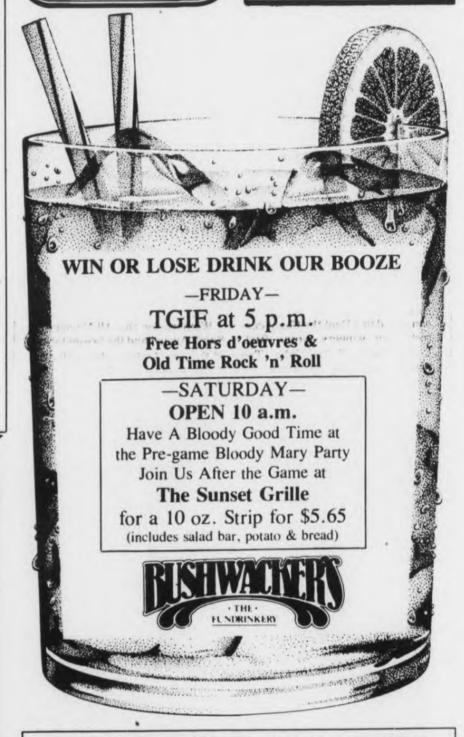

DELT DARLINGS meet for yearbook pictures at 7:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

orrection

Due to a photographer's error Andrea Allen was incorrectly identifed in a cutline in Thursday's Collegian as a sophomore in human ecology. Allen is a freshman in business administration. Mary Kaye Wiemeyer, nurse technician, was also incorrectly identified as Kim Stasa.

BONKERS Tonight Only FALCON

Live On Stage 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.

IT WORKS ALL DAY THOUT WHINING

The NCR 6416 Laser Printer is designed to work wonders on your hard copy without disturbing the peace.

It prints fast, at a swift eight pages per minute (300 characters per second) with crisp, highresolution letter quality. And beautifully, with your choice of four standard typefaces. Font downloading. And graphics features like underscoring, enlarging, reverse imaging, and shading.

Form generation and overlay. Tab setting. Even horizontal and vertical writing modes.

And it does it all quietly at just 55dBs. About as quiet as a turn of a magazine page. The NCR 64l6 Laser Printer won't make a lot of noise. But what it does on paper will create quite a stir.

NCR

The NCR 6416 Laser Printer.

$1795

Students, Faculty, and Staff only.

Meese's view of high court's lawmaking power draws fire

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The head of the American Bar Association on Thursday criticized Attorney General Edwin Meese's statement that Supreme Court decisions on the Constitution do not represent the absolute law of the land.

In a speech Tuesday night at Tulane University in New Orleans, Meese said government officials should be guided by their own views of the Constitution rather than always deferring to the Supreme

One legal scholar said that Meese was "out of contact with reality" while a civil libertarian said his comments were "an invitation to

"Supreme Court decisions are the law of the land just as acts of Congress are the law of the land," Eugene C. Thomas, president of the 200,000-member ABA, the largest lawyers' professional association in the country, said in response to Meese's comments.

"Both can be tested in the courts, but unless and until they are overturned, they are the law of the land," Thomas said.

A Supreme Court decision "binds the parties in the case and also the executive branch for whatever enforcement is necessary," said Meese. But he added that "such a decision does not establish a 'supreme law of the land' that is binding on all persons and parts of government, henceforth and forever-

The ABA president said, however, that until a court decision is overruled, "public officials and private citizens alike are not free simply to disregard that legal holding, for it is a part of the body of binding constitutional law of the land."

Terry Eastland, head of the Justice Department's public affairs office, said that Meese had not been suggesting defiance.

Eastland said that "proper and appropriate ways of disagreeing with the Supreme Court" include seeking to have the court overturn its rulings, as has been done successfully more than 180 times in its history.

Eastland said the attorney general was suggesting that other branches of government and other opponents of the court's rulings should not be 'shy" in "respectfully disagreeing." White House spokesman Larry Speakes, asked to comment Wednesday on Meese's remarks, urged reporters to read the entire speech to understand the context.

The White House spokesman called reporters' attention to a paragraph in a New York Times

The paragraph said: "He said the main point of the speech was 'that when one believes a constitutional decision was wrong, one should not feel shy or uninhibited about responding to it in a responsible fashion."

But Ira Glasser, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, said Meese "is fast establishing himself as the most dangerous public official since Richard Nixon.'

"Meese has added to his reputation as the most radical and dangerous attorney general in this century," said Glasser, who called the comments "an invitation to lawlessness and a breach of constitutional duty to uphold the law.'

Harvard University law professor Philip Heymann, head of the Justice Department's criminal division during the Carter administration, called Meese's remarks "out of contact with reality."

"The overwhelming mass of the American public and all the institutions have long since come to the working conclusion that all the major bodies have to try in good faith to comply with the reasoning of the Supreme Court or to raise the issue with the Supreme Court again to get the court to change it," he said.

Meese's speech is "incomplete, it inadequately addresses the situation," said John Killian, a senior specialist at the congressional research service at the Library of Congress

"A court decision is precedent" and "establishes a meaning of the provision of the Constitution, and future decisions are decided in accordance with that," Killian said.

Killian acknowledged that a Supreme Court decision does not bind people who are not parties to the case, "but it does govern; like cases will be decided by other courts in a

K-State Day includes 1986 homecoming spirit march, bonfire

By The Collegian Staff

K-State Day of the 1986 homecoming activities included the final rounds of the Body Building and Yell Like Hell events.

The teams competing in Body Building were ranked as follows: first, Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha; second, Delta Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega; third, Gamma Phi Beta/Sigma Phi Epsilon; fourth, Kappa Alpha Theta/Sigma Nu; fifth, Alpha Chi Omega/Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The teams received points starting with 50 points for first place, 40 for second, 30 for third, 20 for fourth and 10 for fifth place.

The finalists in the Yell Like Hell contest were ranked as follows: first, Delta Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega receiving 50 points; second, Sigma Sigma Sigma/Sigma Chi receiving 40 points; third, Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha receiving 30 points; fourth, Chi Omega/Tau Kappa Epsilon receiving 20 points; fifth, Kappa Kappa Gamma/Theta Xi/Delta Tau Delta receiving 10 points.

At the bonfire Thursday night at Memorial Stadium, the groups competed in a Pant the Chant contest. The winners were: first, Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega receiving 30 points; se- be announced at halftime.

cond, Pi Beta Phi/Phi Delta Theta receiving 25 points; third, Chi Omega/Tau Kappa Epsilon receiving 20 points.

Athletic Director Larry Travis and football coach Stan Parrish addressed the crowd at the bonfire. The K-State marching band played four songs.

Friday night, the homecoming floats are to be judged between 3 and 6 p.m. on theme development, design, appearance and participation and enthusiasm. The floats will also be judged as they move along the parade route.

The parade will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday. The route starts at Fifth Street and Poyntz Avenue and travels east on Poyntz Avenue to 11th Street, north on 11th Street to Moro Street, east on Moro Street to North 12th Street. south on North 12th Street ending at City Park.

The winners will be announced at halftime of the K-State-University of Missouri football game Saturday. Winners in the float competition in each category and Residence (Greek Hall/Independent) will receive 90 points for first place, 75 for second place, 60 for third place, 50 for fourth place and 40 for fifth place.

Winners for the All-University Spirit Award and the presentation of the new Ambassadors will also

Smithsonian to display professors' art time in its history the Smithsonian

By LYNETTE LINDHOLM Collegian Reporter

Two professors in the Department of Art currently have work included in an exhibit to be displayed in the Smithsonian Institution Nov. 16-Dec.

Duane Noblett, assistant professor of art, and Gary Woodward, associate professor of art, are among 40 American artists whose work comprises the exhibit, sponsored by the Fulbright Alumni Association. The exhibit coincides with the 40th anniversary of the Fulbright pro-

The exhibit also marks the second

Institution will exhibit work not belonging to the Institution.

The Fulbright program selects professors from the United States to go overseas to teach for a year. Noblett was selected to participate in 1981-82, Woodward in 1984-85.

Each participant in the Fulbright program must go through a screening process that first requires a statement of what the professor would contribute to and what they would get out of the program. Then they are interviewed and, if selected, matched with a location overseas that coincides with their teaching specialty and background.

Noblett taught at an art college on the edge of London which, "was particularly enjoyable for me because it allowed me to experience a different, rather crowded atmosphere as opposed to that of the United States,' said Noblett. "It created an ability for me to see art in different perspectives. You come back with a much broader knowledge.

Noblett chose an oil painting titled 'Artist's Studio" for the Smithsonian

"It was different from the other seven paintings that I have done since March which all reflected the outdoor environment. I sent the only one which has to do with an interior

Woodward taught at Manchester Polytechnic in England while in the Fulbright program. He is interested in primitive art and relates this to ob-environment," Noblett said.

jects he finds such as feathers, beads, embroidery thread and climbing rope. His assemblage chosen for the Smithsonian exhibit is representative of this type of art, titled "Ridge Runner.

Both pieces of work done by Noblett and Woolward are currently exhibited in the Swen Parson Gallery at Northern Illinois University. After these two exhibits the artists' work will be either sold or returned to

Energy cost shift leads rise in consumer prices

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Consumer prices rose a seasonally adjusted 0.3 percent last month, led by an abrupt turnaround in energy costs and moderate increases in food and most other commodities, the government reported Thursday.

The increase in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index, equivalent to an annual rate of inflation of 4.1 percent, followed a 0.2 percent rise the month before.

Analysts said the September figures come close to showing the underlying national rate of inflation at the retail level, now that the precipitous declines in oil and gasoline prices of earlier this year have ended.

But because of those previous drops, the nation's 37.4 million Social Security recipients will get just a 1.3 percent cost-of-living increase next

January - the lowest annual increase since an inflation factor was added to the benefit formula in 1975.

Each September's CPI report is used for calculating the Social Security benefit increase.

In other new economic reports:

-The Commerce Department said Americans' personal incomes rose a modest 0.3 percent while consumer spending shot up 1.6 percent last month. The spending surge, which reflected strong car sales, was the biggest since a 1.9 gain in December

-Orders to U.S. factories for bigticket durable goods - including aircraft, heavy machinery and car shipments - shot up 4.9 percent in September, for the biggest increase in almost two years, the department also reported.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige called the durable goods report "one of the key indicators of a strengthening economy."

But Michael K. Evans, president of a private economic forecasting service here, said that while the durable goods report was evidence "the economy is finally beginning to pick up," the personal income and consumer spending figures "are very disappointing.' "Take away cars and (spending) didn't show much change at all," Evans said.

As for last month's price activity, energy prices overall shot up 0.7 percent, with gasoline prices up 2.5 percent after a 4.7 percent decline in August. The turnaround in energy costs followed the late summer agreement by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to limit production.

Cafe Latino

Friday's Special

2 lg. Beef Tostadas, refried beans and iced tea

606 N. 12th across from Bonkers Aggieville open daily 11 a.m.-late

October 27-November

Goetsch & Irvine Motors

H & R Block

Hair Experts

Hardee's

FRIDAY

75¢ Draws

*10.95 Seafood Prime Rib Buffet 5:30-9 p.m.

Dance to Fast Forward 8-midnite

Reservations accepted 539-7531

Ramada Inn

SATURDAY KSU-Missouri Pre-Game Brunch

Breakfast & Luncheon Items 9 to 11:30 Screwdrivers, Bloody Marys 1100

Post Game Italian Buffet $995 4-9 p.m.

or Dinner Menu 4-11 p.m.

Dance to Jill & Mike 8 p.m.-Midnite

Aggie Hair Shapers Al's Deli Arbuthnot's Hallmark Shop Barry's Drugs Ben Franklin Crafts Borck Brothers Brass Buckle Braun's Browne's Ladies' Store Brown's Shoe Fit Burger King Campbell's Campus Cleaners Charlie's Bar Christine's Cinderella Dry Cleaning Claffin Books Clay's Auto Service Cotton Club/Chef Cafe Crimpers Crum's Beauty College D & S Rental Dairy Queen Diamond Connection Drapery World Duerfeldt's Ed Schram Dodge Elkin's Motors

Fashion Eyes

Blue Key wants to thank these fine merchants for their support and contribution to Homecoming 1986

Hayes House of Music Heirloom Portraits Holiday Jewelers I Can't Believe It's Yogurt Impressions Style & Salon J.C. Penney Jean Station Judi's Children's Wear Junior's Barber Shop Kansas State Travel Kaup Furniture Kentucky Fried Chicken Kistner's Flowers Kitchens Plus/Croissant Cafe Klepper Oil Co. Kreem Kup Lady Foot Shoes Lords -N- Ladies Mr. K's Kite's Manhattan Credit Bureau Manhattan Floral Manhattna Hobbies & Toys Manahattan Toyota/Mazda Mar Y Sol Maurice's Merle Norman Cosmetics Olson's Shoe Repair Parkside Conoco & U-Haul People's Heritage

Pizza Hut Pizzaria Polley Florist Reed & Elliot Jewelers Rex's Tire Company The Ritz Safeway S Bar J Western Clothiers Sears Roebuck & Co. Seifert's Shop Quik Show Biz Pizza Snyder Honda So-Fro Fabrics Strecker Gallery Sub -N- Stuff Sun Connection Swanson's Bakery The Book Shop The Fashion Shop & Beauty Salon The Palace The Phone Connection Tom Hawk Photo True Value Hardware Valentino's Varney's Wal Mart Wendy's Westloop Floral Woody's Ladies Shop

Yen Ching

COME TO THE MOVIES

TONIGHT 7:30 p.m.

WE'LL WATCH "ENEMY MINE" STARRING DENNIS QUAID AND LOU GOSSETT JR... HAVE POPCORN AND DISCUSS THE MOVIE. HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE!

Another program of Ecumenical Christian Ministries The Campus Ministry of: The Church of the Brethren The United Church of Christ, The Presbyterian Church (USA). The United Methodist Church

EDITOR Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR Sue Dawson

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Kansas loses revenue without state lottery

ment would benefit the state and Kansas voters should embrace the issue Nov. 4.

Not only would the amendment inject much-needed money into the state's economy, it would also help prevent endless dollars from filtering to neighboring states' lotteries. This situation was observed shortly after the Missouri lottery began operation and hordes of Kansans made the trek across the state line to buy their tickets.

The Missouri store that has the greatest volume of lottery ticket sales is just across the Kansas border near Leavenworth. While Kansans continue to buy Missouri lottery tickets, the benefits of this voluntary tax are not noticed in the state.

Missouri's state schools get the added tax dollars. Missouri's budget is fattened by lottery revenues, and its citizens benefit.

But the amendment issue goes beyond merely saving exiting dollars. It means added revenue this state desperately needs.

However, if the amendment is ment on election day.

Approval of the lottery amend- approved, state legislators should realize they will not have carte blanche control over where the money will go. At the same time voters approve the amendment, they should insist the money be used to strengthen the state's educational system, the farm economy and other ailing industries.

> The primary argument made against approval of the lottery is that poor people will spend money foolishly on the lottery. However, that logic is flawed.

> Statistics indicate more middle- and upper-class people spend money on the lottery. Furthermore, how many poor people spend money foolishly on cigarettes or liquor instead of milk and clothing? It has never been the state's responsibility to regulate the spending of its citizenry and, it shouldn't begin to do that now.

> For the sake of keeping state dollars within the state and generating additional sources of revenue, Kansas voters should say "yes" to the lottery amend-

Reclassification could aid property owners ballot is probably the most important one facing Kansas voters. However, it is probably the least understood.

reappraisal of all property to bring values up to date for tax purposes. When the reappraisal process is completed in 1989, there will be large increases in the value of most property because the last reappraisal was conducted 15 years ago.

These large increases in property value, accompanied by the state constitution requiring uniform and equal tax assessment of all property at 30 percent of its market value, will mean large increases in property tax paid by most Kansans. Property taxes on the average residence in Kansas would increase 50 percent and would double on farms. However, for utilities it will be cut by more than half and commercial property will see a taxes cut by a fourth. would prevent these huge shifts

The property tax classification of the property tax burden to amendment on the November homeowners and farmers by placing property into groups to be taxed at different rates. Instead of the current 30 percent rate, homes will be assessed at 12 per-Kansas is conducting statewide cent of market value and industrial and commercial real estate at 30 percent. Farm land will be taxed at 30 percent of its "use value," or potential to produce income, instead of its fluctuating market value.

> Farm machinery and equipment, livestock and business inventories would be exempt from property tax under the classification amendment. This, in addition to the reduction on business machinery and equipment, is expected to increase the attractiveness of Kansas to outside in-

Under classification, residential, farm and commercial property will still receive small increases in taxes; however, the tax burden would be fair, and farmers and homeowners will be The classification amendment protected from an enormous tax burden.

Letter

Work for benefits

Although the trend in recent years has been of declining unemployment, there are still a great number of people in the United States receiving unemployment and food

While these systems enable those unfortunate people to survive, they increase our national debt, place additional burdens on the taxpayers, and provide little incentive for the lazy to actively seek employment. A good deal of money is also spent paying to have community projects completed and keeping our streets and sidewalks free of lit-

Why not encourage our politicians to make into law a requirement that to be eligible to receive unemployment one must complete a given number of hours of community service? There are vey few people receiving this aid who couldn't paint a park bench, mow the courthouse lawn, or clean up our parks (city, state and national).

Granted, exceptions would have to be made for an unwed mother of three and others, but overall it would make the community a nicer place to live, destroy the impression that our tax dollars are being given to freeloaders, and encourage those receiving it to get up and do something with themselves. In addition, it would free the cities' and counties' funds currently appropriated for the completion of these tasks for other more necessary project like education and emergency services.

Rande Repp freshmen in general arts and sciences

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words.

Only participants can end violence

Another election year, another thrashing of the 'Hawks in Manhattan and another wild party or whatever you want to call what happens in Aggieville after a big victory - let's hear it for the stability of the Reagan era.

I haven't decided which is more ludicrous, the handful of heavy-metal mutants who led the Aggieville party toward violence, or the barrage of commentary, criticism and "proposals to study the problem."

The first group seems to be doing all it can to reinforce the Old West image of Manhattan. "Dear Ma. The folks here is right friendly and really know how to show a feller a good time. Every couple a harvests they all cut loose and sing and dance and shoot up the

The second group - all those concerned merchants, administrators, civic officials and student leaders - seem to be tumbling over one another to tell us how bad things were (or weren't) or how disgraceful people acted (or didn't) or what should be done (or shouldn't be done) to solve the problem (which sometimes isn't a problem). It all reminds me of the complaining I hear about the dorm food. Whether the food is really bad or not, the fashionable thing to do is to gripe, or be fashionably anti-fashionable and say why you're not griping.

I was in Aggieville Saturday night and am still amazed at how so many intelligent creatures can be so stupid. Time for another timely quote: from the pen of Thoreau, "The mass never comes up to the standard of its best members, but on the contrary degrades itself to a level with the lowest.

A friend of mine from West Germany turned to me as the car was ignited and asked, "Why don't the police move in and stop things? Don't they have any water cannons?" I explained to him that, while many Germans are constantly filling the streets over mundane things like cruise missiles or nuclear reactors, Americans tend to wait until something really important

DAN OWENS Collegian

comes along to get militant - like a football

Because it is difficult to predict what American youths are going to consider important next, the police are often caught unaware and lacking in equipment needed to deal with the situation. I mean, who could have predicted that there would be a large unruly crowd in Aggieville after a KU-K-State game?

The debate on who's to blame for all this madness has got to be the funniest thing of all. Was it the students, the administration, the police, the merchants, the football team, the 1984 disturbance, the booze, the Reagan administration, satanical rock-n-roll music, violence on television or lack of prayer in school? Please select any two and write a letter to the editor explaining your choices in 300 words or less.

The same clever lawyer who got Americans hooked on the idea that someone else can be responsible for the crimes you commit is behind all of this. The true people at fault are the people who threw the bottles, started the fights and rolled the car. If you want to blame someone else, blame whatever intelligent city planner decided to locate 12 taverns in a two-block area.

Aggieville businessman Terry Ray is quoted as saying "If you live in Galveston or Corpus Christi and a hurricane comes up, you don't close your business down." Wrong. If you own a business in Galveston or Corpus up your windows, take anything valuable with you and find some high ground. If I owned a business in Aggieville, I'd board up my windows, send my kids to Denver and put a couple of Dobermans in the display window.

Friday, October 24, 1986 - 4

Another simple improvement would be to prohibit cars from parking in Aggieville when KU comes to town, and towing the others who do. Of course, boarding up the windows and removing all the cars is sort of encouraging the madness further, like building a big play-pen for 6,000 drunks.

Perhaps we could reschedule the KU-K-State game for the Friday after Thanksgiving. The weather will probably be bad and half the students will be out of town. Better yet, play the game during finals week, when the weather will be really bad and all the students will be out of town.

Any solution must reduce the concentration of people in Aggieville. We could just have a big party at the KSU Stadium after the game. Tear down the goalposts, roll out the kegs and let's party. No wait, the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics would demand a fee increase to cover the damage costs, then the students would demand a melee because they'd already paid for one.

Maybe we could have a big rock concert after the game out in some pasture. We'll want to avoid any agitation, so we'll bring in the superstars of socially irrelevant pop music. I can see it now, "Cornstalk 87, starring the Scorpions, Cyndi Lauper and Lover-

If I convey a somewhat cynical attitude toward the KU-K-State celebration, perhaps it's because I've seen three such celebrations and heard three rounds of discussion, criticism and solutions. When 6,000 people decide to converge on one spot and drink to excess, one has to expect some problems. Unless you can motivate some of those 6,000 to go somewhere else to party, all the public debate in the world plus 65 policemen aren't going to prevent another rampage.

Some peoples' attitudes intolerable

I'm usually a fairly tolerant person. I can handle just about anything; at least I think I can. There isn't any difficulty tolerating the teasing antics of friends, a loud stereo (depending on the station, of course), a late night phone call, class schedules, papers, etc. People's beliefs are their business, and the personalities of most people can be tolerated, at least for a short time.

But there are a few things that bother me, mainly attitudes.

For example, why would someone refuse to attend a live theater production? The attitude that live theater is too "highbrow" and therefore boring is beyond me.

Live theater fascinates me. It's a thrill to walk into a dimly lit theater, watch the curtain rise on a different world and watch people transform with a gesture, a look, an ac-

It staggers the imagination to realize the amount of hard work, long hours, concentration and effort that goes into the production of two or three hours of entertainment. Why someone would not appreciate that effort and be willing to support the fine arts is mind-

Another example of an attitude I have trouble understanding is the one of superiority. We all have different levels of abilities, intelligence, interests. So why do some people believe they are better than others simply because their minds don't work the same? This is especially hard for me to understand in regard to male chauvinism. I suppose in my own way I tend to lean in the opposite direction, but I just do not understand how a man can feel he is better than I am at whatever. In my own field, which is male-dominated, I have rarely come across a true male chauvinist. But the idea is on the periphery of the entire industry. There are still men in broadcasting who do not and will not accept women as members of the industry. It's changing, but I am just as capable as any man in my chosen career so why can't they let me do my job and do their own? Why do they believe women are incapable of doing the job or of doing it well?

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

An example of another attitude I don't understand is the immaturity of those around me.

Maybe I'm just showing my age, but sometimes the people I have to deal with in my classes act as if they were 5 years old. I realize that in most cases there is a 10-year age gap separating classmates and myself, but I didn't realize 10 years or even a mere eight years would make that much difference. It's like we're from two different

I wonder how the immature attitudes of some people will be accepted in the "real world." There are a lot of people on campus who will have to grow up fast to survive outside this University.

One thing a higher education should do is aid a person in the growing process something that so far has escaped a lot of

I also do not understand the attitude of people who insist on drinking until they get sick. What's the fascination in losing control, in-forgetting what you did or said, in missing out on the fun of knowing what's going on

It's more fascinating for me to watch the people at a party or in a bar, to talk with friends and to dance, than it is to drink myself senseless. Besides, it is almost impossible to deal with someone who has been drinking heavily; they make absolutely no

And to go along with that, I don't understand the crowd mentality (yes, I have to have my say, too) that contributed to last Saturday's fiasco in Aggieville.

Why was it so important to follow everyone else? What is so wonderful about being part of a violent crowd? What is the fascination in that loss of control from drinking or from just going along with the crowd? Where is the fun in breaking windows, throwing bottles and pitchers, in causing someone bodily harm or damaging property?

When I got home from watching movies at a friend's house, there was still the smell of beer in the air and trash all over the street in my neighborhood. But it was finally quiet.

The crowds had gone and the stillness of the early morning hours made a dramatic contrast with the loud music of a few hours. earlier. As I made my way to my apartment, it occurred to me that the people who had! been raising havoc in this neighborhood (and in Aggieville) had probably thought they!

were having fun. But where was the fun the next morning when the cleanup began, the recriminations started and the headaches pounded?

Expulsions hurt monitoring of Soviets

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration acknowledged Thursday that restrictions imposed on the U.S. Embassy in Moscow would limit "our ability to monitor what happens" in the Soviet Union.

But the administration decided not to retaliate for the expulsion of five more American diplomats and urged the Soviets to "put behind us" a dispute over diplomats and spies.

Declaring a cease-fire, Charles E. Redman, the State Department spokesman, said, "We need now to get on with resolution of the larger issues affecting U.S.-Soviet relations and build on the progress made in discussions at Reyjkavik."

The Soviets have expelled 10 American diplomats in a week and withdrawn 260 Russians who worked as cooks, maids, drivers and perform other duties in the embassy and at the U.S. consulate in Leningrad.

"There will have to be some fairly

U.S. opts against further retaliation substantial changes in our staffing pattern," Redman said. He referred to the fact that the 251 U.S. diplomats either will take on the work in addition to their duties or that some will be replaced by American workers.

"But I'm confident," the U.S. official said, "that the dedicated U.S. personnel at our missions in the Soviet Union will continue to perform effectively.'

The Soviets took the actions in response to the U.S. expulsion of 80 Soviets in Washington, New York and San Franciso. An administration official, who demanded anonymity, said Wednesday night the expulsion "decapitated" a Soviet spy opera-

The Soviets also retaliated by imposing stiffer visas and other restrictions on Americans who work temporarily in Moscow, such as on construction of the new U.S. Embassy

Redman said similar curbs would be put on Russian laborers here.

The U.S. official said the two governments had evidently accepted the concept of "parity" in their diplomatic complements and should move on to arms control and other issues pursued by President Reagan and Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the Soviet leader, at the Iceland summit two

Adm. John Poindexter, Reagan's national security adviser, said Thursday the expulsions have run

"We made our point. We are down to parity," said Poindexter, who was accompanying Reagan on a political trip to Wisconsin, told reporters.

As Reagan boarded his plane in Milwaukee, reporters asked whether the war of expulsions had ended. The president just shrugged his shoulders and got on board.

Redman stressed that Reagan stands by his arms reduction proposals. "Translating those proposals into specific negotiating instructions is a complex process." he said. "A decision on how best to table such sweeping proposals is a tactical negotiating one.'

Gorbachev on Wednesday decried the U.S. expulsions as "a provocation," while saying he still saw hope for an arms agreement growing out of the Reykjavik.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes ignored the Soviet leader's criticism and focused on Gorbachev's assertions of good will.

"We believe an historic breakthrough occurred in Reykjavik and there is no turning back," Speakes said. "For the first time, there is serious discussion of arms reductions rather than arms

Residence hall delegation attends leadership meeting

By The Collegian Staff

Thirteen delegates from K-State residence halls will be traveling to Warrensburg, Mo., today for the annual regional conference of the Midwest Association of College and University Residence Halls

The conference begins at 7 tonight at Central Missouri State University and runs through Saturday afternoon, said Jennifer Siebes, junior in arts and sciences. Siebes is the national communication coordinator for K-State.

K-State delegate Dan Pesmark, sophomore in arts and sciences and Putnam historian, will make a presentation about Putnam Hall's RESPECT program. Residents Encouraging Studying, Peaceful Environment and Community Thinking was begun last school year to offer students an alternative living environment. Other programs presented will cover topics ranging from delegation of authority to most successful hall activities, Siebes said. Informative sessions will give officers more ideas about how to do their jobs better, she said.

The purpose of the conference is to help generate ideas among schools. Representatives of various schools will share their experiences with successful and unsuccessful programs, Siebes

Dave Rogowski, fifth-year senior in architectural engineering and associate director of MACURH, said 28 of the 30 schools in the region will be represented at the conference.

Also at the conference, new officers for the region will be elected, Rogowski said.

Last year, when the conference took place at K-State, 350 people attended from 24 schools, said Kelli Nichols, director of Putnam Hall.

Hasenfus pleads innocent in Nicaragua

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - The lawyer for Eugene Hasenfus denied before a revolutionary tribunal Thursday that his American client was guilty of terrorism and violating Nicaraguan security

The attorney, Enrique Sotelo Borgen, also said the People's Tribunal, which is hearing the case, does not have the authority to judge Hasenfus because it "lacks impartiality" and was not appointed by the Supreme Court. Hasenfus, reportedly being held in a prison outside Managua, did not attend the hearing.

Sotelo Borgen said his client "denies, rejects and contradicts...all those" allegations by the leftist

Attention Students:

liquor in public.

NOTICE

The Aggieville Merchants Association would like you to have a safe and fun Homecoming weekend in Aggieville. Please remember that there is a city ordinance prohibiting the consumption of cereal malt beverages or

Have a Happy Homecoming,

He said the tribunal "are judge in part, but on the one hand they are anti-Somocistas and...they judge my client like a Somocista.

Somocista is a term referring to followers of former right-wing President Anastasio Somoza, who was deposed by the leftist Sandinistas in

The lawyer had refused to say in advance what plea he would enter for his client. He and Hasenfus met on Wednesday for two hours at the tribunal offices located about a halfmile from the U.S. Embassy in

It was only the second time he was allowed to meet with his client, the first American taken prisoner in the leftist Sandinista government's 4½-year war against U.S.-supported Griffin Bell, who was U.S. attorney general under President Jimmy Carter, was expected to come here to aid in Hasenfus' defense. Sotelo Borgen said he and Bell would "analyze the case deeply and establish a defensive strategy.'

Bell, of Atlanta, volunteered last week to defend Hasenfus, but the law requires the chief defense lawyer be Nicaraguan.

Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., was captured Oct. 5 when the C-123 cargo plane on which he was a crew member was shot down in southern Nicaragua. It carried arms and supplies for the Contras, and the Sandinistas claim the operation was run by the U.S. government.

Three other men aboard the C-123 were killed.

The People's Tribunal, made up of a lawyer, a truck driver and a laborer, refused Wednesday to grant more time for preparing the case. If convicted, Hasenfus faces up to 30 years in prison.

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State

Saturday 6:15 p.m.

Hardallah Manhattan Jewish Congregation

> 1509 Wreath meeting to follow

Oct. 31 Halloween party at temple 6 p.m. RSVP 776-1963

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

100% SILK

Briefs And Bikinis

1224 Moro

Aggieville Free Gift Wrap

Aggieville Merchants Association

Take Music Bath 5

With the Denver Symphony Orchestra featuring

James Setapen, Conductor and Andre-Michel Schub, Pianist

Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons and you will find it is to the soul what a water bath is to the body. Oliver Wendell Holmes

> Tuesday, November 4, 1986 8:00 p.m. Tickets and Information

McCain Auditorium

(913) 532-6428 Mastercard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts

KSU WILDCAT

SOCCER

KSU Central N ctober 25, 1 p.m. rree Admission

HOMECOMING

Homecoming Day Schedule

9 a.m. Parade 12:05 p.m. KSU - MU Football game

> Halftime Presentation of Ambassadors Spirit Competition Winners announced.

TODAY: Last day of ambassador voting!

THE BEST MEXICAN RESTAURANTE IN AGGIEVILLE

PRICE, AND GET ONE FREE Offer good through 11/2/86 only at: One coupon per visit

Piñata Restaurante 1219 Bluemont in Aggieville

539-3166

NO LIMIT

Don't get snowed. . . Be safe on the road.

CHECK IT OUT!

Watch for the Collegian's upcoming Car Care Advertising Special.

*Provided to you for all your winterizing needs.

Issue will run Oct. 28

tion stations.

policy maker.

me," Runnels said.

possible for voters to register in

In the last election, 80 percent of ballots Nov. 4, they will be choosing how they want the secretary of Runnels said she sees her opponent, Republican Bill Graves, as an administrator, and herself as a

"If they (the voters) want someone who merely executes

(their duties), they will vote for

"If they want a visionary, someone who will get the people of the state registered (to vote) and give them the tools to make an informed vote, they will vote for Runnels said she hadn't thought about running for secretary of state until some friends of hers said she should run after

Democrat Jack Brier, who currently holds the office, announced

Runnels is emphasizing the administration of election laws and what she says is a need to increase

Runnels, 51, once was a lobbyist for the Kansas Nurses Association, served as legislative liaison for Gov. John Carlin and for the past four years has represented a

Topeka district in the Kansas his candidacy for governor.

eligible voters' awareness

When Kansas voters cast their registered voters cast ballots.

state's office run, she said.

Candidates campaign in Manhattan

Runnel's goal to increase voter registration in state

By The Collegian Staff

A more aggressive voter registration policy is the goal of Democratic secretary of state candidate Judy Runnels.

Between two-fifths and onethird of Kansans who are eligible to vote are not registered, Run-

The state should "have voter registration in places where people go," she said.

Another of Runnels' top priorities if she is elected will be voter education.

Election *

She said she suggested a plan for mailing explanatory ballots for special questions and issues before each election.

The ballots would have the question itself in its official language, a statement defining the question and a discussion between wellknown proponents and opponents of the issue, Runnels said.

"I think one reason people don't participate (in elections), is people don't understand the issues," she said.

"I think you understand an issue when you hear views for it and against it."

Runnels said she has made voter awareness a strong theme in her campaign because she wants to give "people the tools to make an informed vote.'

As a legislator, she said she has sponsored a bill which makes it

Graves calls post unique, cites wide range of duties

By The Collegian Staff

some driver's license examina-Bill Graves, Republican candidate for secretary of state, spent When Kansans do register to vote, they turn out at the polls several days campaigning in Manhattan this week. more than in almost any other state in the nation, Runnels said.

Graves faces off with Judy Runnels, Democratic candidate for the position in the Nov. 4 election. Jack Brier, current secretary of state, is not seeking re-election. Brier made an unsuccessful bid for the Republican nomination for governor in the August primary.

Graves said he is campaigning at K-State because he thinks students are an important body of

"Students are eligible voters, and they are part of the constituency I serve," Graves said. "Historically, people in this age group don't vote in large numbers. I hope I can influence them to get out to vote, and to vote for me.

Graves has worked in the secretary of state's office since August 1980. In January 1985, he was promoted to assistant secretary of state.

"I decided to run because the opportunity presented itself," Graves said. "I suppose everyone aspires to a higher position - to want their boss' job.

Graves said he thinks he is the best candidate for the position because "...I have a much broader range of all of the functions in the office than does my op-

In addition to being the state's chief elections officer, Graves said, the secretary of state performs other vital functions for the

The secretary of state administers the general corporation code, which is the set of laws governing the creation and legal operation of the more than 65,000 corporations in Kansas. The secretary of state also administers the uniform commercial code, which is the central filing system for collatoral agreements between borrowers and lenders.

Graves said the race for secretary of state is unique because there is not a significant issue the candidates can "...grab onto to spur debate because our office isn't like that," since the office's duties are primarily administrative.

"In this campaign," Graves said, "my opponent has stressed elections because that is what people will recognize. This is politically smart, but it is not an honest assessment of what our office does."

Graves' main priority, if elected, will be voter education.

"We have a problem of people not understanding how our system works," Graves said. "My priority would be to get around the state and talk to people about the importance of being involved. We need to get people's adrenaline flowing and get people interested."

Graves' campaign is emphasizing central filing of Uniform Commercial Code financing statements, allowing those who work in Kansas but live in other states to become notaries in this

Social Security payees face smallest increase

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The nation's 37.4 million Social Security beneficiaries next January will find the smallest raise ever in their checks: 1.3 percent, or $6 a month for the typical retired worker.

Most of the elderly will find their "take home" pay from the retirement program going up even less than that because they will be charged $2.40 more each month for Medicare coverage starting in January.

And some 8.5 million people earning more than $42,000 will have to pay up to 4.3 percent more payroll taxes in 1987 to help cover the $2.6 billion cost of the increase.

The 1.3 percent raise became official Thursday when the Labor Department announced the Consumer Price Index for September.

It means the average monthly benefit for all retired workers will rise from $482 to $488. For an elderly couple, the average payment will go up by $11, from $822 to $833.

The maximum Social Security benefit for someone retiring in 1986 at age 65 will climb by $9, from $760 to $769.

The boost matches the inflation rise from the third quarter of 1985 through the third quarter of this

Social Security beneficiaries would have gotten no increase at all for 1986 had not Congress and President Reagan abolished a provision in the law that ruled out benefit hikes when inflation fell below an annual rate of 3 percent.

It marks the fourth straight year in which Social Security's cost-of-living adjustment has dipped to, or stayed at, a record low. It is the smallest increase by far since benefits were buffered against inflation in 1975.

The 1983 and 1984 benefit hikes were both 3.5 percent. The 1985 increase, which showed up in checks last January, was 3.1 percent.

Inflation has abated sharply since 1980, when Social Security benefits soared 14.3 percent. But the elderly, who comprise almost three-quarters of all Social Security beneficiaries, are getting no break from inflation on some medical costs The government announced previously that the monthly charge for Part B coverage of Medicare, which pays some doctor bills and other out-of-hospital costs, will jump from $15.50 to $17.90 on Jan. 1, a 15.5 percent increase.

And Medicare patients will have to pay $520 out of their own pockets for their first day in the hospital in 1987. That is up by $28, or 5.7 percent, from

That Medicare charge would have jumped to $572 - more than 16 percent - had not Congress and Reagan mitigated the increase.

The half-trillion-dollar spending bill that Reagan signed Tuesday disarmed the COLA 3-percent trigger and fixed the Medicare charge at

Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen said the 1.3 percent increase will appear in checks that Social Security beneficiaries receive on Jan. 2, and also in the checks that 3.8 million Supplemental Security Income welfare recipients get on Dec. 31.

The benefit increase also frees the government to lift the ceiling on wages subject to Social Security's 7.15 percent payroll tax.

The government will levy the tax on earnings up to $43,800 in 1987, up from this year's $42,000 cutoff. The tax rate does not change until 1988.

The maximum tax on an individual worker in 1987 will be $3,131.70, an increase of $128.70, or 4.29 percent, from this year's maximum of $3,003. Employers must kick in the same amount.

The self-employed, who pay a 12.3 percent tax, will see their maximum tax rise by $221.40 to $5,387.40.

HALLOWEEN ALL CAMPUS COSTUME DANCE AND SPOOKHOUSE Friday, Oct. 24, 9 p.m.-1:30 a.m.

Admission: $2.50 a person, includes Spookhouse and Dance Intersection of Anderson and Denison (711 Denison)

Rock 'n' Roll music by Best Sound Around

Sponsored by Newman Ministries

TODAY IS THE LAST DAY TO

This is the last week Yearbook Associates will be on campus taking portraits for the Royal Purple. Don't miss out!! If you forgot to sign up with your living group, it's not too late.

Come on in between your classes and get your picture taken. For information call 539-5229. Take your stamped fee card to Union 209 and don't miss out on being in the 1987 Royal Purple.

8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30-5:30 p.m.

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel.

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people.

South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johannesburg.

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel. In Johannesburg, about 400 people gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apartheid.

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the Ministry spokesman Awie Marais. Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

crash site Friday, said Foreign

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend a public official.

Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office. However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

Your gift can make a difference.

ertwork on alsplay, p. 3.

at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied:

'Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 2

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials.'

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right,' Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

Jean Station

!S

y wily of

to our er OU

TAL

76-3300

In rei The U.S. fl ing the Ma Reagan or extended t

Agric to bo

By Th With the go K-State footh funds for Agricultural been selling home games Fridays.

"We came people excite ball," said agriculture e of the club.

The club de as a fund-rai. and projects f tion, which b season, has port from se chants.

But that h meet the club "The towel as we expect senior in agr also a memb "When we

> kir Mon 7:

Frid Sa Sunda 1110 Lara

FAMO DOWNTOW 331 POYNTZ MON.-SAT. THURS. 9:30

A different look at Lady Liberty, p. 6

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people.

South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johan-

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries.

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel.

In Johannesburg, about 400 people gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apartheid.

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the crash site Friday, said Foreign Ministry spokesman Awie Marais. Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Your aiff can make

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend

a public official. Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office. However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied:

'Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settlement Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials."

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right," Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

THE Jean Station

Friday, October 24, 1986

| Television | Index |
|----------------|-----------------|
| N | fanhattan Cable |
| KSNT (NBC) | 7 |
| WIBW (CBS) | 3 |
| KLDH (ABC) | 2 |
| KSHB (IND) | 8 |
| KTWU (PBS) | 11 |
| WGN (IND) | 10 |
| WTBS (IND) | 12 |
| Premium cable: | |

HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Fintertainment

EDITOR Chris Stewart ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER

Patti Hannan GRAPHIC ARTIST Carlos Corredor

On Our Cover

Laurey and her beau Curly, portrayed by Stephanie Sikes and Dwight Tolar, ride in a makebelieve surrey during the first act of "OKLAHOMA!," which opened Thursday night in McCain Auditorium. Performance of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical continues at 8 tonight and Saturday. "OKLAHOMA!" is presented by the departments of speech and music. See page 4.

Cover photo by Gary Lytle

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1986

| 3 | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|---------------|---------------------------|-------------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo_ | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Bye Bye | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Movie:
"Morons From | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | | " | 11 | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Birdie" | "The Grey
Fox" | Outer Space" "Life Of The | SpeedWeek
Sports |
| 9:00 | | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Be Thinner
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"The | "Remo
Williams: The | Movie:
"The Girl With | Party: The
Story Of | America's
Cup |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Stranger" | Adventure
Begins" | Green Eyes" | Beatrice"
In America | Wrestling
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Society
Society | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Murrow" | Movie:
"My Science | Movie:
"The Wall" | Aerobics
Running |
| 12:00 | | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Crime Club" | " | Project" | " | CFL Football
Calgary at |
| 1:00 | Lives | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Mystery! | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett |
WomanWatch | Movie:
"Door To | Movie:
"Streets Of | Movie: | Edmonton |
| | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Kitchen
Painting | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Door" | Fire", | "Old Enough" | PGA Golf
Vantage |
| | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Out Of Step | Movie:
"Whistle Down | Movie:
"A Test Of | Champ. |
| A:00 | | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Rocky Road
Safe At Home | Movie:
"Advice To | The Wind" | Love"
Movie: | Auto Racing
Frontier 500 |
| | 3's Company | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | The Lovelorn" | Movie:
"The Grey | "Gloria" | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | News | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Inside The
NFL | Fox" | Comedy | SportsCenter
Moments |
| 7:00 | | Garfield
Charlie Brown | Webster
Mr. Belvedere | Barnaby Jones | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | Movie:
"Night Of The | Movie:
"Pillow Talk" | Movie:
"Maxie" | Huey Lewis
Movie: | Movie:
"Beer" | Wrestling |
| 8:00 | | Dallas | SI. Hammer
Sidekicks | Movie:
"The | Decision '86
McLaughlin | Juggler" | " | | "My Science
Project" | In America | Top Rank
Boxing |
| 9:30 | | Falcon Crest | Starman | Desperate
Hours" | Innovation
Market | News | Sanford | Movie:
"Jagged | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"Morons From | Freddy Road
vs. David |
| 10:30 | News | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Night Tracks -
Power Play | Edge" | Company Of Wolves" | Outer Space"
M. Headroom | Rivello
SportsCenter |
| 11:30 | 11 | Stephen
King's World | Movie:
"Exorcist II: | News
Movie: | Ctry. Express | Movie: | Night Tracks | Weird Tales
Movie | Movie:
"Altered | Movie:
"Tigers In | NFL Game
SpeedWeek |
| | Evening News | Be Thinner | The Heretic" | "Cast A Dark
Shadow" | | "Plague Of
The Zombies" | Night Tracks | " | States"
Elayne Boosler | Lipstick"
Movie | Fishing
Running |

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|------------------------|---------------------------|---------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Kissyfur | B'stain Bears
Wildfire | Wuzzles
Care Bears | Tom And Jerry
Kideo TV | Algebra | Farm Report
World Tom. | Wrestling | Movie Cont'd
Worst Witch | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Movie:
"Hollywood | Fishin' Hole |
| 8:00 | | Muppets | Flintstone
Kids | н | Photo Vision
Photo Vision | Charlando
Business | National
Geographic | | "The
Whisperers" | Ghost Stories"
Movie: | Fishing
Fishing |
| 9:00 | | Playhouse
Teen Wolf | Ghostbusters
Pd. Puppies | Bugs Bunny
And Porky Pig | S. Previews
Old House | People
Wild Kingdom | Explorer | Inside The
NFL | Movie: | "Time Bomb" | Running
Hydroplane |
| 40:00 | Chipmunks
Universe | Galaxy High
Circus | Bugs Bunny
New Ewoks | Puttin' On | Motorweek
Dr. Marc | Photon
Transformers | Cimarron Strip | Movie:
"Sphinx" | "Tennessee
Champ" | Movie: | Racing
NFL Stars |
| 4 4:00 | Muppets | Hulk Hogan | Weekend
Littles | Lifestyles | Painting
Vict. Garden | Jem
Pound | College | " | Movie:
"Second-Hand | "The Final
Countdown" | SpoCtr.
Women's |
| 12:30 | College | Movie: | Bandstand
Dukes Of | Lost In Space | Sesame Street | Puppies
Star Fairies | Football
Minnesota at | Movie Makers
Movie: | Hearts" | Movie: | Bowling
Pro Tour |
| 4:00 | Missouri at | Tomorrow" | Hazzard
Generation | Incredible
Hulk | Write Course
Write Course | Movie: | Ohio State | "The Aviator" | Tall Tales &
Legends | "The Spiral
Staircase" | Auto Racing
Racing |
| 2:00 | " | College | Pregame
College | Bionic Woman | Society
Society | "Tough As
They Come" | 0. | Movie: | Movie:
"Garbo Talks" | Movie Show | PGA Golf
Vantage |
| 3:00 | | Football
Southern Cal | Football
Alabama at | Battlestar
Galactica | Psychology
Psychology | Soul Train | Bonanza | "Eleni" | | Movie:
"2010" | Champ. |
| | | at Stanford | Penn State | Buck Rogers | Congress
Congress | Puttin' On
Good Times | O. Wilson
Motorweek | Movie: | Movie:
"Love With A | | Auto Racing
Grand Prix of |
| E:00 | | " | " | Black Sheep
Squadron | GED
GED | It's A Living
Big Family | Wrestling | "Dune" | Perfect
Stranger" | Movie:
"The | Mexico
Scholastic |
| 6:00 | | Mama's Family
GEO | Buddies
9 To 5 | Throb
Big Family | Creatures
Great & Small | Country
At The Movies | College
Football | W | Movie:
"Second-Hand | Philadelphia
Experiment" | F'ball Scores
College |
| 7:00 | W. Series | Downtown | Life With Lucy
Ellen Burstyn | Lifestyles | WndrWks. | Movie:
"The Split" | Tennessee at
Georgia Tech | Movie:
"The Holcroft | Hearts" | Movie:
"Altered | Football
Auburn at |
| 0:00 | W. Series | Movie:
"Psycho II" | Heart Of The
City | Movie:
"Belle Starr" | Austin City
Limits | |  | Covenant" | Movie:
"Death Wish | States" | Mississippi
State |
| | | rsycholi
" | Spenser: For Hire | 11 | Special Oper. | News | Sanford | Buddy Hackett | 3" | Movie:
"The Final | " |
| 10:30 | News
Siskel & Ebert | News
Solid Gold | Taxi
Movie: | M.T. Moore
Movie: | I, Claudius | Write Songs
Lifestyles | Night Tracks:
Chartbusters | Movie:
"Stripes" | Movie:
"Night | Countdown" | F'ball Rpt.
SportsCenter |
| | Saturday | It's A Living | "Red Alert" | "The Man Who Lived Twice" | Ferlinghetti's | Police Story | Night Tracks | 11 | School"
Gallagher | Movie:
"Wild Geese | Wrestling |
| 10:00 | MTV Top 20 | At The Movies
News | Rifleman | Solid Gold | | Twilight Zone | Night Tracks | "Porky's
Revenge" | Movie | II"
Movie | College
Football |

tucky Fried Chicken.

K-State Homecoming Special

9 PIECES ONLY $7.29

*Great for tailgate parties or post-game celebrations!

Expires 10-30-86

ENJOY YOUR LEISURE TIME! Discover LAUNDRY LAND

Drop off your laundry . . . we'll do it for you 7 days a week!

Bring us all your washables for same day wash-dry-fold laundry service. Dry cleaning and self service also available. Try our quick professional service, you'll be glad you did!

2048 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd.

776-1939

oid

ents

ever

'our

cies

yst

10W

itely ofes-

d to our ıber

ITAL

776-3300

of

to

FAMO DOWNTOW 331 POYNTA MON.-SAT. THURS. 9:30

In rei The U.S. fl ing the Ma Reagan or extended t

Agric

to bo

By Th

With the go

K-State footh

funds for

Agricultural been selling home games Fridays. "We came people excita ball," said

agriculture e

The club de

as a fund-rai

and projects

tion, which b

season, has

port from se

But that h

kir

Mon 7: Frid Si Sunda 1110 Lara meet the clul "The towe! as we expect senior in agr also a memb "When we chants.

of the club.

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel.

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people. South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johannesburg.

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings. The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel.

In Johannesburg, about 400 people

gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apartheid.

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the crash site Friday, said Foreign Ministry spokesman Awie Marais. Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend a public official.

Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office.

However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

Your gift can make a difference.

at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied: 'Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future." He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 2

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials.'

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right, Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

Jean Station

23 3 103 10 M Friday, October 24, 1986

Friday, October 24, 1986

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|----------------------------|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------------|--------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------|----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | J. Kennedy | Jerry Falwell | Jimmy
Swaggart | Superfriends
Superfriends | Algebra | R. Schuller
Of Faith | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Movie Cont'd
Fraggle Rock | Red Balloon
Movie: | "Cat's Eye"
Cont'd | College
Football |
| 8:00 | L. Lundstrom
Robert | Discovery
Truth | Kenneth
Copeland | Wrestling | Sesame Street | Sunday Mass
Superman | Cont'd
Andy Griffith | Movie:
"The Great | "Ups &
Downs" | M. Headroom
Movie: | Auto Racing
Grand Prix o |
| 9:30 | Schuller
Jimmy | Oral Roberts
Larry Jones | It Is Written
David Brinkley | Wild, Wild
West | Mister Rogers
Special | Cisco Kid
Lone Ranger | Good News
Movie: | Muppet
Caper" | Movie: | "My Science
Project" | Australia |
| 10:30 | Swaggart
World Tom. | Sunday
Morning | Abb. & Cost. | Maverick | Sesame Street | Rawhide | "The Horse
Soldiers" | Movie:
"To Find My | "The Grey
Fox" | Movie: | SpoCtr.
SportsCente |
| 11:30 | | NFL Today | Wrestling | Star Trek | Reading
Secret City | Wild, Wild
West | " | Son" | Paper Chase | "Man With One
Red Shoe" | Sunday
NFL Game |
| 12:30 | NFL Football
Regional | NFL Football
Detroit Lions | Movie:
"Cool Hand | Movie:
"Tarzan And | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | Movie | Movie:
"Billy The Kid" | All-Star Rock
Concert | Movie:
"Cimarron" | Movie:
"Love and | Scholastic
Auto Racing |
| 1:00 | coverage | at Chicago
Bears | Luke" | The Great
River" | Money World
Vintage Years | "Castaways On | " | Movie:
"Supergirl" | " | Larceny" | IMSA GT
Series |
| 2:00 | 31
14 | | Rifleman | Movie:
"Ma And Pa | Shakespeare
Hour | Gilligan's
Island" | National
Geographic | " | The Red
Balloon | "Life Of The | " |
| 3:00 | NFL Football
Seattle | America's | Movie:
"Cooley High" | Kettle On Vacation" | Firing Line | Movie:
"The Sea | Explorer
Movie: | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Party: The
Story Of | PGA Golf |
| 4:00 | Seahawks at
Denver | Marathon | " | Movie:
"Father Was A | Communidad
Espanol | Hawk" | "The
Incredible Mr. | | " | Beatrice"
Movie: | Vantage
Champ. |
| 5:00 | Broncos | CBS News
News | Fame | Fullback" | The Africans | Fame | Limpet"
New Beaver | Fraggle Rock | Movie:
"Cannonball | "Better Off
Dead" | Fishing |
| 6:00 | Our House | 60 Minutes | Movie:
"The B.R.A.T. | Solid Gold | Wild America
Nature Profiles | Entrepreneurs | Wrestling | Worst Witch | Run II" | In America | SportsCente
Moments |
| 7:00 | W. Series
Movie / World | Murder, She
Wrote | Patrol" | KC Prime
It's A Living | Nature | Love Boat | National
Geographic | Movie:
"Florida | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"Cat's Eye" | Wrestling |
| 8:00 | Series:
"The Natural" | Movie:
"Who Is | Movie:
"Easy Prey" | Ted Knight
Check It Out! | Masterpiece
Theatre | Odd Couple | Explorer:
World Safari | Straits" | Underground" | Movie: | " " |
| 9:30 | | Julia?" | 0 | Tales
Write Songs | Great
Performances | News | Sports Page
Jerry Falwell | All-Star Rock
Concert | Brothers
Bizarre | "Vision Quest" | Women's
Billiards |
| 10:30 | News | News
Debate | Taxi
Football | Mama's Family
Movie: | Movie:
"Mrs. Mike" | Tales
Lou Grant | J. Ankerberg | Movie:
"Volunteers" | Elton John
Breaking | Movie: | SportsCenter |
| | Throb
Stan Parrish | Business Day
Review | Mannix | "The Ice
Pirates" | | Fame | Jimmy
Swaggart | : | Hearts Tour | "The
Gauntlet" | Kick Boxing
From |
| 12:00 | Community
Gene Scott | | Fame | | | Cannon | World Tom.
Larry Jones | Movie:
"Body Double" | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Movie | Atlanta |

MONDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------------|-----------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"The Heavenly | Movie:
"Cloak And | Movie:
"The Wall" | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | | | | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Kid"
Movie: | Dagger" | Cont'd | PGA Golf
Vantage |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"The Slender | "Places in The Heart" | Movie:
"Gold Is | Movie:
"Cannery | Champ. |
| 10:30 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Thread" | Lionel Richie | Where You
Find It" | Row" | Play Golf
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Oxford | Movie:
"Victory" | Movie:
"The Jigsaw | Aerobics
Racing |
| 12:30 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Fort Dobbs" | Blues" | " | Man"
Movie: | College
Football |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nature | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | | Movie:
"Android" | Movie:
"Cloak And | "Back To
Bataan" | Auburn at
Mississippi |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Wildlife
McLaughlin | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Adventures Of | Dagger" | Movie: | State |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Be Thinner
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurts | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Robin Hood
To Climb | The Late Great
Me | "Trancers" | Wrestling |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | Movie:
"Oh God! You |
Redhawk | Movie Show | America's
Cup |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | New Beaver
Down To Earth | Devil" | Movie:
"The Girl With | Movie:
"The Final | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
NBA | Lionel Richie
Fraggle Rock | Green Eyes" | Countdown" | SportsCenter
NFL Films |
| 7:00 | Amazing
Stories | Kate & Allie
My Sister Sam | MacGyver | Barnaby Jones | Universe
Changed | Bare Essence | Basketball
Mavericks at | Movie:
"Places In The | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"Revenge Of | Magic Years
NFL Matchup |
| 8:00 | Movie:
"Stranger In | Newhart
D. Women | NFL Football
Washington | Movie:
"The Deer | West Of The
Imagination | " | Celtics | Heart" | Underground" | The Nerds"
Comedy | Auto Racing
IMSA GT |
| 9:00 | My Bed" | Cagney &
Lacey | Redskins at
New York | Hunter" | Story Of
English | News | Movie:
"Lonely Are | Movie:
"Lifeforce" | Movie:
"Victory" | Movie:
"Wild Geese | Series
Bodybuilding |
| | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Giants | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | The Brave" | " | " | W" | Mixed Pairs
SportsCenter |
| 11:00 | David | Night Heat | Football
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | J. McLaughlin | Movie: | National
Geographic | Robin Williams
At The Met | Movie:
"Company Of | Movie:
"Altered | Golf
Citicorp |
| 12:30 | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Quarterback
Princess" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "To Each His Own" | Explorer:
World Safari | "Doctor And
The Devils" | Wolves"
Movie | States" | Classic
1985 Bills |

State artists exhibit work in local show

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

One of the largest collections of orginal artwork by contemporary Kansas artists is on display until Nov. 1 in FirstBank's main branch lobby, 701 Poyntz Ave. The exhibit consists of more than 200 drawings and paintings selected from the ninth series of the Kansas Artists

Postcard competition. The touring exhibit is a project of the Association of Community Arts Agencies of Kansas. Charles Hostetler, president of the board of directors of FirstBank, is a member of the ACAAK board of directors and agreed to sponsor the

The ACAAK is a statewide assembly of community arts agencies. A non-profit organization, the ACAAK provides a communications network, programs, and services to Kansas community arts

The exhibit will appear in more than 20 locations throughout Kansas. The exhibit consists of nine series of postcard-size artwork. It is rare that all series are displayed in one place at the same time said John Biggs, director of the Manhattan Arts Council. The ACAAK began its postcard project in 1978 to honor exceptional Kansas artists and to make quality Kansas artwork available to Kansas residents.

A complete set of each series in postcards is available at the FirstBank main branch. Series five, six and eight are currently not available.

This series contains artwork such as "I Don't Think We're in Kansas Anymore", by Louis Copt and "Kansas' Summer" by Pat Snekser Jancoek. Also added to this series is a special piece honoring Kansas' 125th birthday titled "Self Portrait With Flowers" by Elizabeth Layton.

The Manhattan Arts Council also features another exhibit of Kansas Artists this month. The Kansas Landscape is an exhibit featuring 32 paintings by some of the state's finest landscape artists. The exhibition was organized by the Arts Council of Topeka and is currently being displayed at Union National

Lee's Western Wear

Lee, Levi & Wrangler *All Jeans In Stock

10% off

(with coupon) located 2 miles east of K-Mart on Hwy. 24 776-6715

Good through 11/1/86

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK with this coupon only

with the purchase of any sub

12th & Moro-Aggieville void with other offers ITAL 776-3300

S

oid

ents

ver

'our

cies

yst

10W

itely ifes-

d to our ber

you

of

to

DOWNTOW 331 POYNT? MON.-SAT. THURS. 9:30

In rei

The U.S. fl ing the Ma Reagan or extended t

Agric

to bo

By Th

With the go

K-State foots

funds for

Agricultural

been selling

home games

"We came people excite

agriculture e

The club de

as a fund-rai

and projects !

tion, which b

season, has port from se

But that h

"The towe!

meet the clul

as we expect senior in agr

also a memb

"When we

Mon

Frid

Sunda

1110 Lara

7:

Si

chants.

ball," said

of the club.

Fridays.

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel.

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people.

South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at." About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johan-

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel. In Johannesburg, about 400 people gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apartheid.

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the Ministry spokesman Awie Marais. Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

crash site Friday, said Foreign

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act' to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend

a public official. Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office.

However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

Your gift can make a difference.

Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law. Asked if his proposal related at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied: "Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settlement.

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 7

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials."

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right," Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

Jean Station

Agric to bc

In rei The U.S. f. ing the M. Reagan or extended.

By Th

With the g K-State footl funds for Agricultural been selling home games Fridays.

"We came people excit ball," said agriculture e of the club.

The club d as a fund-ra and projects tion, which t season, has port from se chants.

But that I meet the clu "The towe as we expec' senior in ag also a memt "When we

> Mon 7: Fric S Sund

> > 1110 Lar:

DOWNTOW MON.-SAT. THURS. 9:3

'OHHH-KLAHOMA!'

pany of Laurey, played by Stephanie Sikes, senior in theater, by Gertie, who is played by Curly, portrayed by Dwight Tolar, freshman in applied music, is lured away from the com- Katrina Custer, just before the big box-social at the Skidmore ranch, held to buy new desks and a chimney for the school house.

Rhonda Plemmons, freshman in psychology, applies grease paint to Tim Thompson, fifth-year senior in architecture, as the rest of the cast readies for the night's dress rehearsal.

very week night since Aug. 28, from 7 to 10 p.m., the cast, crew and directors of Rogers and Hammerstein's "OKLAHOMA!" have gathered in McCain Auditorium to practice the musical. For at least 120 hours, they've worked on dance steps, developed their characters and sung their lungs out, striving for perfection. "OKLAHOMA!" opened last night and continues with shows at 8 tonight and Saturday in McCain Auditorium

During rehearsal, director Lew Shelton, associate professor of speech, and stage manager Janet Treiber, sophomore in theater, sit at a table on the edge on the stage of McCain Auditorium, watching as the cast runs through a scene, noting problems to work out, watching for the bugs in the system.

The cast wears clothes reminiscent of the period. The men clad jeans, bandanas and cowboy boots, learn to turn intricate dance steps into effortless movement. The women wear ruffled, full skirts over jeans or sweats and Capezio dance shoes.

Gathered in small groups, the cast members casually stand, listening to direction before being told to take a 10-minute break. They all filter offstage slowly, talking

The accompanist plays scales and then launches into a few bars of a classical piece. An actress sings a bit of the title song and 'S your icies day now ately f · of ofesed to 1 our nber you void ents r to ever

776-3300

at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open now in the law. Asked if his proposal related

By The Associated Press

Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that

Kansas enact an "Open Litigation

Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements

when public money is used to defend

Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former

However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

Your gift can make a difference.

woman employee in his office.

tax dollars are spent.

a public official.

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied:

Meetings and Open Records Acts

"Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agen-

gathered at the offices of the Azanian

Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apar-

Speakers blamed South Africa for Similar demonstrations also have Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the crash site Friday, said Foreign

Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Ministry spokesman Awie Marais.

been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe.

theid.

Machel's death.

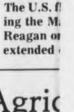

cies and their public officials.' "Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right,"

Moore said. In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 3

In rei

Agric to bo

With the g K-State footl funds for Agricultural been selling home games Fridays.

"We came people excit ball." said agriculture e of the club.

as a fund-ra and projects tion, which t season, has port from se chants.

"When we

Mon 7: Fric

S Sund 1110 Lara

DOWNTOW 331 POYNT MON.-SAT THURS 9:3

By Th

The club d

But that h meet the clu "The towe as we expect senior in ag also a memb > Laurey decides to buy a bottle of the Elixir of Egypt from Ali Hakim the Peddler, played by Andrew Martin, senior in chemical science, as Ado Annie, played by Elizabeth Sherby, junior in theater, watches. wanders over to the piano. "We're busy a lot of the time. It's a lot of fun, but we're busy, busy, busy," Paul Craig, "OKLAHOMA!" cast member and sophomore in theater, said. "It takes a lot of concentration. We did a dress rehearsal for the Music Listening Lab, and even though they were just K-State students we were ner-

Craig was a student in journalism for two years when he auditioned for his first

"The people in the theater department are great. They're a lot of fun. They're crazy and caring, fun-loving. But they're serious about their work. There's a big commitment in time. Theater takes a lot of time that I hadn't expected. Last week we were there until 12 every night.

"You spend a lot of time memorizing and working on your character. It's hard to assume a character because you have to figure out what they were like back then," Craig said. "It's a weird time period. They weren't pure cowboy and they weren't modern either. (The musical) takes place during the transition of an age."

The cast started with the basics, Craig said. They worked on dance steps and the placement of characters during the scenes and how they move. Next came learning the songs. Developing characters and working on expressing the characters has been continuous. Craig said it seems they have been living in McCain.

Lara Dillenger, cast member and sophomore in business administration said,

"It's a really close group. They always compliment you if you've done something well. Everyone gives and helps each other out. If anyone is down, they all help cheer you up. "It's challenging to be entertaining to others. It makes you feel good to give something and be able to make others happy with your talents."

Performing in a musical involves dancing, singing and acting.

"Those who are talented in one direction have to work twice as hard to do the other things," Dillenger said. "Everyone has been working so hard on everything that it'll be Katrina Custer, cast member and freshman in musical theater said, "I wouldn't trade it for the world. It's a lot of hard work. We rehearse five to eight hours at a time. It's worth it when you get finished and you go on stage and hear the applause and people see the performance and tell you how great they

"The cast and crew are wonderful. You get to know them about as well as you know your family," Custer said.

The stage manager calls the cast back from break. They don't stand nonchalantly with hands on their hips, they walk with purpose. They seem unaware that the seats in the auditorium are vacant, that they are playing to no one. The songs are sung as perfectly as if there was a full house on opening night. They take their places and as soon as the scene starts they become a character, alive in the Oklahoma territory at the turn of the cen-

Story by Anne Brandsberg

Photos by Gary Lytle

Jud, portrayed by Garret Schmidt, junior in physics, gets a description from Curly on how his funeral would be if Jud died.

void ents r to ever your icies day now ately f · of ofesed to i our nber you

PITAL 776-330

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel.

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people. South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johannesburg.

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries.

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel. In Johannesburg, about 400 people gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apar-

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the crash site Friday, said Foreign Ministry spokesman Awie Marais. Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend a public official.

Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office.

However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied: 'Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials. "Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right," Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

THE Jean Station

Your aift can make Forthefunofit! Thefunofit!

Friday October 24 1986

Friday, October 24, 1986

A close look: Lady Liberty from the star

In rei

The U.S. fl ing the Ma Reagan or extended (

Agric

to bo

With the g

K-State footh

funds for

Agricultural

been selling

home games

"We came people excit

ball," said

agriculture e

The club de

as a fund-rai

and projects

tion, which b

season, has

port from se

But that h

"The towe

meet the clul

as we expect senior in ag

also a memb

"When we

Mon

7:

Frid

Sund

1110 Lara

DOWNTOW 331 POYNT

MON.-SAT. THURS. 9:3

chants.

of the club.

Fridays.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - It may be too soon for a lot of us to see one more hour of television devoted to the Statue of Liberty, but there are some important guarantees that can be made for "The Making of Liberty."

There are no fireworks. There are no politicians. There are no Elvis imper sonators.

"The Making of Liberty," appearing Tuesday on public television, (KTWU, channel 11) marks the 100th anniversary of the dedication of the Lady of the Har bor. It's the one-hour documentary one would gladly trade for most of the hours and hours of hyperinflated fluffery that attended the July 4 ceremonies for the restored statue. It's a refreshingly relaxed film that runs seven minutes before anyone says a word. Academy Award-winning filmmaker Charles Guggenheim says he started on the film 31/2 years ago, before the scaffolding went

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|----------------------------|-----------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Forbidden" | Movie:
"The | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | | " | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street |
Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | | Candidate" | "Great
Catherine" | PGA Golf
Vantage |
| | Hour Magazine | Pyramid Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"One More | Movie:
"Agnes Of | Movie:
"Two Loves" | Movie: | Champ. |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Tomorrow" | God" | 11. | "A View To A
Kill" | Racing
SportsLook |
| 4 4:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Bye Bye | Movie | n
n | Aerobics
Women's |
| 40:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The Very | Birdie" | | Movie:
"Morons From | Bodybuilding
National |
| 4:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Masterpiece
Theatre | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Thought Of You" | Not News
Movie: | Movie:
"My Science | Outer Space"
Statue Of | Champ.
Kick Boxing |
| 0:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Mod. Maturity
Living | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | "City Heat" | Project" | Liberty
Movie: | From
Atlanta |
| | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | ABC Notebook
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Survival | Meet The
Wombles | "The Bedford
Incident" | Women's
Bowling |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | The Talk Show | Bogg | Movie: | Pro Tour
Scholastic |
| | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | Movie:
"Lies My | Paul's Case | "A Raisin In
The Sun" | SportsLook
NBA Today |
| C:00 | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Father Told
Me" | Paper Chase | | SportsCenter
Baseball |
| 7:00 | | Wizard | Who's Boss?
Growing Pains | Barnaby Jones | Making Of Liberty | Bare Essence | Movie:
"Torpedo | Movie:
"Jagged | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"To Sir With | Superbouts |
| | Crime Story | Movie:
"Manhunt For | Moonlighting | Movie:
"The Deer | The Africans | " | Run" | Edge" | Candidate" | Love" | Roller Derby |
| _ | 1986, | Claude Dallas" | Jack And Mike | Hunter" | Tenko | News | Portrait Of America | The Hitchhiker
Not News | Movie:
"Teachers" | Movie:
"El Condor" | Kick Boxing |
| 10:00 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"The Holcroft | | | Horse Racing
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | David | Simon &
Simon | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Newsleaders | Movie: | Revengers" | Covenant" | Movie:
"My Science | Movie:
"Pale Rider" | NFL Films
Top Rank |
| 10:00 | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Summer
Without Boys" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "The Barefoot
Contessa" | "My Husband
Is Missing" | "Agnes Of
God" | Project"
Movie | | Boxing |

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|------|---|---|--|---|--|--|---|--|----------------------------|---|--|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | "Remo
Williams: The | "Whistle Down
The Wind" | Movie:
"The Opposite | Business
SportsCenter |
| | | | : | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
Love Lucy | Adventure
Begins" | Duffy Moon | Sex" Cont'd
Movie: | PGA Golf
Vantage |
| | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Rock-A-Bye | Movie: "Rhinestone" | Movie:
"Texas | "2010" | Champ. |
| | | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Baby" | " | Carnival"
Movie: | Movie: | NBA Today
SportsLook |
| - 00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Door To | "Second-Hand
Hearts" | "The Spiral
Staircase" | Aerobics
Baseball |
| | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The D.I." | Door" | Movie: | Movie:
"Better Off | Soccer
FIFA World |
| | | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nova | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | " | Movie Makers
Movie: | "Cannonball
Run II" | Dead" | All-Star
Game |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Story Of
English | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | "To Find My Son" | | In America
Movie: | 1985 Browns
Wrestling |
| | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurls | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Red Balloon | Minors | "Tommy" | " |
| | | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | Workin' For
Peanuts | Duffy Moon | Movie: | Horse Wk. |
| | | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | Movie:
"The Great | Movie:
"Whistle Down | "The Opposite
Sex" | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Muppet
Caper" | The Wind" | M. Headroom | SportsCenter
NHL Hockey |
| 7:00 | Highway To
Heaven | Better Days
Together | P. Strangers
Head Of Class | Barnaby Jones | Lizzie | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"Lone Star" | Movie:
"Eleni" | Brothers
Bizarre | Movie:
"Trancers" | Chicago
Black Hawks |
| 0:00 | Gimme Break
You Again? | Magnum, P.I. | Dynasty | Movie:
"The | Shadowlands | Octagon" | | | Movie:
"Compro- | In America | at Detroit Red
Wings |
| | | Equalizer | Hotel | Canterville
Ghost" | Issues Hit | News | Movie:
"Paradise | "Remo
Williams: The | mising
Positions" | Movie:
"Mata Hari" | Greatest Hits |
| | News | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | Home
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Connection" | Adventure
Begins" | "Adventures
Of A Taxi | | Cup
SportsCenter |
| - 00 | David | Hot Shots | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Old House | Movie: | Movie:
"The Moon Is | Movie:
"Florida | Driver"
Elayne Boosler | Movie:
"Vision Quest" | Cycling
US vs. USSR |
| | | Movie | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "The Grass Is
Greener" | Blue" | Straits"
Movie | Movie | Movie | Fishing
NBA Today |
| | 830
930
1030
1130
1230
130
230
330
430
530
630
730
830
930
1030
1130 | 7:30 7:30 7:30 7:30 7:30 7:30 7:30 7:30 | 7:00 Today 7:30 Today 7:30 Today 8:00 "" 9:00 Hour Magazine Pyramid Card Sharks 10:00 Jeopardy 11:00 Password 11:30 Wheel Fortune 12:00 News 12:30 Days Of Our 1:00 Lives 13:00 Another World Capitol 2:00 " Guiding Light 3:00 Diff. Strokes 4:30 Facts Of Life 5:00 3's Company NBC News 6:30 Wheel Fortune 7:00 Highway To 7:30 Happy To 7:30 Haeven 8:00 Gimme Break Newsyweds 9:00 St. Elsewhere 10:00 News 10:00 | 7:00 Today CBS Morning Good Morning America 8:00 """ """ """ """ 9:00 Hour Magazine Pyramid Card Sharks $1 Mil. Chance 10:00 Jeopardy Price Is Right Fame Fortune Family Ties 11:00 Password Young And The Restless Loving 12:00 News Midday As The World Capitol Live 1:00 Lives Turns Capitol Live 2:00 "Guiding Light General Hospital 3:00 Magnum, P.I. Ghostbusters Dennis 4:00 Diff. Strokes Gall Guiding Light General Hospital 3:00 Magnum, P.I. Ghostbusters Dennis 4:00 Diff. Strokes CBS News ABC News 6:00 News News News News News News News News | 7:00 Today CBS Morning News Good Morning America GoBots Beaver 9:00 Hour Magazine Pyramid Card Sharks S1 Mil. Chance M.T. Moore 10:00 Jeopardy Scrabble Price Is Right Fame Fortune Family Ties Shirley 1:00 Password Young And The Restless Coving My 3 Sons 12:00 News Midday As The World Children Andy Griffith 1:00 Lives Turns One Life To Live Green Acres 2:00 Santa Barbara Guiding Light General Hospital Society Doo Smurfs 4:00 Diff. Strokes Donahue ThunderCats G.I. Joe Jetsons 3:00 Sis Company News CBS News ABC News Gimme Break Newlyweds M*A*S*H Barney Miller 7:00 Highway To Restless Dating Game M*A*S*H Barnaby Jones 8:00 News Society Doo St. Elsewhere Equalizer Hotel Ghost* 1:00 News Dating Game M*A*S*H Late Show M*A*S*H Late Show Dating Game News Cas News Dating Game M*A*S*H Late Show Live Canterville Ghost* 1:00 News Dating Game M*A*S*H Late Show M*A*S*H Late Show Live Canterville Ghost* 1:00 News Dating Game M*A*S*H News Late Show Live Canterville Ghost* 1:00 News Dating Game M*A*S*H News Late Show Live Canterville Ghost* | 7:30 Today CBS Morning News America Defenders Special Mister Rogers Searne Street Gard Sharks St Mil. Chance Shirley Hatha Yoga My Sons Algebra Shirley Hatha Yoga My Sons Algebra As The World Capitol Live Green Acres Sons Santa Barbara Guiding Light Gapton Santa Barbara Guiding Light Gapton Sharks St. On Diff. Strokes As Facts Of Life Shos Protune Sharks St. On Diff. Strokes Gapton Happy Days Chance Shirley Searne Street Shirley Hatha Yoga Shirle | 7:00 Today CBS Morning News America Good Morning America Defenders Defenders Mister Rogers Bozo Mister Rogers Beaver Street Matter Rogers Sesame Street Matter Rogers Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Matter Rogers Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Matter Rogers Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Matter Rogers Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Matter Rogers Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Matter Rogers Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Matter Rogers Shirley Boy Sesame Street Hillbillies Stable Price is Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Boy Valley And The Restless Loving My 3 Sons Algebra Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Rogers Falcon Crest Algebra Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Rogers Falcon Crest Algebra Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Rogers Falcon Crest Rogers Rogers Right Family Ties Shirley Boy Sesame Street Rogers Right Family Ties Shirley Right Right Rogers Rogers Right | 7:00 Today CBS Morning News Card Sharks Card Sharks Card Sharks St Mill Chance M.T. Moore Sesame Street Hillbillies Card Sharks St Mill Chance M.T. Moore M.T. Moore M.T. Moore M.T. Moore Card Sharks St Mill Chance M.T. Moore Card Sharks St Mill Chance M.T. Moore Card Sharks Movie: Moore M.T. Mo | 7:00 Today | 7:30 Today CBS Morning America Godots Beaver GoBots Beaver GoBots Beaver Family Ties St Mills Chance St Mills | 7:30 Today, CBS Morning Good Morning Ramerica Good Morning Rameric |

HAIR STYLING & TANNING 1107 N. 3rd, 537-1003

Buy any 6" sub, get one of equal value FREE!

Now through Oct. 30 (with coupon) *Void with any other offer

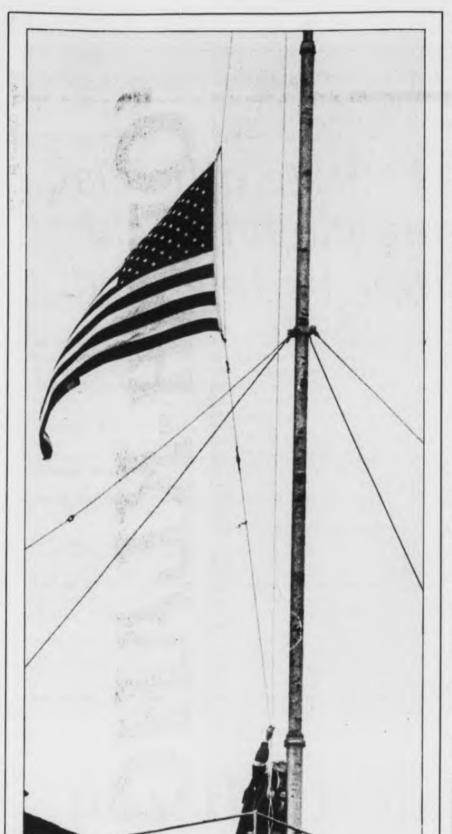

MANHATTAN

We're There When You Need Us

ency Care lours A Day to avoid ut accidents lness, or to could never ou or your emergencies every day d to know immediately ur staff of care profesommitted to ealth in our Remember when you

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel.

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people.

South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johan-

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries.

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel. In Johannesburg, about 400 people gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apartheid.

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the crash site Friday, said Foreign Ministry spokesman Awie Marais. Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend

a public official. Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office. However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied:

"Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials.

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right," Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

Jean Station

Your gift can make a difference.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit! 3

Friday, October 24, 1986

Liberty

Continued from Page 6

the scaffolding.

"So I canceled my Social Security and my pension from the union, everything I canceled and I went back to work on the statue," Crisci says. "Because my father talked so much about it, and my mother talked about it, and they were so proud of it. Oh, they were proud to come to this country.

The craftsmen who formed the copper to repair the statue felt a certain wistfulness about their work which, once done, would be high up on the monument where they could never touch it or see it close up again. The camera dwells on the intensity of the workers, and lingers lovingly over their tools. "I have a fascination with the dignity of work that I think often escapes us when we describe why we have been such a successful society," Guggenheim said. "It was obviously a symbol of a number of things I fell strongly about - this is a remarkable land, a remarkable country, a remarkable place to live.'

MANHATTAN

We're There When You Need

- gency Care Hours A Day to avoid

out accidents illness, or to t could never you or your emergencies every day ood to know ; immediately Our staff of th care profescommitted to health in our Remember when you

913-776-3300

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1986

In rei The U.S. fl

ing the Ma

Reagan or extended t

Agric

to bo

With the g

K-State footh

Agricultural

been selling

home games

"We came people excite

ball," said

agriculture e

The club de

as a fund-rai

and projects

tion, which b

season, has

port from s€ chants.

But that h

"The towe

meet the clul

as we expect senior in ago

also a memb

"When we

kii

Mon

7:

Frid

Sund

1110 Lara

FAMO

DOWNTOW

331 POYNT:

MON.-SAT.

THURS 9:3

S

of the club.

Fridays.

funds for

By Th

| | KSNT | WIBW | KLDH | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Elton John
Breaking | "Fort Apache"
Cont'd | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | " |)t. | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | " | Hearts Tour | Movie:
"Coup De | Horse Wk. |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"With This | Movie:
"Advice To | Movie:
"The | Tete"
Movie: | Auto Racing |
| 10:30 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Ring" | The Lovelorn" | Whisperers" | "Starman" | Auto Racing
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"The Razor's | Movie:
"Garbo Talks" | Movie: | Aerobics
NHL Hockey |
| 12:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The Wyoming | Edge" | | "Cat's Eye" | Chicago
Black Hawks |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Shakespeare
Hour | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Kid" | Savage And | Movie:
"Love With A | Movie:
"Time Bomb" | at Detroit Re |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Photo Vision
Photo Vision | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Beautiful | Perfect
Stranger" | " | Triathlon |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Be Thinner
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Henry's Cat I
All-Star Rock | Redhawk
Ounce Of Cure | Movie:
"Cover Girl" | Women's |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Beaver | Concert
Movie: | Arthur & The
Square | " | Billiards
1985 Oilers |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Hillbillies | "Maxie" | Knights
The Red | Movie:
"Night Of The | SportsLook
Fishing |
| | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Worst Witch | Balloon
Washingtoon | Comet" | SportsCenter
SpeedWeek |
| 7:00 | Cosby Show
Family Ties | Simon &
Simon | Our World | Barnaby Jones | Victory In Europe | Movie:
"Night Of The | Movie:
"A Thunder Of | | Elton John
Breaking | Movie:
"Cat's Eye" | Auto Racing |
| | Cheers
Night Court | Knots Landing | The Colbys | Movie:
"Carrie" | Mysteryl | Living Dead" | Drums'' | Movie:
"Losin' It" | Hearts Tour | Movie: | College
Football |
| 9:00 | Hill Street
Blues | Kay O'Brien | 20 / 20 | " | A.C. Clarke
S. Previews | News | Movie:
"The Return | | Movie:
"Love With A | "Creepshow" | Cal
State-Fullerto |
| | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Of The Mod
Squad" | Inside The
NFL | Perfect
Stranger" | Movie: | at Fresno
State |
| 4 4:00 | David | Adderly | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Computer | Movie: | Movie:
"The Brothers | All-Star Rock
Concert | Huey Lewis
"American | "Hollywood
Ghost Stories" | SportsCenter
Karate |
| | Letterman
Gene Scott | Movie | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "A Piece Of
The Action" | O'Toole" | Movie:
"Stripes" | Werewolf In
London" | "Nightmare On
Elm Street" | Pro Champ.
Horse Wk. |

All shows starting before 6p.m.—all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night!

CAMPUS

"THE COLOR OF MONEY" RATED R

DAILY AT 7:00 AND 9:30 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:00 AND 4:30

LATE SHOW FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHT RATED R "PINK FLOYD, THE WALL" FRI. & SAT. AT MIDNIGHT

WESTLOOP

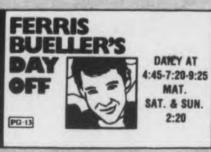

"CROCODILE DUNDEE" DAILY AT 4:30-7:00-9:30 MATINEE SAT. & SUN AT 2:00 RATED PG-13

"TRICK OR TREAT" DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. 2:10 RATED R

"DEADLY FRIEND" DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20 RATED R

Litchfield Theatres

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa

— Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel.

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the greek which killed 34 people.

the crash, which killed 34 people.

South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error

might have been to blame. The official Mozambican News Agency, however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johannesburg.

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries.

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel.

In Johannesburg, about 400 people

gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apartheid.

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the

crash site Friday, said Foreign

Ministry spokesman Awie Marais.

Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend a public official.

Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office.

However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

Vour aift can make

oday, moore told reporters

THE

BOX

ROCK

OF

AGES

THE

"TOUR"

MIDNITE DREAD -

at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied:

"Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

Forthefunofit! thefunofit!

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified. Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials."

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right," Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

THE Joan Station

In remem

The U.S. flag on Ai ing the Marines k Reagan ordered for extended the orde

Agricult to boost

By The Colleg

With the goal of K-State football gan funds for their and Agricultural Educa been selling "Air Parhome games and in Fridays.

"We came up with people excited abou ball," said Greg R agriculture education of the club.

The club decided to as a fund-raiser to so and projects for the c. tion, which began at season, has received port from several N chants.

But that has not I meet the club's goal.
"The towels have I

as we expected," sai senior in agriculture also a member of the "When we started kink

1:00

Monday-Thi 7:30-Midr Friday 7:30 Saturday Sunday 10-N 1110 Laramie

FAMOUS FOR LE

DOWNTOWN 331 POYNTZ MON.-SAT. 9:30-5:30 THURS. 9:30-8:30

FRI. SAT. THU. WED. MON TUE. JAZZ IN THE SUNDAY MORNING CLASSICS 12:00 E 3:00 DR. METAL DEMENTO HEAD CROSS POINT O JAM

Friday, October 24, 1986

PYRAMID PIZZA'S FALL SPECIAL 707 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE BY-THE-SLICE AND FAST, FREE DELIVERY

HALLOWEEN BOO BAZAAR

Unearthly costume accessories you'll have to see to believe!

- •Ghoul Jewels
- •Head Haunters
- Disguise Ties
- •Candy
- •Balloons
- •Tails of the Dark
- Boo Batons
- •Monster Mitts
- Halloweenie Beanies
- •Stuffed Animals

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654 Mon.-Thur. 8:30-8:30 • Fri.-Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sunday 12-5

TTAN

re

ere en ou

ed

Us

CY

ure

irs

ay

avoid idents

or to never your encies day know diately aff of profested to in our

7 you

In remembrance

The U.S. flag on Anderson Hall is secured at half-staff Thursday, honoring the Marines killed in Beirut, Lebanon, three years ago. President Reagan ordered federal buildings' flags lowered and Gov. John Carlin extended the order to state buildings.

Agriculture club sells towels to boost football enthusiasm

By The Collegian Staff

With the goal of pairing spirits at 300 towels," Smart said. K-State football games, as well as funds for their own use, Agricultural Education Club has been selling "Air Parrish" towels at home games and in the Union on

"We came up with the towel to get people excited about K-State football," said Greg Reno, senior in agriculture education and a member of the club.

The club decided to sell the towels as a fund-raiser to supplement trips and projects for the club. The promotion, which began at the start of the season, has received financial support from several Manhattan mer-

But that has not been enough to meet the club's goal.

"The towels have not sold as well as we expected," said Larry Smart, senior in agriculture education and also a member of the club.

"When we started the promotion

kinko's

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 1110 Laramie

we had hoped to sell 1,000-1,200 towels, but we've only sold around

Staff/Andy Nelson

Smart said he did not know why les have been slow, but added that he felt good about the number sold for last weekend's game between K-State and the University of Kan-

"We do not have a definite number sold last weekend, but it was around 150-200 towels," Smart said.

The club has been selling the towels for $3 but has reduced the price to $2 due to the low number of sales to date.

Smart said high productions cost for the towels is another factor that has hurt the fund-raising project. He said the club has raised about $200 from sales.

CAR WASH 25¢ Wash Everyday!

*Close to campus

*Coin changer available *4 stalls for your & Kimball Ave.

convenience

*New facility, new location, no traffic hassle

with Spuds Mackenzie Conveniently located on the corner of Tuttle Creek Blvd. Open Sat 9 a.m.

might have been to blame. The of-By The Associated Press ficial Mozambican News Agency, JOHANNESBURG, South Africa however, quoted a Machel bodyguard, one of 10 survivors, as

 Police on Thursday fired tear gas at protesting students who blamed South Africa for the plane crash that killed Mozambique's President Samora Machel

Machel was killed Sunday night when the Soviet-made plane carrying him from Zambia to Mozambique crashed just inside South Africa. Neither South Africa nor Mozambique have commented on the cause of the crash, which killed 34 people.

South African newspapers have said poor weather and pilot error saying he heard the plane screech and "it seemed that it was shot at."

Students blame S. Africa in fatal

About 1,000 students, half of them blacks, attended a memorial service at the University of Witwatersrand for Machel. Speakers at the service repeatedly accused South Africa of being responsible for the crash.

After the service, about 100 students marched through campus and headed for the streets of Johan-

Deputy Vice Chancellor Mervyn

Shear pleaded with the students not to leave the campus, and they stopped short of the boundary. The youths ran as about 30 police entered and gave the order to disperse under a law barring outdoor gatherings.

The protesters regrouped and after a standoff, police fired three tear gas cannisters at the students who were chanting slogans and singing freedom songs.

There were no reports of arrests or injuries

At the University of Cape Town, about 350 students attended a memorial service for Machel. In Johannesburg, about 400 people gathered at the offices of the Azanian Peoples Organization, a group that rejects white help in fighting apar-

Speakers blamed South Africa for Machel's death.

Similar demonstrations also have been held in Lesotho and Zimbabwe. Soviet and Mozambican aviation experts were expected to fly to the crash site Friday, said Foreign Ministry spokesman Awie Marais.

Japie Smit, director of civil aviation, said the flight data recorder and the cockpit voice recorder have been recovered from the plane but have not yet been inspected.

Stephan harassment suit prompts plan

Candidate proposes case disclosure act

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dennis Moore, Democratic candidate for attorney general, proposed Thursday that Kansas enact an "Open Litigation Act" to require full written disclosure of any lawsuit settlements when public money is used to defend a public official.

Moore confirmed at a news conference that his proposal was prompted by incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's secret settlement of a sexual harrassment lawsuit brought by former woman employee in his office.

However, he insisted it would be good public policy as well, because of the people's right to know how their tax dollars are spent.

"I sincerely believe this would be a good supplement to what we have in Kansas today," Moore told reporters

Your gift can make a difference.

Association

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

TGIF

GUEST BARTENDER

Steve Graham

CONTON

CLUB

Friday

Free T.G.I.F.

Sandwich Bar

Saturday

Homecoming

Party

5-7 p.m. TONIGHT

American Heart

at a downtown Topeka office building. He referred to the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts now in the law.

Asked if his proposal related directly to Stephan's lawsuit settlement a year and a half ago, Moore replied:

'Obviously, there have been some problems in the past several months in this area. But I would say beyond the political ramifications, as they involve Mr. Stephan, that this is what I believe is needed in the future."

He said his proposal would not be retroactive to cover Stephan's settle-

Neil Woerman, Stephan's administrative assistant, responded for the attorney general.

"It's the same story, umpteenth verse, of Dennis' one-issue campaign. Beyond that, I wouldn't have any comment," said Woerman.

across from Wal-Mart

T.G.I.F.

$2.50 Pitchers

SATURDAY

Come In

before, during and after the game!

*OPEN AT 9:30 a.m.

FirstBank Center

Denison & Claflin

539-9619

Moore is challenging Stephan in the Nov. 4 general election.

He has repeatedly called upon Stephan to make "full disclosure" regarding settlement of the lawsuit. Stephan has said he has answered every question possible concerning the settlement over the past year and will make no further comment.

Under his proposal, Moore said, any agreements, stipulations, settlements or dispositions of litigation involving state and local agencies and officials, when public money is used in the defense, would have to be reduced to writing and subject to the Open Records Act.

In addition, he said, if private money or other considerations were used to settle or dispose of the case, the individuals or entities who contributed to the settlement would have to be identified.

Such a procedure, the Johnson County district attorney said, would better inform the public "as to the conduct of their governmental agencies and their public officials."

"Secret dispositions only ensure the public will be kept in the dark, unaware and uninformed as to the truth or falsity of these serous allegations. And that's just not right,' Moore said.

In response to questions, Moore said he would be open to writing into the law certain exceptions to the disclosure requirement, but couldn't think of any cases which might warrant exemption from disclosure.

When a decision is made to settle a frivolous lawsuit to avoid litigation costs, Moore said, the defendant public official could prove his or her innocence through a countersuit for malicious defamation.

We're There When You Need Us

Emergency Care 24 Hours A Day

It's easy to avoid thinking about accidents or sudden illness, or to think that it could never happen to you or your family. But emergencies do happen, every day and it's good to know that help is immediately available. Our staff of skilled health care professionals are committed to your good health in our community. Remember we're there when you need us.

105 SUNSET AVENUE 913-776-3300

THURS. 9:30-8:30

Register For Grand Prize Drawing

ONIT 20% off WANTE

FAMOUS LABELS

DOWNTOWN 331 POYNTZ MON.-SAT. 9:30-5:30

Handling of Coleman baffles, angers Travis

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Larry Travis is a frustrated man. The K-State athletic director believes he has been very cooperative with the National Collegiate Athletic Association throughout the investigation of the Norris Coleman case and now following Wednesday's turmoil, he is a little upset with the NCAA

The confusion which has left Travis frustrated arose out of a letter K-State Associate Athletic Director Lee Moon received from a NCAA representative which gave K-State officials - and many others - the impression the NCAA had altered its previous ruling in the Coleman case.

Coleman had been forced to sit out from competition until Feb. 27, 1987 by the NCAA, but the Oct. 13 letter stated he had two years of eligibility remaining beginning with the start of the current academic school year.

K-State called a press conference on Wednesday to announce the NCAA's change of heart, but the NCAA said K-State misinterpreted

"It really bothers me that they would give us this impression and then not follow through with it," Travis said.

K-State officials claim they were so sure about the letter's wording they never bothered to call back the NCAA to verify it, and Travis is quick to point out, the letter was sent as a means of clarification in the first

"The pressure is not on us - they sent us the letter. If it's not what they meant they should have said something differently. We didn't call back and ask the NCAA if that was what they meant, if it wasn't then it shouldn't have been in the letter," Travis said.

"Everybody who read the letter got the same impression as we did. I'm not going to lose any sleep over not calling them. To me, it's not up to us to call them and verify what they said. They should be clear enough to the point where you shouldn't have to do that," Travis said.

Through the entire situation the man caught in the middle has been the 25-year-old Coleman. After all, Coleman left the Army to come and play basketball at K-State.

"Norris is big enough to handle it.

It's a great shame, because he is such a great kid. I really feel bad about the situation he's been put through for the last year and a half." Travis said.

Looking back upon the last year and a half, Travis cannot believe this situation has become so entangled. The original NCAA ruling exonerated both Coleman and K-State from being at fault.

"They're penalizing a kid and penalizing us and nobody has done anything wrong. We didn't go out and make car payments for a kid; we've done nothing wrong. We've been forced to go through all of this and it's really a shame," Travis said. Currently, K-State is awaiting a new letter which Travis hopes will clarify the entire situation. Upon its arrival, Travis said, K-State and Coleman will know where they stand.

"We've got three or four different letters from them and we're going to take a look at (the new letter)." Travis said.

If the new letter sticks with the Feb. 27 date and not K-State's interpretation of the previous letter,

See TRAVIS, Page 11

Big 8 tells K-State officials fans entering playing field will no longer be tolerated

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

A representative from the Big Eight Conference office contacted K-State Athletic Director Larry Travis this week and expressed the concern of the conference's officers about the entrance of K-State fans to the playing field at future Wildcat football games. "The Big Eight has called and expressed their concern that somebody might get hurt. We need to have the students stay off of the field both during and after the game," Travis said.

Travis not only is concerned someone might get injured during a post-game celebration, but he is also worried that the student body's zealousness might come back to haunt the Wildcats.

"The students just can't be on the field during the game. The officials can throw a rag (penalty flag) and they did (against Kansas). If the other team is in the middle of a drive and we get a penalty which helps them score a touchdown and we lose - that's something we just can't have," Travis said.

'We can't afford to keep putting up temporary goal posts. It really takes away from the game."

- Larry Travis

"It scared the heck out of the officials (last week). That's why they let the clock wind down,' Travis said. "We want to be a firstclass program, in that if we bring in a team, they don't have to worry about being abused or assaulted by the students

For last weekend's game with rival KU, Travis ordered that temporary plastic goal posts be constructed so that if the students wanted to tear them down, it would be safer for the fans and less costly for the athletic department.

This weekend the permanent posts have been put back up, and Travis said it is vital to fan safety and to the finances of his department that the posts remain stan-

"We can't afford to keep putting up temporary goal posts. It might come into play if we miss a field goal or an extra point because were playing with goal posts that are less than what we want. It really takes away from the game," Travis said.

"We need to impress upon the students that we appreciate them having a good time in the stands, but they just can't be on the field and the Big Eight Conference has made that quite clear," Travis

"We don't want to put more security in there. We want the students to come and have a good time, and when the game is over, they'll walk up the stairs and leave," Travis said.

'Cats look for 2nd straight against Mizzou

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

What's this? A realistic opportunity for K-State to win two Big Eight Conference football games in a row? Well, the Wildcat skeptics better believe it. While campus football talk is still centering around last Saturday's big 29-12 victory over Kansas, since last Sunday, Wildcat coach Stan Parrish and his team have been

Memories of KU may linger on, the game is ancient history. 'We didn't deal with the past (this week in practice). We dealt with this week and winning two in a row in the Big Eight, with having a chance to be 2-1," Parrish said.

Optimism about a win over Missouri need not be restrained. The Tigers were 1-10 last season and haven't fared any better this year, starting the season with a win over punchless Utah State and losing their next five games in largely unimpressive fashion. K-State staged a late rally to nip the Tigers 20-17 last year in Columbia.

"I think we have a chance," Parrish said. "If you go in with a chance, you have a chance to come out with a win.

Parrish said K-State's practices this week haven't fallen off a bit from last week which he called the best of the season.

"I feel good about our preparation. I think the kids worked extremely hard this week," he said. "That isn't always easy after a big

Regardless of the Tigers' unintimidating record, Missouri has been blessed with some outstanding offensive talent, something that concerns Parrish.

Missouri running back Darrell Wallace represents one of the conference's most touted returning stars. Included in Wallace's 1,120 yards rushing last season was a 224-yard performance against K-State. The one knock against Wallace is his 5-foot-7, 165-pound

Also drawing plenty of attention is multitalented Tiger quarterback Ronnie Cameron, a former high school All-American who Parrish termed "a great athlete." But the big man (literally and focusing their attentions on Satur- otherwise) in the Missouri offense is day's opponent, the Missouri 6-5, 285-pound tackle John Clay, a top candidate for the Outland Trophy, given annually to the na-

> "I hope John Clay falls getting off the bus," Parrish said, smiling.

Missouri's sports information department has even been keeping special statistics on Clay, so Outland voters will be aware of what he's doing. For instance, in last week's 48-17 Tiger loss to Nebraska, Clay knocked his man to the ground 16 times in 51 plays including five times in a six-play span in one second-half stretch. Running to Clay's (right) side of the ball, Missouri averaged 4.1 yards a carry. The overall team average is 3.7 per carry

Parrish said although the K-State defense has prepared with Clay in mind, major adjustments won't be

"You don't work with individuals, you just play hard. John Clay is John Clay. He's going to make his blocks in the game, it's that plain and simple.

NOTES: Game time Saturday at KSU Stadium is 12:10 p.m....The game will be televised locally on KSNT (Channel 27). Radio broadcasts of the game can be heard on KMKF (101.7 FM) and WIBW (580 AM)...K-State will enter the game almost injury-free. Only outside linebacker Dwayne Castille, who experience a flair up of an old neck injury is out of action.

ing players after rushing a total of 1,120 yards last year, 224 against K-State. kicking off at 12:10 p.m. Saturday at KSU Stadium.

Missouri running back Darrell Wallace is one of the conference's star return- Wallace will be going up against the K-State defense in this weekend's game,

Sox claim advantage, series returns to NY

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - Bruce Hurst extended his mastery of the Mets, and the Boston Red Sox took advantage of some New York miseries in the field to move within one victory of their first World Series title in 68 years, beating the Mets 4-2 Thursday

The victory enabled the Red Sox to avert a sweep by the Mets of the three games in Boston and gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Series.

Hurst, who pitched eight scoreless innings to win the first game 1-0, shut down the Mets this time on 10 hits. The Mets runs came in the eighth when Tim Teufel homered and in the ninth when Rafael Santana had an RBI single Hurst turned back another New York threat in the fifth inning with the help of a key strikeout of Lenny Dykstra, a hero in Games 3 and 4 whom the Red Sox accused of bat doctoring.

The Mets' only error of the game, by shortstop Santana, led to one run. Dykstra and Darryl Strawberry collaborated on a misplay that led to another run, and, when things went wrong for the Mets, even the wind played a part in Boston

Dave Henderson had a double and triple for Boston.

Pitching on three days' rest, Mets ace Dwight Gooden turned to his offspeed stuff, but his fielders were so off, it didn't help much. He pitched into the fifth inning and left with none out and two runs home as the Red Sox took a 4-0 lead. In two World Series losses, Gooden has an ERA of 8.00. He also was the loser of Game 2.

Hurst, who allowed only four hits in the first game, was working on his regular four days' rest because of a gamble that Red Sox Manager John McNamara made in Game 4, using Al Nipper to start.

After losing the first two games at home, the Mets had won 7-1 in Game 3, then beat Nipper 6-2 in Game 4 to even the

But Hurst was fresh, and the Series now goes to Game 6 Saturday night in New York with Boston's 24-game winner Roger Clemens, working on five days' rest. Mets left-hander Bob Ojeda, winner of Game 3, will be pitching with three days off.

Foes beating up conference teams

By SCOT SANDLIN Collegian Reporter

Statistics indicate the Big Eight Conference may not be the monster of the Midwest in football that it was in the early

The Big Eight was 17-15 in non-conference games this year compared to 28-4 in 1975. This has been a trend of recent years. During the last three years the Big Eight was 50-45-1 in non-conference games. From 1974 to 1976 the Big Eight was 75-21 in non-conference

"From first to eighth in the conference I do not think the conference is as strong as it was then," former K-State radio announcer Dev Nelson said. Nelson was play-by-play announcer from 1954 to 1981. "I do think Oklahoma and Nebraska are as good or better though.'

Excluding Oklahoma and Nebraska the Big Eight was 3-13 against Division I-A nonconference schools. The Big Eight played more non-Division I-A schools than the Southwest, Pacific Ten, Big Ten, Southeastern and Atlantic Coast conferences. The Big Eight played six non-Division I-A schools.

The Southeastern and Pac-10 have the best records against non-conference schools this year. Their respective records are 22-8-2 and 17-7. The Atlantic Coast, Southwest, and Big-10 follow and the Big Eight is behind the However, Big Eight Commisioner Carl James said he believes the Big Eight is as strong as any conference in the nation.

"How many conferences sent half their teams to a bowl game last year?

"The Big Eight has always had rich tradition in football. Last year, Oklahoma was national champion. The team that represents the conference in the Orange Bowl in recent years has averaged a final ranking of 2.2," James said.

James said every Big Eight school has been to a bowl game this decade except Iowa State. "We think our football is still good and it will get better," he said. James said it is difficult for the other six schools to compete consistently against national powerhouses Oklahoma and Nebraska. He said Oklahoma State lost three players from last year's team who are now on professional rosters. The Cowboys are finding out how tough it is to replace them and compete against the Sooners and Cornhuskers. Oklahoma State was consistently ranked in the Top 10 the past two years.

"It is hard to compare the '70s to '80s, but I think the scholarship limit has had something to do with the parity in college football," Indiana coach Bill Mallory said. Mallory coached at Colorado from 1974 to 1978. In 1975, his Buffaloes missed an extra point late in the game to lose to Oklahoma by 1 point in Norman. Several years later after

Mallory had left, the Sooners scored 82 points against the Buffaloes.

"Large population areas have an advantage with the scholarship limit. At a place like Colorado you have to travel throughout the country for the top recruits, but Big Ten schools have plenty of players to choose from in their area." Mallory said.

"Schools want to be more competitive today," Mallory said. He believes this is due to greater television coverage, especially with the cable networks.

Nebraska Athletic Director Bob Devaney said parity has caused little change in the Big Eight. "Everyone has had to fight against the same parity situation. Oklahoma and Nebraska have had to fight against scholarship limits and small population areas too," Devaney said.

"The simple answer is that some of the other programs have not stayed at what they were. I do not know the reason for each individual program. In some of the other sports the other six schools have done as well if not better," Devaney said.

Devaney coached the Cornhuskers to two national championships during his reign as coach between 1962 and 1972.

Mike Treps, Oklahoma's sports information director, said the conference is going through a down cycle after being so strong in the early and mid '70s. Treps has been in-

See BIG EIGHT Page 11

Staff/Steve Wolgast

Brian Zimmerman, sophomore in marketing, cleans a table at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house in preparation for Thursday night's dinner. Zimmerman is employed at the sorority as a house boy.

House boys establish friendships while serving meals at sororities

By SCOTT ROBERTS Collegian Reporter

Preparing and serving meals, stocking shelves and cleaning the kitchen are among the daily duties of a unique group of men. But their rewards include meeting women and establishing friendships.

These men are known as "house boys," and they work in many of the University's sorority houses.

For $3.35 an hour and a free meal, these men work from 15 to 20 hours a week and have an opportunity to meet members of the opposite sex. The house boys said the social interaction, time convenience and work experience are well worth the pay.

"Being a house boy is beneficial for me in many ways," said Jeff Blanchat, house boy for Kappa Delta and sophomore in management. "I like the income I receive from my job, and the convenient work time does not conflict with any of my class or study time. The job is fairly easy, and I like having the opportunity of meeting many people and having a great time."

Blanchat said his duties as a house boy are definitely not all fun. "Everyday between 10:30 (a.m.) and 1:30 (p.m.), I am assigned to come in and clean up the breakfast mess, prepare and arrange the lunchtime buffet tables, set up the dishes, empty the trash, stock the shelves and make sure the kitchen is completely clean," he said.

Although some sororities do not allow their members to date the house boys, many of the women said there is a certain closeness between members and house boys.

"They all bring their own special personalities into the house, and they also tend to add spice and comfort to the atmosphere," said Marsha Setzkorn, a member of Kappa Delta and senior in general business administration. The house boys are not just workers here, they are our pals."

"Having house boys is unique in the sense they really enjoy their jobs," said Stacy Kurst, a member of Alpha Xi Delta and senior in interior design. "They are real special to us and also are extremely loyal to us Alpha Xi's.

"Last year, two brothers who graduated from K-State had worked here for four straight years. They were real special to us, and we were special to them. For them, it was more than just a job, it was a way of fulfilling an everlasting friendship."

For Posters and Original Art

STRECKER GALLERY

Dave Wagner, house boy for the Alpha Xi's and junior in journalism and mass communications, said his job provides extra income and reduces the cost of his living expenses at Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Furthermore, Wagner said his job as a house boy is quite similar to the "KP" duties common in fraternity houses. He said he enjoys his job because he has the opportunity to increase friendships and occassionally gets asked to go out on a date.

"Knowing an extra 160 girls by just being a house boy isn't all that bad," Wagner said.

Brian Zimmerman, house boy for Kappa Kappa Gamma and sophomers in marketing, said there are many benefits from being a house boy.

"I like my job because of all the great girls I get to meet," Zimmerman said. "There are some times in which the job causes conflicts with campus activities, and there are other times when the girls are not quite nice, but that is usually only during the morning time."

JERRY SCHURR

Comatose Boston firefighter dies; wife's victory tests limits of rights

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — Paul E. Brophy, the comatose firefighter whose case tested the legal limits of a patient's right to death, died Thursday at the hospital that granted his wife's request he no longer be fed artificially.

Brophy, 49, was pronounced dead at 12:55 p.m. at Emerson Hospital in Concord, where he was taken after another hospital refused to remove feeding tubes that kept him alive for 3½ years.

His death came after eight days without food.

The decision to withhold food from Brophy was authorized by the Massachusetts Supreme Court at the urging of Brophy's wife, Patricia, a registered nurse who argued that she was following Brophy's own clear wishes

Brophy succumbed to pneumonia, according to Frank Reardon, the attorney who represented Patricia Brophy.

"His death was extremely peaceful," Reardon said. "Pat and the family are really not in a position to make a statement."

A court-appointed attorney appealed the ruling that halted feedings to the U.S. Supreme Court, but three justices refused to consider it.

The Brophy case drew wide attention because it isolated the legal question of whether it is proper to withhold food and water from a "hopelessly ill" patient when death is not imminent. Brophy was described as a victim of technical advances in medicine that can sustain bodily functions indefinitely though not offering hope of cure or improve-

Despite the profound brain damage caused by a burst blood vessel, Brophy's other major organs functioned and he did not need a respirator or other mechanical assistance. Because he could not chew or swallow on his own, however, he was fed through a surgically implanted tube in his stomach.

On Sept. 11, the highest court in Massachusetts ruled that such feedings are a form of "medical treatment" and that any medical patient has the right to refuse all medical treatment.

In Brophy's circumstances, where the patient suffered an immediate and enduring loss of consciousness, the court applied the "substituted judgment" standard and held that Brophy himself would reject the tube feedings if he were able to speak.

Employed as a firefighter and 421

Poyntz

emergency medical technician in his home town of Easton in southeastern Massachusetts, Brophy was in robust health in March 1983 when he suffered an aneurysm that destroyed large sections of his brain.

After surgery failed to reverse his condition, Brophy was admitted in June 1983 to New England Sinai Hospital, a chronic care facility in Stoughton. He was diagnosed as being in a "persistent vegetative state," characterized by complete loss of memory, awareness and speech, and lack of purposeful move-

In late 1984, Brophy's wife asked doctors at New England Sinai to clamp or remove the feeding tube. When the hospital refused on ethical grounds, Patricia Brophy, went to Probate Court seeking legal authori-

During a lengthy trial in May 1985, she testified that she made her request after intense consultations with her parish priest and with the unanimous consent of their five children and Brophy's other relatives.

She argued that Brophy himself had often returned home from accident scenes, where he aided victims, and said he would never want to be kept alive "as a vegetable."

Downtown

537-7079

soft-serve

1314 Westloop

PEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily
Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Open 7 days a week

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
Call 539-8868 or 537-0886
(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

EDELAINE'S
WEDDINGS PLUS

Wedding Gowns,
Party Dresses,
Reception Supplies

STILL UNPACKING BUT WE'RE OPEN TODAY!
Convenient Hours

SPECIAL HOMECOMING BUFFET

M-F Noon-8 p.m.

Sat. 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

VALENTINO' BUFFET, THERE'S NO PENALTY FOR PILING ON!

To celebrate K-State's second day game (and third victory), we're opening up our buffet ALL DAY, on Saturday, October 25. Tackle Valentino's buffet from 11 a.m. through 8 p.m. . . . and then enjoy the game.

Of course, all of our NEW players, like our double crust pizza, pasta salads and seafood cassserole will be starting. And, don't forget our returning squad . . . pizza, baked lasagne and salad bar.

OCT. 25 BUFFET HOURS: 11 a.m.-8 p.m.

And remember Valentino's other option plays: Half-baked pizzas and our regular take-out service. Available all day, for our game plan.

VALENTINO'S GAME DAY BUFFET PENALTIES

ILLEGAL USE OF BUFFET PRIVILEGES Intentional bumping or shoving to get to the new buffet items.

DELAY OF BUFFET TIME Buffet clock expires for taking too long to decide what to put

BUFFET HOLDING Intentional holding or clutchin of patron to impair selection

BUFFET OFFSIDES
Reaching across buffet to grab an item. instead of proceeding around table

3019 Anderson Ave.
Village Plaza Shopping Center
537-4350

Workers concerned with AIDS victim

By The Associated Press

NEEDHAM, Mass. - More than two dozen telephone repairmen who had walked off the job rather than work with a colleague dying of AIDS relented Thursday after talking with doctors about the fatal disease.

But four others refused to enter the office they share with the diseased man and had to be handed their assignments outside.

"It's not that they don't like Paul," said Kay Moore, wife of shop steward George Moore. "They think their families are in jeopardy.

The Moores were among 50 workers and their families who met with three doctors to talk about their fears of contagion from Paul Cronan,

The repairman returned to work Tuesday after a yearlong absence and the settlement of a $1.5 million lawsuit against the New England Telephone Co. The suit alleged the company revealed his disease to coworkers, provoking threats. The amount of the settlement was not Cronan, who lives in Boston, said he was greeted on his first day back at work by a message scrawled on the garage wall: "Gays and bisexuals should be taken to an island and destroyed." The sign was erased.

The next day, 29 of Cronan's 44 coworkers refused to pick up work orders at their office. "I won't be standing next to him unless it is forced on me," said employee John Ben-

The meeting with doctors Wednesday night allayed most fears, although they trivialized families' concerns, Kay Moore said.

"They made them sound like silly fears," she said. "To me they're not

She said most of the families were not aware that doctors believe that acquired immune deficiency syndrome is a virus spread through sexual intercourse or contact with blood and blood products. The highest risk groups in the United States have been homosexuals and intravenous

A few of Cronan's colleagues have been turned away from their friends' houses because of widespread misunderstanding about AIDS contagion, she said.

Others are under pressure by their families to stay away from Cronan, and some families simply don't believe the doctors' assurances Yet the families were impressed by the phone company's resolve to keep Cronan on the job, and by his persistence, Kay Moore said. "The majority of people were saying they admired Paul and his courage," she said. "They understand he's a human being and he's suffering from something nobody has control over. Business agent Mike Connor said the local chapter of the International

Brotherhood of Electrical Workers was supporting Cronan's return to the job because "it's the right thing Cronan's physician, Dr. Richard T. Schooley of Massachusetts General Hospital, said he believed that since his talk with workers Wednesday

there was a noticeable shift in mood. "They have moved from an adversarial position to one of beginning to grasp what the real facts are," he

The telephone company said repairmen who still refuse to enter the office may pick up assignments outside the building, but they must agree to undergo stress counseling. "But the company made it very clear this is not going to go on very long," said Cronan's attorney, David Casey, who handled the case for the American Civil Liberties Union.

He said the company promised to refuse service to customers who wouldn't allow Cronan in their homes. New England Telephone spokesman Peter Cronin said he was checking whether that was a provision of the settlement, but the company has received no complaints.

The attorney said Cronan was determined to keep working although the work stoppage had left him "very down."

"It was hurtful and he was angry and upset," he said.

Army lab identifies 4 missing servicemen

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon said Thursday an Army laboratory had identified the remains of four servicemen missing in southeast Asia since the Viet-

The relatives of the four men, who were in the Air Force and Navy, have been notified of the identifications, the Pentagon

The remains will be flown from Hawaii to California on Friday following a full military honors ceremony at Hickam Air Force Base, the Pentagon added.

Three of the remains were among a group of 21 repatriated by Vietnam to the United States last April and are the first of that group to be identified.

The fourth set of remains was among 14 recovered last February during an excavation at the crash site of an Air Force AC-130 helicopter gunship in Savannakhet Province, Laos, the Pentagon said. Four other sets of remains recovered during that excavation were identified earlier this year.

The Pentagon added the Army's Central Identification Laboratory in Honolulu continues to work at identifying the other remains recovered at the crash site as well as those repatriated by the Vietnamese government. The men identified today, including their rank and home of record at the time of their disappearance, were: -Lt. Col. Richard Castillo of the Air Force, born Nov. 21, 1938, Corpus Christi, Texas. Castillo's remains were identified from among those recovered in Laos.

-Lt. Col. Harold J. Zook of the Air Force, born Oct. 21, 1940, New Holland, Pa., lost in North Vietnam on May 31, 1966

-Maj. Gordon S. Wilson of the Air Force, born June 3, 1940, Hobart, Ind., lost in North Vietnam on Nov. 22, 1966.

-And Ensign Patrick L. Ness of the Navy, born Nov. 22, 1941, Minneapolis, lost in North Vietnam on Aug. 23, 1967.

Largest deficit to greet 100th Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The 99th Congress produced dramatic changes aimed at controlling the government's budget problems, but it left for the future the hard choices of deep spending cuts or a tax increase.

The 99th first helped create the largest federal deficits in history. During fiscal 1986, which ended Sept. 30, the government spent about $230 billion more than it took in, eclipsing the record of $212 billion set just a year earlier.

Then, largely in reaction to those figures, which pushed the Treasury's borrowing needs past the $2 trillion mark, Congress last December approved the Gramm-Rudman law.

The statute for the first time set limits on how far spending could exceed revenues, and it tightened those limits for each year through fiscal 1991, when the budget would be balanced. And it held out a threat: if Congress missed its annual targets by more than $10 billion, automatic spending cuts would be imposed Burden of managing budget remains across the board.

The Supreme Court threw out the automatic nature of those spending cuts in July, and the 99th Congress never put them back. But the targets remained a powerful political tool.

Congress was stalemated through most of the year, missing every budget deadline and failing to pass a single one of the 13 annual appropriations bills. It finished with a flurry of fiscal activity, with all of its spending decision wrapped up into huge compromise packages

The bottom lines included:

-A halt to the Reagan-era buildup in defense spending. A Pentagon that received huge annual increases through the first half of the 1980s actually received less, when inflation was taken into account, in fiscal 1986 and 1987.

—No significant tax increases. President Reagan stuck stubbornly by his 1984 campaign pledge, and Democrats declined to challenge

-No deep cuts in domestic programs. Congress repeatedly rejected Reagan's call for sharply reducing government services, instead freezing most programs and eliminating this year only the General Revenue Sharing program for local govern-

Unable to cut and unable to raise taxes, Congress had to fudge to meet its Gramm-Rudman deficit limit of $154 billion for fiscal 1987.

Lawmakers voted to sell off some government assets, including the Conrail freight railroad; raised some fees for government services and made some accounting changes. They promised not to rely on a onetime windfall of $11 billion from the tax overhaul bill, but they did.

Still, even if the fiscal 1987 deficit estimate is too optimistic, as many contend, it could still result in the biggest one-year reduction in the deficit in history.

"We should pause and take some pride in this accomplishment," Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said as Congress was completing its action. "But again, we cannot rest on our laurels. Another mountain looms in the near distance, and the 100th Congress will once again begin its trek up that difficult mountain."

Chiles, Domenici and many other lawmakers predict Congress won't be able to make its future deficit targets without levying new taxes, cutting benefits and other programs, or both

Rudolph G. Penner, director of the Congressional Budget Office, said this week that his agency was still analyzing the thousands of spending decisions that cleared in the final hours of the 99th Congress.

The most significant trend change was stopping the rapid rise in the military budget, Penner said. But some other expenditures have not been controlled, including farm subsidies that have risen from $8 billion in 1980 to $30 billion in fiscal 1986, he Congress included in one of its budget bills a new national debt ceiling of $2.3 trillion.

Kappas celebrate 70th year; plans include banquet, tours It was installed as a national chapter

9-12 p.m.

*Watch for upcoming Birthday & Halloween specials

NCR

* No KSU Student ID required

Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

By The Collegian Staff

The Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority is celebrating its 70th anniversary as a K-State chapter this weekend.

Celebration plans include a banquet at the Holidome, tours of the house and Aggieville, pledge-class parties and a special Founder's Day

The sorority, housed at 517 Fairchild Terrace, expects about 400 alumnae to attend the celebration, said Becky Riden, senior in architecture and head of the anniversary committee. They are traveling from as far away as Hawaii, Washington, D.C., and California

The oldest alumna expected to attend is Ester Weddles who was in-

In 1906, the sorority was a local chapter called Lamba Lamba Theta.

$2 Cover

Sept. 23, 1916. The Kappa house was build in 1930, and it was expanded in Riden said the sorority has grown. In earlier times, pledge classes had about 15 members. The total sorority membership was about 60. Now, pledge classes are about 30 people, and the members count about 120.

The alumnae planned much of the celebration, Riden said, Nancy Knopp and Margie Young, two local alumnae, have been planning the events for two years

Riden said about 750 people are expected to attend the banquet. University President Jon Wefald will be a guest speaker. Liz Oswalt, former president of the National KSU Alumni Association and a Kappa alumna, will be the mistress of ceremony.

Forestry, resource clubs join combining interests, travel

By The Collegian Staff

In an effort to provide a more effi cient organization for persons with similar interests, the Forestry Club and the Natural Resource Management Club have been combined.

Ted Cable, assistant professor of forestry, said the action was taken because the two clubs did most of their activities together.

"The clubs had similar interests and and were always working together anyway," he said. "In the past, we have done everything from fund-raising to traveling together."

Cable said the main purpose of the new organization, titled the Forest and Park Resources Club, is to give people with an interest in the out-

Party before the game in the beer

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

FRIDAY

VODKA

DRINKS

$1.50

DRAWS

garden.

doors a chance to get together.

He also said the functions of the w organization will be the same as the two clubs used to have as separate units, including the sale of tree seeds to seed companies. With the money, the club travels to national parks and forests, such as a trip last year to the Grand Canyon.

The club will also continue to sponsor guest speakers. Past speakers, Cable said, have included a photographer from Field & Stream magazine and a representative for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Cable said the club meets at 7 p.m. every second and fourth Thursday of the month in Call Hall 228. The club is open to all students.

Aggieville Flowers 12th & Laramie

Short Stem

Red Roses $1 each Cash & Carry

537-9549 Mon.-Sat. 10-5 REFERENCE Don't Miss The Smoky Hill River Band Tonight & Sat. night

> 9-1:30 a.m. $1 members $2 guests

The Ranch
SALOON

-A Class B Private Club
3 mi. East Hiway 24
539-4989

THE DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER LECTURE

"Eisenhower and the American Dream"

presented by JOHN KEEGAN

Defence Correspondent, Daily Telegraph, London and author of The Face of Battle.

Forum Hall, K-State Union Tuesday, 28 October 1986, 8 p.m. Sponsored by the Department of History

FORT SCOTT v. KSU

Alumni Match Rodeo

Where: Manhattan Round-up Club Arena (Turn east on 1st gravel road north of Rocky Ford Trailer Court-signs)

DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT

Presenting: The Arkansas Travelers When: Saturday, 10-25-86, 7-Midnight Where: Fields of Fair ($4 at the door)

prices

9-12 p.m.

Students,

Faculty, Employees.

ONLY

PC4i - $2615 2 drive monochrome monitor

$1178

PC4i - $2960 2 drive, color monitor

$1399

Super System Special $1599

PC4i, 10Mb hard disk, color monitor

Foresight Solutions of Lawrence is exclusively administering this purchase program.

awarded a contract to supply the State of Kansas with microcomputer equipment. Discount prices are being offered to all students and faculty and to all State employees. This special purchase program will apply to the full NCR microcomputer product line and related accessories. All computers are discounted at least 36%, with a 50% savings on the PC4i.

NCR Corporation has been

Please call for a FREE product brochure. available only from:

(913) 842-7526 804 New Hampshire Lawrence, KS. 66044

539-9967

616 N. 12th

75¢ Free Hors D'oeuvres

Alintie Mae's Parlor AGGIEVILLE

elday Jiffin

SATURDAY *Open at 10 a.m. for the game

> TONIC DRINKS $1.50 SCHNAPPS

> > 616 N.12th 539-9967

When: performances at 3 p.m. Sat. 10-25-86 & 1:30, Sunday 10-26-86

Dance is being sponsored by Fields of Fair and B & B Distributor, your local Miller rep.

$1.00

LIVE-IN Nanny wanted. Need mature adult, non-smoker, driver's license, enjoys children. Room and board, good salary, weekends free. Nine-twelve month commitment, Kansas City area. Call (816) 444-6674 collect, weekdays only.

Must have own car and insurance. Apply at Falset nar Leaders: Successful undergraduates are now

ter to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1987. Specific duties include: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills

Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a Social Science or Mathematics class; c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session and d) attending and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) Feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students; c) desire to teach others how to learn; d) are able to relate to many types of people; and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathematics. Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class. EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit), during Spring 1987 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. (tentative). A time commitment of 10–12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1987 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, con-tact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton

204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview.(43-46)

Survivor

Pretenders

Billy Idol

Warren Zevon

Aretha Franklin

Robin Williams

And More!

At

The Sound Shop

In Aggieville

son at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison. Contact Jim

or Ernie for an appointment. 776-0004. (43-49)

NANNY POSITIONS - Live in beautiful seaside Connecticut, one hour from New York City. Choose from carefully screened families. Assist with childcare, light housekeeping. Room, board

$100-$200 per week, transportation paid, 12 month stay. Care For Kids, Inc. (203) 838-6108/852-

16

1184. P.O. Box 27, Rowayton, CT. 06853 (44)

MINNOW-HAVE a great birthday Good luck this party and homecoming. See Announcements. (44)

MARK BUYLE-Ambassador candidate-KSU

vorite AD Pi's-Pat, Mary, Kris, and Pam. (44)

WELL, I'LL be side-gaited! Oklahoma cast and crew

Break a leg. That's the Idyee! Love, Ike and Tina.

AD PI's-What a week, it's been great. Number One is what you girls rate. The week has gone just too fast, wish the fun times could last. But the float is not finished—some work yet to be done, before we find out, who's number one. All the way with AD Pi

AD PI Shannon - We're coming to Kansas on a whirf.

AD PI Paula-Everyone's raring to go and see your

HELL YES, but we can't put it on a shirt! Pomp Naked

WIN OR loose, we got the booze! Pomp Naked! Al-pha Xi's and Lambda Chi. (44)

KAPPA DELTA's and Fiji's are a heck of a team, work-

WE'LL WIN Homecoming, we'll beat Mizzou, we love

JOLYNN-HAVE a super birthday! Happy 22nd! -

BIG BASH Flash to Sigma Nu's: U-Man and Lil 'Hose

AGR PLEDGE Dates: Saturday will come sooner than you know, and at 6:30 you better be ready to go get psyched for Saturday, it will be one you will never forget KKG Dates (44)

you. Thetas! - from Sigma Nu (44)

ing hard on their homecoming theme. Keep up the good work, we're behind you all the way. Love, the Pridettes show, but my grand-dot isn't like the rest, she's an AD Pi—the best! Love, P & K (44) just to see our dot twirl. Homecoming will be top rate, cuz those AD Pi's sure do rate! Love. P & K needs someone like you. We love you lots! Your fa-

TONIGHT'S THE night. MHS class of 1984 rec

PERSONAL

weekend. D.V.D. (44)

K A! Love, The Pikes (44)

Kappa Delta alums. (44)

Your Gooty Roomie (44)

DIVID

NEW

Releases

by

ing recruited by the Academic Assistance Cen-

WANTED-PIZZA delivery driver, full or part-time

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Semi-

Big Eight

Continued from Page 8

volved with radio broadcasts for the Sooners since the early '70s.

"Every conference has its share of weak sisters and we are no exception. This year we seem to have five or six disappointing teams though. However, I think the jury is still out on Oklahoma State this year. We are no different than any other league because there isn't parity throughout a whole conference," Treps said.

Treps said schools near large population areas have benefited from having a scholarship limit. "Coach Switzer and I were talking about this recently. In Los Angeles there are so many (blue-chip recruits) to choose from, and we in the Midwest have to search for them," Treps said. Sooner quarterback Jamelle Hollieway is from the Los Angeles area.

Treps does not see much change in the teams that are traditionally at the top of the national polls. "If teams were allowed to have only 10 recruits the best schools would still get the best players. I still believe the rich will stay rich and the poor will stay poor."

Travis

Continued from Page 8

Travis said "it's possible" Coleman will take the situation to court.

If the letter states "Coleman can't play" then, Travis said, that will be exactly what K-State will do come the first game on Nov. 27 with South Dakota

"We're not going to break NCAA rules. We are not going to play an ineligible player - now if the court tells us to play him that would be a little different," Travis said.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

DAP! I DREAMT THAT MICHAEL JACKSON SLEEPS ON A BEP OF PASTEURIZED PIG FAT TO KEEP HIS SKIN SOFT AND SUPPLE!!

Garfield

eanuts

JUST GOT BACK

FROM THE DENTIST

LOOK, JON. MY BOYFRIEND

WOULDN'T LIKE IT IF HE KNEW YOU WERE

TRYING TO ASK

ME OUT

Bloom County

TELL ME IT

JY AIN'T TRUE

& DAD!

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (1-52)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

ZEN MASTER D. Katahiri-Roshi lectures Friday, October 31, 8 p.m. International Student Center on Philosophy and Practice of Meditation. Instruction available Saturday, November 1. (42-46)

ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken, 539-9469 (44-53) OUTDOOR PORTRAITS in Quinlan Park on Sunday, October 26, 11:30 a.m.-5 p.m. and Monday, Octo ber 27, 12 noon-5 p.m. No appointment and no charge University Photography (44) CLASS OF 1984, call Judd (539-7561) or Jo Ann (539-

7571). (44) ATTENTION

50N, THE TRUTH IS THAT

HE SLEEPS IN A SPECIAL

HIGH-PRESSURE OXYGEN

CHAMBER TO MAKE HIM

I READ IT IN 'NEWSWEEK'

MANGLER"

I'M SO HAPPY .. HE SAID

2 Actress

4 Perhaps

5 Be sore

Gardner

3 Relative of

42 Across

Acapulco

ton city

I HAVE A NICE BITE!

FEEL "REJUVENATED."

OH, YEAH?

WHAT'S HIS

NAME

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costurnes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Keystone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in tion toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog downtown and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for huge color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (40-44)

ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, religious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer in volved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039. (41-50) reservations, 539-5328. (42-44)

SKI COLORADO: Fully furnished, two bedroom, two bath condo for rent in Dillon. Clubhouse includes pool, jacuzzi, sauna and more. Discount rates. 316-241-1991. (44-48)

Duran's Denison & Claflin Buy one steak & get the 2nd one for ½ price.

Exp. date 10/26 (with coupon) GARTER BELT, bra and pantie sets available at Un-dercover. Christian Dior, Maidenform, Lady Marlene. Stockings to match, with or without seams, 1224 Moro, (44-48)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

HORSE BOARDING available-Stalls, beautiful Flint Hill area, three miles west of town. Call 776-5059. (42-46)

04 FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE, $150 bills paid. Call 539-8464 or 539-8401 after 5 p.m. (37-44)

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

ONE BEDROOM furnished apartment. Across Put

nam Hall. 1304 North Manhattan, $195. Call 539-

7521 or 776-7045. (40-44) CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom two bath, basement and large porch plus great amenities. 776-0272. (44-53)

FOR SALE-AUTO

02

REALLY.

OOOO! I'M

600D

FOR YOU

1981 MERCURY Lynx Stationwagon-Good condition, dependable, air conditioning. Call 776-3499 or 532-5865. (40-44)

1979 PONTIAC Sunbird-Yellow, sunroof, stereo new brakes and clutch, looks good, dependable $2,300. Call 776-3447. (40-44) 1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49) 1976 MUSTANG Ghia, 85,000 miles. Great school car or second car, $850. Call 1-494-8326 or 537-8802 and leave number to call back. (42-44)

ONE OF a kind 1971 Karman Ghia Volkswagon. New dash, new tires, runs great, shiny red, overall great condition. More information, (913) 263-3000 or 532-2362, #118, Michele. Leave messages please. (42-

1971 FIREBIRD Formula 400-Looks good, runs good, $1,700. Randy, 776-3347 or 776-2054. (42-44) 1976 CORVETTE-34,000 miles, excellent condition. (913) 243-7205 or (913) 243-3510. (43-47)

WHEN THE GREAT

GLOVED ONE GETS WEIRPER THAN MY TROUBLE.

NIGHTMARES, I KNOW

WE'RE BOTH IN BIG, BIG

By Jim Davis

I AM

By Charles Schulz

IF A DOG HAS A NICE

BITE, HE JUST GETS

YELLED AT!

By Berke Breathed

Experienced carpenters, plumbers, electricians, carpet and/ or lineoleum layers for part-time work during the day, evening or weekends. Must have sufficient expertise to work with limited or no direction. Should also have limited amount of tools for work in the

1974 MERCURY Comet - Two door, $475 or best of-

fer. After 5:15 p.m. on weekdays, 776-5609. (44-48)

LIKE NEW! Gibson SG standard hollow body guitar and hard case. Cherry finish. $475. Call 537-9309.

The Ritz Denison & Claflin

1/4 lb. Hamburger, 1/2 order curly fries and medium drink for $2

MIXER, PEAVEY Mark II-7 channel, stereo with re-

8" OSCAR fish, $8. Call 1-494-2388 St. George. (41-45)

Mexican Buffet

Ramada Restaurant

Every Sunday

TANDY 1000, 384K, Monochrome monitor, dual disk, Epson LX80 NLQ printer, software. Call Curt, 539-

The Ritz Denison & Claffin

69¢

1/4 Hamburger

537-3335

tion, $650. Also diving gear including suit, regulators, compensators, etc. Call 539-1311 evenings or weekends. (43-45)

Hayes House of Music

327 Poyntz

DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off

1982 YAMAHA Virago 750. Bought new 14 months

918 LARAMIE, 8 a.m. -2:30 p.m. Saturday. Furniture.

TV's, turntables, tape recorders, electric type writer, books, toys, records, clothing, wood stove

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/

Needed:

vacuum cleaner, queen-size comforter, hundreds

ago. $1,200. Call 537-0834 after 4 p.m. (42-44)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

GARAGE SALES

of items under $1 (44)

HELP WANTED

(26-64)

VIOLA BY Ernest Heinrich Roth. Excellent condi-

verb, $300. Must sell. 539-5768. (40-44)

(with coupon)

5-7:30 p.m.

(with coupon)

FOR SALE-MISC

Exp. Date 10/26

$3.95

Exp. Date 10/26

Call 776-9007

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe, South America, Australia Asia, All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sight seeing. Free information. Write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2. Corona Del Mar, CA.

> WANTED: APPLICANTS FOR THE POSITION OF EXERCISE LEADER

Applicants: must be KSU students, carrying 7 or more hours. POSITION REQUIREMENTS:

1.) Knowledge of proper exercise technique

2.) Knowledge of aerobic conditioning 3.) Enthusiasm, confidence, poise

* CERTIFICATION PREFERRED * CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recreational Services (532-6980) for an application REC COMPLEX JOB OPENING:

Must be KSU student carrying 7 or more hours Must be available from noon-3:30

EVERY Monday afternoon More work hours will be available next Availability to work over vacation periods preferable

tional Services (532-6980) for an application. OVERSEAS JOBS. Also cruiseships, airlines, hotels

BIG BASH Dates - Jody, Jim. Scott. Hickory Dickory Dock: Prepare yourself for a shock, a surprise we'll fix; when the clock strikes six, the Kappas are ready to rock. Shawn, Jada, Rose. (44)

No matter what the outcome is proud of you! Rose and Piney (44)

LAMBDA CHI's Chris. Kevin. Brian-Get ready to dance, get ready to sing, get ready to party, get ready to swing. The party of the year is drawing near, get your suit and tie on, we'll party till dawn

PHI KAPS - Alpha Gams Phi Kaps KSU. We've known all along who's #1 It's not over yet. The best is yet to come. (44)

TIRED OF the bar scene? 22 year old white male student, looking for attractive female for date(s). Kevin, 539-4615, (44-46)

SIG EP Dennis-With champagne and love, we will have so much fun! Get psyched for Saturday night. Your KKG sweetheart, your love at first sight! (44) TO SAE's Walden and Williams - Get ready for a wonderful night, because the plans we have will be out

ERIC-OUR dads were college roommates, our families are first rate, thanks to my mom calling your mom, I have you as my date! Looking forward to this Saturday - hope you are too! - KKG Judi. (44) TKE CHARLES-This is your day, it's Friday at last. Your birthday datadatada, will be a blast! Love, Gidge (44)

SIGMA CHI Todd-Friday night was just too fine Saturday we'll pour some wine and I'll give a toast to the best big bro that a little sis could ever know. Luv-Mitch (44)

TRI SIGMA Kristina with a K. Happy 22nd! Love. Mom. P.S. Be home early! Big day tomorrow! (44)

SIGMA CHI Doug: The time has come and Saturday's the night we'll show that Manhatlan folks sure can party right. Get psyched for the party of the year the 70th reunion is drawing very near! -KKG Nance (44)

ATO DAVE Wille-We think you are really super, and you aren't a party-pooper! Here's to Wille and the best float around! Love, the Tri Delts. (44)

DAVE AND Jeff-Tomorrow's the night and all is right, for drinking and dancing till morning light Be ready to party and have some fun, homecoming '86 will be the one. Leah and Jane (44)

DAVE-YOU grill the steaks, I'll open the Peach to's Pizza, 1127 Moro between 2 and 5 p.m. (42-46) Riunite and we'll celebrate one very happy year to-gether. I lové you. —Lori. (44)

> THETA XI Dana, Get excited about tomorrow nightwe'll party hard and do things right! Love, Kappa > KAPPA MOM Traci - The 70th formal is finally here. I wish you the best and I'll see you there! Love.

> SAE E.G.L.P.-You're okay. Your superiors. T.L. and

A.R. (formally the Pitas). (44) PERCUSSION-AFTER singing "You Lost That Loving Feeling" it was our hearts that you were stealing. The roses were such a surprise, but what can we expect from such great guys! —Pridettes. (44)

BOB: THANKS for making our anniversary special. Christmas night in San Francisco? Sounds good to me! ILY, Timi. P.S. Thanks for the lavalier. (44) KIM-GLAD you came I'm sure we'll have a fun weekend. Love ya, Rod (44)

DENISE—WE are going to have a blast, just wait and see! Delta Sig homecoming, The Cotton Club, and me! (jeez, what a combo.) Get psyched! (I had to say it). Aaron. (44)

TO THE loving, sensitive men of TKE: If we love winning homecoming, set it free, if it comes back to us, it was meant to be. If not, just lap another key! .. These precious moments we have spent to-gether have cast upon us a glow that will shine throughout our lives until our dying days. Forever yours, the women of Chi Omega (44) TO MY Manfriend: Happy 21st. Have a fun day! Love. your woman friend? (44)

AGR ROGER-Good luck this week-you've got my vote! Thanks for the flowers, too. Love, your 'lil sis (44)

AYE MATE-Here's to me and here's to you. Cowtown. Ducky's, and Century II-Good Day Mate

LIZARD LIPS, Happy 22nd! Hope you have a fantastic day-you deserve it. Go ahead-rational your life away — cause no one ever is to blame. C. S N Andy. (44) JEFF AND MATT-Beta Day was here and gone in a flash, and it proved to be quite a bash! Now please don't fret, 'cause our party times aren't over yet! An even bigger bash we have yet to crash, for to the 70th, we will dash! - Kristen and Juli (44) KAPPAS JODY and Jodi-I just wanted to take some time to let you know-dear Mom and Dot. I love you so! Let's make the reunion a family affair, cause for each other, we'll always care! Loyally Kristen (44) TUMBLEWEED, HAPPY Anniversary! It's been a wonderful year and I'm looking forward to spend ing forever with you! (44) SHE DU's-Check Bulletin about today's pictures

RANDY TAUSCHER—Happy 21st! Through broken glasses, many questions, "I'll be the maid," and Sigma Nu/Theta Homecoming, you've been a jammin brother! Debbie. (44) LORNE-THESE last five years have been the best

Exactly one year from today will be the very best day. Love always, Karen (44) ALPHA TAU Omega—Wes and Brian Tomorrow's the night for excitement and fun, because we know you two are number one. We are excited, we hope you are too, because parties like this are very few

ROOMMATE WANTED FEMALE. SHARE two bedroom, completely fur nished. 776-4794 before 7 p.m. or 537-0751 evenings. (41-45) OWN BATHROOM plus bedroom in luxury two bedroom detached apartment, $200/month plus uti ies 532-5932 ext 31 (day) 539-2158 (evening) (41 RESPONSIBLE ROOMMATE, for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher. In quiet neighborhood. November rent is already paid. Call 537-9439, late is okay. (41-

SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help Free preg

nancy test. Confidential Call 537 9180, 103 S Fourth St. Suite 25 (111) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish 931 Hum boldt. 537-4246. (431f)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-sionally written and printed. Call 539:5007. (9tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence 913-841-5716 (39tf) VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts inew and

used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-494-2388 (41-50) GRADUATE STUDENTS: Have your dissertation, the sis, or term paper word processed. Letter quality, reasonable rates, 532-2362 (131), leave message

MARTIE'S TYPING Service Word Processor 1011
Juliette 537-3314 Specializing in theses dissertations, manuscripts, term papers (43.45)

22 WANTED TO BUY

WANTED-FOUR KSU-MU football tickets Phone 776-6467 evenings. (42-44)

23 WELCOMES

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9.45 a.m. Worship 8.30 and 11 a.m. Ministers. Ben Duerfeldt. 539-8685; Sue Amyx. 776-0025. Transportation to church - 776-8790 after 9 a m (44) CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m., Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m. Evening Service, 6 p.m., Prayer Service, Wednes day. 7 p.m. (44) ST LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod). Sun set and North Delaware welcomes students to services. Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10 45 a.m Bible classes, 9:30 a m Sunday (44) TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN—Worship Service 10.45 a.m., Sunday School 9.30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537 8478 or the church office 539-3921 (44)

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison

College Care Cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m. also Bible Study Tuesday evenings—contact 539-5369 For any additional information, call 537-7173, (44)

First United Methodist Church 612 Poyntz

8.45 a ir. Conaramon first Sunday of the month 9.45 a.n. Church School 8:45 a.n. & H.a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services

John D. Stoneking Pastor WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denisor

(the white building with the two red doors). (44) WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service. 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9.45 a.m. Bob Burton teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breistord

Pastor, Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (44) MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denisor Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions

daily before Mass and Saturday at 3.30 p.m. (44) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 Col lege Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training.

6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (44) FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532) Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (44)

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church —6th and Poyntz. Communion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427 (44)

Crossword ACROSS 37 Take it

1 Shoot the breeze 4 - Hari 8 No longer feral

12 Eggs, to Cicero 13 Base undoer 14 "...maids all in 15 Flamboyant 49 College advertising 17 Quote 18 Auto shop

"job" 19 Seeps 20 Portion 22 Nanny's concern

24 Pull over 25 Eyehiding game 29 World labor org. 30 Fronded plants 31 "Sturm

Drang' 32 "Ta-ta!" 34 Pinnacle 35 Merit 36 Zuider Zee sights

easy 40 Fizzy quaff 41 Furious 42 Joey, Down Under

6 Uncle, in 7 Fuss 46 Perfect 8 Washingsquare 47 Tiny bit 9 Neighbor 48 Wise one VIP of Nev. 10 Speck 50 Nebraska 11 Flock females neighbor 16 Wait in 51 Singlethe dark 19 Mighty DOWN trees 1 Task Solution time: 28 min.

Yesterday's answer 10-24 45 Call to 20 Barbecue feature 21 Angel's topper 22 Evita or

Juan 23 Divorce city 25 Equal 26 Cowboy

27 "Don't Tread 28 Dedicated poems 30 Linen source 33 Anesthetize 34 Famed opera

36 Definitive tenet 37 Peel 38 Part of HOMES 39 Singer Horne

40 Skier's

surface 42 Chiang 44 "A Room

One's the torero

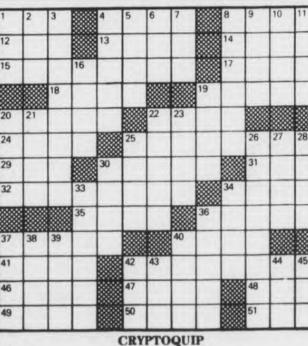

10-24

EXPGEYMANDP ETX TOSNOA

UMP FJJ PGM

Today's Cryptoquip clue: P equals T

IXFUUMA PE F YEANFPXNDP:

IXMFSD!" Yesterday's Cryptoquip: OUR ACCOUNTANT'S SOLE CONCERN: FISCAL FITNESS.

CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recrea-

You'll be looking sharp we have no doubt, 'cause that's what Kappa dates are all about. Get psyched $15,000-$89,000/year. Now hiring Call 805-687 6000, ext. OJ-1000. (38-44) for the 70th. Kappa Piedge Dates (44) AVON — PART or full time in Manhattan. Start as low as $5. Call 1-494-8424. (40-44)

By Eugene Sheffer

JADA-GOOD luck Saturday! You're always #1 to us!

Love, Kappa's Karen, Trish. Becky. (44)

of sight. Get excited! Your Kappa dates. (44) LIT BIG Ji-You're an awesome partner-get psyched for Saturday's game! Your Visual Vit. (44)

Retailers ready for adult costume rush

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Kids aren't the only ones dressing up for Halloween these days.

Some retailers, including Sears, Roebuck and Co. and the J.C. Penney Co., are publishing catalogs to capture some of the market once left to specialty retailers because of the growing number of adults having Halloween fun.

With Halloween falling on a Friday

this year, retailers are bracing for an even bigger rush of adult Halloween party-goers.

Research by Sears shows that the typical adult costume customer is a woman buying for an office or home party. Shoppers are buying more accessories and are willing to spend more than in the past, according to Popular women's costumes this year are devils, French maids, Indian maidens and about anything punk, retailers report. Last year's knockout - Elvira, Mistress of the Dark - is back.

Masqueraders with a political bent still love masks of former President Richard M. Nixon, President Reagan and the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But the headliner this year is, without question, Col. Moammar Gadhafi.

The ninja and other makers of murder and mayhem are selling well, too. Sales of horror accessories, such as melted skin, are brisk. So are sales of classic outfits, such as Dracula in tuxedo and cape.

Interest in dressing up on Halloween is definitely on the upswing, said Gloria Overton, owner of Kansas City Carnival Supply Co. Inc., a Kansas City costume seller.

Only a few years ago, customers favored hippie getups, and the theme was love and peace, Overton said. Today, however, even the little kids are dressing like ninjas.

"We did not have to request any money from any of the departments (in the college) because of the reserve account," he said. "No particular programs were affected."

Continued from Page 1

Funds

directly from the colleges.

nuing education, $4,071.

from a reserve account.

The redistribution of other funds came from physical facilities,

$29,276; institutional support,

$19,111; academic support, $18,691;

student services, $11,108; and conti-

William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Science, said the $76,036 taken from that college came

Randy Pohlman, dean of the College of Business Administration, would not specify where the funds came from in the college during the internal reallocation process. The college lost $9,870 during the process.

Pohlman said, however, he supported the administration's decision to redistribute the funds. "I back the president 100 percent,"

he said. "This will give him the opportunity to do the things (Wefald) wants to do.'

Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering, said the $24,578, which was reallocated to the unallotted funds budget, came primarily from faculty salaries and other operating expenses budget in the col-

"If (we) lose money, (we) have to tighten our belts a little more," he

Although $250,000 came from reallocation, it was not enough to balance the budget deficit. The remainder of the deficit was covered by $101,569 gained through an additional 1 percent other operating expenses allocation from the Legislature for fiscal 1986. This amount - added to the $250,000 - created $351,569 during the reallocation process, which not only eliminated the deficit but also left a balance of $22,772 in the general-use unalloted fund.

Moore, who previously worked at the University of Nebraska, said that internal reallocations were not an uncommon occurrence when he was

Because of the difficulty of balancing a budget, Moore said the installation of a new financial record system will help colleges and departments manage their budget more efficient-

Deposed emperor arrested entering homeland Central African dictator, the man

By The Associated Press

PARIS - Deposed Emperor Jean-Bedel Bokassa of the Central African Republic tried to return under an assumed name on Thursday to the poor land he once ruled with pomp and an iron fist, but he was arrested immediately.

Bokassa, 65, is under a death

The Water Tech Water Purifier

has been used on all space shuttle missions, Lambert said. It is also used by employees of the U.S. State Department working abroad and by travelers in different countries,

campers, hikers and the Boy Scouts of America, he said. The invention is registered with the Environmental Protection Agency and is used by Centers for Disease Control, he said.

a cup containing the resin complex to fit on top of a larger drinking cup.

When water is poured into the purifying cup all bacteria and vires are killed as the water flows into the

An infringement suit was filed when Calco, Ltd., a Chicago-based corporation, came out with a similar

Water Technologies first designed

Continued from Page 1

Suit

larger cup.

product.

sentence in his homeland, where after his 1979 ouster he was convicted of murder, cannibalism, embezzling state funds, illegal use of state property and assault and battery.

An official at the office of President Andre Kolingba confirmed that Bokassa was arrested as soon as he arrived on an Air Afrique flight from

The official, who refused to give his name, was reached in the capital, Bangui, by telephone from Paris. He said he had no further information on the former emperor's situation.

The Pan African News Agency, in a dispatch from Bangui monitored in Senegal, said the Central African Republic's presidential office issued a statement declaring: "The former with the red hands, Bokassa, was arrested Thursday. It quoted the statement as saying Bokassa tried to enter the country under the name Christian Sole. Bokassa's clandestine departure from France first was disclosed by Denis Baudouin, a spokesman for French Premier Jacques Chirac.

A primary use for the Water Technologies cup, introduced about six years ago, was for camping trips purification. About two years after the Water Purifier was marketed, Calco produced a thick straw, basically utilizing the same complex but in a less ef-and vacations abroad where water may not be safe to drink without fective form, Fina said. It was packaged with a picture of a woman in a camping scene, drinking out of the straw. The plaintiffs in the lawsuit, Water Technologies and the KSU Research Foundation were awarded a little more than $500,000 in actual losses and the same amount in punitive damages. Court costs and lawyers' fees were also charged to Calco, said John Mingle, professor of engineering and vice president of the KSU

Research Foundation. "Calco was forced to pay punitive damages because they knew other patents existed and blatantly infringed the patent," Mingle said.

Mingle said Water Technologies was the primary plaintiff and the KSU Research Foundation probably won't receive much money from the

"We don't get any windfall out of it of any large magnitude," he said. The foundation is paid a percentage of Water Technologies' profit and therefore will benefit indirectly by increased sales, Mingle said. "It does strengthen our licensee's position because the patent has been proven valid," Mingle said. "It gives them a much bigger bargaining posi-Mingle said Fina and Lambert will also profit because they receive a percentage of Water Technologies sales through the foundation. Lambert said aside from the lawsuit, the invention has been rewarding. 'We've had no trouble," he said. "It's been an unqualified success. Everyone who uses it swears by it."

Fina and Lambert said every bacterium and virus they have tested the resin complex on has died. The Centers for Disease Control tested various bacteria and vires and obtained the same results. The inventors said they will continue to test the resin complex.

In the meantime, Water Technologies is expanding its

"Amway is interested in the disinfectant for its home-sized (water purifying) units," Lambert

The Water Technologies Water Purifier is the only true purifier, Fina said.

"The definition of a purifier is something that kills bacteria," he said. "All the rest (water cleaning units) filter bacteria out."

"This has enormous possibilities, and our water is getting worse all the time so the possibilities can only get better," Lambert said.

Police

Continued from Page 1

Rogers said she had heard that persons with scanners listened to the police being told "not to do anything" repeatedly Saturday

She said she interpreted the acts of violence against her business as personal attacks.

"I feel like they might as well have been throwing bottles at me," she

Rogers said the general feeling Saturday night among merchants was that the police "could have done more.'

"At 2 and 3 a.m. (Sunday morning), many merchants were very upset," she said. "But now they are changing their stories.

Contrary to some reports about the disturbance, Johnson said situation did not prompt the RCPD to contact the National Guard.

"They were not contacted this year, because two years ago I did try it, and they indicated they could not come," he said. "As I understand it, they can't act in a pro-active manner they can't come in advance and guard Aggieville from students."

Looking for an apartment?

Check Collegian Classifieds

SOMEONE'S LOOKING FOR YOU!

Find the 10 most compatible people for you at KSU. Entry fee is $1.

See the Dating Service Booth in the Union, this week only.

5 FREE nights-on-the-town will be given away. Night includes:

Dinner. Limousine transportation, and movie.

Sponsored by Newman Ministries, La Ride

Limousine Service

and Best Sound Around

Kappa Kappa Gamma 70th Reunion Welcome Home to Gamma Alpha

Homecoming Loss

The Wildcats made mistakes early and often in a 17-6 loss to Missouri before 19,850 Homecoming fans Saturday at KSU Stadium. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

October 27, 1986

Monday

Volume 93, Number 45

Destroyed car leaves owner bitter, puzzled

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Kansas State University

Catherine Robare came home from the hospital Friday. But she didn't drive.

Robare's car was the one rolled and burned in front of the Varsity Theatre in Aggieville during the disturbance Oct. 18.

She was admitted to The St. Mary Hospital the next Wednesday morning, suffering from overexertion.

"Sunday, I couldn't get out of bed," said Robare who lives in an Aggieville apartment. "I had exerted myself so much I couldn't move. I was so scared and I was so Robare works a "graveyard shift" at a local convenience store. She said she didn't go to work the night after the disturbance.

"All day Sunday I could hear people on the street laughing and bragg-ing about the incident," she said. "Then when I went to work Monday night, some of the customers recognized me and were talking and laughing about it. I couldn't face it."

Robare, 25, moved to Manhattan from Lansing two years ago when her mother forced her to leave. Her father died shortly after that, and she's been on her own ever since.

"I don't know many people in this town," she said. "When you're alone, that's the hardest thing. You don't think anybody cares and you don't think there's anyone to talk to or turn Robare said that last Saturday was the first time she'd ever parked her 1968 Volkswagen on Moro Street.

"I hadn't planned on taking my car anywhere that day," she said. But Saturday afternoon, a young girl she babysits called and begged Robare to take her roller skating.

Robare did, and when she returned, found no other place to park.

After going to bed about 9 p.m., Robare said she woke up when she thought she heard gunshots on the street. Unable to go back to sleep, she sat up for three hours listening to music.

Around midnight, she said, she smelled smoke and panicked, thinking the building was on fire.

'My nose burned and my face was on fire," she said, covering her face with her hands. "Once (the smell) came in here, there was no getting it

When Robare realized the smell must have been some sort of tear gas, she ran downstairs and splashed water on her face for several minutes. At 1 a.m., the smell was still in her apartment. She decided to go stay with a friend. "Weekends are my only time to sleep," Robare said.

"I went down to get my car and walked around the corner, and there it was, all smashed up," she said. "Two police officers were standing right in front of my car with their arms crossed, and I thought, 'Wow, they're not even gonna do anything!"

Not knowing what to do, Robare went back to her apartment and called her friend. While she was on the phone, she said, she heard someone out in the hall.

"I was so upset that I left the door open," she said. "When I hung up and came out, my car keys were gone off the table.

That was the final blow. "I went back down and started screaming at the crowd, 'Who did this?" she said. "Then people started yelling, 'Burn it, burn it!" Robare said she climbed on top of her car in hopes of saving it. "They didn't care," she said. "I felt like I was being sacrificed." People began taunting her and yelling obscenities, she said, and someone threw a full can of beer and hit her in the face, knocking off her

"Finally, I believed it wasn't worth it," she said, and she climbed down. "No sooner did I get down and they all rolled it over," she said. "They almost rolled it over on top of me. Some people almost got underneath When she saw that the crowd was

See ROBARE, Page 12

Homecoming festivities close at game

By LYNETTE HAMILTON Collegian Reporter

Homecoming activities drew to a close Saturday as winners of spirit competitions and two new University ambassadors were announced at the K-State-University of Missouri football game.

Jada Allerheiligen, junior in journalism and mass communications, and Mark Buyle, junior in marketing, were announced as the new K-State ambassadors during halftime of the game at KSU Stadium.

The ambassador positions are open to all students who have attended K-State for at least one year. Applicants were narrowed down to three female and three male candidates through interviews with student leaders and faculty selected by Blue Key National Honor Society, a senior honorary. The final selection was made in a vote of the student body. "I'm from Manhattan and have been behind K-State through good and bad. I think I have purple blood in me," Allerheiligen said.

'We serve as representatives of the student body at alumni gatherings and are members of the Student Alumni Board," Buyle said in explaining the ambassador's role.

'We are to help maintain good relations between the alumni, as well as with prospective students," Allerheiligen said. "We'll be attending high school career days and giving speeches on what K-State has to offer and answering any questions about the University.

"President (Jon) Wefald has some new programs that excite me. He says K-State is the 'best kept secret,' and it has a lot to offer that people don't know about. I can't wait to get started.'

Allerheiligen said past ambassadors described the job as 'very time consuming.

"Right now there are over 50 career nights and meetings planned. They said we'll learn how to do our homework on buses and planes since we'll be gone so much," she Buyle and Allerheiligen, both from Manhattan, have known each other since the third grade and both said they are excited to work with each other. "Ambassadors in the past have had to spend time getting to know each other so they can work together better," Buyle said. "I feel that knowing each other already is a great asset that we have.

Allerheiligen and Buyle each will receive $1,000 scholarships to be presented to them at a spring awards banquet.

Points accumulated from the spirit banner, body building, Yell Like Hell, Union Day/K-State Day Talent, Pant the Chant and parade competitions were totaled and the overall winners were awarded the All-University Spirit Award.

The winner was Delta Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega. There was a three-way tie for second between Alpha Delta Pi/Pi Kappa Alpha, Pi Beta Phi/Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Sigma Sigma/Sigma Chi. Third place went to Kappa Alpha Theta/Sigma Nu.

Winners of the float competition, the final Homecoming spirit activity, were also announced during halftime. The floats were on display outside the stadium.

The winner of the greek float competition was a two-way tie between Pi Beta Phi/Phi Delta Theta and Delta Delta Delta/Alpha Tau Omega. Second place went to Sigma Sigma Sigma/Sigma Chi and Kappa Alpha Theta/Sigma Nu finished third.

Residence hall winners were Marlatt/Boyd, first; Goodnow/Putsecond; nam. Ford/Haymaker, third.

Jada Allerheiligen, junior in journalism and mass communications, reacts to her being named one of two K-State ambassadors at halftime Saturday of the K-State-University of Missouri football game. Bert Frost, senior in marketing and a member of Blue Key, was Allerheiligen's escort.

Blood drive collection surpasses goal by 197

By LYNETTE HAMILTON Collegian Reporter

At the close of the K-State Bloodmobile, a total of 1,597 pints of blood had been donated, passing the goal of 1,400 pints.

The total is more than twice the amount the University of Kansas donated during its three-day blood drive this semester. KU donated 727 pints "We (K-State) beat KU three times this week - in football, volleyball and the blood drive. In four days we doubled their goal," said Troy Millsap, co-chairman of the blood drive and senior in secondary Millsap said part of the success is that every year improvements are made from the year before. This year, Millsap and Charlene Nichols, co-chairwoman of the blood drive and junior at Manhattan Christian College, contacted businesses with dot boards and had them run messages across them pertaining to the blood drive. One asset Millsap said they had was the easy access to distributing information throughout the residence halls and greek houses.

"Charlene had connections with the greeks and I had connections in the halls. This is the first time we've ever had that unique combination and it was a great asset," Millsap said.

"It also helps when the living groups get really involved and encourage their members to donate and work," Nichols

"The response is always good at K-State," said Ruth Meulbrock, Red Cross head nurse. "There is a true commitment to donate and volunteer."

Each day, the goal of 350 pints was exceeded. On Tuesday, 390 pints were donated; Wednesday, 407; Thursday, 409; and Friday, 391.

Donators felt it was one way they could contribute and possibly save someone's

"My mother is a nurse, and I know how important it is to have an ample blood supply for the community," said Jamie Meeks, senior in mechanical engineering. But the bloodmobile wouldn't be possible if it weren't for the volunteers. There was excellent student help this semester, Millsap said. This was the first year volunteers were turned away in such large numbers. The number of volunteers each day was 93 on Tuesday, 58 on Wednesday, 98 on Thursday and 80 on Fri-

The bloodmobile is sponsored each semester by Circle K International. One way Circle K helps promote the bloodmobile is by presenting traveling trophies to the large, small and greek living groups with the highest percentage of donors and workers. This semester, the awards were presented to Goodnow Hall, Smith Scholarship House and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, respectively, Millsap

Programs promote health, fitness

By The Collegian Staff

This week has been designated "Wellness Week '86," and programs and activities focusing on the many aspects of enhancing one's life have been planned, said Cindy Burke, staff assistant at Lafene Student Health Center and coordinator for the event.

Representatives from the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex, Counseling Center, Lafene and the Department of Physical Education, Dance and Leisure Studies will present programs in the Union from noon to 4:30 p.m. each day

Today's programs, to be in the Union Flint Hills Room, will be "Popular Weight Loss Programs," "Anorexia, Bulemia and Obesity," "Self-Management" and "Safe and Sane Exercising.

Tuesday's highlights include tours of Lafene and a beach party in the evening. Lafene will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

for those interested in touring the facility and meeting the staff. From 8:30 to 10 p.m., the Natatorium will be the site for a beach party where students can swim and watch the movie "Beach Party.

The Tuesday programs will be "Stress Management," "The Key to Wellness," "Assertive Communication — Your Route to Personal Effectiveness" and "Exercise...A Prophylactic." These programs also will be in the Union Flint Hills Room.

On Wednesday, the 5th Annual KSU Health Fair will be in the Union Ballroom from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

More than 30 exhibits will help the participants identify positive health-style changes and offer health screening and health education, Burke said.

and other drug information, blood pressure, fitness testing and nutritional information. Thursday's programs in Union 212 will be

Some of the exhibits offered will be alcohol

"The Beginning of an Exercise Program," "From Victim to Survivor: Being an Adult Child of an Alcoholic," "Diet and Exercise -The Winning Combination," and "Self-Motivation and the How-To's." Another program, "Proper Weight Training Technique Demonstration," will be at the Rec Complex. Thursday evening from 9 to midnight will be an all-University dance in the Union Ballroom. The event is sponsored by the Union Program Council Special Events committee, and music will be the Verandas. There will be a $2 admission fee. The Friday programs, in Union Room 212,

See WELLNESS, Page 12

Survey shows proposed 'sin' amendments supported by most Kansans for passage

By The Associated Press

WICHITA - Proposed constitutional amendments on liquor by the drink, a staterun lottery and pari-mutuel racing continue to enjoy strong support among Kansas voters, according to a new Kansas Survey published Sunday in the Wichita Eagle-

But more than a third of registered voters are still undecided about an amendment calling for classification of property for tax purposes, and another amendment that would lessen the power of the State Board of Educa-

The poll, taken Oct. 15 to Oct. 23, shows that the three "sin" issues have enough support to indicate that they will pass.

As found in earlier Kansas Surveys, the lottery enjoys the greatest support of the five constitutional amendments, with 67.3 percent saying they would like the state to start

A "no" vote was registered by 28.7 percent of those polled, and 4 percent were undecid-

Pari-mutuel gambling on horse and dog races won favor with 61.2 percent of the people polled. Another 34.9 percent were opposed to lifting the state's ban on gambling, and 3.9 percent were undecided.

And 59.9 percent said they wanted to give liquor by the drink a chance in Kansas. Another 36.5 percent say they are opposed, and hate to loosen its hold on liquor by the drink, now confined to private clubs. Only 3.6 percent said they were undecided.

In contrast, the controversial property classification amendment has more people undecided - 38.9 percent - than either favoring or opposing it. Those willing to approve the amendment total 38.3 percent.

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Official says reds infiltrate nation

MANILA, Philippines - Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, a hardliner at odds with President Corazon Aquino, said Sunday that the Philippines needed a clean government, and claimed communist rebels were infiltrating the nation's cities.

"We in the armed forces will not allow our country to turn communist," he told a cheering crowd of 20,000 people, many among them supporters of ousted President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

The demonstrators, jammed into a downtown Manila square, chanted "Down with Cory" and "Go, Rambo, Go." Enrile has said he could take action like Rambo, the seemingly omnipotent American film character.

Enrile said the Philippines needs a government that is "stable, honest and clean ... a government beyond suspicion and (that) is not affected by corruption. He did not elaborate, but his aides earlier said Enrile planned to provide detailed evidence of corruption by members of government.

Driver, passengers stop hijacking

JERUSALEM - A bus driver and several young female passengers wrestled a Palestinian attacker to the floor of the bus Sunday night, preventing him from forcing the vehicle off a cliff near Jerusalem, authorities said.

Moshe Dayan, a spokesman for the medical emergency service, said the assailant struck the driver with a stone, then tried to turn the wheel and drive the bus into a precipice.

The bus driver was wounded but he and a group of teen-age passengers helped fight off the Palestinian, Dayan said.

The driver was taken to Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem for treatment, said Dayan, who serves as a spokesman for Magen David, an Israeli version of the Red Cross.

Israel Radio reported that the attack occurred in the suburban Jewish neighborhood of Beyt Vagan. Most of the passengers were teen-agers from a nearby girls' school, the radio said.

The radio identified the attacker as from the Palestinian village of El Harub near Hebron in the Israeli-occupied West Bank. The radio, contradicting the Magen David spokesman's report, said the attacker was armed with a knife.

Captors mark hostages' birthdays

WASHINGTON - American journalist Terry Anderson is thought to be spending his 39th birthday in a small, airless room somewhere in Lebanon Monday, and wondering after more than 19 months in captivity whether he'll ever see his family, friends and country again.

It's the second time Anderson is marking a birthday in captivity, and he can probably look forward to cake, a taste of ice cream and French pastry cups, according to man who shared a room with him for a year. Father Lawrence Martin Jenco, 51, a Roman Catholic priest who was released in July after 19 months in captivity, said the Lebanese captors usually provided a little treat for the American hostages on their birthdays.

"They made birthdays special," he said in a recent telephone interview. "They would stay with us and have our cake and ice cream with us. They would buy French pastry cups."

When the guards fraternized with their captives, they insisted the Americans wear blindfolds, Jenco said.

REGIONAL

City clerk retains post for 64 years

CHILLICOTHE, Ill. - Ilion Crabel has been this Illinois River city's clerk for 64 years, winning 20 elections to two- and four-year terms, attending 1,300 council meetings and signing 992 ordinances.

"I've never paid attention to my age. I've never paid any attention to why I've been in office so long; everybody else does that," says Crabel, a widow since 1976 with one son and six grandchildren. Others around City Hall can't imagine local government wheels turning without her there to oil them.

"She can...and put her hands on just about any document in the city's history," says Mayor Irvin Latta. "Her whole life is city clerk." When Crabel first was elected in 1923, the job was part-time and paid $100 a year, though she says she always has worked at it fulltime. Today, the job still is considered part-time, but the salary is up to $430 a month. She also earns $606 a month as collector of city taxes and fees and superintendent of the city cemetery.

During her fifth two-year term — the office was change to fouryear terms in the late 1930s - Chicago gangster Al Capone skulked into her office one day to buy a hunting license.

"He leaned down on the counter and talked real low; you couldn't see his face or hardly understand him," says Crabel. "I didn't know any better; I didn't know at the time who he was."

Survey shows Docking leads poll

WICHITA - A new statewide Kansas Survey shows Democrat Tom Docking and Republican Mike Hayden are nearly even in the Nov. 4 gubernatorial race, meaning those people who are still undecided will determine the outcome.

In the third survey conducted since the Aug. 5 primary, Lt. Gov. Docking is the choice of 44.1 percent of 1,023 registered voters polled, compared to 42.2 percent who prefer House Speaker Hayden, according to results published Sunday in the Wichita Eagle-Beacon.

The results have a margin of error of 3.1 percentage points either way, which means Docking could be ahead by as much as 8.1 percent points, or Hayden could be ahead by as many as 4.3 percentage

The race is even closer using responses from registered voters considered most likely to vote. Those voters give Docking 43.7 percent, with Hayden close behind at 43 percent. The margin of error among likely voters is 3.8 percentage points.

A significant 13.7 percent of the registered voters surveyed are

The Kansas Survey is a statistically reliable opinion poll conducted by The Eagle-Beacon. The latest poll was taken Oct. 15 through Oct.

Policeman kills personal Doberman

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - A policeman assigned to the canine unit was forced to shoot his pet Doberman pinscher when the animal turned on him during a fight with his police dog, police said.

Sgt. James Harmon told authorities he was putting his police dog, Thor, into a kennel behind his home Friday when the Doberman, Jet, bolted from the house and attacked the police dog.

After trying to break up the fight by throwing water on the dogs, Harmon tried to pull them apart and was attacked by the Doberman, said Sgt. Mike Chase.

"His personal Doberman ate him up," Chase said. "He had deep penetrating wounds into his right arm."

Harmon shot the dog twice with his .38-caliber service revolver, Chase said, and the dog died a short time later. Harmon was treated at a hospital and released.

K-State Players

OPEN

AUDITIONS

TOMORROW.

FROM АПУ ШІПООШ

Oct. 27 - 4 p.m.

Oct. 28 - 6 p.m.

In Nichols Hall Room 008

Campus Bulletin

The Collegian provides this service to the University community free of charge. Notices will be put into the bulletin on the day of the meeting. Bulletins may appear one day earlier, if space permits. Deadline for announcements is 11 a.m. the day before publication. We reserve the right to not publish questionable announcements.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS: The Rural and Small Schools Conference will be today and Tuesday. For more information, call 532-5566 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH. DIVISION OF BIOLOGY, has applications available for $500 student cancer research awards in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec

DELT DARLINGS meet to take yearbook pic tures at 7:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

FRENCH TABLE meets at 12:30 p.m. in Union

EUROPEAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION meets

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ahmad Shabeer at 9 a.m. in Throckmorton 416. The topic will be "I. Inheritance of Tan Spot Resistance in the Winter Wheat Cultivar Red Chief. II. Effect of Tan Spot Timing on Yield and Yield Components of Winter Wheat."

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 1:40 p.m. on the south side of the Union for tour to McCall's Pattern Company. Pledges are welcome

With the Denver Symphony Orchestra featuring

James Setapen, Conductor and Andre-Michel Schub, Pianist

Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons and you will find it is to the soul what a water bath is to the body Oliver Wendell Holmes

> McCain Auditorium Tuesday, November 4, 1986 8:00 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428 Mastercard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts ommission, a state agency, and the National En owment for the Arts, a federal agency.

SOCIAL WORK ORGANIZATION will have a Halloween party at 7 p.m. at 1745 Kenmar Drive. Check social work bulletin for directions.

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. The presentation will be by Volume Shoe Corp.

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL meets to take yearbook pictures at 4:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202. Meeting will follow at 5 p.m. in Justin. AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR

DESIGNERS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 206 RETAIL FLORICULTURE CLUB meets at 7

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Calvin

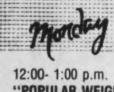

BETA ALPHA PSI meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212.

SENATE COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will be showing two video tapes, "Interview Preparation" and "The Interview," at 3:30 p.m. in Holtz 107B

TUESDAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

"POPULAR WEIGHT LOSS PROGRAMS"

Kathy Grunewald, Ph.D., R.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS This slide show will compare Weight Watchers, TOPS, Overeaters Anonymous, Nutri/System, and The Diet Center. Come and bring your questions about these and other popular weight loss programs.

1:30- 2:20 p.m. "ANOREXIA, BULEMIA, AND OBESITY— THE 80s

EPIDEMIC" Donna Burns, R.N. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS After defining the different eating disorders, we will explore their impact on or society today, as well as look at current methods of treatment. 2:30- 3:20 p.m. "SELF-MANAGEMENT" Cliff Schuette, Ed.D.

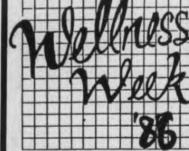

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS Take the time to learn to make time work to your advantage. Learn easy techniques on how to get control of your life by controlling your time. 3:30-4:20 p.m. "SAFE AND SANE

EXERCISING" Guy Smith, M.D.

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS Come and explore various concepts of safe and sane exercises which are a vital part of good health and injury prevention.

Pumpkins with style, class, charm, taste, personality

.. and a low price!

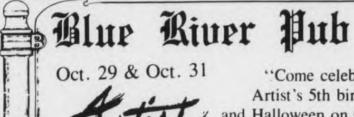

Plus fresh apple cider, the prettiest Indian Corn in town, Ed Irvine's new crop homegrown huge-popping popcorn, and seven kinds of ca-runchy juicy apples!

by the Holidonie on F&Riley Blvd. (K-18)

Wichita Family Planning Inc. Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

"Come celebrate Artist's 5th birthday and Halloween on Oct. 31!" Watch for contest

$2 Cover

& specials. * No KSU Student ID required Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

9-12 p.m.

Discover the FUNdamentals of the Comedy Invasion

TONIGHT

T.P. Mulrooney along with Robert York

9 P.M.

Alumni band returns with big band sound

By JOHN EVANS Collegian Reporter

Many alumni returned for K-State's Homecoming weekend not only to see the football game or classmates, but to hear the Matt Betton Band.

Alumni danced to the big-band tunes of the Matt Betton Band Friday evening at the Alumni Homecoming Dance in the Union Ballroom.

Betton, a 1938 graduate in music education, started his band in 1935. When the group was organized, Betton's band performed as a pep band for K-State football and basketball games.

"He's (Betton) just like he was 50 years ago," said Jerry Schrader, a 1957 graduate in veterinary medicine. "Nobody comes back for the Homecoming dance or game, they come back for Matt Betton.

"This may come as a surprise, but K-State students would support the band like a football team," said Joe Base, a former band member and 1942 graduate in music education. "K-State students were so loud they wouldn't let anyone else be heard through the applause meter."

In 1938, at Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, Mo., a battle of the bands called the "Jubilesta" was held. It was a four-state contest designed to find a champion band, Betton said. The judge of the contest was Jimmy Dorsey Betton and his band won the contest in front of approximately 8,000 people

In 1941, Billboard magazine ranked Betton's band as the No. 1 college dance band in the country. Achieving that position required much hard work, Betton said, adding, "I worked their butts off."

The band broke up for four years during World War II but reformed in 1946.

In 1963, Betton broke up the band to direct Joan Fairfax's All-Girl Orchestra on a three month tour of the United States. The highlight of the tour was premiering on "The Tonight Show," Betton said.

Betton organized and has worked with the National Association of Jazz Educators, a non-profit inorganization ternational dedicated to improving teaching methods for instructors of jazz performance. Betton also was coordinator for musical programs at Disney World.

In 1978, Betton had a reunion of all 158 past band members in a benefit for a scholarship fund for jazz students at K-State. The benefit raised $10,000.

Betton also had the privilege of being a guest of both presidents Ronald Reagan and Jimmy

Rural, small schools conference focus

By MARTHA SCHAEFER Collegian Reporter

Several individuals from across the nation involved with rural education are at K-State today and Tuesday to participate in the eighth annual Rural and Small Schools Con-

The conference is designed to bring together educators, community leaders and government officials to discuss ideas, promising practices and problems in small and rural schools, said Jerry Horn, associate dean of the College of Education. Horn is also serving as president of the National Rural Education

The conference is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education, Washington, D.C.

According to registration information supplied by Horn, the five major subjects of discussion during the conference will be perceptions of education from the private sector, understanding the rural setting, leadership excellence, improving schools and planning for school improvement.

He said the conference provides participants with an opportunity to discuss issues related to schooling rural America, present descriptions of their study findings, projects, programs and practices conducted in their schools and to present a positive image in the community about small and rural schools

Conferences, such as the one at K-State, can assist in clearing up misconceptions about rural schools, Horn said.

"Many schools in rural America are as, or more modern, than schools in other areas," he said.

Speakers scheduled for the conference include Roy Forbes, director of the Rural Education Institute at East Carolina University, and University President Jon Wefald.

Joe Newland, executive director of the National Rural Education Association, and Dwayne Nielson, rural education representative for rural education in the U.S. Department of Education, also will be present during the conference. Nielson is to receive an award of recognition for his services to the field of education, Horn said.

Other awards to be presented during the conference include those for the outstanding rural and smallschool administrator and to the best teacher-initiated project, such as a new curriculum developed by a

Horn said the awards are given for the impact they have had on a school, not to emphasize the individual's

Pope calls for day of worldwide peace

Religions leaders to gather in prayer

By The Associated Press

PERUGIA, Italy - Pope John Paul II, greeted Sunday by thousands of people singing "We Shall Overcome," said his call for a worldwide truce Monday may seem utopian to some people, but not to those who believe in God.

The pope condemned what he called the "culture of contempt" which regards other cultures as primitive, insignificant and unworthy. Such an attitude, he said, leads to a "culture of death, a culture of violence and a culture of evil."

HUNAM EXPRESS Free Delivery

The pope has called on warring factions everywhere to lay down their arms for 24 hours Monday.

He was scheduled to spend Monday in Assisi, 15 miles from this central Italian city, to pray and fast for nine

Restaurant

1304 Westloop 539-8888

hours along with leaders of 11 other religions

Security was tightened noticeably in Assisi after protesters shouting anti-pope obscenities hurled stones and broke stained glass in a small church in the town center early Sun-

The Rev. Antonio Sartori, director

f the office set up in Assisi for the journalists covering Monday's event, reported that police said seven men in two cars drove up to the church and shouted for several minutes before fleeing.

No arrests were reported.

TAKE A HALLOWEEN

BLIZZARD BREAK!

-Go to Dairy Queen's

Two Manhattan Locations

Queen

Italian authorities have deployed some 1,500 policemen for security detail in Assisi, which was bustling with 24,000 residents and about 20,000 pilgrims, tourists and journalists.

Dairu 12th & Moro

Aggieville

GUY McDonald

Senatorial Candidate will speak on issues & ideas At 6:15 p.m. on Monday 27th

Sponsored by K.S. Young Democrats

K-STATE UNION ROOM 202

Tanning Sessions $3 ea. 10 Tanning Sessions $20 15 Tanning Sessions $27 (offer expires Nov. 1, 1986)

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday HIGH ROLLERS

Any Call or Premium Drink only

$1.75

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Party Tonite

IN AGGEVILLE USA

Wednesday 1 night only featuring "Cinema"

Friday Halloween Party With Free T.G.I.F. Sandwich Bar

537-0886

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5

Sunday 10-Midnight 1110 Laramie

Intramural Injuries Injuries Call

537-8305

Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractic Family Health Center 3252 Kimball Avenue

418 Poyntz

Open 7 days a week W W A M

Downtown

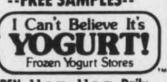

Frozen Yogurt

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT

Enjoy smooth, creamy 537-7340

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Hair Dimensions

Monday Special

$10 off

on regular

perm with Karie or Dawn on Mondays

with this coupon Special

Tanning Sessions 10 for $20

expires 11-15-86 717 N. 11th Aggieville

539-8920 Nautilus Towers

5th ANNUAL HEALTH FAIR '86 WEDNESDAY

October 29, 1986

10 a.m.-3 p.m.

HEALTH SCREENING:

November 1 • Blood Pressure

Hearing Exam

Physical Fitness

MUCH MORE

KSU Union — Main Ballroom HEALTH EDUCATION:

Alcohol and Other Drugs

Health Style Analysis

Nutrition

PLUS MORE

OPTIONAL: Blood Chemistry Test $7 - covers Lab Costs NOTE: DO NOT eat 10 hours prior to test. OPTIONAL: Flu Vaccination $6 - cost of medication

FREE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Sponsored by Lafene Health Center, KSU and Manhattan Communities.

WE TREAT YOU RIGHT

THE STREET WHEN THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O

Pizza and FREE drinks with coupon

Dine-in, carryout or delivery

Save on Godfather's delicious giant combo pizza with FREE DRINKS, during our EARLY WEEK SPECIAL - Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only. Our Combo Pizza is a mouth-watering mozzarella monster laden with beef, sausage, pepperoni, olives, onions, mushrooms, and tomato sauce, then topped with a mountain of delicious dairy cheese. Our pizza outweighs 'em all.

There's nobody's pizza like Godfather's Pizza." Come in today, bring the mob, and cut a Combo down to size.

Call For Delivery

1118 Laramie

In Aggieville by Mini-Mart

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 3 drinks with giant,

32 oz. reusable cups!

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings

Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups! 3 drinks with giant, er good Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday only

Gary Johnson Andy Martin

Carlos Corredor Chrisie Ninci CARTOONIST

Brett Hacker

John LaBarge

EDITORIAL BOARD

ADVERTISING MANAGER

CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE

Shelly Shaffer TEARSHEET MANAGER

SALES REPRESENTATIVES
Jada Allerheiligan Roxie

ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS

Dave Adams ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Vicki Fernkopf

ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

Tammy Girrens
STUDENT PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR

Gloria Freeland NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

Judy Goldberg Deron Johnson

Roxie McKee Todd Schultz Bill Sherbert

Joe Cook PHOTOGRAPHERS

Jeff Tuttle

Greg Vogel Jeff Weatherly

Phil Nordhus

Chris Stewart Teresa Temme

Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR

Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR CAMPUS EDITORS

Margaret May EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR

PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR

Renee Beaudoin
FEATURES/SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR AGRICULTURE EDITOR

ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn
SPORTS EDITOR

Tim Fitzgerald
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Tom Morris COPY EDITORS June DeWeese Valerie Johnson STAFF WRITERS Jeff Bielser

Judy Goldberg Becky Howard

COLUMNISTS Susan Baird Kirk Caraway Tracy Carlile Wayne Long SPORTS WRITERS

Tony Carbajo Tom Perrin ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 626) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Voters should defeat education resolution

ed to vote on five amendments to the Kansas Constitution. One, dealing with education, is a resolution to transfer the constitutional authority to adopt regulations concerning accreditation and certification from the State Board of Education to the Kansas Legislature.

Conscientious voters will vote "No."

According to the proposition, the purpose of the amendment is: "to...make certain that the legislature has full authority to provide by law for the public interest in the educational policy of this state."

If this provision passes, the State Board of Education would to support the issue.

On Nov. 4, Kansans will be ask- be stripped of all decisionmaking powers, and be reduced to perform a supervisory function. All policy-making and funding decisions would be determined by the legislature.

> If this provision passes, the legislature will have too much unnecessary authority over the state educational system.

> The 10 members of the board of education are elected by the voters of Kansas to provide duties regulated by Kansas law and overseen by the legislature.

It is unclear what benefit this provision holds for the educational institutions of Kansas, and the legislature has done nothing

Injuries could hinder fun of Homecoming

Through the various activities of Homecoming week, the fun each group at Ahearn Field times can be hampered by in- House where teams can practice juries. One of the most dangerous on mats, not on the grass or on Homecoming activities is the hard floors. body-building competition.

pyramids while yelling cheers for K-State. This year, Blue Key competition safer. Each team was required to send two men falling. and two women to a seminar sponsored by the K-State varsity cheerleaders to learn safety techniques. There were also height restrictions of no more than two people stacked.

Blue Key should consider the future:

Set up practice times for

 Do not include the spotters in The object of the competition is the number of people allowed on to build creative human the mats during the performance.

- Give extra points for having made rule changes to make the enough participation to have spotters for everyone in danger of

Have a Blue Key member assigned to each team to spotcheck its pyramids to be sure it is not risking a participant's safety.

By considering some of these suggestions for next year, Despite the rules, accidents oc- Homecoming can be safe for parcurred during practice sessions. ticipants without officials eventually putting a stop to the bodyfollowing suggestions in the building competition because of an injury.

Letter

Immoral amendments

On Nov. 4, voters of Kansas will make decisions about liquor-by-the-drink, pari-mutuel betting and a state-run lottery. If the polls are correct, a majority of Kansans are leaning toward approving these amendments to the Kansas Constitution.

Instead of viewing the amendments as purely economic, political or social issues. my personal reflection has brought me to the conclusion that they are, in fact, moral issues. Based on what I know in my heart to be right and wrong, I am convinced that the people of Kansas would be better off to reject all three proposed changes in our current Concerning liquor-by-the-drink, my main objection is that the amendment further legitimizes to our people, especially to the young, a behavior pattern that we know conclusively to be harmful to lives and costly to our society. There may be difficulties with our current private-club system, but we are certainly prudent to maintain restrictions on a behavior that does so much damage to the health and well-being of so many innocent people. Some say we need a climate more conducive to business. I say we need to give Kansas a climate more conducive to maintaining lifelong marriages and raising healthy, responsible children.

Concerning pari-mutuel betting and a lottery, my main objection to both of them is that they promote "games of chance" as valid, socially acceptable means of obtaining wealth. The mentality of getting something for virtually nothing goes cross-grain to the principles of diligence and hard work that have helped make our country so great. Many in our society already have the attitude that society somehow "owes" them a living. We, as individuals and as a state, need to promote the value and benefits of honest. hard work - rather than promoting the idea that you can get rich quick with a little bit of luck and the right lottery ticket.

Let's vote "no" to these three proposed amendments on Nov. 4, and help keep Kansas a great place to live.

> Dan Walter 1978 K-State graduate

Reagan's errors, lies endanger U.S.

President Reagan is the most-trusted man in America. We trust him to tell the truth and to lead us down the road to freedom and happiness. We trust him with our very lives, considering he has the power to destroy the world with the touch of his finger. He is our faithful, trusted and fearless leader.

Whoa. Time out. What is all this crap? Faithful? Trusted? Ha! Anyone who believes this garbage is probably one of those misled souls who has a picture of the president hanging on his wall. If George Washington told "the truth" the way Ronald Reagan does, he would have blamed Thomas Jefferson for cutting down the cherry tree.

The president has a knack for feeding us a lot of bull ("bull" is now referred to as 'disinformation' by the White House). He tends to frequently warp things. Sure, there are the harmless slips, like when he said he was glad to be in Bolivia when he was in Brazil. Then there are the not-so-harmless slips, like when he said submarine-launched missiles could be recalled.

But these are simple mistakes that anyone (with an IQ less than their shoe size) could make. Reagan does not purposely attempt to mislead the public, or does he? Let us examine a few of his more infamous quotes.

'We have never interfered in the internal government of a country and have no intention of doing so, never have had any thought of that kind." When President Reagan said this in 1982, his administration was organizing the Nicaraguan contra rebels and rigging the elections in El Salvador.

We are not trying to do anything to try overthrow the Nicaraguan government." There he goes again. Maybe President Reagan thinks the contras are a baseball team.

"The Sandinista government is involved in drug smuggling." The day after Reagan said this, the Drug Enforcement Agency said it had no evidence to support the president's Reagan, talking about Syrian missiles in Lebanon, described them as "offensive weapons," adding, "There's no question about the direction in which they're aimed.'

KIRK CARAWAY Collegian Columnist

Actually, there is some question about where they are aimed, considering these were antiaircraft missiles aimed in the direction of attacking aircraft. They are also defensive in nature.

"There were two Vietnams, north and south. They had been separate nations for centuries." Vietnam was a single country for most of its history. Only under Chinese and French occupation was it artificially divided.

"The Communist dictator of North Vietnam, Ho Chi Minh, refused to hold elections, and when millions of his people started moving south away from communism (under the terms of the agreement), his troops barricaded the frontier and halted the migration." This comes from the same speech as the one above, and again, he was wrong.

It was U.S.-backed South Vietnam that refused to conduct elections in 1956, as called for in the Geneva Accords, signed two years earlier. In his memoirs, President Eisenhower stated "possibly 80 percent of the population would have voted for the Communist Ho Chi Minh as their leader" if elections had been conducted. The accords also called for a halt in civilian movement after 300 days. The U.S. Seventh Fleet helped 860,000 Catholics (not quite a million) across the border where a devout Catholic named Diem was assuming power.

"Today, we are not equal to the Soviet Union, and that is why they were able to cross into Afghanistan." This refers to the much-touted "missile gap" that was popular during Reagan's early years in office. But no matter how many times the president repeated this message, there was never a missile gap. The U.S. military has always been far superior to that of the Soviets. The president himself said he would not trade our military for theirs.

The whole missile gap issue was just a way of getting his defense-industry buddies some extra pocket change - approximatly $194 billion worth. As for U.S. wakness allowing the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, the military strength of the United States did not keep them from invading Hungary in 1956, or Czechoslovakia in 1968.

"Incidentally, the first man who proposed the nuclear freeze was in Feb. 21, 1981, in Moscow - Leonid Brezhnev." Wrong again. The first person to officially propose a nuclear freeze was Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., in 1979, as an amendment to the SALT II treaty. This is part of Reagan's repeated attempts to discredit the nuclear freeze movement, especially after a million people showed up at an anti-nuclear rally in New York's Central Park only six months earlier.

"If you'll remember, there were 2 million who lost their jobs in the last six months of 1980, during the election..." Reagan loves to twist statistics, but this is more than a twist. Actually, 283,000 more people were employed in the last six months of 1980. When the president states an exact number or statistic, don't assume it is correct. It probably isn't.

And there are many other follies of the 40th U.S. president. Never before in history has there been a president who has misled the people more consistently or more successfully. The Reagan personality has numbed the public into a mass of consenting robots. Sure, Lyndon Johnson lied about Vietnam and Nixon about Watergate, but they paid the price. Reagan keeps lying and America keeps believing him. It is time to come out of this hypnotic trance. Count to three, snap your fingers, and open your eyes. Start analyzing what you hear and read. Don't be led blindly like cattle going to slaughter. Even Reagan's sparkling personality can't change fantasy into fact. The truth is there, and only you can find it.

IT WAS A NIGHTMARE... I DREAMED THAT REAGAN TOOK US TO THE BRINK OF PEACE.

Teen-agers' problems lighten mood

Do you ever feel the need to take a break from all the "real news" of the day and read some "fluff?" We've heard enough about the "near, almost but not quite" Aggieville disturbance, as well as other major national issues, for awhile.

How about a brief "review" of some of the issues facing the "younger generation?" That is, the fast and furiously intense highschool scene. Don't you want to know what's on the minds of your younger brothers and sisters besides how to get the "dirt" on you for future blackmail?

A look through young America's favorite magazine "Seventeen" should suffice. The August 1986 "Back to School" issue was full of the problems facing teen-agers, for example, "can crossing your legs really give you varicose veins?" This is undoubtedly a question that has kept many a young girl awake at night. They can catch up on some muchneeded beauty sleep, for the answer is a resounding "no!" The real culprits are "a variety of factors, including pregnancy, obesity and old age." America's teen-agers can rest assured that they need not worry about at least two of the three until their college days, and then, varicose veins will be the least of their worries. Another article, titled "Confessions of a Cute Guy," told the gut-wrenching, agonizing story of - bet you wouldn't have guessed a cute guy. Sentence after sentence related the horrifying experience of being shunned by other guys just for being cuddled to death by all the girls. "Sure, she likes me, but not as a male — she likes me as a pet. She likes me because I'm safe, I'm cute." What a living hell on earth for the poor guy. Perhaps he's even desperate enough to trade places with any living, breathing college "man" available. Those poor, born-uncute men are probably lining up around the block now, willing to take up the sorry life of a "cute guy" and all it implies. It's a tough job, but somebody has to do it. The real "younger generation" education

TRACY CARLILE Collegian Columnist

comes from the advertising within the magazine, for example, the "Lady Speed Stick" by Mennen advertisement. The ad is simple, yet so insightful - a beach on a misty day with a young woman, in blue jeans and a pink sweatshirt, stretching out after a brisk jog along the bay. The caption reads, "Women sweat, too." They may be on to something there. Farther down the page the ad states "Protects you like a man, treats you like a woman." Just how do male antiperspirants/deodorants treat the average "man?" Are they sandpaper rough and tough (i.e. excruciatingly painful) just to complement that "macho" physique? Do they talk dirty to you and/or protect you the way a .357-caliber Magnum would?

Better yet, how is this "Lady Speed Stick" supposed to treat you "like a woman?" Will it take you out to dinner and show you a nice, romantic time, or will it just expect you to have dinner on the table at 5 p.m. sharp and spend the rest of the evening praising "it" and tending to its needs?

The makeup advertisements feature such unbelievably gorgeous girls (who are actually women of 25 or 26 who've long passed puberty). These "girls" wouldn't need to wear makeup and would knock men dead with their natural looks. Of course, no highschool girl could ever look that good if she wore every brand of makeup at the same time, but that's insignificant. Unattainable beauty gives young girls something to shoot

If only the sweet, innocent girls knew

what's in store - college, men and all they imply. They will soon tire of hearing "but, honey, you'd look just as pretty without all that stuff. I just don't understand why you think you have to wear it?" Give us a break. Where do you think the expression "double bagger" (as in, put a couple of brown paper bags over her head and she just might make a good date) came from? Obviously, some man came up with that line after stumbling upon some poor girl who hadn't had the chance to "make herself up." Maybe we'd look just as "pretty" without the makeup under the right circumstances (a very, very dark room filled with black, black smoke, with a man who somehow misplaced his contacts). But I really doubt it.

A few minutes spent paging through any magazine geared toward teen-agers will give you a "written picture" of what growing up these days is like - days spent worrying about "when your best friend is better looking than you" or "bangs and breakouts."

Those were the easy, carefree days of youth, though if given the chance, we wouldn't trade places with teen-agers and their "major" daily crises. Then again, it could be an outstanding experience. Just think of how much more you could get away with knowing now what you didn't know then. It could be dangerous but a lot of fun.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters.

Panel sees traveling as means to a degree

By CARLENE KAISER Collegian Reporter

Commuting for advancement may not be as accurate as to say that commuting is a means to an

Commuting is defined as traveling from a surburban home to urban work, but at Friday's Focus on Women, commuting was defined as having benefits and hardships in getting advanced degrees.

In a panel discussion, Angel Folland, recipient of the James Carey Fellowship for graduate study in history; Sharon Iandolo, instructor of sociology, anthropology and social work; Beth Unger, professor of computer science; and Carla Lee, assistant health science professor at The Wichita State University, shared views and experiences they have had in commuting for advancement.

"I didn't want to commute, but I had a chance to advance in my area of history," Folland said. "I had a chance to work on my doctorate at the University of Minnesota. I spent nine months there living in the woman's dormatory while my husband, Nathan (professor of physics), lived here in Manhattan.

"We commuted once a month by air, so our separation wasn't quite as hard, and we learned a lot from that situation. We learned how to cope with that particular situation, and we found, as a couple, we couldn't have a commuting relationship in the future...we like to be together too much.

landolo, who is also the director of social services at The St. Mary Hospital, 1823 College Ave., said the largest sacrifice she made is missing four years of her children growing up.

"It was the most difficult for my husband, who had to assume the responsibilities for the house work and major crises at home,"

Iandolo said her decision of getting a master's degree in social work was one that was necessary for job advancement. But Iandolo said she didn't like the time away from her family or the long

"I found myself actually driving through one of the toll booths once (without stopping) because I was so mentally involved in a class that I was taking...that's scary," she said.

Unger commuted to the University of Kansas two days a week to do graduate work in computer science. But she found the experience to be more positive.

"(The KU professors) were quite supportive," Unger said. "The studies didn't impact on my family quite as much. A lot of things at home got pushed aside, and I'm still trying to catch up with the closet cleaning."

Lee said she commuted for 12 years and has six degrees.

"It seems like I just didn't have the qualifications for the particular jobs that I wanted to do," Lee said. "The criteria was different on each job.

In the past 12 years, Lee has covered more than 300,000 land miles, but she said commuting is a means to an end for what she wants to accomplish.

Oklahoma performance delights crowd

By LAURIE FAIRBURN Entertainment Editor

A free-spirited gathering of cowboys, farmers and pretty girls transformed the McCain Auditorium stage into the Oklahoma Territory Saturday and charmed a packed house with a dynamic performance of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "OKLAHOMA!"

Play Review

The performances (Thursday, Friday and Saturday) were presented by the K-State Players, the Kansas State Orchestra and the departments of speech and music.

The exuberance of the cast cleared the orchestra pit and leapt into the laps of the audience. Before we knew it, everybody was whooping it up and having a great old time.

Credit for this success belongs to the entire cast, expertly directed by Lew Shelton, associate professor of speech, and vocal director Steve Rushing, instructor of music. The energy never waned, and even dance numbers, sometimes a rough spot in K-State productions, deserved

Stephanie Sikes, senior in theater, was a fitting Laurey, the thoroughly feminine belle of the territory. Sikes, a wonderfully strong soprano, mastered the demands of "Many A New Day" and "Out Of My Dreams" without strain. She fared just as well when paired with Dwight Tolar's Curly on "People Will Say We're In Love." While her acting at times bordered on the melodramatic (reminiscent of Dudley Dooright's Nell) it could easily be dismissed as an effect of the hot Oklahoma Territory sun. Tolar, freshman in music, was ingratiating as Curly, the cowboy pining away for Laurey's affection.

Energetic cast deserving of accolades covered the house like a comfortable blanket. He displayed great ability to play to the audience - with his eyes, with his smile, with his voice - and was a joy to watch.

But, if pressed to reveal a house favorite, it would have to be the pair of Dan Shea, as Will, and Elizabeth Sherby as Ado Annie.

Shea, senior in journalism and mass communications, is quite a joyous and commanding presence on stage, yet he doesn't overpower his fellow players. Instead, he sparks an energy that enhances everyone's performance and heightens the moment. Watching Will show his friends how the dancin' is done in Kansas City looked like so much fun it made you want to get up and try it yourself.

Sherby, as Ado Annie, was perfect. From the moment she half bustled, half bounced onstage, it was hers. How could we not empathize with her plight as she told Laurey, "I Cain't Say No!" Or giggle helplessly as she debated over whether to marry Ali Hakem the peddler, or Will the

Sherby is well into mastering the craft of a total characterization, one so believable we'd expect her to greet us with her husky, boisterous drawl if we bumped into her at the general store. Her sparkling eyes, telling smile...the way she relished romance - how could Will resist

Sherby even altered her normally pure alto to a scratchy, garish version - which could be viewed as somewhat of a sacrifice - for the

The audience snapped when they both took the stage to sing "All Er Nothin" in the second act. Then normal laughter gave way to whoops and howls as Will, after finding Ali Hakem giving Annie a fully dipped "Persian good-bye," decides to show her his version of an "Oklahoma hello." See, it started out the same with the dipping and all, but then he stradled her kind of like she was a horse and proceeded to plant one on Supporting players had shining performances as well.

Garrett Schmidt, junior in physics, as Jud, was excellent as the menacing farmhand rivaling for Laurey's heart. A rather dark, intense figure, Schmidt executed the most chilling scene alone on stage singing "Lonely Room." Ali Hakim the peddler was played to the hilt by Andy Martin, senior in chemical science. He mastered a rather suspicious accent and exhibited a great sense of comedic tim-

Also notable were the performances of Matthew Mazur, freshman in musical theater, who pulled off a charming, albeit rifletoting Andrew Carnes, and Marcelle Lavine, senior in music, as the feisty but sturdy Aunt Eller.

Dance sequences, choreographed by Roxanne Bartush, instructor of dance, were beautifully executed. And the orchestra, directed by Adrian Bryttan, assistant professor of music, was in good form, although there did seem to be a problem striking a balance between the soloists and the orchestra.

Costuming, by Lydia Aseneta, associate professor of speech, was beautiful. Set design, by Al Sheffield, assistant professor of speech, was simple and stunning.

All those who worked on "OKLAHOMA!" should be proud.

great for treats—a bag of 10 for only a $4.00 value! They're good all year long at any Vista. for FREE Vista Creme Cones

And to make the season really special. Vista has Halloween Meals

Bring your floats, your towels

and all your friends

KSU NATATORIUM TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1986 8:30 p.m.-10 p.m.

> Watch the movie "BEACH PARTY" from the water.

FREE SWIM FOR EVERYONE

Sponsored by Lafene Health Center and KSU REC COMPLEX

Expires 12/23/86

★No purchase limit ★ ★ Now using Wolff bulbs ★

1126 Laramie

776-2426

HAVE YOU JOINED OUR AROUND THE WORLD BEER CLUB?

8250 PITCHERS

-DISCOUNT-COSTUME RENTAL

Halloween is this Friday, don't miss out, reserve your costume now!

Over 1000 different costumes

Over 100 different couples' costumes

We will assist you in putting together your own ideas Lots of make-up and colored hair spray

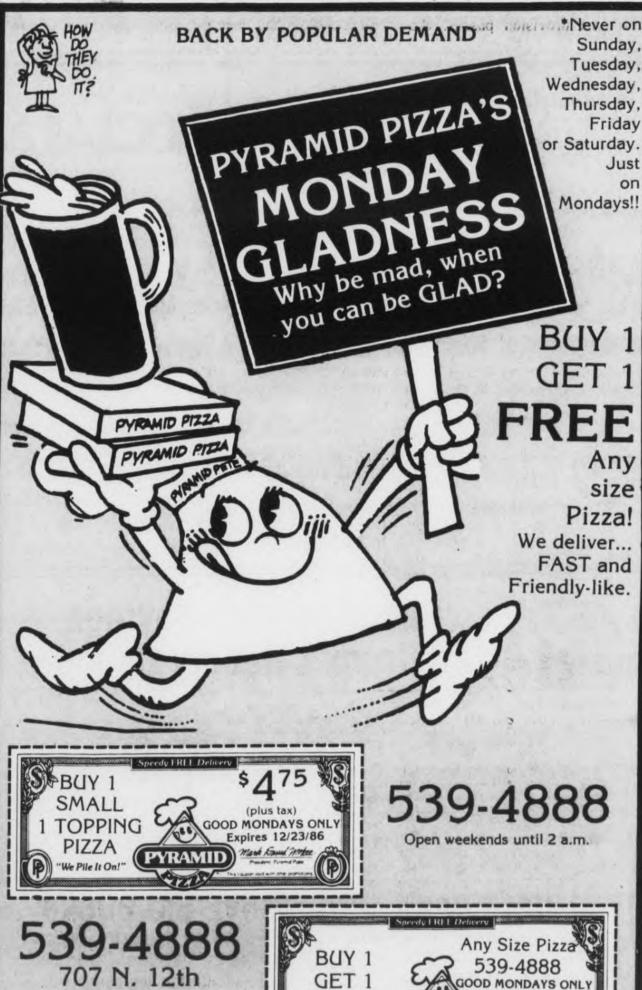

Rubber masks

Popeye & Olive Oyle, Bonnie & Clyde, Mr. & Mrs. Santa, Mr. & Mrs. Satan, Hugh Heffner & Playboy Bunny, Priest & Nun, Sheik & Harem Girl, Pebbles & Bam-Bam, Tarzan & Jane, Keystone Cop & Convict, Matt Dillon & Kitty, Laurel & Hardy, Marx Bros., Lone Ranger & Tonto, George & Martha Washington, Raggedy Ann & Andy, Angel & Devil, Clark Kent & Lois, Bumble Bees, Oriental Couple, Mexican Couple, Hawaiian couple, Old-time Swim Suits, Red Riding Hood & Boy Blue, Male & Femal Clown, Nurse & Patient, Doctor & Nurse or patient, Male & Female Hobo, King & Queen, Safari Hunters, Old Man & Old Lady, Lepreechans, Love Boat Couples, Bride & Groom, Dorothy & Scarecrow, Cowardly Lion & Tinman, Cook & Waltress, College Grads, Goldilocks & Bear, Black Sambo & Tiger, French Maid & Butler, Male & Female Pirates, Male & Female Jokers, Male & Female Elves, Wizard of OZ & Dorothy, Miss Piggy & Kermit, Uncle Sam & Recruit, Micky & Minnie Mouse, Batman & Robin, Smurfs, M + A + S + H Couple, Blondie & Dagwood, Lil Abner & Daisy Mae, Dale Evans & Roy Rogers, the 3 Stooges; Larry, Curly & Moe, Little Lulu & Alvin, Flintstones, Dick Tracey, Dennis the Menace, Beetle Bailey, Pumpkin People, Cops & Prisoners, Angel & Devil, Cop & Prostitute, Clown & Wino, Wolf & Little Red Riding Hood, Cowboy & Indian, Wicked Witch & Good Witch, Tuxes with tails, Chickens, Roosters, Gorillas, Bears, Buffalo, GI Joe, Geshia Girl, Fu Mancho, Renaisance Costumes, Gangsters, Boy Scouts, Belly Dancers, Gypsies, Soldiers, Alpine Climbers, Football players, Sailors, 50's sock-hop costumes, Old Man, Old Lady, confederate officer, Pope, Nerds, Hippies, Bunny, Tiger, Buffalo, Camel, Carter, Chewbaca, Conehead, E.T., Executioners, Frog. Ghouls, Grimsbey, Khorneni, Mardi Gras, Miss Piggy, Nixon, Poodle, Pumpkin Head, Rasputin, Reagan, Skull, Unicorn, Sherlock Holmes & Theif, Nurse & Straight Jacket, Mexican Girl & Bandit, Villian & Fair Maiden, Reagan & Khomeni, Flapper Dresses, Dance Hall Girl, French Maid, Sheik, Monks, Dracula, Convict Suits, Elves, Alladin, Cowglri-Indian girl, Pirate, Jokers, Clowns, Martians, Fairy Princess, Scarlett O'Hara, Togas, Pumpkins, Leopards, Yoda, Duck, Bunny, Father Time, Honey Bear, Frankenstein, Thugs, Pig

> Why pay more for costumes when you're only going to use them for one night. RENT FOR LESS at

" TREASURE CHEST 1124 Moro — Aggieville — 539-3485

707 N. 12th In Aggieville Now Serving Coca Cola Products

FREE

"We Pile It On!"

Sneak on down to the bakery and get your (ghosts, cats, and Jack-O-Lanterns) Also, we always have purple & white smiley faces, look good, taste good, ARE GOOD!

THE MASTER GAMER

More Books! Comics! Games! 539-1853

Mon.-Thurs. 11-8 Fri.-Sat. 11-10

12th & Laramie Laramie Plaza, Upstairs balloon!

cider

★ Free popcorn &

* Big Bird will deliver your balloon in person on

We Deliver

"Call or Come On In"

539-0106

619 N. 3rd

Have Mondays got you D

Buy any size pizza and get the 2nd one FREE!

PICK IT UP

Halloween!

Wear your Costume and get a FREE

(with KSU Student ID)

Hours: M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat. 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

BUY A WHOPPER AND GET A WHOPPER FREE!

expires 11/3/86

Balloon Boutique

"Halloween Daze"

★ On Oct. 31 the first 100 customers in our store receive a FREE 11" latex Halloween

MONDAY

Buy one Runza sandwich and get a sandwich of equal or less value FREE.

Expires 11/30/86

1101 Moro

Aggieville

BACK DOOR SPECIAL

ALL FALL & HOLIDAY DRESSES

with this coupon

expires 11-3-86

Downtown Manhattan

IT'S TIME FOR A HAIR CUT

"NEW BEGINNINGS" LOCATED IN TIMES SQUARE 1107 N. 3rd

(with coupon) Call New Beginnings today for an appointment 537-1003

Coupon good now through Parent's weekend Nov. 8

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

10% OFF

Any Black Item In Stock (offer good through Friday, Oct. 31, 1986)

1224 Moro

Aggieville

FREE GIFT WEAR

ist bank Center

(with this coupon) FirstBank Center

776-0004

606 N. 12th across from Bonkers

Buy one large sancho and get the 2nd one FREE! Expires 11/2/86

8 oz. Sirloin Steak, Baked Potato and Salad for $3.98-reg. $5.98 Expires 11/2/86

Buy a deep-fried apple rollito topped with vanilla ice cream and get the 2nd one FREE! Expires 11/2/86

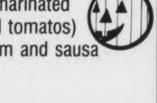

Beef Fajita Dinner for Two

(sizzling tender strips of beef marinated with green peppers, onions and tomatos) served with beans, rice, sour cream and sausa

only $7.95 Expires 11/2/86

Falsetto's 2-for-1's happen every Monday! Buy any pizza and receive one of equal value FREE!

Spook-tacular Savings from Crum's Beauty College 512 Poyntz 776-4794

20% OFF

All services in our new Esthetics (skin care) department with this coupon.

Ask about our treatment series Offer expires 10-31-86

HALF OFF

All 1 p.m. Haircut appointments with this coupon Includes shampoo & blowdry

Offer expires 11-30-86

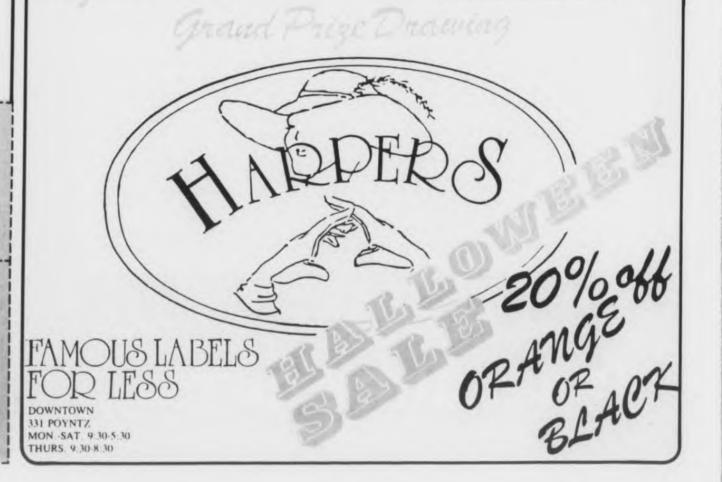

25% OFF

Night appointments, 5:30-9 p.m. with this coupon Monday-Friday Offer expires 11-21-86

SAVE BIG BUCKS

20% off all our services in our new Onychology (nail care) Department with this coupon

Monday-Friday, 8:30-5:00 Includes sculptured, gel, and linen nails, plus air brushing, manicuring, and pedicuring Offer expires 11-3-86

SELF-SERVICE COPIES 81/2 x 11, white

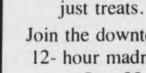

ALSO: reductions & enlargements thesis copying - 50% cotton paper transparencies resume service typing & editing spiral binding

10% KSU faculty discount on books

FirstBank Center 1814 Claflin

776-3771

Hours: 8-9 M-F 9-5 Sat. 12-9 Sun.

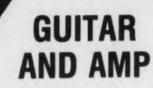

Manhattan

776-6255

Join the downtown 12- hour madness on Oct. 30. Save a mad 12% on prescriptions and frames!

No tricks at

Fashion Eyes,

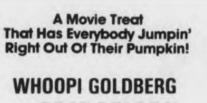

FENDER GIBSON CRATE

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7983

Daily at 4:40-7:10-9:20 Matinee Sat. & Sun. 2:10

WESTLOOP CINEMA 6 WEST LOOP SHOPPING CENTER

Rated R

Pitchers Priced Right

Monday $1.50 $1.75 Tuesday $2.00 Wednesday $1.00 Thursday $2.25 Friday $2.25 Saturday

*Wine Coolers $1 every day

Laramie Plaza 776-6338

FREE pair of ivory chopsticks with next

Restaurant

entree 1304 Westloop, 539-8888

(1) ld Texthook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Sale Starts Friday, October 31

Mon.-Sat.

Fri. & Sat. 9-5

Sundays 1-5

12-5 Sun.

Now On Sale At Participating Retail Stores!!

MANHATTAN

MEMORIAL

HOSPITAL

SUNSET & CLAFLIN ROAD

BUD LIGHT

1986 Anheuser-Busch, Inc., Brewers of Bud Light* Beer, St. Louis, MO USA

1st Bank Center Denison & Claflin

FULL SERVICE SALON

537-3200

SPECIAL

Cut out & bring in this coupon & receive a haircut & blowdry for only $7.50. Anyone in costume will be only $6. That's half off regular price!!

Anyone in Costume

HAIRCUTS or

-Appointments or Walk-ins-Conveniently located on N.W. corner of K.S.U. Within walking distance of most sororities, fraternities and dorms. Expiration date 10/31/86

DONUT LOVERS DOZEN

1/2 Dozen

Donuts

Offer good thru 10/17/86 (with coupon)

1/2 Dozen Donuts

For 990 Offer good thru 10/17/86

For 99¢ (with coupon)

Offer good thru 10/17/86 (with coupon)

1/2 Dozen

Donuts

It takes a team of dedicated professionals, the proper facilities and high tech equipment to make a really good hospital

Community Health Care

Think of Manhattan Memorial

- Out-patient services
- Surgery
- DayStay Surgery Level 2 Intensive Care
- Obstetrics Intensive Care nursery Birthing room
- Pediatrics
- X-ray services Mammography Nuclear medicine
- C.T. scanning Respiratory Therapy
- Physical Therapy

· 24 Hour Emergency Services 776-3300

Working together for a healthier you

BARRY'S DRUG CENTER 409 POYNTZ DOWNTOWN 776-8833

SALINE SOLUTIONS REG. OR SENSITIVE EYES

12 OZ.

SUGG. $5.61 OUR $4.19

SALE

LIMITED TIME ONLY!! RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QTYS.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

K-State hands Tigers victory by allowing pair of big plays

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

The margin of error for a K-State football team to win is small. More than a few things have to go right for the 'Cats to pick up a win - especially against a Big Eight Conference opponent

At no time was this more evident than Saturday as the Wildcats made mistakes early and often in a 17-6 loss to Missouri before 19,850 Homecoming fans at KSU Stadium.

Each time the 'Cats appeared ready to do some damage on offense, a turnover or error would stop the drive in its tracks.

"You can't do that and win," K-State Coach Stan Parrish said of the mistakes. "You've heard me say it a hundred times, we have to do it

At times, K-State did do things right, especially on defense where the Wildcats played well for the most part and held Missouri scoreless in the second half. Unfortunately for K-State, the Wildcat offense simply didn't measure up. Two Mark Porter field goals accounted for K-State's six points.

Three first-quarter drives ended in K-State turnovers. Each of the mishaps — a fumble by fullback Ray Wilson, an interception by quarterback Randy Williams and a fumble by tailback Tony Jordan - happened as the Wildcats drove into Missouri territory

"That took the wind out of our sails," Parrish admitted.

Meanwhile, Missouri came up with big plays to burn K-State twice, the first coming on a 72-yard touchdown run by Darrell Wallace and the second a 47-yard completion from quarterback Ronnie Cameron to Victor Moore that set up the other touchdown, giving the Tigers a 17-6 halftime lead.

Wallace carried the ball 23 times for 148 yards on the afternoon.

"You'd like to say it (big plays) didn't bother us," K-State wide receiver Dan Hughes said. "You'd like to say you can come back from 11 points down, but giving up a big play like that and letting them score takes some air out of you."

After a solid first-half offensive effort, barring the turnovers, the Wildcats came out flat in the second

In the third quarter, K-State was able to manage just one first down and had no play of more than 11 yards. The closest the 'Cats would come to scoring was a missed 47-yard field goal attempt by Mark Porter after K-State had started the drive on the Missouri 24-yard line.

Missouri's offense was as errorprone in the fourth quarter as K-State's was in the first half, if not worse. Cameron fumbled into the end zone, where the 'Cats recovered only to fumble away the ball again in the last minute of the game, this time on the K-State 2.

Cameron, out the previous two games with a foot injury, played a major part in the win.

"Ronnie Cameron provides a little electricity to our offensive team. We really seem to gather and play better

See MISSOURI, Page 9

Staff/Chris Stewart

Missouri running back Darrell Wallace rejoices after a 72-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Wallace carried the ball 23 times for 148 yards.

Homecoming lures 1922 'Cat alumnus

By DAVID WAGNER Collegian Reporter

To 89-year-old K-State alumnus Lou "Rocky" Bryan, this year's Homecoming weekend was a special one. Bryan, a K-State letterman in football, basketball and boxing, hadn't returned to his alma mater since leaving it 64 years ago in 1922.

"I'm not really sure why I haven't come back sooner," Bryan said. "Time just seemed to fly by and now here I am, 64 years after leaving, back at K-State. I'm finally getting a chance to use my lifetime pass to athletic events that I received for being a letterman."

Bryan came to Manhattan in 1919 after meeting a K-State student at a dance in Cripple Creek, Colo., who convinced him to visit the University. He did so, liked what he saw and decided to attend school here, majoring in journalism. His true love of K-State, though, was the athletic program that at the time was under the guidance of former Athletic Director Mike Ahearn.

Bryan kept busy the entire school year as a halfback and punter for the football team, a guard for the basketball team and a boxer. In 1919, he led the nation in punting with a 49.2-yard average. But Bryan said football in the early 1900s was a much different

"We played on a cornfield after it had been harvested. They would mark out the field and we'd play," he said. "Also, the helmet we wore was no more than a stuffed stocking cap. It really got rough at times.

The team traveled to away games by train, which they boarded at the depot that still stands in the southeast part of Manhattan. From there, they would travel to games that were mostly Big Six Conference

"The football team, ironically, was never much of a contender in the conference, but the basketball team really held their own," he said.

The Wildcat basketball team, which played in Nichols Gymnasium, was a threat to any opponent, Bryan said, because it was a good team and had outstanding fan support. He recalled one game in 1922, against undefeated University of Missouri, that highlighted his playing career.

"They came into town with an unbeaten record and it was the last regular-season game," he said. "We really put it to them that night, giving them their only loss that season. The crowd in Nichols Gym was louder that night than any I've ever heard in my lifetime.

After leaving K-State in 1922, Bryan played several years of semipro baseball and hockey. Baseball, he said, is his favorite sport, and that is why he pursued it.

Following his stint in semi-pro baseball, Bryan married and worked as a businessman for Proctor & Gamble Co. and settled in Ogden, Utah. He he has lived there for 51 back Ronnie Cameron to the 4-yard line as K-State free safety Tyreese Herds Tigers' second touchdown.

Missouri wide receiver Victor Moore hauls in a 47-yard pass from quarter- tackles him from behind Saturday in KSU Stadium. The reception set up the

Mizzou's coach denies pressure was on to defeat K-State

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Missouri Coach Robert "Woody" Widenhofer can deny all he wants that there was no pressure on him for his Tigers to defeat K-State Saturday.

Widenhofer, who came to Missouri last season full of talk of rebuilding the Tiger football program, promptly led Mizzou to a 1-10 record in his innaugural season. Those 10 defeats also included a 20-17 loss to a K-State team that had fired its coach earlier in the season.

nalysis

Tiger fans are not accustomed to losing - especially to the Wildcats. A Missouri football coach will not last long if his team forms a habit of losing to K-State, because it is a habit that MU supporters are quick to rid a head coach of.

There had to be much more on Woody's mind than revenge when his Tigers came to Manhattan Saturday sporting a disappointing 1-5 record. But Widenhofer got his revenge and left KSU Stadium with a 17-6 victory, carrying away more job security than when he came.

the administration," Widenhofer said following the game. "Maybe some from myself, because people forget I'm an MU grad and I really care about turning this thing

When Widenhofer talks of "turning around" Mizzou football, it leaves one at K-State with an empty feeling. K-State coaches are heroes if they claim a winning season. Widenhofer's predecessor, Warren Powers, had one losing season in seven - and that was one too many. After slating six consecutive winning seasons and landing the Tigers in the Liberty Bowl in 1978 and '80, the Hall of Fame Bowl in '79, the Tangerine Bowl in '81 and the Holiday Bowl in '83, Powers was fired following the 1984 season when Mizzou's record fell to 3-7-1.

Despite Powers' firing after leading the Tigers to five bowl games in seven years, Widenhofer claims there was no pressure on him to win at Missouri following his 1-10 failure last year.

"What we are trying to do is to play as good as we can every week," Widenhofer said. "We're trying to rebuild things - restablish Missouri football." The method of Widenhofer's "rebuilding" is simple. He claims his cupboard of talent was bare when he arrived - ravaged by some poor recruiting on Powers' part. So he and his assistant coaches set out to replenish the talent pool at Missouri through an aggressive recruiting program. Widenhofer's "I don't think there is any master plan is one of building his pressure on me, at least none from player depth in the fashion of programs at Nebraska and Oklahoma.

"Missouri should never be 1-10 again," Widenhofer said before this year's campaign began. "This state has too many resources for that to

See COACH, Page 9

Woody Widenhofer during halftime. Parrish discussed with the Missouri the Tigers also should have been penalized.

K-State head football coach Stan Parrish stands with Missouri head coach coaches K-State's first-half personal foul penalty and told them he thought

Wildcats capture Wichita State title

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

K-State's volleyball team, after narrowly defeating host Wichita State in a five-game thriller on Friday, easily disposed of Tulsa and Colorado Saturday to win the Wichita State Invitational.

The Wildcats made a come-frombehind surge to defeat the Shockers for the second time this season, 12-15, 15-0, 15-12, 13-15, 15-13. Head Coach Scott Nelson said he believed the first-round pairing between the Sunflower State rivals would dictate who received the winner's trophy.

"I was really nervous about the Wichita State match from a coach's standpoint," Nelson said. "We beat them 16-14 in the fifth game earlier this year and it came down to a similar situation.

Tied at 11 in the fifth game, K-State used its defensive play to help its own

'We happened to make a few defensive plays and it sparked us on," Nelson said. "It immediately took the pressure off us.'

K-State then beat Colorado, which is in the midst of its first season in Big Eight volleyball action, 15-5, 15-5, 15-1. It was the first-ever meeting between the two schools.

The 'Cats rounded out the tournament with a four-game victory over Tulsa, 7-15, 15-11, 15-4, 15-4, to capture first place.

"We played good volleyball," Nelson said. "We started slow against Tulsa but that was our fifth match in six days. We bounced back very well from the loss to Nebraska (Wednesday night). After winning a big match from KU (Oct. 20) and then getting beat by the 'Huskers, I thought it was a good performance by the team in the tournament."

Nelson cited two performances that stood out from the rest of the young team. Senior Helen Bundy, who missed the first six matches of the season, and sophomore Shawnee Call played key roles in the 'Cats' title chase.

Bundy contributed eight kills and eight blocks while Call collected a season- and team-high 29 kills, 16 digs and 11 blocks against Wichita

For their efforts, both were selected to the all-tournament team. Call's selection marked the fifth time in five tournaments this season that she has garnered all-tournament

Nelson also credited freshman Lynda Harshbarger, who played in all five games of the Wichita State match, with aiding the Wildcats to victory. "She was the difference in that match," he said.

"We are doing good stuff and we are playing solid volleyball," Nelson said. "A couple of times teams made runs at us because I think we were playing not to lose. But we regrouped."

The next action for the Wildcats will be against the Oklahoma Sooners at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Ahearn Field House.

"Oklahoma is now the biggest match of the year," Nelson said of the last home match for his team this year. "It looms as the determining factor as to where we place in the conference."

Injury sits Eddie for

2 months

By The Collegian Staff

Senior basketball player Percy Eddie suffered a broken wrist during practice Friday and will miss at least two months of the 1986-87

season, K-State men's basketball

The right-handed shooting Eddie, a 6-foot-9, 185-pound forward from

Milwaukee, will be out until mid-

December and possibly later after breaking the navicular bone in his hurt his wrist when he tried to catch himself," Kruger said. "It's a bad deal...that's the wrong (bone) to Eddie, one of six returning lettermen, was expected to challenge for a starting role this season. He averaged 4.6 points and 3.0 rebounds per game last season and saw action in 28 games (starting nine) for Kruger had said before the Wildcats held their first practice Oct.

15 that if Eddie "could learn to play within himself," he could be a vital

Eddie, who transferred from Colby

Community College, began last season as a starter but scored only six points in his first three starts and was removed from the starting lineup after the fifth game. He tallied a career-high 14 points in the 'Cats'

95-57 win over Southern Colorado last

After being awarded a starting role the final two games last year,

Eddie responded with a career-high

10 rebounds in K-State's regular-

Shooting problems from the field season finale loss to Nebraska.

former coach Jack Hartman.

part of the Wildcat team.

"He was falling backwards and coach Lon Kruger said.

right wrist, Kruger said.

break."

Alumni brave autumn chill for weekend rodeo

By The Collegian Staff

More than 50 alumni and students from Fort Scott Community College and K-State braved an autumn chill and a sea of mud at Cico Park this weekend.

K-State's Rodeo Team hosted an alumni rodeo, which exhibited the past and present talent from the two top-seeded colleges in the Central Plains Region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

Neal Woolen, coach of the rodeo team and temporary professor of veterinary pathology, said he has high expectations for this year's edition of the K-State Rodeo Team.

"This year's KSU rodeo team has an outstanding shot at qualifying the entire team for the college national finals (in June)," Woolen said. "Last year, two individuals qualified. This year, we want to take the whole team.

Highlights from the Brahma bull riding event last weekend included rides from Ray Wessel, president of the K-State Rodeo Club, Mark Bruner, Ken Helms and Woolen.

Fort Scott bull rider Ty Renaldo registered an impressive 74 points in Sunday's performance.

In women's events, K-State won the goat tie event and barrel racing event, and Fort Scott took honors in the breakaway calf roping event.

K-State members Josh McLean, Ann Perry and Deyona Hays all had good rides in the barrel racing

Other men's events included team roping - though a woman participated in this event - steer wrestling, saddle bronco riding and bareback bronco riding.

K-State alumni had leaders in all three events with a top performance by K-State member Robert Snyder. Snyder threw down a steer in 5.4 seconds to take first the steer wrestling event.

The K-State Rodeo Team will attend an intercollegiate rodeo at Fort Scott on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

to hang on to the horse that he is riding in the bareback competition of the Fort Scott Community College rodeo team member Kelly Mahon attempts K-State-Fort Scott alumni rodeo Saturday at Cico Park. K-State and Fort Scott are the two top-seeded colleges in their region.

plagued Eddie last season. He shot only 30.6 percent against Big Eight Conference teams and 40.3 percent overall. He also shot 57.1 percent from the free-throw line.

Coach

Continued from Page 8

happen. I guarantee you, the high school football played in Missouri is as good as there is in the United States.

Widenhofer stuck to that strict recruiting blueprint last year and landed a crop of players that many rated with the best in the nation.

The Tigers will at least have one more win this season than last but are still only 2-5. Widenhofer saw no point in "what iffing" following the K-State game. He had come away the victor, and he stuck with the claim his dreary Tigers have a gold

"I think we're a much better football team than last year. K-State is too, but we're a lot better," Widenhofer said.

And if Woody doesn't feel the pressure now, there is plenty of time in the future for Tiger faithful to make their point more clear to Widenhofer.

Missouri football might have been down before, but not so far down that success was measured by defeating Chiefs win mistake-ridden game, 27-20 By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - It's almost embarrassing to be halfway through a football season and not have a scoring run longer than 32 yards, said Kansas City's Jeff Smith.

Smith's 32-yard scamper in the fourth period Sunday, the longest scoring run of the season for the Chiefs, was the difference in a mistake-filled 27-20 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. "Really? That's the longest scoring run we've ever had all year?" Smith asked. "I didn't know that. But we really needed it. They had just scored to tie it up and it was important that we get right back downfield and get something. Bill Kenney, making his first start of the year at quarterback, hit two key passes in the winning drive and wound up clicking on 15 of 29 passes for 230 yards and one touchdown.

"I was just happy to get a chance to play and happy to contribute," said Kenney, benched the first seven games while Todd Blackledge started at quarterback.

Chiefs Coach John Mackovic had announced at mid-week that the Chiefs, with the NFL's lowest-rated offense, would have a different quarterback.

"I don't think I played that great," said Kenney, 31, who made the 1983 Pro Bowl after throwing for more than 4,000 yards. "Timing is a matter of seeing defenses and throwing the ball again. It will take a while. "We got beat by a pretty good football team out there today," said Tampa Bay Coach Leeman Bennett.

In other games, it was New York Jets 28, New Orleans 23; Los Angeles Raiders 28, Houston 17; Chicago 13, Detroit 7: Cleveland 23, Minnesota 20; Philadelphia 23, San Diego 7; San Francisco 31, Green Bay 17; New England 23, Buffalo 3; Los Angeles Rams 14, Atlanta 7; Dallas 37, St. Louis 6; and Denver 20, Seattle 13.

Washington visits the New York Giants in Monday night's game.

Missouri

Continued from Page 8

with him in there," Missouri Coach Woody Widenhofer said. "I don't know why. Maybe it's because our players are in awe of him a little bit and they think he can come up with the big play, so they play a little better than they can play.

Cameron, who passed for 86 yards and ran for 58 more, left the game unimpressed with K-State's defense.

"They weren't that tough on 'D," he said. "They were young and it showed. We were getting five yards every crack. It was us not executing right (when K-State stopped the Tigers).

After last week's 29-12 win over Kansas, K-State saw how quickly things can change in a week's time and how difficult it can be to come back from a big victory. Now, the Wildcats can cautiously look forward to next week's meeting with Nebraska at Lincoln. Nebraska was upset 20-10 Saturday by Colorado in

"Obviously, our goals change slightly," Parrish said of playing the Cornhuskers. "We really felt we could win the (Missouri) game. That was a disappointment.

K-State First downs 13 33-67 170 63-282 86 Rushes-yards Passing yards Punts Fumbles-lost 5-47.6 Penalties-yards 4-25 Time of possession

Individual Statistics RUSHING—Missouri, Wallace 23-148, Cameron 21-58, Stowers 9-28, J. Redd 7-30, Boyd 2-14, Moore 1-4. K-State, Jordan 18-71, Williams 6-(-19), Wilson 4-15, Henry 2-3, D. Scott 1-2, Harper 1-(-2), C. Prowing 1, (-2)

C. Brown 1-(-3).

PASSING—Missouri, Cameron 5-11-1-86 RECEIVING—Missouri, Cameron 3-11-1-86. K-State, Williams 15-28-2-170. RECEIVING—Missouri, Moore 2-62, Delpino 2-22, Johnson 1-2. K-State, Jordan 7-67, Dean 3-44, Hughes 2-30, C. Brown 2-15, Elder 1-14. Kain postpones final series battle By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - It would not happen this time, the Boston Red Sox had promised. Not in this World Series. Their failures belonged to the past. That was then, this is now.

Alas, the team that lived by the last strike in the American League playoffs died by the last strike when the World Series was in hand against the New York Mets in Game 6.

After 68 years of waiting, the Red Sox would have to wait at least a little longer.

Game 7 of the World Series between the Boston Red Sox and New York Mets was postponed Sunday due to rain and was rescheduled for Monday at 8:10 p.m. EST, the office of the commissioner said.

A spokesman for Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said baseball administrator Bill Murray and umpires John Kibler and Jim Evans spent most of the day at Shea Stadium inspecting the ground and reviewing the weather forecast.

"We had the game won," said Dave Henderson, who had saved the Red Sox from extinction in the playoffs with a two-out, two-strike, ninth-inning homer and who had put the World Series within their grasp with a leadoff homer in the 10th inning Saturday night. "I'm beginning to think somebody up there is writing the script to make it interesting.'

It was the greatest rally in World Series history. Never before had a team come back from two runs behind in extra innings to win that

It seemed like destiny, like magic, like Halloween. And it must have seemed hauntingly familiar to

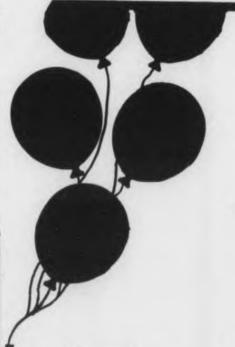

RAINBOW

"Broken Rainbow," Winner of the 1985 Academy, Award for Best Documentary Feature, is about the forced relocation of 12,000 Navajo Indians taking place in Arizona. The Federal Government claims to be settling a land dispute between the Hopi and Navajo

In fact the relocation serves only to facilitate energy development. 25% of the first group relocated died within six years.

Tues., Oct. 28, 7:30 p.m. Wed., Oct. 29, 5:00 p.m. Kedzie Hall Room 106

Sponsored By: Coalition For Human Rights

Sponsored by

Lafene Health Center

& ADES

Balloon Lift Off

Marking the Opening of

"Wellness Week 86"

Monday, October 27, 1986 10:30 a.m. Island between KSU Union and Seaton Hall FREE Balloons

for Everyone

WELCOME TO LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

We're opening our doors to you come see what we're all about

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1986 9 a.m.-4 p.m. LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Tour our facility Meet our staff

REGISTER FOR FREE DOOR PRIZES OPEN TO THE PUBLIC "WELLNESS WEEK '86"

Starship entertains Homecoming fans

Pop band plays hits old, new

By SCOT SANDLIN Collegian Reporter

Playing old and new hits, Starship delighted 3,300 people at the Homecoming concert Friday night in Ahearn Field House.

The five-member group, led by vocalists Grace Slick and Mickey Thomas, opened with its recent hit, "We Built This City." They played about an hour and responded at the end of the show with an encore.

Slick, acknowledged as one of rock music's most influential female vocalists, is a rock veteran. The group originally started as Jefferson Airplane in the '60s and in the mid-70s became Jefferson Starship. The group, now known as Starship, released its latest album, "Knee Deep in the Hoopla," more than a year ago and has been touring the past

The show was highlighted by an elaborate stage and light show. A scene at a park bench set the mood as Starship played its re-cent hit "Sara." Slick and Thomas portrayed lovers trying to solve the problems of a rela-

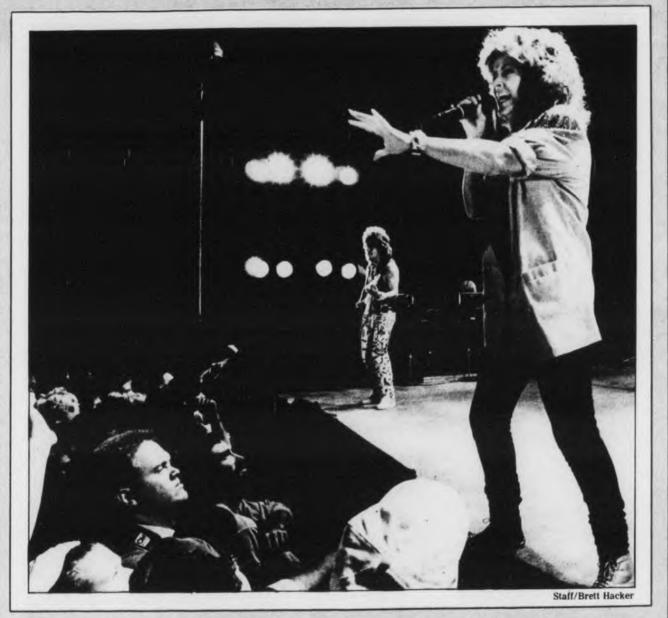

Thomas and Slick got feedback from the audience as the concert progressed. Arms waved and hands clapped as Starship played a repertoire of songs popular over the past 20 years. The crowd became inspired enough to sing along as Starship played "Don't You Want Somebody to Love" and "Laying it on the Line."

The group, originally based in San Francisco, had a background on the stage of The City by the Bay. Airplanes flying over the Golden Gate Bridge and buildings in the background helped give an indication of the band's past.

At one point in between songs, the stage was filled with smoke and appeared to be a spaceship ready for takeoff.

The concert was sponsored by the Union Program Council Special Events Committee and 97FM in Topeka.

"I thought the show was a little short, but the crowd was real responsive," said Julie Stephens, Special Events Committee chairwoman and senior in social sciences. "We got a good mixture of people in their 30s who came to see them because of the Jefferson Airplane and a younger group who came because of their current music."

Grace Slick of Starship entertains students at the Homecoming concert Friday in Ahearn Field House. The group played some old favorites and a few songs from their new album, "Knee Deep in the Hoopla."

Alcatrazz focuses on 'real life' as inspiration for up-beat music

By SCOT SANDLIN Collegian Reporter

Real life makes real rock 'n' roll, according to the rock group Alcatrazz, the warm-up band for Starship Friday night at the Homecoming concert in Ahearn Field House.

Life and observation inspires the music of Alcatrazz. The group has been playing since 1983 and recently released its fourth album, "Dangerous Games."

Alcatrazz' hard-rocking original material emphasizes guitar and drums. The group plays with a lot of energy and wants to give the crowd a good show. The group's aim is longevity, and the band has tried to put more rhythm and beat into the music so it will appeal to a wider range of people.

"I kill to get every note out when I sing," said lead singer

"We used to only have fans who wanted to be guitar players, but now we are trying to appeal to people from 16 to 60. We want an audience of normal people who are open-minded," Bonnet said. "We sing about things that have happened, and our words read like a story.

The members of the group have always wanted to be musicians but haven't worried about not making it big.

"You have to separate yourself from reality," bass player Gary Shea said. "Look at all the kids who play baseball, but only nine can start for the Yankees.

The group enjoys playing on stage but sometimes get tired of the travel.

"You have to drive every day and get set up. Everything in your day is based around a one-hour performance," Bonnet said.

However, Bonnet said, there can be great satisfaction from singing on stage.

"When you are on form and the audience is great, it is a good feeling," he said. Alcatrazz enjoys performing in the Midwest. Shea says the audiences on the coasts see bands all the time, unlike a place like Manhattan. He says the crowd is much more excited and helps Alcatrazz put on a better show.

"We love it," Shea said.

Alcatrazz has been touring for a month and plans to tour through next summer, including a stop in

Bonnet said Alcatrazz is hoping luck will help the band become a well-known group.

"To make it big, it takes luck. You can never tell about it," Bonnet said. "We just put everything into our performances.

Haymaker residents see area from 75-foot vantage point

By The Collegian Staff

Some residents of Haymaker Hall saw their home from a new perspective Saturday morning — floating 75 feet above it in a hot-air balloon.

The balloon was anchored across from Haymaker at the intersection of Claflin Road and North Manhattan Avenue.

Riders climbed into the wicker gondola two at a time for a short ride up in the multi-colored balloon, operated by owner Chuck Klein of Topeka. About 20 residents and guests waited in line for a ride.

Klein, a K-State alumnus, was a founding member of the sky diving club at K-State. He said he took up ballooning when his wife, Annette, suggested he find a safer hobby.

He said it takes six flights and 10 hours of lessons to obtain a private license. Hot-air balloons have to be registered with the Federal Aviation

The balloon cost Klein about $17,000. It is 65 feet tall and 55 feet wide (77,700 cubic feet) and weighs about 500 pounds when wet, he said.

Klein said he has been asked to set up balloon rides for previous occasions, but bad weather prevented him from flying.

Scott Kane, director of Haymaker and graduate in student counseling and personal services, said the Association of Residence Halls and Haymaker organized the event to give the residents a treat during Homecoming.

John Brotzman, freshman in premedicine, said the ride gave him a peaceful, elevated feeling, like 'floating on marshmallows.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Meet the NOID *. He loves to ruin your pizza. He makes your pizza cold, or late, or he squashes your pizza box so the cheese gets stuck

OPEN FOR LUNCH! 11 am - 1 am Sun.-Thurs. 11 am - 2 am Fri. & Sat.

Get $1.00 OFF any custom-made pizza from Domino's Pizza AND receive one FREE Coke*! Limited delivery area.

CALL

With one call to Domino's Pizza, you can avoid the NOID ". So when you want hot, delicious, quality pizza delivered in less than 30 minutes, Manhattan 539-0561 517 North 12th St.

DOMINO'S

30 MINUTE GUARANTEE: If your delicious custom-made pizza does not arrive at your door in 30 minutes or less, you get $3.00 OFF your order.

Monday, October 27, 1986

The Virgin Spring

his Ingmar Bergman classic depicts a father's ruthless revenge for the rape and murder of his virgin daughter. Bergman fills our eyes with highly contrasting black and white to evoke an imaginative medieval world, suggesting the battle between Christianity and paganism. (in Swedish with sub-titles)

Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall & Thursday 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall.

$1.75; KSU ID required; unrated.

New at the Union Movies Concessions are now being sold at all UPC films held in Forum Hall. Patrons are welcome to bring in refreshments purchased from the vending machines, Information Desk, Recreation or State Room areas of the Union for all movies in Little Theatre.

K-state union

Hand-Colored Photographs by Gloria DeFilipps Brush

October 27-November 14 Monday through Friday

8 a.m. to 5 p.m. K-ST-A-IFE NOUND

HRIF-O-ALLIERY

Thursday, October 30. Dance to:

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES ARE PROHIBITED IN THE K-STATE UNION.

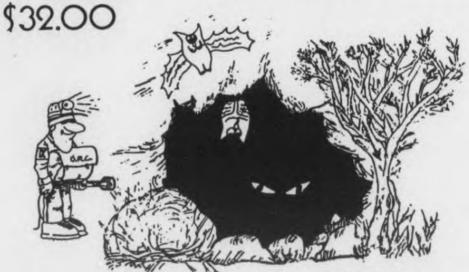

(()) k-state union

Co-sponsored by Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service

NOV 15&16

Explore two of the deep, dark caverns of Central Missouri! Sign up until Nov. 11 in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union from 8:15 a.m.-4 p.m.

Slow sales

A concession worker looks for customers in nearly deserted stands Saturday during the K-State-University of Missouri football game. Afternoon drizzles kept many fans from attending the Homecoming contest.

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

match

5 Elevator verdant

man

6 Aries

7 Most

8 Refer

9 Syllable

with

10 Ballot

11 Sweet.

pulpy

fruit

By Charles Schulz

Sorority commemorates 70 years at K-State with tours, class parties

By JUDI WALTER Collegian Reporter

The Gamma Alpha chapter of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority celebrated its 70th anniversary over the weekend.

The anniversary activities included tours of the chapter house at 517 Fairchild Terrace, pledge class parties, a banquet at the Holidome and a special Founder's Day brunch.

More than 750 Kappas and guests, including University President Jon Wefald and his wife, Ruth Ann, attended the banquet, said Becky Riden, active chairwoman of the anniversary committee and senior in architecture.

Gamma Alpha got its start as Lambda Lambda Theta, an organization at what was then K-State Agricultural College. In the spring of 1916, Lambda Lambda Theta petitioned Kappa Kappa Gamma to become a chapter. A charter was granted and the installation of the new chapter took place Sept. 23, 1916. There were 21 charter

The 1917-1918 school year found the Kappas busy with war work. The close proximity of Camp Funston gave the women ample opportunity to do work for the Red Cross and social services. At that time, they also purchased a house from Henry J. Waters, K-State president from 1909 to 1917.

In 1930, the Kappas moved into their present home on Fairchild Terrace.

"The history of 1930 reports, 'At last our dreams have come true and we are going to have a new house next fall. We can hardly realize that soon we are going to have a lovely big colonial house that we have so long dreamed of," said Carey Avery, senior in bakery science and registrar (the equivilent of a historian) of the chapter.

The first mention of World War II was in the 1942-43 chapter history

"On Dec. 20, (1943) we had our formal Christmas dinner, and around the tree, we exchanged gifts that were later given to the U.S.A. for distribution among the service men. This was a part of our war effort,' the book reads.

The 1960-61 history talks of an addition to the house. The chapter was moved to the Gillett Hotel, that used to be located downtown, while the house underwent redecorating and a new addition.

In 1981, Angela Scanlan, a Kappa, was the first woman to be elected

K-State's student body president.

Several Kappas were recognized at the banquet, including Liz Oswalt, former president of the National KSU Alumni Association and mistress of ceremony; Jada Allerheiligen, 1986 K-State Ambassador and junior in journalism and mass communications, and Ken and Barb Peirce of Hutchinson, 1986 K-State Honorary Parents.

Claribel Grover Costello of Manhattan, a member of the 1924 pledge class, said a lot of things have changed since she was in college.

"The main difference is that we didn't have keys to the house. The curfew was strictly enforced - 10:30 on Sundays and one hour after a party," Costello said. "Seniors could have one library date a week until 9:00, and the fellows could come over until 8:00.

"If you had curlers in your hair, you had to eat in the hall.

"All the girls wore sweaters and skirts and all the fellows wore suits and ties - except for the ag students.

"When there was a formal, the fellows would go home on the weekend to borrow their parents' cars."

Around 400 alumnae from as far away as Hawaii attended the celebration, Riden said.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible (1-52)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49) ZEN MASTER D. Katahiri-Roshi lectures Friday, October 31, 8 p.m. International Student Center on

Philosophy and Practice of Meditation, Instruction available Saturday, November 1. (42-46) ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken, LOSE WEIGHT-100% natural-100% guaranteed-

See immediate results! 776-6959 after 5:30 p.m., all day weekends. (45-49)

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in-formation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55) ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502, (45-59) ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, religious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and future assured. Confidential. Lawyer volved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039. SKI COLORADO: Fully furnished, two bedroom, two bath condo for rent in Dillon. Clubhouse includes pool, jacuzzi, sauna and more. Discount rates. 316-

GARTER BELT, bra and pantie sets available at Un-dercover. Christian Dior, Maidenform, Lady Marlene. Stockings to match, with or without seams. 1224 Moro. (44-48)

HALLOWEEN PINATAS for your Halloween Party Dif-ferent sizes. Call 776-1786. (45-47)

By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS 40 Skip 3 French 1 Black birds island stones 5 Part of 4 Started a on water USO: abbr. 41 Affirm tennis a ship's planking

and toe of frog ...

address

Oct

8 Thomas -42 Bridge Edison across a 12 Mariner's highway guide 47 Gasp 14 Plunder 48 Bosh! 15 Paycheck 49 Wild plum

rossword

padder 50 Curve of 16 Homophone for 14 Across 51 "Eye of -17 Duct

18 Chopin DOWN composed many 1 G.L.'s 20 Valuable possession

23 Arthurian lady 24 - goose chase

25 "Pig out" 28 High note 29 Dispatch boat 30 Secreted

32 Ham it up 34 Nimbus 35 Carrie Chapman

36 Word with talk or tennis 37 Italian

19 Neophyte 20 Solemn wonder storage place 22 Croatian 23 Oust

21 Missile

25 Bursts of applause 26 Jezebel's husband 27 Cashier's mouth or drawer 29 Ancient speaker country 31 Bambi's mother, for one 33 Card game

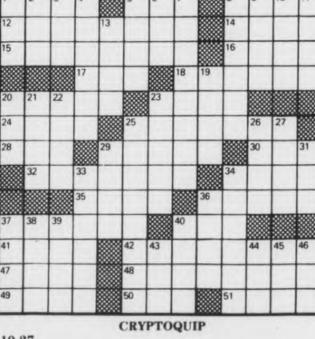

2 Mo. after 13 ASAP, in 34 Occur the E.R. 36 Sailors Solution time: 24 min. 37 Undermines 38 Grandparental

39 Comedian Jay 40 Contradict 43 Max Sydow

44 Donkey, in Dijon 45 Compass reading

46 Defeat at bridge

10-27

WBZE RHJBFCWBZBFKL EFJ

ABCCAH RFCBHKCL Yesterday's Cryptoquip: OUR UNKIND ORTHOPED-IST BRAGGED TO A PODIATRIST: "I GET ALL THE

Today's Cryptoquip clue: C equals T

UNIVERSITY DROTOGRADRY Outdoor

PORTRAITS Today 12-5 Quinlan Park

No Appointment Necessary No Charge to Have Portrait Taken Option to Buy

OPEN HOUSE-Chet Peters Sculpture Studio-Holiday and gift shopping; Wreath Ave., just north of 3140 Bermuda Lane. Saturday, November 1, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday, November 2, 1-5 p.m. Phone 537-2632. (45-47)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale. available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

HORSE BOARDING available—Stalls, beautiful Flint Hill area, three miles west of town. Call 776-5059. (42-46)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment. 1024 Laramie, $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom two bath, basement and large porch plus great amenities. 776-0272 (44-53)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49) ONE OF a kind 1971 Karman Ghia Volkswagon. New dash, new tires, runs great, shiny red, overall great condition. More information, (913) 263-3000 or 532-2362, #118, Michele. Leave messages please. (42-

1976 CORVETTE-34,000 miles, excellent condition. (913) 243-7205 or (913) 243-3510. (43-47)

1974 MERCURY Comet - Two door, $475 or best offer. After 5:15 p.m. on weekdays, 776-5609. (44-48) 1977 AMC Hornet. Clean, runs good. Phone 539-5032 after 6 p.m. (45-49)

CAN YOU buy Jeeps, cars, 4 x 4's seized in drug raids for under $100? Call for facts today. 602-837-3401. Ext. S 744. (45)

FOR SALE-MISC

8" OSCAR fish, $8. Call 1-494-2388 St. George (41-45)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 11/2 (with coupon)

537-3335

VIULA BY Ernest Heinrich Roth. Excellent condi-tion, $650. Also diving gear including suit, regulators, compensators, etc. Call 539-1311 evenings or weekends. (43-45)

TACO HUT

where good friends get together 2809 Claflin 539-2091 (Closed Tuesdays)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1982 YAMAHA Virago 750. Bought new 14 months ago, $1,200. Call 537-0834 after 4 p.m. (45-49)

HELP WANTED 13 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Learning Skills Semi nar Leaders: Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1987. Specific duties in clude: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a Social Science or Mathematics class; c) attending the class which corresponds to the study session; and d) attending and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) Feel confident in their ability to be a "student role-model;" b) are committed to the concept of academic success for all students; c) desire to teach others how to learn; d) are able to relate to many types of people; and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathematics. Students who are selected for the position ust successfully complete a training class. EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit), during Spring 1987 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. (tentative). A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1987 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview.(43-46)

OVERSEAS JOBS-Summer, year around. Europe South America, Australia, Asia, All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information. Write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar. CA. 92625 (27-46)

LIVE-IN Nanny wanted. Need mature adult, nonsmoker, driver's license, enjoys children. Room and board, good salary, weekends free. Nine-twelve month commitment, Kansas City area. Call (816) 444-6674 collect, weekdays only.

WANTED-PIZZA delivery driver, full or part-time Must have own car and insurance. Apply at Falset-to's Pizza. 1127 Moro between 2 and 5 p.m. (42-46)

PART TIME cook and delivery person. Apply in person at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison. Contact Jim

or Ernie for an appointment. 776-0004. (43-49)

WANTED: APPLICANTS FOR THE POSITION OF EXERCISE LEADER

Applicants: must be KSU students, carrying 7 or more hours.

POSITION REQUIREMENTS: 1.) Knowledge of proper exercise technique 2.) Knowledge of aerobic conditioning

3.) Enthusiasm, confidence, poise * CERTIFICATION PREFERRED * CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recrea tional Services (532-6980) for an application REC COMPLEX JOB OPENING:

Must be KSU student carrying 7 or more

Must be available from noon-3:30 EVERY Monday afternoon More work hours will be available next Spring Availability to work over vacation periods preferable CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recreational Services (532-6980) for an application. BABYSITTER-LIVE in New York suburb. Family with two children, 9 and 4, seeks babysitter who loves children and has driver's license. One year commitment. Airfare paid. Call 914-834-8577 (45-TRAVEL FIELD Opportunity. Gain valuable marketing experience while earning money. Campus representative needed immediately for spring break trip to Florida. Call Campus Marketing at 1-800

282-6221 (45-50)

PERSONAL 16 SHARON MAY Malone, Happy 21st Birthday Love

Big Sister Patricia (45) KARI ANN-I can't wait until May 21, 1988! Hove you now and always will. Happy Engagement! Jeffrey (45) is AD Pi and ? We wonder why? (45) CM-YOU say it's your birthday, it's my birthday, too. We're both gonna party, but that's nothing new!

AND THE winner of the 1986, 87, 88 Homecoming

Happy a happy one. Shark. (45) PHI KAP Tim U. - Happy Monday! Although there are clues to follow and the week has just begun, I want you to know you've been adopted and you're my

LYNN H.—Happy 20th. From Tuttle to S.C. even to K.C. it's been great! I can't help it if I'm a squirrel lover. Hope you have a great day! Love. B.S. (45) PHI KAP Woody: The clues begin to appear, number one is really clear. To party would be fun, espe-cially with my son! Love, Mom. (45) ATO KYLE - Happy 20th Birthday! Your the best and I love you! Rindi. (45) GOODNOW/PUTNAM floatbuilders - Be proud! You did an awesome job! Thanks to everyone who helped. Special thanks to Judy and the float commitee for all your time and effort. You guys are terrific! -Steph. (45) CUTE, MATURE guy looking for a date, girlfriend ran off with M.U. mascot. Kevin, 539-4615. (45-46) ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom, completely furnished. 776-4794 before 7 p.m., or 537-0751 eve

RESPONSIBLE ROOMMATE, for nice two bedroom apartment, completely furnished, fireplace and dishwasher In quiet neighborhood. November rent is already paid. Call 537-9439, late is okay. (41-

SERVICES

boldt, 537-4246. (43tf)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Hum

sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-

Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-494-2388. (41-50) GRADUATE STUDENTS: Have your dissertation, thesis, or term paper word processed. Letter quality. reasonable rates, 532-2362 (131), leave message

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor. 1011 Juliette 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-tions, manuscripts, term papers. (43-45)

TYPING—TERM papers, research papers, resumes, cover letters, etc. Call 539-2411. (45-49)

10-25 Yesterday's answer

Robare

Continued from Page 1

going to burn the car. Robare said she "took off running."

"That car could have blown up." she said.

The car was towed to the junkyard later, for a fee of $57 to Robare. "The police reimbursed me for that," she said. "They gave me cash."

She signed her title over to the junkyard, she said, and was reimbursed $23 for her license plate.

Robare said she didn't know any of the people involved in the incident. "I don't drink, so I don't go down to those places," she said.

Robare said she thought the National Guard could have been called, but added that the situation may have worsened because of it.

"I guess there's nothing that could have been done," she said, shrugging her shoulders.

Robare said she didn't think anyone was out to get her personally, but that the incident began as a sort of "joke" that got out of hand.

"It's a shame when parents put out an ungodly amount of money to send their children to college, thinking that their kids are at home studying and making good grades, when actually they're out drinking and doing things like this," she said, "when there are other people in this world who don't have parents and strive every day just to make it."

The only insurance Robare carried on her car was liability.

"The car may not have been much," she said, "but it was my only means of transportation." Robare said she'd had a number of bad blows before, but "this was like the top of the cake." "I guess I'll walk," she said about going to work. "It's about two "After my car was demolished, I thought, 'Now what do I have to live for?' But I know I've got to hold on.

give you more than you can handle." The Rev. Ben Duerfeldt of the First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza, is collecting funds for Robare, said Kris Kelderman, victim assistance coordinator at the Riley County Police Department.

I've always heard that God won't

By SCOTT SHORTER Collegian Reporter

In K-State's version of "The Hustler," "Machine Gun" Lou Butera gave a billiard trick shot exhibition in the Union Courtyard Friday morning.

Butera, from Canoga Park, Calif., performed for two hours before a crowd of 300. He started off by showing how some of the shots were done in the new movie "The Color of Money," a sequel to "The Hustler."

Butera got the nickname "Machine Gun" from New York Daily News sportswriter Joe Richards for his fast style of play. But, he jokingly told the crowd, "I got the nickname when I shot 14 people with a machine gun after an exhibition." Butera holds the record for the fastest time to clear a rack of balls from a table, at 59 seconds, set at J. Riggs West in Manhattan. Also, he once ran 150 balls consecutively in 21 minutes in 1965.

Billiard artist demonstrates trick shots

At the exhibition, he showed how fast he could run the table. It took 54 seconds to clear the table, but he pushed a couple of the balls in with his cue.

Since 1963, Butera has served as a technical adviser for movies and television shows. Jerry Riggs, a billiards promoter from Manhattan, said Butera did the trick shots in the movie "Racing With The Moon."

He also had an on-camera part doing pool shots in the ABC series "The Fall Guy." However, Butera said he did not like "The Color of Money" because it portrayed the players as Butera said the 1973 world pool championship was his greatest win.

"I had to beat Erving Crane twice in a row to win. No one had ever done that," Butera said. "The biggest loss was in a nine ball tournament. The difference between first and second place was $22,000. I got second place."

After the exhibition, he asked for challengers from the crowd. When no one accepted, Butera said he would play one-handed. Paul McKinzie, junior in business, accepted the challenge.

Despite the handicap, Butera won the game. With only the eight ball on the table to win the game, and it being Butera's shot, someone in the crowd said, "Goodnight, Irene," an indication that the game was over. With that, Butera sank the last ball.

The next challenge came from Ron Creekmore, the University of Kansas' pool champion. He played Butera in a game of nine ball. The winner of the match would be the first player to win five games.

Creekmore took the first two games, then Butera won the next three. Creekmore won the next two to take a one game advantage. But Butera took the last two games to win the match. Only in the last game did he show his fast style of play. Terri Eddy, Union recreation director, said this is the fifth pool exhibition the Union has sponsored in the last 10 years, but this is the first time Butera has been here.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Wellness

Continued from Page 1

will be "Mind Over Matter," "Dental Health Care in the '80s," "KSU's New EAP - Employee Assistance Program - Facts and Fables" and "Insomnia and Sleep Needs."

Friday evening from 11 to 2, "Late Night" will take place at the Rec Complex with team activities, such as cageball volleyball, scooter races and miniature golf.

The culmination of the week comes on Saturday with the free, 5-mile, non-competitive Volksmarch, a walk for fitness. The walk, which can be done anytime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., will start and finish at the Riley County Courthouse Plaza.

The week of programs and activities are sponsored by Lafene and the K-State and Manhattan com-

MONDAY

Ramada Inn

99¢

Bourbon and Scotch Wells FREE BBQ 4-7 p.m.

Join Coach Parrish for Cat Chat Today

17th & Anderson Across from KSI

"Wellness Week '86" Sponsored by Lafene Health Center

Notice:

Due to short staffing during "Health Fair '86" Wed., October 29, 1986 only acute health care > will be available. Come join the fun at "Health Fair '86"

> > Oct. 27-Nov. 1

K.S.U. Marketing Club presents:

VOLUME SHOE CORPORATION

Tonight

7 p.m.

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

AVAILABLE SERVICES:

- *Outpatient Clinic
- *Lafemme (GYN) Clinic *Laboratory
- *X-Ray Department *Physical Therapy
- *Mental Health Clinic
- *Pharmacy
- *Allergy Clinic *Wart Clinic
- *Much Much More

CHECK IT OUT!

Watch for the Collegian's upcoming Car Care Advertising Special.

*Provided to you for all your winterizing needs.

Issue will run Oct. 28

Alcohol Awareness Week 1986 1.In Riley County (Manhattan area) during the 1985-86 school year, how many KSU students were arrested for D.U.I.? 2. Geritol's alcohol content is _______%? 3. What is the #1 cause of death in the military today? 4. How many people died in Kansas in 1985 in alcohol related accidents?

5. On the "average" day in the U.S., how many people are killed in alcohol related accidents?

Answers: (1) 81, (2) 12 (24 proof), (3) drunk driving, (4) 152, (5) 64

PRUG EDUCATION SERVICE

Funded by SRS Alcohol and Drug Abuse Service

"POPULAR WEIGHT LOSS PROGRAMS"

This slide show will compare Weight

Watchers, TOPS, Overeaters Anonymous,

Nutri/System, and The Diet Center. Come and bring your questions about these and

"ANOREXIA, BULEMIA, AND OBESITY-

After defining the different eating disorders, we will explore their impact on our society today, as well as look at current

Take the time to learn to make time work to your advantage. Learn easy techniques on how to get control of your life by other popular weight loss programs.

Kathy Grunewald, Ph.D., R.D.

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

1:30-2:20 p.m.

THE 80s EPIDEMIC"

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

methods of treatment.

"SELF-MANAGEMENT"

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

Cliff Schuette, Ed.D.

controlling your time.

2:30-3:20 p.m.

Donna Burns, R.N.

"LAFENE HEALTH CENTER DAY" KSU LAFENE HEALTH CENTER AND

We are opening our doors to you-come see what we are all about. Tour the facility and meet our staff as we extend our

David Danskin, Ph.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

Thomas Ryan, M.D.

"ASSERTIVE COMMUNICATION: YOUR ROUTE TO PERSONAL EFFECTIVENESS" Susan Scott Angle, Ph.D.

introduction to assertive communication. 3:30-4:20 p.m.

"EXERCISE...A PROPHYLACTIC" Mari Hemmert Hooper

Explore how exercise can aid in the osteoporosis, hypertension, obesity,

10:00- 3:00 p.m.

5th ANNUAL KSU HEALTH FAIR KSU UNION BALLROOM

The HEALTH FAIR is a tradition at KSU. Over 30 exhibitors will help the participant in identifying positive healthstyle changes by offering a variety of health screening and health education.

Alcohol and Other Drug Information Birth Control Information Blood Chemistry Testing*

Blood Pressure Dental Screening Fitness Testing Flu Vaccinations

Glaucoma Screening Health Risk Appraisal Height/Weight Nutritional Information Stess Management

Vision Screening MUCH MUCH MORE

*OPTIONAL: SMA (23) Blood Test-$7 charge covers lab costs

NOTE: DO NOT eat 12 hours prior to blood test. Continue taking any medication as ordered.

OPTIONAL: Flu Vaccination-$6 charge covers cost of medicine.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

If you feel you are out of shape, come and join Dr. Laurie in learning the "how-to's"

1:30-2:20 p.m. "FROM VICTIM TO SURVIVOR: BEING AN ADULT CHILD OF AN ALCOHOLIC"

This program will focus on concerns of individuals who grew up in a family with an alcoholic.

"DIET AND EXERCISE— THE WINING COMBINATION" Elizabeth Addington KSU UNION ROOM 212

Discussion will center on how to combine nutrition and exercise for a healthier weight loss program.

KSU CHESTER E. PETERS RECREATION

Come learn the proper techniques of weight training. 3:30-4:20 p.m.

"SELF-MOTIVATION AND THE HOW-TO'S" Fred Newton, Ph.D.

This program will offer specific strategies that you can use to enhance motivation and thereby have greater energies directed toward the achievement of academic goals.

"MIND OVER MATTER" Bruce Lyons

12:00-1:00 p.m.

KSU UNION ROOM 212 This program will explore the relationship between our thoughts, our emotions, and our physical being. Come and see how "Mind Over Matter" really works.

1:30-2:20 p.m.

"DENTAL HEALTH CARE IN THE 80s" Michael Wangsgaard, D.D.S. KSU UNION ROOM 212

Preventive dental care is a vital segment of total health care. Come and discuss today's recommended dental health views. 2:30-3:20 p.m.

"KSU'S NEW EAP—EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAM—FACTS & FABLES"

Joe Younger KSU UNION ROOM 212

The University is offering its new EAP in the belief that the best approach to their workers' effectiveness is by offering programs which contribute to their wellbeing. This presentation will discuss just how the EAP works for you-the employee.

3:30-4:20 p.m.

"INSOMNIA AND SLEEP NEEDS" David Danskin, Ph.D.

aid you in overcoming your insomnia.

"SAFE AND SANE EXERCISING"

3:30-4:20 p.m.

Guy Smith, M.D. KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

Come and explore various concepts of safe and sane exercises which are a vital part of good health and injury prevention.

UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

hospitality to you.

12:00-1:00 p.m. "STRESS MANAGEMENT"

Many of the frequent small things in life can compound and result in stress disorders. Learn strategies you can use immediately to help control your stress level. 1:30-2:20 p.m.

"THE KEY TO WELLNESS" KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

With an increased awareness of wellness, comes the need for some "how-to's" in applying such knowledge as nutrition, physical fitness, and stress management. 2:30-3:20 p.m.

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS This session will provide you the knowledge and practice by presenting an prevention of common disorders such as diabetes, insomnia, low back pain, and cardiovascular disease.

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

"THE BEGINNING OF AN EXERCISE PROGRAM" David Laurie, Ph.D.

12:00-1:00 p.m.

KŚU UNION ROOM 212 of beginning a fitness program.

Dori Lambert, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212

2:30-3:20 p.m.

3:00-4:00 p.m. "PROPER WEIGHT TRAINING TECHNIQUE DEMONSTRATION"

COMPLEX

KSU UNION ROOM 212

Learn do-it-yourself strategies that will

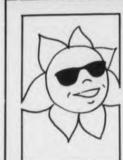

KSU UNION ROOM 212

Workout Time

Students, faculty and staff are joining the millions of people who work to gain fitness through aerobics. See Page 5.

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny today. high in mid- to upper 70s. Wind south 10 to 20 mph. Mostly clear tonight, low around

Sports

5/1/87  Kansas State Historical Soc Topeka, KS

AII-Americans

Two K-State rugby players are Rugby Magazine All-Americans but emphasize the efforts of their teammates. See Page 8.

Kansas

Tuesday

October 28, 1986

Volume 93, Number 46 Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Reagan approves bill for anti-drug crusade

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, declaring a "major victory" in the battle against drugs, signed into law on Monday the most sweeping anti-drug program ever passed by Congress

"Our goal in this crusade is nothing less than a drug-free generation," Reagan declared as he put his signature on the $1.7 billion measure, which doubles the federal government's budget for chasing drug dealers and smugglers and stiffens penalties for traffickers.

The president, mindful of the popularity of the bipartisan antidrug abuse effort in an election year, was flanked by several senators and congressmen as well as his wife Nan-

Reagan saluted his wife for having

"mobilized the American people" with her five-year effort against drug abuse among children. After signing the bill, the president handed his pen to the startled first lady, then rose from his seat to give his beaming wife a big kiss.

"Today marks a major victory in our crusade against drugs," Reagan said before signing the measure. "The American people want their government to get tough and go on the offensive.'

The president, asserting that new money and laws alone will not solve the problem, asked the American people to "be strong in your intolerance" of illegal drug use.

"The vaccine that will end the epidemic is a combination of tough laws, like the one we signed today, and a dramatic change in public attitude," he said.

Reagan also paid tribute to Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.; Rep. Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y.; Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y.; and Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla. who were with him on the

Hawkins, who is fighting to retain her Senate seat and has made her anti-drug efforts a hallmark of her campaign, was singled out by

Backers of the bill said it marked a significant change in Congress' traditional approach to fighting drugs because it authorized nearly $500 million for anti-drug education and rehabilitation, aimed at reducing demand for drugs.

Overall, the bill authorizes $1.7 billion in the current fiscal year for drug enforcement, treatment and rehabilitation.

Challenger for Senate seat refuses advertising, charity

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

Guy Mac-Donald has a tough job do to - beat incumbent Republican Sen. Robert Dole in the Nov. 4 election.

To make the job even

MacDonald tougher, he refuses to advertise on television or take donations offered by private political committees or large corporations.

"I want to bring politics back closer to what it was supposed to be," MacDonald said at a Young Democrats meeting Monday night in the Union.

He said he opposes advertisements made by candidates because he thinks they are superficial, biased and do not expose the weaknesses of candidates weaknesses, he said, the voters have a right to know.

MacDonald refuses large donations because the donors "expect something in return" and want to use the donation to buy favorable legislation.

'Candidates succumb to the pressure of the political action committee. They cease to be a representative of the people who put them in the office and become the representative of the committee," MacDonald said. "They sell the office to the highest bidder.' Instead, he advocated disallowing political advertisements in favor of allowing each candidate to have one to three hours on private or public television to fully develop his stands on the issues. Also, he would allow debates, question-andanswer forums and in-depth interviews with the media.

"Right now, for me to get on TV, my opponent has to agree to debate me. That's unjust," he said.

MacDonald expects his campaign to cost under $5,000. If it does, he said he will be listed as a "non-candidate" by the government because it specifies candidates must spend at least $5,000.

"I'm serious. This kind of candidacy can get people elected to office," he said.

U.S. requests

Syria's help

for hostages

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON - Ever since Syria went on the U.S. terrorist list as a charter member in 1979, the United States, in deciding whether to crack down on President Hafez Assad's government, has had to weigh the leverage Damascus may have with anti-Western elements in the Middle East.

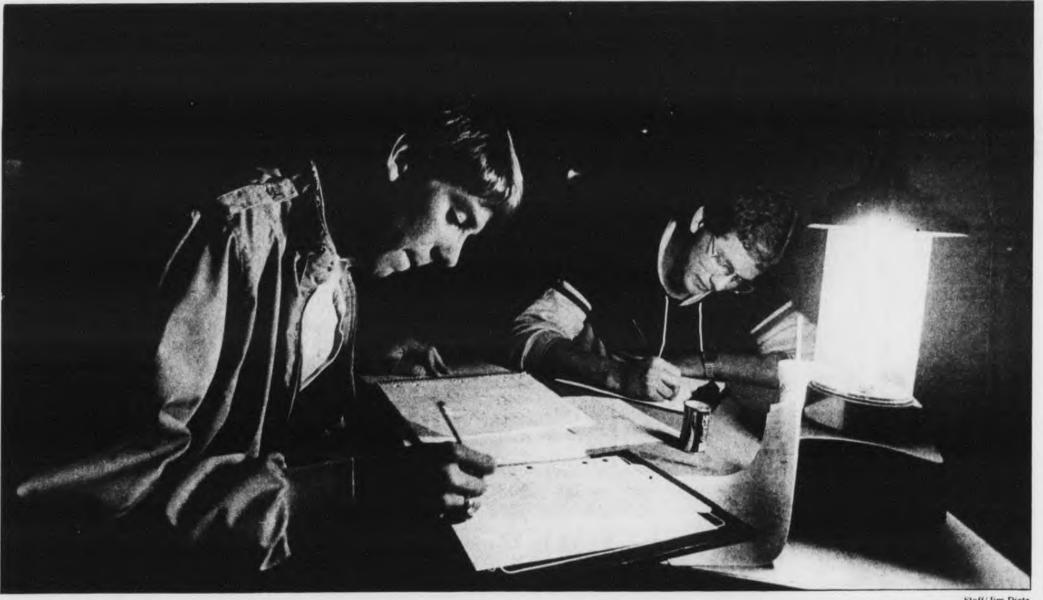

The dilemma was evident again Monday as the State Department registered its "great displeasure" with Syria's policies while also trying publicly to hold Assad to his pledge to assist the seven U.S. citizens listed

Syria is considered the dominant political force in Lebanon, and while Assad's government is philosophically too secular to please most Moslem fundamentalist groups involved in terrorist incidents, its political in-

Also, terrorist experts within and outside the U.S. government are convinced that Syria plays a double role - providing a safe haven for Abu Nidal, head of the Fatah Revolutionary Council, and others accused of terrorism, but also assisting American hostages, at least after they are released.

MacDonald fielded questions

See DEMOCRAT, Page 10

Lantern study

Brian Engelken, sophomore in accounting, and Mike Schwabauer, sophomore in art, study under the light of a lantern Monday night as they wait to purchase basketball tickets for Goodnow Hall next Monday. The pair joined many other groups camping out east of Ahearn Field House waiting to get tickets.

In the case of at least three of them, as hostages in southern Lebanon.

fluence is substantial.

Jeremy Levin, a Cable News Network correspondent, the Rev. Bejamin Weir, a Presbyterian minister, and the Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco, a Roman Catholic priest, the Syrians are credited with helping them get out of Lebanon once they were freed by their captors.

"Nobody here thinks Syria could press a

See SYRIA. Page 10

College draws students worldwide

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

Graduate students in K-State's College of Business truly come from far and wide to earn their master of business administration

Half of about 120 graduate students in the MBA program are from countries other than the United States. In the master of accountancy program, eight of 18 are international graduate students.

Stan Fye, assistant dean and graduate studies coordinator for the College of Business, said the business college has the largest international enrollment of any graduate program on campus. International students account for at least half of the enrollment in 14 graduate departments at the

One reason for the large percentage of international enrollment in the MBA program is the United States' reputation in the field, Fye said.

"I think the U.S. is the one that's really taken the MBA degree and perfected the degree. The MBA has a worldwide reputation, and the United States is the place to go get an MBA degree," he said. "I would imagine, however, that an awful lot of other countries have MBA programs that are quite

Harry Andriopoulos, graduate student in business administration from Greece, said the United States places a different emphasis on MBA degrees than European countries. "There are some MBAs in Europe - in Switzerland, England and France. I think that the MBA in the United States is more practical, more applied than in Europe. I think that in Europe it's more theoretical," Andriopoulos said.

"I believe that the roots of doing your own business are in America, so I came to where business originated," he added.

The United States' position in world business helped Rudy Ploder, graduate student in business administration from Argentina, decide to get his MBA here. "Since this country is in the top of technology, when you go overseas with working experience here it's a valuable asset to improve your position," Ploder said. K-State presents several attractions to international graduate students, Fye said. "We have a good, solid MBA program. We have a good, solid accountancy program," he said. "Recently, the personnel directors of the top 25 accounting firms in the country were polled, and they all ranked K-State as 13th in the country.

"I would think another possible factor that could attract students in general to our program is that two years ago we were rather small. We've spent a lot of time writing personal letters to possible students. It's always a plus when you get a personal letter instead of standard form letters," Fye said.

Stefan Ding, graduate student in business administration from West Germany, decided to come to K-State this fall after receiving a letter from the business college. Although Ding originally applied to a different U.S. university, he said he likes K-State so far.

"It's a very general education here. In Germany, I didn't hear anything about business in my education," said Ding, whose undergraduate degree is engineering. "I think somebody who's in engineering should know something about business and money."

Ploder came to K-State in January after he was offered a scholarship from Rotary International. To accept the scholarship, he had to apply to five universities from around the world and go where he was accepted first. Ploder selected five colleges in the United States and applied to two medium-sized ones. K-State accepted him before the other col-

"I am getting what I came looking for," Ploder said.

Several factors brought Andriopoulos to K-State last spring. Tuition and fees here are lower than at other universities. Andriopoulos also said a teaching assistantship here might be a greater possibility than in other graduate programs.

See BUSINESS, Page 10

Facing realities of battle key to peace, author says

By JADA ALLERHEILIGEN Collegian Reporter

People must protect future generations by not glorifying the "very nasty" realities of war, said John Keegan, military historian and current defense correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph.

Keegan is scheduled to give the second biennial Dwight D. Eisenhower Lecture on "Eisenhower and the American Dream" at 8 tonight in the Union Forum Hall.

"It's wrong to close your eyes to madness. You ought to understand what is going on and not close your eyes and ears," he said in an interview Monday.

"Many times people know things are there, but they don't like to think about them - battle is one of those things." Keegan said. "Whether or not your country goes to war has something to do with you because you're a voter.'

In highly sophisticated countries such as the United States people are facing the horrors of war, he said.

"It would be very difficult for the president to launch America into a second Vietnam War, because so many lives were scarred," he said.

The powerful states realize if they are to go into battle they might reach for nuclear weapons, and that's what restrains them from war, Keegan said.

However, in the less sophisticated or lower educated countries, Keegan said citizens work themselves up into "warlike

In Iraq and Iran, "the quarrels don't justify the degree of nastiness," he said. Iran attacked Iraq as the result of dispute about whether the Iraq-Iran boundary should run on the Iranian bank of the river or down the middle of the river.

"About 200,000 people, and maybe many more, have been killed over that quarrel. I can't see any point in a war like that," Keegan said. "The people are acting as if the First World War never happened."

As for the future of warfare, Keegan said it depends on whether or not the arms race can be controlled. He said about

See KEEGAN, Page 10

INTERNATIONAL

Fire breaks out in Israeli hotel

JERUSALEM - A fire broke out today at the King David Hotel, sending hundreds of guests, including a U.S. congressman dressed only in two bath towels, fleeing into the street.

The blaze, which started in a computer room, blackened three accounting offices on the second floor and filled the hotel's lobby with thick smoke.

Police said there were no injuries.

Rep. James H. Scheuer, D-N.Y., was taking a shower when the fire began, and had no time to dress. Minutes later he spoke to reporters in the lobby, draped in the two towels.

The 66-year-old congressman said his room was on the third floor just above the blaze. "I smelled some smoke and just grabbed a couple of towels and ran to the elevator," he said.

A hotel spokeswoman, Fiona Semberg, said the fire appeared to have been caused by an electrical short circuit. Police spokesman

Rafi Levy said the possibility of arson was under investigation. Semberg said about 300 guests were registered at the hotel, many of them American, but some were out when the fire began at 4:15

Despite the smell of acrid smoke, many guests seemed more amused than frightened by the fire. Waitresses served orange juice from silver trays as tourists streamed back into the lobby.

NATIONAL

Police arrest pastor for vandalism

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. - A pastor was charged by police with vandalizing the sanctuary of a church that ousted him.

The Rev. Eddie Perdue, 34, of Aliquippa was arrested Sunday outside the parish home of Triedstone Missionary Baptist Church. Seven days after Perdue was removed by the church's congregation Aug. 21, the sanctuary was sprayed with foam from a fire extinguisher, pews were hacked to pieces, wires and hammers ripped from an organ, and a piano and the word "evil" etched on both instruments.

When police questioned Perdue in September he said he had no key to the church and was being framed.

Perdue, 34, was freed on $15,000 after his arraignment on charges of criminal mischief, receiving stolen property and institutional van-

Physicist fasts for arms promises

WASHINGTON - A peace protester who says he is a physicist said Monday he will continue his 35-day-old fast near the White House until the United States agrees to nuclear disarmament and promises "not to use or support violent offensive military operations" against other countries.

The pledge was made by Charles Hyder, 56, who said he has been fasting since Sept. 23 in Lafayette Park, which is located across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

Hyder told a news conference that he has a doctorate in physics and is a former National Aeronautics and Space Association researcher from the University of New Mexico.

Hyder said his fast is connected with the "Great Peace March," some of whose participants will arrive Nov. 15 in Washington.

"My contribution to world peace is but a recent continuation of a five-year effort by a few anti-nuclear vigilantes in Lafayette Park and in front of the White House," he said.

REGIONAL

Former deputy faces arms charge

KANSAS CITY, Kan. - A former sheriff's deputy who was fired last year after leading officers on an unauthorized, commando-style training mission to the Ozarks pleaded guilty in federal court Monday to a weapons charge.

Edward T. Knisley Jr., 39, a former Wyandotte County deputy, could receive a maximum of 10 years in prison and a fine of $10,000 when he is sentenced Dec. 8. He pleaded guilty to illegal possession of a MAC 11 submachine gun.

The government said Knisley apparently bought the weapon with his own money but registered it to the sheriff's office because he had used his position as a law officer to order the weapon from a private gun supplier.

Knisley was fired in May 1985 as the chief training officer for the sheriff's department after an incident in St. Clair County, Mo., involving a number of weapons owned by the sheriff's department.

Officials end 7-year cleanup battle

MIAMI, Okla. - The last of the work wasn't quite completed, but Gov. George Nigh and U.S. Rep. Mike Synar were on hand Monday to formally dedicate the $5 million cleanup of Tar Creek.

Nigh and Synar headed a delegation at the site two miles southwest of Picher, Okla., where a ribbon-cutting ceremony marked the ending of a seven-year struggle to minimize further pollution of the Dangerous levels of lead, zinc, cadmium, iron and other contaminants were found in the stream in 1979. The pollutants percolated into the stream from abandoned mine shafts in the area that had filled with water.

In 1980, Nigh formed a task force to study the pollution and to recommend a remedy. Funding for the $5 million clean-up came mostly from the federal government's so-called Superfund. Oklahoma and Kansas shared in the costs.

The creek originates about a mile northwest of Treece and flows along the western edge of Picher, through Cardin, Okla., and Commerce, Okla., and into Miami.

Residents launch frog campaign

LAWRENCE - A group of Lawrence residents are hopping mad about a proposed highway bypass to be routed through the Baker Wetlands, which is the home of the threatened northern crawfish frog, and today launched a unique campaign to protect the wildlife habitat.

Rana areolata circulosa, otherwise known as Agnes T. Frog, was introduced today in Lawrence newspapers by the Committee to Elect a True Amphibian as a write-in candidate for the Douglas County

John Simmons, a staff member at the University of Kansas' Museum of Natural History, is spokesman for the group supporting the fictitious frog and he said Agnes' future is at stake in the race.

"Her home and family are endangered by the proposed bypass south of Lawrence and the development that will follow," Simmons said. "Frogs are relatively shy by nature but Agnes has been pushed to the limit and that's why she got involved.

"That's why she's jumped into the race and is asking voters to hop off their lily pads and write her in on Nov. 4."

The center of the debate is the proposed 14.3 mile, $38 million bypass around the southern edge of this university town of 52,738. It has sparked controversy over the way it was pushed through the county commission and the proposed use of general obligation bonds to pay the county's share of $4 million.

Campus Bulletin

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

APPAREL AND TEXTILE MARKETING IN-TEREST GROUP meets at 6 p.m. in Justin 326.
The guest speaker will be Kathy Cornwell from Brass Buckle.

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER AND WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER are spon-soring a support group call at 7:30 p.m. For infor-mation, call 532-6442 or the Women's Resource

HORTICULTURE THERAPY CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in Waters 1

ASSOCIATION FOR COMPUTING MACHINERY meets to take yearbook pictures at 4:20 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets to take yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Fairchild 202. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in Union 212.

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 204

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will show the video tapes "The Interview" and "Interview Follow-up" at 3:30 p.m. in

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

SINGLE PARENT'S INTEREST GROUP meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 169. Childcare will be

NATIONAL AGRI-MARKETING ASSOCIA-TION meets to take yearbook pictures at 7 p. m. in Union 207. A program, "How to Get an Internship in Agribusiness," will follow.

TONIGHT

All drinks

Any name

Any brand

539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

WHEAT STATE AGRONOMY CLUB meets at

COLLEGIATE FFA meets at 8:30 p.m. in

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS meet at

ENGINEERING AMBASSADOR EX-

ECUTIVES meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 152 STUDENTS FOR SLATTERY meet at 7 p.m. in north parking lot. DAIRY SCIENCE CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

SOCIETY OF MANUFACTURING

ALPHA CHI SIGMA meets at 7 p.m. in Willard

orrection

Due to a reporter's error, the woman to whom Mickey Thomas was singing was incorrectly identified in Monday's Collegian. The woman's name is Victoria Lee

Ramada Inn

TUESDAY

99¢

Gin or Vodka Tonic Tom or John Collins FREE Munchies 4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

with this coupon receive all perms until Nov.1

ELECTIONS COMMITTEES

Chairperson & Members Responsibility: The equitable running of all KSU SGA elections and referendums. Students needed for the following areas of responsibility: Vicechairperson, data processing, poll workers, publicity, equipment, campaign expenditures and campaign materials. Elections will be held February 10 and 11 with a run-off election on February 18 if needed.

Applications are available in the Student Governing Association office located on the ground floor of the K-State Union and are due October 31.

For more information call the SGS office at 532-6541.

Drs. Bullock

See our newly opened Eyeglass Department and Horsch *Latest style frames

Prof. Bldg 404 Humboldt Manhattan, Ks.

Practice of Optometry *Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for ·As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lense

•Large contact lens inventory For Your Complete Eye Care Needs, Call Us

776-9461 local

1-800-432-0036 out of town

AIM HICH

AIR FORCE ENGINEERS TAKE RESPONSIBILITY NOW.

Why wait? Air Force engineers have responsibility now. Young officers manage projects from wind tunnel testing to propulsion research. Why wait for challenge? Put your gerospace, geronautical or astronautical engineering degree to work right away. Coll SSgt Blake Highland (913) 491-8657

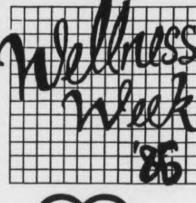

Happy 10th!

WELCOME TO LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

We're opening our doors to you come see what we're all about

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1986 9 a.m.-4 p.m. LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Tour our facility Meet our staff REGISTER FOR FREE DOOR PRIZES OPEN TO THE PUBLIC "WELLNESS WEEK '86"

5th ANNUAL HEALTH FAIR '86 WEDNESDAY October 29, 1986 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

October 27- HEALTH SCREENING:

November 1 • Blood Pressure

 Hearing Exam Physical Fitness

MUCH MORE

KSU Union — Main Ballroom HEALTH EDUCATION:

· Alcohol and Other Drugs

Health Style Analysis

Nutrition

PLUS MORE

OPTIONAL: Blood Chemistry Test

$7 - covers Lab Costs NOTE: DO NOT eat 10 hours prior to test. OPTIONAL: Flu Vaccination $6 - cost of medication

FREE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Sponsored by Lafene Health Center, KSU and Manhattan Communities.

Job market improves in health care fields

By BARRY STEFFEN Collegian Reporter

An increased job market for health care professionals and changes in the field have given students enrolled in preprofessional health programs a hopeful outlook on the future.

"Generally jobs in the health field are available," said Phoebe Samelson, pre-professional health adviser. "But in some cases jobs are changing.'

Samelson said many more home care and outpatient services are in operation and hospitals are being used primarily for intensive care and obstetrical procedures.

"Delivery is there, but the setting is changing," Samelson said. Samelson said she believes some of the best opportunities exist in the field of nursing - the largest and most diverse area of all the health professions.

She said average salaries for nurses vary between $17,000 and $19,000, depending on geographic location, shift schedule and specialization experience.

The medical and dental job markets are also good. However, Samelson said, roles are changing. In the future, there will be fewer private practices and more salaried positions financed through organizations due to increasing medical costs.

Other areas which have good job outlooks are respiratory therapy, medical records and physical and occupational therapy.

Samelson and Bettie Dale, preprofessional health adviser, give guidance to about 700 students and often coordinate closely with other departments such as chemistry or biology.

"We don't just say, 'Here are your requirements, go to it and we'll see you in a few years,"" Samelson said.

Samelson said she and Dale are able to give guidance and advice to students, provide resource material and make contacts for

"We have contacts with in-state and out-of-state health profession offices," she said, "and many representatives come to campus to interview and talk with students."

K-State students have an 80 to 100 percent acceptance rate into professional health schools depending on the specialization. Samelson said this means "students can come to K-State, do their pre-professional work and be very prepared to enter a professional school.

The department, located in Eisenhower Hall, offers preprofessional guidance in the licensed health areas of dentistry, medical records, medical technology, nursing, occupational therapy, optometry, pharmacy, physical therapy, respiratory therapy and veterinary medicine.

Insurance protects health of beef herds

By JULIE REYNOLDS Collegian Reporter

With the establishment of a health insurance program for beef cattle, humans are no longer the only creatures covered by such insurance.

The College of Veterinary Medicine started this herd health maintenance program last month, said Mark Spire, associate professor of surgery and medicine.

"We are trying to establish minimum health standards for Kansas beef herds," Spire said. "These plans should eliminate the unnecessary disease episodes we see every year coming through our diagnostic laboratory.'

There are four plans from which producers may choose for their herds, he said. The basic maintenance plan, Health Plan 1, includes vaccination, reproductive evaluation, nutritional consultation, herd record keeping and parasite control.

Health Plan 2 includes the basic maintenance plan plus diagnostic services. If a calf dies, the plan covers costs in determining the cause of death. These diagnostic services will be used, if needed, during disease outbreaks.

The full medical plan, Health Plan 3, includes all of the provisions of the second plan plus additional vaccination and medical procedures for pinkeye and footrot.

Health Plan 4, the comprehensive plan, is essentially the same as the third plan, with additional coverage for all weaning calves, up to 30 days post-weaning.

The cost, depending on which plan the producer chooses, ranges from $7.50 to $20 per breeding unit, Spire said. A breeding unit includes all reproductively sound adult females, replacement heifers and breeding

"The basic program looks at things that should be standardized, like preventative vaccination, and standardizes them," Spire said.

"We anticipate future benefits for all producers, the practicing veterinarian and the student," he said. "The program should provide information which will be helpful to build future systematic herd health programs.'

The herd health maintenance plan is intended to accomplish two goals. The first, Spire said, will get producers on a herd program. Secondly, the plan will stabilize the producers' know where their money is going.

Reproductive losses alone account for more than 60 percent of the reductions in the Kansas calf crop annually, translating into nearly $40 million, he said. "The plan can be called an insurance plan because producers are paying now and receiving services later." Spire said. Not only are producers receiving services on their cattle, but they are also receiving forage analysis, their records are being computerized and a consultant, Spire, is available for the producers if they have questions or problems.

Currently, two herds are covered by the program, Spire said. "We have three more producers looking at the plan," he said. "Our goal is not to get too big too soon," Spire said.

.

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

PICTURES of the 8 finalists will be on display for KSU students to cast their vote for 1 male & 1 female on official contest entry forms at the following location:

> Mon., Tues., Wed., Oct. 27, 28, 29 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

> > K-State Union

Winners to be announced at

KSU Rec. Complex Friday, October 31 11 p.m.-2 a.m.

For more info. call 532-6544

Countries begin observing nuclear mishap notice treaty

By The Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria - A 58-country treaty calling on nations to report nuclear accidents to their neighbors went into effect Monday, the International Atomic Energy Agency announced.

The agreement, signed Sept. 26, stems from the April 26 Chernobyl nuclear plant accident in the Soviet Union that leaked radiation across the world.

The specialized U.N. agency said the treaty became effective 30 days three nations Czechoslovakia, Denmark and Norway - agreed to abide by it.

Under agency regulations such agreements take force 30 days after at least three of the agency's 113 member nations agree to follow the treaty's provisions.

In most cases, the notification treaty must still be approved by legislatures of the signatory nations. A twin convention on outlining international aid in case of a nuclear accident is not yet in effect because only one nation, Norway, has pledged to follow it.

The notification treaty was signed by 58 countries and the assistance treaty by 57.

The United States and Soviet Union have signed both, along with Britain, France and China.

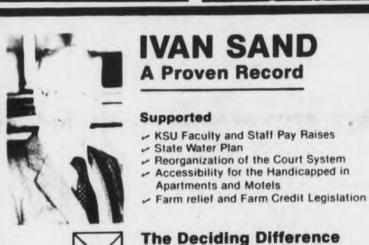

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treatsstill America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere. Try our soft-serve. 537-7079 1314 Westloop

Vista makes Halloween Vista Value Wooden Nickels are great for treats—a bag of 10 for only $1.50 a $4.00 value! They're good all year long at any Vista, for FREE Vista Creme Cones And to make the season really special, Vista has Halloween Meals for kids. A special box with a surprise inside. A real treat for a lavorite youngster. Halloween Meals Offer good while supplies last. through October 31, 1986 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

1221 Moro • Aggieville Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 537-7294

Q104 BONKERS HALLOWEEN BASH

Vote IVAN SAND

Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas

Republican Representative 66th District

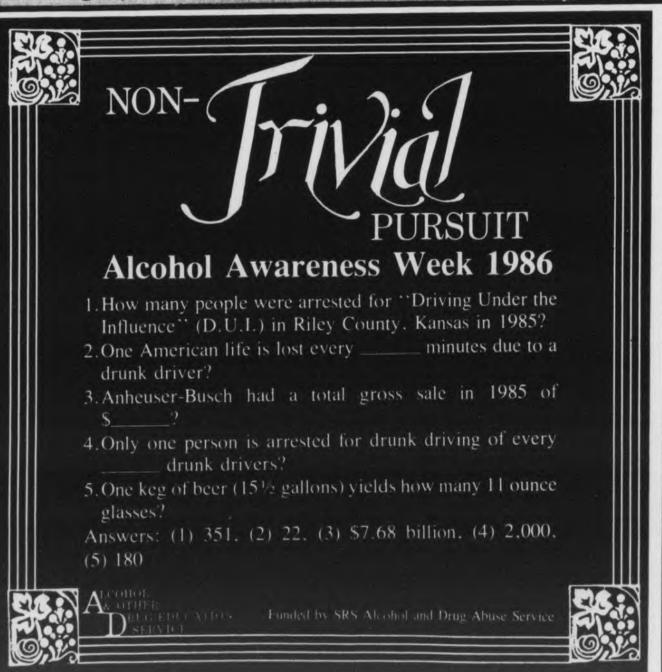

Fri., Oct 31 from 4 p.m.-3 a.m. Q104 live remote from 10 p.m.-12 a.m.

CASH PRIZES totaling $50 for best costumes & best-dressed couple

also featuring SCREAMIN' LEE & THE ROCKTONES

Photographer will be available

1216 Laramie, 537-9591

"Katha understands that at a time when our resources are limited, every dollar spent must be an investment in our future.

Katha is a concerned citizen and a tireless worker. She will represent the people of Manhattan and Riley County well."

Congressman Jim Slattery

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE IN THE 66TH DISTRICT! ELECT KATHA HURT ON NOVEMBER 4.

Pd. by the Katha Hurt Campaign, Phil Becker, treasurer

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Elcher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

South African church makes positive move

In a bold move for religious leaders, South Africa's largest nounced it no longer supports the country's apartheid system.

It is a bold move because it usually takes an act of God to get religious leaders to make an even minor change in policy, let alone a complete reversal.

Idealistic Americans will view the change in policy as a step forward in the fight against apartheid. But although a public statement reversing a former opinion may sound like a strong conviction for reform, more realistic Americans will realize the question remains to be answered.

For example, was apartheid support an open conflict between church leaders and members before the statement was made, or was it a non-issue - simply part of the unspoken church doctrine? If it was a non-issue, are leaders or members willing to make it an issue, or are they conpolicy?

Does the change in policy reflect discussion of the church Afrikaner church has publicly an- members and a decision by them to reverse church policy or was it a move by leaders who are completely ignoring the church body and its attitudes?

> If the media does its job and stays on top of this story we could get some answers. For example, if there is suddenly a mass exodus of church members from the 1.4 million strong Afrikaner church, it's a fairly good hypothesis that church leaders initiated the reversal without the blessing of their members, and leaders are making it an issue whether or not it was a non-issue before.

One striking part of the reversal is church heads no longer feel they have to support governmental policy simply because of its origin. If all churches in South Africa became openly and actively opposed to apartheid perhaps tent to let the statement fall back religious apartheid supporters into rarely vocalized church would change their views individually.

Anti-porn campaign hampers states' rights introduced an anti-pornography program Wednesday that includes creating a federal strike force and a center for obscenity prosecution.

The program focuses on sexually violent or degrading pornographic material that depicts sadomasochism, bestiality, rape fantasies and children having Obscenity is usually handled on the state level. Each state outlines its own obscenity prosecution programs.

One point of Meese's program is to have a task force that will train local, state and federal prosecutors in obscenity law and assist U.S. attorneys in prosecuting obscenity cases.

The program states that local U.S. attorneys, not the strike force, will decide which pornography cases to investigate and bring before a jury.

However, states' rights are being overridden by allowing a national task force to outline the rules of obscenity and train all better program.

Attorney General Edwin Meese prosecuters according to one set of ideas.

The grip could tighten further because of another point in Meese's program. Each state's U.S. attorney's office will have at least one expert on obscenity prosecution in the three areas for which the federal government is directly responsible - international trafficking of sexually explicit materials, interstate transfer of "adult" materials and organized crime's involvement in the multi-billion-dollar pornography industry.

The proposal would intervene in the state's judicial process. Pornography may be a problem in the United States, but nationalizing how each state handles the problem is taking away the state's right to handle cases through its own judicial system.

Working with state and local law enforcement agencies in their anti-pornography efforts without telling them what to do and how to think would create a

ollegiam Editorial

Public wants U.S. deficit reduction

Lawmakers in Washington, D.C., may be putting the fight against the nation's drug problem in the spotlight this election year, but the American public is still concerned with an old-time campaign favorite - the federal deficit.

A recent U.S. News & World Report/Cable News Network poll showed that 64 percent of the public regards cutting the federal deficit as extremely important, and more than 90 percent view it as being fairly important. Despite this large concern, when Congress adjourned a week and a half ago, it left the matter unresolved.

States have been working to resolve the problem. As of 1983, 31 states had passed resolutions calling for a constitutional convention to enact an amendment requiring the federal government to balance its budget. If three more states pass similar resolutions, Congress will have to call a convention as the Constitution requires.

With opinion polls showing that more than three-fourths of the public favored a balanced-budget amendment, the Senate Judiciary Committee in early 1981 approved a proposed amendment that stated, "Prior to each fiscal year, the Congress shall adopt a statement of receipts and outlays for that year in which total outlays are no greater than total receipts...Whenever three-fifths of the whole number of both Houses shall deem it necessary, Congress in such statement may provide for a specific excess of outlays over receipts..." The proposal also includes provisions preventing Congress from making estimated receipts artificially high to legally maintain excessive spending. The amendment also places a permanent ceiling on the public debt (the accumulated debt from annual deficits) that can only be chang-

NORDHUS Collegian Columnist

ed with three-fifths approval of both sectors

Unlike Gramm-Rudman, this amendment does not force the government to balance the budget; the three-fifths vote necessary to run a budget deficit is much like the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto or ratify a treaty - it requires a larger concensus. Furthermore, if unexpected circumstances occur that cause federal receipts to be lower than expected, such as a recession, then a deficit would not be in violation of the amendment.

Another merit of the amendment is that it emphasizes the necessity of cutting spending because it limits the amount that federal receipts can increase. Therefore, Congress can't balance the budget at the taxpayers' expense. It must reduce spending by eliminating waste and limiting special in-

Battling the federal deficit should not stop with this proposal, but should continue by giving the president the item veto as suggested by the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, more commonly known as the "Grace Commission."

Because bills sent to the president must be either approved or vetoed in whole, members of Congress are able to attach "pork barrel" programs that were never requested or that the president opposes to a bill that is otherwise supported and needed. Harry S. Truman called this "legislative blackmail" because the president either has to accept the pork barrel or veto the entire bill and bring all the agencies and programs involved in the rest of the measure to a halt. As a result, presidents sign the bills and accept the pork barreling. In cases such as this, veto power is rendered useless.

Tuesday, October 28, 1986 - 4

With the item veto, the president is able to delete unrelated and unnecessary programs from pieces of legislation without having to veto the entire measure. If Congress doesn't approve of the item vetoes, it still has the privilege of overriding them. Therefore, the balance of power between Congress and the president is not sacrificed, but enhanced.

The reason members of Congress use pork barrels is understandable. As Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, explained, "Every time you vote on every issue, all the people who want the program are looking over your right shoulder and nobody's looking over your left shoulder." With that in mind, the item veto will make congressional members' jobs easier because they can continue to legislate pork barreling programs to please their constituents. When the president item vetoes their pet programs, they will be off the hook for not bringing extra federal money to their constituency.

The item veto is not a new and untried idea. Forty-three states, including Kansas, confer this privilege to their governor. In addition, a 1979 Gallup poll found the idea popular, with 70 percent of the American public favoring item veto power for the presi-

Relocation of Indians unjustifiable

The Indians didn't think this up, we did. That is the Whiteman's burden.

-John Collier Director of Indian Affairs 1934-47

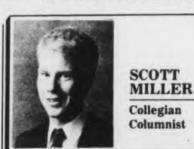

The Coalition for Human Rights is showing the 1985 Academy Award winning documentary "Broken Rainbow," at 7:30 tonight in Kedzie 106. The film depicts the plight of the Navaho and Hopi Indians of Big Mountain Reservation in northeastern Arizona where the federal government is forcibly removing more than 10,000 Navajos from land the Indians have occupied for generations.

The relocation is part of Public Law 93-531, the Navajo-Hopi Land Settlement Act, which Congress passed in 1974 to settle what it thought was a land dispute between the two tribes over the Joint Use Area of Big Moun-

Never mind that in March 1985, the House Appropriations Committee expressed severe doubts about successfully relocating the Indians. Never mind that a Navajo Tribal Commission study found the land to which the Navajos must move can support no more than 20 percent of the Indians. Never mind that the Navajo religion and culture are intrinsically tied to the land. That is not important - money is.

Various utility companies have sought leasing rights to the JUA since 1922 when Standard Oil Co. discovered oil there. At the time, the Navajo tribal elders voted 75-0 against leasing to Standard Oil. The Bureau of Indian Affairs immediately decided the Navajos needed a new government and the following year created the Navajo Tribal Council against strong protest from the Navajos. The council consisted of three members - all hand-picked by the BIA and all of whom signed the lease proposal from Standard Oil.

The Hopi Tribal Council was established in similar fashion in 1934. Due to a massive boycott, however, it collapsed in 1943 - only to be re-established in 1951 after oil and coal were discovered on Hopi land. John Boyden, a former legal adviser for the Peabody Coal Co., was named general counsel of the Hopi

It was no surprise in 1966 when Boyden signed away strip-mining rights to the Peabody Co. (The Navajo Tribal Council, acting against the wishes of the Navajos, had signed away partial mining rights two years earlier.)

After filing a number of appeals, the Supreme Court ruled that Hopi traditionalists had no right to sue their government, even though that government was never popularly elected. The affair gave the Peabody Co. 2 billion tons of coal and fattened the pockets of members of the tribal coun-

When uranium was discovered at Big Mountain in the late 1940s, the Hopi and Navajo tribal councils fought each other for exclusive leasing rights. The tribes' members fought any efforts to lease the land and the utility companies grew impatient over the stalled progress. The utility companies hired a public relations firm to fabricate a range war between the two tribes. The firm created evidence such as burnt corrals and shot-up livestock tanks, then brought reporters onto the reservation to publicize the fictitious land dispute.

In 1972, an Arizona district court ordered a 90 percent Navajo livestock reduction to allow the Hopis to use one-half of the JUA. This succeeded in starving many Navajos off their land. Due to another court order, which barred the Navajos from all construction, repairs and improvements, they have been unable to build or repair homes, schools, health facilities and roads for the last 14

But the "divide and conquer" tactics didn't come of age until 1974 when Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., sponsored a bill, which later became PL 93-531. It required the JUA to be divided by a barbed-wire fence. Those Hopis living on the Navajo side (about 100) were soon relocated while the government is still struggling with the estimated 10,000 Navajos living on Hopi land. There have been incidents of violent resistance and many Navajos have vowed to die before leaving their homes at Big Mountain.

In 1981, the House Appropriations Committee concluded, "No amount of counseling would enable (the Navajos) to adjust successfully to urban life." As Pauline Whitesinger, a traditionalist Navajo of Big Mountain has said, "In our traditional tongue there is no word for relocation.'

The Fourth Bertrand Russell Tribunal on Rights of Indians in the Americas declared that the relocation efforts violate Article II of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide. They also violate the Americas Convention on Human Rights, the U.N. Universal Declaration of Human Rights and numerous other documents of internationally recognized law.

The Navajos are not the only losers though. With their Tribal Council's acquisition of exclusive leasing rights of the JUA, the Hopis can expect to lose more land to uranium companies and strip mines than they ever lost to Navajo livestock encroachment.

That explains the statement of support for the Navajos, which the Hopis issued in 1979. That expains why the the Hopi traditional leaders formally protested every step made by their tribal council toward partitioning the JUA. That also explains why Hopi elders at a 1981 Tribal Council meeting spoke of their solidarity with the Navajos in a common struggle against the Hopi Tribal Coun-

It doesn't explain why Congress persists in justifying the forcible relocation of more than 10,000 Americans with fabricated evidence of a land dispute that never existed. Perhaps Kansas' own Sen. Bob Dole could explain that. After all, he has consistently supported the relocation plans. Why not write him a letter, or if you don't have time, send him a copy of this column.

Bad greek attitude

We are writing in regard to the attitudes and actions of the 1986 Homecoming week. We represent the feelings of many in the greek system in expressing utmost disappointment in the behavior of the greeks throughout the past week. If this is a reflection of the greek system, then we are in a sad state. At K-State we boast of our strong greek system; however, the past week portrays anything but this.

The purpose of Homecoming week is to foster spirit and pride among students. The competition among living groups is designed to unite students while improving relations among living groups. Greeks, unfortunately, have become misguided. Rather than rallying behind the 'Cats, certain greeks have chosen to rally against one another. Healthy competition is one thing; hostility directed toward specific houses is another. Is it necessary for houses to express their frustrations through personals, chants and false accusations? Must they justify their lack of success through these means? We would expect more mature behavior from college students.

The theme for this year's Homecoming was "Purple Pride...the K-State Tradition. We hope that the atmosphere of the past week does not become a tradition, for it does not boost pride - it is detrimental to it.

Congratulations to the winners of this year's Homecoming competition. You deserve respect, not resentment. We hope that next year's competition during Homecoming week brings unity and not hostility among living groups

Lori Shellenberger junior in political science and one other

Congratulations, 'Cats

It was with some disbelief, a bit of shock and a touch of horror I read of the rampaging Wildcats amok in Aggieville following the triumph over the Jayhawks - but, oh my, I wish I could have been there, too! As we said in the old days, "Every man a Wildcat!"

Floyd Jack Eureka, Calif.

Aerobics at Rec Complex keeps devotees alive and kicking

Megan Eubanks, sophomore in finance, leads her class in a workout Monday to the sounds of top-10 music. Many students and faculty participate in aerobics, working out at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

By SCOTT ROBERTS Collegian Reporter

Richard Simmons and Jane Fonda aren't the only ones doing aerobic exercises these days.

Students, faculty and staff members at K-State are joining the ranks of millions who have decided to overcome the inevitable "battle of the bulge."

This craze of the '80s has made its welcomed arrival at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex, and people are loving it.

On a daily basis, these individuals embark on a 45 minute period of total exercise and dance.

'Aerobics should be enjoyable and fun, because you are here to have fun while working out," said Robin Reiff, sophomore in exercise science and sports instructor at the Rec Com-

"Aerobic activity is beneficial in many ways. It helps you to mentally feel good about yourself, because you are simply aware you are bettering yourself.

She said the primary benefits of aerobic exercise are that it strengthens the cardiovascular system and develops and tones the muscle groups within the body.

Basically any type of physical activity done over a period of 10 minutes or more, that includes an interval period of rest, can be labeled as aerobic activity. The key to success in participating in aerobics is finding a level of physical competence without overexertion of the

"I never thought it would help me, but I found out aerobic exercise is very beneficial," said Barb Masterson, junior in business administra-

Masterson said when she finishes her workout and goes home to study, she is more able to concentrate on her homework because her mind is clear and relaxed.

Throughout the uprising of the aerobic exercise revolution, a stigma has been established that shuns men from participation. Many men feel they must sustain a image that requires them to disassociate with this form of exercise.

And, in turn, many men view aerobics as a women's sport, so they refrain from participating because they don't want to be viewed as feminine.

Despite this negative association between men and aerobics, Jay Carlgren, junior in business administration feels differently.

"Sometimes I feel extremely silly and weird out here, but the benefits outweigh the negativism," Carlgren said. "I have been coming to the Rec almost everyday doing aerobics, and I feel good because I am bettering myself.' Megan Eubanks, sophomore in finance and aerobics instructor at the Rec Center said, "I wish more men would come out and participate in aerobics. Aerobics is not a program solely pegged for women. Aerobics is hard work, healthy for

BATHA

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign.

Phil Becker, Treasurer.

both men and women and most of all, it is a lot of fun."

She said her workouts are choreographed with contemporary, Aggieville bar music. From the Beatles' 1964 favorite "I Wanna Hold Your Hand" to the Top-40 sounds of the recording group Bananarama, she said good rock music increases the overall effectiveness of her pro-

Her program begins with a five minute warm-up session, including upper- and lower-body strengthen-

The next 25 to 30 minutes is spent on actual aerobic activity Eubanks said. This includes improvised jogging movements, side-to-side stretching, kicking and twisting exercises and knee lifts.

"We try to stay in motion at a steady pace for the 25 minutes or duration of the workout because if you stop before time, energy doesn't get burned off," she said.

After the initial aerobic activity, Eubanks begins with floorwork activities. This part of the workout is designed to tone the various muscle groups in the body. The cool-down period begins with slow strengthening to lower the heart rate back to its normal pressure.

Buy a large single topping pizza & receive 3 med. drinks FREE COUPON

Good Tuesdays Only

FREE DELIVERY FirstBank Center

776-0004

$2.18

WITH

CHEESE

American

Swiss

CHEESE

Tonight $2 Pitchers 50¢ Draws Tomorrow

One night only

"CINEMA" featuring former members of Dogs?

Friday Night

Halloween Party with Free T.G.I.F. sandwich bar

TRY OUR NEW DOUBLE DECKER

WITH YOUR CHOICE

Ketchup, Mustard, Pickles, Onions, Lettuce, Mayo, & Tomato

Open 7 days a week 22 0

Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

Marie's Costumes

Rental Costumes for all occasions Ball Gowns-Tuxedos Wedding Gowns

Parking in Rear 1631 Humboldt

New Hours: Mon.-Sat. 10-6, Thurs. til 9, Sun. 1-5

539-5200

THE DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER LECTURE

"Eisenhower and the American Dream"

presented by JOHN KEEGAN

Defense Correspondent, Daily Telegraph, London and author of The Face of Battle.

> Forum Hall, K-State Union Tonight at 8 p.m. Sponsored by the Department of History

Summer's over!

but those great looking lights the sun put in your hair don't have to end - we can add a little or a lot or touch up the ones you have -

Call for your personal appt.

Alicia & Company

2805 Claflin Open Mon.

537-9825

Evenings by appt.

Watch for the Winter 1987 Intersession Course Listing in the November 3rd Collegian!

- Intersession is January 2-13, 1987, and offers 37 credit courses in a wide variety of departments for both undergraduate and graduate credit.
- Registration for Intersession will be at Farrell Library December 8-10.
- -Complete information will be published in the November 3 Collegian.

Watch For It!

(For more information call the Division of Continuing Education, 532-5566)

Division of Continuing Education Kansas State University

KSU KANBAS STATE

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

will inaugurate Jon Wefald as its twelfth president

2 p.m. THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1986 McCAIN AUDITORIUM

> Faculty Assemble at 1:15 p.m.

Don't get snowed. Be safe on the road

C&M AUTO SUPPLY, INC.

Parts • Supplies • Equipment Over 30,000 Top Brand Items In Stock

Belts • Hoses

Engine Heaters • Anti-Freeze (present coupon prior to order)

Open Mon.-Sat. 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Closed Sunday

305 S. 4th

Expires 11/30/86

776-4747

ALAN CLARK BODY SHOP INC.

SINCE 1967

COMPLETE BODY REPAIR ESTIMATES

INSURANCE CLAIMS WELCOME

776-5333 501 South Highway 177

NOW IS THE TIME!

Frank's Phillips 66 Welcomes You

Your car's winter needs: * anti-freeze

* snow tires

★ battery checked

* complete tune up * professional mechanics on duty Frank Nelson

* windshield washer solvent

1629 Poyntz

Ph. 537-2480

CHUCK'S CAR WASH

Does Your Car Wash Offer These Services?

- Foaming Brush
- Super Soak
- Hot Wax
- Tire Cleaner
- •$1 & $5 Change Machine
- OWNER ON DUTY
- Aggieville Location
- Towel Vendor
- S.O.S. Pad Vendor
- Bright Lighting at Night
- 4 Easy To Use Vacuums

OPEN 24 HOURS

"Quality Care for Your Car"

CHUCK'S CAR WASH

1207 Bluemont

539-6407

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK (813) 537-0644

GREEN LIGHT AUTO PARTS

2049 Fort Riley Boulevard Manhattan, Kansas 66502

GREEN LIGHT

FOR ALL FOR AL you need Generals.

radials - one of General's finest all weather steel belted tires. Ameri * Way XT is a premium product, designed for long fuel-saving mileage, and built to carry you smoothly all this year and many t XT now at special

P225/75R15 P235/75R15

Lube Oil and Filter Change

Includes: Drain CrankCase and re-fill with up to 5 quarts of a major brand Multi-Grade oil, install a new oil filter and a 20 point check and lubrication. PLEASE CALL FOR APPOINTMENT.

Service

2925 Claflin In Westloop Center 539-6431 Offer expires November 1, 1986

Autumn Service Special

COOLING SYSTEM POWER FLUSH

Includes up to 2 gallons of anti-freeze and flush kit for only $49.95! (with coupon) Hurry!! Offer ends Nov. 30, 1986!!

MURDOCK Manhattan

Winter Preparation Specials. Sale Prices Good Until Nov. 15, 1986

College Student

Front end wheel alignment and front wheel balance.

Sears price $19.99 We'll check caster, camber and toe and set all adjustable angles to manufacturer's specifications. No extra charge for torsion bar adjustment. Includes free tire and suspension system inspection.

RoadHandler Alignment Agreement. We'll inspect and align your wheels for as long as you own your car. Ask for details. Reg.

Cooling system power flush

Avoid engine overheating and corrosion problems. We'll power flush your entire cooling system for year-round protection. Anti-freeze and clamps are extra.

Sears price $24.99

Oil and filter change

We'll install up to 5 quarts of Spectrum motor oil and a new Sears Trapper oil filter. Come in to Sears Tire and Auto

Sears price $9.99

Sears Auto Center

Don't get snowed Be safe on the road

AUTO

offer good through 11/30/86

Don't let Old Man Winter

put a chill in your car . .

Here at Dick Edwards, We offer a full line of Fords,

Lincolns, Mercurys and the largest selection of used

Open Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-8 p.m.,

Sat. 8:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

the most advanced service and body shops in the area.

Mon.-Fri. 7 a.m.-5 p.m. Shuttle service offered to and from Manhattan.

Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

A large parts department to accommodate your needs.

Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.,

Sat. 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

A full line of Rental Units

Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

IDICKI

Located 2 miles east of Manhattan on Hwy. 24

We also offer a full service dealership, with one of

Tune-Ups Brake Service

Call 776-8560

cars and trucks in the area.

Truck Repairs

- Complete Engine Overhaul •Generator Starter Service
- Transmissions

 Shock Absorbers Auto Air Conditioning

Manhattan

- Call – 776-5110 if no answer call 776-8759

AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE

SINCE 1954

OWNER TOM EKART

we service all makes of cars

GOODSON AUTO TRIM

Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery

- Tailor Made Seat Covers
- Boat Covers
- Tanneau Covers
- Convertible Tops
- Vinyl Tops
- We Now Do Window Tinting!

201 Sarber Lane (behind Wal-Mart)

Phone 776-7679

Res. 776-7614

NOW OPEN!

Jeff Schroeder, former manager of Manhattan Midas, along with Dave Seitz, have opened a new shop to serve you.

STAGG HILL MUFFLER & BRAKE

Sky-Vue Lane (Across from Manhattan Holidome)

WE STAND IN FRONT OF OUR BRAKE JOBS!®

AUDI

MERCEDES

* Mufflers

* Brakes

* Shocks and Struts

ALL CARRY A NATIONAL LIFETIME GUARANTEE

* FOR SERVICE, QUALITY & PRICE, WE CAN'T BE BEAT.

JIM ROSE Rose 776-8955 Muffler House

"Our Business Is Exhausting"

700 North Third St. Manhattan, Ks. 66502

com Car Clinic Inc.

"WE CARE ABOUT YOU & YOUR CAR" SPECIALIZING IN FOREIGN & DOMESTIC

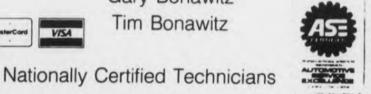

- ★ Fuel Injection Service
- ★ Auto Tune-ups
- ★ Electrical Repairs
- ★ Heater & Air Conditioner Service
- ★ Automatic Transmission Service
- ★ Diesel Engine Service
- ★ Computer Engine Analysis

214 Colorado

539-1040

Tony Ekart Gary Bonawitz

Tim Bonawitz

TOYOTA

TRIUMPH

VOLVO

IMPORT CAR INC. PARTS & SERVICE

COMPLETE LINE OF FOREIGN PARTS

EXPERT MECHANICS ON DUTY (Manhattan Only)

Call 539-0577

315 S. 3rd 8-5:30 Mon.-Fri. Sat. 9-1 In Junction City Call 238-1880

PORSCHE

MAZDA

TOYOTA

MG

P AUTO WASH

"Finished Like New & Safe Too!" "You Don't Leave Your Car,"

Automatic Car Wash—All Shammy Cloth We Clean Cars, Pick Up Trucks & Vans Under 3 Minutes

OPEN EVERY DAY "Except When Raining"

Mon.-Sat. 8 a.m.-6 p.m. • Sun. 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

PROTECT YOUR CAR WITH:

- BASIC CAR WASH (Includes Bug Removal, White Walls & Towel Dry)
- HOT WAX (Nice Coat of Hot Applied Protective Wax)
- POLISH WAX
- (Foam Applied, High Lustre, Very Durable Commercial Wax)
- UNDERBODY WASH & ANTI-RUST

APPLICATION

WITH Purchase of Polish Wax

Regular $6.50 value for $3.25 Not Valid With Any Other Specials Expires Nov. 10, 1986

LOCATED IN VILLAGE PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER ACROSS FROM ALCO

Let our diagnostic computer help get your car ready for cold weather.

The best way to get your car ready for the cold months ahead is to have it tested on our Allen Smart Engine Analyzer.™ Advanced computer technology enables it to pinpoint problems in the engine systems . . . even indicate which parts need replacement or repair. You'll receive, free of charge, an easy-to-understand computer printout on the condition of your car.

Make an appointment for your "get ready for cold weather tune-up."

Parkside Conoco and U-Haul

1026 Poyntz Manhattan, KS (913) 537-1201

When it comes to your car's performance ... Allen does make a difference!

New York Mets knock 'Sox' off Boston, 8-5

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Ray Knight ignited a three-run rally in the seventh inning with a home run, climaxing another New York comeback and sending the Mets to their second World Series championship with a 8-5 victory Monday night over the Boston Red Sox.

The Mets scored three runs in the Hernandez, to chase two-game Series winner Bruce Hurst and tie the score 3-3. Then Knight led off the seventh with a homer to left-center that started the Mets to their first World Series title since 1969. Hernandez capped the inning with a sacrifice fly for a 6-3 lead.

The Mets still had one last obstacle to overcome as the Red Sox rallied sixth inning, two on a single by Keith for two runs in the eighth and had the for only the fourth time this season, tying run on second base with no one

> But Jesse Orosco came out of the bullpen and got Rich Gedman on a line drive to second, struck out Dave Henderson and got pinch-hitter Don Baylor to ground out to short.

Darryl Strawberry led off the eighth with a homer off Boston reliever Al Nipper. Orosco, batting singled in Knight with the eighth New York run.

Winners of major league-leading 108 games during the season, the big question about the Mets was how they would hold up under pressure. They had never been tested.

But they won their third National League pennant in a tense six-game playoff with Houston, culminating in history, a 7-6, 16-inning victory in the Astrodome.

Then, after losing the first two games of the World Series at home, they became only the second team in World Series history to come back to win. The only other team to do it was last year's Kansas City Royals. The Red Sox came back with Hurst on three days' rest, taking advantage of a rainout of Game 7 on Sunday night. It was a gamble because Red Sox Manager John McNamara had said Hurst didn't pitch well on three days' rest. In his only other appearance this season on three days' rest, he worked six innings and gave up three runs on seven hits in Game 5 of the American League playoffs.

The Red Sox won that game 7-6 in

By JEFF RAPP Collegian Reporter There are two All-American players on K-State's rugby club, but

Gregg Barnes and Dave Todd care more about the team concept than any individual honors they have only being a good team on the field, but for being a good host team.

There's really a fraternal atmosphere about rugby," Barnes

Barnes and Todd were voted by

Rugby Magazine to the alltournament team at the Western Regionals last year. Barnes added that because the 'Cats took second in the tourney and didn't advance to the final four, the two were voted to the honorable mention All-

That's all the duo cared to comment about the All-American honors. They wanted to talk about the team which currently is ranked

No. 2 in the Western Region and sport, because you can't do well without a whole team working together. You can be Earl Campbell standing out there on the end of the line, but if they don't get the ball to you, you can't run with it," Todd

Rugby, a little-recognized sport at K-State, is the world's second most-watched sport behind soccer,

He said many exceptional athletes either do not stay with rugby once they've played it, or they don't try it at all, and that could be the reason the game is so

Being a respected rugby organization takes more than play-

"Rugby is an ultimate team eighth nationally, Todd said.

"Teams get the reputation for not received.

American list.

Barnes said.

team oriented.

Fans react differently to Game 7

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - An ecstatic crowd at Shea Stadium celebrated the Mets' second World Series title in a raucous fashion Monday night although mounted police kept the carousers from taking the field.

Boston Red Sox fans, crushed as their team went down to defeat to the New York Mets in the seventh and deciding game of the 1986 World Series, cheered right up to the final

When Jesse Orosco struck out Dave Henderson and the center field clock registered 11:26 p.m., scores of New York City police officers on and off horseback raced to the field to prevent a recurrence of the vandalism that occurred after the Mets won the National League East championship on Sept. 17.

One fan made it to second base, but police apprehended him quickly.

There was some unruly behavior. After Ray Knight's home run several young fans sprayed the left field bleachers with beer. And in the ninth inning, someone threw a red smoke bomb onto the field, delaying the game's conclusion for a few moments.

But for the most part, the crowd was merely noisy.

Back at Boston, some Sox fans still remained faithful to their team.

"They've been working hard for too long," William Bladd, 23, a law student from Lexington, said moments before the game ended. "I love them, even if they lose.'

Bladd was among the crowd of 250 that filled the Dockside Bar and Restaurant in Boston near historic Faneuil Hall to watch the game televised from Shea Stadium in New

The Red Sox were scheduled to arrive shortly before 2 a.m. at Logan Airport on a charter flight from New York. However officials of the Massachusetts Port Authority, operator of the airport, closed off the team's arrival area to the public.

All-Americans shun personal prizes

Staff/Robert Squires

Two members of the K-State rugby club, Gregg Barnes and Dave Todd, were selected by Rugby Magazine as All-Americans last year. Todd holds the trophy ball from the Western Regional Tournament at which K-State took second place. Currently, the team ranks eighth nationally.

ing well. A team must also be a good host to visiting teams. 'Teams get the reputation for not only being a good team on the field, but for being a good host team. There's really a fraternal atmosphere about rugby.

Soccer teams go 1-1; crew wins at Lincoln

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's crew and both the men's and women's soccer teams were involved in competition Saturday and Sunday. The men's soccer team competed against Wichita State at Wichita while the women played Avila College at Kansas City, Mo., and the crew team participated in a regatta at Lincoln, Neb.

The K-State senior crew members took part in the University of Nebraska at Lincoln Fall Regatta and came away with two gold medals.

In the men's heavyweight varsity four division, K-State defeated Wichita State by 2.7 seconds in the final race. Team members were Jeff Bushey, Brad Johnson, Eric Osmon, Bill Heimke and William

And in the men's open heavyweight single division, Bushey defeated Washburn University's coach Mike Fountain - a nationally ranked sculler by 1.3 seconds for the gold medal.

It was just one of those days when nothing went right as the men's soccer team was defeated 3-1 by Wichita State. Doug Rendleman scored the lone goal for K-State, now 8-3.

K-State will host Topeka United Sunday.

The women's soccer team took an easy 12-0 decision from Avila College in Kansas City. Shelly Healy paced the Wildcats with six goals for an unusual double hat trick, and Julie Finel added a hat trick for K-State.

Coaches praise Buffaloes' upset victory

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Notes and from Monday's quotes teleconference with Big Eight football coaches: Colorado Coach Bill McCartney is making no effort to be blase about his team's 20-10 victory over Nebraska. And neither is Kansas State Coach Stan Parrish.

Said McCartney: "It's the most satisfying victory I've ever been associated with as a player, coach or head coach.

Said Parrish: "I think our whole league ought to tip their hats to their performance. It was a great win." Parrish noted that two years ago Colorado was 1-10, the same as Kansas State a year ago. "I think it's great for all of us in the position we're in," he said. "Colorado a couple of seasons back was in the very lowest depths they had ever sunk to. To bring the program back and spring an upset like that....when a group can rise up Oklahoma assistant wasn't surprised against all odds and perform like | here," he said. "It certainly will go that, it's something special. Not just for Colorado, but for all college football. It gives up to everybody.

Coming on the heels of an 0-4 start, the victory gave the Buffaloes a 3-0 Big Eight mark. If they can win at Oklahoma State this week and dispose of Kansas at home the following week, they will be undefeated in the Big Eight when they host Oklahoma in the next-to-last regular season game.

"When you take everything into consideration, how many big-play athletes Nebraska has, the size and strength of their up-front people....it's the greatest defensive performance I ever was associated with," McCartney said.

He added he spent Saturday night at home simply savoring the victory. "I stayed home and just focused on what has taken place since I've been down in the history of Colorado football as a real cherished moment."

A lot of fans may have been shocked at Colorado's victory, but not many coaches were. Oklahoma assistant head coach Merv Johnson noted the Buffs' non-conference opponents included Arizona and Ohio

"We've had good respect for Colorado for what they did last year,' Johnson said. "If they had had the non-conference schedule that some of the Big Eight teams have had, they might be an undefeated football team right now."

"It's sure been a good thing for the goalpost salesmen around the country," Husker Coach Tom Osborne observed with a wry chuckle. "I guess it's been a cause for celebration when they beat Nebraska. We've had a lot of good years and a lot of success. At this point we can just congratulate Colorado on a fine job and hope to do better."

It was not a lack of effort that did the Huskers in, Osborne said.

"We played hard. We had seen films and we know that they had played awfully well against Ohio State and Arizona but just didn't win those games. They played very well and we came up a little short. The had a couple of big plays offensively. The result was, they won.'

Missouri's victory over Kansas State Saturday was probably almost as satisfying to Coach Woody Widenhofer as Colorado's upset was to McCartney.

"It seemed like we ran to the ball better and tackled better and did a lot of things better," said Widenhofer of his second victory of the year and third in more than one and a half seasons. The victory was costly, however, in that senior defensive lineman Dick Chapura went out with a badly sprained ankle.

Arbitrator kills Commissioner Rozelle's scheme to randomly test NFL's athletes for drug usage

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - An arbitrator on Monday struck down NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle's plan to randomly test all players twice for drugs during the regular season.

Arbitrator Richard Kasher of Philadelphia ruled that Rozelle's plan conflicted with the league's bargaining agreement with the NFL Players Association, which expires in August 1987. Rozelle's edict last July, following the cocaine-related deaths of Cleveland Browns safety Don Rogers and University of Maryland basketball star Len Bias, would have made the NFL the only professional sports league to require mandatory random drug testing for all players.

But Kasher noted that the 1982 collective bargaining agreement with the players addressed the drug issue by calling for a preseason test of all players as well as individual tests when club physicians suspect a particular player of drug dependency.

"Accordingly," Kasher wrote in his 78-page ruling, "we conclude that the part of Commissioner Rozelle's augmented drug program, which establishes unscheduled testing, is in conflict with the specific provisions" of the contract "and is therefore superceded" by the agreement. Rozelle's plan had been held in abeyance for Kasher's ruling, the second victory on the drug issue for the players association within a week.

that nearly 200 players were improperly fined for refusing drug tests

Gene Upshaw, executive director of the players association, called Kasher's decision "a victory for collective bargaining. It reaffirms the agreement we made in 1982 and says that changes in what we agreed to then cannot be made unless the union agrees to them. It confirms that the clubs cannot have Rozelle do independently what they cannot do themselves under the agreement.

"We're not trying to protect drug users," Upshaw said. "The players recognize they have a responsibility both on the field and off. But they Another arbitrator ruled last week also have rights, and it is our obligation to protect those rights."

> Kasher upheld other elements of Rozelle's anti-drug program, including the designation of Dr. Forest Tennant to head an educational drive within the league.

The arbitrator also ruled that the NFL could conduct urinalysis tests of draft-eligible players in the annual February tryouts of college seniors, since they are not covered by the collective bargaining agreement.

In a statement issued by the NFL, Rozelle said he was "convinced that minimal unscheduled drug testing is a necessary part of any fully effective league-wide anti-drug

Sports Letter

Coaches' problems

Editor,

Re: Tom Morris' article, "Role of women is declining as coaches, administrators," in the Oct. 21 Col-

I was astounded a few years ago to hear a male football coach say, after he was given additional duties as a women's coach, that he was surprised to learn that women were com-

Perhaps male coaches' knowledge of women has grown since then. If not, then women's sports are in real trouble. If male coaches don't understand the players, how can they expect to do their best as

Maybe, as (women's basketball coach) Matilda Mossman suggested, "if you're a male, and you want to nurture the male ego, then wouldn't you naturally want to coach men unless you can't get a job coaching men?"

As a former athlete, I could have assured the football coach that women who are good enough to make the team are going to want to win. And that takes a strong competitive spirit, whether you're a man or a woman.

Are women being cheated by the increase in the number of male coaches, some of whom might fail to recognize women's needs and/or capabilities as readily as a female coach?

Carolee Stark News Editor College of Engineering

Planned volume to highlight best of Landon Lecture series Classifieds

By The Collegian Staff

Friends of the Library, an organization on campus promoting libraries, has plans to publish a volume on past Landon Lecture Series speakers.

Charles Reagan, assistant to University President Jon Wefald, and William Richter, head of the Department of Political Science, are the editors of the project. They will decide on 10 to 20 past lectures to be part of the volume, said Eugene Kremer, president of Friends of the Library and professor of architecture.

The lecture series was inaugurated in 1966 by former University President James A. McCain as a tribute to Alfred M. Landon. Landon was governor of Kansas from 1934 to 1936 and Republican Party nominee for president of the United States in 1936. The volume, which does not have an official name yet, is being put together for the Landon's 100th birthday in September 1987. The publication will not only have photographs and copies of the past lectures, but it will also include biographies of the speakers and commentaries about their lecture. This will also be constructed by Reagan and Richter, Kremer said.

Patricia Weisenberger, librarian at the Weigel Library in Seaton Hall, said Friends of the Library was formed at K-State three years ago. It helps in fund-raising and in contacting people or libraries for valuable items, Weisenberger said.

Weisenberger is the project manager for the publication of the Landon Lectures. She is in charge of the mechanics of the publication, which includes the administrative work and working with the printer and designer, Kremer said.

Plans are to have the volume ready for the printer by mid-February and have it printed by July 15. This way there will have enough time to have the volume ready for the public by September, Kremer Kremer said this is the second volume the Friends of the Library has put out. The first was on former K-State President Milton Eisenhower.

Virginia Quiring, associate dean of public services, was the editor of the Eisenhower volume, which included collections of nine essays by people who knew him at K-State. It was published in two editions, a paperback and a slip-cased book.

Expert says liquor issue's support rests on reaction to previous limits

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - A backlash against Kansas' prohibitionary past is primarily responsible for widespread support for a proposed constitutional amendment to legalize public liquor by the drink, a university history specialist said Monday.

Robert S. Bader, author of a recently published book called "Prohibition In Kansas: A History," said because of "the long shadow of prohibition," responsible drinkers in the state can't seem to reconcile themselves to vote against most proposals to liberalize liquor laws.

Bader, a history research associate at the University of Kansas and an adjunct professor of history at Kansas State University, said many people who support liquor by the drink also have social concerns about poverty, civil rights, apartheid, spouse and child abuse, environmental protection and nuclear

"But sane and sensible liquor control is opposed and alcohol abuse ignored because these same citizens believe, incorrectly, that this is the domain of the irrational, blue-nosed puritanical crank," Bader said.

The professor made the remarks during a news conference arranged by I Love Kansas Inc., the campaign organization of opponents of liquor and gambling propositions on the November general election ballot.

Bader said his research on prohibition, which ended in Kansas in 1948, led him to change his position on liquor issues "180 degrees" to support existing liquor controls.

Kansans have learned that prohibition is a failed institution and should not seriously be considered as a future policy, Bader said. However, another lesson from prohibition is that alcohol consumption and abuse can be effectively contained by control strategies goverining the price and availability of liquor.

'This lesson we have learned hardly at all, adopting instead unnecessarily skeptical and resigned views about the efficacy of prudent control measures," Bader said.

Bader urged voters to come out of the long, negative "shadow" of prohibition and bring themselves to reject the liquor proposition, which he contended would lead to increased alcohol consumption.

"There are those who say that we should vote 'yes' to bring Kansas into the 20th century," Bader said. "I recommend that we vote 'no' to bring her into the 21st."

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

'y Charles Schulz

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi cations.

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.
Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

capped accessible. (1-52)

tion available Saturday, November 1 (42-46) ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken.

LOSE WEIGHT-100% natural-100% guaranteed-See immediate results! 776-6959 after 5:30 p.m., all thing to Dear Abby. -Sincerely, Susan. (46-47)

tumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clott KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat. Vail or Key

tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013. Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

537 3335

SKI COLORADO: Fully furnished, two bedroom, two bath condo for rent in Dillon. Clubhouse includes izzi, sauna and more. Discount rates, 316

SERVICE

THESES

DISSERTATIONS

Tel: 539-5147 Lee Ross, Owner

GARTER BELT, bra and pantie sets available at Un dercover. Christian Dior, Maidenform, Lady Marlene. Stockings to match, with or without seams. 1224 Moro. (44-48)

ferent sizes. Call 776-1786. (45-47)

By Eugene Sheffer

MXQ

rossword

40 Miss

Horne raid or library?

phrase

Moot gift

42 Type of rifle

43 Use the

48 Caesar's

2001

49 Barren

50 Letter

love

DOWN

1 Faint

ACROSS 1 Count calories 5 Gem stone

9 British shilling 12 Vain 13 Guinness 14 Blvd.'s kin 15 React to a falling star 17 Large parrot 18 Try out

19 Correct 21 Quotes 24 Filmdom's Kazan 25 Bellow 26 "The Gay

Astaire 30 Type 31 Compare 32 Creative work 33 Busy places 35 Similar

36 "The Thin Man" dog 37 Where the action is 38 Dull finish

2 Miss station Lupino Solution time: 25 mins. Astaire-Rogers film Type

ANIS ORG
POLESTAR
OVERTIME Yesterday's answer

21 Nursery item 22 Captive of Sicily

31 Word for word

45 Canadian

46 Crude

34 He

Hercules of 1975 23 Go on 6 Disvacation mounted 24 December 7 — Moines 24 and 31 26 Prima

8 Steplike troop donna formation 27 DDE's 9 Prepare nickname for a birth-28 Ireland day party? 29 Sight in

52 Zhivago's 10 Pizzeria fixture 53 Two fives 11 Drop or bubble 16 He lost in '56

3 Wapiti

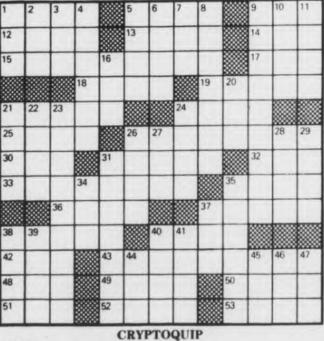

4 Wobble

5 Hit movie

20 Soviet space preceded 27 Down 35 "Lawrence 37 Miscellany 38 Role for Angela Lansbury 39 Goals 40 Lion's den 41 Icelandic tale 44 Epoch metal Howard

10-28

NBDXZ DXUUGSQ

OXZQGW MPLOXZQ

GZVXNL BPWVXN Yesterday's Cryptoquip: RICH PEDIATRICIANS HAD LITTLE PATIENTS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: N equals W

gious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal

Tanning Sessions

$3 each

10 Tanning Sessions

$20

15 Tanning Sessions

(offer expires Nov. 1, 1986)

1214C Moro 776-7874

OPEN HOUSE-Chet Peters Sculpture Studio-

Holiday and gift shopping. Wreath Ave., just north of 3140 Bermuda Lane. Saturday, November 1, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday, November 2, 1-5 p.m. Phone

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non-

HORSE BOARDING available-Stalls, beautiful

TWO BEDROOM furnished basement apartment.

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus, starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051

or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

CLOSE TO Aggieville—Spacious three bedroom, two bath, basement and large porch plus great

ZERO BLOCKS to campus. Large one bedroom, furplex Balcony, dishwasher, queen sized bed. Prefe faculty, graduate student, married couple, $280 per month, no pets, waterbeds. Lease required

537-9686 for information and application. (46-50)

TWO ONE-bedroom, furnished apartments, one-half

FOR RENT Newly re-decorated room for male. Fur-

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs

1976 CORVETTE - 34,000 miles, excellent condi-

1974 MERCURY Comet - Two door, $475 or best of-

1971 220 Mercedes Benz-Looks good and runs

1982 YAMAHA Virago 750 Bought new 14 months

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list $16,040-$59,230/

OVERSEAS JOBS—Summer, year around. Europe. South America, Australia, Asia, All fields

$900-2,000 month Sightseeing Free information Write IJC, PO Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help

Management Positions Available

(Preferably food & science majors)

Apply at store or call 539-3304

Cafe Latino

LIVE-IN Nanny wanted Need mature adult, non-smoker, driver's license, enjoys children. Room and board good salary, weekends free Nine-twelve month commitment, Kansas City area. Call (816) 444-6674 collect, weekdays only

Must have own car and insurance. Apply at Falset-to's Pizza. 1127 Moro between 2 and 5 p.m. (42-46).

Needed:

Experienced carpenters, plumbers,

WANTED-PIZZA delivery driver, full or part-time

year Now hiring Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701

ago. $1,200 Call 537-0834 after 4 p.m. (45-49)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

fer. After 5.15 p.m. on weekdays, 776-5609 (44-48)

tion (913) 243-7205 or (913) 243-3510 (43-47)

nished, close $110 plus gas/electric Lease De-

8093 (evening). Ask for Tim. (46-49) posit. Phone 537-9693. (46-48)

FOR SALE-AUTO

after 6 p m (45-49)

HELP WANTED

(26-64)

block from campus. Available December 1, $175 and $225 plus utilities. Call 539-9842 (day) or 776-

1024 Laramie. $250 per month. Call Barbara at 537-

Flint Hill area, three miles west of town. Call 776-correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

FOR RENT-MISC

FOR RENT-APTS

amenities. 776-0272. (44-53)

5059 (42-46)

12th. Aggieville, 539-1413 (27tf)

expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer inolved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200, October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

ZEN MASTER D. Katahiri-Roshi lectures Friday, October 31, 8 p.m. International Student Center on Philosophy and Practice of Meditation, Instruc-

539-9469 (44-53)

day weekends. (45-49) TO ALL interested Greeks-the K-State Greek Newspaper will be having an "advice column." If you need it, or want to give some—drop by the Greek Affairs Office by November 10 with your input and your I.D. card, and give me something to write about. Whether serious or humorous, I'll listen to your comments and questions—It's the next best

LAMBDA CHI Alpha Crescent meeting Tuesday, Oc tober 28th at 6:30 p.m. Meet at the Lambda Chi House (46)

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of cosing and used books 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by

The Ritz Denison & Claffin

1/4 Hamburger (with coupon) 1977 AMC Hornet Clean, runs good. Phone 539-5032 Exp. Date 11/2

241-1991 (44-48)

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL

TERM PAPERS

RESUMES (with cover letters) FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS

Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University community.

HALLOWEEN PINATAS for your Halloween Party. Dif-

electricians, carpet and/ or lineoleum layers for part-time work during the day, evening or weekends. Must have sufficient expertise to work with limited or no direction. Should also have limited amount of tools for work in the specialty areas.

Call 776-9007

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT Learning Skills Seminar Leaders Successful undergraduates are now being recruited by the Academic Assistance Center to serve as Learning Skills Seminar Leaders during Fall Semester 1987 Specific duties include: a) Leading a section of the Learning Skills Seminar which introduces freshmen to the academic skills and techniques necessary to achieve academic success; b) leading a study session in a Social Science or Mathematics class, c) attending the class which corresponds to the sludy session and d) attending and participating in weekly staff meetings. We are looking for applicants who: a) Feel confident in their ability to be a "student rolemodel." b) are committed to the concept of aca-demic success for all students, c) desire to teach others how to learn, d) are able to relate to many types of people; and e) have a solid grade point average, especially in the social sciences or mathe-matics. Students who are selected for the position must successfully complete a training class. EDAF-311 Guidance for the Paraprofessional (3 hours of academic credit), during Spring 1987 on Tuesday and Thursday 1:05-2:20 p.m. (tentative), A time commitment of 10-12 hours per week will be required during Fall 1987 at a salary of $750 for the semester. If you are interested in the position, contact the Academic Assistance Center in Holton 204 or call 532-6492 for an initial interview (43-46) PART TIME cook and delivery person. Apply in person at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison. Contact Jim or Ernie for an appointment. 776-0004 (43-49)

BABYSITTER-LIVE in New York suburb Family with two children, 9 and 4, seeks babysitter who loves children and has driver's license. One year nitment. Airfare paid. Call 914-834-8577. (45-

TRAVEL FIELD Opportunity. Gain valuable marketing experience while earning money. Campus representative needed immediately for spring break trip to Florida. Call Campus Marketing at 1-800-282-6221 (45-50) WANTED, STUDENT that can work Tuesday and

Thursday mornings, evenings and weekends on crop and swine farm located four miles east of Manhattan Call 539-1930 evenings (46-47)

STUDENTS TO work day shift at Union Booksto Will arrange hours to fit your schedule. Steady work for remainder of school year. Apply in person at Service Counter, K-State Union Bookstore EEOC/Affirmative Action Employer (46-48)

WANTED: APPLICANTS FOR THE POSITION OF

Applicants: must be KSU students, carrying 7 or more hours.

EXERCISE LEADER.

POSITION REQUIREMENTS: 1.) Knowledge of proper exercise technique

2.) Knowledge of aerobic conditioning 3.) Enthusiasm, confidence, poise

* CERTIFICATION PREFERRED * CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recreational Services (532-6980) for an application REC COMPLEX JOB OPENING:

* Must be KSU student carrying 7 or more hours

* Must be available from noon-3:30 EVERY Monday afternoon

* More work hours will be available next Spring Availability to work over vacation periods preferable

CONTACT: Joyce Halverson at Recreational Services (532-6980) for an application.

STUDENT PROGRAMMER to work 20-30 hours per week: to start as soon as possible, as an IBM ma frame applications programmer using COBOL and experience, grade point average, and other rel-evant data processing experience will be used as selection criteria. Undergraduates or graduate stu-dents with an employment potential of two years or more will be given preference. Equal Opportu nity Employer. Contact Rose Korte. Room 21. An derson Hall by 5 p.m.. October 31. 1986. (46-49)

LOST: GRAY backpack Thursday morning outside Union cafeteria. Purple notebook inside. Please message, ask for Lindy (46-49)

LOST

call 537-1887! (46-47) GOLD CHAIN lost near McCain Auditorium Saturday evening Reward Call 539-7479 or 539-7631 Leave

16 PERSONAL CUTE. MATURE guy looking for a date, girlfriend ran off with M U mascot. Kevin. 539-4615 (45-46)

PHI KAP Doug. Begin your search with the Windy City Love, your pledge mom (46) WOODY: TUESDAY rolls around, time for number two. Loud music has the sound, to open up this clue Mom (46) your B-day will be first rate, cuz the L A. Club will be celebrating right beside you. We can't wait Love, Tracy. (46) THETA PLEDGE Kamin-Tonight's the night that you will find out who your mom is, I can't wait

LORI INGMIRE - Happy 21st you digger you. Hope

Love, your proud Theta mom (46) TKEs-THE last three weeks have been a blast. We only wish the good times could last. Thanks for the party on Saturday. don't forget were only a block away Love ya Chi Omegas (46)

CHI-O Jill and TKE Perry-Thanks for all your time and effort. You made everything fun, and in our eyes you're #11 (46) KAPPA ELAINE - Thank you for a class act. Are you sorry? I'm not! Yours. Mike (46) LAURA SCHMIDT, my little Boyd 4 Spook sucker Your Hay 3 Spook. (46)

HEY LAMBDA Chi Crescents-Check the Ani

good need to sell. Call 539-5516 after 5 p.m. (46-50) PIKE REGIONAL Attendees - That pizza and Pepsi cost how much? How do they do that? Riley (46) AD PIs - Here's mud in your eye and in your ear and in your nose and in your mouth and under your toe nails, etc. etc. Thanks for the great week! The Pikes P.S. We love your insides (46) and happy as can be Tonight she will reveal ner-self to you—just wait and see! Theta love your mommy (46) THETA HEATHER - Your mother is so proud of you

THETA CARRIE D.—In several hours you shall see who your Theta mom will be! Follow the purple and white, for it shall lead you to me tonite! Theta. love. 7. (46)

SIG EPS-The 31 keg "pre-party" was a blast now let's get psyched for homecoming this week. The chuggin, lovin Gamma Phi's PS. We've got a great idea for the float (46)

AD PI Paula Birkbeck—Congratulations on being crowned "Miss Northeast Kansas 1987!" We are so proud of you -- you're a very special dot! Love S DESPERATELY SEEKING Kathy-Although guessed your name we never did meet iwhat a shame). I would love to meet the woman behind that beautiful voice. Write to me at Box 7. Kedzie 103, Collegian "Psychic" Eric from K U (46-47) PETE SHELDON-Do you read the newspaper?

More clues on the way Your favorite last night hazer—Miss Piggy/Michelle (46) SAE PLEDGE Eric B .- Last Thursday night was awe some. I'm hoping it wasn't a dream. Let me know-

CHI OMEGA. Sleep with one eye open for your assassin is on the loose. Sigma Nu (46) TO BUCK-I don't know your last name, but I want to thank you for the beautiful picture you left for me.

ATTENTION WOMEN of K-State-Help keep the Kappa Sigs warm while camping for B-ball tickets TRI DELT and ATO: Congratulations on a job well like it very much. Thanks. Bernice (46) done Love, the AD Pi's (46) PLK A Gentlemen. Homecoming week was a blast. too bad it couldn't last! Yelling like hell, building our bodies, panting the chant, pomping and play-ing in the mud, was so much fun with you studs. d like to post party with you like no one else ca do. We'll come over and play any day Love, the AD

SIGMA CHIS-A second place finish-awesom You guys worked hard, and our float was proof Thanks for a lot of fun—We love you guys! Tri Sigmas (46)

SIGMA SIGMA Sigma Chi – Were one great team wasn't that combine an awesome machine?! What a week it was, one we'll never forget for with the Sigs together, it was one sure bet. We pomped and we drank, and drank some more, but that s what the homecoming budget's intended for. Here's to a great Homecoming¹ (46)

FIJI MUD Football Players-We enjoyed getting dirty with you. Call us next time it rains. Love the KD Players (46) KD's AND Fiji's - Thanks to all my committee heads late nite pompers, and all who helped with home coming. Great job! Love ya. Lisa Rep. (46)

FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom apartment two blocks east of campus. Call 537 4732 after 5:30 p.m. (46-49)

ROOMMATE WANTED

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S

Fourth St., Suite 25 (111) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish. 931 Hum boldt, 537-4246, (43th)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes

sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007 (9tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716 (39tf) VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-

GRADUATE STUDENTS. Have your dissertation, the sis, or term paper word processed. Letter quality, reasonable rates. 532-2362 (131), leave message.

TYPING-TERM papers, research papers, resumes

cover letters. etc. Call 539-2411 (45-49)

494-2388. (41-50)

Keegan

Continued from Page 1 seven to eight countries produce the weapons, and other countries have to buy them.

New countries, such as Brazil, Singapore and Korea, are getting into the arms trade, a development which will lead to "more violence not less," he said.

Keegan cited two reasons for the existence of terrorism.

"First people or countries do it for severe political grievances, or second they do it because technology makes it easy to be a terrorist," he said.

In 1605, when Guy Fawkes wanted to blow up the English House of Commons it took days for him to arrange enough men to help roll in enough barrels of gunpowder.

"Now it's so easy that you can line a suitcase with a sheet of plastic explosive, and you can blow up an entire airliner," Keegan said.

Commenting on relations between the Soviet Union and United States, Keegan said he thought the summit in Reykjavik, Iceland, held great significance for the future

"It was astonishing to discover how large of concessions each side would make," he said.

"It appeared that both sides came prepared to destroy half of their weapons," Keegan said. "Most of the time the countries meet and argue about what the other one has."

Keegan said he supports the Strategic Defense Initiative and said he believes Reagan did the right thing by not giving in and stopping

During the summit, "Gorbachev was playing a game of poker. He was playing cards for one thing - to get the president to stop Star Wars," Keegan said.

"He was trying to get something better for the Soviets, and he wanted to hurry the president into a decision," he said.

Keegan reports on defense affairs, writing defense and foreign policy opinion pieces, for the Daily Telegraph. He also writes books which show the human experience of

Some of Keegan's books include "The Face of Battle," about the common soldier in World War I, and "Six Armies of Normandy," about World War II.

Business

Continued from Page 1

Andriopoulos, Ding and Ploder said one reason they came to the United States was to improve their English skills. English is the most commonly used language in international business. Fye said most of the international students in the MBA program have few language pro-

"Some do very well. Some speak better English than some of our domestic students," he said.

'Generally speaking, foreign students don't do as well in the verbal part (of the Graduate Management Admissions Test) as domestic U.S. students, but that's logical. It's not their native language. That's generally offset by their quantitative skills," Fye said.

"When the two scores are put together they have to meet a standard score like anyone else. There's no difference at all in terms of admission," he added.

"I would encourage people in the scientific community and the University faculty, students and community members to learn about the (scientific research) techniques and social impact of AIDS, acquired immune deficiency syndrome," he

Although there are not as many reported cases compared to other sexually transmitted diseases, AIDS

kills the highest percentage of its vic-

Centers for Disease Control, Morse taught at Harvard University and His research has netted more than $2 million in research grants.

"LAFENE HEALTH CENTER DAY"

We are opening our doors to you-come see what we are all about. Tour the facility and meet our staff as we extend our

Many of the frequent small things in life can compound and result in stress disorders-headaches, insomnia, lack of concentration, and high blood pressure. Learn strategies you can use immediately to help

With an increased awareness of wellness.

comes the need for some "how-to's" in applying such knowledge as nutrition, physical fitness, and stress management.

Come and learn some of these "how-

"ASSERTIVE COMMUNICATION: YOUR

ROUTE TO PERSONAL EFFECTIVENESS"

Have you ever wished you were able to state what was on your mind more effectively? If so, this session will provide you the knowledge and practice by presenting an introduction to assertive

Explore how exercise can aid in the prevention of common disorders such as osteoporosis, hypertension, obesity, diabetes, insomnia, low back pain, and cardiovascular disease. Exercise is Preventative-Prophylactic Medicine

"EXERCISE...A PROPHYLACTIC"

KSU LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

AND UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

hospitality to you.

12:00- 1:00 p.m.

David Danskin, Ph.D.

STESS MANAGEMENT"

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

control your stress level.

"THE KEY TO WELLNESS"

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

Susan Scott Angle, Ph.D.

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

communication.

3:30- 4:20 p.m.

Mari Hemmert Hooper

KSU UNION FLINTHILLS

1:30- 2:20 p.m.

Thomas Ryan, M.D.

ne University of Oregon, Eugene.

Before doing research at the Speaker to give lecture on detection of AIDS

By The Collegian Staff

AIDS, the sexually transmitted virus that can kill, will be the topic of a lecture given by a nationally recognized research scientist at 7 tonight in the Union Little Theatre.

Stephen A. Morse, who since 1984 has been the director of the Sexually Transmitted Diseases Laboratory at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, will speak on "AIDS: Detection, Prevention and Social Impact."

"From a scientific standpoint, it is very exciting to learn the new research techniques that are going on in sexually transmitted diseases, said Daniel Fung, professor of food science and chairman of the Sigma Xi scientific honor society at K-State, which is sponsoring the lecture.

The lecture is part of the year-long campus celebration, commemorating the society's 100 years on campus.

A CAN FOR ALL REASONS Filled with

Freshly flavored or plain POPCORN We Make It Here-Just For You! GREAT FOR GIFTS!
THE TCECREAM

SOCIAL 1314B Westloop • 537-7079

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 537-7340 1110 Laramie

IT'S

TACOS 99¢ each

3 for $2.50 11 30 am -2 pm

5-9 pm 11 30 a m - 10 30 p m in bar PLUS

MARGARITAS Strawberry or Lime $1.25 all day and night

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 Moro • 776-0030

Democrat

Continued from Page 1 from the audience ranging from the federal farm program to toxic waste to nuclear weapons. The existing farm program is unfair because it helps large corporate farms and does little for the smaller farmers, he said.

"The large corporate farms don't need subsidies. They encourage them to buy out small farms and then to produce more on those farms and get additional subsidies from the federal government," he said.

Farmers with small farms know how to do the best job, because they are more flexible, and can react more quickly to adverse situations, he said.

MacDonald said he eventually wanted the federal government out of the farming industry

We have farmers who are intelligent and know how to do their job and make money," he said.

Another topic MacDonald addressed was the disposal of toxic waste. Although MacDonald acknowledges toxic waste as a serious problem, he sees an answer to the question of its proper disposal. With the development of the space shuttle program, he said he could envision the day when the United States could shoot its atomic waste into the MacDonald said he favors the Strategic Defense Initiative because, "I'm in favor of anything that's nonatomic. I do not believe we can be static in the atomic age," he said. "I want to get over the atomic age as soon as possible and I believe Star Wars might accomplish that.'

MacDonald holds an executive position in a Wichita carpet company. Before moving to Wichita in 1972, MacDonald lived in Philadelphia. He graduated from St. John's College in Philadelphia with a bachelor's degree in French in 1966. After graduation he and his wife joined the Peace Corps and spent six months in Nepal.

Syria

Continued from Page 1

button and get them out," said a State Department official who spoke anonymously. "But we feel they've tried to be helpful up to a point.

Syria is not considered the dominant influence with the groups believed to be holding the Americans.

These people, if they are influenced by anybody, are influenced by Iran," said the official. "And Syria doesn't want to jeopardize its relations with Iran.

Privately, State Department officials have no doubt that both Syria and Iran use terrorism to advance their political aims. Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger blamed both governments three years ago for the bombing of the U.S. Marine headquarters in Beirut that killed 241 U.S. servicemen.

He said Iranians exploded the truck bomb with the "sponsorship and knowledge and authority of the Syrian government.'

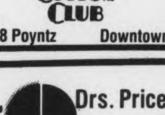

The United States also accused Syria of responsibility for the bombing of the American embassy in Beirut the previous April. The Nidal group, which operates out the Syrian-controlled Bekka valley of Lebanon, took responsibility for the bombings at the ticket counters of El Al, the Israeli airline, in the Rome and Vienna airports last December, in which five of the 18 killed were U.S. citizens.

Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers from across the Seas

Memberships Available 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Drs. Price, Young and Odle, P.A. Optometrists

All Types of Contact Lenses • SOFT-TINTED TO ENHANCE

- SOFT-EXTENDED WEAR FOR SLEEPING
- · SOFT BIFOCAL
- FAST REPLACEMENT OF LOST
- OR DAMAGED LENSES · PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

- YOUR EYE COLOR SOFT FOR ASTIGMATISM
- FLEX-OXYGEN PERMEABLE
- FREE CONSULTATION

537-1118 1119 WEST LOOP PLAZA

"Wellness Week '86" Sponsored by

Lafene Health Center

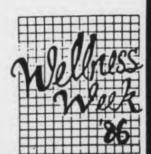

Notice:

Due to short staffing during "Health Fair '86" Wed., October 29, 1986 only acute health care will be available.

Come join the fun at "Health Fair '86"

Oct. 27-Nov. 1

Ivan Sand Supports Education. In 1986 Representative Sand Voted Yes For:

HB2836 - local option income tax for education SB601 — expanded per pupil expenditures to include 4-year old exceptional children

SB500 - a fair way to determine state aid to community colleges Ivan Sand Supports Job Creation & Economic Growth.

In 1986 & 1985 Representative Sand Voted Yes For: SB754 — income tax credits for research & development SB755 — creation of the Kansas Technology Enterprise Corporation

SB757 — Kansas Venture Capital System HB2901 — expansion of county enterprise zones HB3121 — business & job development tax incentives HCR5047 — tax exemptions for economic development

Ivan Sand Supports Fiscal Responsibility & Prudent Use of Your Tax Dollars.

In 1985 Representative Sand Voted No On: Over $65 Million in additional appropriation requests CAN WE AFFORD KATHA HURT? TO WHOM WOULD KATHA HURT SAY NO? RE-ELECT REPRESENTATIVE SAND WHO VOTES TO SUPPORT NEEDED PROGRAMS IN A FISCALLY

RESPONSIBLE WAY. *TRE-ELECT IVAN SAND — REPRESENTATIVE — 66TH DISTRICT.

FAA offers proposals to lessen aircraft risks

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Federal Aviation Administration, concerned about the potential for disaster in the sky, moved Monday to lessen the risk of small planes improperly flying into airspace used by commercial traffic near 23 major airports.

The action came less than two months after a single-engine private plane collided with an Aeromexico Airlines jetliner over Cerritos, Calif., and killed 82 people, including at least 15 in a residential neighborhood where the DC-9 fell to earth and burst into flames.

Among the changes envisioned by regulators is a requirement that all private planes flying within 30 miles of a major airport have altitude encoding equipment. FAA officials, however, acknowledged that some of the most significant changes probably will not go into effect for a year or more because they require revisions in regulations now on the

But the agency did say that it already has tightened penalties for pilots who violate restricted air space near the major airports, doubled the license suspension period to 60 days and increased its enforcement program to catch violators.

FAA Administrator Donald Engen said he continues to be opposed to suggestions that all small aircraft automatically be barred from restricted airspace near the 23 major

But he said "we simply cannot tolerate anything less than full compliance with the (airspace restriction) procedures" and promised increased enforcement efforts.

Engen's remarks came at a news conference to announced the results of a 30-day agency study of ways to better ensure the separation of small, private planes and large commercial jets.

Critics have charged that the administration never brought the controller workforce back to full strength, and with the same level of experience, as existed before the 1981 walkout.

Engen in his prepared remarks made no mention of increased staff-

FAA officials acknowledge that the intrusion of small, private planes into restricted airspace near major airports long has been a problem, and that it has been difficult to catch violators. Last year there were fewer than 30 enforcement actions against such pilots nationwide, though others have received letters of reprimand.

★Now selling ★ $2 SESSIONS

★No purchase limit ★

★ Now using Wolff bulbs ★

1126 Laramie

776-2426

Haircuts HERS..... $8.50 Includes Shampoo & Style

NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Thursday night til 8 p.m.

539-TAME 539-8601

D

Non-Competitive Pre-Marked Course

Saturday, November 1, 1986 RILEY COUNTY COURTHOUSE PLAZA STARTING TIME — 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. (must be finished by 5 p.m.) PRE-REGISTER BY CALLING 537-9683

FREE TO THE ENTIRE FAMILY Sponsored by Lafene Health Center and Manhattan Main Street Project

OCTOBER 27-31, 1986, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

$20 Deposit needed to order Order now for Christmas delivery

Special sale prices on 10K and 14K gold also!

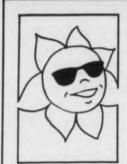

Oct. 24-28 10a-4p Union Bookstore

Lonesome Goat

A lost goat turned up on campus Sunday morning, leaving many questions as to why and how it came. See Page 5.

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny today, high around 70. Winds northeasterly under 10 mph. Clear to partly cloudy tonight.

Sports

Quiet Leader

164 5/1/87  7 Kansas State Historical Soc 66612

Defensive tackle Kevin Humphrey is helping guide the young Wildcat defense through hard work and setting a good example. See

Kansas State

Wednesday

October 29, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 47

K-State may drop two more sports

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Come February, two more sports could be dropped from the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics pro-

"There's a real good possibility that in February the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association) will say we can drop two sports and still remain (in) Division I," Mike Jones, athletic department business manager, told Athletic Fee Task Force members Tuesday night.

"And it's a good possibility that a lot of schools could drop (sports); say, you could drop women's basketball and baseball - but that's not my decision," he said. "That would be the worst case."

Bill Majerus, task force member and graduate in agronomy, said a student athletic fee would not guarantee that the dropped sports would be reinstated.

"We're playing with some very serious issues here," Majerus said. "That's not to say that, with all the restraints we put on the money, the athletic department will accept

Not only may the athletic department refuse the task force's recommendations, but the Student Senate may have other ideas as well, said Kelly Lamborn, task force member and senior in journalism and mass communications.

What we present to the Senate, after the second reading and debate and amendment, may not be what we put out of this committee, either," Lamborn said.

Steve Ligon, task force member and senior in animal sciences and industry, agreed. "I have a feeling it will be changed," he said.

The day it may be changed could come sooner than the students expect, because the fate of the proposed athletic fee may come to a student referendum as early as February

Doug Folk, athletic fee task force chairman and junior in electrical engineering, told members that the Student Governing Association would like to have the referendum during Student Senate elections.

"I want to start getting this wound up by the end of the semester," Folk said. "From the SGA's point of view, this issue will bring people to vote for their senators.

"I think we'll have a better turnout if we have a referendum during Senate elections," Ligon said. "I think we need to set a target to have it for this election.

Ligon said the task force recommendation would need at least two weeks in Senate - one week for the first readings and one week for the second readings, which would consist of questions, debate and a vote.

"If we're going to wind this thing up by February, we need to set a time table," Lamborn said. "I assume there's going to be a lot of

As a means of gauging student opinion and opening up new areas of the proposed fee to be researched, the task force is placing an athletic fee suggestion box in the Union starting this week

"If there are areas we aren't investigating that they (students) would like to have considered, they can tell us," Lamborn said.

Ligon said the suggestion box would be a way to find out students' concerns "without bringing in every student who has a concern."

One of the concerns of task force member Jennifer Leeds, sophomore in political science, was how an athletic fee would affect athletic programs at K-State.

"We know now how students will be affected," she said. "Now, maybe we can look into the athletics pro-

Jones told the group that although the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics is a separate corporation with fewer restraints placed on it by the University, there are some cat-

"One catch is that the athletic director can be fired by the University president," he said.

Another catch is that the department is audited by an outside certified public accountant firm, he

Jones also told the group that the

See TASK, Page 12

Beach cowboy

"Beach Party" in the Natatorium Tuesday night. The beach party, spon- Wellness Week activities. See related story on Page 3

Kent Dick, senior in biology, rides the waves as he watches the movie sored by Lafene Health Center and Recreational Services, is part the Candidate says more jail space needed

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

Riley County may be forced to build a new jail because current facilities cannot handle the influx of offenders who are arrested during a weekend, said a Republican candidate for a seat on the county com-

Election *!

Wilton Thomas, a Republican candidate vying for the county commissioner seat in the 1st district, and his Democratic opponent, Nancy Bammes, fielded questions during a luncheon debate Tuesday at Kennedy's Claim, 2304 Stagg Hill Road. Ivan Sand, incumbent Republican of the 66th District, and his opponent, Democratic hopeful Katha Hurt, also debated in the candidates' forum.

Weekend DUI arrests cause problems

Thomas said overcrowding problems in the jail have stemmed in part from the DUI arrests that occur during the weekend.

"(Facilities) are stretched to the limit of their capacity," he said. 'Sometimes on the weekends they are at double capacity.

Bammes said she belives public works facilities need to be expanded. 'Now, they are strained because of limited space," she said.

Bammes also said she favors county involvement in the city's proposed animal shelter. The candidates were asked if scheduling county commission meetings in the evening would increase input from the public.

"If the county commission would meet at night, they would have better representation," Bammes said. "It's difficult now because people have to take time off from work. Thomas agreed with Bammes. "If there are issues where there is fat in the fire, then I think there are advantages to night meetings," Thomas said.

Thomas and Bammes also agreed that funding for community corrections and unmet health needs should be given priority.

Bammes stressed the need to keep young criminal offenders out of 'With community corrections, they can be kept out of that environment (prison), and they can be taught skills," she said. Bammes said that if the community correction programs need more funding than the state allocates, she would support local funding. Thomas questioned the need for expanding community correction programs in the county "I don't know if we need expansion, because the programs in place are serving the identified needs," he

See DEBATE, Page 13

Reagan favors arms package

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan has approved a package of proposals for sharp reductions in U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear weapons and the withdrawal of intermediate-range nuclear missiles from Europe, administration officials said Tuesday

The package puts on the negotiating table in Geneva the key proposals Reagan made to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev at their summit in Iceland earlier this month. It includes a ban on all U.S. and Soviet ballistic missiles by 1996, said the officials, who were willing to discuss the subject only on the condition they not be named publicly. So far, Soviet negotiators have resisted taking up seriously the proposals Reagan discussed with the Soviet Communist Party General Secretary on Oct. 11-12, said Kenneth L. Adelman, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency

"It seems they have been under instructions to be unhelpful since the Reykjavik meeting." Adelman said in an interview. "We want to build on Reykjavik. They want to dispute.

Adelman said separate talks would be held with the Soviets next week in Geneva on improving the verification of underground nuclear tests. Reagan told Gorbachev that better monitoring procedures could lead to a treaty outlawing all blasts.

A more modest U.S. arms control package was sent to chief U.S. negotiator Max Kampelman last week. Several key items were held

See WEAPONS, Page 14

Military historian honors Eisenhower

By JADA ALLERHEILIGEN Collegian Reporter

America offers the freedom of life, liberty and the opportunity for a second chance. John Keegan, military historian and current defense correspondent for the "Daily

Keegan Telegraph" of London, said Tuesday night in Union Forum Hall. 'America's not a daydream. It doesn't promise freedom. It offers opportunity, and it must be taken and cherished," Keegan said.

He spoke to about 200 people on 'Eisenhower and the American Dream" in honor of the second biennial Dwight D. Eisenhower Lecture at K-State.

Keegan said he viewed Eisenhower as one of the greatest Americans that ever lived "Eisenhower is the epitome of what is best about the American people,"

Eisenhower was raised in vas lands where he could run about freely and not feel constricted. The wideopen atmosphere helped build his blind self-confidence and kept him free from inhibitions. Keegan said. "Americans can look out their windows and not see boundaries - they have the quality of space," Keegan said. "Another quality the Americans offer is second chances. Keegan cited the Eisenhower family as an example of Americans given second chances. Eisenhower's parents were rich and prosperous but lost their fortune overnight through careless business handlings.

The following generations of Eisenhowers were not harmed by their parent's mishandlings. Keegan said. This is an example of the United States offering second chances by giving their children "clean slates.

'The United States is generous to its immigrants and equally (generous) to its young," he said. Another difference between America and Europe is the impor-

See KEEGAN, Page 13

Wefald to be given president's medallion at inauguration

By TERESA TEMME

Staff Writer President Jon Wefald will be installed as K-State's 12th president Thursday during the third presidential inauguration of this half cen-

The Kansas Board of Regents' charge and the president's medallion will be given to Wefald during the ceremonies that start at 2 p.m. in McCain Auditorium. The office of University Relations said that more than 250 university and college presidents from Kansas and alumni from higher educational institutions will participate in the inaugural procession.

Officials, wearing formal academic regalia, will proceed in the order of the founding of their schools. Schools founded during the 17th century to the present will be represented in the processional.

Following tradition, procession marshal John Noonan will lead the group, and the president will enter last. The recessional is the same, in reverse order, with the president leading the march.

Other individuals marching in the procession will include K-State students, faculty and alumni, representatives of learned societies, Regents and governmental officials. The Wefald family will meet with the Kansas media at a mid-morning news conference at 10 a.m., which will start the day's activities.

At noon, a reception and luncheon will be given in the Union Main Ballroom for the Wefalds and university guests. The installation will follow, with a public reception to be held at 4 p.m. in Room 315 of Farrell Library.

The inaugural invocatior will be given by Kenneth Cable, president of Manhattan Christian College. Remarks will be given by Steven Johnson, K-State student body president and junior in agricultural economics; David Schafer, Faculty Senate president; Luann Ingersoll, chairman of the K-State Classified Affairs Committee; and Roger Reitz, Alunmi Association presi-

Lt. Goy. Tom Docking will introduce Regent Chairman Frank Becker, who will give the charge from the Regents and invest Wefald with the gold President's Medallion.

The four-inch diameter gold medallion is a symbol of the president's authority and is worn at all formal University functions, including commencement

Robert Glennen, president of Emporia State University, will deliver a message from the Regents institution presidents. Glennen's message will be followed by Wefald's inaugural address.

Overflow viewing of the inauguration will be provided on a big-screen projection in Union Forum Hall.

In recent University history, Wefald is preceded by Duane Acker (who took office in 1975), James Mc-Cain (1950), Milton Eisenhower (1943) and Francis Farrell (1925).

INTERNATIONAL

Soviets increase arms shipments

WASHINGTON - With two months left in the year, the Soviet Union has already surpassed its previous record for arms shipments to Nicaragua, the Pentagon said Tuesday.

The arms shipments so far this year have totaled 18,800 metric tons, or almost 20,700 regular tons, of materiel delivered by 43 ships, said Robert Sims, the Pentagon's chief spokesman.

That compares to a previous high of 18,700 metric tons, or 20,570 regular tons, delivered on 38 ships in all of calendar 1984, the spokesman added. 'I think the significance of that is they (the Soviets) continue to support, as they did before there was an armed opposition, the repressive abilities of the Sandinista regime," Sims said.

The latest shipment to the Nicarguans, delivered earlier this month by a Soviet merchant ship to the Pacific port of Corinto, included six Mi-24 helicopter gunships. Sims continued.

REGIONAL

Hayden admits errors in brochure

TOPEKA - Mike Hayden, Republican nominee for governor, accepted responsibility Tuesday night for a campaign brochure mailed to voters that he said was produced by "overzealous" supporters.

Hayden conceded during a televised debate with Democratic gubernatorial candidate Tom Docking that the pamphlet contained inaccuracies. However, he insisted during the joint appearance with Docking in Salina, Kan., that the basic thrust of the campaign literature was accurate.

Hayden said the point of the brochure was to stress that he supports restoration of the death penalty for murder in Kansas, and Asked by Docking during the televised debate if he repudiated the campaign flyer, Hayden responded, "We'll let the people of Kansas be the judge. I absolutely will take responsibility. Each of us has Hayden said it may have been a mistake to cite in the brochure the case of Nathaniel "Yorkie" Smith as an example of a bad decision in paroling a murderer in Kansas.

Stephan rules on alcoholic sweets

TOPEKA - State law prohibits grocery store sales of candies filled with vodka, rum and other alcoholic beverages, Attorney General Robert T. Stephan ruled Tuesday

In a non-binding legal opinion, Stephan said those liquid-filled candies could be sold only in Kansas liquor stores. A California company had asked officials of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control division what they thought about selling the candy in grocery stores and ABC Director John Lamb asked Stephan to decide the question.

Stephan said each product which contains liquor as an ingredient should be examined on a case-by-case basis. But the attorney general indicated the liquid fillings put the chocolate covered candies into the legal classification of a liquor product.

'Any opinion contrary to the one I have issued would allow these chocolates with a liquid liquor center to be available in grocery stores, with no legal restrictions on the age of purchasers." Stephan said in a statement distributed with the opinion.

'By deciding this issue as I have, these liquid-filled chocolates will not be available for purchase by children.

we can help.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as

VISA and MasterCard. A

Kansas licensed facility,

Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since

The candy, distributed by Very Special Chocolates Inc. of Azusa, Calif., are legal in 14 or 15 states but can't be sold to minors, according to a company spokesman.

If you need abortion or

Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Comprehensive

Health

Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Roe) Overland Park, Kansas

birth control services,

NATIONAL

Segregation common, study says

DETROIT - Segregation of blacks and whites is most prevalent in the United States in older, metropolitan-area neighborhoods in the North, with Chicago and Detroit sharing the lead, a researcher said

New York and Los Angeles rank second, said Reynolds Farley, a sociologist at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Washington, D.C., has the highest integration rating, Farley said.

Farley, who works at the university's Population Studies Center, analyzed 1980 U.S. Census Bureau statistics for three years and concluded that blacks remain far more segregated than Hispanic and Asian minorities despite gains in education and economic status and improvements in housing and schools.

With regard to residential segregation, the traditional patterns of racial isolation seem unchanged," Farley said in a telephone interview. "A continuation of the trends of the 1970s offers no hope that the chocolate city-vanilla suburb pattern will be changing anytime

Farley attributed change in the pattern to growing populations in the South as well as forced integration in schools across the country.

Petition asks for hostages' freedom

WASHINGTON - More than 1,200 journalists across the United States and abroad have signed a petition demanding freedom for their colleague Terry Anderson and the other hostages in Lebanon.

The petition asks President Reagan. Secretary of State George Shultz, their counterparts in the Middle East and others with influence in that strife-torn region "to work diligently for the speedy release" of Anderson and the other prisoners.

Anderson, who turned 39 on Monday, is the chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press who was kidnapped in west Beirut on March 16, 1985. He is one of seven Americans believed held by the Islamic Jihad or other terrorist groups.

No Greater Love, a support organization for families of Americans killed in war or held hostage, marked Anderson's birthday by presenting 500 birthday cards from parochial school children to Anderson's sister. Peggy Say, in Philadelphia. The group is urging children nationwide to write messages of support for those missing in Lebanon.

The jounalists' petition drive was launched by two reporters in the AP's Washington bureau, Diane Duston and Joan Mower, three weeks ago, and will run through Nov. 27 - Thanksgiving Day.

Program could help prevent cancer

WASHINGTON - The National Cancer Institute said Tuesday that the aggressive use of existing knowledge could cut the annual cancer death rate in half by the year 2000.

The institute released a plan, combining cancer prevention, screening, early detection and treatment, that it said could produce dramatic results by the turn of the century if it were adopted as a national goal.

"Knowledge gained over the years can be used to control a significant portion of the disease which was responsible for an estimated 462,000 deaths in 1985," said Dr. Vincent T. DeVita, director of the in-

Detailed in a new report entitled "Cancer Control Objectives for the Nation: 1985-2000," the plan calls for stepped-up efforts against cigarette smoking and poor diet and earlier use of the latest diagnostic and treatment techniques.

The report on cancer control objectives is important because it represents a comprehensive plan of action," DeVita said

The strategy, developed to meet national disease prevention objectives established by the Department of Health and Human Services, would require cooperation from the public, industry, health professions, news media and government to succeed, he continued.

Hair Dimensions

539-8920

Nautilus Towers

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION STUDENTS The Rural and Small Schools Conference is today. For more in-formation, call 532-5566 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH. DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for $500 student cancer research awards in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec.

TODAY

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN will have mid-fall registration from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.

CENTER FOR AGING meets at 12:30 p.m. in

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the Gloria Jean Lawrence at 10:30 a.m. in Bluemont 449. The topic will be "The Relationship Between Copulatory Behavior and Serum Levels of Lu-teinizing Hormone ad Testosterone in Male Rats: Effect of Conditioning with Odor Cues."

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Michael Anthony Culp at 1:15 p.m. in Bluemont 364. The topic will be "The Establishing and Validation of the Dimensions of Principals" Per-

SHE DUs: Composite pictures will be taken from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Quinlan Natural Area. Rain date will be Friday.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The subject will be "Horticulture Gardens."

THURSDAY

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208. BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS meets

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meets for yearbook pictures at 7:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202

AGRICULTURE AMBASSADORS meet at 6

CAR WASH 25¢ Wash Everyday!

- *Close to campus
- *Coin changer available
- *4 stalls for your convenience
- *New facility, new location, no traffic hassle

Conveniently located on the corner of Tuttle Creek Blvd. & Kimball Ave.

Learn to SKYDIVE

with the KSU

Parachute Club Next class Nov. 7.

This will be the last class of the semester so don't delay.

Call 776-7241 for more information PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Unio

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets for a pledge test at 7 p.m. in Union 213. Paddle signing party for pledges and actives will be at 8:30 p.m. at Dark Horse, 619 N. Manhattan Ave.

MANHATTAN RIGHT TO LIFE will show a slide presentation at 7 p.m. at St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Ave. The speaker will be John Wilke, president of National

orrection

Due to a printer's error, Phil Nordhus' picture was reversed with Scott Miller's picture on the editorial page of Tuesday's Collegian. The columns correspond to the names listed by each picture.

Save Collegian Coupons

- $1 SCHNAPPS SHOTS
- $1.50 FUZZY NAVELS

Plus...New Chicken Fry Nite!

50¢ off 75¢ off

ANHATTAN

IF YOU THINK YOU'RE GETTING A GOOD DEAL ON YOUR

Muffler BRAKES

CALL MIDAS® AND SEE IF ITS REALLY TRUE

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m. -5:30 p.m. Sat. 8 a.m.-12 p.m.

SERVICE OBLIGATION WIBA_ -0-

FAST

ESTIMATES

REGULAR LIFETIME MUFFLER BRAKES 2995 59⁹⁵ INSTALLED

PER AXLE MOST CARS & REG. 69.95 LIGHT TRUCKS MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

midas

5th ANNUAL HEALTH FAIR '86 WEDNESDAY October 29, 1986 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Monday Special

$10 off

on regular perm

with Karie

or Dawn

on Mondays

with this coupon

Tanning Sessions

10 for $20 expires 11-15-86

717 N. 11th Aggieville

Special-

KSU Union — Main Ballroom October 27- HEALTH SCREENING:

November 1 • Blood Pressure

- Hearing Exam
- Physical Fitness
- MUCH MORE

HEALTH EDUCATION: · Alcohol and Other Drugs

- · Health Style Analysis
- Nutrition
- PLUS MORE

OPTIONAL: Blood Chemistry Test $7 - covers Lab Costs NOTE: DO NOT eat 10 hours prior to test. OPTIONAL: Flu Vaccination $6 - cost of medication

FREE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Sponsored by Lafene Health Center, KSU and Manhattan Communities.

Seismologists to pick nuclear test locations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Soviet seismologists will visit the United States in November to select locations in California and Nevada for equipment to monitor the Earth tremors from U.S. nuclear weapons tests, a scientist said Tuesday.

The visit is the latest step in an agreement negotiated privately between U.S. and Soviet scientists that has allowed Americans for the first time to begin such monitoring inside the Soviet Union, said Thomas Cochran, senior staff scientist of the Natural Resources Defense Coun-

However, the government won't permit the Soviet scientists to visit the actual sites for the equipment because they don't represent the Soviet government, he

Cochran, who initiated the discussions with the Soviet Academy of Sciences that led to the agreement, said at a news conference that both parties have also agreed to establish a computer link between the American and Soviet monitoring stations.

The agreement is intended to promote the signing of armscontrol agreements by making it possible for Americans to verify that the Soviet Union is observing any such agreements, Cochran said.

The three American monitoring stations now operating near the Soviet Union's principal nuclear test site near the city of Semipalatinsk, about 1,800 miles southeast of Moscow, are adequate to detect any violations of the current Soviet moratorium on nuclear weapons tests, Cochran

"Our stations in effect cover their test site," he said.

The stations also serve as prototypes for the estimated 25 stations that would be needed inside the Soviet Union to monitor compliance with a comprehensive test-ban treaty, if one were negotiated, he said.

And they give American scientists and government officials the ability for the first time to "map" the geology of the Soviet test site, thus allowing more accurate determination of the magnitude of any Soviet nuclear tests, Cochran

The Soviet seismologists, led by Igor Nersesov of the Institute of Physics of the Earth in Moscow, are scheduled to arrive in the United States on Nov. 9.

Because of conditions placed on their visit by the Reagan administration, they will not be able to visit the proposed monitoring sites in Nevada and California, each about 70 miles from the Nevada test site where U.S. nuclear weapons tests are conducted, Cochran said.

The conditions were that the Soviets witness a nuclear test and a demonstration of a system called CORRTEX, designed to allow the monitoring of nuclear explo-

The reason, Cochran said, is that the Reagan administration favors a limited test-ban treaty overseen by CORRTEX, while the Soviets favor a comprehensive test-ban treaty.

Doctor says overall wellness important

The decisions people make about their lifestyle will affect future health, said Dr. Thomas Ryan. Lafene Student Health Center staff physician, Tuesday in his Wellness Week presentation, "The Key to

By ANN CLIFFORD

Collegian Reporter

Wellness. People need to be aware that the choices made today about daily patterns of living will have an impact on psychological, spiritual and physical health, Ryan said.

In the past, people waited to develop symptoms before becoming concerned, he said. Now, more people are considering their "overall wellness" and are making choices about their lifestyles before they have the symptoms.

Ryan said the concept of wellness, which has taken a "backseat to medical technology" in the past, is becoming more prominent in health care today.

Being nutritionally aware is one of the major concerns of wellness, he said. This means taking the time to find out about good nutrition and establishing a regular, nutritional

Having a regular pattern of meals is important to good nutrition, Ryan said. For most people, breakfast is the most important meal, but it is also the meal that is most often skipped, he said.

Breakfasts do not have to be large meals, he said, but they should include foods that have "nutrient density," such as dairy products, breads, cereals and grains.

Ryan also recommended staying around the perimeters of grocery stores rather than going up and down each aisle. In most grocery stores, natural foods such as vegetables, fruits and dairy products are found on the edges, while the processed foods are found in the middle aisles, Physical fitness is another important aspect of wellness. Aerobic or cardiovascular activity is the most recommended form of exercise to improve physical fitness.

"Whenever you start an exercise program, be gentle, start slow and build up gradually to avoid burning out and having exercise become a chore," Ryan said.

Stress has a negative effect on wellness, so people need to learn to manage stress in their everyday life. Exercise and relaxing are good stress discharges, he said.

"Simply sitting in a chair may not be relaxing; it depends on what you're thinking about," he said. "Sitting in a chair and watching television may be very relaxing if it takes your mind off other things.

Wellness requires sitting down and looking at the lifestyle and decisions made about nutrition, physical fitness and stress management, he

After evaluating the lifestyle, Ryan said, "it is necessary to decide if it is worth it for you to make

Students utilize on-campus interviews

By ROBIN HARNDEN

Collegian Reporter

More than 500 students will be undergoing on-campus interviews this semester, said Bruce Laughlin, director of the Career Planning and Placement Center.

Some of these students want to land jobs for January, while others just want the experience, he said. "People often ask which is the best semester to interview," Laughlin said. "There's no real answer to that. "An advantage to interviewing in the fall is that some companies make decisions during the fall if they have a large acceptance rate. Others wait until the spring to make final decisions. It can go either way.'

About 200 companies are interviewing this fall through the center, Laughlin said. That figure is comparable to the spring semesters.

Elizabeth Waldeck, senior in mechanical engineering, said beginning the interviewing process early may help in landing a job. Waldeck will not graduate until May, but she has already been through five inter-

"It's important to get started," she said. "The company (she most recently interviewed with) isn't one I wanted to work for at first. I just wanted to get experience.

Although Waldeck plans to interview with companies who do not interview on campus, she decided to interview first through the center because it is "convenient."

The center helps students develop resumes, cover letters, interview skills and job search strategy, Laughlin said.

'The interviewing process isn't that complex," he said. "We tell people exactly what to do and when.

All registered students can take advantage of the services offered at the placement center, Laughlin said. A list of the employers who will interview on campus are available, and those interested in interviewing with companies may sign up at the center.

Names and relevant information of interested students are sent to the employer for examination, and the employer chooses whom to inter-

A new list is sent to the placement center of those who have been granted interviews. The interviewees then schedule a meeting with the employer representative for the interview date.

"There's no waiting in line," Laughlin said. "Everyone on the list gets an interview Waldeck said all the interviews have been basically the same. "They ask what you've done," she said. "They tell you about the company and what you'll be doing if you get the job.

Kerry Mills, senior in management, interviewed last week for the first time

Put your degree to work

where it can do

a world of good.

Your first job after graduation should offer you more than just a paycheck. We can offer you

Working together with people in a different culture is something you'll never forget. It's a learning experience everyone can benefit from.

In Science or Engineering, Education, Agriculture, or Health, Peace Corps projects in developing countries around the world are

If you're graduating this year, look into a unique opportunity to put your degree to work where it can do a world of good. Look into

Peace Corps Rep. at KSU: Placement Office, Holtz Hall

Wed. & Thurs., November 5 & 6

Film Seminar: Tues., November 4,

7:00 pm-Union, Rm. 208

an experience that lasts a lifetime.

bringing help where it's needed.

Peace Corps.

"I thought it would be more indepth and they would ask a lot of questions," Mills said. "It wasn't as hard as I thought it would be.' Mills and Waldeck said they think it is important to research the companies with which they want to interview and develop questions to ask the interviewer

"Act like you're at least interested; and ask questions - that would help; a lot," Mills said.

Laughlin said some students that; try to get an interview may not find a job or even the opportunity to interview, but the experience of participating in the process is valuable.

"One difficult thing is to prevent people from thinking that this is an employment agency," Laughlin said. "It's a development process.

People who work hard to plan to find employment, even if they don't find a job before they graduate, will do better than those who ignore the

The toughest job

you'll ever love

Ex-official returns to Soviet post

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - Marshal Nikolai V. Ogarkov, the chief of staff who was removed in 1984, now holds a post in the Defense Ministry, according to the Soviet news agency Novosti.

Ogarkov wrote a brief article in the October issue of a Novosti monthly called Military Courier. It reiterated his view that the Soviet military must have the most up-to-date technology to repel attack.

In a brief biography at the end of the article, Ogarkov was said to have been engaged since 1984 in "responsible work at the Ministry of

No more detail was given. Ogarkov, 69, was chief of staff and first deputy defense minister from 1977 until September 1984, when he was suddenly replaced by Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev

There was speculation he was demoted for saying publicly that neither superpower has the ability to deal the other a knockout first strike in the nuclear age and for publicly demanding the best technology for the military.

"Soviet military doctrine demands not simply to be able to defend by opposing the aggressor with passive ways and means but also to maintain the ability to deal him crushing responsive blows and to destroy him in any conditions of the pertaining situation," Ogarkov said in the Novosti article.

Q104 BONKERS HALLOWEEN BASH Fri. Oct. 31: SCREAMIN' LEE & THE ROCKTONES 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

Sat. Nov.1: DOW JONES & THE INDUSTRIALS 10 p.m.-2 a.m. Across from Cafe Latino in Aggieville, OPEN 4 p.m.-3 a.m., 1216 Laramie, 537-9591

539-5303

One number brings out the best at KSU

Now, at KSU, there's just one number to remember for fast delivery of pizza that's every bit as good as one you'd go out for.

Godfather's Pizza™ Now you don't have to settle for anything less, any more.

⁵2 off any large or '1 off any medium pizza delivered (Style and toppings of your choice) Offer also good on dine-in or carryout orders, but not valid with Sunday dine-in, free-drink offers.

Not valid with Tapper or other notional offers.

$2 off any large or '1 off any medium pizza delivered

(Style and toppings of your choice) carryout orders, but not valid with Sunday dine-in, free-drink offers Not valid with Tapper or other

Limited delivery area Limited delivery area

South of the border party Tonight!

Mexican Beer $1.25 Tequila $1.25 Well Drinks $1.50 Draws 80¢ Wine $1

Ask a riend

Personalized Physician Care Abortions Through All Legal Stages Free Pregnancy Tests Modern Medical Facilities 5107 E. Kellogg Wichita, Kansas

PICTURES of the 8 finalists will be on display for KSU students to cast their vote for 1 male & 1 female on official contest entry forms at the following location:

> Mon., Tues., Wed., Oct. 27, 28, 29 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

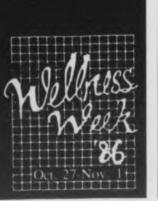

K-State Union

Winners to be announced at

KSU Rec. Complex Friday, October 31 11 p.m.-2 a.m.

For more info. call 532-6544

то ГФВ & БФЕ

The Winners Of Our 1986 Shirt Design Contest

Vildcat Spir

OPEN Monday through Saturday 9:30 to 5:30

716 N. Manhattan Ave. 776-5461

Aggieville

Collegiam Editorial

EDITOR Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR Sue Dawson

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

U.S. to waste money on 270 Air Force jets

"We sure didn't ask for those fighters," one Air Force official, who asked not to be named, told a reporter. The jet fighters he was referring to are the 270 F-20 jets that the Air Force may purchase.

Both the F-20 models and the the F-16, which is also under consideration, are far less capable of defending the United States than the Navy's F-14, which is currently used to defend aircraft car-

Air Force officials have complained that both of the proposed models are single-engine jets with limited range, limited radar and insufficient weapons - all of which they cite as important features of any air-defense fighter.

Adjutant Gen. Alexander Macdonald, whose North Dakota Air National Guard will have to use the new planes, has said, "The F-16 and F-20 were not designed as air-defense fighters." Macdonald added, "We are spending more money defending our aircraft carriers than we are our nation."

Macdonald has suggested the Air Force revamp its 180 F-4 models rather than purchase the new jets. For a cost of $750 million, the older jets could outperform the proposed 270 new jets, which will cost $4 billion. Although the new jet plan would give the Air Force considerably more jets, even the Air Force officials admit they would rather have fewer jets that do the job than 270 piles of junk.

But for the American taxpayers, who must foot the bill, the question is why the Air Force is receiving jets it neither needs nor wants. To encourage competition between defense contractors, the government is doing business with Northrop Corp., the designer of the inferior jets, rather than General Dynamics, which has long been the sole contractor for defense aircraft.

If the federal government really wants to encourage competition in the spirit of capitalism, it should buy the best quality at the lowest price instead of encouraging inefficiency.

U.S. should support Aquino's government

President Corazon Aquino may be facing its toughest situation since the ouster of Ferdinand Marcos earlier this year. This new attack is coming from an unexpected source, that of Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, who was instrumental in the ouster of Marcos eight months earlier.

Until now, opposition to Aguino's presidency came mainly from Marcos loyalists and the communist insurgents in the southern part of this South Pacific island nation.

This weekend, Enrile broke his pact not to criticize Aquino's government by speaking at a rally for pro-Marcos supporters. He addressed 5,000 people, telling them little has been accomplished because of "the problem of our national leadership." Enrile also

The government of Philippine complains that there has not been enough effort to defeat the communist insurgency.

> President Aquino is standing behind her pledge to achieve a peaceful, negotiated settlement with the rebels. However, Enrile is using this issue in an attempt to gain political power. By projecting her as soft on communism, he wants to erode Aquino's support, especially that which comes from the United States.

> If Enrile takes power, we will see a return of the type of corrupt system that existed under Marcos. The United States needs to preserve democracy by standing behind Aquino. America doesn't need to be responsible for supporting another military dictatorship, something that has happened too many times in the past. It is time to stand for democracy, not ideology.

Battle to continue in South Africa

The problem of South Africa is very broad and very complex because it cannot be isolated from the global struggle for spheres of influence and control by world powers. Many people do not understand why Western countries drag their feet on imposing sanctions on the regime, even when these countries disagree with apartheid policies. The survival of apartheid South Africa for all these years is not accidental; it is in line with the global strategy of the Western powers to make South Africa a "stabilizing force" and a police for Western interests south of the South Africa is what it is today because of the trade pact with the United States, Britain, France, Germany and Japan. The military and economic power of the regime is a result of this economic support. The billions of revenues South Africa derives from such trade connections have made the regime vicious and uncompromising. Our appeal to the international community to intervene on our behalf should be viewed in this light.

However, this must not be misinterpreted to mean that we shall sit down and fold our arms and look for sanctions to liberate us. We shall continue to fight the regime with everything at our disposal. We believe that for the regime to crumble, many fronts must be opened against it.

The history of investment corporation in South Africa has never been impressive. When the 1913 Native Land Act was passed and blacks were stripped of their right to own land, investment was already there. This act provided the white minority with 87 percent of the land, and we were given 13 percent. Can you imagine 25 million people sharing 13 percent of the land when 4 million share 87

Because blacks were so dependent on the land, their mode of living was destroyed; they were forced by hunger to run to the mines and industrial centers to work as wage laborers. As low-class workers, they were paid nothing short of something to keep them alive and continue working for the investors. They were forced to live in unbearable conditions that no normal human being could tolerate. Life became a question of half a loaf is better than nothing.

KEHLA MDLULI Guest Columnist

This is what we got from all foreign corporations. Yes, they provided employment, but black workers are dying daily in mines due to the lack of proper protection, and no compensation is offered to the berieved families. The recent mine disaster in the Transvall, in which more than 100 miners were burned to death, bears testimony to this

Our parents have worked for these companies for many years in return for nothing. Many have developed diseases such as tuberculosis and cancer as a result of the work they performed for years. The worst comes when they are forced to resign due to health reasons. They are paid unbelieveable pension fees and presented with a gold wristwatch. Is the gold watch going to take care of them throughout their old age? This is the courtesy we received from foreign cor-

In short, these companies exploited us just as much as the regime did. The existence of oppressive labor laws in South Africa was a blessing in disguise for many companies because they were ensured of constant cheap labor and more profit at the expense of the black population. We are delighted to now hear some of them withdrawing their shares from South Africa and calling for the stop of apartheid policies

A FEELING

For many years, developed countries made us entertain false illusions about their concern for our situation. When President John F. Kennedy came to South Africa in the early 1960s, blacks were happy in the belief that after visiting our "slums," he would pressurize the regime to change its policies. But up to now, conditions have only worsen-

In the early '60s, when political organizations and trade unions were banned, black workers were left with no organization to push for their rights. It was not until 1972 that the black Allied Worker Union was formed. This marked a new development in the political struggle of the black people after a long period of political lull caused by the Sharpeville shootings. About 1977, strikes gained momentum within the country, and in 1980, more trade unions came into the picture, causing a wildfire of strikes and boycotts all over South Africa.

The economy of South Africa depends on blacks; they are the pillar of it. The continuous strikes and daily boycott organized by the National Union of Mine Workers and the Congress of South African Trade Unions strengthened the bargaining position of the black workers. Several companies are losing billions of dollars as a result of this; tons and tons of products are piling up with no outlets. This development directly affects the upperclass white voters who are shareholders in these companies. It is this development that led to a meeting in Lusaka last year between the African National Congress and the South African white businessmen. This move was a blow to the Botha regime, which has vowed never to negotiate with the black nationalist leaders at any stage

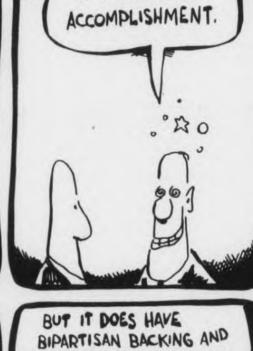

The situation in South Africa is slowly moving in favor of the black oppressed. Our position vs. the enemy is growing stronger and stronger. And what should be clear to the world now is that the black oppressed of South Africa will stop at nothing until they gain their freedom.

Kehla Mdluli is a sophomore in business education

A FEELING OF

etters

Nicaraguan nightmare

Editor,

I would like to add a bit to the several articles that have appeared in the Collegian this semester concerning the aspects of the illegal war being carried out by the CIA (with the silent blessing of the Reagan administration) against the popularly elected Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

The CIA secretly mining civilian harbors, the Reagan administration's refusal to accept the World Court's ruling that aiding the contras was in violation of international law, and more recently, the pot of lies and coverup - all of these fit together well with the hundreds of other sequels of the latest morbid soap opera contrived by the U.S. govern-

I foresee no alternative to the Nicaraguan situation other than a U.S. military invasion. With Ronald Reagan's personal hard line against the Sandinistas, the rest of the 2.5 million inhabitants of this nation have no hope of dissuading him from his history-book dream of saving the Western Hemisphere from Communism.

As a special note to those planning to pursue careers in the military in the near future - the Sandinista National Liberation Front is made up of not only military personnel, but of a civilian volunteer militia of tens of thousands of men, women and adolescents. Thus, as in the Vietnam War, you had better be prepared to shoot any human you line up in your sights, regardless of age, sex or circumstance, for they will be shooting at you. And, after it has all blown over some years down the road, you had better also be prepared to involuntarily re-envision the faces and the mutilated bodies of those people in your nightmares.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Answer to questions

Re: Scott Miller's column, "Press clouds superpowers' spy cases," in Thursday's Collegian.

Miller asks many questions and fails to answer them, saying "I'm no politician." As President Reagan would say, examine the facts and issues at hand and I believe answers can be found.

First, we must define "spying." Gennadiy Zakharov was caught "red-handed" doing impermissable activities thought to be beneficial to the government of the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union felt the same way about Nicholas Daniloff.

Second, let us examine Daniloff's case. He is a reporter for U.S. News & World Report. He has been harassed by KGB agents in the Soviet Union for years. This instance where he was arrested wasn't the only time when he was accused. However, he wasn't tried or convicted by the Soviet Union, so when the press uses the word "reporter," I believe they are justified.

Third, Zakharov was caught. Also, before his expulsion from the country, he was tried in a New York district court and convicted. He did plea "no contest," but for the record, he is guilty. The Associated Press did not skip due process; he is a convicted felon that has been expelled from the United States. I would suggest "spy" is an appropriate word.

Fourth, these two cases have very little to do with the United Nations. The United Nations has approximately 800 Soviet members, more than twice that of the second largest mission, the United States. It is true that the United States believes they are spying, as Arkady Schevchenko reported. And a Senate committee suggested that one-fourth of the Soviets in the United Nations are intelligence officers and many more have been co-opted by the KGB. They also reported that the U.N. Soviets must respond to the KGB, collect information, support worldwide intelligence operations and collect scientific and technical information valuable to the Soviet Union.

However, Ronald Reagan is just trying to get the Soviet Union's U.N. delegation to a reasonable size. He ordered more than 200 Soviets out of the United States last spring. He is reducing their mission over a period of time. Regardless of whether they are spies, he is only trying to lower the propensity for Fifth, I would suggest the United States is correct in their assumptions. If the Soviet Union wasn't gaining anything from the overabundance of delegates, why would they retaliate? From assessing the information that the press gives us, we can tell that the Soviet Union is benefiting from the United Nations being on American soil. Reagan isn't kicking the Soviets out, just reducing their numbers. Mikhail Gorbachev is losing an information source and, thus, retaliating.

> Michael Krueger junior in economics

Lottery unnecessary

Re: The editorial, "Kansas loses revenue without state lottery," in Friday's Collegian. We would like to present the following information on the lottery and its benefits. We believe your readers should know the facts before casting their ballots

For every $1 spent on the lottery, only 30 cents comes back to the state, while 30 cents goes to promote and operate the games and 40 cents goes to the winners.

For the lottery to reach the expected goal of $100 million in annual sales, each man, woman and child in Kansas must buy $50 of lottery tickets. In Riley County, with a population of 60,000 this amounts to a possible $3 million in lost sales to merchants each year - If more money is indeed necessary, there are alternatives to the state of Kansas becoming a gambling promoter. For example, a sales tax of merely one-sixth of a cent would equal the state's projected share of the revenue from a lottery. These facts are well worth knowing to cast an educated vote.

Kenneth Burkhard Manhattan resident and one other

Alcohol to blame

The following statistics are from a 1983 U.S. Health and Human Services and a 1982

Alcohol is involved in the following: 66 percent of all fatal vehicle accidents, 70 percent of all murders, 41 percent of assaults and 53 percent of all fire deaths

Alcohol is also involved in 50 percent of all rape cases, 60 percent of all child abuse cases, 56 percent of all fights and assaults occurring in the home, 37 percent of all suicides, 55 percent of all arrests and 36 percent of all pedestrian accidents Finally, alcohol is involved in 22 percent of all home accidents, 45 percent of all drownings and 50 percent of all skiing accidents. Alcohol is the cause of more admissions to mental hospitals than any other cause, and it is the No. 1 killer of people under 25 years old. Please vote "no" on the liquor-by-thedrink question.

Marilyn Clawson senior in elementary education, and five others

Sexually transmitted disease, chlamydia, not well known

By STEVEN DAVID Collegian Reporter

A disease is spreading across the nation and college campuses, and although it is not new, it was seldom heard about by the public until recently.

The disease is chlamydia, and it is seen in a far greater number of cases than other sexually transmitted diseases like gonorrhea, syphilis, herpes and acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS)

"Because of the incidences of chlamydia, it is a worse disease than gonorrhea, herpes or syphilis," said Dr. Robert Ecklund, a physician at Lafene Student Health Center.

In 1984, there were 3 million cases of chlamydia reported throughout the United States, compared to 2 million cases of gonorrhea, 500,000 cases of herpes and 90,000 cases of syphilis, according to statistics from the Center for Disease Control. However, unlike other sexually transmitted diseases, chlamydia is not fatal. It is far less likely to spread or cause severe complications to other parts of the body outside the genital area, Ecklund said.

'Chlamydia is a major form of bacterium that is one step up from a virus," he said.

Chlamydia is a disorder that affects both sexes. However, it tends to be more severe for females because the disease tends to be more asystematic in women, meaning it will stay localized and cause damage without exhibiting any symptoms.

Eight years ago, this condition was known as non-specific urethritis, Ecklund said. This term applies to several types of bacterium including chlamydia, which is the most common form. Today, these bacteria are called nongonococcal urethritis. This is an inflamation of the urethra that resembles gonorrhea but is not caused by the gonorrhea-producing bacterium. The symptoms of chlamydia for men include painful urination and a watery discharge from the penis. Chlamydia can result in epididymitis, which causes inflammation of the testicles and can result Epididymitis claims more than 250,000 victims in the United States each year. Other complications proctitis (anal inflammation) in homosexuals and Reiter's syndrome, an arthritis-like condition.

Sixty percent to 80 percent of women and 10 percent of men have chlamydia but show no symptoms, because the disease is internal in women and often is not noticed until complications set in.

Although chlamydia tends to be concentrated around the genitals, it can spread to the eyes. This condition is more prevalent in the Middle East and developing nations. Ecklund said U.S. doctors see very little chlamydia in the eyes.

Chlamydia usually can be eradicated through the use of antibiotics, Ecklund said, but if nongonococcal urethritis spreads to aren't effective, and the disease may flare up later.

In women, the symptoms of chlamydia are itching and burning in the genitals, vaginal discharge, dull pelvic pain and bleeding between menstrual periods. These symptoms can result in chronic pelvic pain, tubal infections and pelvic inflammatory disease, Ecklund said.

Some conditions can lead to sterility and are also treated with antibiotics. If the disease progresses long enough without treatment, a pelvic sweep may result. The pelvic sweep involves an operation where the tubes, uterus and ovaries are removed.

Another circumstance of the disease that may result without resulting from the disease include the prostrate gland, antibiotics treatment is salpingitis, a scarring of the fallopian tubes that may result in an ectopic pregnancy, a condition where the embryo develops in the fallopian tube rather than the uterus.

It is possible for a mother to spread the disease to her child during the birth process. This can cause conjunctivitis in the child's eyes. It may spread to the lungs and cause pneumonia or spread to the intestines and cause diarrhea in the infant, Ecklund said.

Ecklund said men who have the disease should notify their partners because it is often the only way a woman will know if she has the disease before complications set in. Chlamydia is a "fastidious

See DISEASE, Page 12

Lost goat visits campus; possible prank victim

By DERON JOHNSON Features Editor

It wasn't the usual stray animal call Sunday morning. K-State Police were summoned to Goodnow Hall where some students were dutifully guarding a stray goat that somehow, at some time during the night, wandered onto campus. Why or how is not clear, said Tom McIntyre of the campus police.

"A couple of students got a hold of it (the goat) and held on to it until we could transport it," McIntyre

McIntyre said that although it's not apparent the animal is a family pet, he didn't think it is wild. It is being cared for by employees and students at the College of Veterinary Medicine.

"It wasn't wild when we put it in the truck or walked it down the hall at vet med," McIntyre said, adding he couldn't recall any other instances of stray animals as unusual as a goat.

In fact, the appearance of the missing goat has attracted a great deal of attention.

Perhaps she came in for Jon Wefald's inauguration," joked Catherine Sayler, senior in veterinary medicine. Sayler said she has helped care for the goat, which she has named "Dennise."

While Sayler has no clues as to Dennise's origins, she believes the goat was a family pet.

"It's obvious to me she's a pet and possibly a pet that someone has had since birth. She's at least five pranks that involve animals.

and probably a little older," Sayler said. "She's quite the pet." While no one knows where the goat came from, Sayler said she believes it may have been the victim of a prank, possibly related to last week's homecoming. "I think she was 'goatnapped' by someone Saturday night, and I'm worried she was taken from a farm 15 or 20 miles away," she said. Finding Dennise's owner "may be more difficult than all the medicine I do," Sayler said.

Caroline Niederman, intern in the food animal department at the College of Veterinary Medicine, said the college has tried to locate the goat's owner.

"We called the Humane Society, and I thought of calling the (local) radio stations," Niederman said. The goat is obviously from around

"My feeling is that we (will) keep the goat for a week or so. I'm sure if no one ever shows up, we can find someone interested in having it as a Niederman said anyone who has information regarding the goat can call the large animal desk at the veterinary hospital.

Sayler and Niederman said they believe that this is the first time a goat has shown up on campus.

The prospect of someone using animals for practical jokes concerns Sayler.

"I think it's disturbing it has happened because we have an animal that has been displaced," she said. "I personally get very upset over

HUNAM EXPRESS

invite you to party

with the Kappas!!!

1116 Mora 537-0886

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

Catherine Sayler, senior in veterinary medicine, gets a kiss from a goat held at the Veterinary Medicine Center. The goat, found on campus Sunday morning in front of Goodnow Hall, is being held until it is claimed.

Relatives sell belongings of U.S. defectors

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON - The house owned by a cancer researcher who defected with his family to the Soviet Union is up for sale, and two cars left in the driveway and much of the furnishings inside are gone.

Arnold Lockshin's home in Houston is on the market for $82,500 and has been shown twice, the Houston Chronicle reported Monday. A source not identified by the Chronicle said about $62,000 remains owed on the $69,500 mortgage.

Lockshin, 47, turned up in Moscow on Oct. 8 with his wife Lauren and their children Jennifer, 15, Jeffrey, 11 and Michael, 5. He had been fired two months earlier from the Stehlin Foundation for Cancer Research in

A neighbor, Cynthia Orlin, said an elderly couple visited the house recently, identifying themselves as Winifred Brown, Lauren Lockshin's mother, and Herbert Lebovici, Brown's brother.

"They were very sweet people and it was quite a shock," Orlin said. "She was devastated."

"I gathered Lauren said to just walk away and not bother about anything except the house," she said. But Lauren Lockshin's mother and uncle spent several days selling, giving away and throwing out the house's contents. They also took the two cars, Orlin said. Lebovici said his sister intends to put money from the sale of the house into a trust fund, probably in her daughter's name.

Restaurant

1304 Westroop 539-8888

Open 7 days a week # # #

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

$2 Pitchers

Lecturer explains use of exercise as preventative medicine for illnesses

By AMY GREENE Collegian Reporter

Exercise is a preventative prophylactic medicine, said Mari Hopper, instructor of physical education, dance and leisure studies, in a Wellness Week speech, "Exercise...a Prophylactic.

Hopper said the mechanism behind why exercise prevents a disease is not clear, but exercise has been shown to prevent osteoporosis, adult-onset diabetes, hypertension, arthritis, depression, anxiety and in-

"Exercise can prevent various psychological and physiological disorders," Hopper said.

Osteoporosis, a disease common in the elderly and post-menopausal women, is a reduction in bone mass. Through exercise, there is a balance in the breakdown and generation of bone mass, Hopper said.

Calcium tablets alone will not help prevent osteoporosis, Hopper said, but exercising plus the calcium tablets add to the prevention of the disease.

exceptional children

there is a metabolic imbalance or breaking down of sugar in the blood.

Hopper said 90 percent of the cases of diabetes can be cured with exercise. Exercise helps clear blood of glucose and decreases blood lipids while helping to lower high bood

Hopper stressed checking with a physician before beginning any type of exercise.

Hypertension or high bood pressure also can be prevented by exercise, Hopper said.

Exercise can reduce blood pressure, control weight and control the amount of medicine needed to regulate high blood pressure, she

Although many people with arthritis cannot exercise, Hopper said, swimming and flexibility exercises can help ease the pain. The intensity and duration of exercise depends upon the type and severity of an individual case of arthritis.

Obesity also can be prevented by exercise. Exercise can reduce the calories expended, control the ap-

Adult-onset diabetes occurs when petite and enhance one's self-concept, she said. Cardiovascular disease is the No. 1 killer in the country and results in 50 percent of the deaths today.

"If you don't get a cardiovascular disease, both persons next to you will," Hopper said, adding that proper exercise reduces the number of deaths due to cardiovascular disease.

Depression, anxiety and insomnia also can be reduced by exercise because exercise can make a person feel better, she said.

Hopper said that by exercising, the quality of life is better and some diseases have a better chance of being prevented.

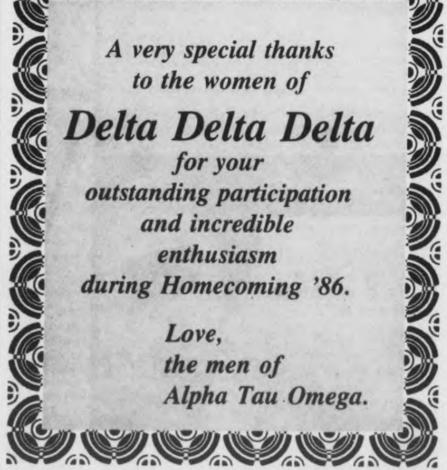

Support the (7) March of Dimes

45 Years Serving America's Children

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO 1 776-0030

"Choral Classics"

(works by Byrd, Schubert, Bach and Vaughn Williams)

Thursday, Oct. 30 8 p.m. All Faiths Chapel $3 Adults $1.50 Students & Seniors

Tickets available from choir members or at the door.

SB756 &

SB757 — Kansas Venture Capital System HB2901 - expansion of county enterprise zones HB3121 - business & job development tax incentives

HCR5047 — tax exemptions for economic development Ivan Sand Supports Fiscal Responsibility & Prudent Use of Your

Ivan Sand Supports Education. In 1986 Representative Sand Voted Yes For:

SB601 — expanded per pupil expenditures to include 4-year old

SB754 — income tax credits for research & development

SB500 — a fair way to determine state aid to community colleges

SB755 — creation of the Kansas Technology Enterprise Corporation

Ivan Sand Supports Job Creation & Economic Growth. In 1986 & 1985 Representative Sand Voted Yes For:

HB2836 - local option income tax for education

In 1985 Representative Sand Voted No On: Over $65 Million in additional appropriation requests CAN WE AFFORD KATHA HURT? TO WHOM WOULD KATHA HURT SAY NO? RE-ELECT REPRESENTATIVE SAND WHO VOTES TO SUPPORT

NEEDED PROGRAMS IN A FISCALLY

Tax Dollars.

RESPONSIBLE WAY. RE-ELECT IVAN SAND — REPRESENTATIVE — 66TH DISTRICT.

Specialist says marketing could be profitable for farmers

By BOB OLSON Staff Writer

Given the current price situation for crops, many Kansas producers have the attitude that it would take a miracle to turn a profit. Consequently, many believe any effort spent on marketing would just be a waste of "This is just not true," said William Tierney, extension marketing specialist. "This year, program participation and a sensible marketing strategy would have resulted in a substantial profit for a corn producer.

Tierney said corn and milo prices are about 50 cents per bushel below loan value. He said this has resulted in feedgrain producers scrambling to find storage so they can capture the "loan premium" caused by rising grain prices.

Tierney defined a loan premium as being the positive difference between the amount of the loan and the local tion levels. cash price for the crop.

"Sharp reductions in production of hard red winter wheat, plus a small recovery in exports, caused prices to rise at loan levels early in the marketing year," he said. Tierney also predicted wheat prices will drop below loan levels in the next six mon-

Producers might think the best strategy would be to put the crop under loan, store it for nine months and hope prices rally, Tierney said. But, he added, if that doesn't happen, they then forfeit the crop to the Commodity Credit Corporation.

"That bit of strategy immediately runs into two problems, the first being that storage facilities are in short supply and even non-existent in some areas," he said.

The second problem, he said, is that storage costs money, and the farmer pays accrued interest charges if prices rise to loan redemp-

Tierney said his approach combines the best of the two strategies for marketing this fall. He advises farmers to place their crop under loan to capture that "loan premium,"

Once the farmer has the loan on his crop, he should redeem the loan with purchased payment-in-kind certificates and then sell the grain. Tierney said this action should be taken regardless of whether the grain is being stored in a commercial elevator, bins or on the ground at their own farms.

Tierney said this action allows the farmer to capture the loan premium while at the same time avoiding

Many farmers and landlords don't consider participating in advance deficiency, conservation and land diversion payments programs because their economic base is too small in relation to the amount of acres they have under tillage, he

PIK certificates are paid to participants in lieu of cash for a portion of their advance deficiency, conservation and land diversion payments. Additional PIK entitlements are expected to be made during the next 12 months, Tierney said.

Participants in these programs will receive PIK entitlements that may be credited to any outstanding loans. The entitlements can also be sold to others, be redeemed for cash from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service or can be purchased from others and exchanged for catalog commodity stocks, he

PIK certificates are financial instruments that resemble a bond and have a face value and expiration date. Buying and selling prices are determined by the market, Tierney

PIK certificates vary widely in value, he said. The value of a certificate can be determined by adding the local cash price and the cost of nine months' storage. That total is then divided by the ASCS posted price for the particular county.

As an example, Tierney said, "If the corn price at harvest was $1.40 per bushel, and it cost 15 cents per bushel to store the crop on the farm and the posted county price was $1.25, the PIK certificate would be worth 124 percent of its face value."

He said a farmer obtaining a certificate at 114 percent would save 10 percent over the price of the PIK, and he would have redeemed his loan at the posted county price, not the loan redemption value.

"If a farmer borrowed $1.70 per bushel for 10,000 bushels of milo, Uncle Sam would give him $17,000," Tierney said. "But to redeem the loan using PIK certificates, he would only need to pay back the posted county price. If the price was $1.25 per bushel, the farmer would only need $12,500 in PIK certificates.

"The only problem with putting crops under loan and redeeming them with PIK certificates is that the farmer would miss an after-harvest price rally, if one occurred."

The news remains bad for crop producers, and it's not likely to get better in the near future, he said.

"The talk of crop damage somehow turning prices around ignores the fact that even though some losses are occurring, farmers should market even more of their crops immediately after harvest. This 'fire sale' of damaged grains could result in harvest prices being even weaker than they are," Tierney said.

He said that this is because the fate of the 1986-87 crop is already decided. Uncertainty over agriculture policy. coupled with weak demand and staggering surpluses, will push prices

See TIERNEY, Page 12

- ALL MAJOR BRANDS OF NATURAL FOODS
- . NATURAL DIET AIDS

WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS

. BOOKS ON NUTRITION * STOP BY TODAY *

537-4571 3112 Anderson HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m. Ramada Inn WEDNESDAY

99¢

Wine Coolers and Spritzers FREE Cajun Hors D'oeuvres

4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSL

"Wellness Week '86" Sponsored by

Lafene Health Center

Notice:

Due to short staffing during "Health Fair '86" Wed., October 29, 1986 only acute health care will be available.

> Come join the fun at "Health Fair '86"

Oct. 27-Nov. 1

"Complete line of Brazier foods now at both stores!" Open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., til midnight Friday & Saturday For fast carry-out call 776-4117

1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

12th & Moro Aggieville

WE TREAT YOU RIGHT THE STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE P

Watch for the Winter 1987 Intersession Course Listing in the November 3rd Collegian!

- -Intersession is January 2-13, 1987, and offers 37 credit courses in a wide variety of departments for both undergraduate and graduate credit.
- Registration for Intersession will be at Farrell Library December 8-10.
- -Complete information will be published in the November 3 Collegian.

Watch For It!

(For more information call the Division of Continuing Education, 532-5566)

Division of Continuing Education Kansas State University

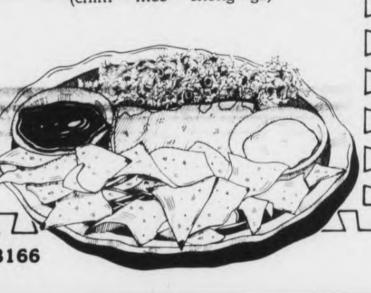

Our chimichangas literally melt in your mouth. They (chim * mee * chong *ga)

are deep-fried flour tortillas filled deliciously with taco meat, black olives, and our special sauce—and served with lettuce and cheese, chips, sour cream, and salsa. You've never had a Mexican meal that compares with this one!

1219 Bluemont

539-3166 in Aggieville

Wednesday, October 29, 1986

THE VIRGIN SPRING

An Ingmar Bergman classic! Today, 7:30 p.m., Forum Hall & Tomorrow, 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. orum Hall, $1.75 admission: KSU ID required: Unrated.

The Virgin Spring grimly depicts a father's ruthless rengeance for the rape and nurder of his virgin daughter. Bergman fills our eyes with highly contrasting black and white to evoke an imaginative edieval world, suggesting he battle between Christianity and paganism. For a man of Bergman's sophistication, the ustere simplicity of this film a rare achievement.

k-state union

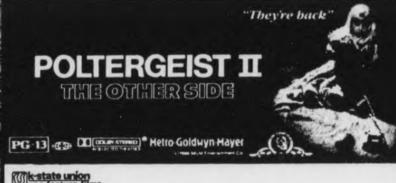

NOV 15&16 EXPLC?E TWO OF THE DEEP, DARK CAVERNS $32.00 OF CENTRAL MISSOURI I

SIGN-UP: 8:15AM-4:00 PM-ACTIVITIES CENTER STUDENTS - OCT 22 - NOV11 GENERAL - OCT 23 - NOV11

For more information on UPC events, call 532-6571.

Now Available — Feature Films Discount Pass. Only $8.50 for any 6 feature films — Buy 5, get one free!

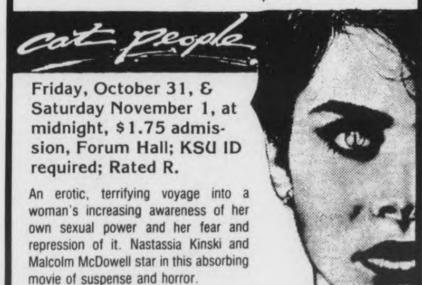

K-state union

Friday, October 31, & Saturday, November 1, 7 & 9:30 p.m.,

$1.75 admission, Forum Hall; KSU ID required; Unrated.

They're Back - the Freeling family nightmare continues: a host of ghosts and demons seek control of the minds and bodies of Craig T. Nelson. JoBeth Williams and Heather O'Rourke.

Wear a costume to the films - Poltergeist II and Cat People — on Halloween only! Get 25- off admissions!

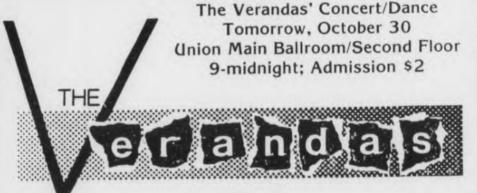

Saturday 2 p.m. & Sunday 2 p.m. & 7 p.m., $1.50 admission, Forum Hall: KSU ID required: Rated PG.

In this Academy Award winning Disney film, the search for a lost magic spell lands everyone in a witch's brew, bubbling with fantasy, music, animation and live-action adventure. Stars Angela Lansbury and Roddy McDo-

k-state union

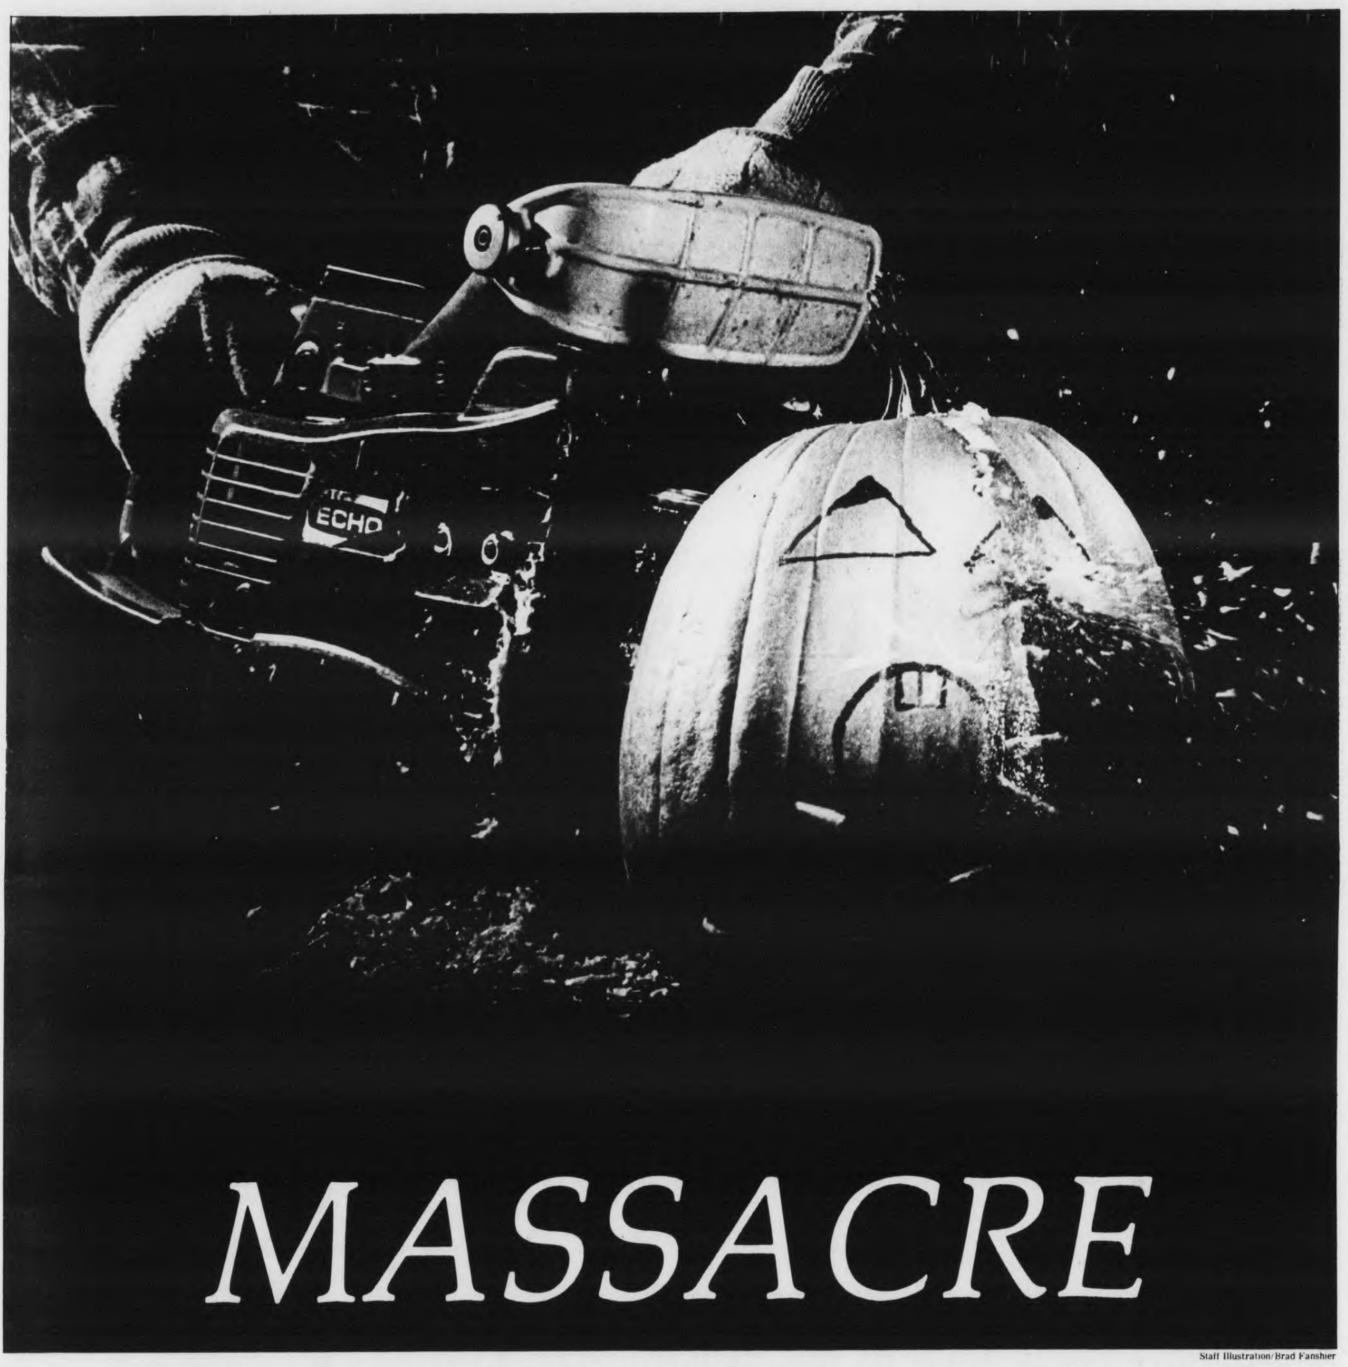

The Verandas' music is fresh an aggressive. It refuses to be set aside as background noise. The original music holds its own and mixes well with the cover material they have chosen. The simple hooks, direct melodies, relatable lyrics and infectious dance grooves make their own music immediately accessible, even to new audiences. But the Verandas are far from new to most K-Staters. The band is very well received and welcomed by the Aggieville crowd. Past visits include Brother's Tavern and Mannequins.

Co-sponsored with Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service in conjunction with "Wellness Week '86."

(k-state union

THE GREAT PUMPKIN

By KRISTI KRUCKENBERG Collegian Reporter

Pity the poor pumpkin.

Arguably, it is the most abused fruit in existence. In the fall, when the temperatures cool its shell and it has reached maturity. the pumpkin is rudely plucked from its vine, only to be sold to heartless victimizers.

These evil characters then puncture the pumpkin's shell with a long, sleek knife, specially sharpened for the occasion. With its stem decapitated and its insides purged, it then is disgraced with an amateurish face that neither scares nor impresses. And all in the name of tradition.

As if the carving isn't bad enough, the poor Halloween pumpkin isn't even consumed. No, that's too good. It must face the degrading task of either rotting on a porch or being pillaged by vandals.

Indeed, the pumpkin's life is not a glamorous one. However, for those who refuse to part with tradition, the pumpkin is still a fall season - even if it is an who had recently died. undignified one.

it's no wonder they are the rage each October.

Not only can a pumpkin's pulp be used to make a tasty pie filling, but its seeds can be toasted and eaten. That's a lot of enjoyment for a very small price.

Probably the most obvious reason people purchase pumpkins - especially near Halloween — is to transform them into decorative jack-o'-lanterns.

This Halloween tradition originated in medieval times. Allhallows Eve was celebrated by the Celts and Anglo-Saxons on Oct. 31. On this night, it was believed elves, fairies and witches flew, and people lit bonfires and lanterns to ward off these evil spirits. These lanterns were made by removing the insides of turnips and carving slits in the sides to provide light.

This evening was followed by All Saint's Day, a day to marvelous supplement to the remember saints and those

Today, the custom of Pumpkins are so versatile Allhallows Eve has been altered to Halloween, and we carve lanterns out of pumpkins instead of turnips. Most people are no longer concerned with warding off evil spirits but rather set jack-o'-lanterns outside our homes to welcome children trick-or-treating on Halloween.

Children are not the only who enjoy ones jack-o'-lanterns. Pumpkincarving contests are held every October for people of all ages. Such contests challenge the creativity of contestants, allowing them to demonstrate their carving expertise and test their imaginations.

Because of their seasonal popularity, pumpkins are sold at nearly every grocery store in town. Most are grown locally.

Westside Market, 531 Richards Drive, sells pumpkins that are grown near Manhattan and Wamego. Prices range from 10 to 20 cents per pound.

"We mark our pumpkins individually, according to their appearance and ripeness," said Diana Moorman, Westside Market employee.

Moorman said the pumpkin season began about 21/2 weeks ago and will extend for another two weeks.

"The pumpkin season will be shorter this year due to all of this rain," Moorman said. "A lot of farmers lost much of their crop because too much moisture caused the pumpkins to lie in the fields and rot."

Moorman said about 1,600 pounds of pumpkins are sold at Westside Market each season.

Although the number of pumpkins purchased usually increases as Halloween draws near, Moorman said many people buy their pumpkins early in the season.

Britt's Garden Acres, Rt. 1, located southwest of Manhattan, grows and sells pumpkins. They recommend people wait to buy their pumpkins to make certain they will last until Halloween.

Pumpkins also are bought to make pumpkin pie filling, as it is often thought to be best when made "from scratch."

When buying a pumpkin for this purpose, the Good Housekeeping Cookbook said it is best to buy a pumpkin that is bright orange, firm and unblemished. The Good Housekeeping Cookbook's recipe for pumpkin pie filling requires two pounds (32 ounces) of raw pumpkin.

To make the filling, halve the pumpkin and remove the seeds and stringy portion from the rest of the pulp. Cut the pulp into small pieces, removing it from the pumpkin shell. Place these pieces in one inch of boiling water and add one-half teaspoon salt. Cover and boil for 25 to 30 minutes. Drain and mash to an even texture.

cooked and mashed pumpkin respect. After all, it deserves with two eggs (slightly it.

beaten), three-fourths cup sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ground ginger, one-fourth teaspoon ground cloves and one 12-ounce can of evaporated milk, in the order listed. Beat the ingredients well and pour the mixture into a 9-inch pie shell. Bake at 425 degrees Fahrenheit for 15 minutes. Then reduce the heat to 350 degrees and bake an additional 45 minutes.

Pumpkin seeds also can be prepared to eat. A favorite pumpkin seed recipe of Judi Moritz, junior in psychology and business administration, is as follows:

Rinse the seeds thoroughly, removing all the pulp, and spread them on a cookie sheet. Sprinkle them with salt and bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for about 10 or 15 minutes, until they're light brown.

This Halloween, as you're carving and consuming the Then combine the 2 cups of lowly pumpkin, give it some

Ministers hold mock trial, convict U.S. government

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Conducting a mock trial outside the Supreme Court, a group of fundamentalist Christian ministers Tuesday convicted numerous government officials of violating God's law.

Representing the American Coalition of Unregistered Churches, the ministers found the government guilty of allowing abortion, sodomy and "a communist-style income and Social Security tax.

The ministers led about 50 people in prayer and Bible reading as they conducted a trial before what was called the universal court of divine justice.

'We are here today in an at-Everett Sileven of Faith Baptist Church in Louisville, Neb.

"We are holding a trial before for tax evasion.

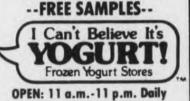

God because the government has become the enemy of the people," said Sileven, the coalition's co-

The religious organization said hundreds of "political prisoners" including former Rep. George Hansen of Idaho, and ex-federal judge Harry E. Claiborne - are being held for, as Sileven put it, "being brave and standing up to the Internal Revenue Service.

Hansen, a conservative Republican who served seven terms in Congress, was convicted in 1984 and sentenced to five to 15 months in prison for falsifying financial reports filed with the House of Representatives.

Claiborne was ordered removed from office earlier this month tempt to have all elected officials after the Senate found him guilty return this nation to of "high crimes and misderighteousness," said the Rev. meanors" by willfully filing a false income tax return. He is serving a two-year prison sentence

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

> WE PROVIDE SERVICES TO KEEP YOU WELL — YOU ARE WELL

WORTH IT.

Lafene Health Center

1986 ANNUAL CHRISTMAS WALLACE SILVERSMITHS GIFT-16th BOXED INA SERIES $21.95

Children sledding down snowy slopes are depicted on this classic Christmas bell in luxurious silverplate, never to be repeated. Back Editions Available

Assertiveness not 'aggressive behavior'

By The Collegian Staff

Many people mistake aggressive behavior for assertiveness. However, assertiveness is a sign of respect for other people's rights, said an assistant in the Counseling Center in a Wellness Week program Tues-

The program, "Assertive Communication: Your Route to Personal Effectiveness." introduced ideas on how to communicate intentions and thoughts more clearly. Susan Scott Angle of the Counseling Center conducted the session in the Union.

Tonight

CINEMA

$2 Pitchers

Halloween

Party

Friday

also FREE

T.G.I.F

Sandwich

Bar.

behavior. The first is aggressive behavior, which is believing personal rights are greater than those of others. Passive behavior is believing personal rights are less significant than those of others. The thrid, assertive behavior, is believing personal rights are equal to others.

Assertive behavior is commonly misconstrued as trying to change other people's thoughts. Others assume that once individuals become assertive, they are always that way.

"The goal is to change your own

$1.50

House drinks

Blended drinks

Wines

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Angle said there are three types of thoughts and behavior, not others'. That would be manipulation training," Angle said. "Also, you learn to choose when and when not to be assertive.

Becoming assertive may take some time, she said. Depending on the individual, "it usually takes four, five or six sessions to be on the way to being assertive.

Angle also gave some tips on being assertive. She said to state complaints using "I" rather than "you," give a reason for complaining, show an understanding of the other person's position and then request

But no matter how politely assertive people become, Angle said, some people still will be offended. Her classes used to consist mainly of women. Recently, however, more men have been attending the session,

Many people take her classes to become less aggressive, rather than more assertive, she said.

The program also included a film. 'Responsible Assertiveness," that not only reiterated Angle's presentation but showed an actual assertiveness counseling session.

Non-Competitive Pre-Marked Course

Saturday, November 1, 1986 RILEY COUNTY COURTHOUSE PLAZA STARTING TIME - 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. (must be finished by 5 p.m.) PRE-REGISTER BY CALLING

537-9683 OCTOBER 27-31, 1986, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. FREE TO THE ENTIRE FAMILY

Sponsored by Lafene Health Center and Manhattan Main Street Project

• All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.

• Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock. · Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

Drs Price, Young and Odle
1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan

537-1118

It's Time To

CAMP OUT WITH THE 'CATS

Student basketball tickets go on sale Monday, Nov. 3 at 8 a.m. in the east lobby of Ahearn. If Midnight Madness was any indication, you'll have to get in line early.

In fact, Lon Kruger and Q 104 radio station will be at the campsite, looking for a tent city from Friday to Monday.

12 games — just $30

(Also, free admission to both exhibition games)

Tickets on sale MONDAY

Hall of Fame chooses Hartman as nominee

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Former K-State basketball coach Jack Hartman, already a legend with sports fans around the Midwest, has been nominated for induction into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

Hartman is one of a prestigious group of 11 nominees that includes, among others, former National Basketball Association greats Walt Frazier, Earl Monroe, Rick Barry and Pete Maravich.

"It's a tremendous honor," Hartman said. "Basketball is a team game, and most awards and honors are, or should be, placed on a team basis. But in this case, why this is a very special thing, and I'm very pro-

Hartman said the nomination was "very possibly" the biggest individual honor he has ever been ac-

The 11 names will now be submitted to the Hall of Fame's Honor Committee, which makes the final selections. A nominee must garner 18 of 24 votes in order to be inducted.

Hartman, who came to K-State in 1970 after a successful coaching career at Southern Illinois-Carbondale, compiled a 295-169 record in his 16 years as the Wildcats' mentor before stepping down after last season. Hartman tallied 589 wins overall in 31 seasons as a collegiate coach.

His illustrious coaching career was marked by three Big Eight Conference championships and two postseason tournament titles. Hartman also led the Wildcats to seven appearances in the NCAA postseason tournament.

Hartman was instrumental as well in turning out several professional players, including current NBA stars Rolando Blackman and Mike Evans.

Hartman, who said he will continue to follow Wildcat basketball with immense interest, still resides in the Manhattan area.

"I'm enjoying my retirement very, very much," he said. "I think, after coaching as long as I did, you'll always miss it. But I'm very comfortable doing what I'm doing, (which is) really not a whole lot of anything other than just recreation and pleasure things, like playing golf, fishing and traveling. I'm going to do some TV color work (for college basketball)."

Hartman said he is confident that his successor and former player, Lon Kruger, will be able to continue the winning tradition at K-State.

"I think he'll do a fine job," Hart-

Parade for champion Mets one of New York's largest one mile route to City Hall.

Johnson

"What the Mets have done is to take New York, the international capital, and turn it into a small town today," said Mayor Edward

Koch, who rode in the lead car of the parade with Gov. Mario M.

Cuomo and Mets Manager Davey

Their car was preceded by two

Sanitation Department snowplows that scooped up ankle-deep debris

so the parade could proceed. On a gloriously sunny, crisp fall day, the skies rained tons and tons of paper.

been unbelievable." said Mets third baseman Ray Knight, the most valuable player of the World Series in which the Mets beat the Boston Red Sox by winning Game 7

"The whole last three days have

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - The world champion Mets basked in sunshine, confetti and adulation Tuesday as an estimated 2.2 million New Yorkers hailed their heroes in a thunderous, chaotic ticker tape parade.

"The team is in a euphoric state," said Mets co-owner Fred Wilpon, also expressing the mood of the city. "We are absolutely thrilled.

Fans knocked over police barricades and flooded the streets of lower Manhattan in a riot of joy as open limousines carrying team members threaded their way slowly up Broadway. It was impossible to tell where the crowd ended and the parade began.

People dangled from trees, perched on ledges and cheered from rooftops and windows along the

"This means everything," said second baseman Wally Backman.

About two dozen people were treated for minor injuries, most of them caused by "pushing and shoving and excitement,' Emergency Medical Service spokeswoman Donna Osso said.

The Police Department deployed 2,500 officers, many of them on horseback. Police reported only one arrest. A police spokesman said he did not know the charge.

Koch said it was the largest parade in the city's history, but police in the past have estimated that as many as 7.5 million people lined the streets for a parade in 1951 honoring the return of General Douglas MacArthur and that 4 million turned out for astronaut John Glenn in 1962.

Humphrey's enthusiasm helps 'Cats tackle defensive woes

Defensive lineman uses technique to equalize physical shortcomings

By RON RENO Sports Writer

K-State football coach Stan Parrish must shudder to think where his youthful defense would be without the leadership and experience of senior defensive tackle Kevin

"He's really done a good job," Parrish said. "He's played well every week. He's been a little banged up on occasion and still played well. (He has) good work habits in practice, he's very serious about what he does

"(He has) provided a quiet kind of leadership for our program. He's been one of our top players week in and week out. He's been a pleasure having on the football team, he

Humphrey, who downplays individual accomplishments and seldom speaks in the first person, knows his role in a defense that fields as many as six freshmen at a time.

"We have to be a leader," he said, greatest size," he said. because if we get a bad attitude and we don't work hard and play our hardest, then they say, 'Look at them, they're not (trying) their hardest. I'm just a freshman, and I don't have to either.' But when they see us working hard and trying to do the best we can, they keep trying, too.

"I try to lead by example. I'm not a very talkative person. I just try to do the best I can, and that's what I would expect from somebody else.

Humphrey, while reserved in the assessment of his own play, had praise for the play of the defense as a whole. "We're playing well. We're improving game after game. We're coming closer together. We're starting to work with each other better. We're not blaming anything that happens on just one individual. It's 'us now; it's not 'you, you, you," he said.

"Everybody is not out there just for themselves; they're out there for the team," he said. "It's like we're a family...and everybody is playing their hearts out. It's good to know that everybody works hard. No matter who's out there, they're always going to give their all.

Humphrey, who is among the team leaders in several defensive statistics, said individual acclaim has a hollow ring to it if it is not matched with team success.

"I guess it depends on who you are," he said. "But I think more about the team, because that's what everybody looks at. When K-State loses a game, K-State loses a game. Individually everybody says they want to do the best they can, but they want the whole team to do well. You have a better feeling when everybody does well than just

Humphrey, who transferred to K-State after spending two years at Dodge City Community College, was chosen as the 1985 Big Eight Conference Defensive Newcomer of the Year by The Associated Press. At 6-foot-3 and 235 pounds, Humphrey said he has relied a great deal on superior technique to achieve

'My high school coach (at Wichita Falls, Texas) thought the No. 1 thing was technique, and we worked on technique so much. And that helps a lot with my size. I have to rely on good technique more than other people. Other people can use their strength, and I'm not blessed with great strength or the

Despite his somewhat gentle exterior, Humphrey is driven by a fierce inner desire that leaves no room for complacency.

"You can always play better: you can always strive to be better. You can never be satisfied," Humphrey said. "(My goal is) to play as hard as I can, to where I feel at the end of the season I did try to do my best. I don't want to look back and say, 'Maybe, I could have done this if I had played a little harder.' I don't want to look back like that." The way Humphrey approaches football, it's unlikely he'll ever fall short for lack of ef-

MIDWEEK NOTES: Several K-State football players suffered minor injuries in the Wildcats' 17-6 conference loss to Missouri last Saturday

"We're banged up," Parrish said, "It's going to be one of those weeks where it's difficult to get work in with several players

Junior tailback Tony Jordan has a thigh bruise and broken finger, freshman defensive back Steve Compton has an injured toe and sophomore defensive back Robert Easterwood has a severe arch sprain in his foot. Easterwood is lost for the season.

Back-up linebacker Matt Wallerstadt suffered a hyperextended knee injury and reserve tailback Maurice Henry has an aggravated bruised foot.

Defensive tackle Kevin Humphrey is one of the key leaders of the youthful K-State defense. Humphrey, who has been one of the team's top players week in and week out, provides quiet leadership by playing hard and setting a good example for the younger players.

NCAA's blunders with Coleman aid in real rule breakers' escape

The saga of Norris Coleman's basketball days at K-State seems to be dragging on forever.

Coleman arrived at K-State only 15 months ago, and his file in the K-State sports information department has to be bulging to its maximum.

Unfortunately, Coleman's file is only partially filled with information concerning his on-court fortunes. Most of it concerns his off-court misfortunes and the National Collegiate Athletic Association's woeful disposition of the controversy surrounding Coleman's high school transcript

The big issue involved in the entire Coleman case is not whether this 25-year-old man - after serving his country for six years in the Army - was granted an athletic scholarship for which he was not qualified. The real issue is the NCAA's blindness towards the real cancers of college athletics.

When the NCAA handed down their original ruling in the case, it exonerated both K-State and Coleman from being at fault in the situation. Yet, the NCAA stated that if Coleman stayed at K-State, he would have to sit out a year. He also had the option of transferring.

Neither Coleman nor K-State was at fault, but both were punished.

Thus, from a legal stand point, I have no

TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

doubts that Coleman will play for the Wildcats this season.

Last week's chaos surrounding a letter K-State's Associate Athletic Director Lee Moon received from the NCAA only poured fuel on the fire. Some would say K-State should have checked with the NCAA about the meaning of the letter. Others would say the letter's purpose was to clarify the situation. In the letter, it states Coleman has two years of eligibility left, beginning with the current Much can be said about the press conference last Wednesday. Some sportswriters have accused K-State athletic director Larry Travis of accomplishing the impossible - making the NCAA look

Well, the NCAA has been twisting an innocent institution and an innocent athlete into the ground since last February - there is nothing dealing with a situation such as this that can make the NCAA look good.

When Coleman speaks of a law suit, he isn't talking about just suing the NCAA, but also suing his own school because they are forced to abide by this silly ruling handed down by this silly administrative organization.

Maybe Travis decided to play hardball with the NCAA. He is a man in a precarious position - he is eager to be sued. By bringing the situation back to the surface of public attention, he has positioned Coleman's suit perfectly.

Once again, the NCAA's ineptness has ravaged the emotions and rights of an innocent athlete. No matter what the false announcement makes K-State look like, it leaves the public thinking the NCAA is simply dastardly fellas in pinstripe suits. The shame of the situation is that Norris Coleman just wants to play basketball.

While cars are being given to athletes at other schools, while recruits and their families are being offered healthy incomes if the player will simply enroll at "X" University and while the nostrils of talented collegiate athletes are rotting through the use of cocaine, the NCAA exhausts much of its energy to keep a player and a school, both of whom have done nothing wrong, on their heels.

Challenges await KC in final half

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Consecutive home victories have given the Kansas City Chiefs a 5-3 record, their best mid-season mark in five years. But Coach John Mackovic is not giving his players much time to celebrate.

The Chiefs head for San Diego this week. where they rarely seem to play well. The rematch against the Chargers comes just 14 days after Mackovic's team notched a harrowing 42-41 victory in Kansas City.

"I think it's very important for us to continue to play well," Mackovic said at his Tuesday media luncheon. "We return to San Diego this Sunday and I'm sure they remember very well the game two weeks ago, having lost it in the closing seconds."

San Diego's Rolf Benirschke missed a 35-yard field goal in the closing minute. Last week the Chiefs, who have been out of the NFL playoffs since 1971, downed Tampa Bay

"Winning our fifth game on the eighth weekend gives you a good feeling about some accomplishments," Mackovic said.

The next eight weeks will see the Chiefs play the Denver Broncos twice and the Seattle Seahawks and Los Angeles Raiders once. Kansas City, Seattle and the Raiders are tied for second place in the rugged AFC West at 5-3, two games behind Denver's 7-1 mark.

"The second half of the season is going to be pretty tough for us," Mackovic said. "We still have five division games and...we'll have to play pretty well to win them. For us, we have battled hard to get to a position where we can realistically talk about the second half of the season in a positive vein."

The Chiefs move into the second half of the season with a different quarterback than the one they started with in September. Todd Blackledge, handed the starting job last May, wa benched in the second half of the San Diego game. His backup, veteran Bill Kenney, started against Tampa Bay and hit 15 of 29 passes for 230 yards and a touchdown.

"I thought Bill did a good job of handling the offense," Mackovic said. "He was a little rusty on some of the timing patterns, but he seemed to have a good idea of what we were trying to accomplish. He seemed to get the team in the right position the majority of the Continued improvement in all phases of the offense is needed to survive the secondhalf push, Mackovic said.

"The key for us the next several weeks is to take what we have and keep building on that and keep improving," he said. "Certainly, Bill hasn't played much the first half of the season. For him to get into the swing of things where he would normally be if he had played the first half will take some extra time both on and off the field. It should take a couple of weeks."

Speaker says AIDS cases to increase among heterosexuals

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

Although the majority of AIDS cases have been traced to homosexual men, the deadly disease will dramatically increase among heterosexual men and women in the future, said Stephen Morse, director of the Sexually Transmitted Diseases Laboratory at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Because sexual patterns among homosexuals have changed since 1983, a decreasing number have contracted AIDS or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, he said.

Morse said the increase in AIDS among heterosexuals can be attributed to the number of sexual partners among AIDS-infected people and to drug-using prostitutes who contract the disease by using dirty

Morse's lecture, "AIDS: Detection, Prevention and Social Impact," focused on how the disease is acquired and transmitted, who can contract it and projections of future victims. He also gave a slide presentation demonstrating how the disease attacks a person's system.

About 100 people attended the lecture Tuesday night at the Union Little Theater. The lecture was sponsored by the Sigma Xi Scientific Honor Society, which is celebrating its centennial.

The chances of an uninfected female contracting AIDS from an infected male during one sexual encounter is about five in 10,000, Morse

"AIDS is not easily transmitted between heterosexuals," he said. Current statistics show that 72 percent of all AIDS victims are homosexual men, and 18 percent are drug users. Statistics from July 11 indicate that there have been about 22,600 cases of AIDS in the United States. "There have been 33 reported cases of AIDS in Kansas," Morse

In 1986, there were 16,000 new cases of AIDS in the United States, and 9,000 of those people have already died from the disease, he

Morse predicts there will be 30,000 cases of AIDS by the end of the year. Although the highest percentage of AIDS cases are in major urban areas like New York and San Francisco. Morse said there will be a a dramatic increase in less-populated areas like the Midwest.

Thirty-one percent of the cases have been reported from New York and an additional 10 percent from contracted through heterosexual San Francisco. "It's been postulated that AIDS will move out of areas like New York and San Francisco and spread into other sectors of the nation," he said.

Controlling AIDS will be problem. According to projections made at the Center for Disease Control, there will be 74,000 cases of AIDS in 1991 alone, Morse said. Of that number, 54,000 will die before the year is over. In 1991, there will be 71,000 living AIDS victims who contracted the disease prior to that year. In addition, 29,000 cases will have gone unreported, he said.

The figures imply that health care costs for these people will be staggering, he said.

Health care costs will total about $8 billion for that year," Morse said. "It will cost about $46,000 for every person who has AIDS.

Although the United States has the highest number of people with AIDS, Morse said more than 80 countries have reported cases of AIDS.

'Africa is now the most troublesome area," he said. "A lot of countries there have tremendous

Unlike the United States, the disease in Africa is most commonly relationships, Morse said.

In the United States, statistics from the Center for Disease Control reveal that 60 percent of the victims are white, 25 percent are black and 14 percent are Hispanics.

Morse said there have been 316 cases of AIDS reported in children under the age of 13.

'Most of these children were born to parents who have AIDS," he said. The chances of survival are slim for people who have AIDS Morse said 94 percent of people who had AIDS in 1981 have since

"The life expectancy of the average person with AIDS is two years," he said. Even though most people who have AIDS do die, carriers of the virus are not affected by the disease, he said.

Only 6 percent to 34 percent of all people with the AIDS virus actually contract the disease, he said.

Although the disease usually is transmitted through sexual contact, a person can be exposed to the disease through blood or blood products. Morse said.

A person can't contract AIDS through casual contact, he said.

Stephen Morse of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta answers questions from Daisy and Salvador Marrero, graduate in food science. Tuesday in the Union Little Theater.

Intramural Injuries Sports Injuries Call 537-8305

Dr. Mark Hatesohl Chiropractic Family Health Center 3252 Kimball Avenue

(In the Candlewood Center)

MEREDITH MANOR INTERNATIONAL EQUESTRIAN CENTRE

Individually structured programs: 1 week through Master's degree Programs in dressage, jumping, western, gaining, breeding, business, teaching, lacksmithing, leatherworking. Ir more information phone on write

Meredith Manor Box 76GL Waverly, WV 26184 Phone: 304 679-3128

kinko's

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 537-7340 1110 Laramie

Wichita Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1986 11 p.m.-2 a.m.

Variety of Fitness Activities

FREE DOOR PRIZES

Announcement of winner of "Healthiest Looking Body Contest"

FREE FUN FOR EVERYONE

Reach for the sun

Manhattan Friends of Education

presents the 3rd Annual

EDUCATION FAIR

Saturday, November 1, 1986 Manhattan City Auditorium 11 a.m.-3 p.m.

Featuring throughout the day:

Booths and exhibits sponsored by over 45 different Manhattan educational agencies. Special events include "roving saints," agri-puppy and Ident-A-Kid. Innovations in the public schools and the Vocational Technical School will be presented, as well as displays of educational innovations for all life long learners.

Highlighted Activities:

11:00 Keynote Address-"Lifelong Learning" presented by Dr. David Byrne, Dean of the College of Education, KSU.

11:30 Manhattan Kennel Club

12:00 Bluemont Jump Rope Club

12:30 Al Thompson-"One man and his music"

1:00 Body by Schliebe, Aerobic Fitness Education

1:30 K-State Judo Club (featuring Bradie Jones, 1985-86 National Masters Judo Champion)

2:00 Sharron Washington Dancers

2:30 Douglas Center Kitchen Band

FREE ADMISSION DOOR PRIZES

Lunch provided by Mennonite Fellowship

Co-sponsored by American Baptist Campus Ministry, Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department, Education Student Council of KSU, Phi Delta Kappa, Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, Nelson Music Company, Division of Continuing Education-KSU, Master Teacher, Sunset Zoo, and NEA-Manhattan. For further information call (913) 532-5712.

WEDNESDAY MEANS

MARGARITAS

RELAX ON OUR FAMOUS SANTA CLAUS PATIO!

Out-patient pregnancy terminations For appointment or information call (316) 265-4349

IVAN SAND EDUCATION EXPERIENCE THE DECIDING DIFFERENCE

IVAN SAND

has supported 100% KSU faculty and staff pay increases

IVAN SAND

is supported by Citizens Alliance for Responsible Education (CARE), a political action group formed from Kansas Association of School Boards

IVAN SAND

supports total education funding

IVAN SAND

served on the Riley County School Board for 13 years

The Deciding Difference

Vote IVAN SAND

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

Phone statement reveals calls made by Contra supporters

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Repeated telephone calls were placed from a safe house in El Salvador used by Americans aiding Nicaraguan rebels to the office of a White House official who has overseen U.S. policy against Nicaragua's leftist government, according to Salvadoran phone bills.

During September, calls were made to two numbers used by Marine Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, a staff officer on President Reagan's National Security Council. According to rebel and administration sources, North has been the chief White House contact with the Contra aid network over the past two years.

An administration official, authorized to speak on the matter but insisting on anonymity, said, "To his knowledge, Colonel North has never received any phone calls from the safe houses." But another source close to North said he would not necessarily know where calls were coming from Another source close to the Contra aid network said the bills could have been concocted by Nicaraguan intelligence agents. But two Associated Press reporters, who have examined the documents, said they appeared to be genuine bills from Antel, the Salvadoran government's telephone company.

The calls to the White House went to two private lines that have been used in the past by North, both of which were answered Tuesday by a tape-recorded message saying "you have reached a non-working number for the executive office of the presi-

The bills also showed calls to State Department and the White House Office of Management and Budget said in a joint report.

That produced an $8.8 billion increase in federal red ink over the previous record deficit of $211.9 billion in fiscal year 1985.

There have now been deficits in 25 of the past 26 years, running up a total accumulated national debt of $2.2 trillion.

Servicing that debt cost U.S. taxpayer's $187.1 billion in fiscal 1986, another record and up from the $178.9 billion in interest payments in the previous year, the report said.

Tuesday's accounting contained the final figures for the 1986 deficit. Parts of the report had been released previously.

Although the fiscal 1986 deficit represented a 4.2 percent increase over the year before, it was still $9.5 billion below the $230.2 billion that the OMB had estimated for the year as recently as August.

Economists both in the government and in the private sector have predicted that the deficit will come down in fiscal year 1987 - even without additional spending cuts by Congress — to the vicinity of $170 billion.

The record 1986 deficit came despite enactment during the past fiscal year of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction act and of nearly $12 billion in spending cuts made under it. The law calls for a balanced budget by 1991.

A provision of the law triggering automatic spending cuts if Congress failed to meet increasingly stringent deficit targets specified by the new law was invalidated by the Supreme Court last summer.

The Gramm-Rudman deficit target for the current fiscal year 1987 is $144 billion.

The Treasury Department and OMB said that the $9.5 billion difference between the final figures and the August estimates came from $3.9 billion in higher revenues and $5.6 billion in lower outlays than previously projected.

Counselor relates ways to lessen stress during Wellness Week talk

By SHERI DIRKS Collegian Reporter

Simple, everyday events can be stressful to many people. But there are stress management strategies that can help control everyday

Clifford Schuette, assistant director at the counseling center in Lafene Student Health Center, spoke Tuesday in the Wellness Week session on "Stress Management."

Schuette said there are four sources of stress: customaryanticipated life events, unexpected life events, personal-trait stress and progressive accumulatingevents stress.

The session focused on progressive accumulating-events stress, which results from the little things in life. This type of stress causes a small amount of tension but accumulates because there are so many events.

"Like driftwood, they keep piling up, and then you have a logjam.'

For example, Schuette said, there may be no milk in the refrigerator for breakfast cereal, or the morning newspaper is missing, or the car ahead took the last parking space. He said these events may seem trivial, but when they occur often each day, they can create a lot of

"It's estimated that we have as many as 200 reactions a day to events like these," Schuette said. 'Each time you have a little event that you don't count on and you react to it, it can cause a physiological reaction, and changes can take place.'

These changes can be in hormone level, blood pressure, increase in heart rate and rapid breathing.

"Most of us are not able to let that stress dissipate," he said.

Schuette said people are more likely to die from stress-related disorders rather than from germrelated disorders. These stressrelated disorders can be headaches, insomnia, stomach ulcers and mental and emotional anguish.

There is medication to control stress disorders, but it is less costly to participate in simple daily exercises, he said. Everyone has a stress capacity, and everyday there are demands forced upon people which challenge that capacity. "Those demands can grow and grow and can exceed our capacity, and we become burned out," Schuette said.

He demonstrated a few simple breathing techniques to help relieve stress:

-Take four seconds to breath in and four seconds to breath out.

-Deep breathing - take a deep breath and hold it for a count of four, then exhale.

-Ideal relaxation - create an ideal place in your mind to relax and use it for a few seconds.

"Most of our stress is caused by the kind of thinking we get into,' he said. "We interpret events as stressful when they need not be stressful."

Program offers information for nutritional eating habits

By The Collegian Staff

People interested in learning more about nutritional eating habits can receive free counseling at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Com-

The program, jointly sponsored by the Rec Complex and the Department of Foods and Nutrition, began last spring. Students, faculty and staff can use this service by scheduling an appointment with the Rec Complex. Elizabeth Addington and Mary Kay Rudd, graduates in foods and nutrition, are program counselors. Since the beginning of the semester, they have advised about 25 people.

Most of the people Addington has seen this semester want to know how much food they should eat or if they are eating the right foods. Some people, complain of being tired and wonder if it has something to do with their diet, she said.

Eating too little, too much or the wrong foods sometimes can cause people to be tired. Addington said, but it could also be due to stress.

Addington said many people who have visited with her, including endurance runners and weightlifters, are generally aware of what is right for them nutritionally but may have a few questions about diet or exer-

Most of the people who have talked with Rudd, however, are interested in losing weight. Although many people today are trying to lose weight, she said only 5 percent of those who lose it are able to keep it off.

Addington emphasized the importance of combining diet and exercise in a weight-loss program and said the most healthy way to diet is to use the four basic food groups and substitute products with lower fat content for those with a higher fat

Addington and Rudd said they enjoy counseling and hope more people will take advantage of the program throughout the semester.

Addington received both her bachelor's and master's degrees from K-State and has counseled at Stormont-Vail Hospital in Topeka. Rudd received her bachelor's degree from Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., and her master's degree from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. She worked as the director of the student dietary hospital while at Purdue.

> Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

FRIDAY Charlie's Halloween Celebration $1.50 PITCHERS ALL DAY!! $1 cover with costume $1.50 cover with no costume -Best costume contests -Prizes galore! -Horror movies on Big Screen in evening THURSDAY $DAZE$

539-9619

Denison & Claflin

Looking for an apartment?

Check Collegian Classifieds

Dinner for a Dollar

Every Monday thru Thursday 4-7 p.m. Dinner Buffet featuring

7 Hors D'oeuvres salads, pates', shrimp, stir frys, tacos, burgers, hot dogs, nachos, and much more.

Make a Meal! Drink Specials Monday-99¢ Draws Tuesday-All Sours

Wednesday-All Drinks $1.50 Thursday-99¢ Margaritas $1.50 Fuzzies

418 Poyntz Downtown

A Letter to Kansas State Faculty and Staff from Katha Hurt.

Kansas State University is embarking on a period of fresh initiatives with renewed vigor, but its ability to succeed will depend upon strong support and commitment from the funding body of the state—the Kansas legislature.

I am an educator not simply by profession but by avocation. I believe that the role of a good legislator is to help educate her constituency about how to influence the decisions that affect their lives as well as educate other legislators about the needs and concerns of her constituency.

I want the opportunity to work with university administrators, faculty, classified employees, and staff members. Upon election I will invite representatives from each of these groups to serve on my education advisory council. I pledge to work with you in a way that allows you to be active participants in the legislative process.

I am seeking this important office for several reasons: (1) I am dissatisfied with the lack of leadership on the part of the current representative. (2) I believe that membership in the Kansas House is a logical continuation of my past involvement in the political process. Over the past ten years I have gained important insights and expertise as a result of my roles as lobbyist, negotiator, local association president, and state board of directors member of an 18,000-member organization. (3) This community is my home and I truly care about what happens here. I will be a positive voice for Kansas State University.

I would appreciate your support on November 4.

Father Shut Sincerely,

Now even

prices

for

State of Kansas

- Students,
- Faculty,

NCR Corporation has been awarded a contract to supply the State of Kansas with microcom-puter equipment. Discount prices are being offered to all students and faculty and to all

State employees. This special purchase program will apply to the full NCR microcomputer product line and related accessories. All computers are discounted at least 36%, with a 50% savings on the PC4i.

Employees. ONLY

PC4i - $2615 2 drive monochrome

monitor $1178

PC4i - $2960 2 drive, color monitor

$1399

Super System Special $1599

PC4i, 10Mb hard disk, color monitor

Foresight Solutions of Lawrence is exclusively administering this purchase program.

Please call for a FREE product brochure. available only from:

(913) 842-7526 804 New Hampshire Lawrence, KS. 66044

Wefald's inauguration ceremony reduces space for student parking

By The Collegian Staff

The two adjoining parking lots east of McCain Auditorium, usually available for student parking, will be reserved all day Thursday for guests attending University President Jon Wefald's inauguration ceremony

No plans have been made to accommodate students who usually park in the 275 to 300 spaces in the

"What's available is available. I can't materialize concrete and asphalt overnight," said Charles Beckom, superintendent of the K-State Police.

Between 250 and 300 visitors are expected to attend the inaugura-

"I would hate to say, 'OK, we are not going to provide for the guests that have been invited," he said.

Beckom said many faculty will be postponing or canceling regularly scheduled afternoon classes to allow students to attend the 2 p.m. ceremonies. The inauguration is probably "something students would want to view," and Beckom suggested students should try to arrange carpools.

"I'm not going to be one that's going to be overbearing about parking," Beckom said. For spaces in restricted time zones, "we're (campus police) not going to be out there with a stop watch, but we're not going to say you can park there all day, either.'

No other activities that would generate visitors to campus are planned for the day, so more spaces may be open in the lot at West Stadium, Beckom said. On an average day, seminars or conferences held in the Union bring about 200 visitors to campus, he Beckom said "complaints begin to jump" when large conferences are held on campus.

Task

Continued from Page 1

University of Kansas is looking into a student athletic fee increase and offered to supply them with a survey from KU concerning the increase.

Members agreed that surveys are helpful, but that time restraints have become a factor in their investiga-

Majerus said the group should not be forced to rush to come up with a recommendation.

"It's a good idea for a tentative schedule, but we need to be willing to take more time if needed," Majerus said. "Sure, we all want to get done, but we have to exhaust every

"The bottom line is that if we're not willing to sacrifice, then we shouldn't be here."

Disease

Continued from Page 5

disease, meaning it is tough to grow and study" in a laboratory, Ecklund

"We're learning more all the time," he said.

There is a test available to physicians that allows them to distinguish the disease. The test, available to anyone, is done through a culture. The culture test is given after the patient is screened to be a possible carrier because the test is fairly expensive, $28. A smear test is also available for men.

"The disease can be treated effec-prevention is to stop it before it octively," Ecklund said, "but the best

This means that casual sex is a risk, he said. Methods of prevention include using condoms, diaphragms and limiting one's sexual contact.

"Having one partner is less risky than having three or four," Ecklund

About six months ago, it was discovered that the birth control pill can decrease the complications of pelvic diseases in women. However, Ecklund emphasized, it is by no means a protective method against the disease.

Unlike other sexually transmitted diseases, chlamydia does not have to be reported to health authorities.

Tierney Continued from Page 6

even lower or, at least, keep them where they are, he said.

"About the only thing a farmer can do is sell now or put his crop under loan. Tierney said farmers should consider pricing 20 percent to 30 percent of their expected 1987 crops now, although the commodity futures market is the only pricing method available this early. As an example of problems with holding crops for anticipated price increases, Tierney noted that "soybean prices fell below the $5.02 loan rate last year and finally averaged only $5.10 per bushel.

"That's not enough of a rally to justify storage costs for nine months," he said.

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

Save Collegian Coupons

Hit-and-run driver kills crossing guard

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO - Evelyn Despenza spent most of her 73 years looking out for children, shepherding them safely across busy streets to school, watching them play from her livingroom window, pushing their swings on the playground.

After 33 years as a crossing guard, she was killed in the line of duty Monday when she stepped off a curb to help a child. She walked into the path of a car that struck her and sped

"The kids have accepted it," Dian A. Cooper, principal at Warren School, said Tuesday. "They're my aides followed him in her car and rather subdued, but they're going

"We talked with the kids about how we want to remember her, and we decided we'll participate in whatever the family plans," Cooper said. "But the kids felt strongly about this, and we're going to try and get some kind of memorial, maybe a plaque, put out on her corner.

Cooper was one of the first to reach Despenza, a widow who lived alone.

"There was this guy bending over her and he was crying," Cooper said. "When he left, somebody said 'That was him, the driver.' One of got his license plate number."

Two hours later, Charles Davis, 35, surrendered to police and was charged with drunken driving, misdemeanor leaving the scene of an accident and failing to yield to a pedestrian, said police Sgt. James Davis posted bond and was scheduled to appear in court Nov. 24. Knightly said that if Davis waited beyond three hours to surrender he could have been charged with a

Despenza was only the second crossing guard killed on the job since the police department initiated the program in August 1951, said Ramona Shiffer, crossing guard coordinator for the department.

'The fact that we've only lost two speaks well about our guards and ... that the majority of motorists are careful when they approach schools," said Shiffer

"But there's still plenty of drivers out there who'll stop for a dog or cat, but just sit on their horn and keep going when they see a child or a crossing guard in the street," she added.

A daughter who resides in California was returning to Chicago to make funeral arrangements.

10 Tanning Sessions $20 15 Tanning Sessions $27 (offer expires Nov. 1, 1986)

HALLOWEEN SPECIAL

Come In Costume This Thursday & Friday And Receive $1.50 Tanning Sessions

$1 off small supreme $2 off medium supreme $3 off large supreme

COUPON Good Wednesdays Only

Claflin & Denison

Free Delivery

776-0004

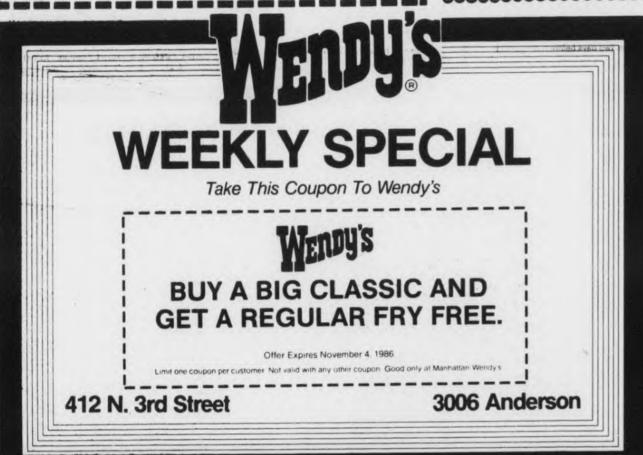

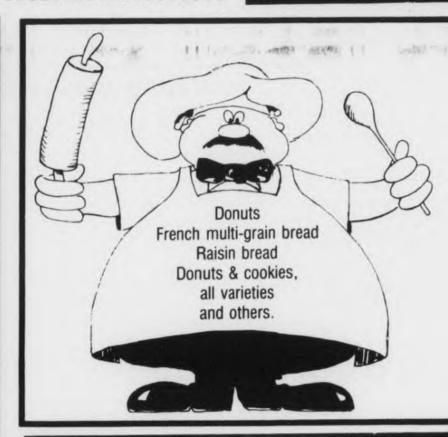

Students needed for the following areas of responsibility: Vice-chairperson, data processing, poll workers, publicity, equipment, campaign expenditures and campaign materials. Elections will be held February 10 and 11 with a run-off election on February 18 if needed. Applications are available in the Student Governing Association office located on the ground floor of the K-State Union and are due Octo-

For more information call the SGS office at 532-6541.

Bakery Science

BAKE SALE TODAY 3:30-5:30

(or until sold out)

Shellenberger Hall 105 Come Early For Best Selection

Color Monitor Bonus Offer!

Tandy 1000 EX Buy America's #1 PC Compatible and

Get a Color Monitor at No Charge!

Reg. Separate Items 1098.95

Save

Low As $37 Per Month *

■ 50% Faster Clock Speed Than the IBM® PC ■ Built-In Disk Drive ■ 256K Memory

■ Includes Personal DeskMate™ Six-in-One Applications Software

A true PC-compatible computer that's ready to use thousands of MS-DOS programs. Improved clock speed means you can run most of today's popular software faster than ever. Plug in joysticks, printer or a second disk drive without buying extra-cost adapters.

Monitor Platform (shown). #26-210, $29.95 Save $299.95—Tandy 1000 SX With Bonus CM-5 Color Monitor. Features 384K memory, two disk drives, five PC-compatible card slots, and DeskMate II™. Reg. separate items $1498 95, #25-1051/25-1023, Sale $1199.00

*CitiLine revolving credit from Citibank. Payment may vary depending upon balance. IBM/Reg. TM International Business Machines Corp. MS-DOS/TM Microsoft Corp. Personal DeskMate and DeskMate 11/TM Tandy Corp.

Radio Shaek Computer Department

2609 Anderson In Anderson Square 539-6151

Weekdays 9-6 Saturday 9-5 Closed Sunday

Staff/John Thelander

Basket loading

Breadbasket, 901 Yuma St., Tuesday afternoon. White, along with other

Brandon White, freshman in business, unloads boxes of cookies at the volunteers, unloaded a truckload of potato chips and cookies, donated by a Topeka shelter, to be given away to the needy as Halloween treats.

Debate

Continued from Page 1

said.

A debate by the candidates for the 66th-District position in the House of Representatives followed the Thomas-Bammes debate.

Hurt, who is attempting to oust incumbent Sand, said she does not favor increased funding for the state highway system but thinks more tax money should be allotted to educational programs.

"I'm a big advocate of preventative measures," she said. "I think education is just that.

"This influences how much money we spend down the road for community corrections and health programs.

The debate involved discussion on funding for education programs, which Sand said should be a priority.

"It is being studied by a (legislative) task force, and I hope they can come up with a more fair system (of distributing state funds for education)," he said. "We have to increase aid to all the schools in Kansas.

Sand said he also believes more funding emphasis should be put on improving the state's highway system.

"I have been through the state campaigning, and I see the need to improve the system," he said.

Sand said increased funding for new highway systems could spur economic development.

Also, both candidates agree there are enough restrictions on campaign financing.

"Before I started campaigning, I wouldn't have said this, but for the voters to be truly informed, we need a lot of money," Hurt said. Hurt added that she felt she needed more money than Sand to compete against him.

"I think different campaigns require more funding," she said. "Ivan Sand) does not need as much money as I do because he is well-known.'

In discussion of allowing community colleges into the Kansas Board of Regents system, Hurt said doing this would defeat the purpose of a community college.

"If they want to duplicate (Regents) universities, they are missing the boat," she said. "They are better off where they are (as public education programs).

In her closing statements, Hurt said the most important issue of her campaign is "what type of leadership do the people want?

If elected, Hurt said she will communicate with the people and listen to their ideas. "There is no way to match the experience of my opponent, but I am willing to learn," she said. Sand said he has always supported legislative funding and has seen improvements in the state economy.

The forum was sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Manhattan and Riley County. It was the last in a series of "Lunch with the League" programs that focused on election issues.

Keegan

Continued from Page 1

Bloom County

tance of money in the United States, he said.

"In Europe, poor boys with ability simply didn't consider entering the army," Keegan said. "Education is the key in America.

When Eisenhower applied to get into the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., money was not his reason for getting in - it was his

DURING THE MULENNIA THAT MAN AND FOUL HAVE SOUGHT AND SNARED WIVES ...

Garfield

LET'S SEE... WE HAVE EVERYTHING FOR THE BEACH EXCEPT A

BEACH BALL

skills, Keegan said.

- SPEAKING OF WIFE-SNARING... WE INTERRUPT WE STORY FOR A SPECIAL

BINKLEY BULLETINE

OSMOND WILL, REPEAT, WILL

BE MARRYING AGAIN.

"This exemplifies the openness of the American system. If you have the education, there is a career to be put to talents," he said.

West Point took boys from poor backgrounds and made them officers while leaving their values intact, he Values were an important point in Eisenhower's success, Keegan said. "His parents gave him the values

OUR SOURCES REPORT THAT

OF "STAR TREK" FAME

GEORGE "MR. SULU" TAKE!

IN PROGRESS.

of honesty, responsibility and respect. And they stressed accomplishment," he said.

The parents' teaching of these qualities might explain the success of their sons, but often the public criticized his parents for being too narrow-minded, he said.

Eisenhower's parents stressed reading the Bible, but there was no discussion of what its contents might have meant, he said. They stressed education by learning all the answers, not discussing what the answers might mean.

attributed Keegan also Eisenhower's strong qualities to Abilene — Eisenhower's hometown.

By Berke Breathed

IAKT OVER

By Jim Davis

WITHOUT EVEN LOOKING

AROUND I KNOW I SHOULD HAVE

DURING THE MILLENNIA THAT

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-

noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (1-52)

ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken,

See immediate results! 776-6959 after 5:30 p.m., all

TO ALL interested Greeks-the K-State Greek Newspaper will be having an "advice column need it, or want to give some—drop by the Greek Affairs Office by November 10 with your input and your I.D. card, and give me something to write about. Whether serious or humorous, I'll listen to

TO ALL K-Staters-There's an organization that tops them all, its's called S.A.M.S. Get involved this fall.

Go to the SGS office to sign up. (47) BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot, win

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of cos

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013. Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

By Eugene Sheffer

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

cents per word over 15.

Deadline is noon the day before publication;

advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

s 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. October hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

LOSE WEIGHT-100% natural-100% guaranteedday weekends. (45-49)

your comments and questions—It's the next best thing to Dear Abby. —Sincerely, Susan. (46-47)

dow sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (47-48)

tumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

WIND IS DISTURBING TO ANIMALS WHO LIVE

eanuts

HEY, GARFIELD! BRING SOMETHING WE CAN KICK AROUND IN THE SURF!

By Charles Schulz

rossword

ACROSS 41 Name 1 Barcelona 43 "Let's uncle 4 Musical passage 50 Highwayconcise

man of the painter

Under the bird

Rose" abbot

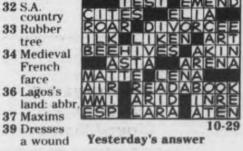

8 Rudely 12 Ninny 55 "The Name 13 Similar 14 Wings 15 Former 56 English chess champ

57 Pome fruit 16 TV's 58 Extinct "American 18 Bakery 59 Breaches 60 "Desire byproduct 20 Strong urge 61 Go off the 21 French cove 24 Irrigate 28 Brightly colored scarf

32 S.A. country 33 Rubber tree

34 Medieval French farce 36 Lagos's land: abbr 37 Maxims sidekick

8 Forty

Norway taste 4 Beach 26 Part of shelters HOMES 5 River to 27 Tatters the Volga 28 Piece of 6 Continued sculpture loud noise 29 Jai 7 Amos's 30 Salaman

31 Japanese winks aborigine 9 The gums 35 Magazine 10 Sought staffers office 38 Play 11 One of the ground Kennedys items 17 Stitch native 42 DDE's area 45 Leather flask 47 Plucky 48 Black 49 " - to Morocco' 50 Swamp 51 Psych, org 52 Pinch 53 Sargasso creature 54 Ewe's mate

10-29

CKYUBZ JKV JIN BQZ

IP JKVR'C VBBR DYZPH:

VQYCPH DBZ ZPKUUN Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE WOMAN MARRIED TO BANDIT HUSBAND HAD OUTLAW INLAWS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals L

gious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential, Lawyer involved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039.

SKI COLORADO: Fully furnished, two bedroom, two bath condo for rent in Dillon. Clubhouse includes pool, jacuzzi, sauna and more. Discount rates. 316-241-1991. (44-48) GARTER BELT, bra and pantie sets available at Undercover. Christian Dior, Maidenform, Lady

Marlene. Stockings to match, with or without seams. 1224 Moro. (44-48) HALLOWEEN PINATAS for your Halloween Party. Dif-ferent sizes. Call 776-1786. (45-47)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger

Exp. Date 11/2 537-3335

OPEN HOUSE-Chet Peters Sculpture Studio-Holiday and gift shopping, Wreath Ave., just north of 3140 Bermuda Lane. Saturday, November 1, 10

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 2th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49) CLOSE TO Aggleville-Spacious three bedroom amenities. 776-0272. (44-53) ZERO BLOCKS to campus. Large one bedroom, furnished apartment in quiet, well maintained complex. Balcony, dishwasher, queen sized bed. Prefe faculty, graduate student, married couple, $280

two bath, basement and large porch plus great per month, no pets, waterbeds. Lease requ 537-9686 for information and application. (46-50) TWO ONE-bedroom, furnished apartments, one-half block from campus. Available December 1, $175 and $225 plus utilities. Call 539-9842 (day) or 776-8093 (evening). Ask for Tim. (46-49) FOR RENT: Newly re-decorated room for male. Furnished, close. $110 plus gas/electric. Lease. Deposit. Phone 537-9693. (46-48)

FOR SALE-AUTO

06 1979 TRANS Am (blue)-74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49) 1976 CORVETTE-34,000 miles, excellent condition. (913) 243-7205 or (913) 243-3510. (43-47) 1974 MERCURY Comet - Two door, $475 or best offer. After 5:15 p.m. on weekdays, 776-5609. (44-48) 1977 AMC Hornet. Clean, runs good. Phone 539-5032

after 6 p.m. (45-49) 1971 220 Mercedes Benz-Looks good and runs good, need to sell. Call 539-5516 after 5 p.m. (46-50) FOR SALE-MISC

KORG POLY-800 synthesizer, $500. Call Rick, 776-5037. (47-49)

KENWOOD KR322 car stereo - auto reverse. Dolby, netal, independent treble/bass, fader, $150 or best offer. Call Bob 776-0234. (47-51) ALPINE 7272 indash, $350; Alpine 3311 EQ. $150; Alpine door speakers, $100; Kicker hatch back speaker, $175. Must sell. 776-5646, Mike Maki. (47-ESCORT RADAR detector, $125; Western Flyer 10speed bike, $20; Arai motorcycle helmet, silver, fullface, medium, $90. Jim, 537-2396. (47-48)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1982 YAMAHA Virago 750. Bought new 14 months

1982 HONDA CM 250, 5,800 miles, 60 miles per gal Ion. Great shape, one owner. Call 776-7175. (47-51)

HELP WANTED

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64) LIVE-IN Nanny wanted. Need mature adult, non-smoker, driver's license, enjoys children. Room and board, good salary, weekends free area. Call (816) 444-6674 collect, weekdays only.

13

PART TIME cook and delivery person. Apply in per-son at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison. Contact Jim or Ernie for an appointment. 776-0004. (43-49) BABYSITTER-LIVE in New York suburb. Family with two children, 9 and 4, seeks babysitter who loves children and has driver's license. One year nmitment. Airlare paid. Call 914-834-8577. (45-

TRAVEL FIELD Opportunity. Gain valuable market ing experience while earning money. Campus representative needed immediately for spring break trip to Florida. Call Campus Marketing at 1-800-282-6221. (45-50)

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help Management Positions Available (Preferably food & science majors) Apply at store or call 539-3304

Cafe Latino

WANTED, STUDENT that can work Tuesday and Thursday mornings, evenings and weekends on crop and swine farm located four miles east of Manhattan. Call 539-1930 evenings. (46-47) STUDENTS TO work day shift at Union Bookstore.

Will arrange hours to fit your schedule. Steady-work for remainder of school year. Apply in personal at Service Counter, K-State Union Bookstore.— EEOC/Affirmative Action Employer. (46-48) STUDENT PROGRAMMER to work 20-30 hours per week; to start as soon as possible, as an IBM mai IBM mainframe COBOL programming knowledge and experience, grade point average, and other relevant data processing experience will be used as selection criteria. Undergraduates or graduate students with an employment potential of two years or more will be given preference. Equal Opportunity Employer. Contact Rose Korte, Room 21, Anderson Hall by 5 p.m., October 31, 1986. (46-49) Good commissions, valuable work experience, travel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free). 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer.

EARN MONEY on all magazines sold on campus Need people to post information. Good profit Write, BPC, 8218 Hardy, Overland Park, KS. 66204. (47-48)

NANNY POSITIONS-Live in beautiful seaside Con-

from carefully screened families. Assist childcare, light housekeeping. Room, board, $100-$200 per week, transportation paid, 12 month stay, Care For Kids, Inc., (203) 838-6108/852 1184, P.O. Box 27, Rowayton, CT. 06853. (47) 14 LOST

LOST: GRAY backpack Thursday morning outside Union cafeteria. Purple notebook inside. Please call 537-1887! (46-47) GOLD CHAIN lost near McCain Auditorium Saturday evening. Reward. Call 539-7479 or 539-7631. Leave message, ask for Lindy (46-49) LOST LEATHER check book with ID's and Driver's Licenses. Please turn into Union Information Desk.

LOST: FROM Tuttle Creek Blvd.-White female ca with calico colors on head, back, and tail. 776-6231 or 539-3251. Keep trying! (47-51)

PERSONAL DESPERATELY SEEKING Kathy-Although I guessed your name we never did meet (what a shame). I would love to meet the woman behind that beautiful voice. Write to me at Box 7. Kedzie 103. Collegian. "Psychic" Eric from K.U. (46-47) CHRISSY-HAPPY Birthday Sweetle. Try not to get forked. We love ya. Carmen Gaye and Butthead

THETA XI's and Delts: ... From the champagne breakfast and pomping in the rain, to Brother's and, the slip 'n slide ... we may not have won, but that's cuz you're #1 in our hearts any old day! Love, the Kappas. (47)

TRI-DELT's Debbie C. and Stephanie M. - We;ve seen

you out partying nights, we'd like to meet you Friday noon at Kite's. Sit and wait for us at the front. bar, then we'll reveal to you who we are. Secret Admirers. (47) TRI DELT Janet N.: Roses are red, violets are blue: 13 have a ? to ask you. Stay tuned, I have more to tell .it's me I'm trying to sell. The party is November 7 to be exact, will you go with me, I promise not to at-ATO MIKE-I had a great time. Thanks for being so cool and resisting the urge to throw tomatoes. (47)

UST KEEP It up AD Pi girls. Mom. (47) PI'KA Lil Sisters-Get ready, get dressed, get or-si ange, get spooked, grab a cat, grab a broom, be ready to party, to have a good time, cause come. Thursday, the Pi Kappa Alpha Little Sisters of the Shield and Diamond will set the house a fire. Come celebrate the 75th annual Pike Lil' Punkin Party. A controlled recreational activity you won't want to

AMBASSADOR MARK-Congratulations to a great K-Stater and TX. We are proud of you. YITB, The ten of Theta Xi Fraternity (47)

ALPHA TAU Omega-Just a little thanks for all the fun, you guys are the greatest, and together we were #1. But don't think that because it is over we. won't meet again, 'cuz hey laudi laudi lo-we love'the men of ATO. The ladies of Delta Delta Delta. (47) PHI KAP Steve K .- The clues have just begun, as you can see, clue number one starts with the big K.C. . . . Love, your Pledge Mom! (47)

PHI KAP Doug - Your second clue is to go talk to the bear about the white rose. Love, your pledge mom.

WOODY: WEDNESDAY brings clue number three, so open your wings and fly away free! Mom. (47) ROOMMATE WANTED 17

FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom spartment two blocks east of campus. Call 537-4732 after 5:30 apartment close to campus. Call Carls, 539-4301 evenings. (47-56)

18 SERVICES. PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedro

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (43tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-alonally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (911)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence, 913-841-5716. (391f) VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1

TYPING-TERM papers, research papers, resumes,

cover letters, etc. Call 539-2411. (45-49)

494-2388. (41-50)

Weapons

Continued from Page 1 back, including the proposed ban on U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

The U.S. military chiefs wanted to consider first the impact that a missile ban would have on defending Western Europe from Soviet attack. NATO ground forces are outmanned by Warsaw Pact troops.

The discussion was held at the White House Monday with Reagan presiding. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. William J. Crowe, participated and endorsed the package, the sources said.

The new instructions were transmitted to Kampelman Monday night.

Spokesman Larry Speakes, accompanying Reagan on a political campaign trip to the South Tuesday, confirmed the meeting.

Reagan's proposal on strategic weapons calls for a 50 percent reduction in U.S. and Soviet long-range bombers, intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarines within five

A ceiling of 1,600 would be imposed on all U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear delivery vehicles. Intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine-launched missiles would be held to a total of 600. Strategic bombers would be limited to 350 on

The Soviets also have proposed a 50 percent cutback, but their formula and the kind of nuclear weapons to be covered by the reductions differ from the U.S. approach. Reagan's call for a ban on ballistic missiles by 1996 carries out the position U.S. officials said he took in talking with Gorbachev. The Soviets contend, however, that Reagan went further and supported a ban on all strategic nuclear forces.

A U.S. official, who said records of the conversations between Reagan and Gorbachev were still incomplete, acknowledged that Reagan "may have said that at one point.

But he and another U.S. official stressed that the president informed Gorbachev on several occasions during their talks that he sought a ban only on ballistic missiles. The U.S. proposal on Euromissiles would require the dismantling of 108 Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany and 32 cruise launchers, with 128 warheads, in Britain, Italy and Belgium. All are aimed at the Soviet

The Soviets, meanwhile, would be compelled to dismantle 270 SS-20 missiles, with 810 warheads, aimed at Western Europe. Another warheads could remain in Asian territories.

5th ANNUAL KSU HEALTH FAIR KSU UNION BALLROOM The HEALTH FAIR is a tradition at KSU. Over 30

exhibitors will help the participant in identifying positive healthstyle changes by offering a variety of health screening and health education. Alcohol and Other Drug

Information Birth Control Information Blood Chemistry Testing* Blood Pressure Dental Screening Fitness Testing Flu Vaccinations Glaucoma Screening Health Risk Appraisal Height/Weight Nutritional Information Stess Management Vision Screening MUCH MUCH MORE

*OPTIONAL: SMA (23) Blood Test-$7 charge covers lab

NOTE: DO NOT eat 12 hours prior to blood test. Continue taking any medication as ordered.

""OPTIONAL: Flu Vaccination-$6 charge covers cost of medicine

SALE ENDS SATURDAY

62nd ANNIVERSARY SALE

NIKON FG-20

Body Only when purchased at the same time as any Nikon lens. Nikon Compact 35mm camera with aperture preference automatic exposure and manual override. Accepts optional winder, dedicated flash. Timer to get in your own pictures.

NIKON N-2000

Body Only when purchased at the same time as any Nikon lens. Dual program automatic exposure plus many other auto features makes this the easiest to use focus and shoot Nikon. Program TTL flash, auto loading and film advance, auto DX film speed setting.

TAKE YOUR PICK OF ANY OR ALL OF THESE GENUINE NIKON LENSES AT ONE LOW PRICE.

35mm f2.5 Nikon E wide angle 50mm f1.8 Nikon E "normal" 100mm f2.8 Nikon E telephoto 135mm f2.8 Nikon E telephoto

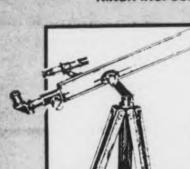

NIKON N2020 f1.8

Autofocus Camera Move-up to autofocus and still use your old lenses. The N2020 uses the standard Nikon mount so you can buy new autofocus lenses or use old lenses and manually focus. Program exposure plus manual to 1/2000. Built in auto-load and motor advance.

N2020 with 35-70mm f3.3 AF Nikkor $51999

NIKON INC. USA LIMITED WARRANTY INCLUDED WITH THIS PRODUCT.

BUSHNELL TELESCOPES

Factory Demonstrators CHOOSE FROM 4 MODELS

ZOOM LENSES

YOUR CHOICE

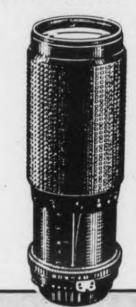

28-85mm f3.5-4.5

The 28-85mm f3 5 Matrix zoom lens is compact design. Great vacation zoom with extra wide through moderate telephoto plus 15 Macro

80-200mm f3.9

The 80-200mm f3 9 Matrix zoom lens is a high speed zoom with a lightweight design and macro for close-ups

BUY BOTH $169⁹⁹

$7999

VIVITAR 3700

With Dedicated Module High Power dedicated flash

with bounce and swivel, thyristor for battery economy,

dedicated to most popular automatic 35mm's.

On Every Kodak Carousel 35mm Slide Projector THIS MONTH ONLY. Get a zoom lens. Pay only for the standard lens. Get more enjoyment and utility. Save $50 at the same time

Choose from 15 Kodak Projector Models.

Carousel 4200 with zoom lens Remote changer

Carousel 4600 with zoom lens

Autofocus model

HANIMEX AF-35 Autofocus Compact autofocus 35mm camera with motor drive and built-in flash. Easy to operate so everyone in the family can shoot pictures.

Colorhead enlarger with

6 element f2.8 lens and carrier

YASHICA MOTOR II

Compact autofocus 35mm with sliding front cover to protect the lens. Perfect for carrying everywhere. Easy for even children to use for excellent pictures. Includes case.

OMEGA 700 With

Rugged American made enlarger at a great price

Condensor model for crisp black and white prints Can print color with optional filters. Ready to use for 35mm, optional accessories for up to 6X7 on 120

After $25 Rebate from Pentax Wolfe's Sale Price $199.99 PENTAX ME-SUPER f2

Ultra compact 35mm reflex with aperture preference automatic exposure and manual override to 1/2000 sec. Includes Pentax USA limited warranty/product registration.

Minolta X-370, 50mm f2 Minolta and 100-200mm f4.5

Osawa telephoto zoom

Lightweight 35mm with aperture preferred automatic and manual override to 1/1000. Accepts optional dedicated flashes, lenses, winders. Includes Minolta USA limited warranty.

$50

35-200mm f3.5-4.8

ZOOM Zoom from 35mm wide angle to 200mm high power telephoto with just lens. Macro close-ups

PRO

ENSIGN SERIES 7X35 Wide Angle Lightweight design, ideal "all around" binocular 10X50 High Power

OMEGA 760 DICHRO BUSHNELL Factory Demonstrators

PRO 1310

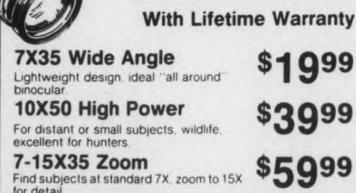

TRIPOD

Channel leg, elevator, light-

Other Tripods Sale Priced

$29.99 through $99.99.

Flash with dedicated features for your camera. Models vary.

Other Binoculars on Sale to $300.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in 60s. Winds southeasterly 15 to 25 mph. Partly cloudy tonight and Friday, low 50 to 55. High Friday low to mid-70s.

A Look at the Force

Athletic Fee Task Force members give their perspectives of the issue in today's Collegian. See Page 7.

Running On

This season's Big Eight Conference running backs are not as explosive as in previous years. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Thursday October 30, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 48

Athletic officials disavow decision to drop 2 sports

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Associate athletic director Lee Moon said Wednesday the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics has never discussed dropping any more sports from K-State's athletic budget.

"We are not planning on dropping any more sports," Moon said. "We will do with what we have to put a representative team on the floor in all of our sports."

Moon's statement responded to comments made by K-State athletic department business manager Mike Jones at a Tuesday meeting of the Athletic Fee Task Force. Jones had said K-State might consider eliminating two sports in February.

Jones said Wednesday his comments at the meeting did not indicate the athletic department was actually considering a cut in pro-

"I was dealing with a hypothetical - a worst possible case scenario," he said. "I don't know if I've ever heard of anyone talk about dropping any sports.

"(Someone) asked me what would happen if we didn't get the student fee," Jones said. Last March, following a National Collegiate Athletic Association rule change which altered the number of athletic teams a school must sponsor from 16 to 14 to remain Division I-A, Athletic Director Larry Travis decided it was in the best interests of the entire athletic program to drop softball and men's tennis.

Moon did say there is a good possibility the NCAA will lower the minimum number of required athletic teams down to 12 for Division I-A programs in February's meeting.

"Last year when they took the votes (at the NCAA meeting), it was voted down by one

See SPORTS, Page 14

Increases in enrollment aid quality, V.P. says

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

An increase in student enrollment will enhance Robert Krause's goal of improving academic excellence at the University.

Krause, who was appointed vice president for institutional advancement in August, said he would like to increase enrollment to between 19,000 and 20,000.

Every 300 enrolled students generate $1 million for the University, he said.

"Increased enrollment is important, but I don't see it as an end," he said. "It is a means for improving the academic excellence at the University."

For now, he said he hopes to see a "solid stabilization" of enrollment and even a modest increase.

Krause was appointed Aug. 7 by President

Jon Wefald who created the position. He previously worked with Wefald in the Minnesota state university system as the direc-

"We have developed a close working relationship." Krause said, referring to his previous association with Wefald.

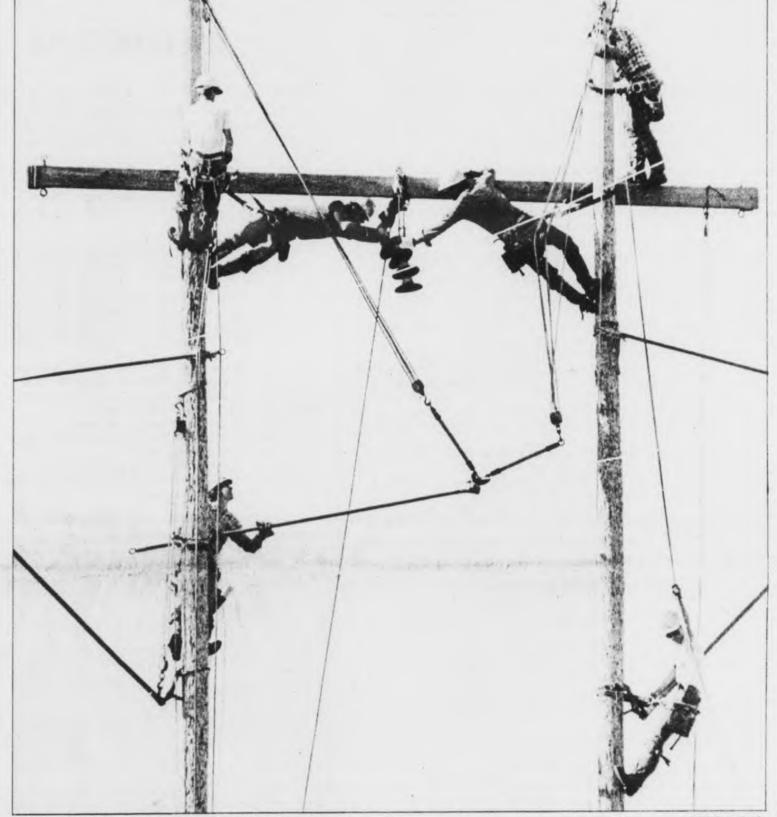

tor of student affairs.

"(Officials in Minnesota) certainly understand that opportunities like these come along," he said.

He is responsible for directing the recruiting and retention efforts and coordinating University relations and alumni af-

Overall, Krause said he would like to provide greater external and internal communication for the University. In his five weeks at the University, Krause

See KRAUSE, Page 5

Power personnel

Members of the Electric Power and Distribution Lineman Course at the Manhattan Vocational Technical School simulate changing a faulty crossarm on an "H" fixture transmission system Wednesday. The members finish their year-long course in December.

Seniors in architecture to propose new student committee

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

To increase student input in decisions affecting the department, two seniors in architecture will propose the formation of a student advisory committee at the department's Nov. 25 faculty meeting.

Mike Tortorice and Jeni Eusterbrock said they will ask for faculty approval of a five-member student committee that would serve as a means of better communication between faculty and students.

"We feel some of the decisions being made concerning the administration, faculty and especially the curriculum should have student input," Eusterbrock said.

Tortorice said students had not been made aware of recent curriculum and administrative changes and he said he believes they should have been.

He said students were not informed until after the current department head had resigned and a new one was semester.

A format change in Architectural Design Programming, a class for fifth-year architecture students, caught many off guard as well, he said. Along with the change, came additional unexpected work hours.

"Some people might not have taken as many classes or would have prepared better for it (if they had known about the change)," he said.

The committee would also serve as an outlet for students who are un-appointed to take office next satisfied with faculty or course work. Although the group won't have the power to make decisions, it will be an attempt to better represent students in the department, Tortorice said.

He said the group will work "as a body of five people who have more of a voice than one lone person.'

Both the current department head, Ronald Hess, professor of architecture, and Robert Burnham, associate professor of architecture who will be replacing him, said they are in favor

In the most recent accreditation report, compiled five years ago, more student involvement in decision-making was suggested, Hess said. He said he has tried to allow for student participation by having an informal open-door policy and that a committee would be a valuable addition. "I think it's long overdue," he said. Although Burnham said he believes the formation of a student committee is a good idea, he said the decision is up to other faculty

"I think it's up to the faculty to decide whether it's a good idea or not," he said.

Burnham said he's not sure the committee will increase communication because, he said, students have attended faculty meetings in the past, but "got bored, wandered off, and that's the end of it.'

Tortorice said he believes faculty will approve of the committee.

"We want to work with them and better the program," he said.

Navajo and Hopi tribal members criticize required relocation law

By The Collegian Staff

At a Wednesday night discussion Navajo and Hopi tribal members explained their positions on government instituted relocation problems occurring at a reservation in Arizona.

The Coalition for Human Rights sponsored a film and discussion concerning relocation problems with the Hopi and Navajo Indian tribes. The Academy Award-winning film, "Broken Rainbow," depicts the federal government creating a false situation of disharmony between the Navajo and Hopi. This was done, the film said, to free up reservation lands in Arizona for corporate oil drilling.

The film said the government fabricated tribal problems, and then separated the two tribes with a barbed-wired fence. Then the government started relocating the "misplaced" families under Public Law 5391, making it easier for oil companies to take over the

After the film, a Hopi and two Navajo tribe members stated their nation's feelings.

David Johnson, senior in interior architecture and one-half Hopi, said his tribe doesn't approve of the way the relocation is being handled.

The Hopi don't mind letting the Navajo live on their land, as long as the Navajo acknowledge the land as belonging to the Hopi. However, Johnson said he only knows these things from his father and his grandfather, not first hand.

Johnson said his people want to expand, but they can't because they are surrounded by Navajo.

"Relocation is the only way for us to expand, but we don't condone the way it is being done," he said.

Lisa Goodwin, a Navajo from Big Mountain, Ariz., said the Hopi may want to expand, but when the Navajo are relocated out of the reservation, only the oil companies will gain land.

She also said the government was practicing cultural genocide by moving the Navajo people.

"We have apartheid in this country, and if it doesn't stop we will die. The government has killed thousands of Indians before. To them, what are a few thousand more?" Goodwin said.

Goodwin has been touring the country trying to make people aware of the tribal situation and urging people to write their con-

Panel charges medical tests, exams unnecessary for disability reviews

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Social Security Administration wasted millions of dollars on unnecessary medical exams and tests in its zeal to knock a half-million people off the disability rolls from 1981 to 1984, a congressional panel charged Wednesday.

The government allowed private physicians hired as consultants "to overbill and overschedule examinations," and let them mark up lab fees by 300 and 400 percent, said a report by a House Government Operations subcommittee.

The spiraling use of the medical consultants "was a major factor in the three-year disability nightmare" that ended when the Reagan administration, under pressure from Congress, governors and the courts, halted the disability reviews in 1984, the report said.

Of the 500,000 people who lost benefits during those years, 291,000 won them back on appeal.

The report said the physicians who performed the exams created "a new industry of multimillion-dollar mills, where examination beneficiaries and new claimants were rushed through in assemblyline fashion."

Thousands of physicians were hired as consultants, but a small number - 108 - accounted for 22 percent of all the exams in 1983 and earned an average of $348,672, according to figures gathered by the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress.

Six doctors earned more than $1 million, including a former fulltime medical consultant for Social Security who "received approximately $3 million for one year," the report said.

The disability reviews, which Congress itself ordered in 1980, were resumed earlier this year under more lenient rules. Social Security spends $210 million a year on outside doctors and medical tests to determine whether a person is eligible for disability benefits under Social Security or a companion welfare program, Supplemental Security Income.

The congressional report said studies in four states - Arizona, Delaware, New Jersey and New York - found that 13 percent to 33 percent of the medical exams were unnecessary. It projected the government may be wasting $27 million to $69 million nationally on needless exams.

In addition, the study said, Social Security could save up to $31 million a year if it stopped allowing physicians and laboratories to charge the highest rate for lab tests paid by any government agency in the state. State disability agencies carry out the reviews. Social Security Commissioner Dorcas R. Hardy replied in a statement: See SOCIAL, Page 14

NATIONAL

Federal shutdown costs taxpayers

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee estimates the half-day shutdown of the federal government on Oct. 17 cost the taxpayers $33 million, but the Reagan administration rejected the figure Wednes-

"There has never been an accurate figure for the costs of these things and there never will be," said Office of Management and Budget spokesman Ed Dale.

Dale said the estimate by the House civil service subcommittee was misleading because "they are trying to put a value on the price of work lost. It's not a cash cost."

When it passed the $576 billion spending bill to operate the government, Congress provided that the 556,000 federal workers sent home early be paid for a full day's work.

The subcommittee estimated this provision cost the government $28 million because "we're paying people for time they didn't work," said Andrew Feinstein, the panel's staff director.

The subcommittee also estimated it cost an additional $5 million to secure government offices, stop computer systems and print and distribute individual furlough notices. Dale also disagreed with this figure. "There might have been some (cost). I have no idea what it is," he said. "It is obviously negligible." President Reagan sent federal workers home Oct. 17 because a temporary law extending the government's authority to spend money had expired before Congress passed the massive spending bill later that day.

Man charged with murder of wife

PLYMOUTH, Mass. - A man charged with murdering his wife and burying the body in their backyard garden has been ordered held without bail while undergoing a psychiatric evaluation.

Charles C. Delaney III, 29, arrested Tuesday morning as he came off duty from his security guard post at Jordan Hospital, was later arraigned in district court where a plea of innocent was entered on his behalf, according to Plymouth County District Attorney William C. O'Malley. He will be examined at Bridgewater State Hospital, and scheduled to appear back in court Nov. 14.

According to prosecutors, Delaney allegedly killed his wife, Pom Song Delaney, 27, a native of South Korea, five months ago and covered up the crime by telling neighbors he was planting an Oriental garden. He reportedly telephoned his wife's mother in South Korea and said her daughter had been killed in a car accident in Pom Song Delaney was last reported alive on April 30, three days before her husband telephoned her mother.

When the victim's mother asked the South Korean government for more information, government officials contacted the Red Cross, who were told by Boston police that they had no record of the accident, O'Malley said.

After conducting its own investigation, the Red Cross contacted Plymouth County authorities, which launched a missing person's pro-

Police using heavy excavating equipment dug up the body of the woman wrapped in a sheet. The body was taken to Southwood Hospital for an autopsy, but O'Malley said a preliminary investigation indicates the woman was strangled with a rope.

> Ivan Sand Supports Education. In 1986 Representative Sand Voted Yes For:

SB601 — expanded per pupil expenditures to include 4-year old

SB500 — a fair way to determine state aid to community colleges

SB754 — income tax credits for research & development

HB3121 — business & job development tax incentives

Ivan Sand Supports Job Creation & Economic Growth.

In 1986 & 1985 Representative Sand Voted Yes For:

SB755 — creation of the Kansas Technology Enterprise Corporation

HB2836 — local option income tax for education

SB757 — Kansas Venture Capital System HB2901 — expansion of county enterprise zones

exceptional children

SB756 &

INTERNATIONAL

MIA status talks resume in Hanoi

BANGKOK, Thailand - Four U.S. military specialists went to Hanoi on Wednesday for technical talks aimed at resolving the status of 1,786 Americans listed as missing in action from the Vietnam War, which ended in 1975.

The talks, the fourth round this year, had been set for Oct. 8, but were suddenly canceled by Vietnam with no explanation. The technical talks began in December 1982.

The U.S. delegation is headed by Lt. Col. Joe Harvey, commander of the Honolulu-based U.S. Joint Casualty Resolution Center, the military unit in charge of settling the MIA issue.

The other Americans are two officers of the center's Bangkok office and Thorne Helgeson, chief of the Army Central Identification Laboratory in Honolulu, which analyzes remains to determine if they are those of MIAs. The Vietnamese side is headed by Nguyen Can, head of a Foreign Ministry office for resolving the MIA question.

Washington and Hanoi do not have diplomatic relations. One U.S. goal in the talks is to secure an agreement on a second U.S.-Vietnamese excavation of a warplane crash site to search for remains. Last year, the first joint dig produced wreckage of a U.S. B-52 bomber and bone fragments. It was regarded as a milestone in the MIA search effort.

REGIONAL

Man appeals for trial to be moved

TOPEKA - Arnold L. Ruebke Jr. on Wednesday appealed to the Kansas Supreme Court his murder convictions for the October 1984 abductions and brutal shotgun murders of a teen-age Arlington girl and two boys she was babysitting.

Ruebke was represented by attorney Richard J. Rome, former Reno County District Court judge, argued on Ruebke's behalf that pretrial publicity made it impossible for his client to get a fair trial and he said the trial judge erred in several rulings during the pro-

Francis E. Meisenheimer, former assistant Reno County attorney who prosecuted the case, rejected Rome's assertions and said "the evidence was overwhelming that (Ruebke) committed the murders and kidnapping.'

The case centers on the abductions of Tammey Mooney, 18, and the 2-year-old twins Andrew and James Vogelsang, who disappeared from a rural Arlington home on Oct. 29. Arlington, population 631, is located about 20 miles southwest of Hutchinson in south-central Kan-

Their bodies were found Nov. 1 in a wooded area near the Vogelsangs' home. Mooney had been shot in the face, neck, chest and abdomen with a 12-gauge shotgun and both boys were killed with the same weapon, shot in the head and neck.

Ruebke is serving 12 consecutive life sentences for the crimes, having been convicted of three counts of first-degree murder and three counts aggravated kidnapping.

On appeal, he argued through Rome that the trial court was wrong for refusing to move the trial to another district court after the case received widespread publicity.

Join us

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH. DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available in Ackert 233 for $500 student cancer research awards. Applications are due Dec. 15.

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208. BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS meets

HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meet to take yearbook pictures at 7:45 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

AGRICULTURE AMBASSADORS meet at 6 p.m. in Waters 137

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets for pledge test at 7 p.m. in Union 213. Paddle signing party for pledges and actives will be at 8:30 p.m. at Dark Horse, 619 N. Manhattan Ave.

MANHATTAN RIGHT TO LIFE will show a slide presentation at 7 p.m. at St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Ave. The speaker will be John Wilke, president of National Right to Life.

K-STATE FACULTY is sponsoring a lecture by William H. Courtney, consul general designe to the U.S.S.R., at 7:30 p.m. in Kedzie 106. The topic will be "United States and Soviet Relations."

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Youanes Dawood Youanes at 9:30 a.m. in Veterinary Library Room A. The topic will be "Exercise-Stress in Pneumonic Pasteurellosis of Calves Induced by Pasteurella Haemolytica (Wilkie-1)."

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER meets at 8 p.m. in Union 200

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 204.

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE ENTREPRENEURS meets at 6 p.m. in Calvin 103.

STUDENT SENATE meets to take yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Fairchild 212. Senate will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room.

BAKERY SCIENCE CLUB will have a Halloween dinner at 7:30 p.m. at Hibachi Hut, 606 N. 12th St.

TRAFFIC APPEALS BOARD meets at 10 p.m. at the Alpha Chi Omega house, 1835 Todd Road.

K-STATE FACULTY is sponsoring a lecture by William H. Courtney, consul general designe for U.S.S.R., at 1:30 p.m. in Cardwell 102. The topic "Nuclear and Space Arms Control" will have a Halloween swing dance at 5 p.m. Meet at the south door of the Union.

ARAB STUDENTS ASSOCIATION will have elections and meeting at 6 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of John Peter Giese at 9:30 a.m. in Cardwell 119. The topic will be "State Selective Electron Cap-ture in Collisions of Low Energy Multiple Charg-ed Ar and Ne Projectiles with Atomic and Molecular Deuterium."

MR.K'S EMPLOYEES HALLOWEEN PARTY!

OU JUDGE

- Mr.K's Employees Costumes
- Decorations
- $1.50 Pitchers

Tomorrow is KQLA Halloween Warm-Up & Costume Contests!

KITE'S EMPLOYEES HALLOWEEN PARTY!

TONITE YOU JUDGE

- Kite's Employees
- Costumes Best Decorations
- PLUS • $1.50 Mixed Drinks

Tomorrow is "YOUR" Costume Party!

You are invited to hear

CONGRESSMA

SLATTERY

November 2 Sunday 7 p.m.

Congressman Slattery will speak as a part of the . . FAITH JOURNEYS SERIES

Baptist Campus Center 1801 Anderson 539-3051

Sponsored by American Baptist Campus Ministry yourself.

537-0942

HCR5047 — tax exemptions for economic development Ivan Sand Supports Fiscal Responsibility & Prudent Use of Your Tax Dollars.

In 1985 Representative Sand Voted No On: Over $65 Million in additional appropriation requests CAN WE AFFORD KATHA HURT? TO WHOM WOULD KATHA HURT SAY NO? RE-ELECT REPRESENTATIVE SAND WHO VOTES TO SUPPORT NEEDED PROGRAMS IN A FISCALLY RESPONSIBLE WAY.

RE-ELECT IVAN SAND — REPRESENTATIVE — 66TH DISTRICT.

OPEN 10-6

Mon.-Sat. Thurs. til 8:30

Sunday 1-5

Here's your chance to be a Star!

Come in & be video taped in your favorite costume . . . Best costume winner will receive a certificate for

15 FREE VIDEO RENTALS! (winner will be notified Nov. 1)

1122 Laramie St. Handi Corner in Aggieville 539-8786

Class stretches psychology studies beyond ordinary limits

By ANN CLIFFORD Collegian Reporter

Dreams, the feeling of a runner's high, hypnosis, psychadelic drugs, yoga and laughter therapy are all experiences that take a person a step beyond the ordinary limits of the mind and body.

These different states of consciousness are examples of transpersonal psychology, and they are the subjects of Varieties of Consciousness, a course offered by the Department of Psychology.

Leon Rappoport, professor of psychology and instructor of the course, said the class deals with areas of psychology and consciousness not ordinarily dealt with in the traditional disciplines of

The material covered in the class can be applied to several different areas of interest, Rappoport said. Students take the course to learn about self-improvement, stress management, mind-body performance, concentration, speculative psychological theories, drugs and psychology of health.

Students began the semester by studying special states of consciousness which occur in ordinary experiences. Church rituals, dreams and movies affect people in everyday life by putting them in an altered state of mind, he said.

The second section of the course explores the subject of athletes and their states of concentration, Rappoport said.

A basketball player for a period of time can't miss a shot. A runner, for a little while, forgets pain and experiences what is referred to as a 'runner's high."

When athletes achieve this intense level of concentration, they are experiencing a state of consciousness called a flow experience, Rappoport said. A flow experience is a period of time when an athlete has complete mind-body cooperation, he said. Another part of the class looks at how psychedelic drugs affect consciousness, he said. By using drugs such as LSD and mescaline, people get into a state of intense awareness of physical surroundings, sounds and color perceptions, he said.

The class discusses theories and causes of the states of consciousness produced by the drugs, as well as alternative uses of the drugs as aids to psychotherapy, he said.

The class also studies forms of "Eastern metaphysics" or meditation methods such as yoga, Zen, tai chi and Indian-Hindu, he said. Speakers visit the class to explain and demonstrate the meditation forms.

This section of the class is generating more interest because "more and more people in the West are finding the benefits and adopting some approaches of Eastern meditation," Rappoport said. "Many athletes use forms of Eastern meditation in their preparations without even knowing that is what they are doing," he said.

Psychology of health is another section of the course which is receiving more attention, Rappoport said. This section looks at different approaches to physical health problems, such as studies which show that the immune systems of emotionally depressed patients are not as effective as those of patients with better mental attitudes.

Laughter therapy is one of the speculative theories covered in this section, he said. This treatment provides humor tapes to people with chronic diseases or pain to improve their morale and the functioning of their immunity system.

Increased enrollment has caused the course to change from a demonstration class to more of a lecture class, Rappoport said. An increased interest in the subjects is one of the reasons for the larger class

The course is designed to make students aware of different ways of handling both mental and physical problems, Rappoport said.

"It is a course which is dealing with areas of psychology that are becoming more and more important," he said.

Police arrest male suspect in connection with 2 rapes

By The Collegian Staff

A 42-year-old Randolph man was arrested Tuesday night in connection with the kidnapping and rape of two University students, Riley County Police

Capt. Larry Woodyard said. Nordell F. Glover, R.R. 1 Box 28, was charged with two counts of aggrevated kidnapping and two counts of rape.

The charges stemmed from an incident that began around 2:30 p.m. Tuesday when two women were allegedly abducted from the low road at Tuttle Creek Dam and Reservoir Area. The road leads to the Tuttle Cove area, Woodyard

The women, 19- and 21-years old, were forced by threats and a long gun (not a hand gun) into a pickup with a small camper shell on it and driven to a remote area in northern Riley County, he said. In this area, the man allegedly raped the two women before he returned them to a backroad outside Manhattan, Woodyard said.

The women then walked to a rural home and contacted a friend who picked them up and brought them to Lafene Student Health Center. The police were notified at 7:30 p.m.

Saudis fire long-time petroleum leader By The Associated Press Sheik Yamani called OPEC's architect

RIYADH. Saudi Arabia - Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's long-standing petroleum minister and leader of OPEC, has been fired, the official Saudi Press Agency reported in a terse announcement.

No reason was given for replacing the 56-year-old Yamani, perhaps the most well-known figure within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

There have been rumors that Yamani was on the outs with the royal family, and King Fahd appeared to undercut him at a critical juncture of the Oct. 6-22 OPEC meeting. But there was no evidence that he was in danger of losing his

The surprise announcement issued before dawn in Rivadh said Planning Minister Hisham Nazer had replaced Yamani. Nazer is considered one of the key ministers in this kingdom of 11 million.

The announcement comes between two key OPEC meetings, one that agreed to continue interim production curbs through Dec. 31, and the planned meeting on Dec. 11 in Geneva where the 13-nation oil cartel will have the difficult task of lining up a new production-sharing agreement, or distribution of production quotas among members.

Saudi Arabia is the world's largest oil-exporter and the leading OPEC member. In recent statements Saudi Arabia has made it clear that it will demand an increase in its own production quota of 4.35 million barrels

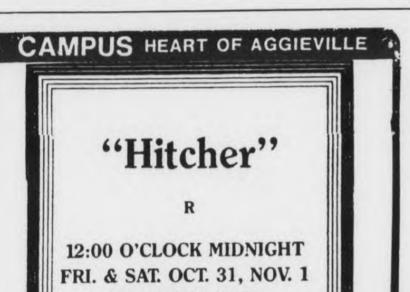

The announcement of Yamani's firing came amid reports within the oil industry that Saudi Arabia was offering a 50 cent-per-barrel discount on its oil prices. The Saudi government denied this Monday.

Yamani, his country's oil minister since 1962, is the architect of the Saudi oil policy and the figurehead in OPEC's rise to prominence worldwide. He was appointed oil minister by King Saud, the present monarch's half-brother.

Yamani, a lawyer by trade, is considered the architect of the 1973 Arab oil embargo that triggered the first major oil price rise and reshaped the world economy.

He remained the key OPEC power-

ALL SEATS $2.50

Oscar Haimo Night $1.75 Pitchers

Tomorrow

16th Annual Halloween Party with FREE T.G.I.F. Sandwich

Picture Man

NEBRASKA

ROOMS ON OMAHA'S WEST EDGE

Just 40 miles to University of Nebraska Memorial Stadium $26.95 Single $30.95 Double Every Room has FREE VCR use with Video Cassette Movie Rental at Front Desk

200 Choices Ben Franklin Motel on Interstate 80, Exit 440 (Omaha's 144th Street) Call Collect (402) 895-2200 or 1-800-341-8000

Ben Franklin Motel

CONGRATULATIONS TO SMURTHWAITE HOUSE AND GOODNOW HALL

537-1115

Small and Large Hall winners of the Bloodmobile Participation Award

SPECIAL THANKS to all volunteers and doners for making the Goodnow blood challenge a success.

- GOODNOW HGB and The Association of Residence Halls

Lots to Love Shop

Kitchens Plus OCTOBERFEST SALE

3 HOURS ONLY

Thursday night from 7 to 10 p.m.

Specials thru-out the store including:

All Halloween Merchandise......50% OFF Selected Stoneware by Nancy Calhoun . . 50% OFF All Kitchen Towels and Potholders 25% OFF Cushionaire Cookie Sheets......Only $9.99

FROM OUR OUTSIDE CAFE

Lowenbrau Draws......Only 49¢ German Bratwurst cooked outdoors Delicious

> 1110 Westloop Shopping Center 537-4046

> > The Croissant Cafe

Wear a costume and get $1 off our already low prices

PLUS-Halloween makeup done FREE with a haircut Friday

539-TAME or 539-8601 404 Humboldt

An Invitation To

Buddy Bear's Birthday Party

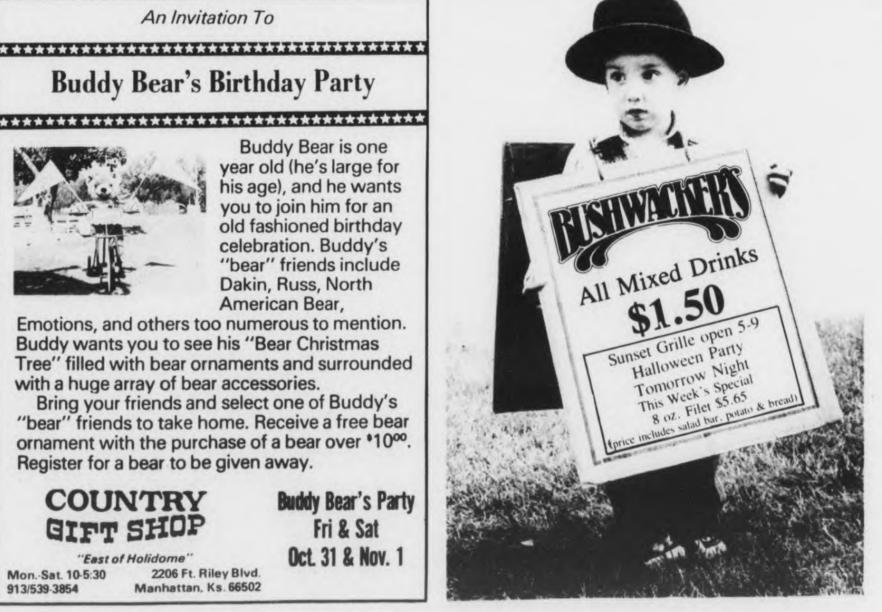

Buddy Bear is one year old (he's large for his age), and he wants you to join him for an old fashioned birthday celebration. Buddy's "bear" friends include Dakin, Russ, North American Bear, Emotions, and others too numerous to mention. Buddy wants you to see his "Bear Christmas Tree" filled with bear ornaments and surrounded with a huge array of bear accessories.

Bring your friends and select one of Buddy's "bear" friends to take home. Receive a free bear ornament with the purchase of a bear over *10∞. Register for a bear to be given away.

COUNTRY

Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30 2206 Ft. Riley Blvd. Manhattan, Ks. 66502 Buddy Bear's Party Fri & Sat Oct. 31 & Nov. 1

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Citizens should reject U.S. training Contras after the Honduran government tion? refused to allow Contra-training trained in the United States.

may use American soil to train an tion was founded? army of marauders. Even though a training ground for terrorists.

Last April, the United States that the Libyan government used American foreign policy?

First, the CIA began illegally Libyan soil as training camps for mining Nicaraguan harbors, terrorists, If the Reagan ad-Then, it trained the Contras. ministration was justified in Then, President Reagan began bombing Libya for statehis push to get Congress to ap- sponsored terrorism, will other prove $100 million of the tax- nations now be justified in payers' money to mutilate inno- obliterating our backyards for cent people. Now, two months serving the same sordid func-

When will Americans wake up on Honduran soil, there are and refuse to allow their names to rumors that the Contras will be be attached to an illegal and inhumane war against innocent That's right, even though the civilians? When will the U.S. United States maintains an em- government realize that a bassy in Managua, it will not only militaristic approach subverts continue to fund the Contras, but the principals on which this na-

Will the next step be sending the World Court has determined our own citizens when it becomes that the United States' proxy war evident that the Contras will acon the Nicaraguan people is il- complish nothing more than the legal, our own soil may be used as deaths of thousands of noncombatants?

Will Americans continue to see bombed the capitol of Libya this country as a moral nation, because of that nation's support when the meaning of the word for international terrorism. At "moral" is clearly an the time, Reagan cited the fact anachronism with respect to Campus should greet Wefald at ceremonies

Wefald will be inaugurated as the 12th president of K-State at 2 p.m. today in McCain Auditorium.

The day promises to be a ceremonial event, not only for Wefald and his family, but for the entire University community.

The inauguration ceremony is certainly an event every student and faculty member should attend.

Wefald will be charged by the Kansas Board of Regents to continue to improve the quality of higher education at K-State.

Wefald has proven he is genuinely dedicated to furthering the character of the University by enacting programs that will ultimately be rewarding to K-State. His open-door policy is a President Wefald.

University President Jon refreshing change from the previous administration, and is much-appreciated by the many assemblages who comprise the University community.

> His policy provides a much quicker exchange of thought, and ensures against the stagnation of new ideas.

Wefald has a long battle to fight in order to achieve his goals, but his perseverance will pay great dividends to the University.

His primary concern for the student, and the way day-to-day tasks are attended, will enable Wefald to show off his true colors as the 12th president of K-State.

The University should look forward to the years spent with

Parking lot cleanup police responsibility student parking lots and particularly in the Student Union lot.

The increase in broken glass seems to be directly proportional to the University's concert activity. For some reason, people like to slurp booze from bottles while they socialize in the aesthetically beautiful surroundings of a dark parking lot.

Now while students can't expect any excess of parking places in the near future, they should certainly be able to expect to park in a University parking lot without ribboning their tires or finding themselves getting a tetanus shot because a piece of glass sliced through the sole of their shoe.

broken glass in parking lots may seem like a petty grievance. After all, department and grocery store parking lots are continually covered in glass.

more than $20 for a year's park- cleaning cost.

There appears to be quite a pro- ing permit. Faculty and staff pay liferation of broken glass lately in more than $40. No one buys a parking permit for a grocery store parking lot.

In addition, the K-State Police Department has sole privileges and responsibility for the maintenance of the University parking lots. If a student, faculty or staff member does have to see a doctor because they cut their feet on glass shards penetrating their shoes they cannot sue the city because its not city property.

Lawsuits are not the answer but taking responsibility is and it appears that the campus police are shirking their's.

Since they are the sole beneficiaries of parking permit income and take all the profits At first glance, protesting from parking offenders who receive tickets, and take complete responsibility for the parking lots on campus, it stands to reason that cleaning up objects that could cause people great But consider this: students pay harm would be included in the Death penalty no answer for state

In next week's election, Kansans will be faced with some tough decisions, especially in the campaign for attorney general. We can either vote for Republican incumbent Bob Stephan, who wants to bring the death penalty back to Kansas, or we can vote for Democrat Dennis Moore, who also supports the death penalty. Gee, that's quite a deci-

With a wide selection like that, the question of reinstituting the death penalty is perhaps moot. However, I feel a moral obligation to raise the question anyway - if only as a protest against the near-homogeneous platforms of each candidate.

Near-homogeneous? Well yes, Stephan wants to execute first-degree murderers in some cases as well as people convicted of a felony murder when a death occurs in the commission of another crime. Moore, on the other hand, wants to execute a smaller group of criminals - those convicted of particularly gruesome murders and contract killings.

Big deal. Both glorify the state and not the individual as the highest moral entity. They believe the state should kill people to punish them for killing people. That's the same sort of logic that brought Mussolini to power. Individuals can legally kill in self-defense, they argue, why can't the state kill people to protect society?

To compare capital punishment with a "kill or be killed" self-defense case, however, is a distortion. Because the state has prisons, it doesn't need to kill people to protect society. Once a person is in prison, he or she poses no immediate danger to society.

But surely Moore and Stephan must have some better arguments for the death penalty than the self-defense argument or falling back on fascist philosophy.

Perhaps they still believe the deterrent to crime myth — one that went out of vogue 10 years ago when the United States Supreme Court analyzed 25 years of crime statistics and found no evidence to suggest the death penalty deters crime. Other studies show murder rates in Illinois, Michigan and Vermont, states which use the death penalty, equal other states which do not use the death penalty.

SCOTT MILLER Collegian

Not only does the death penalty fail to deter crime, in some instances it has been correlated with an increase in crime. A 1975 study found the incidence of killing of police to be higher in states that use the death penalty. In New York between 1903 and 1963, a slight rise in the homicide rate occurred immediately after executions. While these studies do not conclusively prove the death penalty encourages crime, at the least they imply it has no effect on crime.

Perhaps the attorney general candidates think they could save the taxpayers money by killing repeat-offenders instead of paying for their lifetime stay in prison. Saving money has been one of the standbys of the pro-death penalty mongers for years.

Actually, a murder trial and the first step of the appeals process - measures to ensure that innocent people aren't executed - cost more than twice as much as lifetime room and board in the big house. This doesn't even take into account the exorbitant cost of the execution itself, nor the cost of maintaining maximum security on death row.

So if the death penalty doesn't deter crime and it doesn't save money, what does it do? Let U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall answer that: "It is evident that the burden of capital punishment falls upon the poor, the ignorant, and the underprivileged members of society.

Thursday, October 30, 1986 - 4

A study conducted at Northeastern University in Boston looked at the racial background of offenders and victims of 2,242 homicide arrests. The number of black offenders sentenced to death for killing blacks was 1.5 percent. Of the whites accused of killing whites 12.33 percent were given the death penalty. Of whites accused of killing blacks, 5.25 percent were sentenced to death. And 89 percent of the blacks accused of killing whites were given the death penalty.

The death penalty also serves as an irreparable punishment for people later found not guilty. Since 1900, an average of one person per year has been executed and later found not guilty.

Earlier this year one of my colleagues appealed to pro-death penalty people to picture themselves as a convicted murderer sentenced to death. Nice try, but the same self-righteous merchants of death who support something as uncreative as the death penalty probably don't have enough imagination to picture themselves as anything but the final decision-makers in that form of psuedo-justice known as "Ramboism."

Instead, such people should picture themselves as members of a jury, which must reach a decision - knowing that a guilty decision will probably mean the death sentence for the defendant. I don't think I would like to be instrumental in killing someone - especially when a life sentence in prison is another possibility.

There is one other thing the death penalty does. It convinces the public that its government is serious about fighting crime, when in reality it has little to do with fighting crime. And perhaps that is why both attorney general candidates support the death penal-

Iraqi peace efforts fail against Iran

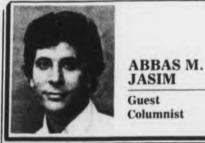

Re: Z. Chvoshi's letter, "War on Iran brutal," in the Oct. 22 Collegian.

Reading Chvoshi's letter, one gets the impression that he is either misled or intentionally misleading readers about the facts of the Iraq-Iran war. Iraq has called for peace since the early days of the war. It is a well-known fact that Iraq responded positively to regional and international calls for ceasefire, as it did with the efforts of mediators between the two countries to end the war. Yet, on the contrary, the Iranian behavior rejected any regional and international effort to stop the war. The Iranian regime persisted in the use of force in its relations with Iraq, contradicting the principles of the United Nations and its charter and principles of the non-aligned movement.

The Iranian regime should have made use of the opportunity Iraq willfully gave it. The Iraqi leadership decided to make Iran give up its hostile acts and make a move toward peace. That opportunity came when Iraq withdrew its armed forces from the Iranian territories June 20, 1982. But the Iranian regime left no one in doubt as to its aggressive intentions against Iraq and continued warning and threatening to invade Iraq and to bring down Iraq's government.

The rotten mentality of the Iranian regime led it into the misconception that the Iraqi resolution to withdraw from Iranian territories was due to weakness and military wane. The Iranian regime started again to uncover the true nature of its aims and evil intentions to occupy Iraq. These intentions were clearly stated by the Iranian officials and by Khomeini himself.

Since the Iraqi withdrawal from Iranian territories, the Iranian regime has launched many offensives to invade and occupy Iraq. The destiny of all those offensives was defeat and destruction of the Iranian forces. But, did the Iranian regime learn the lesson from these battles?

The answer can be found in the statements made by Iranian officials. These have been put into two categories.

1. Persistence on prolongation of war and aggression against Iraq: On June 21, 1983, Khomeini addressed a number of followers saying that Iran would continue the war against Iraq until the Iranian expansionist ambitions were achieved. He said, "If Iran wins the war. Iraq will be annexed to Iran as will other minor states in the region.'

Hashemi Rafsanjani, chairman of the Iranian Majlis, addressed the Majlis June 22, 1982, and said, "A decisive end to the war with Iraq in favor of Iran is more important than the presence of our forces in Lebanon." He also said, "The Iranians are ready to shift their artillery guns toward Baghdad. Iran will reject all peace missions to end the Gulf war and we will turn Iraqi shells back to Baghdad."

Addressing a group of officers Sept. 22, 1982, Khomeini said, "How can we sit and negotiate without preconditions. We reject this even if the Security Council asks for this and even if the whole world asks us, we cannot accept such conciliation." On Oct. 3, 1982, Khomeini renewed the insistence of his regime to prolong the war and aggression against Iraq. He said, "Saddam's conciliation is like that of America and Israel. The world is now afflicted with a chronic disease. The world is sick; the leaders of all countries are sick!" Khomeini claims that Israel is an enemy, but in fact, he is completely supported by weapons and experts from Israel.

2. Impossible terms to justify the continuation of aggression: Since the outbreak of the Iraq-Iran war Sept. 4, 1980, the Iranian regime has been putting forward impossible terms for an end to the war and to fighting. These terms are illogical and unrealistic. Since coming to power in February, 1979, the Iranian regime has revealed its expansionist, aggressive tendencies against the Arab Gulf countries. The Iranian officials have vied for statements and public speeches which uncover their real intentions. Lashing at the Gulf countries and describing them as America's agents or anti-Islamic infidels became material for the Iranian media campaign whether staged by the Iranian regime instruments or by Iranian officials who began to set claims in Bahrain, Aden and Baghdad. But the emergence of Iraq as a power in the region to be accounted for was a deterrent to the Iranian behavior. Thus, when the Iranian regime started the war against Iraq. it did so to "swallow the big fish," trying its luck, as success would make swallowing the smaller fish easier.

Abbas M. Jasim is a graduate student in horticulture.

Robert Krause, who was appointed vice president for institutional advancement, says his goal is to increase enrollment to between 19,000 and 20,000.

Krause

Continued from Page 1 said he has been encouraged by the positive commitment of the administration, staff and students.

Krause said the college deans have proven to be a "solid team."

"I find eight excellent deans." To maintain its level of excellence, the University must continue to "nuture the strengths of each of the eight colleges.' Krause said he has been impressed about K-State and the state in general. "Kansas has a strong commitment to higher education, I think they rank in the (top 10 in the nation)," he said. He also emphasized the strength of the "quality" academic programs at the University.

"Kansas State assumes a major tan community because the people role in higher education for the nation," he said.

Krause stressed the need of being "supportive" of the University's students.

Forty to 50 percent of the students change majors at least once during a collegiate career. That makes it important to meet the needs of these students, he said.

Krause said he also will work toward achieving Wefald's aspirations of making K-State one of the top three academic institutions in the Big Eight Conference.

"I would like Kansas State to be among the top 15 land-grant universities in the nation," he said.

Krause said the mandate for a land-grant university has remained the same throughout the years, but changes are taking place.

"We want to bring the resources of the University to the people of Kansas," he said.

The "motivation to change" the university - to make it the best academic institution it can be - is an important factor to consider.

An example of this change is the satellite (communications educational) center which will have a "profound impact" in the state,

Krause said. He said, however, people have a wariness of changing too quickly. It is important to take the time and involve everyone in the process. "Change is always hard." The University has already undergone some dramatic changes since Wefald began his presidential duties on July 1, Krause said. Krause said he enjoys the Manhatare "friendly, straightforward and willing to help. "But not overbearing in their willingness."

His wife Rosemary and three daughters are still in Minnesota, but they will move to Kansas when the current school year is over, he said. "My family likes living in a university environment." Krause said he has no definite future plans but he will stay in educa-

"Right now to be successful, I must give a total commitment to this institution," he said.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Rolling Thunder's Biggest Ever

Announcing Rolling Thunder's last 30-Hour Sale of the Year beginning at 9 tomorrow morning! 30 hours of bargain prices on home hifi and video components by Luxman, JVC, American Acoustics, Onkyo and more. 30 Hours of really small prices on Alpine and Sony car stereo components, and Alpine car burglar alarms. Plus special deals each hour for 30 hours. But here's the real bonus. Make your best deal on everything you want to buy, then finance it, and pay no interest for up to 12 months. See today's Collegian for details. Don't miss it! Bargain prices on home hifi and car stereo components, and car burglar alarms. PLUS no interest financing to qualified buyers, during the last 30-Hour Sale of the Year.

Only at Rolling Thunder of Manhattan, 1126 Moro in Aggieville.

9-10 a.m., Fri., Oct. 31 ALPINE 7273 MAXELL UDS11-90

/LPINE

Digital AM-FM Cassette Hi Power-Auto Reverse-Dolby Alpine Best Reg. Price $670.00

All 29 Hours $555.00 1 HOUR ONLY $488.00

1-2 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31 Digitrac 280E

Replace Your Old Needle Now with a New Diamond Tip Reg. Price $69.00 All 29 Hours $45.00

> 1 HOUR ONLY $37.00 5-6 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31

Get this Demo pair of Direct Reflecting Speakers

Reg. Price $900.00 pr All 29 Hours $500.00 pr 1 HOUR ONLY $344.80 pt.

Woofer Pump Inside this 3-way Speaker Reg. Price $135.00 each All 29 Hours $122.50 each

1 HOUR ONLY $99.00 each 1-2 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1 American Acquistic D-2500

American Acoustics

Digital Ready 2-way Loudspeaker Reg. Price $190.00 each All 29 Hours $150.00 each 1 HOUR ONLY $88.00 each

5-6 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1 COUSTIC HS-892

11-12 p.m., Sun., Nov. 2

ALPINE 7171

1LPINE car audio systems

Full Front Din Digital-Auto Eject-Auto Reverse

Reg. Price $320.00

All 29 Hours $299.00

1 HOUR ONLY $249.95

2-3 p.m., Sun., Nov. 2

by MISSION

OUR BEST

Reg. Price $1500 pr

All 29 Hours $1389.00

1 HOUR ONLY $995.00

Argonaut

6x9 2-way Car Speakers Reg. Price $80.00 All 29 Hours $69.95 1 HOUR ONLY $59.95 10-11 a.m., Fri., Oct. 31

Chrome Bias 90 min. tape Reg. Price $3.00 All 29 Hours $2.39 1 HOUR ONLY $1.88

2-3 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31 ALPINE 8007

Burglar Alarm Systems for your car Reg. Price $70.00 All 29 Hours $60.00

1 HOUR ONLY $35.00 6-7 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31 SONY SREEL

Reg. Price $74.95

1 HOUR ONLY $57.00 10-11 a.m., Sat., Nov. 1

ONLY $105.00

2-3 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1

State of the Art Compact Disc Player/Remote Reg. Price $1000.00 All 29 Hours $700.00

HOUR ONLY $499.95 6-7 p.m., 8at., Nov.

Hitachi VT-1310 (ii) Hitachi, Ltd.

107 Channel-3 Head-HQ Circult-Remote Control-2 yr. warranty Reg. Price $470.00 All 29 Hours $439.95 1 HOUR ONLY $399.95

NOON-1 p.m., Sun., Nov. 2

3 way 6x9 Hi power Car Speaker

Reg Price $130.00 pr

All 29 Hours $119 95 pr

1 HOUR ONLY $89.95 pr.

3-4 p.m., Sun., Nov. 2

Compact Disc Player 3 Beam System

Reg. Price $330.00

All 29 Hours $299.95

1 HOUR ONLY $249.95

XLV 220 BK

SONY XS-697

11-12 a.m., Fri., Oct. 31 JVC AL-AIBK

Turntable Semi Automatic Component Turntal Reg. Price $100.00 All 29 Hours $89.95

> 1 HOUR ONLY $68.88 3-4 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31 SHERWOOD EQA280

Ö nununbah

Car Stereo Graphic 7 Band Equalizer with Hi Reg. Price $100.00 All 29 Hours $90.00

> 1 HOUR ONLY $74.44 7-8 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31

AM/FM Cassette-Auto Reverse-Music Search-Car Stereo Reg. Price $269.95 All 29 Hours $199.9 1 HOUR ONLY $159.95

11-12 p.m., Sat., Nov. COBRA 3100

Reg. Price $170.00 All 29 Hours $150.00 1 HOUR ONLY $127.77

3-4 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1

SONY

sette Deck Reg. Price $249.95 All 29 Hours $199.95 1 HOUR ONLY $169.95

7-8 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1

WILD CARD HOUR

ANY PREVIOUS HOURLY SPECIAL PROVIDED WE HAVE IT IN "STOCK"

Coustic RX-504 Coustic Hi Power-Auto Reverse, Fits any car-AM/FM

NOON-1 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31

Cassette Deck Reg. Price $159.95 All 29 Hours $145.00 1 HOUR ONLY $129.95

4-5 p.m., Fri., Oct 31 SONY WM-F75

Reg. Price $169.95 All 29 Hours $159.95

1 HOUR ONLY $139.88 8-9 p.m., Fri., Oct. 31

ONKYO TA W55 ONKYO Artistry in Sound

Double Cassette Deck, Hi Speed Dubbing Reg. Price $259.95 All 29 Hours $239.95 1 HOUR ONLY $198.88

NOON-1 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1 Coustic Amp-100

Car Stereo Booster/Amp 50 Watt Total Power Reg. Price $60.00 All 29 Hours $54.95

1 HOUR ONLY $39.88 4-5 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1

e 1/2 on this Tracking Turntable Reg. Price $270.00 All 29 Hours $230.00 1 HOUR ONLY $135.00

> 8-9 p.m., Sat., Nov. 1 SONY CFS-950

All 29 Hours $159.95 1 HOUR ONLY $119.95

JVC HRD-180

1-2 p.m., Sun., Nov. 2

Reg. Price $500.00 All 29 Hours $430.00 1 HOUR ONLY $399.95

4-5 p.m., Sun., Nov 2 CHITACHI TRK76204

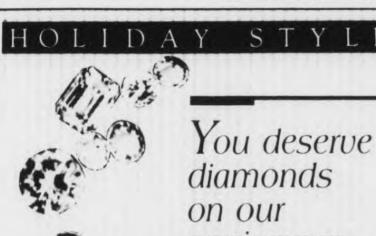

Portable Boom Box with woofers Reg. Price $199.95 All 29 Hours $169.95 1 HOUR ONLY $139.95

FINANCING TO QUALIFIED BUYERS

1126 Moro, Aggieville 776-5507

All items may not be exactly as pictured. All on a first-come, first-serve basis and limited to store stock.

anniversary Giving away diamonds is our way of celebrating and saying thanks for 20 great years in the community.

Come join us for a 3-day celebration and preview of magnificent diamond and colored stone jewelry Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 30th, 31st and November 1st. Register to win a .20 point al/5 carat diamond) which will be given away Saturday

Visit stop by and take pan m our memorable Picka Dummed contest where nonmy ter puch a sperimus elimental contest of hampagne dass tall of

25 POYNTZ MANHATTAN 913-776-7821

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

When immigrating farmers established small Kansas towns from the 1850s to the 1870s, one of the first buildings finished was a school made to double as a church so the community could worship together.

Today, those rural churches are trying to help farmers who have felt the hard times in the agriculture industry with financial assistance and programs designed to help them cope with their problems.

"Churches tend to be at the center in a rural community. That puts them in an excellent strategic position to be a helper and care-giver," said Dave Stewart, Baptist Campus Center minister.

Willie Nelson, who sponsored the Farm-Aid concerts, used churches to distribute some of the concert money to 600 Kansas farm families.

Nelson allocated $45,000 to the Consultation of Cooperative Churches in Kansas and requested it "be distributed to starving farmers," said Dorothy Berry, spokeswoman for the organization.

Nelson's donations have been given to the distributing organizations with few stipulations.

When Berry asked Nelson if funds could be allocated to farmers not starving, but needing help paying bills, his reply was that he trusted the organization to distribute funds to anyone in need.

After receiving the funds, ministers throughout the state were notified. The clergy submitted the number of parties needing assistance, and were then sent an equal number of $100 checks to be cashed and given to the families, Berry said.

Berry said Nelson likes the Kansas organizations' procedure. She said when another state needs help in developing a plan, Nelson tells them to go "talk to the people in Kansas."

Although the Farm-Aid funds were

By The Collegian Staff

The newly appointed U.S. consul to

William H. Courtney will speak about "U.S. and Soviet Relations

After Reykjavik" at 7:30 tonight in Courtney's second lecture will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday in Cardwell 102.

The title of that lecture is "Nuclear Courtney will assume duties as head of American commercial af-

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign.

Phil Becker, Treasurer.

and Space Arms Control."

fairs in Kiev later this fall.

Kiev will speak today and Friday on campus about U.S.-Soviet relations and nuclear arms.

Consul appointee to speak about U.S.-Soviet relations

Central focus important in care-giving also it is "a symbol that somebody

"I'm pleased that it has a value worth far beyond the value of the

She said although families could receive more than one assistance payment, few have made such a re-

But the distribution of funds is not the only role churches are undertaking in farm relief efforts. Counseling programs have also been developed

One example is Lutheran Social Services in Kansas and Oklahoma, directed by Don Romsa. He has set up stress-reducing programs for

The program consists of a four- to six-hour session where farmers can learn about stress and how it affects them and their families. The families then share the stress-reducing techniques that have worked for Romsa said no set of skills will work for all families, but the farmers

· Have story or photo ideas?

CALL 532-6556

Ramada Inn

THURSDAY

Margarita

Madness

99¢

FREE Taco

& Nacho Bar

4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT!

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

them in part of the program.

cares and understands.

check," Berry said.

on a large-scale basis.

originally for farmers, the program has been expanded to include individuals in businesses related to agriculture.

"Those people are in just as much trouble as the farm families," Berry

The program is successful because only the minister and the family knows who receives the aid, and the organization has to deal with little red tape, Berry said.

"We are not interested in having the names and the addresses of the families," she said. "The pastor was able to go into the family and say, 'Nobody knows about this besides me and you."

Berry said the northeast and the northwest section of the state have requested more money than other areas, although recent floods in the southeast part of the state have increased requests from that area.

She said the number of requests depends on how aggressive individual ministers are. One priest in southwest Kansas has requested 14 checks in the last few months.

"I think that's great," she said. "He was just real aggressive."

Berry said the priest asked families whether they needed money for their childrens' education, bank payments or food. He told them no one knew he was asking the family, and they would not have to repay the

"I'd love to be out of money. I'd love to go back to Willie Nelson and say, 'We've distributed all the money and we can use some more," Berry

In the last year and a half, the organization has distributed about $60,000. It has also raised more than $25,000 in private donations.

She said she was happy the program has not only aided farmers but

After joining the foreign service in

He has been deputy director of the State Department's Office of

Strategic Nuclear Policy in the Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs

Courtney has received degrees from West Virginia University,

Morgantown, W.Va., and Brown

His visit was arranged by James

Ward, assistant professor of social work and social work program field

ENTER OUR HALLOWEEN

DRAWING- YOU MIGHT GET

TRICKED, YOU MIGHT GET

VIEW THE AGGIEVILLE

GRAVEYARD PATIOS!

99¢ GOBLIN COCKTAILS FOR

ALL SPOOKS and SPOOKETTES!

SPOOKS FROM OUR

TREATED!

University, Providence, R.I.

1972, Courtney occupied posts in Brasilia, Brazil, and in Moscow.

talking about their problems and some of the ways they solve them helps others not to feel alienated.

'After that there's not a lot for me to say," Romsa said. "It is important to say this: They are all managing stress right now.

Romsa said he stressed relationship skills in the program.

"The more people you have in your life to support you, the more those people will understand and care for you when you are angry and frustrated," he said.

Part of relationship skills include strengthening the farmers feeling of Romsa said some farmers feel that because they are in financial trouble, they are not as valuable as an individual as they were before.

"It is hard to develop relationships when you feel that way," he said. Another aspect of the program is what Romsa called "outlook.

"Stress is a matter of perception," he said. "I can choose the eyes that I perceive the world. I can change failure and defeat into laughter and "It has to do with spirituality and

FOR THE BEST DEFENSE AGAINST DOCTOR ONCE A YEAR AND HIM

He may not look like everybody's idea of a cancer specialist.

But there's strong evidence that your greengrocer has... access to cancer protection you won't find in any doctor's office.

Like broccoli. Peaches. Canteloupes. Spinach. And other sources of Vitamin A related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus. Not to mention sweet potatoes, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash, tomatoes, citrus fruits and brussels Vegetables such as cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi and cauliflower may help reduce the risk of gastrointesticancer.

what your mother always told you to do. Eat your vegetables.

> AMERICAN CANCER

Senate to hear bills on attendance policy

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will hear first reading tonight of two bills which would change and expand some of the responsibilities of student senators.

The first bill would require senators to start keeping office hours, one hour a week, in the Student Government Services Office.

The bill also proposes a new attendance policy which would allow each senator four unexcused absences from senate meetings and office hours but penalizes the senator for any

The second bill would allow senators to vote on amending the constitution to require half of the elected senators to represent their individual colleges and half to represent various living

If passed, this bill would not take affect until the 1988 senate elections.

Senate will also hear first reading of a bill proposing revisions of the KSU Literature and Notice Regulations.

Senate will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Union Big Eight Room.

CONNECTION

★ Now selling ★ $2 SESSIONS

★No purchase limit ★ ★ Now using Wolff bulbs ★

1126 Laramie

776-2426

CANCER, SEE YOUR ONCE A WEEK.

nal and respiratory tract cancer.

Fruits and vegetables (and whole grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat) may help lower the risk of colorectal

In short, make sure you do

FRIDAY Charlie's Halloween Celebration $1.50 PITCHERS ALL DAY!! $1 cover with costume $1.50 cover with no costume —Best costume contests —Prizes galore! —Horror movies on Big Screen in evening

THURSDAY $DAZE$

Denison & Claffin 539-9619

FirstBank Center

rksmarch

Non-Competitive Pre-Marked Course

Saturday, November 1, 1986 RILEY COUNTY COURTHOUSE PLAZA STARTING TIME — 8 a.m. - 2 p.m.

(must be finished by 5 p.m.) PRE-REGISTER BY CALLING 537-9683

OCTOBER 27-31, 1986, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. FREE TO THE ENTIRE FAMILY Sponsored by Lafene Health Center and Manhattan Main Street Project

SOCIETY

Q104 BONKERS HALLOWEEN BASH Fri. Oct. 31: SCREAMIN' LEE & THE ROCKTONES 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

Circle K International

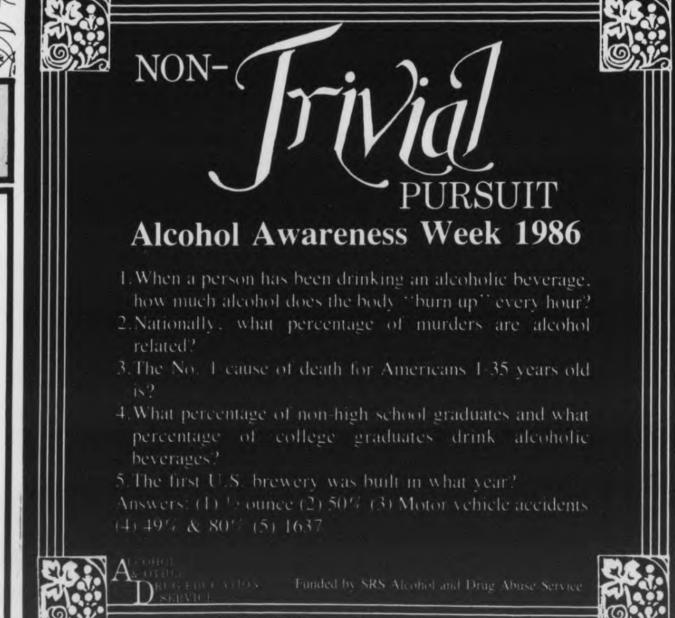

Sat. Nov.1: DOW JONES & THE INDUSTRIALS 10 p.m.-2 a.m. Across from Cafe Latino in Aggieville, OPEN 4 p.m.-3 a.m., 1216 Laramie, 537-9591

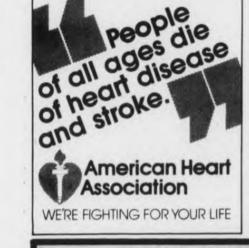

Would like to congratulate this semester's winners in the bloodmobile plaque competition:

Phi Gamma Delta - Greek Smith Cooperative - Small Living Group Goodnow Hall - Large Living Group

Thanks to the efforts of the entire K-State community, this semester's bloodmobile was awesome, 1597 pints.

THANKS, K-STATE!

Group assesses need for athletic fee

Established March 27, 1986, by Senate Bill 86/87/3, the Athletic Fee Task Force began to meet in May

A task force was needed, the bill stated, because "there has been concern expressed that the success of there was an interest in having a fee our athletic programs hinges on stu-dent financial support," and because "student input is needed concerning the viability of an athletic fee."

Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said the task force was charged with conducting an in-depth study on the feasibility of an athletic

"It was formed because we knew

Senate to hear Task Force conclusions from the athletic department, and we knew that at least some students were interested in supporting the athletic department with a fee," he

Johnson said former Senate Chairman Mark Jones had discussed the proposed fee with K-State Athletic Director Larry Travis in 1985.

"At that time, he (Jones) said to hold off until the coliseum business was taken care of," Johnson said. Task force appointments were made by Johnson, Sally Traeger, student senate chairwoman and senior in marketing and Kevin Eickman, former coordinator of personnel

"Anyone interested could apply," Johnson said about the appointments. "We interviewed everyone that applied."

whelming number" of applicants. Johnson said the appointments were based on the applicant's objectivity. "We wanted students who appeared to be as objective as possible," he said.

Johnson said the task force best represented the demographic characteristics of the student popula-

The task force may come up with a He said there was "not an over- recommendation for the Senate by the end of the year, he said. "I would guess that it should pretty well wind up this fall and they will bring their findings back yet this semester," he said.

The task force consists of five student senators, four at-large members and an athletic department representative who serves as a non-voting, ex-officio member."

Senate members on the task force are Doug Folk, junior in electrical engineering, chairman; Kirk Caraway, senior in political science and philosophy; Jennifer Leeds, sophomore in political science; Steve Ligon, senior in animal sciences and industry; and Becky Svaty, sophomore in secondary education.

At-large members are Roger Haymaker, junior in business administration; Kelly Lamborn, senior in journalism and mass communications; Bill Majerus, graduate in agronomy; and Sandy Marihugh, sophomore in business administra-

Mike Jones, athletic department business manager, is the ex-officio intelligent and logical decision if a student referendum on the pro-

2. After delving into the athletic posed fee came about.

This is an educational project by the Collegian to help students become more informed about the proposed athletic fee and the stance currently taken by members of the Athletic Fee Task Force. Task force members were asked to choose four of the following eight questions to answer. 1. Why did you apply to be on the Athletic Fee Task Force?

to the students for money? 3. What effect do you think an athletic fee will have on the University as a whole? 4. What effect do athletic wins have on University morale? 5. Do you think sports has a higher priority than academics at 6. Are you in favor of the proposed athletic fee? Why or why

7. Do you believe the athletic department can manage without 2. Do you think the athletic money generated from an athletic department is justified in coming

8. How do you think the issue will eventually be resolved? Will it end in a referendum?

Student vote is best course

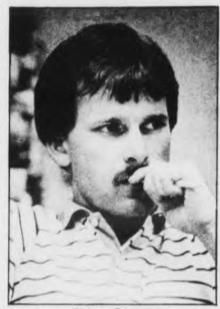

Steve Ligon, senior in animal sciences and industry.

1. This is a very important issue that will affect every student on this campus. It could also set a precedent to be followed in the future when and if other atypical student funding projects come about. I've followed this issue since the rumors first started and I'm very interested in what the outcome will be.

4. It certainly doesn't hurt. I'm not going to say enrollment will increase or retention will get better, but I don't think students will avoid or leave this campus because we have winning athletic programs.

6. Right now I am favoring an athletic fee if it's feasible and will work to improve K-State's athletics and student morale. Admittedly, it has its faults, but overall I think it's a good idea that merits consideration by every student. Also, we must consider this in a future tense and how it will affect K-State students and athletics after we've gone.

referendum. This is such an important issue, I feel every student should have the opportunity to affect its outcome. No matter what I think or anybody else thinks, the result of a 8. Definitely, it should end in a student vote is the best solution for this campus.

Steve Ligon

Fee not good election issue ter informed so I could make an

Kelly Lamborn, senior in journalism and mass communica-

1. I believe the proposed student athletic fee is an important and complex issue. I wanted to be bet-department's budget, it is obvious that they are suffering financial woes. The K-State athletic department is an independent, local agency. It has a lease agreement with the University to provide the intercollegiate athletic program for K-State. Whether that local agency is justified in asking the students to pay a special fee - which will be used for athletic scholarships for non-revenue sports, as the proposed fee now stands - is up to an informed, rational student body to decide.

7. I suppose any area of the University could "manage" without additional funds. The question is, whether they will accomplish their goal and mission of creating successful, competitive, revenue and non-revenue sports programs at K-State without a

See LAMBORN, Page 14

Fee justification questionable

School pride helps retention

Bill Majerus, graduate in

2. It may be said sports are a vital part of college life, but to what degree are we, the students, willing to pay for it? Let's all remember why we are attending K-State — to achieve the best academic education possible. So I believe if the athletic department is justified in asking for assistance from the student body, surely other departments on campus are justified as well.

4. A winning athletic program may boost morale temporarily, but I believe University morales are primarily molded by administration and faculty's commitment to ex-

5. I hope not. When I graduate from this institution, I'm hopeful my diploma will bring to the minds of future employers thoughts fitting the MITs (Massachusetts Institute of Technology) of our nation.

6. We must, for a moment, overlook our loyalties to the "Purple and White" and realize that we are being asked to subsidize the Athletic Department in the hundreds of

Doug Folk, junior in electrical

1. I felt this was an issue that could have a measured effect both upon students and the University as a whole. I also felt it would be important for students to be as informed as possible about all aspects of this proposal, and wanted to be able to help

4. I think it's reasonably obvious that having a successful sports program boosts campus morale. The converse is also very evident, particularly here at K-State in the past couple of years. I think school pride, or "Purple Pride," plays an integral part in campus involvement and retention as well. I also feel,

however, that to a certain degree, awards and recognition received by colleges and students have a similar

5. No. I feel that they play different roles in the part of one's life that is

"college." I think K-State adequately emphasizes academics and frequently excels in them. However, I personally feel that a large portion of one's college education comes from areas other than a textbook. A university offers many opportunities for involvement, interaction, entertainment and cultural enhancement that a student should take advantage of. I think sports happens to be the engineering.

achieve this goal.

Bill Majerus

thousands of dollars in spite of future tuition increases and restrictions on financial aid. If we do agree to subsidize them, can we truly justify a fee to all students whether they like or dislike athletics as a whole?

Fee won't guarantee wins

Sandy Marihugh, sophomore in finance.

3. It is difficult to determine what the overall effect would be. With rising costs, enrollment may decrease; however, a better athletic program could boost enrollment. It is important to realize that an athletic fee does not necessarily mean we are going to start winning more games.

4. Naturally, winning games boosts University morale. Students are proud to support their team and want to attend the games. More money in the athletic department's budget could turn it into a winning program or it might not help at all. There are no guarantees either way. This is something we are trying to find out more about.

8. We (the athletic fee task force) are hoping to make our recommendation to Senate well before elections in February. I to a referendum.

Sandy Marihugh

feel that it will most likely come

Winning improves morale

Becky Svaty, sophomore in secondary education.

Kelly Lamborn

1. I had an interest in athletics and in learning more about the athletic fee. As a senator, I was also concerned with knowing all I could about the fee just in case it came up before Student Senate as a bill.

4. I believe athletics has a direct effect on University morale. Winning raises University morale and losing lowers it. The University of Kansas' winning basketball team proves this relationship.

5. No, I don't think they do. Most of the students are more concerned with their grades than with how the football team does. Sports, as I said, does have an affect on morale, but academics are very important here at K-State.

7. As Larry Travis stated, they will have to. The athletic department will manage without the fee, but their ability to fund sports as they believe

Becky Svaty these sports should be funded will be decreased.

Chronology of Task Force

March 1985: Larry Travis officially begins job as director of intercollegiate athletics.

Spring 1985: Student Senate Chairman Mark Jones and Travis begin meeting to discuss an athletic fee proposal.

April 30, 1985: Student Body

President Steve Brown reads letter to Senate from the Wichita State University student body president "regarding the issue over their student activity fee and their athletic department."

May 2, 1985: Senate passes a resolution condemning actions taken by WSU President Warren Armstrong in vetoing student referendum that voted down athletic fee increase at WSU.

Sept. 5, 1985: Travis is introduced to Senate and discusses "some new ideas and plans to be implemented through the athletic department."

Jan. 21, 1986: Faculty Senate tables a resolution on the propos-ed athletic fee "to allow Student Senate to take the leadership position if they wish, and to allow development of alternate language in the resolution." Faculty Senate calls the proposed fee "repugnant," and says it is "a breaking of faith with the students" because of an agreement made in the 1960s Jan. 21, 1986: First mention of proposed athletic fee in Senate minutes, which state that "the proposed athletic fee has been placed on hold. Need to look into it further and get student input."

Jan. 22, 1986: Mark Jones tells Collegian he and Travis want to get more student involvement before addressing the proposal. March 27, 1986: Senate decides to establish an Athletic Fee Task Force "to study the feasibility of an athletic fee.

May 1, 1986: Athletic Fee Task Force is appointed. Aug. 26, 1986: Athletic Fee Task Force begins to meet. Sept. 4, 1986: Task Force Chairman Doug Folk tells Senate the group has met twice since school started. Folk says the task force will meet each Tuesday and will department's budget." Sept. 17, 1986: Task force members discuss the amount of control students would have over monies raised.

"start getting into the athletic

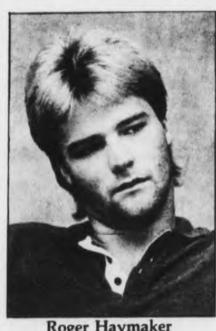

Oct. 7, 1986: Travis speaks to task force; says athletic fee is needed "very badly" to supplement non-revenue programs. Travis says "athletics and academics go hand in hand," and that University morale should change as athletic programs im-

Oct. 21, 1986: Task force hears presentations on students' financial status. Larry Viterna, director of student financial assistance, says financial aid will become more difficult to receive. Patty Hipsher, campus director of Associated Students of Kansas, says tuition is almost certain to increase.

Oct. 28, 1986: Mike Jones, athletic department business manager, tells task force the National Collegiate Athletic Association could possibly allow K-State to drop two sports and still remain in Division I standing.

Oct. 29, 1986: Associate Athletic Director Lee Moon says K-State is not planning on dropping any more sports.

Fee could improve athletics

Roger Haymaker

Roger Haymaker, junior in business administration. 4. I think athletic wins have a great effect on University morale. I think there is a correlation between winning and an athletic fee. If the athletic department is working with more money and that money is spent correctly, sports programs should be improved.

5. I think academics have a higher priority than athletics to the students, but not to the general public, which seems to be concerned with how well the teams do on Saturdays. Whether we want to pay for how we do on Saturdays is the ques-

7. I don't think the athletic department is trying to trick us. They can operate without our money; but they could do better with our money.

See HAYMAKER, Page 14

See LEEDS, Page 14

Fee, winning not connected

Jennifer Leeds, sophomore in tensive personnel changes: former political science and economics.

4. Athletic wins do help University morale, but no correlations should be drawn between wins and an athletic fee. The task force is still researching this particular topic.

6. From the research we have done so far, two important points have been brought up - that student loans will be more difficult to obtain, and that tuition will go up substantially, both in the very near future. Furthermore, in consideration of the fact that an athletic fee cannot promise improved athletics or a substantially improved university, the fee seems unfeasible.

7. With the exception of the 1985-86 school year, the athletic department has maintained a fairly balanced budget. Last year was unusual because of the added expense of ex-

Kirk Caraway, senior in political science and philosophy. 2. I don't think that it's right for the athletic department to come to us for money to cover their coliseum debts. They owe $2 million for the building itself and will have to pay about $300,000 a year for utilities. We (the students) already paid $7 million -$1 million more that we were supposed to pay. The non-revenue sports fee is just a ploy to pay these debts. 5. They shouldn't have. This is a university. The athletic department is a local agency, not part of the University. To think that you can improve academics by improving athletics is absurd. Athletics is merely public relations.

Students have already paid

6. I am not in favor of the fee. Students are already facing tuition

See CARAWAY, Page 14

Doug Folk

8. If an athletic fee is proposed by the task force, a bill will be presented to Senate, which has the power to pass it. I think, however, that it will probably be referred to a student vote during Student Government Association elections in February. If the task force concludes that a fee is not appropriate, a resolution stating this will be presented to Senate. If passed the issue essentially dies.

most popular of these.

Kirk Caraway

Close one

John Kelly, junior in physical education, gets attention after being hit by a car crossing the corner of Denison Avenue and College Heights Road. Kelly, transported to The St. Mary Hospital, was treated and released.

Kansas State—Oklahoma

Big Eight Volleyball AHEARN FIELD HOUSE

FRIDAY 7:30 p.m.

400 souvenir cups
courtesy of Kite's and Mr. K's Redeemable for FREE beverage.
Must be of legal drinking age for alcoholic beverages and comply with Kansas club laws.

ROTC cadets net food for charity

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State Air Force ROTC is getting into the Christmas spirit of giving early this season.

The cadets of the five flights, or sections, of the ROTC program collected canned goods to give to the Flint Hills Breadbasket. The breadbasket will then distribute the food to those who need it, said Mike Culver, junior in mechanical engineering.

"The goal of the project was to get 300 pounds of food," Culver said. "The project was a competition between the flights to see which one can bring in the most food.

"The winner of the competition will get the Honor Flight of the week award. This will go toward the Honor Flight of the year award.

"You can really see the competition between the flights," he said. "It took a while for the flights to get going, but when one of the flight commanders collected $2 from all of his flight members and went and bought a case of canned peas, a case of canned hominy and a case of canned fruit, the competition really took off."

The food collected is from the cadets themselves, he said. They either went out and bought it or brought it from home.

The contest for the flights took place from Oct. 8 to Oct. 22.

Steve Lindahl, senior in milling science and management, was in charge of the project.

Lindahl said the flights did a lot better than expected. The group collected 441 pounds of food, with 235 pounds brought in by the cadets, said Lindahl. The rest was collected in donation boxes at area merchants.

Lindahl said he was told the amount donated by the flights was twice as much food as anyone has brought in at this time of year. The winning flight brought in 130 pounds of food.

The present members of

Order of Omega

| order or or | |
|--------------------|------|
| Jada Allerheiligen | KKI |
| Larry Butel | 7) |
| Sherri Caster | K40 |
| Stacy Clark | LDB |
| Tim Congrove | ATΩ |
| Kelly Conyac | 1=7 |
| Becky Davis | LAB |
| Debbie Fields | 10 |
| Myrna James | T DB |
| Patti Jones | K7 |
| Ann Jordan | 1=7 |
| Roger McClellan | ATP |
| Becky Riden | KKI |
| Mike Riley | HKA |
| Angle Rowland | 111 |
| Sally Traeger | 1110 |
| CA TON FAIT D. T. | |

ATP

Kelly Welch

Bob Whearty

congratulate the newly tapped members. hanna Bachman IIIM san Brent 442 would like to

| III CIII DCI | |
|------------------|------------|
| Johanna Bachman | HBФ |
| Susan Brent | 777 |
| Kurt Bush | IIKA |
| Jennifer Chaulk | T DB |
| Doug Gaumer | ZOE: |
| Jim Hill | 21 |
| Ed Nickel | $AT\Omega$ |
| Leslye Schneider | FФB |
| John Seitzer | 11 |
| Tim Staley | 111 |
| Lisa Tarvestad | 777 |
| Tim Ulrich | 7) |
| Mary Vanier | ГФB |
| Carey Avery | KKI |
| Susan Baird | K7 |
| Teresa Temme | KAO |
| reresa remine | |

TWIST & SHOUT

TO THE SOUNDS OF

The KSU Marching Band in Concert

McCain Auditorium Saturday, Nov. 1, 1986 8 p.m.

$1 Students

$2 Adults

Driesell loses Maryland basketball position

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE PARK, Md. - Lefty Driesell lost his job as basketball coach at the University of Maryland Wednesday, but retained much of his lucrative contract while becoming an assistant athletic director.

Under a renegotiated deal, Driesell will be guaranteed at least $136,000 by the university for each of the next four years, and $86,000 for the remaining four years, provided he stays at the university. Driesell also will keep his summer basketball camp on campus, which reportedly earned him about $70,000 annually in recent years.

Driesell stepped aside under pressure from an administration reacting to the furor which followed the cocaine-induced death of All America Len Bias on June 19 and criticism of Maryland's academic standards for basketball players.

Chancellor John B. Slaughter praised Driesell for successes during his 17 years as coach, but said that in the best interest of the athletic program, "a change of leadership is required." He denied that Driesell was a scapegoat.

Slaughter several times said he took full responsibility for problems that have occurred, but in answer to a question during a sometimes hostile news conference, he added, "I have no intention of resigning."

"I should have had more insight into that situation at the time," Slaughter said, referring to drug and academic problems within the basketball program.

Driesell, who spoke to reporters before Slaughter, read a terse statement and declined to accept any questions.

"It is obvious," said the 54-yearold coach, who was accompanied by his wife and two of his daughters, "that the administration wants to make a coaching change, and I do not want to coach if I am not

When Driesell left Cole Field House, where he recorded many of his 348 victories, he was cheered by several hundred students.

Driesell, one of only 17 coaches with at least 10 years in Division I with 500 victories, came under fire from several sources after Bias died.

Prince George's County State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall Jr. tried unsuccessfully to have the coach indicted for obstruction of justice, saying he tried to have Bias' dormitory room cleared of drugs after firstround draft pick of the Boston Celtics collapsed.

Marshall also charged that Driesell had placed more emphasis university task force appointed by Slaughter also was critical of the basketball program.

After remaining silent for 14 weeks, Driesell took the offensive last month when he defended his program and said, "I'm not apologizing for anything we've done.

Under the financial arrangement, Slaughter said, Driesell will continue to be paid his salary of $85,800.

In addition, the university guaranteed him $50,000 annually for the next four years for universityarranged television appearances. Driesell did not retain a shoe enon winning than academics. A dorsement contract, signed just before Bias' death and said to be worth $100,000.

> The chancellor said Driesell never sought a buy-out of his contract. Slaughter said Driesell would be free to accept a coaching job elsewhere, but that the contract would be broken if he leaves.

Slaughter said a new coach, either interim or permanent, would be announced before the start of practice on Saturday.

Ron Bradley, a Driesell assistant for five years, is regarded as a possible choice as interim coach since he knows the players and the system.

this season with most averaging less than 100 yards rushed per game. One of Todd Moody and Tony Jordan, to establish a balanced attack.

The Big Eight Conference does not have an outstanding running back so far the reasons is that teams are using a multiple-back offense, such as K-State's

Explosive running backs not as evident among Big Eight Conference's offenses

By RON RENO Sports Writer

It seems like it was just yesterday that outstanding Big Eight Conference running backs such as Gale Sayers, Billy Sims and Mike Rozier were literally running over op-

In fact, Big Eight football has been synonymous with explosive running backs for, well, since anyone can remember.

So far in 1986, however, not one Big Eight running back is averaging more than 100 yards rushing per game. In fact, Oklahoma State's Thurman Thomas, who leads the conference with less than 85 yards per outing, is 30th among all NCAA Division I-A backs in that category.

Thomas, an All-American last season, just had his first 100-yard performance of '86 with 170 Saturday against Kansas.

"I think there are more teams (in the Big Eight) throwing the ball than there have been in the past, or maybe than there ever have been," said Iowa State head coach Jim Criner.

"The pass gives someone a chance to be respectable if you don't have the kind of program where you have those kind of runners," he added. "We haven't, and that's certainly one reason we've had to rely more on the pass." Oklahoma State's offensive coordinator Larry Coker agreed with

"I think that has kind of come about in the last few years," Criner said. "The Big Eight used to be totally a running conference, and now there seems to be more teams passing in the Big Eight - there's no question about it.'

Coaches throughout the conference cited different reasons for the apparent lack of productivity by Big Eight running backs. Some disagreed with the notion that the conference has moved away from its running format.

"I think those statistics are somewhat misleading," K-State coach Stan Parrish said. "Teams like Nebraska and Oklahoma have so many quality players that they spread the ball around a lot. Colorado has a balanced attack as Colorado head coach Bill McCartney echoed Parrish.

"Oklahoma and we run the wishbone," McCartney said. "Whenever you run the wishbone there are four backs in the backfield, and you have to spread the wealth around. If you look at the statistics, you'll see that Oklahoma is the top rushing team in the nation. That indicates that nothing has changed. There's just more diversity in the attacks than there has been.

Oklahoma and Nebraska are indeed the top two teams in the nation in rushing offense, but several conference coaches believe the Big Eight as a whole places less emphasis on the run.

Paul "Rocky" Alt, running back coach for the University of Kansas, is one of those.

"I think there's a trend towards throwing the ball more offensively. I think pro football has a large influence on the collegiate level now. I think that's the biggest thing," Alt

"Plus, I think people like a wideopen football game these days. It's more interesting to the fans; they like to see the ball in the air. It has a tendency to attract people, to put people in the stands," he added.

Defense and injuries to key players were reasons cited by Nebraska's offensive coordinator Frank Solich.

"I think basically you're looking at very sound defenses that are playing teams aggressively, and consequently it's getting a little tougher to get those 100 yard games," Solich said. "All in all I think it's a combination of a few factors that add up to that.

"You look at the top I-back at Oklahoma State (Thomas), and he gets an injury this summer that keeps him from going full speed from the start. We lose Doug DuBose for the year with an injury. Those kind of things can take some good I-backs out of the picture that normally would be there.' Kansas' Alt agreed that subpar individual statistics from Big Eight backs could be attributed to opposing defenses. He rejected the idea that the conference can no longer recruit top-quality running backs.

"I think it says a lot about the type of defenses the teams are playing. I think most offensive coaches would agree that you're going to take what people give you," he said. "I don't think the backs themselves have anything to do with it, because I think that everybody has pretty decent backs."

Teams other than traditional powers Nebraska and Oklahoma find themselves in a "Catch-22" situation when they try to recruit blue-chip

"I don't know if the pass has proven to be an equalizer yet, because the passing teams haven't won the conference," the Cyclones' Criner said. "But I think it just gives you a faster way to respectability to build the kind of team that attracts those kind of kids.

But, as Oklahoma State's Coker explained, those recruits want to go to a program that emphasizes the

"We're a team that runs the tailback," he said, "so I think it's a little easier for us to keep a back than say a Kansas, who is mainly a passoriented type offense. And certainly those backs go places where they will carry the ball.

Sox's ace Clemens, NY catcher Carter lead AP's All-Stars

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens and catcher Gary Carter of the World Series champion New York Mets lead the 1986 Associated Press All-Star team announced Wednesday.

Clemens got 94 votes as the top right-handed starter in a nationwide poll of 100 sportswriters and broadcasters. Carter was named 93 times.

Also picked were first baseman Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees, second baseman Steve Sax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies and shortstop Tony Fernandez of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Jim Rice of the Red Sox was chosen as the left fielder, Kirby Puckett of the Minnesota Twins was picked as the center fielder and Jesse Barfield of Toronto as the right

Joining Clemens as pitchers were left-handed starter Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles and reliever Dave Righetti of the Yankees

Houston's Hal Lanier was chosen earlier as manager of the year. Ballotting was done prior to the postseason, with voters naming one player at each position. In the closest race, Barfield got 31 votes to finish one ahead of Cincinnati's Dave Parker.

Clemens, 24, was the most dominant pitcher in baseball this season. leading the majors with a 24-4 record and helping the Red Sox into the World Series. He started the season with a 14-0 record and went to top the American League with a 2.48 earned run average. Houston's Mike Scott was second to Clemens with four Valenzuela, brilliant throughout his career with the Dodgers, went 21-11 for his first 20-victory season. Valenzuela, who turns 27 this week, received 73 votes and finished far ahead of Milwaukee's Ted Higuera, who got 14. Righetti set a single-season save record with 46. He was named on 71 rookie Todd Worrell, named on 20. Carter, with eight All-Star Game appearances, finished third in the ballots and outdistanced St. Louis

National League with 105 runs batted in while hitting 24 home runs and batting .255. Tony Pena of Pittsburgh got five votes.

Mattingly, the 1985 AL Most Valuable Player, was second in the majors with a .352 average and hit 31 homers with 113 RBI. Mattingly, 25, led baseball with 238 hits and 53 doubles, both all-time Yankee records, and his .573 slugging percentage also was best in the majors. He got 91 votes and Houston's Glenn Davis was far back with three.

Sax had his best all-around year. His .332 average was second in the NL, he stole 40 bases and he committed just 16 errors, his lowest total for a full season. He got 51 votes and Houston's Bill Doran was runnerup at 14.

Schmidt, 37, enjoyed one of his finest years. He led the NL with 37 home runs and 119 RBI and batted .290. Schmidt, a nine-time All-Star. made only eight errors. He got 83 votes and finished ahead of majorleague batting champion Wade Boggs of Boston, who got 15.

Fernandez, 24, continued to develop as one the most exciting young players in baseball. He batted 310 with 10 homers and 65 RBI, stole 25 bases and was flashy in the field while not missing a game. Fernandez got 61 votes with Baltimore's Cal Ripken receiving 18.

Rice made an effort to hit for higher average this year and it worked as he batted .324 with 20 home runs and 110 RBI. Rice got 47 votes with George Bell of Toronto runnerup at 28. Cleveland's Joe Carter, who led the majors with 121 RBI, got three votes as a left fielder and seven as right fielder.

Puckett, 25, had one of the most productive seasons in the majors. The Twins' leadoff hitter batted .328; with 31 homers and 96 RBI, stole 20: bases and was among the outfielders;

Coryell quits as coach of San Diego Chargers

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - San Diego Chargers Coach Don Coryell resigned Wednesday following a meeting with team owner Alex Spanos, a Chargers spokesman said.

"I feel a change would be beneficial to the Chargers," said Coryell, 62. Coryell was in his ninth season with the Chargers, who are 1-7 in the current season. The team has lost seven straight games.

Chargers spokesman Rick Smith said Coryell would be replaced by Al

Saunders, who was named assistant head coach at the end of last season." Coryell is the only coach to win' more than 100 games at both the pro-

In 14 years as an NFL head coach. at St. Louis and San Diego, Coryell was 114-88, including playoff games. His collegiate coaching record in three seasons at Whittier and 12 seasons at San Diego State University, ending in 1972, was 127-24-3.

fessional and collegiate level.

The Chargers and the Kansas City Chiefs will play this Sunday in San Coors foots the bill for Colorado goalposts after upset win

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

"Coors is the one," or at least that's probably what University of Colorado athletic department officials said after Saturday's 20-10 upset win over Nebraska. Jubilant fans tore down the goalposts following the Buffaloes' victory - running up a bill of $7,600 for replacements. Dick Eicher, an executive of the Adolph Coors Company, attended the game and informed Colorado Athletic Director Bill Marlot to send Coors the bill.

Said nosetackle Kyle Rappold of the win: "It's a present to the seniors, the alumni and everyone the last 19 years, especially the fans. "We're like the U.S. Olympic hockey team in 1980. They won the gold medal against the Russians and we just won the gold toady." Nebraska has lost only five regular season road games this decade, and all five times the fans have torn down the goalposts: Iowa, 1981; Penn State, 1982; Syracuse, 1983;

Oklahoma, 1985; and Colorado, 1986. "It's sure been a good thing for the goalpost salesmen around the country," 'Huskers' coach Tom Osborne

The Big Eight/Raycom Sports television game of the week is Colorado (3-4, 3-0) at Oklahoma State that's had anything to do with CU in (3-4, 1-2). Kickoff from Lewis Stadium in Stillwater is slated for 11:38 a.m.

A regional telecast by ABC-TV will feature Oklahoma (6-1, 3-0) at Kansas (3-4, 0-3), with a scheduled start of 2:35 p.m. from Memorial Stadium in Lawrence.

OU-KU is the nation's longest uninterrupted series; this is the 84th consecutive year the schools have

In other conference games, K-State (2-5, 1-2) is at Nebraska (6-1, 2-1) and Iowa State (4-3, 1-2) plays at Missouri (2-5, 1-2).

Other quotes and statitistics from around the Big Eight include the following.

Kansas coach Bob Valesente said he has prepared for a team as powerful as Oklahoma before.

"From a coaching standpoint, I've prepared for this type of team before, but that was when I was coaching in the NFL," Valesente

Alex Espinosa, Iowa State quarterback, has passed for 4,452 yards and ranks ninth on the Big Eight career chart. The Cyclone needs 226 yards to move ahead of former Kansas field general Mike Norseth.

Even after successive losses to Oklahoma and Nebraska, Oklahoma State coach Pat Jones said he saw the Cowboys improving and knew they had a chance to defeat KU.

"We had seen this coming for a long time. I felt us getting better each week, but it's hard to tell with the level of competition we had been playing. It's hard for the fans to see it when the stats aren't there," Jones said.

Thurman Thomas, OSU's star running back, became the Big Eight's 10th player to reach 3,000 career rushing yards and now ranks eighth on the conference list with 3,087. He needs 443 yards to vault ahead of former Cowboy Ernest Anderson.

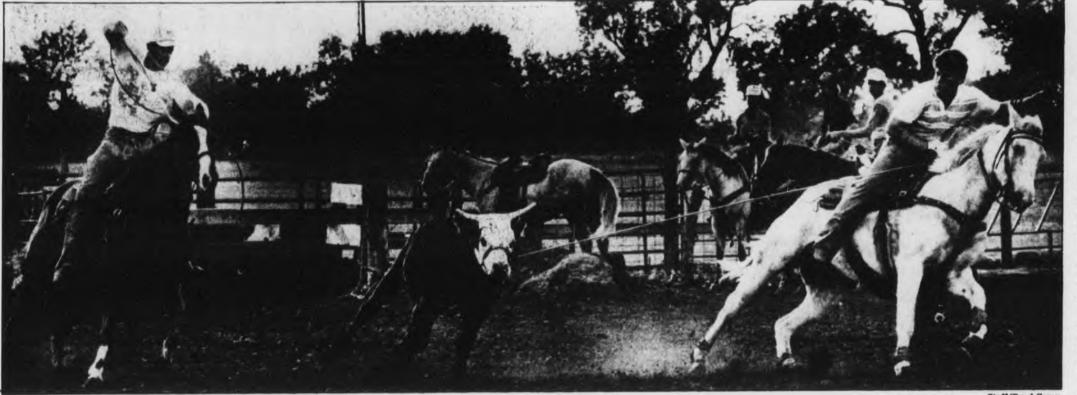

K-State coach Stan Parrish on the 'Cats win over Kansas and loss to Missouri on consecutive weekends: "You don't get married on one Saturday and get remarried the next."

When Iowa State plays at Missouri, the two teams will vie for the "Telephone Trophy" created in 1959 when crossed lines in the stadium allowed coaches to hear the other's Pat Ryan, Colorado offensive tackle, had a cancerous thyroid gland removed Aug. 5 and has had several other injuries in his career. "I've always been able to recover from injuries fast," Ryan said. "I have no idea why. I'm probably too stupid to realize I'm in pain. But I've always had a high threshold of pain."

Oklahoma has not allowed a rushing touchdown since the first quarter of the Orange Bowl against Penn State

Bill Barcus, sophomore in civil engineering, attempts to rope a calf held by Kevin Hebenstriet, junior in animal sciences and industry. The two members of the K-State roping team were sharpening their skills in the team roping competition as they prepare to compete in one of America's oldest sports - the rodeo.

Largely unrecognized group of K-State athletes drills for competition against varied opponents

By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

This largely unrecognized group of athletes practice for bouts with upcoming competition similar to the remainder of K-State's athletic teams.

Unlike other Wildcat sporting groups though, this team's members must contend with animal opponents in addition to beating human foes and a time clock.

And as other amateur athletes dream, members of this organization say one day they also hope to turn professional - if they don't go bankrupt in the process.

Such are the hardships of K-State's roping

As Kevin Hebenstriet, senior in animal sciences and industry, said, "We all want to be a pro, you just have to pay your dues. Some of us just pay longer and more than oldest sports - the rodeo. It consists of two specially trained horses, two practiced cowboys or cowgirls, cattle and a little luck.

Team roping is a part of one of America's

Runs begin with two cowboys, carrying special nylon rope, and their horses backing into separate stalls opened at one end. Between the stalls is a rectangular chute that leads into a cattle pen. A steer is released from the chute, and the timing begins.

The first cowboy, called the header, starts after the steer - which has an 8- to 12-foot head start - and attempts to lasso its horns and/or head. If the header succeeds in doing this, he proceeds to guide the steer to the second cowboy, called the heeler, so the second cowboy is well positioned behind the steer. The heeler then attempts to lasso the steer's

If the heeler secures only one of the legs, the team is penalized five seconds. The lower

Even though the sport is a hobby to K-State's ropers at the collegiate level, some admit they've spent more money on roping than they've won.

"I've won about $800 this season, but I paid out about $2,600 in entry fees, travel expenses, care for my horse and so on," Hebenstriet said.

Some of K-State's team ropers practice at CB Bar Stables, Route 5, in east Manhattan. Clint Barry, owner of the stables, said from eight to 20 ropers practice on scheduled nights.

Because the rodeo team has not yet been designated by the University as an official intercollegiate sports team, K-State doesn't provide a practice site, said Neal Woolen, temporary professor of veterinary pathology and coach of the rodeo team.

However, the team is currently addressing University officials on becoming K-State's official representative in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association, Woolen said.

K-Staters who practice roping at Barry's stables include Hebenstriet; Joshline McLean, senior in animal sciences and industry; Mark Rader, junior in agriculture education; W.R. Barcus, junior in civil engineering; and Lee Barr, junior in animal sciences and industry.

All are rodeo club members and have competed in NIRA rodeos.

K-State competes against 24 other college teams which make up the NIRA's Central Plains Region. Approximately 200 colleges comprise NIRA's membership, with more than 3,000 students who compete nationwide. Woolen has high expectations for this year's edition of the K-State ropers. "This year's KSU rodeo team has an outstanding shot at qualifying the entire team for the college national finals (in June)," Woolen said. "Last year, two individuals qualified. This year we want to take the whole team."

Lanier earns yearly award for managers

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON - Hal Lanier of the Houston Astros, who learned his managing skills from St. Louis' Whitey Herzog, on Wednesday matched an honor won by his old boss by being named The Associated Press' Manager of the Year.

Lanier guided the Astros to the NL Western Division title in his first year as manager after five years as a coach for Herzog, who was manager of the year in 1985.

Lanier received 53 votes and was a runaway winner over Boston's John McNamara in nationwide voting by sports writers and broadcasters, which took place before the playoffs.

McNamara, whose Red Sox lost to the New York Mets in the World Series, received 14

Texas Manager Bobby Valentine, a rookie like Lanier, was third with 12 votes, followed by Davey Johnson of the Mets with 10 votes.

New York Yankees Manager Lou Piniella, Pat Corrales of the Cleveland Indians and Gene Mauch of the California Angels each received one vote.

Lanier's Astros charged from an also-ran status all the way to the NL playoffs where they lost to the Mets in six games.

'Whitey taught me how to run a pitching staff and I think that is a major part of managing," Lanier, who was the Cardinals' third-base coach in 1985, said. "I think I added to that a knowledge of how to recognize the talent we had and what we could do and couldn't do."

Lanier said his 10-year major league playing career, five years as a minor league manager and five seasons of watching Herzog, had prepared him for the challenge.

"I don't think I had any surprises," Lanier said. "I've been around a long time and even though it was my first year as a major league manager, I've just about seen it all.'

Lanier pulled the right strings with a pitching staff headed by Mike Scott, the majorleague leader in strikeouts and earned run average, Nolan Ryan, baseball's all-time strikeout king, and left-hander Bob Knepper.

Houston also became aggressive on the bases under Lanier. The Astros almost doubled their stolen bases from 1985, stealing 163 compared to 96.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

GREAT FOR GIFTS!
THE TCECREAM
SOCIAL

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

kinko's

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 1110 Laramie 537-7340

the team's total time, the better.

Professional team ropers average times in the five- to six-second range with a well-

> Put your degree to work The toughest job you'll ever love where it can do AGGIEVILLE a world of good.

Your first job after graduation should offer you more than just a paycheck. We can offer you an experience that lasts a lifetime.

Working together with people in a different culture is something you'll never forget. It's a learning experience everyone can benefit from.

In Science or Engineering, Education, Agriculture, or Health, Peace Corps projects in developing countries around the world are bringing help where it's needed. If you're graduating this year, look into a unique opportunity to put your degree to work

Peace Corps Rep. at KSU: Placement Office, Holtz Hall Wed. & Thurs., November 5 & 6 Film Seminar: Tues., November 4,

7:00 pm-Union, Rm. 208

where it can do a world of good. Look into Peace Corps.

K-State Players

OPEN AUDITIONS

The Merry Wives Of Windsor

Nov. 3 - All Faiths Chapel Nov. 4 - McCain Room 204 Nov. 5 - McCain Auditorium

All registered KSU Students Invited. Call 532-6875 or 532-7875

All at 7 p.m.

THE CRAZY SHOE SALE IS HERE AGAIN!

(at the request of the public)

ONLY $19.95

plus tax

Did you see those beautiful WILD-CAT shoes on campus? Well, here is another chance you can purchase those $60/pair shoes at only $19.95.

- •No. 1 Nappa Class A super soft leather
- Computer-embroidered colorful school logo •100% cotton terry collar lining and custom-made remov-
- able cushion inlay sole •Top PVC with school name and logo in color ·Cappaudix durable outsole
- •Front foot locker
- •60% density
- Shock absorbing 80% density hard insert sole ·Injury preventive hell stabilizer

FOR MAIL ORDER ONLY

Zip Code:____

Please send $23.95 (handling & tax included) to: C.P.P. INC., P.O. Box 12446, Overland Park, KS 66212

WALK TALL IN PURPLE & WHITE STYLE

GUARANTEE:

If you can find another pair of shoes of similar quality and style for a better price, we will give you a pair of ours

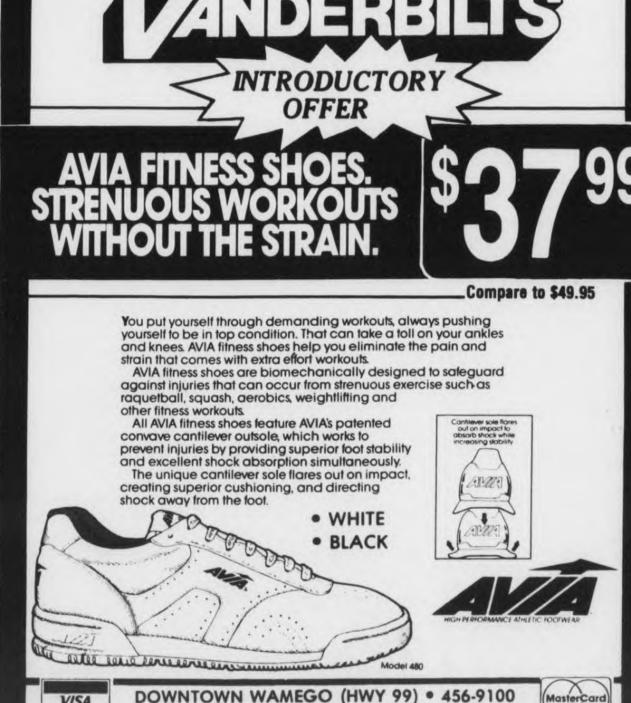

DATE: Oct 31st, 86: 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Nov. 1st, 86: 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

PLACE: University Ramada Inn Rm 225,

> 17th Street & Anderson Manhattan, KS 66502

Tel: 539-7531

OPEN DAILY 9-8 P.M., SUNDAY 12-5 P.M.

Yinict Chen, graduate in chemical engineering, gets a glaucoma test from Marsha Waters, of Council Grove, Wednesday in the Union Ballroom during the Fifth Annual Health Fair, held in conjunction with Wellness Week '86.

Heart, blood pressure exams given at Wellness Week Health Fair '86

By KELLI CARR Collegian Reporter

About 300 people had their blood pressure checked at the fifth annual health fair Wednesday in the Union Ballroom in conjunction with

Wellness Week. Joselyn Kearn, a practical nursing student at Manhattan Area Vocational Technical School, said a blood pressure reading is considered high if it is above 160 over 90. "A normal blood pressure is different for each individual depending upon their age, diet, weight, amount of activity and overall health condition," she said. Other health-related services were provided for about 400 participants in Health Fair '86.

to give examinations.

12:00-1:00 p.m.

"THE BEGINNING OF AN

EXERCISE PROGRAM

KSU UNION ROOM 212

fitness program designed for you.

KSU UNION ROOM 212

"DIET AND EXERCISE-THE WINNING COMBINATION"

Elizabeth Addington KSU UNION ROOM 212

A regular physical activity is essential for a healthier you. If you feel you are out of shape, come and join Dr. Laurie in learning the "how-to's" of beginning a

"FROM VICTIM TO SURVIVOR: BEING AN ADULT CHILD OF AN

This program will focus on concerns of individuals who grew up in a family with an alcoholic. Explore the steps needed for change/growth from the victim role to

Discussion will center on how to combine nutrition and exercise for a healthier weight loss program, as well as focusing on nutrition for various athletic activities

"PROPER WEIGHT TRAINING TECHNIQUE DEMONSTRATION" KSU CHESTER E. PETERS RECREATION COMPLEX Come learn the proper techniques of weight training from the professionals.

"SELF-MOTIVATION AND THE

toward the achievement of academic

David Laurie, Ph.D.

1:30-2:20 p.m.

ALCOHOLIC" Dori Lambert, Ph.D.

2:30-3:20 p.m.

3:00-4:00 p.m.

3:30-4:20 p.m.

Fred Newton, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212 Academic success is closely related to the amount of motivation you have for completing academic assignments. This program will offer specific strategies that you can use to enhance motivation and thereby have greater energies directed

HOW-TO'S"

D.D.S. Further dental treatment was leisure time. recommended for individuals with severe problems.

Optical exams for general vision problems and glaucoma were provided. Hearing, height and weight analysis and general fitness tests vere also administered.

K-State Recreational Services displayed two exercise bikes called Life Cycles.

The bikes simulate an outdoor ride indoors, and they allow the individual to select an exercise level to suit them personally, said Joyce Halverson, assistant director and free-time rec coordinator.

"The success of the Life Cycle is due to the effectiveness obtained from the workout," she said.

Representatives of the Depart-Several area dentists volunteered ment of Physical Education, Dance give examinations.

"We're giving quick oral exams of leisure values to participants looking for abscesses, large areas of designed to give individuals insight decay, oral cancer and other dental into their personality traits and how problems," said Dr. Don Graham, they view themselves and their Lafene.

A display on the average American's sugar consumption was sponsored by the Manhattan High School Youth Advisory Council. Many foods and beverages were exhibited along with a mound of sugar measured in the amount contained in each item. One of the foods on display was a 12-ounce can of Classic Coke, which contains nine teaspoons

The Cooperative Extension Service provided a display and literature on safety belts and auto

The health fair was open to the public, and free of charge. The only costs to participants were $6 for the flu vaccine, and $12 for blood chemistry testing.

Attendance was about the same this year as the past two years, said Cindy Burke, Wellness Week coordinator and health educator at

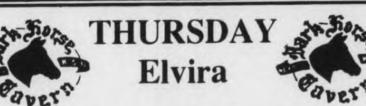

SUDS Y'R DUDS

Laundromat

NOW OPEN 25¢ Dry 75¢ Wash

Plenty of FREE Parking

Student Services Center 1453 Anderson

Look-a-Like Contest

at Dark Horse Tavern Cash Prizes for 1st, 2st and 3rd places also Coors prizes with the first three places

* Free 22 oz. Coors cups to the first 100 people through the door.

Ballard's BALLARD'S

In Manhattan

FALL & WINTER WAREHOUSE SALE

601 South 5th

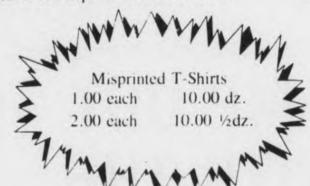

Thursday, Friday and Saturday-Oct. 30, 31-Nov. 1 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

SALE LOCATION: 601 South 5th, Manhattan

Shoes All $27.50 Large assortment of basketball shoes valued to $63.95

| Clothing | |
|--|-------|
| Warmupsvalue to54.95 | 15.00 |
| Rugby Pantsvalue to27.95 | 10.00 |
| Triathlon Suitsvalue to49.95 | 20.00 |
| Nylon Jacketsvalue to34.95 | 15.00 |
| Ski Jacketsvalue to 169.95 | 40.00 |
| Ski Glovesvalue to49.95 | 15.00 |
| Ski Hatsvalue to6.95 | 2.00 |
| Russell Sweat Hoods (megular)value to14.95 | 8.50 |
| Danskin Tights value to 18.95 | 5.00 |
| Danskin Leotardsvalue to 12.95 | 3.00 |
| College Crews & Misprints . value to . 16.95 | 6.50 |

Jam Shorts.....value to......22.95

| Shirts, Jerseys, Shorts | and Socks |
|-------------------------------|-------------------------|
| Gym Shorts Plainvalue to4.95 | 2.00 each, 10.00 1/2dz. |
| Gym Shorts Stripevalue to6.95 | 3.00 each, 15.00 ½dz. |
| Tube Socksvalue to2.25 | 1.50 each, 15.00 dz. |
| Shirts | 5.00 each, 25.00 ½dz. |
| Shirts | 3.00 each, 15.00 ½dz. |
| Shirtsvalue to7.95 | 2.00 each, 10.00 ½dz. |
| Shirts4.95 | 1.00 each, 10.00 dz. |

10.00

| Other | Items |
|-------|--------------|
| nt | |

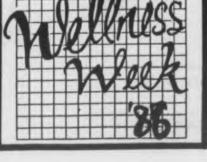

| Exercise Equipment | . 1/2 Price |
|--------------------------|-------------|
| Baseball Hats3.50 | 1.00 |
| Visors | 1.00 |
| Wilson Rubber Basketball | 10.00 |
| Leather Basketball | 30.00 |
| Tetherball | 8.00 |
| Wilson Racketballs | 1.50 can |
| Gym Bags2.00, 3.00 | 4.00 |
| Shoe Laces50c | 10¢ |
| Soccer Balls | |
| | |

BALLARD'S

Time 10 a.m.-6 p.m. THREE DAYS ONLY

Many unadvertised items at unbelievable prices!

Soviet eye surgeon seeks new elevator for building

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW — The top Soviet eye surgeon, seeking to spend more time in his laboratory and less time stuck between floors, has offered to help build a new elevator to replace the faulty ones in the building where he works.

In a letter to the editor published Wednesday on the front page of the Communist Party daily Pravda, Svyatoslav Fyodorov railed against the Soviet-made elevators at Moscow's Institute of Eye Microsurgery.

Cuban leader Fidel Castro, during a visit in February, became one of the more prominent visitors to get stuck.

The doctor also reported that every time a foreign specialist or dignitary visits the prestigious institute, where Fyodorov has pioneered new surgical remedies for eye ailments, "you think about how to arrange the tour without using the elevators."

Fyodorov revealed that the institute had been granted 1.5 million rubles, about $2.2 million, to buy elevators abroad. But he objected, saying the money would be much better spent on medical equipment.

He suggested that he and his staff of 35 doctors and medical engineers go to an elevator factory one Saturday to help build a better product.

Junction City to have early Halloween

By The Collegian Staff

Junction City trick-or-treaters can look forward to having Halloween one day earlier this year.

"The No. 1 reason is to assure more safety for the children of the Junction City area," said Don Stone, Junction City city manager. "Friday night is the Junction City/Manhattan High School football game and is also a payday weekend.

"The Junction City/Manhattan game is a big rivalry, so traffic will be a problem. There is also a lot of traditional rowdiness that goes on when Junction City hosts this game," Stone said.

The decision to change the traditional date for this holiday was decided at the last city commission meeting, Oct. 7. The change was then publicized through newspapers,

-Most Original Costume

-Overall Costume ($25 cash prize)

Scariest Costume

Sexiest Costume

doctor's prescription.

promotion.

Blue River Pub

$2.75 Pitchers, $1 Wine Coolers, FREE Popcorn

*NO KSU ID required - Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

$24.95 Eyeglass Special

Treat yourself to a new pair of eyeglasses! Choose any plastic or metal frame in stock, including designer eyewear. Add to your selection single vision or plastic lenses* and pay ONLY $24.95.

Fashion plastic tints are included on this sale.

Bifocals in flat top 25 or 28 mm styles, and round segments ONLY $25 additional. We can fill your

*This offer includes prescriptions which do not exceed (+) or (-) 4.00 diopters sphere, on (-) 2.00 diopters cylinder. This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical

Some Boutique Frames Not Included.

We use the highest quality lenses!

SALE ENDS: NOV. 8

OPTICAL STUDIO

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

What other Legislators are saying about Ivan Sand.

Local Government committee. We all look to Ivan and committee. I've appreciated Ivan's behind-the-scenes advocacy for programs at KSU and for Riley County.

Manhattan and Riley County are fortunate to have such a respect his knowledge about local government . . .

respected advocate in Topeka.'

advice.'

"I've served under Ivan Sand's Chairmanship of the

As Vice Chairman of the House Ways & Means

"Over the years Ivan and I have worked together on many projects of particular concern to Riley and Clay county . . . expansion of Fort Riley, annexation, taxation issues, local government issues. As Majority Leader, I will look forward to Ivan's continued counsel and

Re-elect IVAN SAND—

Representative - 66th District Paid by Re-elect Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver. Treas.

-Rochelle Chronister, 9th district,

Vice Chairman, Ways and Means

- Jim Braden, 64th district,

Majority Leader

Costume contest & giveaways

FRIDAY HALLOWEEN PARTY!

"We have had far more positive feedback than negative, plus there will be a lot fewer people home anyway for the trick-or-treaters due to the football game," Stone said. "There was a lot of time spent by city officials deciding the issue and safety for the children was the main theme backing this decision."

The traditional Halloween party for youths sponsored by the Junction City Recreation Committee has never been changed from its traditional date of Oct. 31 until now. The party will also take place on Oct. 30 in conjunction with the city commission's decision.

In contrast, Manhattan will be full of trick-or-treaters on the regular Halloween date, Oct. 31.

"The only time that Manhattan has ever asked the kids to go a different

Manhattan assistant city manager. Pearson said he does not think it would have made a difference in the city's decision had the football game night was if Halloween was on a weekend," said Jim Pearson, been scheduled in Manhattan. "We believe that the Halloween celebrants are younger kids that do not attend the games anyway. We encourage them to go out early with adults and use lights," he said.

"Halloween night has actually never been a problem for us," said Sgt. Buddy Mayes of the Riley County Police Department. "We do not have a lot of problems to where we have to assign extra officers. The only problems are minor mischievous incidents instead of vandalism.

"All parents are strongly urged to stay with their youngsters at all times and to check the goodies they

Open 7 days a week W W A M

Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

Restaurant

1304 Westloop 539-8888 (10% off with KSU ID)

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

GUITAR AND

Hayes House of Music

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

776-7983

JOHOSOHO, II

327 Poyntz

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1986 11 p.m.-2 a.m.

Variety of Fitness Activities

FREE DOOR PRIZES

Announcement of winner of "Healthiest Looking Body Contest"

FREE FUN FOR EVERYONE

THE SHINING . POLTERGEIST . THE ATTIC . PSYCHO IT'S THE > Invasion of the Movie Snatchers"

VIDEO EXCHANGE

It's a Happy Halloween Weekend Oct. 30 Oct. 31st Nov. 1

MOVIE RENTALS-THURS., FRI., SAT. Yes, it's a crazy, scary, horrible way to do business... but the "Aliens" who work at Video Exchange want to

The "Fright Night" begins at 8:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m. Thurs. Oct. 30th all movies 31¢ each - LIMIT 6 please

Due back next day by 6:00 p.m. Daytime Specials - rent 1 movie get 2nd for 31°!
- Come early for best Selections

Live remote Thurs. 8-10 KQLA 104 FM ED. . . is BACK!! Listen for Special Prizes

*Best Costume Contest-win two free movies per month for 1 year-plus free Video Exchange membership. We'll take your picture. VIDEO EXCHANGE customers will vote. (Thursday only) Winner announced Sun. Nov. 2nd - 7 pm

-OPEN until 11 pm 3 days only -* Come in and check out our special membership

7-Days a Week • Door Prizes

Free Kidee Video Membership

FIRESTARTER . DRACULA . CHRISTINE . DEATH GAMES

Ben Franklin

MADNESS!! 3 HOURS ONLY

THE HITCHER

HE KNOWS YOU'RE ALONE

7-10 p.m., Thursday

Oct. 30, 1986 SAVE 54% $12.99

of suggested retail $27.99 our regular $18.99 - Limit 1

Crafter's Dream Mon.-Frl. 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-7 p.m., Sun. 1-6 p.m.

"Better Quality for Less"

Christmas aisle items by playing SPACE QUARKS

PHOTO ALBUM KIT!!

FREE - padded photo album

Save $3.50 Makes great gift!

Save up to 50% on all our kit with purchase of photo

Westloop Center, Manhattan 776-4910

Republican Representative 66th District Paid by Re-elect Ivan Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas.

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH

75¢ Wash 25¢ Dry "Free Parking" Visit our back room.

Open Sun.-Thurs.

24 Hours Daily Fri.-Sat. 4:30 a.m.-12 midnight 1118 Moro

CAMP OUT WITH THE CATS

Student Basketball Tickets On Sale Monday at 8 a.m. In Ahearn's East Lobby. Get In Line Now

And Enjoy Sunday Evening's Scrimmage, Contests and Prizes.

The Verandas to entertain during dance

By The Collegian Staff

The Verandas will move students to their feet tonight at an all-campus dance from 9 to midnight in the Union Ballroom.

The dance is sponsored by the Union Program Council Eclectic Entertainment Committee and Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service in conjuction with Wellness Week. Doors open at 8 p.m.; admission is $2 at the door.

The Verandas, a "dance combo," have performed with the Romantics, The Elvis Brothers and the Pro-

In December 1983, members Marty Fauchier, Bill Watts and Gary Darling created the Verandas. They were joined shortly thereafter by drummer Mark Gannon.

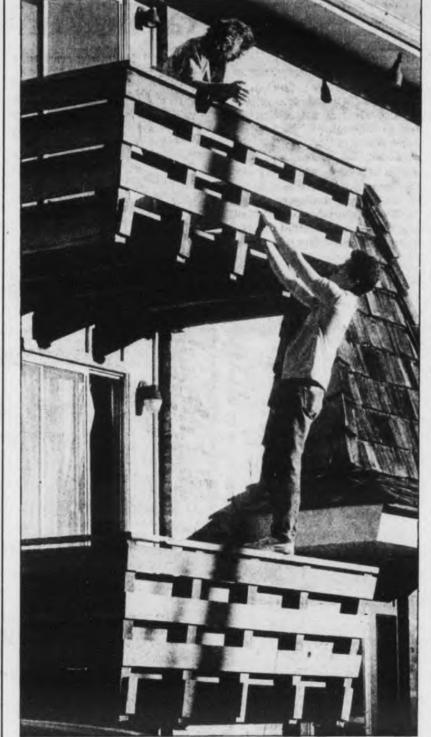

The Verandas play in a 400-mile radius of Iowa City, including Minneapolis, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

Much of the band's original music is written by Fauchier. "Usually it's a reflection, either an emotion or a feeling about something I have seen. It could be a political, emotional or even a value statement.'

The band expects to release a new album early in 1987. Mary Johannes, of Madness Productions, promotion base for the Verandas in Omaha, Neb., said the new album has attracted the attention of major recording labels, and the band is hoping for a major label release.

They played 300 days out of the year in 1985 but don't expect to be on the road as much this year due to their new album, Fauchier said.

A previous Verandas album, "V-Notes," is a short-playing album that includes a lot of the band's original music, including "Who Ya Gonna Blame Now," a 1985 regional finalist in the Stroh's Beer Superstar Talent Search Contest.

Staff/Jim Dietz

Balcony talk Angela Sanders, junior in accounting, and Mark Meeks, graduate in microbiology, converse Wednesday at 704 Sunset Ave. The pair were using their apartment balconies to get a little closer for their talk.

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

-- HOLD IT! WE AGAIN INTERRUPT BINKLEY BULLETIN CORRECTION": DUE TO A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR, YESTERDAY WE MISTAKENLY REPORTED THAT MARIE OSMOND GEORGE MR. SULU" TAKEI. WE'RE TERRIBLY

Garfield

By Jim Davis

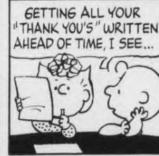

eanuts

By Charles Schulz

DOWN

2 One

1 Chore

Gardner

3 Hypnotic

drug

4 On the

5 Child's

6 Eager

home

42 "Cheers," 61 Sixth

for one divisions

50 Poem type

51 Reddish

horse

52 Defensive tower weapon

Passos

trilogy

Ever

58 Dos

44 Amerind

46 Tidy

Halloween Special Thursday & Friday And Receive $1.50 Tanning Sessions

1214 C Moro 776-7874

HOLIDAY GIFT Exposition November 8, 9 a.m.-4

rossword

ACROSS

1 Boxing ploy 4 Trade 8 Give in 12 Eggs, to Cicero 13 Pelee

output 14 Dry 15 Uncivilized 56 — facto 17 Chinese 57 Fencing 17 Chinese dynasty

18 Dracula, at times 19 East-West understanding 21 Porcupine

59 "Have You weaponry "gal"

24 Popular 25 Porch item TIO 26 Mined

28 Like a judge 32 Spoken helping

34 Butter 36 Scarlett's home 37 Strong winds 39 Litter member

Lonely?" Bragh" 60 Drains of 10 Force strength 11 Sharpness Solution time: 23 mins. time: 23 mins.

CODA CURT
38 Jose or Juan
38 ANDSTAND
40 Looks into 43 Hayseeds
45 Dictator
Amin
ANNA PARA
60 TIENIG
BANDAGES
47 Easy gait
48 Simplicity

schedule 29 Backyard card game 30 Famous canal 7 Shows ner-31 Hoover vousness and 8 Arthur's others 33 Mideast 9 " - Go nation 35 Famed pharaoh

16 Prohibit

20 Old salt

21 Pollution

22 Prefix for graph 23 Dine

27 Schism

problem normal or

DOIT 48 Simplicity

TIGER 49 Hemingway

Sobriquet

PEAR MOA 53 D.C. VIP

ELMS END 54 Ninny

41 Tire part Yesterday's answer 10-30 55 Siesta

23

10-30

QDSVXH KDKGEXJ XJANU -UAJNK NU VDSR YH

CRYPTOQUIP

YGJERUZGR ZGRRS Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHY OUR TAILOR WAS SOON FIRED: HE WASN'T REALLY SUITED FOR IT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: N equals I

Horticulturist plans flowers for inauguration ceremonies

By The Collegian Staff

Among the many arrangements made in preparation for University President Jon Wefald's inauguration today are floral arrangements.

Kent Kimmins, associate professor of horticulture, was asked a couple of weeks ago to create floral arrangements for the inauguration ceremony

"It's kind of fun to do something like this because it's different, but it's kind of hair raising to have to do it this fast," Kimmins said.

Kimmins is being helped by present and past students of his classes. "I've had some good help," he said. "It's good for the students to learn how to do something this big." All the flowers being used are real, Kimmins said. Flowers that have usually used for University functions, he said, but because plans had to be made on short notice, the flowers were shipped from a wholesaler in Kansas City.

Kimmins said it is hard to get lavender and purple flowers this time of the year, and the palm leaves for the arrangement had to be shipped from Mexico.

Kimmins said he felt like panicking last Friday because all of the flowers had not yet arrived. The orchid for Ruth Ann Wefald's corsage did not arrive until Wednesday, he

Because of the large size of the arrangements, planning for inauguration flowers has been a timeconsuming task, Kimmins said. He said the arrangements had to be been grown on campus grounds are made large because of the size of Mc-Cain Auditorium and Farrell Library. He is also making the flowers for the luncheon. Kimmins was still unsure Wednesday of the number of arrangements he will make because the number of guests attending has not been finaliz-

In the past, Kimmins has done the floral arrangements for University commencements.

Wefald will be installed as the 12th president of K-State and will be given the Kansas Board of Regents' charge and the president's medallion. More than 250 university and college presidents from Kansas and alumni will participate in the inaugural procession. The ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. today in McCain Auditorium.

Jassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (1-52)

MARIE'S COSTUMES, 1631 Humboldt, 539-5200. Oc tober hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m. Parking in rear. (27-49)

ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken.

LOSE WEIGHT-100% natural-100% guaranteed-See immediate results! 776-6959 after 5:30 p.m., all day weekends. (45-49) BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV.

boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot, win dow sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (47-48)

ATTENTION TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage cloth ing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in formation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55) ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down-town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded w first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013 Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59) ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, reli gious, wife in home, will pay all medical and lega expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer involved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039 (41-50) SKI COLORADO: Fully furnished, two bedroom, two bath condo for rent in Dillon. Clubhouse includes pool, jacuzzi, sauna and more. Discount rates. 316-

Come In Costume This

p.m., City Auditorium, 539-4675. (48-49)

By Eugene Sheffer

dercover. Christian Dior, Maidenform, Lady Marlene. Stockings to match, with or without seams, 1224 Moro. (44-48)

UNIVERSITY PHOTOGRAPHY Outdoor PORTRAITS

> Today 12-5 Quinlan Park

No Appointment Necessary No Charge to Have Portrait Taken Option to Buy

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf) ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent, $150

03

06

month plus one-half lot rent, one-half Male, no pets. Call 776-1359. (48-57) FOR RENT-APTS

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus, starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49)

CLOSE TO Aggreville-Spacious three bedroom two bath, basement and large porch plus great amenities. 776-0272. (44-53) ZERO BLOCKS to campus. Large one bedroom, furplex. Balcony, dishwasher, queen sized bed. Prefer faculty, graduate student, married couple. $280 oth, no pets, waterbeds. Lease required 5379566 for information and application. (46-50) O ONE-bedroom, furnished apartments, one-half lock from campus. Available December 1, $175 and $225 plus utilities. Call 539-9842 (day) or 776

FOR RENT Newly re-decorated room for male. Fur-nished, close. $110 plus gas/electric. Lease. Deposit Phone 537-9693 (46-48)

FOR SALE-AUTO

8093 (evening). Ask for Tim. (46-49)

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49) 1974 MERCURY Comet - Two door, $475 or best of fer. After 5:15 p.m. on weekdays, 776-5609. (44-48) 1977 AMC Hornet. Clean. runs good. Phone 539-5032 after 6 p.m. (45-49) 1971 220 Mercedes Benz-Looks good and runs good, need to sell. Call 539-5516 after 5 p.m. (46-50)

FOR SALE-MISC 07 KORG POLY-800 synthesizer, $500. Call Rick, 776-

KENWOOD KR322 car stereo-auto reverse, Dolby, metal, independent treble/bass, fader, $150 or best offer. Call Bob 776-0234. (47-51)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger

(with coupon) Exp. Date 11/2

pine door speakers, $100, Kicker hatch back speaker $175 Must sell, 776-5646, Mike Maki. (47-ESCORT RADAR detector, $125; Western Flyer 10-

ALPINE 7272 indash, $350; Alpine 3311 EQ, $150; Al-

speed bike, $20; Arai motorcycle hel tutttace, medium, $90. Jim, 537-2396. (47-48) TACO HUT

where good friends get together 2809 Claflin 539-2091

(Closed Tuesdays)

AKAI AA-A35 stereo receiver, 45 watts/channel; Akai AP-A1 turntable: pair-Genesis 20 speakers, 100 watt. One and one-half years old, new condition Compare with any stereo you want. Call 776-8430, Craig. (48-49)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 09 1982 YAMAHA Virago 750. Bought new 14 months ago. $1,200. Call 537-0834 after 4 p.m. (45-49) 1982 HONDA CM 250, 5,800 miles, 60 miles per gal Ion. Great shape, one owner. $450. Call 776-7175. (48-52)

HELP WANTED

TRAVEL FIELD Opportunity. Gain valuable marketing experience while earning money. Campus representative needed immediately for spring break trip to Florida Call Campus Marketing at 1-800-282-6221 (45-50)

STUDENTS TO work day shift at Union Bookstore.
Will arrange hours to fit your schedule. Steady work for remainder of school year. Apply in person Service Counter, K-State Union Bookstore EEOC/Affirmative Action Employer, (46-48)

STUDENT PROGRAMMER to work 20-30 hours pe week; to start as soon as possible, as an IBM main frame applications programmer using COBOL IBM mainframe COBOL programming knowledge and experience, grade point average, and other relevant data processing experience will be used as selection criteria. Undergraduates or graduate students with an employment potential of two years or more will be given preference. Equal Opportu-nity Employer. Contact Rose Korte, Room 21, Artderson Hall by 5 p.m., October 31, 1986. (46-49)

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available Good commissions, valuable work experience, tra-vel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free), 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information maile

EARN MONEY on all magazines sold on campus Need people to post information. Good profit Write, BPC, 8218 Hardy, Overland Park, KS, 66204 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/

PART TIME cook and delivery person. Apply in person at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison, Contact Jim or Ernie for an appointment. 776-0004. (43-49)

HELP WANTED

Kitchen and Cashier Help Management Positions Available (Preferably food & science majors) Apply at store or call 539-3304

Cafe Latino WANTED: COMPUTER user who can print high qual ity graphs and tables. Call 532-2362 (131), Laura. (48-49)

LOST GOLD CHAIN lost near McCain Auditorium Saturday evening. Reward. Call 539-7479 or 539-7631. Leave message, ask for Lindy. (46-49) LOST: FROM Tuttle Creek Blvd.-White female call with calico colors on head, back, and tail. 776-6231 or 539-3251. Keep trying! (47-51)

WOODY: THE time is here, my name you doubt? Be careful dear, three strikes-you're out! Mom. (48)

PERSONAL

PHI KAP Doug-The great search has taken you to the great swami. Ask him to tell you the future . Love, your pledge mom. (48) PHI KAP Steve K .- Clue number 2-We're gonna party from dusk 'til dawn, we're gonna party 'til the beer's all gone! Love, your pledge mom. (48) ALPHA GAMS: We serenaded, now let's masquer ade. We'll be host to all your ghosts. Love, AK AK's

THETA JANISE-Sorry I can't make it to the party. I'll try to make it up to you. Love, your Sigma Nu Dad DANA-EGGS-You're a swell corn popper and hallmate! Keep that incense burning and don't all out of bed again! Happy 19th! Love, Fritz and ALPHA XI Pledge Dana B .- Be in Ford's main lobby

PHI KAP Rick B .- Another clue about me ... I'm from K.C. Love, your pledge mom. (48)

SIGMA CHI Klaus-For "Al Kat-pone" I can't wait Love-your Theta party date. (48) TOOMMM---, WITH our lasagna we will chow, I want to make you fat as a cow. After we have our big pic-nic, you'll have to be ro-man-tic. Yeah! Love, Squeaky. P.S. 7:30—Be there or be square. (48) FIJI's-THURSDAY night is the night. We are super psyched about our Halloween party! So . . . get ex-cited! Love, the Gamma Phis. (48)

TO ALL SAE's except Eric B - There's a time and a place to be immature, but over a Collegian Per sonal, I'm so sure! Ha! Love, Suz. (48)

PAUL H.: You were almost a "spook," and the car (toy you drive depicts you well. So we will do it tor and reinstate DOA. Oh what the h_II, Happy B-Day anyway! From all the GDI clan. (48)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom apartment two blocks east of campus. Call 537-4732 after 5:30 p.m. (46-49) ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom apartment close to campus. Call Carla, 539-4301 evenings. (47-56) MALE-OWN bedroom, 1118 Vattier, four bedrooms

Call 539-9345. (48-49) SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt. 537-4246. (43tf)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

25% OFF

Night Appointments 5:30-9 p.m. (with this ad)

Mon.-Fri. Crum's Beauty College 776-4794 Ad expires 11-21-86

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf)

VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-494-2388. (41-50)

20% OFF

All services in our new Esthetics (skin care)

(with this ad) Mon.-Fri.

Call 776-4794 (skin care dept.) Crum's Beauty College Ad valid until 10-31-86

TYPING-TERM papers, research papers, resumes cover letters, etc. Call 539-2411. (45-49) WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362 (131), leave message

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-tions, manuscripts, term papers. (48-50)

Department Ask about our treatment series

Sports

Continued from Page 1

vote - the next step was to drop it down to 14," Moon said.

Moon also said the proposed athletic fee was not related to a potential cut in the number of sports.

"The student fee is something we are looking to help be more competitive as far as scholarships," Moon said. "We have never talked about dropping any more sports."

Jones said he believed the only circumstances which would lead to K-State dropping additional sports would be if the current financial situation of the department became even more stringent. If attendance at football games would decline even further, Jones said, it would then make the elimination of two other sports a remote possibility.

"For this to happen, it would have to be a last ditch thing," Jones said.

Social

Continued from Page 1

"This is old news - some of it based on the situation as it existed in 1983 when the committee began its investigations. Substantial improvements have already been made in the consultative examination pro-

Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., chairman of the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations and human resources, said in a statement: "The federal government was unforgiving in its review of America's disabled people but looked the other way while some doctors gouged the government.'

Twelve of the 16 Republican members of the parent Government Operations Committee appended a brief statement of their own to the report, saying it made "several important recommendations" but ig-

Mon.-Thur.

7:30-Midnight

Fri. 7:30-7

Sat. 9-5

Sun. 10-Midnight

nored "significant improvements" Social Security already has made.

They defended the use of consulting physicians, who also figured in 58 percent of the cases in which people were kept on the rolls in 1983.

The report said the disability examiners are supposed to use the original medical evidence in each case when available. But "under pressure...to expedite the reviews,' Social Security hired medical consultants in 44 percent of the cases in 1984, twice as many as previously, it

The report said some disabled workers with heart conditions were forced to undergo treadmill tests or other stressful exams.

The government is being sued by relatives of a Rhode Island woman, Jacqueline B. Brown, who had a serious cardiac condition and suffered chest pain and shortness of breath during her treadmill test in late 1980. She died on Jan. 4, 1981.

or velo binding

with a card stock

cover.

Only one coupon per visit

Expires 11/6/86

Great copies. Great people.

1110 Laramie

Lamborn

Continued from Page 7

student athletic fee. A student athletic fee might provide a dependable source of funding each year, but I don't believe it is the only alternative that the athletic department

8. The student senators on the task force and Sally Traeger (Student Senate chairwoman) have indicated that a referendum will be held on the proposed student athletic fee. This is the only democratic means of solving

I do, however, have misgivings about tying the referendum to the Senate elections in February. I don't believe the proposed student athletic

Gals Perms Reg. Price

All perms include cut and style

FREE can of mousse with perm

539-TAME or 539-8601 404 Humboldt

Feels so Lively . . $30

■ Warm & Gentle . . $45

Body

fee should become an election issue. I foresee the issue becoming an irra-tional and emotional free-for-all in that scenario.

araway

Continued from Page 7

Special !

increases and cuts in financial aid. The current deficit was caused by sudden changes in personnel, such as the athletic director, football and basketball coaches and their staffs. We need the money more than them.

7. They (the athletic department) said they could survive without the fee. If you take them at their word, why should we give it to them?

Haymaker

Continued from Page 7

8. I think we're going to come up with some kind of compromise - no one is going to win. I imagine it will go to referendum; if it makes it by election time, I don't know. That's what we're aiming for right now. But if we find more information that needs to be investigated, we'll take the necessary time to make a good decision. Ultimately, the Senate will want to see if the students are willing

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Leeds

Continued from Page 7

Athletic Director Dick Towers, former head football coach Jim Dickey and former head basketball coach Jack Hartman. The athletic fee would serve only to boost the overall budgets of non-revenue sports to be comparable to other Big Eight schools.

45 Years Serving America's Children

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub 12th & Moro-Aggieville expires 11-5-86 with this coupon only void with other offers

AL-BASHA

Save with Style

Apple Pectin . . . $38 $28

GREEK & MEDITERRANEAN FOOD

537-7533

Guys Perms

1209 Laramie St. Daily Lunch Special 11 to 2

$3.99

1 coupon per visit Free Delivery for orders of $10 or more after 4 p.m.

BUY GYRO SANDWICH Get Second 1/2 Price

1 coupon per visit Free Delivery for orders of $10 or more after 4 p.m.

(excluding specials & delivery orders) Open Sunday through Thursday 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Friday and Saturday 11 a.m.-11 p.m.

THE MOST DELICIOUS TREAT IN TOWN.

THURSDAY IS T.G.I.T. Pitchers!! FREE HOUR OF POOL

Upstairs

776-6338

Buy any combo dinner & get the 2nd one for 1/2 price. Exp. Date 11/6/86

FirstBank Center (at the corner of Denison & Claflin) HOURS: 11-2, 5-9

Buy our daily special for $2.95 & get 2nd one for 1/2 price. 606 N. Aggieville Across from Bonkers Exp. Date 11/6/86 Open 11 a.m.-Late

FREE 16" Supreme Pizza with the purchase of one

A $15.26 Value Limit one coupon per order

No Expiration Date

M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m.

Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Hours:

FREE WHOPPER

A Buck a Bind for spiral

WITH PURCHASE OF A WHOPPER!

offer expires 11/6/86

(good for one person & one coupon/visit) Expires 11/6/86 1125 Laramie Plaza

Thursday, October 30

For more information on UPC events, call !

Saljas

EXPLORE TWO OF THE DEEP, DARK CAVERNS OF CENTRAL MISSOURI! MOV 15&16 $32.00

Sign up TODAY through Nov. 11. Activities Center, Union 3rd Floor. Available to students, faculty and general public. Caving includes 2 nights lodging, lunch on Saturday. maps, string and permits. Sign up NOW, because there are only a few spaces left on the trip!

k-state union upc outdoor rec.

All University Dance! ONLY $2

Tonight 9 - 12 Midnight

Doors open at 8 p.m. Union Main Ballroom, 2nd Floor Don't miss out!

"The Verandas' music is fresh and aggressive. It refuses to be set aside as background noise." Co-sponsored by Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service in conjunction with Wellness Week.

(k-state union

All shows $1.75 unless specified KSU ID required

HALLOWEEN SPECIAL: Wear your costume to Cat People or Poltergeist II and get 25¢ off ticket!

The Virgin Spring

Today 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre & 7.30 p.m. Forum Hall This Ingmar Bergman classic depicts a ather's ruthless revenge for the rape and murder of his virgin daughter. Bergman fills our eyes with highly contrasting black and white to evoke an imaginative medieval world. (Swedish with English sub-titles) Unrated increasing awareness of her own sexual power and her fear and repression of it. Nastassia Kinski and Malcolm McDowell star in this absorbing movie of suspense and horror. Rated R

FRIDAY & SATURDAY 12 midnight, Forum Hall

Poltergeist II

THE OTHER SIDE

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Bedknobs and Broomsticks

Saturday 2 p.m. & Sunday 2 & 7 p.m. Forum Hall, $1.50

In this Academy Award winning Disney film, the search for a magic spell lands everyone in a witch's brew, bubbling with fantasy, music, animation and live-action adventure! Rated PG

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

7 & 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall

"They're Back" - the Freeling family nightmare continues: a host of ghosts and demons seek control of the minds and bodies of Craig T. Nelson, JoBeth Williams, and Heather O'Rourke.

Rated PG-13

k-state union upc feature films

Kansas State Orchestra will lead an 80-piece or-

conductor Adrian Bryttane

chestra with the sounds of tenor George Gray on Nov.

7. See Entertainment Plus.

The nationally ranked K-State women's cross country team is picked to win the Big-Eight Cross Country championships Saturday. See Page 11.

Kansas State

Friday October 31, 1986

Volume 93, Number 49

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Cloudy

Becoming cloudy today, high 70 to 75.

with a 30 percent chance of rain.

Wind south 15 to 25

mph. Cloudy tonight

Inaugural ceremony marks new era

Regents' head describes role of presidency

> By ERIN EICHER Campus Editor

Jon Wefald was inaugurated 12th president of Kansas State University Thursday in Mc-Cain Auditorium at a ceremony attended by dignitaries from across the state and nation.

"It is all of us together who must carry this University forward. I am willing to lead," Wefald said addressing an audience of more than 1,000 faculty, staff, students and guests.

"Give me your support, your efforts, your courage, your perseverance and your wisdom," Wefald said.

Chairman of the Kansas Board of Regents Frank Becker invested Wefald with the office of the presidency.

"The economy of Kansas is weakened, and our problems are many; however, Kansas State University can provide solutions to these problems. I am confident," Becker said.

He charged Wefald to "transform students into scholars and invigorate alumni and the citizens of Kansas" before presenting him with the 4-inch, gold presidential medallion, an official symbol of the president's authori-

David Schafer, president of Faculty Senate, promised Wefald the support of the faculty, "your team," in providing an education that will serve as "a foundation to solve society's more complex problems."

Student Body President Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics, addressed student expectations of Wefald.

"When students raise their voices on concerns, do more than hear us talk - listen to what we have to say, and when our concerns are legitimate, do not just agree with us, but support us," Johnson said.

'We encourage you, Dr. Wefald, not to only accept what we can be, but rather to always pursue what we should become," he Representing the alumni, Roger Reitz, president of the Alumni Association, expressed the opinion that "Jon Wefald is the right man, in the right place, at the right time.'

Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, representing Gov. John Carlin, said Wefald faces a "challenge perhaps greater than any Kansas (university) president in this century," taking over leadership of K-State at a time when "agriculture stands in many ways at a crossroads.'

As a land-grant university, K-State was "mandated to provide a practical and liberal education for the children of the working classes," Wefald said.

"We aspire to be one of the three best universities in the Big Eight and to be one of the 15 best land-grant universities in America," he said. Progress, in a time of economic difficulty for the state, will require University officials to "make choices" about using limited resources.

"We know that incremental budgeting, especially in an era of scarce resources, will lead to mediocrity," he said. "We know that inevitably we will have to tie our planning process to our budgeting decisions.

Regents schools must "maximize cooperation and minimize duplication" as the state faces budget restrictions, he said.

K-State is "more than a technological university. Our land-grant heritage commands us to attend to the problems which scientific and technical advances may inadvertently create," Wefald said.

President Jon Wefald delivers his inaugural address Thursday in McCain Auditorium after being invested with the Presidential Medallion, officially making him the 12th president of

"We must solve the paradox of surplus crops depressing prices while millions starve and farmers go broke," he said.

"We must urgently address the problems of nuclear arms, where our technical abilities to construct weapons so far outstrip our ability to even conduct negotiations," he

Wefald said the University is "committed to a type of learning which balances the theoretical and the practical."

The University has a basis in the belief that "opportunities to learn should extend to the subjects about which people are curious agriculture, engineering, architecture, business and education juxtaposed with history, philosophy, biology, sociology and music," Wefald said. Faculty must emphasize to students that they "can be creative, imaginative, critical and original," he said.

"More important than the facts, the theories and the skills we must teach are the examples we set. I expect the faculty and staff to join me in demonstrating by word and deed that there is hope for America and the world...that there is a very important role for our students to play in the future of our communities, states, nation and indeed the world," Wefald said.

"We are here for the benefit of our students," Wefald said. "They are not here to serve us, but we them.

"I am grateful to (former) President

Duane Acker for leaving behind one of the most beautiful college campuses anywhere in America and for helping to bring to reality the Bramlage Arena and the new, proposed Telecommunications Center," Wefald said. The ceremony began at 2 p.m. with a processional of student senators, faculty, university officers and delegates from other universities and learned societies dressed in academic regalia. The procession marshalls John Noonan, associate dean of the graduate school, and Joseph Smith, professor of pathology, led the nearly 100 delegates and faculty into the auditorium, beginning with Fred Glimp,

The Regents named Wefald, 48, to the K-State presidency March 24 after a University selection committee narrowed the field of candidates for the position to three on representative of Harvard.

Wefald came to K-State from Minnesota, where he was chancellor of the Minnesota's seven-school university system.

The new president replaces K-State's 11th president, Duane Acker, who retired the position on June 30.

Wefald earned his bachelor's degree in history and political science from Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Wash., and received a master's from Washington State University, Pullman. He did his doctoral work in history at University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

K-State. Wefald was named the successor to former president Duane Acker March 24 by the Kansas Board of Regents and began his duties as president of K-State July 1.

Wefald acknowledges the audience's response after his inauguration ceremony while Lt. Gov. Tom Docking applauds. Docking attended the ceremony for Gov. John Carlin.

Gorbachev's weapons proposals may have been result of pressure

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

The sweeping concessions made by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev may have been a means of alleviating domestic pressure in the Soviet Union, said William H. Courtney, Consul General Designee to Kiev.

Gorbachev made proposals that would have eliminated all strategic weapons and then agreed to a United States proposal that would have cut the number of all strategic weapons in half, Courtney said. Then the talks moved to the Strategic Defense Initiative, and the conference never got back to the proposals, he said. "The domestic crisis in the Soviet Union is a good incentive" for the Soviets to improve East-

West relations, he said. The crisis has been brought on in part by a stagnating Soviet economy and society, Courtney said. Low worker morale, some disillusionment in government's leaders and heightened ethnic tensions have contributed to the stagnation, he

In the Soviet Union the standard of consumption is only about a third that of the United States,

See COURTNEY, Page 9

Student Senate hears bill to divide delegates by colleges, living areas

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate heard first readings Thursday night on a bill that would allow students to vote to halve senate representation between colleges and living districts. The intent of the bill, Student Senate Representation Enhancement Referendum, is to improve offcampus and University housing involvement in student government. Currently there are 35 senators from greek houses, 10 off-campus members and one residence hall

"Off-campus and residence hall students often perceive that they are under-represented in student government and have a less-than-average chance of winning office," said Lee White, senior in journalism and mass communications and co-sponsor of the bill. He said most universities in the Big Eight have some form of representation by living districts. Oklahoma State University and Iowa State University have half college and half living district representation, as the sponsors propose for K-State, he said.

Candy Leonard, junior in journalism and mass communications and co-sponsor of the bill, said she believes students may identify with their living districts more than their colleges. "I feel you can be a better representative for the people who identify with you, meaning those who are in the same living situation," she

See SENATE, Page 9

INTERNATIONAL

Hasenfus to appear before tribunal

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - A spokeswoman for the revolutionary tribunal trying Eugene Hasenfus said Thursday that the captured American would appear before the court to respond to the terrorism and conspiracy charges against him.

Spokeswoman Thelma Salinas said Hasenfus also would have a chance to examine the evidence against him when he appears in

The decision was announced a few hours after Attorney General Rodrigo Reyes asked that Hasenfus be brought before the tribunal, 'the sooner the better." Hasenfus previously appeared before the court on Oct. 20, when the charges against him were read.

Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., was a crewman on a plane shot down Oct. 5 over southern Nicaragua. He was captured the next day and faces 30 years in prison if convicted. Hasenfus has said the C-123 cargo plane was carrying small arms and ammunition to the U.S.backed Contra rebels.

Salinas said Jose Fernando Canales, the soldier who brought down the aircraft with a missile, will testify before the tribunal on Saturday. Next week it will hear from military and Interior Ministry officials, and on Tuesday will view a recording of an American television news program in which Hasenfus was interviewed.

Mount Etna erupts after tremors

CATANIA, Sicily - Mount Etna, shaken by earth tremors, erupted early Thursday, lighting up the night sky and sending two streams of molten lava down its sides, officials said.

The eruption posed no immediate danger to villages on the slopes, officials said after inspecting the mountain.

Shortly after midnight, three tremors jolted Etna, Europe's most active volcano. The strongest tremor damaged the walls of an empty building and caused cracks in a roadway.

At about the same time, the volcano spewed gas, hot rocks and Professor Renato Cristofolini, a volcanologist monitoring Etna's activities, said the lava was headed toward the Valle del Bolve, an uninhabited valley on the southern slope.

The volcano last erupted in September, when Etna spewed volcanic dust and black sand over a wide area.

Japanese assess regional investment

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Kansas was slow to seek Japanese business investment, and Missouri's central location may not be especially attractive to Japanse investors, according to officials who toured the two states and Oklahoma early this year.

Translated highlights of a report by Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry on the business climate in the three states were released this week by the Kansas City office of the Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Japanese officials toured the region in March to determine why their country's U.S. investments were being clustered along the East and West Coasts, generally not reaching the three states, said Yukio Sekine, who heads the Japan chamber's local office.

According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, Japanese investments in the U.S. totaled $101.8 billion last year, 50.6 percent above 1984.

Sekine said the Japanese officials who toured Kansas found that the state's efforts to promote Japanese investments lagged behind those of other states.

Italian

Spice in Every Bite

NATIONAL

USDA says farm windfall to end

WASHINGTON - Agriculture Department officials said Thursday that a shuffling of crop price support loans and payment-in-kind certificates by many farmers to produce quick, windfall profits will be effectively halted when local agency offices close for the weekend.

"There wasn't any illegality," said Mike Masterson, an aide to Undersecretary Daniel G. Amstutz, who oversees USDA international affairs and commodity programs. "It's like a lot of our programs, ways are found to make them work for the benefit of individuals, and within the law.'

More than $3 billion in so-called generic certificates have been issued by the USDA to farmers as part of this year's subsidies. The "certs," as many call them, are backed by inventories of surplus commodities owned by the department's Commodity Credit Corp.

Early on, the certs took on a life of their own and have been traded back and forth by farmers, grain companies and others. As a result, the CCC-backed paper often became worth fat premiums. Masterson said in an interview that some are worth at least 37 percent above their face value.

LaRouche ends credit card dispute

WASHINGTON - Attorneys for political extremist Lyndon LaRouche and for a New Jersey bank have reached agreement ending their two-year legal battle over alleged unauthorized credit card charges by LaRouche's 1984 presidential campaign, an attorney for the bank said Thursday.

LaRouche personally signed the agreement reached Wednesday, said Albert Besser, attorney for First Fidelity Bank of Newark, N.J.

The terms of the agreement were not immediately disclosed. The agreement still must be signed by other parties and is expected to be filed in U.S. District Court in Newark next week.

With the agreement, LaRouche will avoid being forced to undergo further questioning under subpoena by the bank about allegedly fraudulent credit card activities by his presidential committees.

REGIONAL

Hayden to testify on judicial flier

TOPEKA - Republican gubernatorial candidate Mike Hayden was subpoenaed Thursday to testify at a court hearing because of remarks made about a murder case in a campaign flier. The flier, which already has drawn criticism from Democratic candidate Tom Docking for inaccuracies, referred to the case of John Goss, a man accused in the Sept. 8 slaying of a Plains woman. Goss' attorney claimed the flier has prejudiced her client's case by flatly stating that Goss was "a walking time-bomb" who "murdered" the woman. Goss has not gone to trial and is scheduled to appear Monday for a preliminary hearing.

The clerk of Meade County District Court issued a subpoena requiring Hayden to appear at Goss' preliminary hearing Monday. The subpoena had not been served on Hayden Thursday night.

Mike Swenson, media coordinator for Docking, said Docking would have no comment on the matter because it involves a pending court

The subpoena was issued at the request of Linda L. Eckelman, a Dodge City attorney who is representing Goss. She said she doesn't think Goss can receive a fair trial because of the flier.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

EDUCATION MAJORS: Juniors with a 3.3 GPA and sophomores with a 3.6 GPA can sign up for Kappa Delta Pi education honorary in the Curriculum and Instruction office on the second floor of Bluemont. For more information, call

VAN ZILE RESIDENTS who would like one of Van Zile's trophies may pick one up in Putnam

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS: Committe member applications are available through Nov. 7 in the SGS office.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available in Ackert 233 for $500 student cancer research awards. Applications are due Dec. 15.

TODAY

K-STATE FACULTY will sponsor a lecture by William H. Courtney, consul general designe for USSR, at 1:30 p.m. in Cardwell 102. The topic will

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP will have a Halloween Swing Dance at 5 p.m. Meet at the south door of the Union.

ARAB STUDENTS ASSOCIATION will have lections and meeting at 6 p.m. in Union Big

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of John Peter Giese at 9:30 a.m. in Cardwell 119. The topic will be "State Selective Electron Cap-ture in Collisions of Low Energy Multiple Charg-ed Ar and Ne Projectiles with Atomic and

PRE-LAW STUDENTS IN ALL MAJORS: There will be an informal question-and-answer session with Professor Hamilton from Drake Law School from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. in Union 203

PHI KAPPA TAU LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at the Phi Tau house

ALPHA XI DELTA will have a Halloween Philanthropy from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Alpha Xi house, 601 Fairchild Terrace.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS will have a Halloween party at 3 p.m. at the ATO

FRIDAY FOCUS ON WOMEN, sponsored by Women's Resource Center, meets at noon in Union 213. The topic will be "Children and Televi-

ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS will have a Halloween party at 8 p.m. at the AGR house. Members should bring fee cards if they

SATURDAY

MORTAR BOARD is sponsoring a Big Eight 10,000 meter Classic Road Race at 9 a.m. in Warner Park. Call 776-6294 for entry forms.

SUNDAY

MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. at 421 N. 16th St., Apt. 4.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 4 p.m. in Union

KAPPA DELTA PI will have initiation at 4 p.m.

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS will have a paddle

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 202. ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS meet

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS meet for a skating party at 7 p.m. at the Lambda Chi LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE meet at 8 p.m. at the Beta Sigma Psi house.

MONDAY

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE meet to take yearbook pictures at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

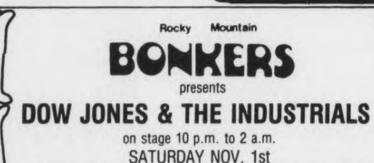

Notice

Today is the last day to drop

CAR WASH 25¢ Wash Everyday!

- *Close to campus
- *Coin changer available
- *4 stalls for your convenience
- *New facility, new location, no traffic

Conveniently located on the corner of Tuttle Creek Blvd. & Kimball Ave.

SATURDAY NOV. 1st

1216 Laramie

hassle

FOUNTAIN

GIFTS UNIQUE

FirstBank Center

Halloween Party TONIGHT

TGIF at 5 p.m.

Come On Down And Unleash The Spook In You That's Just Been Dying To

Don't Miss The Comedy Invasion MONDAY with

Come Out!

BILL ENGVALL

RESTAURANT Aggieville Moro We've Got A Halloween "Treat" For You At

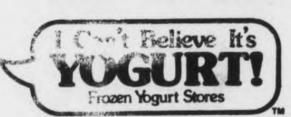

Bite Into One For Halloween!

lozzarella Cheese, Olives,

Homemade Bread

lushrooms, Green Peppers, Plus

Tangy Italian Spices Baked Inside

ENJOY A 50% Discount On Any Size Cone or Cup When You Wear A

Halloween Costume

Parents, we'll treat you, too, when you're accompanied by your "trick-or-treaters".

FREE SAMPLES EVERY TIME YOU COME IN

Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. daily Noon-11 p.m. Sunday 705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers, Aggieville

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1986 11 p.m.-2 a.m. Variety of Fitness Activities FREE DOOR PRIZES Announcement of winner of "Healthiest Looking Body Contest" FREE FUN FOR EVERYONE

HALLOWEEN PARTY TONITE!

ELVIRA LOOK-A-LIKE CONTEST Winner Gets:

• $25 Cash

Free Elvira

Lunch

- T-Shirt Free Mr. K's
- BEST SINGLE & COUPLE COSTUME CONTESTS
- FREE ELVIRA CUP AT DOOR

Start with a KQLA Halloween Warm-up T.G.I.F. 4-6 p.m.!

By AMY GREENE Collegian Reporter

It is important to learn how to move from a victim - an adult child of an alcoholic - to a survivor, who has the confidence and knowledge about their own ability and weaknesses to change the role they lead in their lives, said Dorinda Lambert, counselor at the Counseling Center in Holton Hall.

Dealing with alcohol is important in today's world because statistics from the National Council of Alcoholism show that an estimated 7 million children live in homes where one parent in the family may be an alcoholic, Lambert said. At least 22 million adults have grown up in an alcoholic home.

Lambert said each of us have a role in helping ourselves and others with the problem of alcoholism. Adult children of alcoholics feel they have no role. They feel powerless, Lambert said.

As a child, the victim feels he or she has no social status and actually not much cognitive ability to make decisions, she said. The victim does not have a good selfconcept; he or she does not have a good role model.

The victim, in this instance, encounters trauma.

There are three rules learned in a home where alcoholism resides: do not talk about the alcoholic problem, do not trust anyone outside or inside of the family, and do not feel or talk about personal feelings.

She said when the child victim becomes an adult gets out into the world, the individual sees things are different and tries to cope.

Adult children of alcoholics have a greater risk of becoming alcoholics because they are more susceptible to other problems.

Of male children of alcoholics, 25 percent have a chance of being alcoholic and 10 percent of adult; female children have a chance of ecoming alcoholic. Taken from the book, "Adult Children of Alcoholics" by Janet Woititz, Lambert said some adult children of alcoholics experience common difficulties.

They guess at what "normal"/healthy behavior is,

have difficulty completing projects, judge selves without mercy, take selves very seriously and many others, she said.

To make the transition from a victim to a survivor, one must understand what is going on, Lambert said. To become a survivor, one must learn and understand the past through a more realistic perspective, develop understanding and skill in the present and make plans for the future.

Lambert gives group counseling for students who are children of alcoholics once a semester.

Other resources are Lafene Mental Health Center, Pawnee Mental Health Center or private practitioners in the community.

Minister appeals case; conviction questioned

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Members of the Kansas Supreme Court were full of questions and seemed skeptical of the Lyon County prosecutor's efforts to link former Emporia minister Thomas P. Bird to the death of his wife in July 1983.

After listening to more than 30 minutes of arguments in Bird's appeal of his 1985 first-degree murder conviction in Lyon County stemming from the death of Sandra, Justice Harold Herd said he still didn't understand how Bird was linked with the actual murder.

"I think there's plenty of evidence of her death by foul play," Herd told Rodney H. Symmonds, Lyon County attorney, saying it was unclear to him how they pinpointed the time of death and proved Bird and his wife were together.

"Is there or do you have any evidence to show Bird was with his wife and was available to kill her? Would you list the evidence you relied upon to connect Bird with the foul play. If you've given it already, I still haven't picked up on it."

Symmonds said there was no eye witness or single piece of evidence which clearly convicted Bird or proved that he didn't kill his wife.

Rather, the prosecution established a pattern of inconsistent statements and actions by Bird on the night of his wife's death and overwhelmed the jury with 72 witnesses and 100 pieces of evidence which he said proved Bird guilty.

"Thomas Bird was not convicted on one piece of evidence," Symmonds said. "Each witness added a piece to the puzzle, which we put together." Defense attorney Benjamin Wood was not impressed with the testimony and evidence against his client and said "the state amassed a lot of detail but detail doesn't convict a man of first-degree murder." "It's like the state loaded up a cannon with a lot of mud and sticks and twigs," Wood said in concluding his argument. "Then they put Thomas Bird up against a barn and fired the cannon. Then they looked to see how much of the mud got on Tom Bird." Bird was convicted of killing his wife, throwing her into the Cottonwood River and then trying to disguise her death as a traffic acci-

Wood said the indictment against Bird was flawed because it was too vague and he said the prosecution never proved "Tom Bird placed his hands on Sandy Bird on that bridge" and committed first-degree murder.

He said his client was railroaded to trial and convicted in a setting where he could never get a fair trial because of widespread pretrial publicity in the news media.

"From day one, this case has generated an incredible amount of publicity," Wood said. "Stories about this case have been made up and continue to multiply. It's been blown out of proportion and distorted.

"Thank God this case if finally in a place where it will be decided on its

Oil minister removal sends crude prices soaring

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - The removal of Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani as Saudi Arabia's oil minister sent prices of crude oil and refined products soar-ing Thursday. Analysts attributed the reaction to a combination of technical factors and uncertainty over the effect his departure would have on future efforts by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to limit production to boost world prices.

Prices also were boosted by reports that Yamani's replacement, Hisham Nazer, had called for an change, contracts for December duction limitation agreement after emergency meeting of OPEC's pricing committee, indicating the possiblity of a renewal of determination by the cartel to boost prices.

Some analysts speculated Yamani's departure would remove a long-respected voice of moderation within the fractious cartel, making future agreements to limit production and higher oil prices less likely. But others said that King Fahd's move had smoothed the way to better cooperation within the 13-nation cartel and that this would boost chances for higher prices in the termediate, the benchmark U.S. grade of crude oil, jumped $1.31 a barrel to close at $15.04.

At the New York Mercantile Ex-

Prices for November delivery of refined products also rose significantly. Heating oil closed at $39.57 cents a gallon, up 2.8 cents, while unleaded gasoline rose to 40 cents a gallon, up 2.15 cents. Several analysts attributed the buying mainly to "short-covering." In a short sale, a trader sells borrowed oil in the hopes that the price will fall before the oil has to be replaced, thus profiting on the drop in price. Last week OPEC agreed on a pro-delivery of West Texas In- 17 days of haggling in Geneva. The accord sets quotas for the cartel's 13 members until Dec. 31.

During that session, oil prices had generally hovered in a range between $15 and $16 a barrel. But recently they fell below $14 a barrel, partly because traders' confidence in OPEC's ability to stick to its own quotas had been shaken by the difficulty it had in reaching the agree-

In Paris Thursday, Saudi Arabia's interior minister, Prince Naif ibn Abdul Aziz, said the decision to remove Yamani did not mean the kingdom was changing its oil policy.

atican issues statement calling for anti-homosexual views

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY - The Vatican instructed bishops Thursday to stamp out pro-homosexual views within the Roman Catholic church and oppose any attempt to condone homosexuality through legislation or other

In a letter to the bishops approved by Pope John Paul II, it accused prohomosexual groups of "deceitful propaganda" and trying to gain a foothold in the church, which has 810 million followers.

"Increasing numbers of people, even within the church, are bringing enormous pressure to bear on the church to accept the homosexual condition as though it were not disordered and to condone homosexual activity," it said. The Vatican told the bishops and priests not to support organizations that "seek to undermine the teaching of the church (on homosexuality), which are ambiguous about it, or which neglect it entirely.'

and made public Thursday. It was drawn up by the Congregation for the successfully contested an action

Doctrine of the Faith, the watchdog of doctrinal deviation headed by West German-born Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger

He said the letter was being sent because the controversy about homosexuality "even in Catholic circles" has become a matter of 'sufficiently grave and widespread importance.

An Italian homosexual rights group named Fuori (Outside) issued a statement calling the church document "just a futile attempt to force discrimination by those who, perhaps because of love based on true faith, have discovered tolerance."

In its instructions, Ratzinger's agency reiterated the Vatican position that homosexual acts are sins. "An overly benign interpretation" has been given to the homosexual condition, which "must be seen as an objective disorder," it asserted.

Prelates in some countries, including the United States, have struggled with government The 15-page letter was dated Oct. 1 authorities over homosexual rights. Church leaders in New York City undesigned to protect homosexuals from job discrimination.

The Vatican has taken disciplinary action against some churchmen for advocating liberal views on homosexuality.

It said in the instructions that the church position "cannot be revised by pressure from civil legislation or trend of the moment." In assessing proposed legislation, the document said the bishops "should keep as their uppermost concern the responsibility to defend and promote family Civil legislation, it said, cannot protect "behavior to which no one has any conceivable right.'

In an apparent reference to the dangers of AIDS, the letter said: "Even when the practice of homosexuality may seriously threaten the lives and well-being of a large number of people, its advocates remain undeterred and refuse to consider the magnitude of the risks involved."

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome is spread primarily by sexual contact and the sharing of needles by drug abusers. In the United States, a majority of its victims are homosex-

The church is "really concerned about the many who are not represented by the pro-homosexual movement and about those who may have been tempted to believe its deceitful propaganda," the document stated.

Pro-homosexual groups try to project a false notion that homosexuality is "at least a completely harmless, if not an entirely good, thing," it said.

Although the church condemns "violent malice in speech or in action" against homosexuals, the Vatican said, bishops must state clearly that homosexuality is immoral and resist pressure from the pro-homosexual movement within the church to change its teaching.

Bishops should not permit the use of church buildings by such groups, including facilities of Catholic schools and colleges, the letter said The document urged homosexual Christians to lead "a chaste life" and declared:

Pizza

"It is only in the marital relationship that the use of the sexual faculty can be morally good. A person engaging in homosexual behavior therefore acts immorally."

Party

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State

Ghost & Jews

Goblins & Gentiles

Come to the Halloween

6:15

1509 Wreath

Costumes Optional

Children are Welcome!

Bring a Guest

RSVP, if possible 776-1963

CAMP OUT

WITH THE

CATS

Student Basketball Tickets

On Sale Monday at 8 a.m.

In Ahearn's East Lobby.

Get In Line Now

And Enjoy Sunday Evening's

Scrimmage, Contests

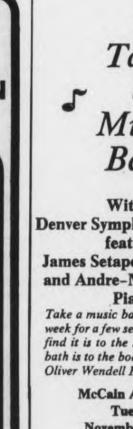

kinko's

Monday-Thursday 7:30-Midnight Friday 7:30-7:00 Saturday 9-5 Sunday 10-Midnight 1110 Laramie

TONITE OUR 34th HALLOWEEN PARTY!

- COSTUME CONTESTS: Best Male Best Female Best Couple
- CASH PRIZES & FREE LUNCHES
- Elvira Coors Cups

Music Bath 5

With the Denver Symphony Orchestra featuring

James Setapen, Conductor and Andre-Michel Schub, Pianist

Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons and you will find it is to the soul what a water bath is to the body. Oliver Wendell Holmes

> McCain Auditorium Tuesday, November 4, 1986 8:00 p.m. Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428 Mastercard/Visa accepted

$1 SCHNAPPS DRINKS Come watch Football on T.V.

ALL Day Sat.!! AGGIEVILLE 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Ramada Inn FRIDAY 75¢ Draws $10.95

Seafood Prime Rib Buffet 5:30-9 p.m.

Dance to Fast Forward 8 p.m.-midnight

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

What other Legislators are saying about Ivan Sand.

"I've served under Ivan Sand's Chairmanship of the Local Government committee. We all look to Ivan and respect his knowledge about local government . . .

As Vice Chairman of the House Ways & Means committee, I've appreciated Ivan's behind-the-scenes advocacy for programs at KSU and for Riley County. Manhattan and Riley County are fortunate to have such a respected advocate in Topeka.'

> -Rochelle Chronister, 9th district, Vice Chairman, Ways and Means

"Over the years Ivan and I have worked together on many projects of particular concern to Riley and Clay county . . . expansion of Fort Riley, annexation, taxation issues, local government issues. As Majority Leader, I will look forward to Ivan's continued counsel and advice.'

> - Jim Braden, 64th district, Majority Leader

⊠Re-elect IVAN SAND-

Representative - 66th District Paid by Re-elect Sand Committee, Charlotte Shawver, Treas. and Prizes.

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Children's education will suffer by ruling

Tennessee ruled that some books. such as "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Diary of Anne Frank," did not promote the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of religion. As a result, his decision was to allow a small group of fundamentalist Christian parents to take their children out of classes in which books such as these are read and teach reading at home.

This is the first of what will probably be many rulings in the issue of a book's constitutionality. The judge said he did not find the books offensive, nor did he order their removal. However, his idea of a reasonable solution, to remove students from classes and to be taught at home, leaves the decision open to a wide variety of interpretations and may, in the long run, hurt a child's educa-

It is now feasible for a student who does not wish to read a certain book (for any of a myriad of reasons) to claim the book's ideas are against his religion and to be allowed to leave the classroom, using this convenient excuse as a crutch.

academic environment, a cultures.

Last week, a federal judge in teacher will have a harder time evaluating that child's abilities and improvements. The teacher becomes less involved with the growth of the child, losing the one-on-one relationship shared by a student and teacher.

> From the child's point of view, the choice is to leave the classroom or be subjected to ideas that oppose his beliefs. And by choosing to follow his ideals, may be ostracized by his peers because he receives special treat-

> But the most important loss will be that of experiencing other beliefs and cultures around the world. A child who learns at home is exposed to only what the parents choose to present - in this case an intolerance of other

The whole purpose of an education is to increase one's knowlege of the world and those in it, promoting the understanding and tolerance of the many differences in the world.

This ruling does not further the interests of the child. It serves only to broaden the ever-growing By removing the child from the gap between people of all

Friday, October 31, 1986 - 4

President misses chance in Iceland

Like the fog of Iceland, the rhetoric and press reports resulting from the recent summit between Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and President Reagan leave an unclear picture of the success or failure of that historic meeting. Some claim that a great opportunity was missed, that the arms treaty of the century was passed up to preserve a presidential pipe dream known as the Strategic Defense Initiative. More optimistic voices declare that real progress was made at the Iceland talks, progress that will be reflected at the arms-control negotiations in Geneva.

It would be too simple to say that my opinion lies somewhere between these two positions, as if they represented extremes in some neat two-dimensional spectrum and some moderate position between them were desirable. Instead, I propose that a bad arms-control agreement was passed up for a bad reason - to preserve SDI.

Some positive proposals were brought forth at the meeting in Reykjavik. The reduction of intermediate-range missles to 100, including those in Europe, and the 50 percent reduction in ballistic missles by both the United States and the Soviet Union represent progressive steps in the arms-control pro-

But the longer-range proposal to eliminate all ballistic missles, or as the Soviets now claim, to eliminate all nuclear weapons from the superpower arsenals, is unreasonable. A no-nuke world is a wonderful goal but is grossly irresponsible in the world we live in today or will live in 10 years from now.

I'm no hard-liner against the Soviet government, and I certainly don't think they'd march into West Germany tomorrow if the United States pulled out of Europe today. But governments change and a more militarisitc government could come to power in the Soviet Union. Certainly, the Soviets would have occupied West Berlin long ago if it hadn't been for the threat of nuclear war. A similar assumption can be made concerning the United States' desire to oust the Castro

And what about the other nations in the

DAN OWENS Collegian Columnist

nuclear club? Isn't it a bit ridiculous to imagine a world in which the two most powerful nations would be at the mercy of the dozen or so countries (Pakistan?) which possess nuclear weapons? As Hodding Carter III wrote, "...try to envision how France or China could be persuaded to abandon its independent deterrent. France has been known to blow up sailing vessels for less."

Like it or not, nuclear weapons are going to be around for a long time. They have kept the peace between the Soviets and the United States for some 40 years, and will continue to do so in the future. What can and should be achieved, however, is a drastic reduction in their numbers and unfortunately, this reduction is being blocked by Reagan's refusal to compromise on SDI.

The Iceland summit has made dramatically clear what most arms-control experts have known for a long time; the main differences in arms-control between the superpowers concern SDI and until these differences are narrowed, little progress will be made toward a new arms-control treaty.

The Soviets compromised on SDI and proposed to restict SDI research to the laboratory for 10 years, then require the two sides to come to an agreement before any deployment could commence. Reagan claimed that this proposal "would have kept us from developing the SDI for the entire 10 years" and was, "in effect, killing SDI." Unfortunately, this is not true.

Technological experts from around the world agree that limiting SDI to the lab for 10 years would not significantly slow down the program. "No work going on now would be prohibited," said Norris Smith, a spokesman for Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California, one of the leading SDI research labs.

What would be prohibited, however, are the flashy Pentagon weapons tests Reagan knows he needs to get the increases in SDI funding he desires. Even a newly-elected Democratic Congress would favor funding of SDI research, but the massive increases Reagan wants are unlikely without a hocuspocus Pentagon magic show every few mon-

I find it amusing that proponets of SDI mention that the Soviets have a head-start on 'Star Wars' research. Neither side is acting like the Soviets are ahead now. If they were, then confining research to the lab for 10 years research would give the United States time to catch up with the Soviets.

The fact is, nobody is going to reduce their offense when they think the other side is ahead in defense and that's just what the United States is asking the Soviet Union to do. No wonder Gorbachev said of Reagan's SDI proposals, "It would have taken a madman to accept that.'

Reductions in nuclear weapons are desirable and possible if Reagan will alter his position on SDI. What the Soviets are asking is a more controlled development of the SDI, and if the U.S. wants to start a new arms race, which SDI is, controlled development is desirable.

Unfortunately, Reagan doesn't see it that way, and thus a historic opportunity was lost in Iceland, not to eliminate nuclear arms, but to reduce them drastically.

One thing which separates great statesmen from near-great statesmen is the ability to be flexible and adjust strategies when new opportunities arise. Richard Nixon, for all his faults, had this ability and his foreign policy achievements were admirable.

'Flexible" is not a word Reagan possesses when it comes to discussing his cherished SDI, and unless he acquires it, the world will wait until at least 1989 before progress is made on reducing nuclear weapons.

U.S. supports Britain in fighting terrorism

FAA's new proposal

could help air safety

gotten embarrassingly little sup- a time, considered imposing port from Europe's Economic sanctions of its own on Syria. Community, Margaret Thatcher knows how hard it is to find an ally when standing up to terrorists.

Sadly, she has learned the same lesson as Ronald Reagan: Finding any other supposedly democratic, supposedly allied Eurpoean country to support an anti-terrorist response is virtually impossible. Despite the lack of Common Market support, Britain made the right decision when it ordered a severing of all diplomatic ties with Syria.

Syria was directly linked to supporting terrorists who planted a bomb in an Israeli El-Al airliner at London's Heathrow ministration's proposals to lessen the risk of small planes improperly flying into airspace around 23 of the nation's major airports should help keep aviation one of America's safest forms of commercial transportacame from a task force set up after a small plane collided with an Aeromexico DC-9 Aug. 31 over

The FAA recommendations

tion.

Now that Britain's anti- Airport. The United States gave terrorist stance against Syria has Thatcher verbal support and, for > However, such a decision by this country would be foolish. It would undoubtedly force a confrontation with the Soviet Union, a direct arms supplier to Syria.

> Considering the two countries' recent failures in negotiations, a confrontation now could be especially detrimental to future talks. The United States' reserved support was, in this case, justified. However, it was at least some response.

> Most of the European countries should grow a backbone before they claim to be allies in the

YOU CAN FOOL SOME OF THE MEDIA ALL OF THE TIME AND ALL OF THE MEDIA SOME OF THE TIME...BUT...

Human interaction aids depression

Saturday dawned gray, cold and wet. My mood matched the skies. Another wave of "the blues" had moved in.

My usual methods of dealing with personal depression didn't seem to work. I slept late, I went to a good, humorous movie (usually a sure-fire cure), I watched television and caught up on all the programs I'd videotaped the week before.

Sunday continued my dark mood and nothing went right. Actually, I don't recall too much of Sunday, except the fact that I didn't accomplish the things I should have.

Monday was a beautiful, bright, clear day. I dressed in black, the only color added to my outfit (and my mood) were the large gold earrings. I ignored people all that morning probably a good thing, too; I undoubtedly would have snapped at everyone. But as the day progressed, my mood lightened, and by the time I finally found my way back home at 11:30 p.m. Monday, I was OK.

It was not one of my ideal weekends. Depression is the No. 1 mental disorder currently diagnosed in this country. We all suffer from it at one time or another; it's a natural reaction to stress and tension. Many people suffer from more severe bouts of depression but can still maintain their every-

But there are others who suffer from such severe depression they are unable to function from day to day. Statistics show one in five people will be affected by severe depression at some time in their lives.

What is depression? It's a common mood characterized by feelings of sadness, disappointment, inadequacy and/or loneliness. Most of us show our symptoms of depression by withdrawing from the people and events around us, we lose the pleasure and enjoyment we usually experience, and there may be physical problems like aches, fatigue, poor eating or overeating, and sleeping pro-

The tendency to experience depression can be caused by several things. Our personality types - if we're highly self-critical and demanding or if we're passive and dependent - can cause us to be susceptible to the blues.

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

Some cases of depression can be traced to a chemical imbalance in the brain. Other people inherit the tendency toward depressive il-

But most of us experience a mood shift due to our environment. Environments at work, the home or society, in addition to interpersonal conflicts, can lead to depression.

That's me. I'm influenced by the weather a great deal. The Carpenter's song, "Rainy Days and Mondays always get me down,' describes me perfectly. If the sun doesn't shine for several days, watch out. I'm also notorious for procrastination, which can throw me into depression simply from everything piling up. Other peoples' moods affect me; classes, papers, work and my weight can all be problems and make me shift moods. Loneliness is a prime cause for me; when the four walls start closing in, I'm down in a hurry.

Usually, I can work my way out of the blues. My usual method is to go to a movie. If that fails, a book or loud music or TV will usually work. None of them worked last weekend. So what did?

Interacting with other people always works. I was forced to react to someone during an interview Monday afternoon. I had to ask my questions, respond to her answers and act interested. It wasn't hard. The interview was with a person I admire about a subject I enjoy, so there was definite interaction.

If I am forced into a situation where there are lots of people around and I have to respond to them, even if it's just to say hello, I seem to come up from the depths and rejoin the real world. The experts recommend some of the same techniques to combat bouts of depression. A pamphlet published by the KSU Counseling Center lists a variety of things to do.

- Get Up. Try to get up at the same time every morning, preferably before 7 a.m. The regularity helps the body function normally so you'll feel more normal.

- Lights. Turn on lots of lights or let the sunshine in as soon as you get up. Light helps your body get going and function better.

- Move. Be active right away. Mild exercise aids in blood and oxygen flow so you feel more alert and alive.

- Music. Energetic, happy music in the morning can help you get started. - Nutrition. Eat a protein breakfast for long-lasting energy. Maintain fiber in your diet with fresh fruits or whole grain bread and cereals. Avoid the caffeine and sugar routine; that's only temporary energy and you can feel worse as the sugar level lowers.

Routine. A change in routine can help shake depression. A different outfit, a different route to work or school, eating at a different place can all help.

If you can, taking the day off and doing something you really enjoy might help. Exercise is the best cure for the blues. Seek out humor in movies, books, TV, records, cartoons or friends. Singing, even if you don't feel like it, will help too.

One of the things you can do is to recognize the fact that you are somewhat depressed and to not feel guilty or bad about the fact. Recognizing the problem is half the battle. Then you can take charge of yourself and work your way out of it.

Just do something. The blues will move out again if you don't let them move in per-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words.

Cerritos, Calif., killing 82 people. Their report contained the proposal that all private planes flying within 30 miles of a major airport be equipped with a device August collision demonstrates that automatically reports that serious enforcement is needaltitude to air traffic radar. The ed nationwide. In the two months small plane involved in the since then, 25 pilots have been Airmexico collision did not have cited for violations in the Los such a device. Furthermore, the Angeles area compared with 30 use of this equipment is only re- citations brought against pilots quired around nine of the largest nationwide last year.

The Federal Aviation Ad- airports in the United States.

The FAA seems serious about the recommendations and is promising increased enforcement efforts of rules restricting flying near big airports. For example, it is doubling the penalty for those pilots who illegally enter restricted airspace by suspendending their license for an minimum of 60 days and requiring that they pass a written test on controlled airspace.

A crackdown by the FAA's Western Region on airspace violations by pilots following the K-State Dairy Day to focus on teaching, research facilities

By ROGER MCKNIGHT Collegian Reporter

Dairymen from across the state will be in Manhattan today to attend K-State's Dairy Day 1986, hosted by the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry.

"This is an opportunity for the University to invite dairymen from across the state to the campus for an open-house type of an affair. We are interested in showing our constituents our teaching and research facilities and the progress we have made in the dairy field," said Ed Call, professor of animal sciences and industry.

"Anymore, we have to sell education. This is a way to demonstrate to our commodity groups that we are an active and viable research unit. Our primary goal is to improve the quality of dairy products through better management techniques," he

Each year the dairy department tries to build a program around a specific theme. The overall objective for this year's theme is managing high producing herds with an emphasis on the calf and heifer program, Call said.

"Once a heifer calf is born, it is our responsibility to rear the calf for two years. Many times the heifer rearing program is strictly an outlay. For many farms, the program takes a backseat, or a 'lost soul' in the operation," he said.

The feature speaker for the daylong event will be James Morrill, professor of animal sciences and industry. Morrill is an internationally known dairy calf nutrition expert.

"He has been working in this area over 20 years and is very well recognized as a leading authority in dairy calf nutrition and management systems," Call said.

The program will also include a guest panel of producers, including two young dairymen in Kansas.

"The panel, which will be narrated by J.R. Dunham, professor of animal sciences and industry, will include Ron Funk and Mike Currie discussing their operations in a show-andtell-type discussion," Call said. "Show, from the standpoint that Dr. Dunham took pictures of their operations, which will be used to supplement the audio portion of their pro-

Kansas Dairy Commissioner Archie Hurst will give a short presentation during the luncheon about new regulations involving the inspections of dairy operations in Kansas.

The dairy industry is concerned about the quality of milk, Call said. Dairymen can't expect to put a poorquality product on the market and stay competitive, he said. Commissioner Hurst's function is to inspect dairy farms and plants to assure everything is done according to proper procedure.

For the noon luncheon, K-State's Dairy Science Club will provide a "brown bag lunch," for a nominal fee. Sport Shakes, or canned milk shakes, will also be available through the different marketing

The Kansas Mastitis Council, in cooperation with West Agro, Inc., sponsors the Quality Milk Awards to recognize Kansas dairy producers who are producing the highest quality milk.

The awards will be presented during the noon luncheon to the top three finishers in two divisions.

"The dairy industry has highquality standards, so each year we invite producers around the state to enter the Kansas Quality Milk Awards Program, which promotes these qualities in dairying," Call

About 150 participants submitted the required information, on which the staff scored the herds milk quality, using objective methods in judging the quality, he said.

The afternoon session will include tours and demonstrations at K-State's dairy processing plant in Call Hall and the Kansas Artificial Breeding Service Unit.

'Our mission is education, so we feel we should educate them in the morning sessions. In the afternoon, we will have different stations such as veterinarian booths, different calf region programs and reproductive progams, so people can mill around before returning home," Call said.

Call said he believes, with harvests running later this year, the attendence will depend on the weather Thursday and Friday. He said the crowd usually numbers from 100 to 200 people.

Rec Complex hosts 'Late Night' games

By The Collegian Staff

While ghosts and goblins fill the streets on Halloween, an array of costumes will fill the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

Today, Recreational Services will host "Late Night" from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m., said Joyce Halverson, assistant director of recreational services.

"Late Night' is designed to be an atypical event," Halverson said. "It's a night filled with games you enjoyed in elementary school when it rained outside, and the PE teacher had to prepare unusual indoor ac-

Games such as cageball-

'Social, informal' atmosphere planned volleyball, whiffle ball, scooter races and putt-putt golf will be played in fast-moving 20 to 25 minute inter-

Halverson said a coed team of approximately 10 people and a $5 entry fee are necessary to participate.

"Since 'Late Night' falls on Halloween, we are going to add a new twist of coming dressed in optional costume attire," Halverson said.

"The competition isn't going to be like our structured intramural program. It's more informal, social and non-competitive," she added.

Recreational Services started "Late Night" last fall after Halverson and her graduate assistant attended a recreation professionals conference.

"When we returned from the conference, we started talking about special events, and we came up with the idea of 'Late Night," she said.

"With the drinking age rising, we feel this is a good opportunity to socialize with your friends and have some fun," she said. "It's a good nonalcoholic activity designed to reduce

"We have had one 'Late Night' a semester since last fall, and we feel the response has been good, and the participating teams have really enjoyed themselves," Halverson said. Halverson said "Late Night" will be one of the events for Wellness

Week. "We feel because it's so wholesome it ties in the fact that it's good physical exercise, an alternative to alcohol and an excellent way to socialize with friends," Halverson said.

Prizes are awarded to winners, but Halverson stressed the basic emphasis for teams is to have fun.

Volksmarch.

5 Mile Non-Competitive Pre-Marked Course

Saturday, November 1, 1986 RILEY COUNTY COURTHOUSE PLAZA STARTING TIME — 8 a.m. - 2 p.m.

(must be finished by 5 p.m.) PRE-REGISTER BY CALLING 537-9683

OCTOBER 27-31, 1986, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. FREE TO THE ENTIRE FAMILY Sponsored by Lafene Health Center and Manhattan Main Street Project

Ivan Sand Supports Education.

In 1986 Representative Sand Voted Yes For:

SB601 — expanded per pupil expenditures to include 4-year old

Tapes show crew unaware of impending crash

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The captain of Aeromexico Flight 498, thinking he was making a routine approach into Los Angeles International Airport, suddenly exclaimed, "Oh...this can't

His DC-9 jetliner had just collided with a single-engine private plane and began careening toward the residential neighborhood 6,568 feet

A glimpse inside the cockpit during the final seconds of Flight 498 last August was provided Thursday as the National Transportation Safety Board released the gap-filled transcript of the cockpit voice recorder tape.

Investigators said most of the tape could not be understood poor tape quality and excessive background noise.

During much of the time internal conversation, which was in Spanish, was drowned out by the blaring of air traffic communications on an open speaker, officials said.

The tape, however, indicated that neither the captain nor co-pilot was aware of the impending collision over Cerritos, Calif., on Aug. 31 that killed 82 people, including 15 on the ground. There was no sign the pilot had time to take evasive action. Ironically, as the NTSB documents were released, authorities confirmed that a Boeing 727 jetliner and a helicopter nearly collided Wednesday during the plane's approach to the Los Angeles airport.

The pilot of United Airlines Flight 282 reported that he had to take evasive action to miss the helicopter. which he said came within 100 feet of him at 2,000 feet 10 miles east of the airport. It was not immediately known what the helicopter was doing in the airspace.

United spokesman Joe Hopkins said the captain "pulled up and moved over the helicopter and then continued on and made a normal landing." He said there were no injuries among the 94 people on board.

According to the documents released by the NTSB on the Aeromexico collision, the final 11 minutes of Flight 498 seemed uneventful as the twin-jet with 64 people aboard made its way north to Los Angeles and prepared for a routine landing.

The co-pilot, Hector Valencia, 26, was believed to be at the controls and the captain had made a routine radio call to the Aeromexico office in Los Angeles for gate information.

A flight attendant entered the cockpit, but her remarks could not be discerned. Then there were apparent gaps in the conversations, all in Spanish, within the cockpit.

As late as 11:51 a.m. and 30 seconds all appeared well aboard the jetliner, according to the transcript, that Flight 498 was in trouble. which was released in English with versations provided by the NTSB. "Thank you," Capt. Arturo Valdes Prom, 46, remarked, but the context could not be established because of the poor quality of the recording.

translations of internal cockpit con-

A few seconds later, the Los Angeles air traffic controller directing Flight 498 told the aircraft to maintain its present speed.

"All right, we'll maintain one nine zero (190 knots)," Valdes responded in English at 11:52 a.m.

Ten seconds later, the transcript showed the first and only indication

"Oh (expletive deleted), this can't be," the captain said. It was the last entry on the transcript and interpreted by investigators as the point where the Piper A-28 apparently slammed into the tail section of the ietliner.

The collision tore loose the critical part of the tail that gives the jet its balance and stability while airborne.

Photographs have shown the DC-9 turning upside down and plummeting nose first toward the

SB500 — a fair way to determine state aid to community colleges Ivan Sand Supports Job Creation & Economic Growth. In 1986 & 1985 Representative Sand Voted Yes For: SB754 - income tax credits for research & development SB755 — creation of the Kansas Technology Enterprise Corporation

HB2836 — local option income tax for education

exceptional children

SB757 — Kansas Venture Capital System HB2901 — expansion of county enterprise zones HB3121 - business & job development tax incentives

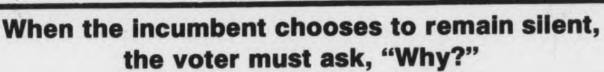

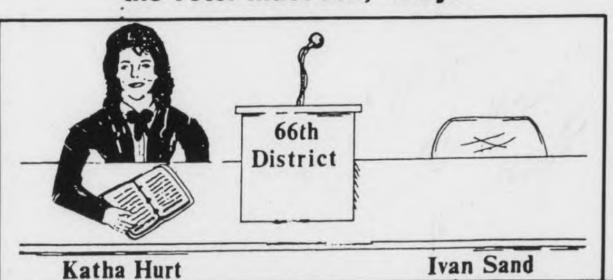

Ivan Sand Supports Fiscal Responsibility & Prudent Use of Your Tax Dollars.

In 1985 Representative Sand Voted No On: Over $65 Million in additional appropriation requests CAN WE AFFORD KATHA HURT? TO WHOM WOULD KATHA HURT SAY NO? RE-ELECT REPRESENTATIVE SAND WHO VOTES TO SUPPORT NEEDED PROGRAMS IN A FISCALLY

RESPONSIBLE WAY. RE-ELECT IVAN SAND — REPRESENTATIVE — 66TH DISTRICT.

SAND HURT discussed plans for a did not appear University professors KSU advisory comforum mittee refused to appear discussed her posi-Channel 6 Roundtable tions on agriculture, education, older Kansans, and economic development refused to debate Debate in Manhattan issued the challenge issued the challenge refused to debate Debate in Riley/Leonardville Optimist breakfast declined the invitation accepted the invitation Door-to-door campaign has walked in 18 prechose not to go door-> over 4,000 homes ELECT KATHA HURT ON NOVEMBER 4 IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE IN THE 66th DISTRICT

cincts and visited to-door

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign, Phil Becker, Treasurer.

featuring such brand names as BANDOLINO-EVAN PICONE-NATURALIZER ANDREW GELLER-SHELBY-JOYCE-AMALFI and many more!

Quality Ladies' Shoes at Reduced Prices

· Gift certificate for dinner for two at the University Club

GRAND PRIZE: Ladies' Watch

off any item in store with this ad!

Visa & Mastercard Welcome

Jon Wefald

Embracing K-State's Future

President Jon Wefald gives his wife Ruth Ann a kiss as Regent Frank Becker applauds after she delivered a short speech at the inaugural luncheon. Ruth Ann Wefald emphasized the spirit of family they try to bring to the communi-

After the inauguration ceremony, Wefald gets a congratulatory hug from his secretary, Lynne Lundberg, in the dressing room in McCain Auditorium.

Presidential ceremonies for Jon Wefald proceed- dent Body President Steven Johnson, ed Thursday, almost exactly one junior in agricultural economics. year after he received a letter inviting him to apply for the job.

when weraid, 48, then chancellor of a seven-school state university system in Minnesota, hadn't responded by the December deadline, Jerome Frieman, former chairman of the Presidential Search Committee, contacted him by phone.

"The more I talked, the more interested he got," Frieman said, and Wefald's resume was in the mail the next day.

Frieman said he began Wefald's interview in the committee's standard way - asking him to explain why he would make a good University president - "and Jon took off. Two hours later, we were convinced."

The inauguration ceremony Thursday officially installed Wefald as the 12th president in the University's 125-year history.

"Today is the ceremony. The real work began in July. The groundwork inauguration was set long before today," said Stu-

At the close of his fourth month as president, Wefald said the greatest challenge the University faces continue to do a good job academically in an era of scarce resources."

At the inauguration ceremony, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, said the challenge Wefald faces is "perhaps greater than any Kansas (university) president in this century."

To meet this challenge, Wefald has reiterated two goals for the University since his first day in office July 1: securing competitive faculty salaries and stabilizing enrollment.

Wefald has instigated a fund drive with the KSU Foundation to increase faculty salaries which are "12 to 15 percent below" salaries at peer institutions, he said at a press conference Thursday.

In an effort to enhance recruitment of "the best and brightest" of Kansas high school students, Wefald hired eight new admissions counselors to Wefald is the 12th president installed at K-State and succeeds Duane Acker. Wefald, chosen as president of K-State by the Board of Regents March 24, was the chancellor of the seven-university state system in Minnesota prior to his appointment.

travel to high schools in all of the 105 counties in the state.

Stabilizing enrollment is "very important because resources from the state tend to follow enrollment," Wefald said at the press conference.

Other inauguration day activities included a noon luncheon for visiting representatives of other educational institutions and a reception in Farrell Library following the ceremony.

Speakers at the banquet included friends of the Wefalds from Minnesota who arrived in Manhattan Wednesday night in three small

Among the family members attending Wefald's inauguration ceremony were his brothers, Knut and Bob, and his sister, Ann.

Jon's younger brother, Bob Wefald, a lawyer in private practice in Bismarck, N.D., described his brother as "neat almost to the point of being fussy" and "always very optimistic. He doesn't dwell on hurts and defeats.'

sity president from an unlikely past. Bob said in high school Jon was "by far" the poorest student among his In high school, Jon worked in

Jon came to the position of Univer-

Minot, N.D., at KCJB radio as an assistant to the sports announcer, Bob said. He typed out results of away games and the announcer reenacted the details.

"At that point in his life, he wanted to be a sports announcer. He always has loved sports. One of the things you're going to find at K-State is he's going to be a major sports booster," Bob said. "I guarantee he's not going to rest until (K-State) has a winning

"He remembers things about sports that the people who participate have forgotten.'

A high school English teacher in Minot, N.D., advised Jon not to waste his father's money by going to college and head straight for the military, Bob said.

He was "younger, smaller and less mature than his classmates, and it took him a long time to catch up," Bob said.

Wefald disregarded his teacher's advice and enrolled at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Wash., where he became interested in history toward the end of his second semester, Bob said.

After earning a bachelor's degree in history and political science,

Jon and Ruth Ann Wefald greet guests at a reception at Farrell Library following the inauguration ceremony. Delegates from more than 50 universities attended the ceremony investing Wefald as president.

Wefald continued his studies at Washington State University, Pullman, were he earned a master's degree in history and political science. He did his doctoral work in history at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Wefald chose Farrell 315 as the site of the reception to provide "an academic atmosphere," said Robert Kruh, dean of the graduate school and chairman of the inauguration committee.

Wefald also made the decisions to include a representative of classified employees in the inauguration ceremony and have students lead the procession, Kruh said.

Wefald in a press conference said K-State would probably not experience another presidential inauguration for another 15 to 20 years.

"We're really happy to be here. I think we'll be here a long time," he

The K-State Concert Choir performs "Let There Be Light," a piece written for the ceremony, prior to the presentation of the Presidential Medallion.

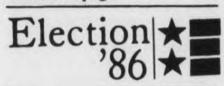

Story by Erin Eicher Photographs by Andy Nelson

Kansas Board of Regents Chairman Frank Becker invests Wefald with the Presidential Medallion officially making him the president of the University.

O'Neill, Reagan exchange criticism as campaign concludes

By The Associated Press

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., making his own last hurrah before retiring, on Thursday counterpunched President Reagan's attacks on him, saying "the truth is a frequent casualty in the heat of an election campaign."

Reagan, meanwhile, headed west through Colorado and Nevada as part of his week-long drive to boost Republicans in tight Senate races.

In Alabama, the chaotic three-way race for governor calmed a bit with Attorney General Charlie Graddick's decision to give up his faltering write-in campaign, leaving the field to fellow Democrat Bill Baxley and Republican Guy Hunt.

O'Neill, D-Mass., used an appearance before the Wisconsin Board of Education in Milwaukee to respond to Reagan's campaign pitch of recent weeks against congressional Democrats, O'Neill in par-

"I must say that I get a kick out of the president campaigning across the country one day attacking Democrats - warning against electing a 'hostile Congress,' and then returning to Washington to sign the bipartisan drug bill, the bipartisan tax bill and the bipartisan immigration bill," O'Neill said.

"He made up quotes from me alleging that I wanted to raise taxes. "Well, that is about as accurate as the president's assertion that trees are the leading polluter in America," O'Neill said. He referred to 1980 campaign remarks in which Reagan suggested that trees and other vegetation were serious sources of air pollu-

"For the last two years I said there would be no new taxes unless the president asked for them. He did not ask, so we did not act," O'Neill said.

"But as we all know, the truth is a frequent casualty in the heat of an election campaign," the speaker ad-

Reagan, though, was still warning voters that Democrats are itching to raise taxes

In Colorado Springs, Colo., Reagan said the choice in the Senate race there is between a supporter of a strong defense or "a man who would vote to weaken America and raise your taxes."

Republican Rep. Ken Kramer is in dead heat with Democratic Rep. Tim Wirth to succeed Sen. Gary Hart, who is retiring to concentrate on gaining the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination.

Reagan repeated his resolve to pursue the Strategic Defense Initiative to produce a shield against attack by nuclear missiles. The issue has become a jobs issue in Colorado, with companies in the state vying for contracts to help develop the massive military program.

Tailoring his message to Colorado, Reagan said the program "could open whole new fields of technology and industry, providing jobs for thousands right here in Colorado and improving the quality of life in America and around the world." Later in the day, Reagan stopped in Reno, Nev., on behalf of former Rep. Jim Santini, who has been lagging in his effort to overcome Democratic Rep. Harry Reid and claim the Senate seat being given up by retiring Republican Paul Laxalt.

There, he touted news that the nation's trade deficit had declined for the third month in a row. Using the vernacular of a state known for its casinos, the president said, "I believe the economy is on a roll and I think it is a sure bet we're about to hit another jackpot. We pulled the handle and it came up jobs, jobs,

Colorado and Nevada have been key targets for each party in the fight for control of the Senate where Republicans have fragile a 53-47 ma-

With campaigning around the nation in its final days, Democratic Party officials were pressing their Republican counterparts on a GOP ballot security program.

Student, faculty join efforts to participate in annual Ag follies

By The Collegian Staff

Teams formed by students and faculty in the College of Agriculture will participate in the second annual Ag Fall Follies at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Brandeberry Indoor Complex.

"Ag Council sponsors this for students and faculty to get together informally and have a good time competing with each other," said Roger McClellan, vice president of Ag Council and junior in agricultural economics.

Ag Fall Follies has attracted entries from 24 teams. Each team is composed of eight to 10 people and must have one faculty member, McClellan said.

"We're excited that there are more teams entered this year," said Beth Hinshaw, co-chairman of Follies and junior in agricultural economics.

The competitive events begin with a double-elimination volleyball tournament, which will break around 5 p.m. for teams to participate in the wheelbarrow race, balloon toss, tug-of-war and

"We're also having the advisers compete in a pie-eating contest,"

Hinshaw said. The events will conclude with the finals of the volleyball tournament and presentation of the traveling trophy to the winning team, she said.

"Council is hosting a sack lunch supper to conclude the Follies," Hinshaw said.

No admission will be charged to watch the Ag Fall Follies, Hinshaw said, although meals cost $1.25 for team members and $1.75 for non-members. Tickets can be purchased in the lobbies of Waters and Call halls.

Officials plan Soviet-Mexican summit

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is planning to visit Latin America, apparently in an attempt to penetrate peacefully an area where the United States has long been the dominant influence, administration officials say.

The Soviet Communist Party General Secretary plans to visit Cuba, Moscow's closest ally in the hemisphere, and also is expected to become the first Soviet leader ever to travel to Mexico, Argentina and Brazil, the officials said. The trip, tentatively set for next spring, may include other South American countries as well.

U.S. relations with Mexico 'strained'

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze visited Mexico City three weeks ago and laid the groundwork for the Soviet-Mexican summit, according to the officials, who insisted on anonymity.

Some officials described the prospective visit to Mexico as a normal development in relations between the two countries. They said Mexico has long been interested in expanding its diplomatic horizons and that three previous Mexican presidents have visited Moscow.

The officials added that Shevardnadze and his Mexican hosts seemed intent on not saying anything that could be construed as hostile to the United States.

Other officials, however, said they were concerned that the Shevardnadze talks and the prospective visit by Gorbachev raises the possibility of an expanded "Soviet foothold" in this hemisphere.

A long-term Soviet goal in Mexico is the opening of consular offices in northern Mexico, which would enable the Soviets to widen their intelligence-gathering capabilities in the southern United States, the officials said. The uneasiness of some officials over the planned Mexican visit by Gorbachev has been heightened by the recent strains in U.S.-Mexican relations. The officials said a crisis of confidence exists which disrupts cooperation on combating drug smuggling and other issues.

Shortly after Shevardnadze's visit to Mexico, Argentine President Raul Alfonsin became the first leader of that country to visit the Soviet Union.

Aside from political issues, they discussed Argentina's $1.6 billion trade surplus with the Soviet Union, which is the principal buyer of Argentine grains.

Telephone businesses concern state officials

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The Kansas Corporation Commission Thursday warned long distance telephone customers to be wary of service reseller companies that use multi-level marketing techniques and announced a new multi-level telephone plan has surfaced in the Wichita area.

Patti Van Slyke, a spokeswoman for the KCC, said the term "reseller" covers companies that sell long distance services they lease from another company. She said a number of such companies, selling "unrestricted" or "unlimited" long distance service for a flat monthly fee have surfaced in Kansas during the last few months.

The multi-level company that most recently came to the KCC's attention is Z-Tele, offered by Ideal Products of Everett, Wash., Van Slyke said. Z-Tele offers a service option for which the company promises unlimited long distance calling for a flat rate of $100 per month, she said. Under multi-level marketing plans, people are supposed to profit from selling a good or service to other people, who in turn sell to another layer of customers, producing level after level of sellers. Generally, people on the lowest levels of such a plan make little money or actually lose investments.

The company, which has not yet to apply for certification as required by the KCC, acknowledges in its advertising that subscribers to that service option may have to dial more than once to complete a call because a

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

> > Mae's Parlor

HALLOWEEN

SPOOKTACULAR

SPECIALS

$1.50 VODKA DRINKS

75¢ DRAWS

$1.50 GLASSES OF

DEVIL'S BLOOD

FREE HORS D'OEUVRES

AGGIEVILLE

616 N. 12th

539-9967

number of customers are assigned the same line, Van Slyke said.

Another option the company offers, would provide 250 minutes of long distance service per month with the assurance that the customer will have guaranteed access to place calls, she said.

The inability to complete calls, a common problem among customers of long distance resellers, is a primary concern to the KCC, said Van Slyke, who added that customers should thoroughly study their current bills even before subscribing to a service option that guarantees access. One Z-Tele distributor in the Wichita area has agreed to stop selling the service until after the company is certified by the KCC but Van Slyke said it is not known how many other Z-Tele distributors may be operating in the state.

In order to be certified by the KCC, a company must prove that it is financially sound and technologically capable of providing the service it sells, Van Slyke said.

The Commerce Department said merchandise trade deficit registered

WASHINGTON - The nation's a slight improvement in September, shrinking to $12.6 billion from $13.3 billion in the previous month, the government reported Thursday.

By The Associated Press

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the report was evidence "that we have turned the corner on the trade deficit."

Private analysts agreed that the improvement - due largely to lower imports of manufactured goods, including automobiles from Japan was welcome news. But some cautioned that it was not necessarily a Trade deficit decreases for third month in row sign of the long-awaited turnaround in trade accounts.

> imports fell by 2.7 percent to $30.1 billion in September, while exports dipped by 0.5 percent to $17.5 billion. It was the third month in a row the trade deficit has decreased. In a separate but related report, the Labor Department said prices of goods imported into the United States rose 0.7 percent from June to September, following declines in the previous two quarters. In all, the report said, prices of non-petroleum imports have advanced 10.2 percent since September 1985, a period during which the value of the U.S. dollar against other major currencies has declined by more than 30 percent. Economists claim a weaker dollar will eventually help ease this nation's trade balance by making imported goods more expensive at home and U.S. goods less costly

In yet another economic report, the Commerce Department said sales of new homes rose 10.6 percent in September to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 690,000 units. The increase was the first improvement in sales since March, when they had soared 24.7 percent on the strength of big declines in mortgage

For the first nine months of 1986, the United States amassed a trade deficit of $127.8 billion, compared with a $106.6 billion shortfall for the same period in 1985.

Americans have been importing more than they have been exporting since 1981, with last year's record deficit of $148.5 billion expected to be easily outstripped this year. Baldrige said he is projecting a 1986 deficit of around $172 billion, but he said that figure should drop by $30 to $40 billion in 1987.

As usual, the largest single deficit was with Japan, $4.1 billion in U. S. offers addition to Honduran air defenses

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The United States has offered Honduras a more advanced jet fighter to upgrade its aging air defenses, a U.S. official said Thursday night.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said, however, depends on financing, availability of the fighter planes and training of Honduran pilots.

Honduras now relies upon 12 French Super Mystere B-2 fighter planes from the 1950s era.

But there is an increasing possibility of a military confrontation bet-

Nicaragua because of the infusion of $100 million in U.S. aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, and both American and Honduran leaders feel there is a need to improve Honduras' > air defenses, the official said. Honduras cannot match the Nicaraguan Sandinista forces on the that completion of such a deal ween Honduras and neighboring ground, the official said. The Hondurans have a 17,500-man army, while the Nicaraguans have 70,000 regular troops and 60,000 reserves. Therefore, the quickest way to beef up Honduras' defenses is to build up

> The official stressed that Honduras had made no choice yet.

its air force.

★No purchase limit ★

1126 Laramie

★Now selling★ $2 SESSIONS

★Now using Wolff bulbs★

776-2426

CAMPUS HEART OF AGGIEVILLE

12:00 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT FRI. & SAT. OCT. 31, NOV. 1 ALL SEATS $2.50

"Hitcher"

would like to congratulate the newly initiated K \(\sum \) Stardusters!

Melissa Andrasik Laura Christie Kamin Covell Melissa Dessent Audra Dietz Jill Dauner Julie Hanna Mary Hart Leslie Krehbiel Darci Latham Angie Marks

Michele Martin

Andrea Abernathy

Kim Adams

Stephanie Morrill CeCe Noland Trace Orora Lori Pappan Diane Ronnebaum Susan Sandercox Kelly Shaffer Kristine Shaffer Mary Schmidt Stephanie Smith Maxine Weir Janeen Wible

Pam Withers

The Men of Kappa Sigma Jan Miller

Parent's Day Sweatshirts

taking orders outside Union

TODAY

$15 for 1 $25 for 2

Pick up shirts Nov. 6-7 in Union

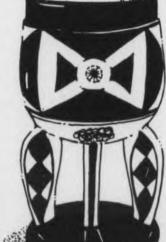

Sponsored by Tau Beta Sigma - Kappa Kappa Psi

FREE NAMIBIA SUNDAY "A WORSHIP OF PRAYERS AND SOLIDARITY"

11 a.m. SUNDAY, NOV. 2 DANFORTH CHAPEL

SERMON DIALOGUE: LYNO MARTIN, KSU NAMIBIAN STUDENT A FAMILY CUP: COMMUNION AND GLOBAL COMMUNITY

A CUP OF SUFFERING The family of Namibia, its people and its church, all are drinking deeply from the

of suffering these days twenty years after the UN declaration of Namibian freedom and self government. Oppression by South African military continues with torture, killings, bombings and captures.

A CUP OF REJOICING Let us share in solidarity the suffering of our family of Namibia by praying for the people and the churches, learning about their struggle, pressing the U.S. government to insist on immediate free elections in Namibian and working for the day of Namibian independence when we join in drinking from the cup of rejoicing.

Free Namibia Sunday is designated for November 2, 1986 because it has been twenty years since th UN revoked South African mandate in Namibia (Oct. 27, 1966) making its occupation of Namibia illegal.

Sponsered by Lutheran Campus Ministry, 1021 Denison, 539-4451

Allhallows Eve: a centuries-old celebration

By STEVEN ZADINA Collegian Reporter

Allhallows Eve is one of the more bizarre holidays observed in the United States. But it certainly isn't modern or American in nature, for Allhallows Eve - or Halloween as it's better known - is one of the oldest holidays on earth.

Some aspects of Halloween began with the druids in the second century B.C. The Celtic order of druids used this day to honor the sun god and the lord of the dead. Also, their year ended on Oct. 31.

The Celts believed that on Oct. 31, the lord of the dead assembled the souls of those who died that year and allowed them to visit the homes of their relatives to seek warmth for the coming winter.

The black cat came into play in the fifth century A.D. when, in medieval Europe, black cats were burned on Oct. 31 because they were believed to be witches in disguise.

The process of making Allhallows

Eve a Christian observance took hundreds of years. In the eighth century, Pope Gregory III declared Nov. 1 All Saints Day, a day to honor the saints of the church. It took another 100 years, however, for Pope Gregory IV to place All Saints Day on the calendar.

Halloween parties became popular ple gathered on Halloween because they were afraid of the evil spirits that appeared on that night. While everyone tried to keep from falling asleep, they told ghost stories, bobbed for apples and played other games.

Halloween was also known as the time when spirits were closest to the mortal beings. It was also believed spirits could predict the future, and various methods of using the spirits were employed that night.

People cast stones into the air to see if when they fell to the ground, they would spell their future mate's name. Welsh peasants peeked through the keyhole of the church to meone who would soon die. And others invoked the spirits to see who would become wealthy or marry during that year.

Halloween pranks were common in the British Isles on Oct. 31. Roaming groups of merrymakers dressed in masks and clothing of the opposite sex visited neighbors and stole gates, blocked house doors and covered chimneys with turf to keep the smoke inside. The tricks were blamed, of course, on "spirits."

The jack-o'-lantern is primarily an Irish tradition. In Ireland, rutabagas, turnips and potatoes were hollowed out, carved into faces and lit with candles to be used as

By the 1800s, Halloween had become a national observance in the United States, complete with games, parties and trick-or-treating.

There are several theories on the origins of trick-or-treating. One theory posits it stems from 'souling," an English tradition of going around on All Saints Day to beg for soul cakes (square buns with currants) in rememberance of the dead. Those begging promised extra prayers for the dead relatives of the

Another theory says tirck-ortreating resembles an ancient Irish Halloween practice. Groups of peasants went from house to house asking for money to buy food for the feast, which consisted of fatted calves and black sheep. Prosperity was assured to those who gave generously and threats were waged upon those who were stingy.

Halloween has become what sociologists call a "degenerate" holiday. The rituals and history have been forgotten in America, and a once-celebrated holiday has become a day for children to beg for candy and compete with each other to see who gets the most.

In short, these sociologists argue it is a perfect day for innocent children to hone their much-revered

Parents host 'spook' house for children

As part of its Halloween celebration, the families of Jardine Terrace will be having the second annual

From 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., the residents of Jardine and their children will be trick-or-treating. Afterwards, from 7:30 to 9 p.m., they can attend the spook house at the storm shelter between buildings R

Karen Scott, executive mayor of Jardine Terrace, said the spook house is a gathering of the children of Jardine residents, where the children will have a chance to win prizes by bobbing for apples. In addition, other games will be played and food will be served at the spook

McGruff, the "spokesdog" who is used to promote the neighborhood who were to pass out these tips to the residents of their buildings this Jardine Oct. 30. Residents decorated apartments, and prizes will be awarded for the three most creative Manhattan community.

By The Collegian Staff

Anyone who says only children enjoy Halloween obviously hasn't talked to residents of Jardine Terrace.

"spook" house tonight.

and U.

Attending the event will be watch program. McGruff will issue safety tips appropriate for the holiday to Jardine residents. Also, a list of safety tips was sent out to the five mayors of Jardine, week, Scott said. A decorating contest took place at apartments. As part of its Halloween celebration, the families of Jardine Terrace will be having the second annual

"spook" house today. First prize is a turkey, second is a ham and third is two certificates worth $10 at Bonanza. The winners will be announced today.

Scott said the residents have been working on these activities for about a month. Besides serving as Halloween entertainment, Scott said Jardine's haunted house will increase the living group's rapport with the

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Scary couple

A group of people is frightened after being surprised by Mr. and Mrs. Dracula after the couple jumped out of a coffin Thursday night at the Manhattan Jaycee Club's haunted house at Pottorf Hall in CiCo Park. Halloween traditions such as dressing up in costumes and scaring people have been around for centuries.

Attitudes, activities change to reflect fall season

By GREG BALES Collegian Reporter

As October comes to a close and autumn gets into full swing, students and faculty often find themselves doing things that are typically characteristic of the Halloween

Evening walks through the rustling leaves are popular during sweater weather, as is the occasional game of touch football.

Sudden bursts of energy seeking outlets are very common prior to winter weather. But physical behavior changes aren't the only noticeable differences. There seem to be attitudinal changes as well those that reflect a more mysterious interest in our environment.

Topics of conversation begin to change and slant toward the more macabre. Whether the subjects are light-hearted, ghost and goblin type stories, or the more bizarre tales of haunted houses and unsolved murders, a notable increase of horror topics is evident.

Sales of horror and occult books rise predictably for the month of October, and video cassette rentals of the "splatter genre" are also up during this time.

Often we find ourselves in the wee hours of the night discussing some strange goings-on with a true friend in the strictest confidence, of course. There is a type of security felt when sharing tales not so frequently told. Nina Hajda, instructor of English, said she had her first psychic experience at the age of 3. She is an authority on supernatural entities. "What the average person defines as a ghost is usually a spirit that has refused to leave the earth-plane," she said. "A spirit is a living entity either in or out of the body.' Reasons for spirits remaining on the earth-plane may be varied, Hajda said.

"Spirits remaining may be due to confusion, shock, premature or un-- such as young timely death soldiers or victims of precipitated violences," she said. "Also, some (spirits) are reluctant to leave loved ones on earth."

There are some spirits whose function is to be malevolent, and who thrive on harming humans, Hajda

"Just because a person dies doesn't mean (his personality) is changed by being out of the body," she said. "People take their hates and personality quirks with them." Hajda said Kansas seems to be a place which has a great deal of psychic activity. Several residents in the area who have never shown any signs or special talents suddenly find themselves in "weird situations,"

Hajda has a book under consideration for publication. "The Haunting of Fort Riley" is a fiction piece set in the Manhattan and Fort Riley area. Some accounts in the book are based on real incidents. Hajda said she knows of a house on 14th Street which is inhabited by spirits, but she refused to be more specific.

Hall offers trick-or-treat alternative

By The Collegian Staff

Halloween is a time for children, and some local adults are watching out for their safety.

As an alternative to trick-ortreating, Ford Hall is sponsoring a haunted house for 50 children from the Head Start Program tonight from 6 to 8 p.m.

"Each floor will have one designated room to decorate any way they want for the children,' said Kris Claassen, Ford Hall president.

'Each floor will have one designated room to decorate any way they want.' - Kris Claassen

The Head Start Program is for low-income families. The children are of preschool age, and the program focuses on school-related

This Halloween, the Manhattan Police Department is not anticipating anything out of the ordinary. Only the usual pranks are

"It is usually just loud," said Officer Buddy Mays. There is always a lot of partying in Aggieville, he said, but the department will not put extra cars on

For those who are participating in Halloween, the police have a few safety tips: Turn on a yard or porch light. Give items in their original containers to children. Give a toy or coin instead of something edible.

Greek organizations host haunted houses, give profits to group

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

For those students eager to be frightened this Halloween, a number of greek organizations are sponsoring haunted houses which will be open tonight. Several eerie establishments will open their doors to more daring of trick-or-treaters. One is sponsored by the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, 2021 College Heights Road. The fraternity's pledges create a haunted house annually.

Brian Wolfe, freshman in civil engineering and the pledge in charge of the haunted house, said each year the pledge class spends a week before Halloween getting the materials and the rooms ready for building. They gradually build partitions and props, then open their house to the public on Halloween from 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Each year, the house has its own unique touches because of the different set of people who work on it. Although it is a haunted house, it is not terribly frightening because a lot of neighborhood kids go through the house, he said.

This event also attracts a few college-age students, who venture through the house. Cathy Tomandl, junior in social work, went through the house two years ago when she became a little sister for the house.

"It was really unique, and it seems like they went through a lot of work," Tomandl said. All the money collected is donated to Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Manhattan. A trip through the haunted house costs $1.

Several other organizations are getting into the Halloween and community spirit. The Alpha Xi Delta sorority, 601 Fairchild Terrace, puts on a Halloween party each year for local children. They play games, bob for apples and then go to neighboring homes to trick-or-treat. The event is open to anyone and is advertised in local papers.

'We're not trying to scare them out of their gourd. It's just to get the kids in the Halloween spirit.'

- Garth Gardiner

FarmHouse fraternity, 1830 College Heights Rd., and Delta Delta Delta sorority, 1834 Laramie St., are also sponsoring a Halloween party. Twenty-four children from Big Brothers and Big Sisters will visit FarmHouse for a night of fun and games, as well as trick-or-treating from room to room.

FarmHouse is also setting up a haunted house for children to visit. Garth Gardiner, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, is in charge of the haunted house.

"We're not trying to scare them out of their gourd," Gardiner said "It's just to get the kids in the Halloween spirit.'

leaving Soviet consumers wanting more, Courtney said.

The caloric intake of the average Soviet citizen is about the same as that of an American, but other consumer burdens, such as two-hour waits in line for necessities add to the generally poor condition of Soviet consumer welfare, he said.

Also, the life expectancy for Soviets has dropped from 66 years to 62 years, which is the only drop for major industrialized nations in the world, Courtney said.

Contacts with the outside world are making "the Soviet people look at Soviet society with a more critical eye," he said. "Soviet citizens are becoming more educated."

These difficulties in the economy have led to "more demanding, less believing (and) less pliable" consumers in the Soviet Union, Courtney

Even with some grumbling on the part of Soviet citizens, there is no reason to believe the Soviet Union is on the verge of collapse, he said. There are several stabilizing forces that are keeping such a collapse from happening.

Among those forces are powerful tools of control and indoctrination that start in schools and are reinforced daily through propaganda. Peace and public order, things the citizens want, are provided by the Soviet government, and habits and attitudes are deeply rooted in Soviet society, Courtney said.

Some of those habits and attitudes include Soviet citizens traditionally not having many personal freedoms, or such things as free elections. Patriotic impulses that take pride in the Soviet Union being a major factor in world order also act as a stabilizing factor, he said.

"Gorbachev sees the domestic (situation) in more alarming terms," Courtney said of the Soviet leader's actions taken to reverse his country's problems. He has implemented both harsh and liberal policies.

Tightened labor discipline, to stem decreases in worker productivity, harsher measures against dissenters and limiting contacts with the West have been seen as some of the more severe, typical policies Gorbachev has enacted, he said.

Along more liberal lines, the Soviet leader has been more responsive to public opinion in his country and has promised efforts to improve the lot of the Soviet consumer, Courtney said.

The emphasis on discipline may backfire, by pushing Soviet workers, and citizens in general, deeper into dissent, he said.

Courtney said any measures the Soviets try, to turn their economy around, will only meet with marginal success, unless several other problems in Soviet society are remedied, such as lessening the domestic siege mentality."

The Soviets need to develop a more flexible domestic policy to alleviate domestic problems, he said.

"One cannot predict foreign policy strictly (by observing) domestic policy," Courtney said, but Gorbachev may be moving toward "a more flexible foreign policy.'

Even though no arms agreement was made at the Iceland summit, one important thing coming out of it was the "Soviet Union (is now) basically on the record to cut strategic arms by 50 percent," he said.

During the arms talks, the Soviets dropped their demand, for the first time, that British and French missiles be included in any European missile agreement with the United States, Courtney said.

French officials deny terrorist agreement

By The Associated Press

PARIS - The French government Thursday branded as fiction reports it struck a truce with Middle Eastern bombers who terrorized Paris, and it denied that France planned to exchange arms for Syrian help in the antiterrorist fight.

Denis Baudouin, spokesman for Premier Jacques Chirac, acknowledged that Syria has been cooperating with France in an effort to put an end to the terror campaign, which killed 10 people and hurt 162 in the French capital last month.

Baudouin stressed, however, that there has been "no contact, no negotiations with the terrorists.

A group calling itself the Committee of Solidarity with Arab and Middle East Political Prisoners claimed responsibility for the five bombings between Sept. 8-17. It demanded the release of Georges Ibrahim Abdallah and two other Middle Eastern men imprisoned in terrorism cases.

The newspaper Le Monde reported Wednesday that Syria helped obtain a truce in the bombings and that the brothers of Abdallah, presumed leader of the Lebanese Armed Revolutionary Factions, agreed to suspend their attacks until February 1987, after being threatened by Syrian security services.

Abdallah is serving a four-year term for possessing arms and false papers. He is expected to go on trial in February for complicity in the 1982 murders of an American military attache and an Israeli diplomat in Paris.

Asked about the Le Monde report, Baudouin said: "That's fiction and it has never been a question of (making) a truce that would have been paid for in one way or another, either by freeing Abdallah...or, secondly, in the financial sphere and in the sphere of armaments. We categorically deny it." Syria's vice president, Abdel Halim Khaddam, confirmed on French television Wednesday night that Syrian secret services have been cooperating with the French to prevent further bombings in Paris. He did not say how.

Police have said Abdallah's four brothers and five other people, all living in a Syriancontrolled area of northern Lebanon, are the prime suspects in the bombings.

Le Monde said that the Syrian secret services "threatened reprisals if the attacks resumed," and that the French government sent a message to the Abdallahs via Syria and Algeria saying that while the bombings were making it impossible to release Abdallah, the trial "could turn to his advantage."

French newspaper reports have suggested that the prosecution does not have a strong case against Abdallah and that the government is proceeding with the trial only because of American pressure.

A statement signed by the Committee of Solidarity with Arab and Middle East Political Prisoners said Thursday it will not abide by the alleged truce, saying, "The Abdallahs do not represent the committee...Any contact or agreement with them is not binding on the committee."

The typewritten document was dropped in the mailbox of a Western news agency office in Moslem West Beirut.

Several French officials recently visited Damascus, including Michel Aurillac, minister for cooperation, and ranking members of the French counterespionage agency. Aurillac's ministry deals with economic and military aid.

Jim Ward, assistant professor in sociology, anthropology and social work, and William E. Courtney, consul general designee to Kiev, discuss the subject of Courtney's speech before he delivers it Thursday in Kedzie 106.

Senate

Continued from Page 1

The sponsors said they believe a student referendum would be more appropriate than a senate vote on the representation question.

"I feel students are uniquely alified to make this decision on how they should be represented," said Martin Monto, senior in sociology.

If the legislation passes, the referendum will be held during student government elections in February. If the referendum is approved by the student body, it would be enacted the following year.

Students would be allowed to vote for senators in both their college and Candidates would run for either office hour would be posted.

their college or living district. Living districts would be divided into greek, University and off-campus housing.

Senate also considered a bill requiring senators to serve one hour each week in the SGS office, to increase communication between senators and the student body.

If passed, senators would be available to answer questions by phone and in person. Each senator's

BATUA

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

-- FREE SAMPLES--

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

in evening Denison & Claflin FirstBank Center

Now On Sale At Participating Retail Stores!! BUD LIGHT © 1986 Anheuser-Busch, Inc.,

Brewers of Bud Light* Beer, St. Louis, MO USA

12:00-1:00 p.m. "MIND OVER MATTER" Bruce Lyons KSU UNION ROOM 212

This program will explore the relationship between our thoughts, our emotions, and our physical being. Come and see how "Mind Over Matter" really works. 1:30-2:20 p.m. "DENTAL HEALTH CARE IN THE '80s" Michael Wangsgaard, D.D.S. KSU UNION ROOM 212

Preventive dental care is a vital segment of total health care. Come and discuss today's recommended dental health

2:30-3:20 p.m. "KSU'S NEW EAP-EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAM—FACTS & FABLES"

Joe Younger KSU UNION ROOM 212 The University is offering its new EAP in the belief that the best approach to their workers' effectiveness is by offering programs which contribute to their wellbeing. This presentation will discuss just how the EAP works for you-the employee.

3:30-4:20 p.m. "INSOMNIA AND SLEEP NEEDS" David Danskin, Ph.D. KSU UNION ROOM 212

Learn do-it-yourself strategies that will aid you in overcoming

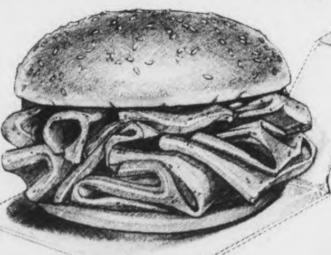

"Your choice: Quarter Pound Cheeseburger or reg. Roast Beef, only

"We make our sandwiches with that good, old-fashioned taste, and now you can get them for a good, old-fashioned price."

Offer expires November 13, 1986.

Offer good at participating Hardee's* Restaurants.

Hardees

Chinese officials plan stop at Manhattan ag facilities

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - An eight-member trade delegation from the People's Republic of China has scheduled a three-day visit to Kansas next week, making stops in Manhattan, Parsons, Iola and Overland Park, Gov. John Carlin announced Thursday.

Carlin said the Chinese officials are representing Shanxi Province, a mineral producing state in northern China, which the governor visited as part of a 22-day trip to the Far East in May. A group from Shanxi Province also visited Kansas in late

The delegation is scheduled to visit farms, a feedlot and agricultural facilities at Kansas State University's college of agriculture, according to a statement issued by Carlin's press of-

The Chinese also plan to visit businesses in Parsons and Overland Park that sent representatives to Shanxi as part of the governor's tour last spring, the statement said.

After arriving at Kansas City International airport Sunday afternoon, the delegation will visit the Funk dairy farm and a feed store in the Valley Falls area, according to the group's itinerary.

On Monday, the delegation will meet with K-State agriculture officials and tour the university's feedmill before meeting with staff of the International Livestock

The group will tour the universi-ty's seed conditioning unit before meeting Carlin and officials from the Kansas State Board of Agriculture and the Department of Economic Development in Manhattan. The Chinese are scheduled to dine with Carlin at Cedar Crest in Topeka Monday

Hazing incident sparks racial questions

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, S.C. - Like a scene from "The Lords of Discipline," five white Citadel cadets dressed in sheets and towels entered the room of a black cadet, shouted obscenities and left a burned paper cross behind.

While last week's incident sent shock waves through the storied campus, both black and white cadets agree the hazing doesn't reflect the racial atmosphere at the state military college.
"I don't think there are any tensions," said Craig Burgess, a 21-year-old senior from Lake City, S.C., and one of 126 blacks in the college's 1,960- member corps of cadets.

"A lot of the corps is hostile to the press because they think everything is being overdrawn," he said.

The five unidentified white cadets, charged with "conduct discreditable," have been brought before a disciplinary board and could be expelled. College president Maj. Gen. James Grimsley Jr. is expected to announce a punishment Friday.

He has also called for a general study of campus race relations.

The incident occurred in a barracks similar to that in which novelist Pat Conroy spent his years at the school in the 1960s, about the time the first blacks enrolled.

Conroy drew heavily on his experience in "The Lords of Discipline," an unflattering novel about life in a Southern military school which centers around the hazing of a black cadet. It was later made into a movie.

"You can't compare then to now," said Terry Adams, a 19-year-old black junior from Washington, D.C. "The times aren't even comparable. The '60s were a turbulent time as far as civil rights. This is 1986."

Indeed, since Conroy's time, hazing and physical abuse that were once part of life for all first-year cadets at The Citadel have been outlawed.

The Citadel, with its gleaming white barracks studded with turrets and flags, has a rich tradition. In January 1861, its cadets fired on the Star of the West, a steamer sent by the federal government to relieve Fort Sumter in Charleston harbor. A bombardment on the fort three months later began the Civil War. Last week's incident occurred in the room of black cadet Kevin Nesmith, who slept through the incident. His brother, Alonzo, is the first black to serve on the college's governing board, the Board of Visitors.

Grimsley said cadets were aware Nesmith's brother was on the board but did not know if that influenced the incident. Both brothers have declined to talk to the press.

The Afro-American Society, which claims 75 black cadets as members, believes the five whites should be expelled, says group president Kenny

Gordon, 20, of Willingboro, N.J. 'We want people to know we don't agree with it, and if they're calling it a joke, then we don't agree with those types of jokes," Gordon said. But he said the incident is an isolated event and race relations are no different on campus from anywhere else. He said he has seen instances of racial insensitivity on campus but "none that I would go into, none of them major.'

Earlier this year, cadet officers instructed the corps that no racial comments should be made, after two incidents, one in which a white cadet told a racial joke in front of a black, and another in which a cadet likened a black cadet to the hazing victim in "The Lords of Discipline."

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

Learn to SKYDIVE

with the KSU Parachute Club Next class Nov. 7.

This will be the last class of the semester so don't delay.

Call 776-7241 for more information

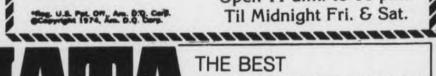

Come to scrumpdillyishusland for all your favorite Dairy Queen treats before and after the game. We're open until midnight.

Dairy Queen Brazier

12th & Moro 1015 N. 3rd

Aggieville Manhattan

Open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Til Midnight Fri. & Sat.

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

WHEN YOU PURCHASE A PITCHER OF SOFT DRINK OR BEER

One coupon per visit

Piñata Restaurante 1219 Bluemont in Aggieville

A FALL

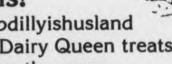

SUNDAY NOV. 2 BRANDEBERRY SPORTS COMPLEX

DON'T MISS AN ACTION-PACKED AFTERNOON OF FUN & EXCITEMENT

> GAMES START AT 1 p.m. Sponsored by the Ag Student Council

Welcome Football Fans!

- 1. How much money was spent nationally on alcohol
- advertising in 1985? 2. According to a recent survey, what percentage of KSU students have tried alcoholic beverages?
- 3. How much was spent on mixed drinks in private clubs in Manhattan last year?
- 4. For every $1 you spend for car insurance, how much goes to pay for damages done by a drunk driver?
- 5. How many cans and bottles of beer can be produced, every 24 hours, by Anheuser-Busch, St. Louis, MO? Answers: (1) 909 Million (2) 97% (3) $2.25 Million (4) 25¢ (5) 15.4 Million

Funded by SRS Alcohol and Drug Abuse Service

TWIST & SHOUT

TO THE SOUNDS OF

The Pride

The KSU Marching Band in Concert

McCain Auditorium Saturday, Nov. 1, 1986

Students

$2 Adults

SUNDAY SUPPER 5:30

(50¢ donation or free if needed) 1021 Denison Ave. (Look for the two red front doors)

JIM SLATTERY

presents "His Faith Journey" 7 p.m. Baptist Student Center

K-State women earn top seed in Big 8's cross country meet

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

John Capriotti finds himself in an enviable position entering Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country championships at Manhattan's Warner Park.

Capriotti, K-State track and cross country mentor, has the Big Eight coach's poll's prerace favorite women's squad entering the meet this weekend trying to bring K-State their first conference championship since 1982 when, coincidently, the women's cross country team took top honors in the Big Eight finals and Capriotti was an assistant coach under former coach Steve Miller.

The women's team had one main goal at the season's onset — to bring back some fresh hardware for the display case - a Big Eight Conference championship trophy.

"I think it is time for people to realize that K-State can win a Big Eight championship," an upbeat Capriotti said.

Capriotti, however slightly, has some qualms about being the prerace favorite in the women's division based on the fact that Nos. 4 and 5 Nebraska and Oklahoma State are nationally ranked ahead of K-State which is currently ranked No. 8.

But, make no bones about it, the first-year coach expects to be standing on the top throng of the winners stand come Saturday afternoon.

"We have one goal and one objective and that is to win the Big Eight," Capriotti said. "They want it; I want it; we all want it. I know we are going to run well. I hope that is going to be good enough."

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think I would be back, especially with these girls," said Capriotti, who recruited the entire women's team when he was here in 1982 before departing for Northwestern. "There is a purpose or reason for me to be here and I think we will find out Saturday."

The women will be fielding a somewhat strange line-up when they take to the starting line Saturday for their 5 kilometer race. For the first time this season Capriotti will have "all the horses at the gate." He has kept many of his top runners out of earlier meets to avoid injuries and fatigue and to have the team peaking late in the season when the most important meets are held.

Chris Vanatta, Alysun Deckert, Angie Barry, Betsy Silzer, Jacque Struckhoff, Anneli Edling and Nancy Hoffman will all run the Warner Park course for K-State. To witness the women's team strength, sophomore Lisa Wakem, last year's 10,000-meter Big Eight track champion, couldn't crack the teams sevenmember entry field.

Will having the meet run in K-State's own backyard give the team the decisive edge needed to brconference championship?

"I don't think it's an advantage to run on your own course," Capriotti said. "We haven't practiced there that much because of all the rain and it's been muddy. The advantage will come solely from staying at home sleeping in your own bed.'

Oklahoma State's multiple All-American Christine McMiken is the overwhelming favorite to tab individual honors. In fact, the Cowboys' Veronica Haberl is also predicted to dual for top honors giving the Cowboys a legitimate chance to take a one-two finish in the women's race making it hard for anyone to contend with them.

"I have a good game plan planned for this meet," Capriotti said. "There are a lot of things I have in mind to win this thing.

"I promise we will leave our best race out there Saturday," Capriotti said. "These kids have too much pride. If we finish any where from second through eighth it will all feel the same. We want to win the Big Eight championship - period." men's team was picked to finish fourth in the meet, but that was before senior All-American hopeful Ron Stahl turned his uniform in to Capriotti late Thursday afternoon and informed the coach he no longer wanted to be a member of the team

"for reasons unbeknownst" to him. "I don't feel sorry for Ron or I ing home the gold and a long-awaited don't feel sorry for Coach Capriotti," Capriotti said late Thursday night. "I just feel sorry for the other members of the team. What is funny is he had his best workout of his life on Monday."

Instead, K-State is now forced to go into Saturday's meet with four freshmen, two sophomores and one senior. David Warders, David Keller, Matt Vavala, Jan Jonsson, Rob Hayes, Pat Hessini and Jim Knudsen will run for the Wildcat

Still, the Wildcats are sticking to their preseason goal of taking one of the top four spots in the field of eight.

"We are going to be young and try-ing to battle nationally ranked teams." Capriotti said of his unranked men's squad. "But, it is no excuse to be young and not perform. There are young runner's all over the country running and doing a great job.

"I think this team has a great future," he said. "We think next year this team is going to be ready to challenge for the Big Eight title. But we aren't giving up on this year. We want to finish in the top four."

NOTES: Jacque Struckhoff, who finished second in last year's Big Eight championship, was named to the Academic All-Big Eight cross country team for 1986. Struckhoff, a senior in pre-physical therapy and nutrition science, sports a sparkling 4.0 GPA...Saturday's race will begin

K-State's Alysun Deckert is one of seven women that will be running Saturday at the Big Eight Cross Country championships at Warner Park. The women's team is ranked eighth nationally and picked to win the championships.

Potential problem results in committee initiating new season ticket regulations

By TOM MORRIS

Assistant Sports Editor Because of a potential problem with the number of basketball season tickets one living group was planning on buying, the basketball ticket sales committee has initiated new regula-

Carol Adolph, ticket manager, announced earlier that about 5,000 student season tickets will go on sale Monday morning at 8.

Originally, there was no limit established on the number of tickets an individual could purchase as long as a fee card was provided for each ticket bought.

Terry Schroeder, co-chairman of the committee, said he didn't have an exact figure, but the number of tickets one organization was planning to buy would be unfair to other students.

"The Greek Affairs Committee brought to Carol's (Adolph) attention that there was a potential problem that one tent may try and buy a great number of tickets for a whole lot of people," Schroder said.

As of Thursday night, representatives from 14 living groups had already begun waiting for tickets to go on sale and had pitched tents by the east side of Ahearn Field House.

As a result of the potential hoarding of tickets, the committee voted to establish a maximum amount of tickets one student can buy and a set amount of tickets that can be purchased by each tent.

"Each tent can buy a total of 200 tickets - 40 tickets per person with no more than five people per tent," Schroeder said.

Schroeder also said the committee will "spot check" the tents this weekend starting at 9 a.m. Saturday. All five representatives from a tent must be present when checked or the missing person(s) will be counted

"If we make a spot check Saturday morning and you have five people there, and then we make a spot check Saturday night and you only have four, you're only going to get four to count and the person can't come back," Schroeder said.

If a living group wants to purchase more than 200 tickets, Schroeder said the organization can be represented by more than one tent.

"If one organization wants to buy 1,000 tickets, more power to 'em,' Schroeder said, "but they have to have four tents with five people in each tent.

"I hope it makes it better because hopefully more people will bring their tents out, and the more people we have and the more tents we have, the more fun it's going to be. But that isn't the leading reason we made the changes," he added.

Some fraternity members camping out by Ahearn agreed with the new guidelines.

"I think it's a good rule because it keeps the balance in the tickets instead of being the frats against the residence halls," said Lyle Hammer, FarmHouse fraternity member. "It's going to give everybody a chance instead of just one group of people," added Robert Heyen, also a FarmHouse member.

They said even with the new rules, there would be no change in the number of tickets they were planning to purchase. Hammer and Heyen also said they are in favor of the "spot check" rule.

'It gives us a chance where we might get up to first place instead of second (in line) in case somebody is not here during the spot check," Heyen said.

Rob Hanson, a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, said the new rules would force his house to change their

"We had a few plans," Hanson said. "We were going to go along with another fraternity and get better seats. But now we can't do that." Jeff Anderson, another Sigma Chi member, said the problem would not be hard to correct. "We're going to have to get a lot more guys to come back and forth, but it's not going to be that hard to keep people up here," he said. Season tickets, good for admission to 12 regular-season home games, cost $30 each.

Series record tells story as Osborne, Nebraska gunning for 18 straight

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

The records pretty much tell the story in the Nebraska - K-State football series.

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne is 13-0 against the Wildcats. The most recent K-State win came in 1968. The Cornhuskers have won 25 out of the last 26 meetings between the teams, including the last 17 in a row.

Saturday's game between K-State and Nebraska isn't shaping up much differently than the last 17. The powerful Cornhuskers are heavily favored, with oddsmakers listing Nebraska a 40-plus point favorite this time around.

While Nebraska suffered a rare Big Eight Conference loss last week at Colorado, nobody, especially K-State Coach Stan Parrish, is doubting the ninth-ranked Huskers, now 6-1, have yet another dominating football team.

"I don't think we can match up with them at any position on the field," Parrish said. "We'll have to play very well, and they'll have to play very poorly. That's about as honest as I can be."

At the outset of the season, some wondered whether the loss of star I-back Doug DuBose, a 1,188-yard rusher a year ago, to a knee injury would affect the Nebraska offense. As things have turned out, probably not. The Cornhuskers are still averaging more than 415 yards per game in total offense and 36.6 points per game.

Multitalented quarterback Steve Taylor has taken up much of the slack for DuBose. Taylor already has 1,000 yards on the year in total offense.

The Cornhusker defense, led by All-Big Eight performers nose guard Danny Noonan and linebacker Marc Munford, isn't far behind, giving up just 16.6 points per game.

"They're good everywhere," Parrish said. "You don't have that kind of program, losing one or two games a year, without being great everywhere. They have some of the top athletes in the country."

An injury situation is also giving the 'Cats problems. With defensive back Robert Easterwood out for the season with a foot injury and Tim Compton out for the Nebraska game with turf toe, K-State is left thin in the secondary. Running back Tony Jordan, who was banged up (broken finger and badly bruised thigh) last week in the loss to Missouri, will not start but should see action.

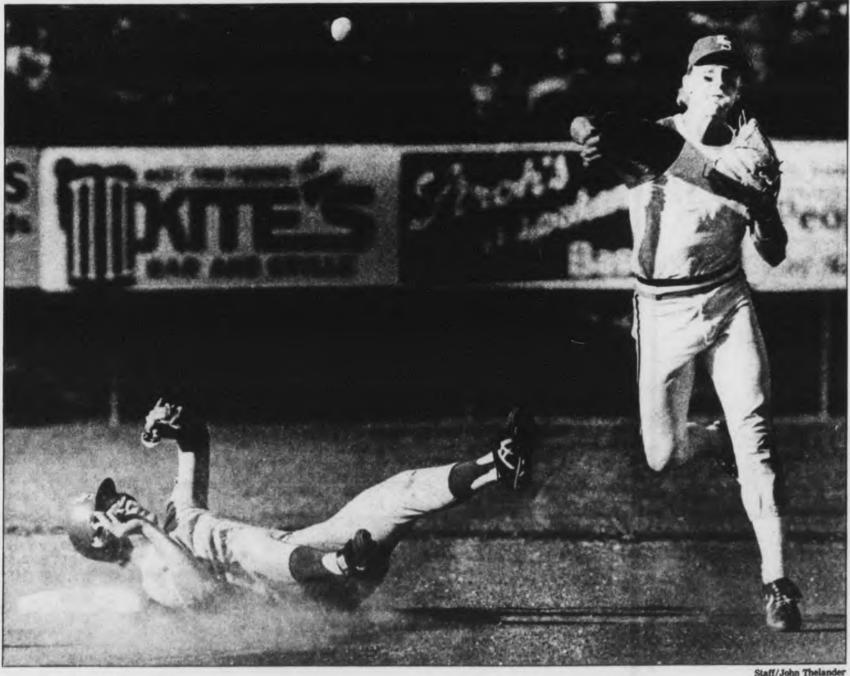

With two games coming up on the schedule where K-State should have a realistic shot at winning, Oklahoma State and Iowa State, Parrish said he plans to be careful with key players Saturday.

"I still think we've got a couple of wins left in us," he said. Parrish has kept the goals for the game simple. 'We just want to keep getting better...We're not throwing in the towel," he said. NOTES: Game time at Lincoln,

Neb. is 1:30 ... Nebraska officials are expecting the 148th-consecutive sellout crowd at Memorial Stadium. More than 75,000 predominantly red-Husker fans are clad expected...Broadcasts of the game can be heard locally on KMKF (101.7 FM) and WIBW (580 AM)...Last year, Nebraska blasted the 'Cats in Manhattan 41-3. Two years ago at Lincoln, the Huskers crushed K-State 62-14...Osborne said Nebraska "came out second best all three phases - offense, defense and the kicking game" in the 20-10 loss to Colorado last week.

Makin' a double throws for first during the Purple and White World Series at Frank Myers 5-4, Thursday afternoon. The series will resume at 3 p.m. today.

Dan Skala rolls across second base while shortstop Scott Spangenberg Field. The White Sox tied the series at 2-2 after defeating the purple team,

K-State hosts OU in match between two similar teams

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

Volleyball coach Scott Nelson could probably talk all day about the similarities that exist between his Wildcats and the Oklahoma Sooners, K-State's opponent tonight in Ahearn Field House.

"It is scary how similar we both are," Nelson said following practice Thursday afternoon. "We both lost All-American setters. They are second in attacking offense; we are third. We are second in blocking defense; they are third. We are just above .500 (12-11); they are just below .500 (11-13).

"We are both big, physical teams that tend to make a lot of reception errors," he said. "It is scary how close we are. It is like preparing to play yourself."

Enough said. K-State will be playing their last home match of the season and need a win badly to stay in the upper half of the conference race. There is a host of teams (Oklahoma, Iowa State, Missouri and K-State) logjammed with two wins that are desperately seeking third "W."

Kansas sits above those teams with three wins, while Nebraska has yet to drop a Big Eight match.

After dropping a four-game and a five-game match last year to the Sooners, Nelson said he is preparing his team for a "dogfight" - a five-game match. A healthy rivalry of sorts has developed between the two conference teams.

"I have said all along that a team that can win on the road will be the most successful (in the conference)," Nelson said. "We want to leave our year here playing well (to prevent OU from winning a road game).

"It will be a real exciting match, I can almost guarantee that. There is no doubt in my mind it will go more than three games. We are very prepared to go five games," he said.

Nelson labeled the game everything from "critical" to "vital to life." The team's preseason goal was a top-three finish in the Big Eight, and this match will more than likely determine the fate of the 'Cats' earlyseason goal.

How quickly either team comes out of the gate will largely determine the eventual winner especially if the match goes five

"We need to be successful in the first two games," Nelson said. "No one wants to be down two matches. We prepared all week to go five games with them."

Before putting the net away Thursday and rounding up the stray volleyballs on the gym floor, Nelson had to make one more analysis of tonight's match.

"Facing Oklahoma is a lot like looking in the mirror. It's amazing how much alike we are," he NOTES: Tonight's match will be the last home match for seniors Helen Bundy and Cindy Durham...the first 400 fans at tonight's contest will receive a souvenir cup that can be redeemed at Mr. K's or Kites for one free

'Cats' fans reviving once-lost tradition

By RON RENO Sports Writer

The wait is on.

About 14 tents have been pitched on the east side of Ahearn Field House reviving the once-lost tradition of K-State students camping out for basketball tickets. The first tents, many of which sit underneath banners proclaiming support for the Wildcats, appeared Sunday night as students began the wait for season tickets which go on sale at 8 a.m. Monday.

In the past few years, a lottery system was used for ticket purchases, but with the return of former K-State basketball star Lon Kruger as new K-State coach, the K-State student tradition has also returned.

The numerous campers, who have enjoyed the relaxed social atmosphere and the Indian summer weather, were spending their time in various ways.

"Sitting around and talking, meeting people and throwing the Frisbee," were sophomore Sean

(eggroll & fried rice 99€)

HUNAM EXPRESS Free Delivery

Campers began pitching tents Sunday

Wynne's activities for the day. "Oh yeah, and studying, too. Put that in there. My mom gets this paper," he Wynne is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, which was the first group to get in line for tickets. The fraternity put up its tent Sunday night about 10.

'We just wanted to make sure we were the first ones in line," said junior Mike Brown, also a Kappa Sigma member. "Two other living groups showed up about a half-hour after we did, so we just wanted to get the jump on them."

Junior Tim Sweeney is also "Camping for the 'Cats," as the group's banner states.

"You get to meet a lot of different people from different social organizations," he said. "It's just a great chance to show support for the athletic program and get it back to where it was when Lonnie (Kruger)

Restaurant

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Open 7 days a week ** ** ** *** ***

was playing here."

Sophomore Mike Ribble was "Jammin' with the 'Cats" for the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

"I thought (camping for tickets) was kind of crazy at first, but I think it will be worth it if we get good seats," he said.

Sophomore Scott Darger, a member of Sigma Chi fraternity which just began camping out Wednesday, said he expects excellent student support this season.

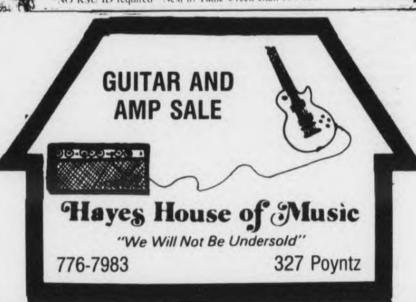

"I think a lot more people are excited about the (season)," he said, looking at the number of tents. "I think we're going to have a lot better student turnout this year." Kruger has been pleased with the interest among the students.

"It's outstanding," Kruger said. "The great thing about it is that when I've been by there, the students are having a great time and appear to be having a lot of fun, and it's very positive. Student support has been a trademark of K-State basketball crowds for years and years, and to see that type of interest is very encouraging.

Tickets cost $30 for students, and will allow admission to 12 home games. There will be 40-ticket limit to the number students can purchase, and they must present a current semester fee card for each re-

You are invited to hear

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

SLATTERY November 2 Congressman Slattery will speak as a Sunday

part of the . . . FAITH JOURNEYS SERIES

7 p.m. Baptist Campus Center 1801 Anderson 539-3051

Sponsored by American Baptist Campus Ministry

Q104 * BONKERS HALLOWEEN BASH

TONIGHT from 4 p.m.-3 a.m. Q104 live remote from 10 p.m.-12 a.m.

CASH PRIZES totaling $50 for best costumes & best-dressed couple

also featuring SCREAMIN' LEE & THE ROCKTONES

Photographer will be available for "Instant Pics!"

Across from Cafe Latino in Aggieville, 537-9591

DON'T MISS IT!

KSU vs. OU THE FINAL HOME MATCH OF THE SEASON

> Students $1 Adults $2

TONIGHT 7:30 p.m.

Plastic Cups to First 400 people. Redeemable For FREE Beverage at KITE'S or MR. K'S, offer ends Nov. 6, > Persons MUST be of legal Drinking Age for alcoholic beverages and comply with Kansas club laws.

(1) ld Textbook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF! BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

MON.-SAT.

12-5 SUN.

Class of 1983 overshadows Blackledge

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - As a firstround choice in the Great Quarterback Draft of 1983, Todd Blackledge figured to be anywhere but on the bench

But there he sits.

After three years as Bill Kenney's understudy in Kansas City, Blackledge was handed the starting job last May by Chiefs' Coach John Mackovic. Two weeks ago, after the Chiefs dropped to last place in total offense, Mackovic handed the job back to Kenney.

Though his NFL career hasn't moved along nearly as smoothly or swiftly as the five other first-round quarterbacks taken in the talent-rich 1983 draft, Blackledge says his time is coming.

"There are better days ahead for me," he said. "My plan of attack right now is to continue to work the way I've worked all through this season, training camp and offKenney returns as Kansas City starter season. I have to approach each game as if I were going to start because the worst thing that could happen is for me not to be ready if I'm needed.

"I'm just trying to keep a good outlook on my career."

Blackledge completed 77 of 169 passes through 61/2 games this season for 998 yards. He also threw seven interceptions. He was lifted for Kenney in the second half of the Chiefs' Oct. 19 game against San Diego after floating a screen pass into the arms of defensive end Leslie O'Neal, who returned it for a touchdown.

Kenney preserved the Chiefs' lead over San Diego and was effective in a 27-20 victory over Tampa Bay last Sunday that gave the Chiefs a 5-3 record. Barring an injury to Kenney, the NFL is unlikely to see much more of Blackledge this season.

"In high school and college you tend to think in terms of four-year periods," Blackledge, a graduate of Penn State, said. "But in the NFL, you start thinking in terms of a career. My career certainly hasn't started the way the others' have, or the way I wanted it to start. But that doesn't mean it can't end the way I want it to."

By others, Blackledge means fellow quarterbacks Dan Marino, John Elway, Tony Eason, Ken O'Brien and Jim Kelly. Marino and Eason have already been to the Super Bowl; all are starters.

On draft day 1983, Mackovic personally picked Blackledge, who led Penn State to the national championship in 1982 with a victory over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Blackledge, the son of Pittsburgh Steelers' assistant coach Ron Blackledge, was the second quarterback and seventh player taken in the first round.

Elway, from Stanford, was the the No. 1 overall choice, landing in Denver after a trade from the then-Baltimore Colts.

The 14th pick belonged to Buffalo, which went for Kelly of Miami, Fla. Immediately following the Bills was New England, grabbing Eason from Illinois. With the 24th choice, the New York Jets opted for O'Brien, a little-known passer out of Cal-Davis.

Then the Miami Dolphins, who had gone to the Super Bowl the season before, used the next-to-last choice in the first round for Pitt's Marino.

"I don't know any of those guys real well, although I've met them all," Blackledge said. "Our careers have taken some different paths up to this point, that's for sure.

Except perhaps for Kelly who played in the USFL before joining the Bills, Blackledge went to the weakest team.

Wade chosen mentor for Maryland squad

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE - Bob Wade, coach and athletic director at Baltimore's Dunbar High School, on Thursday was named basketball coach at the University of Maryland, replacing Charles "Lefty" Driesell.

Maryland Chancellor John B. Slaughter, who made the announcement, said, "The University of Maryland has had a dearth of happy events over the last several months. Today represents a major change in our fortunes."

Driesell, under pressure to give up his coaching post following the June 19 cocaine-induced death of basketball star Len Bias, resigned Wednesday and accepted a job as assistant athletic director at

TWO ONE-bedroom, furnished apartments, one-half

1979 TRANS Am (blue) - 74,000 miles, 6.6 litre, runs

great, $4,300 (negotiable). Call 537-3848. (41-49)

1977 AMC Hornet Clean, runs good. Phone 539-5032

1971 220 Mercedes Benz-Locks good and runs good, need to sell. Call 539-5516 after 5 p.m. (46-50)

KORG POLY-800 synthesizer, $500, Call Rick, 776-

KENWOOD KR322 car stereo—auto reverse, Dolby, metal, independent treble/bass, lader, $150 or best

ALPINE 7272 indash. $350; Alpine 3311 EQ. $150; Alpine door speakers, $100; Kicker hatch back speaker, $175. Must sell, 776-5646, Mike Maki, (47-

AKAI AA-A35 stereo receiver, 45 watts/channel; Akai

AP-A1 turntable, pair - Genesis 20 speakers, 100

watt. One and one-half years old, new condition

Compare with any stereo you want. Call 776-8430.

CARUIN TWO piece 300W bassmaster amp, clean to

1982 YAMAHA Virago 750. Bought new 14 months

1982 HONDA CM 250, 5,800 miles, 60 miles per gal-lon. Great shape, one owner, $450. Call 776-7175.

ago, $1,200. Call 537-0834 alter 4 p.m. (45-49)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

8093 (evening). Ask for Tim. (46-49)

FOR SALE-AUTO

FOR SALE-MISC

offer. Call Bob 776-0234. (47-51)

after 6 p.m. (45-49)

Craig. (48-49)

$350. Call 539-5128. (49-50)

block from campus. Available December 1, $175 and $225 plus utilities. Call 539-9842 (day) or 776-the university.

Wade, 41, who was accompanied by his wife and one of his two sons, said his elevation to college basketball coach represents 'something we looked forward to all of our lives."

Wade has had a running feud with Driesell through the years. Wade claimed the Maryland coach would not recruit in Baltimore, while Driesell complained that Wade directed his best players to Georgetown University in Washington.

Pete Pompey, coach at Edmondson High School, said Wade never prevented Driesell from recruiting at Dunbar. He said Wade also has a strict philosophy about his players' academic performance and use of drugs.

lassifieds

01

THE SOUP.

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DURING THE MILLENNIA THAT MAN AND FOWL HAVE SOUGHT

AND SNARED WIVES, A TEST

COME TO BE EXPECTED ..

Garfield

OF THEIR WORTHINESS HAS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52)

Bloom County

tober hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday evening until 9 p.m.; Sundays 1-5 p.m.

ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (44-53)

LOSE WEIGHT-100% natural-100% guaranteed-See immediate results! 776-6959 after 5:30 p.m., all day weekends. (45-49)

HALLOWEEN PINGA party Saturday, November 1st, 9 p.m. Full costume optional. (49)

AKA/KAPPA Alpha Psi will have a party on Hallow een in the Catskeller from 10 to 1. Everyone wel-come. Admission: $1.50. (49)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 11/2 (with coupon)

537-3335

LAMBDA CHI Crescents-Don't forget the skating party Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Call your Big Brother and nd him. Meet at the house at 7 p.m. Bring

PIKE LIL Sis meeting Sunday at 7 p.m. (49)

MOORE, WEST and Boyd Hall residents: Join us for Happy Hour, Monday evening, November 3, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at Burke's Shoes. Special discount of 15% on all regular priced shoes-just for you.

ADULT MOVIES now available at Home Cinema, 537-1115. (49-53)

ATTENTION

TREASURE CHEST has the largest selection of costumes. Also, new and used records, vintage clothing and used books. 1124 Moro, 539-3485. (15-49)

Mexican Buffet Ramada Restaurant Every Sunday $3.95

5-7:30 p.m.

By Berke Breathed

50,700, DOES MODERN MAN

BROUGHT ALONG

A CYANIDE SUICIPE PILL. YOU NEVER KNOW ...

GO TO FACE HIS FUTURE IN-LAWS

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by

on toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog downtown and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door, VISA and MasterCard welcome, Send $3 or fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Key

stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift

tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more

from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in

ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, religious, wife in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer involved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039. (41-50)

25% OFF

Night Appointments 5:30-9 p.m.

(with this ad) Mon.-Fri. Crum's Beauty College

776-4794 Ad expires 11-21-86

HOLIDAY GIFT Exposition November 8, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., City Auditorium, 539-4675. (48-49) HALF OFF-1 p.m. haircut appointment (with this ad), includes shampoo and blowdry. Monday-Friday. Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794. Ad expires November 30, 1986. (49-65)

All services in our new

Esthetics (skin care)

Department

(with this ad)

Ask about our treatment series

Mon.-Fri.

Call 776-4794 (skin care dept.)

Crum's Beauty College

Ad valid until 10-31-86

SAVE BIG bucks-20% off all services in our new

Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Includes sculptured, gel and linen nails plus air brushing, manicuring and pedicuring, try it! You'll like it! Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794, Ad expires Nology (nail care) Department (with this ad).

HELP WANTED 20% OFF

PART TIME cook and delivery person. Apply in per son at Pizzeria, Claffin and Denison. Contact Jim or Ernie for an appointment 776-0004. (43 49)

TRAVEL FIELD Opportunity. Gain valuable marketing experience while earning money. Campus representative needed immediately for spring break trip to Florida. Call Campus Marketing at 1-800-282-6221. (45-50)

STUDENT PROGRAMMER to work 20-30 hours per week; to start as soon as possible, as an IBM main-frame applications programmer using COBOL. IBM mainframe COBOL programming knowledge and experience, grade point average, and other relevant data processing experience will be used as selection criteria. Undergraduates or graduate students with an employment potential of two years or more will be given preference. Equal Opportunity Employer. Contact Rose Korte, Room 21, Anderson Hall by 5 p.m., October 31, 1986 (46-49)

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available. Good commissions, valuable work experience, travel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (foll free). 1.800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer

WANTED: COMPUTER user who can print high qual ity graphs and tables. Call 532-2362 (131), Laura.

14 LOST GOLD CHAIN lost near McCain Auditorium Saturday evening. Reward. Call 539-7479 or 539-7631. Leave

message, ask for Lindy (46-49)

16 PERSONAL

KKG MEGAN —Homecoming was a blast, too bad it couldn't last. But the Delt formal is near, we'll have good times and drink some beer(s). — Chris. (49)

TO MY DDD, Tammy, Finally it's here, Happy Birthday. TKES VON, Bert and Greg - It's Saturday night and

Purple Passion's the call, at 6:15 come get us all. At the G-Phi house we'll be waiting for you, if we're not there, we'll leave you a clue! -Your crushes. PINGA PARTIERS - See Announcements. (49)

AD Pi Pledge Mom I the pop, fire the light; your urday night! - Happy Camper

DELTA SIGS—Come on out tonight and cheer Big Chunk, Famous, Bobo, Gov-man, Spank and Co on to victory Let's do it. Thanks, Nature Boy Dave,

DELTA SIG Fans-Thanks for the support Wednesday. You're the real winners. Let's all win again Monday, David S., Randy, and Chris (49) MOM SMITH and the men of AGR-Hope you have a Spooktacular Halloween! Let's get ready to party! Love ya, Donna. (49) AKAK's-HALLOWEEN'S here, the party is near. So put your costumes on and we'll party 'til dawn. We can't wait 'cuz we think you guys are great! Alpha

AGD PLEDGES: You guys were great in Homecom ing! Now that the work is done, let's have some more fun! We love you! The Actives. (49)

ALPHA GAM Heather-The ghosts and globins came to awaken you from your sleep. Now let's shake, rattle, and roll on this Halloween. Love, your

Pledge Mom. (49) AGD MICHELLE-You crazy girl! Have fun at the Delta Tau Delta formal and have a super 8-Day! We love you! Your insane roomies. (49) GARY-GOOD luck with your first Rush Party, I know you'll do great! I love you soooo much! Susan. (49)

AD PI-We made the Puff Playoffs, we made great plays. We fell one game short of going all the way. You're in our hearts the classy AD Pi way! Love, Chris, Curt, Kent, Jeff. (49)

KAPPA KATHY-This week has been a blast, to leave messages and run away fast. Now you will find out what your pledge pal is all about. Love, your Secret

PARTY WITH AKA and Kappa Alpha Pail See Announcements, (49)

DANA, STEPH, Megan-We will pick you chacks up at two, and it's out to the dome for a little skoot skoo. The formal's here; it should be a bash, we will all Wang Chung and Monster Mash. Your Delt een! Looking forward to a fun weekend! Love, Terces Koops. (49)

KARI-MAY 21? Wrong, with capital "R"! January 2? Better. But this weekend would be better yet! Love you-Jeffrey. (49)

PAIGE HUNT: Happy Halloween from your secret spooks! Remember, we're watching you, (49)

SIGMA NU Literary Guild: Are we on for next Monday? You bring the hot chocolate, we'll bring the Schnapps. Don't forget J.T.! Soberty yours, J.K.P.

LAMBDA CHI Crescents. See Announcements. (49) THETA JULIE I .- Thanks for being such a wonderful om. Love, your daughter. (49)

TO PARTY dates Josie and Amy-Be ready to rock around the clock all Saturday night, then to inspiration point if we ask polite? — huh! Tom and Allan.

See Announcements (49-50)

FARMHOUSE—YOU sing, we sing, we all sing for U-sing! Get excited! The KD's. (49)

DOUG—"HAPPY Anniversary," wasn't I worth the wait? Hove you and I miss you! Why don't you go to a real school? Love, Cheryl. (49) ponel Love, Jana and Steg Corleone. (49) one of my life. Happy Anniversary, Love—Mark.

(49) LISA M .- It's been a wonderful year, in fact, the best

MORGAN-IT'S an even year, so your 22nd will be a blast Luv. Little One. (49)

STEPHANIE—Have an enjoyable weekend. Miss me yet? Love you bunches! Steve. (49)

ROOMMATE WANTED

FEMALE: SHARE two bedroom apartment two blocks east of campus. Call 537-4732 after 5:30

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom apartment close to campus. Call Carla, 539-4301 evenings. (47-56)

year, Now miring, Call 805-687-6000, ext. Fl.9701. Call 539-9345, (48-49) Call 539-9345. (48-49)

FEMALE: SHARE four bedroom house. Close to NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share three bedroom house, $150 bills paid. 539-8464 or 539-8401 evenings. (49-50)

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111)

18

sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716 (39tf)

TYPING—TERM papers, research papers, resumes, cover letters, etc. Call 539-2411. (45-49)

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, disserta-tions, manuscripts, term papers. (48-50)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.

Evening Service, 6 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednesday, 7 p.m. (49) set and North Delaware welcomes students to ser-vices: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m.; Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office,

Blvd invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison College Care Cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m., also Bible Study Tuesday evenings—contact 539-5369. For any additional information, call 537-7173. (49)

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison

First United Methodist Church 612 Poyntz

8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 8:45 a.m. & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (49) MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training, 6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (49)

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Wel come students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (49) ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church-6th and Poyntz. Com-and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427. (49)

rossword

ACROSS 1 Cheer 7 Cut

14 Poetry counter-

16 Airborne terrorist 18 Belief 19 Miser Marner

22 Actress Tilly 23 Hit Broadway musical

27 Tokyo, once 29 Airport Dorter

31 African nation 14 Contest 35 Ill fated lite 27 Common

Yesterday's answer

A FORM OF QUALITY CONTROL

AS ONE WOULD SNIFF PUBIOUS

FISH BEFORE APPING IT TO

AND AS PRIMITIVE MAN MIGHT

ONCE HAVE FACED A SLOBBERING SABER-TOOTHED TIGER TO PROVE HIS CHARACTER ...

eanuts

Dear Snoopy,

Just a few lines to let you know what our cactus club has been doing.

2 Simian

3 Blackjack request for tooth

or sleep

4 Ending

5 Igloo

6 Mode

9 Stir-owner

7 Mineral frying springs

vember 3, 1986. (49-50) FOR RENT-MISC RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf) By Charles Schulz ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent, $150 month plus one-half lot rent, one-half electric. Male, no pets. Call 776-1359. (48-57)

FOR RENT-APTS

ONE BEDROOM furnished, block west of campus, starting November or January, $240. Call 539-5051 or see Dave, apartment #4, 1024 Sunset. (38-49) CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom. two bath, basement and large porch plus great amenities. 776-0272. (44-53)

ZERO BLOCKS to campus. Large one bedroom, fur-nished apartment in quiet, well maintained complex. Balcony, dishwasher, queen sized bed. Prefer faculty, graduate student, married couple. $280 th, no pets, waterbeds. Lease requi 537-9686 for information and application. (46-50)

By beene Sheffer

41 Press 45 "Tiny 4 " - Mis-Bubbles' erables" singer 47 Give the firewood pink slip 12 AP rival 48 Rise rapidly 13 Part of i.e.

53 Actress part Anouk 15 — -picker 54 Silkworm 55 Append 56 Summer pests vessel 57 — Moines 10 Exploit

11 Apiece 58 Spanish 20 "Mask" star king 17 Sprees 21 Kingdom DOWN 1 Of ancient 23 Singer writings Lauper

52 Game piece

Solution time: 24 mins.

employed:

beau 31 Speedy flyer 8 Trajectory 32 Hawaiian strings 33 Color 36 Group of nations 37 Cling 40 Auto

24 Tread the boards

25 Road goo

Bond, e.g.

26 James

28 Genetic stuff

30 Barbie's

graphed 42 "M*A*S*H" character 43 Chemical compound 44 Impover-45 "I'll Say She -

(old song) 46 Elevator 48 Droop 49 Relatives 50 Singer Sumac 51 No longer

31 32 33 CRYPTOQUIP 10-31

CD ABYQ XZWG UVQ INBDUJ YZH-VMWUQG EJ

HZCWBZNQF: EZA

Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals B

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: POPULAR MONDAY COMIC STRIP IS DONE BY ARTISTIC BURLESQUE QUEEN. PHI KAP Steve K., Dave T., Rick H.-Happy Hallow

EMIXF

WOMEN AND men of Moore, West and Boyd Hall-

THETA PARTIERS: Message from "The Don": There will be a "family" meeting—destination unknown. Where we'll all get down and party at AI "Kat"

PIKE LIL Sisters - See Announcements. (49)

campus, own room, washer, dryer. Call Janell, 539-

SERVICES

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (43tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes

VW BUGS and Rabbits-Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-

WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362 (131), leave message

23 WELCOMES

WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9:45 a.m.; Wor-ship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church — 776-8790 after 9 a.m. (49)

ST LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sun a m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday (49) TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN - Worship Service 10:45

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley

(the white building with the two red doors). (49)

John D. Stoneking Pastor WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (49)

munion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I)

Men killed as they resist eviction by militant religious sect members

By The Associated Press

OPA-LOCKA, Fla. — Two men who resisted eviction by a militant black religious sect were shot to death Thursday outside a drug-ridden apartment complex that had just been purchased by the group, authorities said.

The slain men, Anthony Brown and Rudolph Broussard, had said they were fighting their evictions by the Yahwehs, or Hebrew Israelites, who assumed a $480,000 mortgage in buying the property Monday.

Brown and Broussard were shot after they confronted two carloads of men outside the complex, said John Riley, mayor of this predominantly black community near Miami.

After the shootings, the Opa-locka City Commission voted unanimously in emergency session to condemn the five-building complex and order its residents evicted and relocated within 48 hours.

Two weeks ago, the commission refused the former owners' offer to let the city take over the complex, which had become a notorious haven for drug dealers.

Instead, the complex was sold to the Yahwehs, who believe that American blacks are the only true descendants of the biblical tribe of Judah and live in the land of the "white devil."

On Wednesday, Brown was shown on television saying, "I'm going to stay here until I get an eviction notice. I don't care what they say. They ain't going in, it's as simple as that."

Broussard told family and friends the Yahwehs had entered his apartment without permission and removed furnishings.

"They broke into his apartment and took a freezer out," his sister Celine Broussard said as she stood weeping near the shooting site. "Then my brother tried to get the freezer back. They (Yahwehs) were just throwing people out."

Metro-Dade Police refused to release details on the shootings, but Riley said the two carloads of men spotted Brown and Broussard sitting on the steps in front of the building.

The two cars stopped, the men exchanged words and the shooting began, Riley said, adding his information came from police and residents.

Broussard, shot four times in the head, died on the spot; Brown was shot but ran and fell two blocks away. He was then shot once in the back and twice in the head when he tried to get up, the mayor said.

A man who gave his last name as Israel, the name taken by all Yahweh sect members, was arrested for loitering in the vicinity after the shootings but has not been charged in connection with the slayings. Riley said police found one of the cars involved in the attack abandoned with a white robe inside.

After the shootings, Yawheh members got on a bus and left the scene. A woman who answered the phone at the group's Miami temple told The Associated Press the sect has no comment on the events.

Known as Yahwehs after the Old Testament's name for God, the Hebrew Israelites were established in the 1960s and trace the religion back to the Jews who fled Jerusalem in 600 B.C., when Babylon destroyed the Temple of Solomon.

Hatred of whites is a central theme of their faith, and they claim that whites who call themselves Jews are imposters.

Their numbers are not known. Newspaper reports number them in the hundreds, but Yahwehs in Miami claim about 12,000 disciples in south Florida alone. The sect also claims chapters in Chicago, New York, Washington D.C. and other cities.

National reports have set their numbers at about 10,000 in 20 U.S. cities. About 2,000 more have settled in Israel along with the Hebrew Israelites' founder, Ben-Ami Carter.

The Yahwehs were investigated in May when six houses were firebombed in Delray Beach soon after residents complained of Yahweh visits to the area. The month before in New York City, 13 members were investigated in child abuse cases.

In 1982, a member from a Yahweh camp in Michigan was charged with manslaughter in the beating death of her 12-year-old son for refusing to do his chores.

City, EPA fail to reach settlement storage of the pesticide at the EPA

The city passed an ordinance Oct.

13 that outlawed storing and transporting the pesticide inside the city. The EPA and Riedel asked a federal judge to declare the or-

City Attorney Harold Walker said

Wednesday he thought the city would probably lose if the matter went to

The ordinance was passed when city officials discovered that Riedel had stacked 30,000 gallons of the pesticide in the parking lot of the EPA laboratory and was planning to

We Make It Here-Just For You!

GREAT FOR GIFTSI
THE TCECREAM

SOCIAL

1314B Westloop • 537-7079

Aggieville

Flowers

12th & Laramie

Sweetheart

Roses

$6 a doz.

Halloween Mylar

Balloons

$1.75 each

Plus

Orange

Carnations

only 50¢ each

537-9549

Mon.-Sat. 10-5

A CAN FOR

ALL REASONS

Filled with

Freshly flavored

or plain POPCORN laboratory.

dinance invalid.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — No final approval of a settlement in a dispute over a banned pesticide has been reached between city officials and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Mayor Jack Reardon, who was at a special session Thursday night of the City Council, said final approval of the settlement had yet to be obtain-

"Negotiations are further along. We may have something to say to the EPA" today, Reardon said. Officials have declined to disclose details of the proposed settlement.

City officials would not say if the proposal discussed in the meeting had been prepared by the city attorney or by attorneys representing the EPA and the trucking firm hired to move the pesticide containing ethylene dibromide, or EDB, to the EPA laboratory in the Fairfax industrial area.

The city has been negotiating with

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

Ramada Inn

SATURDAY

Italian Buffet $9.95

5:30-9 р.т.

Dance to Fast Forward 8 p.m.-midnight

THE Jean Station

Even Though It's Halloween,
Don't be TRICKED by WOLFF bulbs in Sun-Tana Beds. come to TROPICAL TAN
and get your TREAT!

$1 Tanning Sessions 10 sessions for Today Only $20
10-31-86 Expires 11-5-86
with coupon with coupon

attorneys representing the EPA and the trucking company, Riedel Environmental Services Inc., about the The EPA hopes the EDB stored in Kansas City, Kan., and elsewhere will eventually be moved to Liberty to be decanned and later recycled. Douglas Chemical Co. in Liberty has been hired to decan 113.000 has been hired to decan 113,000 gallons of the pesticide already stored there and drain it into railroad cars, but a series of equipment failures has delayed that process.

Bill Conrath, vice president of Douglas Chemical, said Thursday he expects decanning to begin Wednesday.

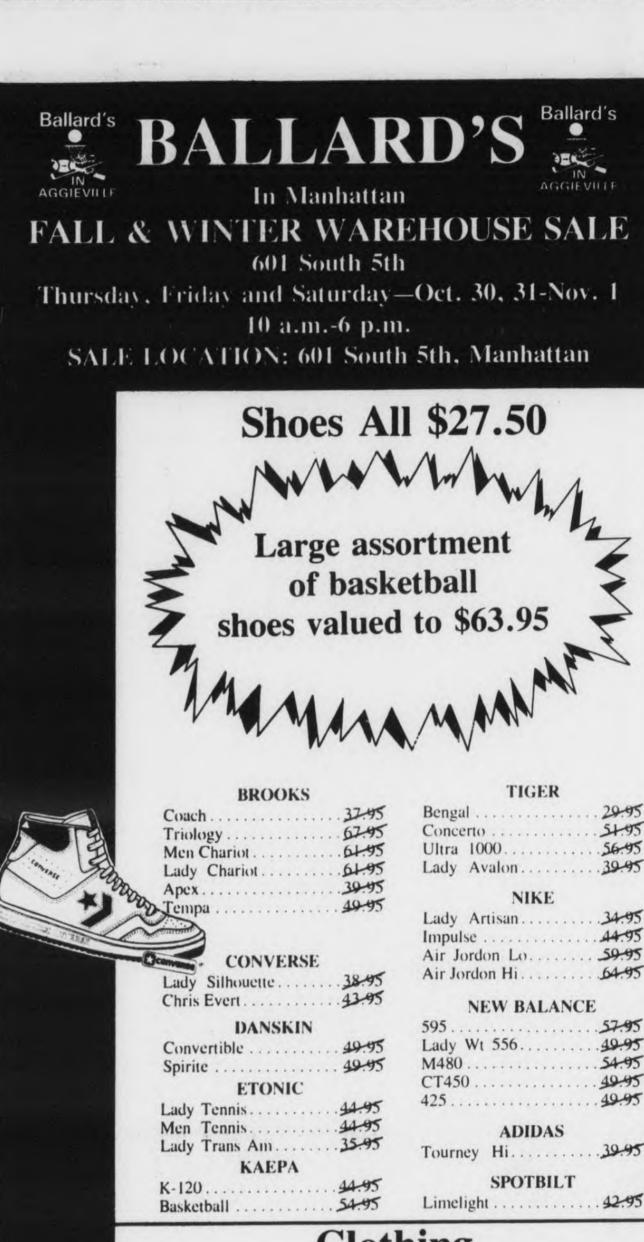

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

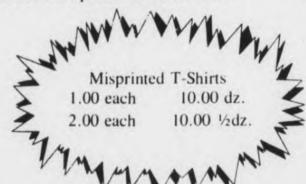

Tonight
16th Annual Halloween Party with Spuds
Mackenzie Best Costume

and prize giveaways Picture Man available
Also Free T.G.I.F.

Sandwich Bar

Warmups......54.95 15.00 Rugby Pants......value to27.95 10.00 20.00 Triathlon Suits.....value to......49.95 Nylon Jackets.....value to.....34.95 15.00 Ski Jackets.....value to......169.95 40.00 15.00 Ski Gloves......value to49.95 2.00 Ski Hats.........value to.........6.95 8.50 Russell Sweat Hoods (irregular) value to 14.95 5.00 Danskin Tights.....value to......18.95 3.00 Danskin Leotards.....value to.....12.95 6.50 College Crews & Misprints . value to . 16.95

 Shirts....value to 22.95
 10.00

 Shirts, Jerseys, Shorts and Socks

 Gym Shorts Plain...value to 4.95
 2.00 each, 10.00 ½dz.

 Gym Shorts Stripe...value to 6.95
 3.00 each, 15.00 ½dz.

 Tube Socks...value to 2.25
 1.50 each, 15.00 dz.

 Shirts...value to 19.95
 5.00 each, 25.00 ½dz.

 Shirts...value to 9.95
 3.00 each, 15.00 ½dz.

 Shirts...value to 7.95
 2.00 each, 10.00 ½dz.

 Shirts...value to 4.95
 1.00 each, 10.00 dz.

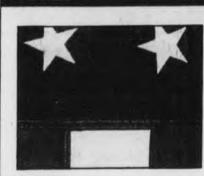

Other Items

| Exercise Equipment | . ½ Price |
|--------------------------|-----------|
| Baseball Hats | 1.00 |
| Visors | 1.00 |
| Wilson Rubber Basketball | 10.00 |
| Leather Basketball62.95 | 30.00 |
| Tetherball | |
| Wilson Racketballs | 1.50 can |
| Gym Bags2.00, 3.00 | 4.00 |
| Shoe Laces | 10¢ |
| Soccer Balls | 10.00 |

BALLARD'S

Time 10 a.m.-6 p.m.
THREE DAYS ONLY

Many unadvertised items at unbelievable prices!

Election '86

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Monday

November 3, 1986

Volume 93, Number 50

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate, and 18.16 percent are undecided.

This is a change in attitude since the last poll published by the Today's poll shows F cent decrease in st shows Docking movi the votes to 38.12 pe increase of 9.12 per vote has decreased 18.16 percent, a char

The respondents to ed the following que vote today, would y pari-mutuel betting? day, would you be fo lottery? If you were

you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears to be decreasing slightly, but not so much that the amendments would appear to be

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State

The passage of the liquor-by-the-drink

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

Apple bobb Jason Hannah bobs fo Rachele Gagliano and Travis s chastises

By JUDY LUNDST Staff Writer

Athletic fee or no at baseball and women's will be maintained as pt the University's Departn tercollegiate Athletics, director of athletics said l

"Whether the fee com we're going to have ba women's basketball at Ka University," Athletic Dire Travis said. "We're not c dropping anything."

Travis was in Chicago tional Collegiate Athletic Division I-A meeting last said he got "quite a shock called home Wednesday.

Election '86

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy to-

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday November 3, 1986

Volume 93, Number 50

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week away.

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate, and

18.16 percent at This is a chan poll published t Today's poll sho cent decrease shows Docking the votes to 38. increase of 9.1 vote has decre

18.16 percent, a
The responde
ed the following vote today, wo
pari-mutuel bet day, would you lottery? If you

Apple bo

Travis chastise

By JUDY LUNI Staff Writ

Athletic fee or no baseball and women will be maintained at the University's Departer tercollegiate Athletic director of athletics sa

"Whether the fee of we're going to have women's basketball at University," Athletic I Travis said. "We're no dronning anything."

dropping anything."
Travis was in Chic.
tional Collegiate Athle Division I-A meeting said he got "quite a si called home Wednesdr

you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote for?

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State Election *=

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

Friday, October 31, 1986

Television Index

| Manh | attan Cable |
|----------------|-------------|
| KSNT (NBC) | 7 |
| WIBW (CBS) | 3 |
| KLDH (ABC) | 2 |
| KSHB (IND) | 8 |
| KTWU (PBS) | 11 |
| WGN (IND) | 10 |
| WTBS (IND) | 12 |
| Premium cable: | |
| HBO, Showtime, | |

CINEMAX, ESPN
Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan
cable channels 4 (NBC), 5
(CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Fintertainment

EDITOR
Chris Stewart
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR
Laurie Fairburn
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR
Jim Dietz
ADVERTISING MANAGER
Patti Hannan
GRAPHIC ARTIST

Carlos Corredor

On Our Cover

The true intensity of a conductor is seldom as evident to the audience as it is to the orchestra. Yet, it is reflected in the thunderous rumble of the timpani, the somber wail of the bassoon, the spirited trill of the piccolo.

Next Friday the Kansas State Orchestra, conducted by Adrian Bryttan, presents its premiere concert at 8 p.m. in McCain Auditorium. Appearing with the orchestra will be internationally known operatic tenor George Grey. See page 4.

Illustration by Carlos Corredor

901 N. 3rd

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|----------------------------|----------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo,, | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Supergirl" | Movie:
"Ups & | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | | " | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street |
Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | " | Downs" | "Cannery
Row" | SpeedWeek
Roller Derby |
| 9:00 | | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance - | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | "How To Save
A Marriage | The Talk Show
Movie: | Movie:
"The Devil | Movie: | Auto Racing |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | And Ruin Your Life" | "Teen Wolf" | And Daniel
Webster" | "The Shocking
Miss Pilgrim" | 1000 Lakes
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Society
Society | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Reno And | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Movie:
"Trancers" | Aerobics
Running |
| 12:30 | | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The Family | The Doc"
Movie: | | Movie: | CFL Football
Toronto at |
| 1:00 | | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Mysteryl | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Rico"
WomanWatch | "The Heavenly
Kid" | Movie:
"The Iron | "A View To A
Kill" | Hamilton |
| 2:00 | | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Kitchen
Painting | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Flashback | Mistress" | " | Tennis |
| 3:30 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Survival | Movie:
"Ups & | Movie:
"The Final | SportsLook
PGA Golf |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Movie:
"Oxford | Downs" | Countdown" | Seiko Match
Play |
| 5:00 | | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | Blues" | Misunderstood
Monsters | Movie:
"Fletch" | Outdoors |
| 6:00 | News | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Inside The
NFL | Tall Tales &
Legends | 11 | SportsCenter
Wrestling |
| 7:00 | | Scarecrow
And Mrs. King | Webster
Mr. Belvedere | Barnaby Jones | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | Tales From
The Darkside | NBA
Basketball | Movie:
"Teen Wolf" | Movie:
"Silver Bullet" | Movie:
"Better Off | Racing |
| 8:00 | Miami Vice | Dallas | SI, Hammer
Sidekicks | Movie:
"The Howling" | Economics
McLaughlin | Special | Bullets at
Celtics | Movie: | " | Dead" | Top Rank
Boxing |
| 9:00 | | Falcon Crest | Starman | 11 | Innovation
Market | News _{,,} | Portrait Of | "Transylvania
6-5000" | Movie:
"Death Wish | Movie:
"Wild Geese | Harold
Brazier vs. |
| 10:00 | Manua | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | America
Night Tracks - | Movie: | 3" " | II., " | Brian Baronet
SportsCenter |
| 11:30 | | Lifestyles | Movie:
"Betrayal" | News
"Invasion Of | Ctry. Express | Movie: | Power Play
Night Tracks | "Return Of The Living Dead" | Movie:
"Red Dawn" | Movie:
"Fanny Hill" | NFL Game
Cycling |
| 10:00 | Evening News
Gene Scott | Be Thinner
CHiPs | " | The Body
Snatchers" | | "From Beyond
The Grave" | Night Tracks | "Sleepaway
Camp" | | Movie | Mayor's Cup
Running |

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|----------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------------|----------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Kissyfur
Gummi Bears | B'stain Bears
Wildfire | Wuzzles
Care Bears | Tom And Jerry
Kideo TV | Algebra | Farm Report
World Tom. | Wrestling | Movie:
"Kidco" | Movie: "Painted Hills" | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Fishin' Hole |
| | Smurfs | Muppets | Flintstone
Kids | " " | Deaf Mosaic
Decision '86 | Charlando
Business | National
Geographic | " | Movie: | "Steel" | Tennis
Paris Open |
| 9:00 | | Playhouse
Teen Wolf | Ghostbusters
Pd. Puppies | Bugs Bunny
And Porky Pig | S. Previews
Old House | People
Wild Kingdom | Explorer:
World Safari | Inside The
NFL | "Major
Barbara" | Movie: | Men's
Semifinals |
| | Fact. | Galaxy High
Circus | Bugs Bunny
New Ewoks | Puttin' On | Motorweek
Dr. Marc | Photon
Transformers | Cimarron Strip | Movie:
"Cocoon" | " | "Jaws" | Running
NFL Game |
| 11:00 | Locker Room | College
Football | Weekend
Littles | Lifestyles | Painting
Vict. Garden | Jem
Movie: | College | " | Movie:
"My Science | #:
#: | SpoCtr.
Horse Racing |
| 12:00 | Football | Florida State
at Miami | Bandstand
Dukes Of | Lost in Space | Sesame Street | "The Naked
Hills" | Football
Alabama at | Movie:
"Florida | Project" | "Beast From
20,000 | Auto Racing
Late Model |
| 1:00 | Oklahoma | " | Hazzard
Taxi | Incredible
Hulk | Write Course
Write Course | "Tarzan's New | Mississippi
State | Straits" | Movie:
"I Know Why | Fathoms"
Movie: | Sportsman |
| 2:00 | | NBA | Pregame
College | Bionic Woman | Society
Society | York
Adventure" | " | One Too Many | The Caged
Bird Sings" | "Hambone
And Hillie" | Women's
Bowling |
| 3:00 | " | Basketball
Lakers at | Football
Oklahoma at | Battlestar
Galactica | Psychology
Psychology | Soul Train | Bonanza | Movie Makers
Movie: | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"Born Free" | Pro Tour
PGA Golf |
| | Breeders' Cup
Continues | Rockets | Kansas | Buck Rogers | Congress
Congress | Puttin' On
Good Times | O. Wilson
Motorweek | "Blame It On
The Night" | Underground" | In America | Seiko Match
Play |
| | Wheel Fortune
NBC News | Own Backyard
CBS News | " | Black Sheep
Squadron | GED
GED | It's A Living
Big Family | Wrestling | Movie: | Faerie Tale
Theatre | Movie:
"The | Scholastic |
| | Hee Haw | Mama's Family
Country Music | Buddies
9 To 5 | Throb
Big Family | Creatures
Great & Small | Country
At The Movies | College
Football | "Prime Risk" | Movie:
"Gremlins" | Candidate" | F'ball Scores
College |
| | Facts Of Life
227 | Downtown | Life With Lucy
Ellen Burstyn | Lifestyles | WndrWks. | Movie:
"Road Games" | Notre Dame
at Navy | Movie:
"Cocoon" | " | Movie:
"Blow Out" | Football
Penn State at |
| | Golden Girls
Amen | Movie:
"Vengeance: | Heart Of The
City | Movie:
"The | Austin City
Limits |  | " | | Movie:
"Red Sonja" | | West Virginia |
| | | The Story Of Tony Cimo" | Spenser: For Hire | Gunfighter" | Special Oper. | News | Sanford | Not News
Movie: | Bizarre | Movie:
"Jaws" | |
| 10:00 | | News
Solid Gold | Taxi
Movie: | M.T. Moore
Movie: | I, Claudius | Write Songs
Lifestyles | Night Tracks:
Chartbusters | "Florida
Straits" | Movie:
"The Stud" | | F'ball Rpt.
SportsCenter |
| | | It's A Living | "Road Games" | "The Attic" | Ferlinghetti's | Police Story | Night Tracks | Movie:
"Jagged | | In America
Movie: | Wrestling |
| 10:00 | | At The Movies
News | Rifleman | Solid Gold | | Twilight Zone | Night Tracks | Edge" | "Nightmare On
Elm Street" | "The
Alchemist" | College
Football |

Kentucky Fried Chicken.

2 pieces, biscuit, potatoes & gravy

Only $1.89

(with coupon)

Offer Expires

3002 Anderson

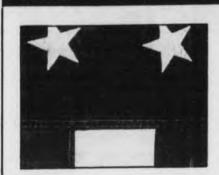

99¢ Horror FILMS TODAY & SATURDAY

539-1533

HOURS:

10 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Saturday
Closed Sundays 2030 Tuttle Creek Blvd

Election '86

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Topeka, KS

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday November 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 50

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week away.

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate, and 18.16 percent are undecided.

This is a change in attitude since the last

poll published by the Today's poll shows H cent decrease in str shows Docking moving the votes to 38.12 per increase of 9.12 per vote has decreased 18.16 percent, a chan

The respondents to ed the following ques vote today, would yeari-mutuel betting? day, would you be for lottery? If you were you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

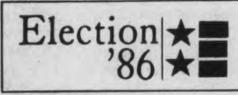

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears to be decreasing slightly, but not so much that the amendments would appear to be If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a state-owned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State students.

The passage of the liquor-by-the-drink

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|---------------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------------|--------------------------|------------------------------|----------------------------|--------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------|
| 7:00 | J. Kennedy | Jerry Falwell | Jimmy
Swaggart | Superfriends
Superfriends | Algebra | R. Schuller
Of Faith | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Fraggle Rock
Movie: | Movie:
"The Quinns" | Movie:
"The Goonies" | Tennis
Paris Open |
| 8:00 | | Discovery
Truth | Kenneth
Copeland | Wrestling | Sesame Street | Sunday Mass
Superman | Cont'd
Andy Griffith | "Breakin' 2
Electric | Thanksgiving | | Men's Final |
| 9:00 | | Oral Roberts
Larry Jones | It Is Written
David Brinkley | Wild, Wild
West | Mister Rogers
Special | Cisco Kid
Lone Ranger | Good News
Movie: | Boogaloo"
Movie: | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Movie:
"Cat Ballou" | Scholastic
SpoCtr. |
| 10:00 | Swaggart
World Tom. | Sunday
Morning | Abb. & Cost. | Maverick | Sesame Street | Rawhide | "The Dirty
Dozen" | "A Soldier's
Story" | | | SportsCente
Sunday |
| 1 1:00 | Meet Press | NFL Today | Wrestling | Star Trek | Reading
Secret City | Wild, Wild
West | " | "Remo | Paper Chase | Movie:
"Diamond | Auto Racing
NASCAR |
| 12:00 | | NFL Football
Dallas | Movie:
"Disorderly | Movie:
"Tarzan And | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | Movie:
"Shane" | Movie: | Williams: The
Adventure | Movie:
"Never Let Me | Horseshoe' | Atlanta
Journal 500 |
| 1:00 | 11 | Cowboys at
New York | Orderly" | The Green
Goddess" | Money World
Vintage Years | * | "Waterloo
Bridge" | Begins"
Survival | Go" | Movie:
"American | " |
| 2:00 | 11 | Giants | Dukes Of
Hazzard | Movie:
"Ma And Pa | Shakespeare
Hour | Rawhide | "Where Were | Movie: | Faerie Tale
Theatre | Dreamer" | Auto Racing
Continues |
| 3:00 | NFL Football
Kansas City | То Ве | Movie:
"Road Games" | Kettle At Home" | Firing Line | Movie: | You When The Lights Went | "One On One" | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"The Flamingo | PGA Golf |
| 4:00 | | Announced | " | Movie:
"Mr. Belvedere | TBA .
Espanol | "Knute
Rockne All | Out?"
Portrait Of | Fraggle Rock | Underground" | Kid",, | Seiko Match
Play Final |
| 5:00 | | CBS News
News | Fame | Rings The
Bell" | The Africans | American"
Fame | America
New Beaver | Movie: | Movie:
"Explorers" | Movie:
"Gremlins" | Round
Fall Fashion |
| | Our House | 60 Minutes | Disney Sunday
Movie | Solid Gold | Wild America
Nature Profiles | White Shadow | Wrestling | "Mass
Appeal" | " | " | SportsCente
Moments |
| 7:00 | | Murder, She
Wrote | Movie:
"Never Say | New Gidget
It's A Living | Nature | Love Boat | National
Geographic | Movie:
"To Live And | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Movie:
"The Goonies" | Wrestling |
| 8:00 | | Movie:
"Something In | Never Again" | Ted Knight
Check It Out! | Masterpiece
Theatre | Odd Couple | Explorer | Die In L.A." | " | 17 | " |
| 9:00 | | Common" | " | Tales
Write Songs | Great
Performances | News | Sports Page
Jerry Falwell | Movie:
"The Holcroft | Messiest Of
Gallagher | Movie:
"S.O.B." | Billiards
World Open |
| 10:30 | Maria | News
Debate | Taxi
Football | Mama's Family
Movie: | Movie:
"Devil And Miss | Tales
Lou Grant | J. Ankerberg | Covenant" | Brothers
Movie: | | SportsCenter: |
| 11:00 | | Big Family
Business Day | Mannix | "Betrayal" | Jones" | Fame | Jimmy
Swaggart | Movie:
"Flashpoint" | "Compro-
mising | Movie:
"Serial" | Tennis
Paris Open |
| | Gene Scott | Review | Fame | | | "
Cannon | World Tom.
Larry Jones | Movie | Positions"
Movie | Comedy | Men's Final |

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|-------------------------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Sinbad And | Movie:
"A Christmas | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | " | | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | The Eye Of
The Tiger" | Story" | "Cocoon" | Play Golf
PGA Golf |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"It's A | Movie:
"Protocol" | Movie:
"Stop, You're | M. Headroom | Seiko Match
Play Final |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Wonderful
World" | | Killing Me"
Huey Lewis | Movie:
"A Raisin In | Round
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Eleni" | Movie:
"The Minstrel | The Sun" | Aerobics
Darts |
| 12:30 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The Last | " | Man" | Movie: | College
Football |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nature | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Gangster" | Movie:
"Johnny | Movie:
"Great | "Born
Yesterday" | Penn State at
West Virginia |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Audubon
McLaughlin | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Dangerously"
Tucker | Expectations" | Movie: | |
| 3:30 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Henry's Cat I | "Toby And
The Koala | "The Four Seasons" | Wrestling |
| 4:00 | | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Henry's Cat II
Movie: | Bear"
Redhawk | Movie: | Cup
Sports |
| 5:00 | | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | New Beaver
Down To Earth | "Wholly
Moses!" | Bim, The Little
Donkey | "Cover Girl" | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | News | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Fraggle Rock | Q.E.D. | M. Headroom | SportsCenter
NFL Films |
| 7:00 | ALF | Kate & Allie
My Sister Sam | MacGyver | Barnaby Jones | Universe
Changed | Love Boat | Movie:
"The Prisoner | Movie:
"Protocol" | Movie:
"A Christmas | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Magic Years
NFL Matchup |
| 8:00 | 100000 | Newhart
D. Women | NFL Football
Los Angeles | Movie:
"The Burning | Making Of A
Continent | Fantasy Island | Of Zenda" | " | Story" | " | Skate
America |
| 9:30 | | Cagney & Lacey | Rams at
Chicago | Bed" | Story Of
English | News | World Of
Audubon | All-Star Rock
Concert | Movie:
"The Wild | Movie:
"Continental | Roller Derby |
| 10:30 | News | News
Dating Game | Bears | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Bonanza | Movie:
"Johnny | Life", | Divide" | Aerobatics
SportsCente |
| 11:00 | 0 | Night Heat | Football
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | J. McLaughlin | Movie: | National Geographic | Dangerously"
Movie: | Movie:
"The Minstrel | Movie:
"Mishima" | Auto Racing
Fuji 1000 |
| 40:00 | Letterman
Gene Scott | Movie:
"Hotline" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Rome
Adventure" | Explorer | "The
Clairvoyant" | Man"
Movie | " | 1985 Bears
Sports |

Friday, October 31, 1986

Film Review

Movie could provide treat to rock fans

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

Once upon a time, there was a character named Toad in a movie titled "American Graffiti." Now the actor who played Toad, Charles Martin Smith, is making movies. Well, if Opie (Ron Howard) can do it ("Splash," "Cocoon"), why can't Toad?

Surprisingly, his movie, "Trick or Treat" isn't bad. Not bad at all. It's a horror/comedy with a mean satirical edge and a bizarre premise.

It's about a teen-ager, Ragman (played by Marc Price), who lives for the heavy metal churned out by groups like Twisted Sister, KISS, and Ratt. But his favorite performer is Sammi Curr, a guitar wielding, leather-clad rock star who sneers at everyone in sight.

Once Ragman learns that Sammi Curr has died in a fire, he nearly goes into shock. But then he learns about Sammi Curr's as-yet-unreleased final album, "Songs in the Key of Death." When he gets hold of the acetate, the only known copy of the record, he finds the record contains some of those infamous backward messages that we've all heard about. These messages, though, speak directly to Ragman and tell him what to do.

This turns the movie into a nightmare come true for recordrating advocates. Yes, this record is satanic. And yes, this record will have dire consequences for anyone who plays it.

By making these consequences so literal, the movie becomes a satire, with its target being those people who believe rock 'n' roll itself is responsible for destroying the morals of teen-agers.

"Trick or Treat" isn't the kind of movie everyone will like. For some people, it will be plain decadent, but at its core the movie is optimistic. It's about a boy finding out that his idol isn't all he's cracked up to be.

The movie also gives cameo roles to two real rock stars. Gene Simmons, of KISS, plays a D.J. while Ozzy Osbourne gives a delirious performance as a preacher campaigning against rock 'n' roll.

Travis sa chastises

Apple bobbi

Jason Hannah bobs for

Rachele Gagliano and C

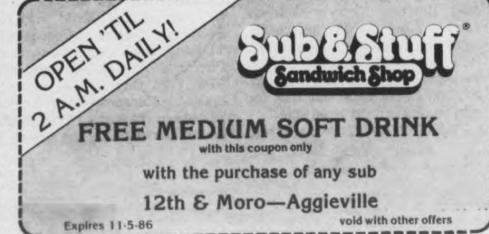

By JUDY LUNDSTRO Staff Writer

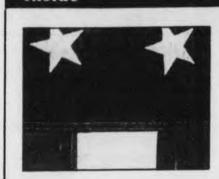

Athletic fee or no athle baseball and women's ba will be maintained as prog the University's Departmenter tercollegiate Athletics, K director of athletics said Fri

"Whether the fee comes we're going to have basei women's basketball at Kans University," Athletic Directa Travis said. "We're not con dropping anything."

Travis was in Chicago fo tional Collegiate Athletic Ass Division I-A meeting last w said he got "quite a shock" called home Wednesday.

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Collegian

Monday November 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 50

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate. and

18.16 percent are unde This is a change in a poll published by the Today's poll shows H cent decrease in str shows Docking moving the votes to 38.12 per increase of 9.12 per vote has decreased

18.16 percent, a chan The respondents to ed the following ques vote today, would you pari-mutuel betting? day, would you be for lottery? If you were you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink?
Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a state-owned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State

Election * Colle

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

Friday, October 31, 1986

Tenor highlights premiere

Hawaii Opera Theater production of DER FLIEGENDE HOLLANDER

'George Gray, tenor is cast as the hunter Erik. Clean, clear, and always supportive, his performance emerged as a masterfully subtle foil, musically and dramatically, to be forceful and emotive Senta and the Dutchman. Keenly perceptive work here.'

- Howard Driver, Honolulu Star-Bulletin

Adrian Bryttan, conductor of the Kansas State Orchestra, hopes it will be the beginning of a "Great Artist Series."

On Nov. 7, the darkest corners of McCain Auditorium will resonate with the powerful sound of internationally known dramatic tenor George Gray.

"He's just at the threshold of a major career," said Bryttan, assistant professor of music. "I saw him in New York and he got very nice reviews from the critics."

Gray will be singing the great Romantic arias, accompanied by an 80-piece orchestra — one of the biggest orchestras to take the Mc-Cain stage.

The orchestra will feature seven harpists, two timpanists and eight french horns — a much larger ensemble than usual.

Musicians are members of the Kansas State Orchestra and Manhattan residents, including some high school students. But, said Bryttan, Gray's fabulous voice will hold its own against it.

"We're talking a major voice. He's going to overpower this 80-piece orchestra like nothing. McCain is an excellent hall for him to sing in." Bryttan said.

Part of the excitement of bringing a great voice like Gray's to sing in McCain is the potential for a "Great Artist Series," which Bryttan hopes will begin with Gray. He will be brought to K-State through a grant, secured by Bryttan, from the Kansas Arts Commission and the Manhattan Arts Council. Currently with the Dallas Opera Company, Gray is singing the title role in Giordano's "Andrea Chenier" in November.

In addition to his performance, Gray has agreed to present master classes for the National Association of Teachers of Singers at their regional conference the next day. He will also judge the finals of the voice competitions.

Gray belongs to an elite group of less than 10 dramatic tenors who can meet the demands of particularly difficult opera works. He has sung the roles of Cavaradossi in Puccini's "Tosca," Siegmund in Wagner's "Die Walkure," and Siegfried in Wagner's "Siegfried" and "Gotterdammerung."

During the 1987 season, Gray will sing Verdi's "Otello" with the Seattle Opera Company, "Tosca," Bizet's "Carmen," and Puccini's "Turandot" with the New York City Opera, and will make his European debut singing Tristan in Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" as he opens the season of the Netherlands Opera.

Gray will arrive Nov. 6, just in time for a light rehearsal with the orchestra that evening. But Bryttan is insisting he "save" his voice. Even the orchestra will be unaware of the full power of his voice until the concert.

Gray will sing the best loved tenor arias from "Tosca," and "Pagliacci," along with selections from Wagner, including "Siegfried's Death and Funeral March."

In addition, the orchestra will perform such spectacular works as Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries" and Mascagni's "Intermezzo" from the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The concert, which begins at 8 p.m., is free to the public.

Apple bobby
Jason Hannah bobs for Rachele Gagliano and Travis Sa

chastises

By JUDY LUNDSTF Staff Writer

Athletic fee or no ath baseball and women's will be maintained as prothe University's Departm tercollegiate Athletics, director of athletics said F

"Whether the fee comwe're going to have bas women's basketball at Ka University," Athletic Dire-Travis said. "We're not c dropping anything."

Travis was in Chicago tional Collegiate Athletic A Division I-A meeting last said he got "quite a shock called home Wednesday.

Topeka, KS

Coming Close

*5-DIGIT 66612

164 5/1/87  Kansas State Mistorical Soc

> The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Monday November 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 50

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate, and 18.16 percent are undecided.

This is a change in attitude since the last poll published by the Today's poll shows H cent decrease in stu shows Docking movi the votes to 38.12 per increase of 9.12 per vote has decreased 18.16 percent, a chan

The respondents to ed the following ques vote today, would y pari-mutuel betting? day, would you be for lottery? If you were

you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears to be decreasing slightly, but not so much that the amendments would appear to be

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State

The passage of the liquor-by-the-drink

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

Friday, October 31, 1986

Film Review

'Soul Man' humorous, but ignores real issue

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

Movies about college (or high school) students are so numerous anymore that it's difficult to tell one from another. But, on occasion one comes along that stands out such as Rob Reiner's "The Sure Thing" or John Hughes' "Sixteen Candles."

"Soul Man" - a new film starring C. Thomas Howell - has the potential to be a standout, but sadly the movie skates around the issues it raises, all the time pretending something important is taking place.

Most of this potential comes from the movie's plot. Howell plays a 22-year-old college graduate named Mark Watson, who has just been accepted into Harvard Law School.

There is just one catch: His father, played by James B. Sikking (of NBC's "Hill Street Blues"), refuses to give him any money. Somehow, Mark must get the $54,000 he will need for three years of law school, but because his father is wealthy he can't get a student loan. And because his own credit rating is the pits, no bank will loan him money.

Finally he comes up with an alternative: He chemically darkens his skin so he can pass as a black, and then he applies for a scholarship meant only for black students. "Black is in - it's the Cosby decade," he says, and heads off for Harvard.

The filmmakers would like us to think their movie is about Mark finding out about racism firsthand. In the past, Mark never worried about racism, he didn't have to. His father's wealth put a nice gloss on everything. So how long can Mark keep saying to himself, "Hey, I'm white," while disregarding the discrimination he runs up against?

But this is where the movie fails. Instead of dealing with this issue, the filmmakers opt for farce. It is only at the movie's end that Mark reacts against prejudice, and that's far too late. Even with its many shortcomings, "Soul Man" is still a funny movie. There's a good scene where two basketball team captains (one played by Ron Reagan, President Reagan's son) argue while choosing team players. They both want Mark because he's black

Mark Watson (C. Thomas Howell) and Sarah Walker (Rea Dawn Chong) share a laugh in "Soul Man."

The movie is also full of interesting characters. Rae Dawn Chong plays a student who tries to resist Mark's advances. James Earl Jones does a John Houseman impression in his performance as Professor Banks. Melora Hardin plays a beautiful young woman who constantly tries to drag Mark into bed, thinking she's doing social work. Leslie Nielsen plays a landlord who's stunned to find a black - Mark - in one of his apartments. And Jeff Altman.

often a guest on "Late Night with David Letterman," plays the apartment manager.

But the promising cast of characters and the promising situations never really amount to much in "Soul Man." The movie's feather-light comedy ends up trivializing the important issues.

Jazz Ensemble plans for summer trip to European music festivals

By ROBIN HARNDEN Collegian Reporter

One, two. One, two, three, four ... The musicians in the Concert Jazz Ensemble have their instruments tuned and are ready to practice - again.

Air swirling from the ensemble's practice room in McCain is soon filled with brassy sounds and a rhythm that shakes the floor and rumbles in the walls.

There is a reason for all the intense practice. The group of musicians has been invited to perform in Switzerland and at The Hague, Holland, next summer.

And a lot still has to be done.

Montreaux, a popular tourist center in Switzerland, is hosting the International Jazz Festival. It features the top jazz bands in the world. The North Sea Festival at The Hague presents an equally prestigious challenge.

Kelly Glover, sophomore in music education, is the only one of the ensemble's 19 members who has been to one of the festivals before. He said he was "really excited" about the trip.

The group is composed of undergraduate and graduate students of many majors: engineering, agriculture and marketing, as well as music, to name a few. Four play trombones, four play trumpets and another four are on saxophones. A few are with percussion, a couple handle the guitars and one plays the piano. Together they produce the sounds that take them to entertain along with the best.

"These are not competitive festivals," Bill McFarlin, the group's conductor, said, "but participation is by invitation only.

"Once you're selected to perform, there's no grand prize.'

McFarlin leads the ensemble through practice with phrases like: "100 percent better...almost 100 percent better," and, "What I want there is 'DE DAH BOO BOM," and "Give me a real nice kicker there."

The band gives him the "kicker" alright, and draws passersby into the room to get a closer taste of this laid-back style of music.

Regardless of the ensemble's ability or reputation, the 10-day trip will still cost about $1,500 per student, McFarlin said. So the group is undertaking projects to help raise the money. Fund-raisers include a number of off-campus performances, such as for the state convention of the Kansas Bar Association and a dance for the Rotary Club. Members of the ensemble will do things individually or in small groups, too, to help foot the bill.

and chili cook-off may be in the planning stages as well. "But the capper on the fundraising activities of the year will be

McFarlin said a jazz car wash

the major benefit concert in April," McFarlin said.

The jazz ensemble's first open concert on campus is at 8 p.m. No. 24 in Union Forum Hall.

Glover, who plays a saxophone in the band, said "there will be a lot of hot bands" at the festivals.

"I think it's going to be a great experience for the whole band - a great cultural experience," Glover said.

About 10 university big bands from all over the world are invited to the festivals, McFarlin said.

"We really feel privileged," he said. "It's a great challenge." The ensemble is going to open up the tour to 20 or 30 alumni and students who would like to "see some great jazz in Europe," McFarlin said. Perhaps there is more behind McFarlin's suggestions that the practicing musicians "need stronger time on that phrase," and his explanation that someone has a "dotted-half, quarter tied to a halfnote and another quarter," than meets the ear.

For even while the musicians concentrate on their music, they have something else to think about: a chance to perform in

"We'll see quite a bit of growth in the ensemble this year," McFarlin said. "It's always nice to have something to work toward."

NAACP says 'Soul Man' plot depicts racism, sexism

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - "Soul Man," a movie comedy about a white who poses as a black man to win a scholarship to Harvard Law School, is racist, the local NAACP chapter charged Thursday.

'We certainly believe it is possible to use humor to reveal the ridiculousness of racism," chapter president Willis Edwards said in a statement.

"However, the unhumorous and quite seriously made plot point of 'Soul Man' is that NO black student could be found in all of Los Angeles who was academically qualified for a scholarship geared to blacks,"

The New World release, which stars C. Thomas Howell, Arve Gross, Rae Dawn Chong and James Earl Jones, sold $4.4 million worth of tickets over the weekend in 1,282 theaters, ranking it third at the box office in its first weekend of release

Howell plays a young man who uses tanning pills and curls his hair in order to pose as a black and get a minority scholarship after his wealthy parents refuse to pay his law school tuition.

Producer Steve Tisch, who also produced "Risky Business," defended the film.

"People don't like to be lectured to, but if they can be entertained maybe they'll go away with something," he said.

"Look at 'Tootsie," he said, referring to the Dustin Hoffman hit about a man who poses as a woman to get an acting job. "It used comedy as a device to expose sexual stereotyping. I think 'Soul Man' uses it to explode racial stereotyping."

The national office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which asked its Beverly Hills-Hollywood chapter to report on the film, will make a decision soon whether to call for a boycott, Edwards said.

In his statement, Edwards said that while the film "purported to be revelatory about racism through the use of humor, in actuality (it) reveals the racism and sexism of its creators."

The Black American Law Students Association of the University of California at Los Angeles also attacked the "shallow and futile portrayal of black law students at Harvard Law School. We find the Al Jolson-like portrayal of the main character offensive and trivializing."

The director of "Soul Man," Steve Miner, said the film makes the point that it was unfair for the Howell character to take a scholarship from a minority student.

"In fact, he suffers because of it. Things go wrong," he said. "He begins to get a glimmer of what it might be like to be black in America."

Apple bobbi Jason Hannah bobs for Rachele Gagliano and C

Travis sa chastises

By JUDY LUNDSTRO Staff Writer

Athletic fee or no athle baseball and women's ba will be maintained as prog the University's Departmen tercollegiate Athletics, K director of athletics said Fri "Whether the fee comes women's basketball at Kans University," Athletic Directi Travis said. "We're not con dropping anything.' Travis was in Chicago fo tional Collegiate Athletic Ass Division I-A meeting last w said he got "quite a shock"

called home Wednesday.

we're going to have basei

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Monday

November 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 50

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the

Republi-Docking

18.16 pe This i poll pub Today's cent de shows [the vote increas vote ha 18.16 pe The r ed the t vote to: pari-mu day, wo lottery?

you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing Election *

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

FSPN

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

3X-

en,

Trud

aid

nat

/as id-

ed,

ips ison ys nd ald

te of-

to on nt Ve

of ais

ur-

if ne

in

m ıy

Friday, October 31, 1986

Film Review

Newman to hustle pool in sequel

By LISA ALLSPACH Collegian Reporter

"The Color of Money," starring Paul Newman and Tom Cruise, is a sequel to the 1961 film "The Hustler," which starred Jackie Gleason as Minnesota Fats and Paul Newman as Fast Eddie Felson.

Directed by Martin Scorsese, director of such films as "Taxi Driver" and "After Hours," the movie centers around an older Fast Eddie Felson, pool hall hustler in younger days turned liquor seller, and Vincent, a naive yet "flaky" kid who becomes Fast Eddie's protege. As Fast Eddie attempts to teach Vincent the art of hustling, a conflict emerges between the two as an underlying competition develops.

After being the victim of a humiliating hustle himself, Fast Eddie sends Vincent on his own, saying he had nothing more to teach. Later, the two meet again in a national 9-ball competition. Fast Eddie and Vincent eventually become opponents, and the movie concludes with an intense rivalry between the "father and the Newman does an excellent job in his portrayal of the hustler whose passion for a hustle is matched only by his passion for the game. "The Hustler" brought Newman an Academy Award nomination in 1961, and "Color" may bring him yet another. Newman's character never wavers from the focal point of the script: the taste of victory.

"Money won is worth twice as much as money earned," says Fast Eddie to Vincent in a telling moment, and the cold clarity of this theme is reemphasized by the realistic but stark cinematography.

Cruise's contribution to the movie is not to be underestimated. Cruise exudes a tremendous amount of energy and spontaneity in the character of Vincent. Vincent takes the audience to a level of innocent glee in self-fulfillment that many are likely to have forgotten and left behind for the stale social standards of an achievement-oriented culture.

See MONEY, Page 7

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|-----------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------|---------------------------|------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"The War Boy" | "Isaac
Littlefeathers" | Movie:
"Great | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 |  | 31
31 | n
n | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Not News | Music School | Expectations" | Golf
PGA Golf |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"Florida | Movie:
"Remains To | Movie:
"The New | Seiko Match
Play Semifina |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Whiplash" | Straits" | Be Seen"
Movie: | Maverick"
MaxTrax | Round
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"The River" | "Jaws" | Movie:
"The Hasty | Aerobics
Outdoors |
| 12:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Three | n
n | " " | Heart" | Tennis
Paris Open |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Masterpiece
Theatre | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Comrades" | Movie: | Movie:
"Love With A | "She's
Working Her | Men's
Semifinals |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Mod. Maturity
Living | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | "Kidço" | Perfect
Stranger" | Way Through
College" | " |
| 3:00 |
Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Worst Witch | PJ & Pres. Son | In America
"Journey Of | Women's
Bowling |
| 4:00 | | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | | Movie:
"Isaac | Robert F.
Kennedy" | Pro Tour
Scholastic |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | Movie:
"Victor / | Littlefeathers" | Movie:
"The | SportsLook
NBA Today |
| 6:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Victoria" | Paper Chase | Candidate" | SportsCenter
NFL Stars |
| 7:00 | | Election
Coverage | Who's Boss?
Moonlighting | Movie:
"The Man Who | Nova | Movie:
"The Blues | Movie:
"Thirty | Movie:
"Movers & | Movie:
"Jaws" | Movie:
"The Final | NHL Hockey
Washington |
| 8:00 | "The Heroes
Of Telemark" | " | Election | Knew Too
Much" | The Africans | Brothers" | Seconds Over
Tokyo" | Shakers"
Not News | " | Countdown" | Capitals at
New York |
| 9:00 | " | | Coverage | TBA " | Tenko | |  | Surveillance | Movie:
"A Nightmare | Movie:
"Time After | Islanders |
| 10:00 | News
Election | News
Election | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | News
Magnum, P.I. | NBA
Basketball | Movie:
"Florida | On Elm
Street" | Time" | Auto Racing
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | Coverage
David | Coverage
Continues | Nightline | News
I Love Lucy | Newsleaders | Movie: | Rockets at
Kings | Straits"
Movie: | Movie:
"Death Wish | Movie:
"Creepshow" | NFL Films
Top Rank |
| | Letterman | | 700 Club | Dick Van Dyke | | "Operation | Maria | "Return Of The | 3" | " " | Boxing |

NOVEMBER 5, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | MIRS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|-------------------------|-------------------------|----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Comfort And | Peter No-Tail
Movie: | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCenter |
| 8:00 | | | | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Joy" | "Hambone
And Hillie" | "Jaws" | NBA Today
PGA Golf |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Double | Movie:
"Grease" | Movie:
"The Tartars" | | Seiko Match
Play Final |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Trouble" | " | Movie: | Movie:
"Twentieth | Round
SportsLook |
| _ | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Finian's | "Victor /
Victoria" | Century"
Movie: | Aerobics
NHL Hockey |
| 12:30 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | "Alcatraz: The Whole | Rainbow" | " | "Hambone
And Hillie" | Washington
Capitals at |
| 4:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nova | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Shocking
Story" | Movie: | Movie:
"My Science | Man. Transfer
Movie: | New York
Islanders |
| 0:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Story Of
English | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | "Irreconcilable
Differences" | Project" | "Edge Of The City" | Wrestling |
| |
Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurts | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | One Too Many | Peter No-Tail | Movie:
"Cocoon" | ** |
| 4.00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Movie: | Faerie Tale | : | Horse Wk. |
| | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | "Runaway" | Theatre
Movie: | Movie:
"The Goonies" | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| C:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | The Talk Show | "Hambone
And Hillie" | " | SportsCenter
Trap Shoot |
| | Highway To Heaven | New Mike
Hammer | P. Strangers
Head Of Class | Barnaby Jones | The Goat
Gland Doctor | Movie:
"Dirty Harry" | Movie:
"Boom Town" | Movie:
"Grease" | Brothers
Bizarre | Movie:
"Jaws" | Cycling |
| | Gimme Break
You Again? | Magnum, P.I. | Dynasty | Movie:
"Road Games" | Discover | n
n | : | | Movie:
"Victor / |  | Basketball
U.S.S.R. at |
| | St. Elsewhere | Equalizer | Hotel | | Entrepreneurs | News | Movie: | Movie:
"Irreconcilable | Victoria" | Movie | Arizona
University |
| 10:00 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | "Take The
High Ground" | Differences" | Movie: | Movie: | Cup
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | David | Simon &
Simon | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Old House | Movie: | 11 | Movie:
"Jagged | "Mistress
Pamela" | "Cocoon" | Auto Racing
Fishing |
| 10:00 | Letterman
Gene Scott | "He's Not Your
Son" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Dial M For Murder" | Goodwill
Games | Edge" | "My Science
Project" | Movie | Fishing
NBA Today |

Appl Jason Ha Rachele (

Tra chas

By JU

Athletic f baseball ar, will be main the Univers tercollegiat director of a

"Whether we're going women's ba University, Travis said dropping an Travis Wa tional Colleg

Division I-A

said he got called home

$3 OFF Call New Beginnings today for an appointment

IT'S TIME FOR A HAIR CUT

537-1003 Coupon good now through Parent's weekend Nov. 8

A SEAS OF THE SECRET OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE SECRETARY SECRETARY SECRETARY OF THE PROPERTY OF T

AT "NEW BEGINNINGS"

LOCATED IN

TIMES SQUARE

1107 N. 3rd

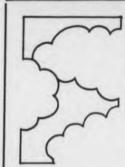

1125A Laramie Plaza

Buy any 6" sub, get one of equal value FREE!

Now through Nov. 6 (with coupon)

*Void with any other offer

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Topeka, KS

Coming Close

*5-DIGIT 66612

164 5/1/87  7 Kansas State Historical Soc

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Monday November 3, 1986

Volume 93, Number 50

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate, and 18.16 percent are undecided.

This is a change in attitude since the last

poll published by the Today's poll shows H. cent decrease in stu shows Docking movin the votes to 38.12 per increase of 9.12 per vote has decreased 18.16 percent, a chan,

The respondents to ed the following ques vote today, would yo pari-mutuel betting? day, would you be for lottery? If you were

you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears to be decreasing slightly, but not so much that the amendments would appear to be

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State students.

The passage of the liquor-by-the-drink

Election *

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

3Xen,

ud

aid

at

/as id-

dd

te

to

Ve.

n

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|----------------------------|---------------------------|---------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Вого | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Transylvania | Movie:
"Cocoon" | "The Bedford
Incident" | Business
SportsCente |
| 8:00 | " " | , | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | 6-5000'' | Cont'd | Cont'd
Movie: | Horse Wk.
Cup |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Dark Victory" | Movie:
"Mass | Movie:
"Major | "Cover Girl" | Tennis
Paris Open |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | " | Appeal" | Barbara" | Movie: | Men's Final
SportsLook |
| 1 1:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | "Remo
Williams: The | Movie: | "Better Off
Dead" | Aerobics
Outdoors |
| 12:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | "Alcatraz: The Whole | Adventure
Begins" | "Red Sonja" | Movie: | Basketball
U.S.S.R. at |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Shakespeare
Hour | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Shocking
Story" | Movie:
"Second-Hand | Movie:
"Oh God! You | "Threshold" | Arizona
University |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Search For
The Killers | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Hearts" | Devil" | Movie: | Kick Boxing |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Survival | Redhawk
Moonstone | "Cat Ballou" | Skate
America |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Movie Makers
Movie: | Gem
Thanksgiving | "Beast From | Billiards
World Open |
| | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | "Eleni" | Movie:
"Cocoon" | 20,000
Fathoms" | SportsLook
Fishing |
| 6:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Movie: | n. | Movie:
"Megaforce" | SportsCente
SpeedWeek |
| 7:00 | Cosby Show
Family Ties | Simon &
Simon | Our World | Movie:
"The Rose" | Ten Who
Dared | Movie:
"Borderline" | Movie:
"King Kong" | "Blame It On
The Night" | Movie:
"Oh God! You | " | Auto Racing
Fall Nationals |
| | Cheers
Night Court | Knots Landing | The Colbys | » | Mystery! | " | " | Movie:
"To Live And | Devil' | Movie:
"Wild Geese | College
Football |
| 0:00 | Hill Street
Blues | Kay O'Brien | 20 / 20 | " | A.C. Clarke
S. Previews | News | Movie:
"Point Blank" | Die In L.A." | Movie:
"Red Sonja" | 11" | Fresno State
at Nevada-La |
| 10:00 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | " | Inside The
NFL | " | Comedy
Movie: | Vegas |
| 4 4:00 |
David | Adderly | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Computer | Movie: | Movie:
"Air Force" | Not News
Movie: | Movie:
"Silver Bullet" | "Better Off
Dead" | SportsCenter
Superbouts |
| 10:00 | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Massacre In
Rome" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "A Shot In The Dark" | " | "Birdy" | Movie | "Out Of Control" | Trap Shoot |

Friday, October 31, 1986

Continued from Page 6

Though the character has remnants of his "Risky Business" and "Top Gun" characters, Cruise has made an obvious attempt to differentiate Vince from his other roles. His sense of humor and his volatile emotions, coupled with his childlike antics and aura of bravado make Vince a likable guy, a bright spark in a dark pool hall. Vince pulls the movie out of bleak scenes and sleazy backdrops.

The intensely competitive spirit of the characters comes alive on screen, and the trick shots and camera angles on the games add another dimension to the movie's theme. As for the person unfamiliar with the game or the amateur who has only flirted with the art of shooting pool, the movie may seem boring and monotonous.

Game after game, shot after shot, every hustle more important than the last, an uninterested observer would not feel they got their money's worth. The curious moviegoer, however, might want to put "The Color of Money" on their list of movies to see.

Apple bobbi Jason Hannah bobs for Rachele Gagliano and C

Travis sa chastises

By JUDY LUNDSTRO Staff Writer

Athletic fee or no athle baseball and women's ba will be maintained as prog the University's Departmen tercollegiate Athletics, K director of athletics said Fri

"Whether the fee comes we're going to have basei women's basketball at Kans University," Athletic Directa Travis said. "We're not con dropping anything.'

Travis was in Chicago fo tional Collegiate Athletic Ass Division I-A meeting last w said he got "quite a shock" called home Wednesday.

DAILY AT 4 30 AND 8 50

ALIENS

THE NEW MOVIE

DAILY AT 6 20 ONLY MATINEE SAT & SUN AT 2 00

JUMPIN'

JACK

FLASH

WHOOPI GOLDBERG

DAILY AT 4:30-7:10-9:20

MAT. SAT. & SUN. 2:10

SKY BANDITS

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25

MATINEE SAT. & SUN.

AT 2:20

4:45-7:20 POLTERGEIST

The

Other

Side

DAILY AT

-9:25

MATINEE

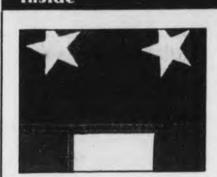

SAT.

& SUN

THE TOUGH KEEP GOING GREGORY HINES BILLY CRYSTAL 5TH WEEK DAILY 7:20, 9:35 TOUGH GUYS SAT./SUN. MAT. DAILY 2:30, 5:00 7:10, 9:20 4TH GREAT WEEK SAT./SUN. MAT. KATHLEEN TURNER 2:15, 4:30 (PG) "A DEEPLY ROMANTIC ... AND SEXY LOVE STORY." Jot Married -PETER TRAVERS DAILY hildren of a 7:05, 9:15 SAT./SUN. MAT lesser god 2:15, 4:40 WILLIAM HURT A MOVIE WITH MARLEE MATLIN HEART & SOUL DAILY 7:00, 9:25 SAT./SUN. MAT. 2:10, 4:35 (R) C. THOMAS HOWELL RAE DAWN CHONG SOUL MAN Like father. DAILY 7:15, 9:20 SAT./SUN. MAT. 2:20, 4:25 (PG-13) Like son. Like hell. LAST 7 DAYS CHRISTOPHER WALKEN

QUALITY IS OUR PROMISE

Litchfield Theatres

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Monday

November 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 50

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican ca Docking, the 18.16 percent #

This is a cha poll published Today's poll s! cent decrease shows Docking the votes to 38 increase of 9. vote has decr 18.16 percent,

The respond ed the following vote today, w pari-mutuel be day, would yo lottery? If you

you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided This shows the lottery losing Election * Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

etting

25 ground ex-

Jacobsen,

cans, jour-rson and

ind. It said

. diplomat body was

were kidert Reed,

id Edward ier groups

em. Christelevision s two days ricans and iges would on, a State U.S. of-hostage to spoke on statement lease, "We ment fully quences of age of this with curdd lead, if n of the written in a Western lid not say ited States

E, Page 11

Friday, October 31, 1986

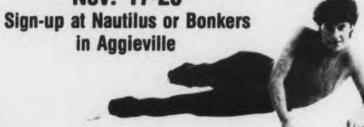

KSDB 88.1 CHECK OUT Sports Scene WITH DICK WARREN

Monday Night at 6:30

NEW HOURS FOR HALLOWEEN Stay up and party with KSDB We will be on the air until 4 a.m.

For the Most Complete Election Coverage in Manhattan, Tune to KSDB. MOST PHYSICAL FITNESS CONTEST Over $1,000 in PRIZES

Nov. 17-20

Nautilus Total Fitness Club

1100 MORO AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN 776-1654

Cocoon

Senior citizens find the fountain of youth thanks to a little alien help.

Manhattan Cable T.V. 610 Humboldt 776-9239

Apple b Jason Hannah) Rachele Gaglia:

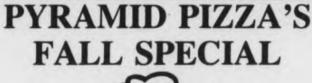

Travis chastis

By JUDY LU Staff V

Athletic fee or baseball and wor will be maintained the University's L tercollegiate Ath. director of athletic.

"Whether the fe we're going to he women's basketba University," Athle' Travis said. "We': dropping anything Travis was in (tional Collegiate A Division I-A meets said he got "quite called home Wedn

BY-THE-SLICE

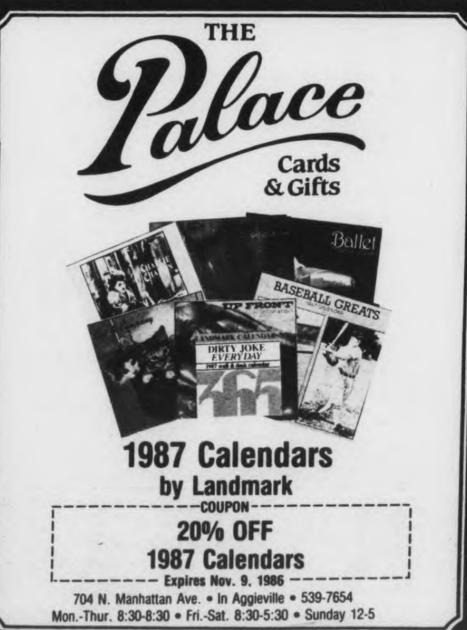

AND

FAST,

FREE DELIVERY

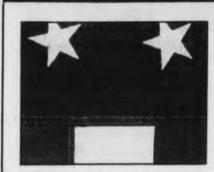

en they 540, she of smoke p of the nelting

m

1 educawho put ained in "I just nd put it

of the were not Page 11

As the campaign for the candidates and issues winds down, last-minute decisions are being made by the voters. See election special.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind southwest 10 to 15 mph. Partly cloudy tonight, low in mid-30s.

Sports

Coming Close

The K-State women's cross country team takes a narrow defeat to Oklahoma State during Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Monday November 3, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 50

Survey gauges campus pre-election attitude

Final poll shows Hayden retaining lead

By The Collegian Staff

In the final Collegian election poll, Kansas Speaker of the House Mike Hayden seems to still have a comfortable lead among K-State students over his opponent in the gubernatorial race, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, with the election less than a week

Of the 876 students randomly polled by telephone, 43.72 percent favor Hayden, the Republican candidate, 38.12 percent favor Docking, the Democratic candidate, and 18.16 percent are undecided.

This is a change in attitude since the last poll published by the Collegian on Oct. 13. Today's poll shows Hayden with a 6.18 percent decrease in student's votes. It also shows Docking moving from 29 percent of the votes to 38.12 percent of the votes, an increase of 9.12 percent. The undecided vote has decreased from 21.1 percent to 18.16 percent, a change of 2.94 percent.

The respondents to the survey were asked the following questions: If you were to vote today, would you be for or against pari-mutuel betting? If you were to vote today, would you be for or against the state lottery? If you were to vote today, would you be for or against liquor-by-the-drink? Mike Hayden is the Republican candidate for governor, Tom Docking is the Democratic candidate for governor. If you were to vote today, which would you vote

Of the students polled, 55 percent of the respondents are male and 45 percent are female. Most of the respondents, 62.7 percent, are registered to vote, while 37.3 percent are not registered.

When asked about the issues placed on Tuesday's ballot, student opinion appears to be decreasing slightly, but not so much that the amendments would appear to be in danger of not passing.

Pari-mutuel betting would allow the state to build race tracks and other facilities for limited gambling in Kansas.

The survey showed 72.83 percent of the students in favor of pari-mutuel betting, with 20.33 percent against it and 6.84 percent undecided.

The last poll showed 76.5 percent of the students in favor of pari-mutuel betting, with 16.3 percent against the measure and 4.8 percent undecided. This shows a 3.67 percent loss of K-State student approval for the measure.

If the lottery measure is passed, it would allow for the establishment of a stateowned lottery to be set up like the lotteries in Missouri and Colorado.

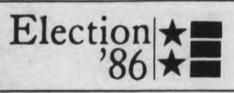

Of the students polled, 77.9 percent are in favor of the lottery measure, with 16.1 percent against it and 6.05 percent undecided.

In the last poll, 83.4 percent of the students favored the lottery, 11.7 percent were against it and 4.9 percent were undecided. This shows the lottery losing 5.5 percentage points among K-State students.

The passage of the liquor-by-the-drink measure would mean the end of private reciprocal clubs on the basis of a countyby-county vote. In counties favoring the measure, bars that now must be within the club system could become open bars for those 21 years or older.

Liquor-by-the-drink gained 73.40 percent of the student's approval, with 19.76 against the measure and 6.84 undecided.

In the last poll, 78.9 percent were for the measure, 16.3 were against it and 4.8 percent were undecided, showing a loss of 5.5 percent of student approval for the issue.

Collegian Poll

The Candidates

Tom Docking For: 38.1%

Mike Hayden For: 43.7%

Undecided: 18.2%

The Issues

Liquor by the Drink For: 73.4% Against: 19.8% Undecided: 6.8%

Lottery For: 77.9% Against: 16.1% Undecided: 6% Pari-Mutuel Betting For: 72.8% Against: 20.3% Undecided: 6.9%

Apple bobbin'

Jason Hannah bobs for apples as Joan Hefley helps and Lynn Harris, Halloween. The Alpha Xis entertained children at their house with games Rachele Gagliano and Catherine Kelly, all of Alpha Xi Delta, watch on and story telling and escorted them around for trick or treating.

Shiite captors free American hostage, hint more releases

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Shiite Moslem kidnappers freed American hospital administrator David Jacobsen on Sunday after holding him for 17 months and said recent U.S. moves might lead to release of other American captives in Lebanon.

Jacobsen, 55, of Huntington Beach, Calif., was turned over to U.S. officials on a street in Moslem west Beirut. A U.S. Embassy official, who insisted on anonymity, said Jacobsen was in good health and was at the embassy compound in Christian east Beirut.

Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite flew in from Cyprus, met with Jacobsen, and then told The Associated Press in a telephone interview, "David is well. He and I had a conversation together for some hours. He is looking forward to seeing his family and friends."

Waite, an emissary of Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, reportedly has been shuttling among Lebanon, Syria and Cyprus since Thursday in an effort to free foreign hostages in Lebanon. It was not clear what role, if any, he had in Jacobsen's release.

Waite was seen Sunday boarding a U.S. military helicopter in Larnaca, Cyprus, in his first public appearance since Friday.

Islamic Jihad, the underground extremist group that held Jacobsen, still holds two other Americans, journalist Terry A. Anderson and educator Thomas Sutherland. It said last year that it killed U.S. diplomat William Buckley, but no body was found.

Three other Americans were kidnapped - Frank Herbert Reed, Joseph James Cicippio and Edward Austin Tracy - and other groups claimed to be holding them. Christian radio stations and television reported over the previous two days that six kidnapped Americans and two of eight French hostages would be let go. But in Washington, a State Department source said U.S. officials expected only one hostage to be released. The source spoke on condition of anonymity.

Islamic Jihad said in a statement issued after Jacobsen's release, "We hold the American government fully responsible for the consequences of any failure to take advantage of this opportunity and proceed with current approaches that could lead, if continued, to a solution of the hostages.

The typed statement, written in Arabic and delivered to a Western news agency in Beirut, did not say what approaches the United States

See RELEASE, Page 11

Travis says two sports to remain, chastises fee task force for biases

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Athletic fee or no athletic fee, baseball and women's basketball will be maintained as programs in the University's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, K-State's director of athletics said Friday.

"Whether the fee comes or not, we're going to have baseball and women's basketball at Kansas State University," Athletic Director Larry Travis said. "We're not considering dropping anything."

Travis was in Chicago for a National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I-A meeting last week and said he got "quite a shock" when he called home Wednesday.

"I called the office and (Associate Athletic Director) Lee Moon said, 'Hold on to your hat. This morning's (Wednesday) paper says K-State is going to drop two more sports," Travis said.

"I said, 'You've got to be kidding?!" Travis told the Collegian. "That's ridiculous." At the meeting, Mike Jones, athletic department business manager, told task force members that K-State could drop two more sports in February, specifically women's basketball and baseball. Travis said he called Jones and asked why the comment had been

"Mike told me (the task force) asked him what was the worst scenario possible," Travis said. "But for gosh sakes, that's the furthest thing from our minds. In fact, we've tried to increase their (women's basketball and baseball) budgets, and we

Travis said he did not come back early because of the report but was very upset about it, to say the

"It just got all out of whack," Travis said about Jones' comments. 'It's completely not true.'

Travis said that although he was upset, he understood why Jones said what he did.

"Mike is so honest, he doesn't know how to respond to a question See TRAVIS, Page 11

Burning candle causes two-alarm fire, $750 damage at Ford Hall

By SUE DAWSON News Editor

An unattended candle was the reported cause of a fire that caused $750 damage Saturday afternoon in Ford Hall, said Batallion Chief Jack Roets of the Riley County Fire Department.

The two-alarm fire in Room 540 on the B-wing was extinguished by a Ford Hall staff member before the fire department arrived.

'We just ejected the smoke and used a deodorizer on the smoke," Roets said.

He said the candle was left burning inside a group of stacked milk crates that contained clothing. The clothing caught fire, and the flames spread.

"It went up the wall and got the papers on the wall, the surrounding bed spreads and such," Roets said. "There was smoke damage to the entire floor but (it was) very minor except to the room."

The fire alarm warned residents to exit the building into 40-degree weather.

"I went back in and got my coat, scarf and gloves," said Jennifer Dorsch, sophomore in agricultural journalism. She said staff members were running down the hall of B-wing knocking on doors to evacuate residents. When they opened the door to Room 540, she said "a gray, chalky type of smoke was coming from the top of the

"It smelled like melting plastic," Dorsch said.

Lou Whipple, junior in education, was the staff member who put out the fire.

"It was just a fire contained in one room," Whipple said. "I just got the fire extinguisher and put it

She said about half of the residents on the fifth floor were not

See FIRE, Page 11

American on trial denies CIA link

MANAGUA, Nicaragua -- Captured American mercenary Eugene Hasenfus told a revolutionary tribunal Sunday he had no direct knowledge of CIA links to an air operation dropping weapons and other supplies to U.S.-backed rebels.

Hasenfus acknowledged he had written and signed a four-page document that the prosecution has described as a confession to charges that he was a part of the operation.

However, he took exception to a section of the document dealing with alleged Central Intelligence Agency involvement in his ac-

"I do not have the direct knowledge to definitely, personally know that," he said through an interpreter to the three-member People's Tribunal trying him on a charge of terrorism. Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., was the only survivor of a C-123 cargo plane shot down over southern Nicaragua on Oct. 5 while on what he has publicly described as a rebel resupply mission. Three crewmen died in the crash, including two other Americans.

Hasenfus' remarks on Sunday conflicted with earlier statements to

He told reporters after his capture that two nationalized Cuban Americans, Max Gomez and Ramon Medina, worked for the CIA and assisted about two dozen other people in the operation out of Ilopango air base in San Salvador.

He told reporters at the time that Gomez, also known as Felix Rodriguez, spoke of ties to Vice President George Bush. Bush's office has confirmed he did know Rodriguez, but said the vice president had no connection with operations to supply the Contra rebels.

The United States maintains that Nicaragua has thousands of Cuban military advisers and sophisticated radar and radio tracking systems supplied by the Soviet Union and other communist countries.

First Briton receives artificial heart

HUNTINGDON, England - A 40-year-old man dying of heart failure on Sunday became the first Briton to receive an artifical heart, to keep him alive until a human donor organ can be found, a hospital spokesman said.

"The patient is reported to be stable and his immediate postoperative condition is satisfactory," said John Edwards, spokesman for Papworth Hospital in Cambridgeshire, north of London.

The man, who was not identified, is the first person in Britain to receive a completely artificial heart. He was admitted to the hospital Friday in critical condition, Edwards said.

Two doctors, Terence English and Francis Wells, implanted the Jarvik artificial heart in an operation that lasted five hours.

"This surgical procedure is regarded as a temporary measure, a bridging operation, to support a dying patient until a suitable donor heart becomes available," Edwards said.

U.S. officials investigate minister

MANILA, Philippines - Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile denied on Sunday that he pocketed U.S. aid money and said the allegations were apparently aimed at stopping his criticism of President Corazon Aquino.

Enrile's statement came after U.S. law enforcement officials in Washington said he was under federal investigation into whether aid was diverted to his personal accounts while he served under Ferdinand E. Marcos, the ousted president.

'At the outset, I categorically deny such allegations, and I welcome any investigation into the matter in order to clear the name of my family and my office," Enrile said. He branded the allegations as being "apparently part of a veiled blackmail scheme" to halt his criticisms of Aquino's policies, but he was not more specific. "Needless to say, I shall not be silenced or intimidated by any designs to prevent me from serving the national interest," he added, offering to show his financial records to anyone "who makes a legal Enrile helped lead the military revolt that led to Marcos' ouster last February and his flight to exile in Hawaii after 20 years in power. Enrile has become a strong critic of Aquino's policies and her chief political rival.

NATIONAL

Italian wins New York Marathon

NEW YORK - Gianni Poli, who did not think he would be able to run the New York City Marathon because of injury, survived a midrace duel Sunday with favored Rob de Castella of Australia and became the third straight Italian winner.

While Poli was winning in his debut in the race, Norway's Grete Waitz, who has started every New York City Marathon since 1978, won the women's division for a record-equalling eighth time in nine years and fifth in a row with a front-running performance.

"I had sore legs all week in training," Poli explained after finishing the 26-mile, 385-yard course in 2 hours, 11 minutes, 6 seconds. "So I felt the season had gone.

"When the race started, I said I would do my best. But I did not think I could win.

"However, I was always out there with the others (the leaders), and when I started looking around, I saw they were having more problems than I was, and I began thinking this could be my day.' It certainly turned out to be a good day for Poli, the Italian marathon record holder who will be 26 Wednesday. After exchanging the lead with de Castella for about four miles. Poli, the only Italian to break 2:10 — he ran 2:09:57 in finishing fourth in the 1985 America's Marathon-Chicago - broke away between the 20th and 21st miles.

After that, Poli was in command, and de Castella, the 1983 world champion and winner of the Boston Marathon and the Commonwealth Games marathon this year, did not seriously challenge.

Computer system helps kids study

Those who think the world is given over entirely to computers ought to talk to Charity, Jackie, Jenni, Jim, Allan, Chris, Corey, Guy, Len, Bob, Dan and Shawn of the Waitsburg, Wash., Public Schools besides, the kids are kind enough to help another student in Arkansas with his homework.

Readers will recall that Todd Turner of Ash Flat, Ark., got a homework assignment to list at least 35 things having to do with computers. He turned to the CompuBug for help. The CompuBug put the usual adult spin on the pitch and asked readers to find 35 things NOT connected with computers. That way, everyone thinks - and Todd still has to do the work.

What's interesting is the lengths the students went to to find something not nibbled by the machine's byte. One suggested that an unconscious person had little to do with computers — which is true until an emergency medical team finds him and puts him on a variety of sophisticated monitoring devices that have everything to do with computers.

One note suggested that "love" had escaped computerdom's clutches, but that person obviously hadn't seen ads for computerized dating services, not to mention personality-probing software, sexualtechnique software and programs that even performed a wedding service.

REGIONAL

Dole to remain Senate GOP leader

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole said Sunday he would serve as minority leader if Republicans lose control of the Senate to Democrats in Tuesday's elections.
"I'm going to be the Republican leader whatever happens," Dole said on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

The Kansas senator, who is gearing up for a run for president in 1988, was confident Republicans would prevail and he would keep his job as majority leader

'We are going to be in the majority when the polls close on Tuesday," he said. But, he quickly added, "there are a lot of dicey races

Republicans hold a 53-47 majority now in the Senate, but must defend 22 of the 34 seats on the ballot.

Dole, who is up for re-election himself Tuesday and is expected to easily defeat little-known challenger Guy MacDonald of Wichita, has campaigned for 27 of the 34 Republican senators seeking re-election. Dole says if Republicans lose control of the Senate, the minority leader's post would not be an obstacle to his presidential aspirations. "I don't see any (obstacles)." he told The Kansas City Star in an article published Sunday. "There may be some out there; but whatever happens, I'm the Republican leader.

Campus Bulletin

NOTICE

The Collegian provides this service to the University community free of charge. Notices will be put into the bulletin on the day of the meeting. Bulletins may appear one day earlier, if space permits. Deadline for announcements is 11 a.m. the day before publication. We reserve the right to not publish questionable announcements.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENTS can nominate teachers for the undergraduate teacher award in Bluemont 006.

EDUCATION MAJORS: Juniors with a 3.3 GPA and sophomores with a 3.6 GPA can sign up for Kappa Delta Pi education honorary in the Curriculum and Instruction office on the 2nd floor of Bluemont. For more information, call 539-5728.

VAN ZILE RESIDENTS who would like one of Van Zile's trophies may pick one up in Putnam

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS has committee member applica-tions available today through Friday in the SGS

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH. DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for $500 student cancer research awards in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec

TODAY

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE meet to take yearbook pictures at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union

GRADUATE SCHOOL COUNCIL meets at 4:30

SOCIAL WORK ORGANIZATION meets at 8 p.m. in the Union Courtyard. Yearbook pictures will be taken after the meeting.

FRENCH TABLE meets at 12:30 p.m. in Union ANTI-PORNOGRAPHY WEEK, sponsored by Women's Resource Center, will show the film "Not A Love Story" at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. There will be a discussion following Theatre. There will be a disc about the pornography industry

SHE DUs meet to take yearbook pictures at 8

ALPHA KAPPA PSI will have initiation at 8

ENGINEERING STUDENT COUNCIL meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room.

TUESDAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

ANTI-PORNOGRAPHY WEEK, sponsored by Women's Resource Center, will show the film "Not A Love Story" at 3 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. A discussion will follow.

PRE-NURSING STUDENTS: Six schools of nursing present Nurses Day at K-State from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Union 212.

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING EVALUATION MEETING will be from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Union

GREAT COMMISSION STUDENTS meet at

INSTITUTION OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS meets at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. The speaker will be Don Fink from United Parcel Service.

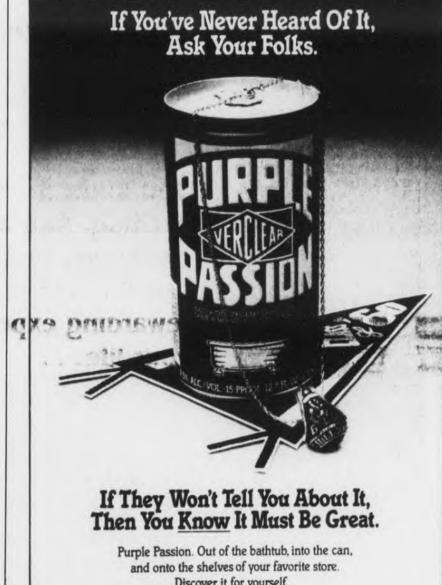

SCUBA CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213. FLINT HILLS WATER SKI CLUB meets at

PEACE CORPS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208. The topic will be on volunteers' experiences

BLOCK AND BRIDLE meets to take yearbook pictures at 7:10 p.m. in Fairchild 202. Meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in Umberger's Williams

orrection

Due to a reporter's error, Kenny Glover, sophomore in music education, was misidentified in Friday's Entertainment Plus.

Discover it for yourself.

Intramural Injuries Sports Injuries Call

Dr. Mark Hatesohl

Chiropractic Family Health Center 3252 Kimball Avenue (In the Candlewood Center)

> Learn to SKYDIVE

with the KSU Parachute Club Next class Nov. 7.

This will be the last class of the semester so don't delay.

Call 776-7241 for more information

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

AVAILABLE SERVICES: *Outpatient Clinic

*Lafemme (GYN) Clinic

*Laboratory

*X-Ray Department *Physical Therapy

*Mental Health Clinic

*Pharmacy *Allergy Clinic

*Wart Clinic

"Much Much More

Call 532-6544 for an Appointment

From Head

stocking caps & hats scarfs sweaters shirts iackets coats mittens & gloves long underwear wool socks ... To Toe boots

We'll Keep You Warm!

15% OFF ALL Hardbacks and Paperbacks

Monday, Nov. 3 through Saturday, Nov. 8, 1986

The Dusty Bookshelf

612 N. 12th (in Aggieville)

539-2839

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30

Kitchens Plus_

4's the Magic Number during our 4th Anniversary Sale for 4 days only!

Buy 4 or more items and get 20% off your purchase price.

Good on regular priced merchandise only Limit one coupon / person

Thanks . . . after 4 years, you've helped make us Manhattan's largest gourmet and gift shop.

HOURS: MONDAY-FRIDAY-9:30 A.M. TO 8:30 P.M. SATURDAY-9:30 A.M. TO 6:00 P.M. SUNDAY-NOON TO 5:00 P.M.

1110 WESTLOOP SHOPPING CENTER 537-4046

The Croissant Cafe

Governor's majority could shift to GOPs

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Republicans are almost certain to score gains in governor's races Tuesday, but it would take a sweep of 10 tossup contests for them to come out of the 1986 elections with their goal: a majority of the nation's governorships.

A survey of the races by Associated Press reporters in the 36 states electing governors this year found Democratic candidates appeared safe in 11 states and leaning ahead in two more.

In five states the Republican was safe and four more states were leaning GOP

The remaining 14 states, a surprisingly large number, remain tossups going into Election Day. But Republicans must win 10 of those 14 neck-and-neck races if they are to capture a gubernatorial majority for the first time since 1969

"There's just too many close ones to call," said Chuck Dolan, director of the Democratic Governors' Association.

In an election-year arithmetic that favors the GOP, Democrats find themselves defending 27 of the 34 governorships they now hold. The GOP, with but 16 governors, defends only nine.

The races that could go either way on Tuesday are largely in states now held by Democrats Florida, South Carolina, Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Hawaii, Arizona, Alaska, Wyoming, Alabama and Wisconsin.

Three of the too-close-to-call races are in states now held by the GOP: Oregon, Tennessee and Pennsylvania.

Most of the endangered Democratic governorships are being vacated by popular in-cumbents. But two Democratic incumbents are trying to withstand fierce GOP opposition - in Texas, where Gov. Mark White still slightly trails the man he defeated four years ago, former Gov. Bill Clements; and Wisconsin, where Gov. Anthony Earl has been pressed by Republican legislative leader Tommy Thomp-

The Democrats' most prominent governor, possible presidential candidate Mario Cuomo of New York, has an easy race for his second term. Also expected to win are Democratic incumbents in Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, Massachusetts, Georgia, Arkansas, Connecticut and Ohio. Also regarded as safe are Democratic candidates in Idaho and Maryland.

In Vermont, Democratic Gov. Madeleine Kunin is leading but could fall short of the 50 percent she needs to keep the three-way race from being decided by the legislature. Colorado, a state the GOP had hoped to gain, also leans Democratic.

U.S. forces key deterrent, consul says

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

The most important function of U.S. strategic forces is to deter aggression against the United States or its allies, said William H. Courtney, Consul General designee to Kiev, U.S.S.R.

The deterrence of aggression requires the forces to be structured to meet aggression at any level, and if they engage an aggressor, "hopefully they (U.S. forces) will prevail," Courtney said Friday in a speech titled "Nuclear and Space Arms Control" in Cardwell Hall.

The structure of these forces can be broken into three layers, Courtney said. Two layers are nuclear forces made up of intercontinental and intermediate range weapons. The third is conventional forces, including weapons and troop strengths.

In the different layers, there are certain weapons that fill the need of promptness (how quickly a weapon can hit its target after a strike has been ordered), accuracy, sur-vivability (of the weapon) and cost effectiveness, he said.

Some weapons systems fill more than one of these requirements, but there aren't any that meet all of them, Courtney said.

For example, the MX missile system is prompt, accurate and costeffective, but its survivability is considered to be very low, he said.

On the other hand, intercontinental bombers are highly accurate, have a high degree of survivability in a first strike against the United States and are very cost-effective. However, the bombers take hours to reach their targets, so they aren't considered

Courtney said the Soviets meet their strategic needs with a similar distribution of weapons capabilities.

The Soviet Union has a big edge in conventional forces over those of the United States, he said. Even with allied troops counted in the totals from both sides, the Soviets still have an advantage.

Courtney said a possible edge is that the "reliability of Warsaw Pact members may vary from country to country." This may be an advantage because the Warsaw Pact is held together by coercion, whereas North Atlantic Treaty Organization members join freely.

Conventional forces occupy an important part of arms negotiations, but strategic arms have gotten a majority of the publicity, especially at the summit in Reykjavik, Iceland, he

In nuclear arms proposals, the United States proposed a 50-percent reduction in strategic arms on both sides, something the Soviets said they might agree to before the Iceland summit stalled, Courtney

Soviet officials also may be softening their stand concerning intermediate-range missiles, which have long been a stumbling block in missile negotiations, he said.

The current U.S. proposal is to cut both sides' missile forces down from their current levels to 100 on each side, Courtney said. The current levels show the Soviet Union has a 1,350 to 1,565 warhead advantage over the United States.

He said the Soviets appeared to be more favorable toward the proposal than they had been in the past.

The Soviet Union's main reason to accept cuts in any missiles is that United States "missiles are very capable of deterring Soviet aggression," Courtney said

Economic strains on the Soviet economy, caused by large military spending, likely played a major part in bringing about negotiations in Iceland, he said.

Washington officials have revised their way of thinking concerning the role of military spending in the Soviet economy, he said.

Until two years ago, military spending only had been calculated as taking about one-fifth of the Soviet budget. But that has been revised since then, Courtney said.

Apparently, defense spending has been putting more of a burden on the Soviet economy than previously thought, he said. That burden, coupled with other economic hardships in the Soviet Union, has put pressure on Soviet leaders.

"They are making concessions to

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

Ramada Inn

MONDAY 99¢

Bourbon and Scotch Wells FREE BBO 4-7 p.m. Join Coach Parrish

for Cat Chat Today

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

relieve psychological pressures" brought on by the economic pressures and the defense burden, Courtney said.

The Strategic Defense Initiative, an obstacle in arms talks of recent years, now may be useful in bringing the Soviets back to the negotiating table, he said. As for defenses against strategic weapons, the Soviets have some systems while "we (the United States) have no strategic defense capability to speak of," he said. However, President Reagan has made a move toward strategic defense with SDI, Courtney said. "I think the president's interest in SDI and the technology (we possess) or the technology that may come about (through research) has brought (Soviet leader Mikhail S.) Gorbachev to Reykjavik and Geneva," Courtney said.

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday HIGH ROLLERS

Any Call or Premium Drink only

616 N. 12th 539-9967

COMEDY INVASION TONIGHT 9 P.M. BILL ENGVALL

A SURE CURE FOR ALL YOUR DISORDERS

You've thought about it.

You've tried to imagine what it would be like.

You know it would be exciting. And a challenge. And quite possibly the most rewarding experience of your life...

Three Americans overseas in Asia, Africa and South America speak frankly on what Peace Corps life is like for them.

It isn't easy and it isn't for everyone—they'll tell you that up front. But if you've ever considered going overseas in the Peace Corps, then now is your chance to see and hear for yourself what could be "the toughest job you'll ever love."

Note: Former Peace Corps volunteers will be on hand to answer questions following the 25 minute film. And it's free!

> Tuesday, November 4 7:00 pm UNION, Room 208

U.S. Peace Corps

The Movie

"The Toughest Job You'll Ever Love"

Ben Franklin

Christmas Basic Sale!!

Sale ends Saturday Nov. 8, 1986

• Poinsettia picks: 59¢ each

Christmas Yarn: 88¢/skein

12 x 12 Christmas Aida: 2/$1

• Jingle Bells: 3/$1

-And Much More-

Westloop Center Manhattan 776-4910

New Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9a.m.-9p.m. Sat. 9a.m.-7p.m., Sun. 1-6p.m. "Better Quality for Less"

Also: We are starting to receive new merchandise that was recently ordered at our national show.

Check it out!!

Pizza and FREE drinks with coupon

Dine-in, carryout or delivery

Save on Godfather's delicious giant combo pizza with FREE DRINKS, during our EARLY WEEK SPECIAL - Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only. Our Combo Pizza is a mouth-watering mozzarella monster laden with beef, sausage, pepperoni, olives, onions, mushrooms, and tomato sauce, then topped with a mountain of delicious dairy cheese. Our pizza outweighs 'em all.

There's nobody's pizza like Godfather's Pizza.® Come in today, bring the mob, and cut a Combo down to size.

Call For Delivery

Early Week Special

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups! 3 drinks with giant,

COMBO PIZZA or up to 4 toppings

Thin or original crust Plus FREE drinks in 32 oz. reusable cups! 3 drinks with giant 2 drinks with medium

Students have long been aggravated by the traffic flow at the intersection on the west edge of campus. A Student Senate subcommittee conducted a study last year to determine if a signal at the congested intersection was necessary.

This study prompted City Engineer Jerry Petty to survey the crossroad. He found the intersection to be a borderline case - not quite busy enough to warrant a signal. Because his study was conducted during dead week last semester, he agreed to repeat the test a couple of weeks ago. His results have not been revealed.

Not only is high traffic a problem, but visibility is limited by cars parked in front of the Natatorium just south of the intersection and by the incline north of College Heights Road and Denison Avenue.

There should be a signal at this intersection. Visibility at the intersection is low from both directions on Denison Avenue, and when lives are at stake, even a "borderline" judgment warrants positive action.

A signal would cost approximately $70,000. With other capital improvement projects the city must pay for, the money will

A K-State student was hit by a not be available for years. According to Assistant City Manager James Pearson, without partial funding by the University, a signal may never be installed.

University officials argue that there are other projects they have committed money to. But the fact remains that the intersection will continue to be a hazard for anyone living west of the University.

Of $342,800 allocated for University improvements this year, the administration has decided to purchase two $29,000 campus identification signs. If the administration can afford nearly $60,000 for signs, money for a much more important safety signal should be obtainable.

University and city officials must realize traffic and pedestrian flow at the intersection is a problem before it becomes the scene of a pedestrian death.

If $70,000 is not available this year, an interest-bearing account should be started with available funds. By reserving just $29,000 each year - the cost of one identification sign - adequate funds could be available in a little over two years.

Students can campaign for immediate signal installation, the administration can wait for a tragedy, but a savings plan is the most logical and productive way to solve the problem of unsafe conditions at College Heights Road and Denison Avenue.

Editorial

Monday, November 3, 1986 — 4

Bible fundamentalists imperialistic

Republicans are coming out of the wood-work to see if they are the chosen ones who can ride the coattails of President Reagan's popularity all the way to the White House. They are fighting over who will inherit the Teflon armor that has protected the president for the last 61/2 years.

One of the contenders for the Teflon trophy is Pat Robertson, president of the Christian Broadcasting Network. There is something about the man that scares people who believe freedom is the mainstay of America. He has much of the same personality as Ronald Reagan, although his views are more totalitarian in nature. "Totalitarian? What do you mean by totalitarian?" (Quote provided by unknown person looking over my shoulder as I write this.) This term is used to describe situations where personal freedoms are unjustly restricted. The views of Robertson and other religious fundamentalists support the restriction of personal freedoms to a considerable extent.

Robertson and "Mr. Moral Majority" Jerry Falwell express these views to millions of people on their nationwide broadcasts. They convince their viewers that if they give up all those silly freedoms and live their lives according to the fundamentalist interpretation of the Bible, everything will be hunky-

You won't have to deal with problems like pregnancy, divorce and drugs. Just put your faith in the Lord and everything will work itself out. Let Jesus solve your problems for you. That's what he's paid for.

This is a pretty naive view to take about life. It is irrational to think that by forgetting all your problems through prayer these problems will simply vanish. That is like saying a good cure for mental illness is lobotomy. You are not solving the problem, but merely escaping its implications.

But Pat Robertson performs miracles on national television. He regularly has faithhealing sessions in which people can be cured of a variety of diseases. He even claims to have altered the course of a hurricane. He overdid it this summer, however, when he prayed for rain to help the droughtstricken Southeast. The rains came a little late, but he made up for it in quantity. The place went from desert to swamp within a week, causing major flooding. I guess he needs to fine-tune his weather prayers. These views are not so threatening when delivered from the pulpit. A person has the right to give up his freedom as he sees fit. But when these views are pushed onto the rest of society, their totalitarian aspects become evident. Just because some ancient book states that abortion, homosexuality, drugs and casual sex are wrong doesn't make it so. If you think they are wrong, don't do them. But if you can't provide a rational arguement against them, don't subject the rest of society to your religious beliefs. To do so would only prove the totalitarian nature of your religion.

KIRK CARAWAY Collegian

The only rational excuse for limiting freedom is when an act infringes on the freedoms of another person. For instance, we don't allow the freedom to commit murder because that would conflict with a person's freedom to live. If a person wants to do drugs, that doesn't interfere with anyone's freedom. Only when it enters the public realm, such as driving a car under the influence, would a breech of freedom be Fundamentalists like Falwell and Robertson would like to see "their" Bible become the law of the land. It is their belief that if everyone believed in the Bible and the standards for life laid down in it, then we would have a nice, orderly society. There would be no conflict, for all differences could be settled by consulting the book of absolute truth. Of course there would be very little freedom of speech, because you can't argue against something that is absolutly true. That is called blasphemy, the same crime for which Socrates was executed. In fact, there would be little or no freedom in a society like this. The laws are laid out for you to follow, no questions asked - an orderly society, but then all totalitarian societies are

Not only are fundamentalists totalitarian, but they are imperialistic as well. Fundamentalists try to expand their empires throughout the world. The most telling evidence I have witnessed was when Pat Robertson, on his TV show, was explaining the mistakes made by other empires throughout history that caused them to lose power. Although it was a thoroughly warped version of history (philosophy the cause for the Greek downfall?) the most striking element was that Robertson was saying throughout the history lesson that the United States can't make the same mistakes if we want a lasting empire.

I couldn't believe what I was hearing. A prospective presidential candidate advocating imperialism? Not once did he mention the tyranny of the regimes he was critiquing. He did manage to say America benefited from British mistakes, and that we should not let the opportunity go to waste. How can a citizen of a former colony support the idea of imperialism? Maybe he thinks imperialism is only evil if you are on the receiving end, even though that rationalization violates the ideas of freedom and liberty. But, of course, what would he know about these ideas?

One must beware of fundamentalists, be they Christian, Jewish, or Islamic. To live only with faith in some pre-determined set of rules that offer no rationale for their existence is to deny reason itself. We are independent, thinking beings, not mere machines. Open your eyes and think for yourselves. Follow logic, not blind faith.

U.S.-Soviet meetings warrant allies' input pean allies.

and French President Francois Mitterrand exemplifies the need for their participation. In the statement, the two leaders said that any agreement removing U.S. intermediate-range missiles from Europe should be carried out in such a way that the security of their countries is not endangered. Their concern stems from talks in Iceland between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev where the removal of U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles from Europe in exchange for the removal of Soviet SS-20 missiles targeted on Western Europe was discussed. Although the proposal may Talks between the United seem like an even trade to the States and the Soviet Union deal- United States, Kohl and Mittering with European-based rand believe that it overlooks missiles should include the par- their disadvantage to the Soviet ticipation of our Western Euro- bloc in non-nuclear military forces in Eastern Europe. At last A joint statement issued last week's meeting, Kohl said, "If week at a meeting between West one were to aim for a solution German Chancellor Helmut Kohl that would remove missiles without at the same time including the Soviet Union's enormous advantage in conventional forces...the thesis that wars should not be possible would be restricted."

The Reagan administration is proposing an agreement at the Geneva arms talks that would eliminate European-based missiles. In keeping our allies in mind, it would be appropriate for the United States to follow Kohl's recommendation that members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meet to discuss arms control and then present their views to the Reagan administration.

EDITOR MANAGING EDITOR Jonie Trued NEWS EDITOR

Kansas

Sue Dawson CAMPUS EDITORS Margaret May EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR
Lillian Zier
PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR

Jim Dietz BUSINESS/GOVERNMENT EDITOR FEATURES/SPECIAL PROJECTS EDITOR

AGRICULTURE EDITOR ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

Laurie Fairburn SPORTS EDITOR Tim Fitzgerald
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

COPY EDITORS Todd Nighswonger June DeWeese Valerie Johnso STAFF WRITERS Jeff Bielser Judy Goldberg Becky Howard Teresa Temme

COLUMNISTS Scott Miller Kirk Caraway

Tracy Carlile Wayne Long SPORTS WRITERS Tony Carbajo Tom Perrin

Gary Johnson Andy Martin GRAPHIC ARTISTS Chrisie Ninci CARTOONIST Joe Cook PHOTOGRAPHERS Gary Lytle Andy Nelson Brad Camp Brad Fanshier

Brett Hacker

John LaBarge EDITORIAL BOARD Laurie Fairburn Renee Beaudoi Kirk Caraway Judy Goldberg Deron Johnson Erin Eicher ADVERTISING MANAGER

Chris Stewart Teresa Temme Jonie Trued Lillian Zier Margaret May Scott Miller ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE

Greg Vogel Jeff Weatherly Steve Wolgast

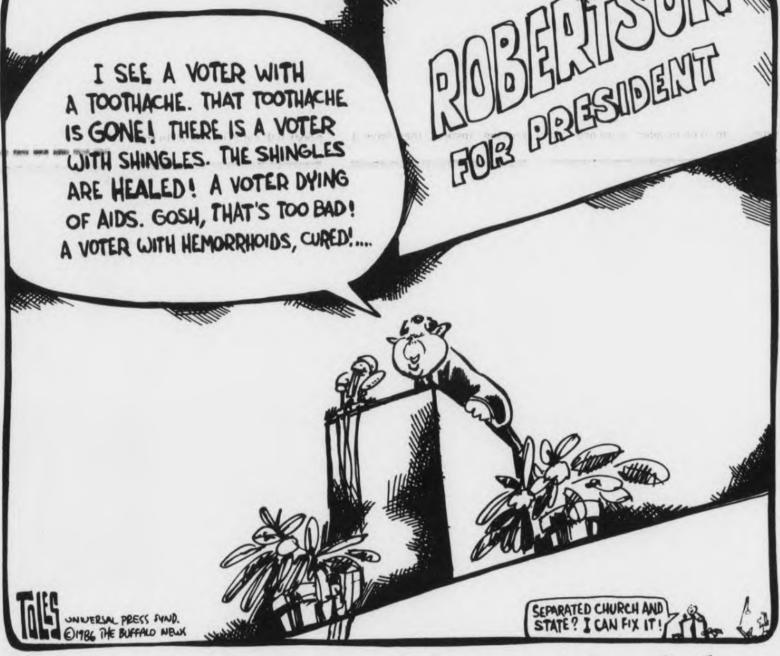

Phil Nordhus

Shelly Shaffer TEARSHEET MANAGER Vicki Fernkopf SALES REPRESENTATIVES Roxie McKee Todd Schultz Bill Sherbert Mark Holly Sheila Hutinett ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS

Tammy Girrens
STUDENT PUBLICATIONS DIRECTOR Dave Adams ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Gloria Freeland NEWS PRODUCTION COORDINATOR ADV. PRODUCTION COORDINATOR

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Recognizing symptoms of bad day

Have you ever had one of those classic bad days? You fall out of bed in the morning, then attempt to punt the chest of drawers across the room as you stumble into the bathroom. Once there, you realize that you forgot to raise the toilet lid just a little bit too late. In the shower, you quickly shampoo with the conditioner and condition with the shampoo. The day's off to a messy, if not great, start.

After gaining courage to look at yourself in the mirror, you attempt to shave. It's too bad the Red Cross isn't conducting its annual blood drive in your bathroom at the time, because they'd surely surpass all collection

You suddenly wonder: "Wouldn't I really look a lot better if I just don't shave, and go for the 'wild and wooly' look, instead of opting for the 'clean shaven, drug 20 feet behind a speeding car face down appearance?"

Now, it's time to dry your hair. You want to do a fabulous job and look just like a Farrah Fawcett or Don Johnson, but instead, the finished product closely resembles Cyndi Lauper or Boy George. Oh well, maybe galeforce winds are blowing outside, and you'll have a good excuse for the disaster on your head.

Now for the women (only, I hope), it's time for "putting on the face." The ultimate goal is to look mah-velous under five or six layers of the stuff, yet be mistaken for wearing nothing at all. Of course, the rest of the day will be spent removing the makeup layer by layer, i.e., lipstick all over your upper teeth, eye shadow and mascara caking your contacts, and "orange" foundation all over your collar and boyfriend's face.

TRACY CARLILE Collegian Columnist

You finish "getting beautiful" in a mere 15 minutes, then look outside the window and notice the rain is coming down in buckets. So much for the face and hair. It's certainly been a wonderful day so far, and it's not even

Next, you attempt to dress yourself. It was much simpler when Mom did it for you. At least everything matched and she did all the ironing. Your roommate turns into a mad, snarling dog if you dare turn on the bedroom light, so you attempt to dress in the dark. Granted, some things are done much better in the dark, however, dressing is not one of

Instead of determining what goes with what by the "matching by Braille" method, you grab items from the jeans drawer, shirt closet and the dirty laundry basket and hope for the best. If anyone says anything to you or can't stop laughing when they look your way, fake color blindness. Who knows, you may start some kind of fashion craze.

Before heading to class, you decide to eat some breakfast, but not before tripping headfirst over the telephone cord your roommate drug into the hallway the night before. Pain dulls the appetite, so you eat less and are slimmer in the long run. Remember, she did it all in your best interest.

Thank goodness for microwave breakfasts. Last night's leftover pizza or nachos sure beat oatmeal and other "but it's so good for you" foods your mom thinks you're eating. This morning you opt for Captain Crunch, but forget to grab a bowl before pouring milk all over the counter.

Then, in your haste to make it to class in less than 10 minutes, you swallow the "prize" at the bottom of the cereal bowl. Instead of the usual "microchip" or "pet flea circus," this prize is at least the size of some compact cars. You run gagging off to class. wondering if death by asphyxiation is grounds for skipping a test.

If you drive to class, your car won't start. Better yet, the efficient and trustworthy defroster requires at least 45 minutes to clear off a hole the size of a dime.

If you walk to class, you'll either get broadsided by some lunatic who hasn't bothered to defrost his windshield (see above) or get caught in the middle of nowhere in some downpour, blizzard, volcanic eruption or any other messy act of God. You finally make it to class totally exhausted, and it's only 8:30. The rest of the day awaits for you to make the most of. How terrifying! Run like heck and go back to bed. The world's a much safer place under the Experts say Stealth planes detectable

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The supersecret Stealth bomber, for all its vaunted ability to evade radar detection, can be spotted by at least one type of sophisticated radar now entering the U.S. arsenal, officials say.

The Pentagon has for years advertised the capabilities of the new radar - the Over-The-Horizon-Backscatter or OTH-B - in the course of winning congressional approval to ring the U.S. coast with an OTH-B network to detect airplanes and cruise missiles.

Indeed, the Air Force disclosed with some fanfare last month that it had used its first OTH-B radar unit to track President Reagan's Air Force One all the way to Iceland for his recent summit meeting.

The ability of an OTH-B system to detect Stealth aircraft, however, is one capability about which the Pentagon and Air Force have remained quiet. One crack in that silence occurred this summer, when an Australian scientist working on his country's over-the-horizon system discussed the radar's capabilities during a public conference in Canberra.

Pentagon officials subsequently agreed over the past month to discuss the matter with The Associated Press, confirming the Australian scientist's observation as well as the fact that the Soviet Union could use OTH-B as easily as the United States.

The officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said they were willing to discuss the matter because while an OTH-B system can detect Stealth aircraft, such detection poses no threat because of the way the bombers would be

That logic, in turn, offers a glimpse into the high-tech military and how strategy guides decisions to pursue new technologies.

Since the Pentagon does not envision using its bombers for surprise first-strike raids, it is not concerned about OTH-B detection.

"What Stealth is intended to do is to fix it so that an aircraft can deliver its ordnance to a target within the enemy territory. Now, it's not designed to keep the other guy from knowing that the war has started. What you want to do is counter the things that are going to shoot at you and kill you," said one ranking defense official.

One of the limitations of the OTH-B system is that it cannot provide any radar coverage within 500 nautical miles of the transmitter. A Stealth bomber, then, would disappear off the scope as it approached a coastline, allowing a change in course or other evasive tactics.

Moreover, in the event of a nuclear war, the huge facilities required for OTH-B probably would be destroyed in the initial exchange, restoring the Stealth bomber's advantage.

"Nonetheless, it's true a functioning OTH-B system could detect these planes at range and at least attempt to scramble fighters to find them," added one official. "...We think Stealth could get through to perform its mission.

An over-the-horizon radar differs from conventional systems in its use of a layer of the Earth's atmosphere known as the ionosphere. Unlike conventional radar systems, which transmit and receive radiofrequency signals in a straight line to the horizon, an OTH system transmits radio signals skyward toward the ionosphere.

Bar employees seminar to promote awareness

By The Collegian Staff

In order to promote alcohol awareness, Manhattan area bartenders, waitresses and bouncers will be attending an alcohol awareness program starting today at Campbell's Distributers, 825 Levee Drive.

The sessions, which will be from 7 to 10 p.m., also are scheduled for the next two Monday nights, ending Nov.

The purpose of the alcohol awareness program is to provide individuals with an alternative to drinking. Participants also will receive instruction on how to notice when a customer has had too much to drink and to suggest intoxicated persons use a BADD cab, said Michelle Winston, probation officer for Riley

Greg Kieffer, an attorney in the Riley County attorney's office, is scheduled to explain laws governing and regulating alcoholic beverage in bars or clubs and the crimina responsibilities for employees ser ing such beverages.

Kieffer said most employees realize that the owner of an establishment can be fined or jailed if laws concerning underage drinkers are broken. But, he added, many don't realize they, as individuals, also can be prosecuted.

If a minor is knowingly served alcohol, the individual responsible for serving it can be sentenced for up to six months in jail and fined up to $500, Kieffer said.

If the owner of the bar creates a situation in which an underage drinker repeatedly obtains alcohol or is knowingly served alcohol, he or she will receive the same fine or possibly one that is more severe, Kieffer said.

> *Never on Sunday.

Tuesday, Wednesday

> Thursday. Friday

> > Just

or Saturday.

Mondays!

BUY 1

GET 1

Any size

Pizza!

We deliver... FAST and Friendly-like.

FREE

Professor discusses strategies used to overcome insomnia

By KELLY KLOVER Collegian Reporter

Wellness Week '86 was put to bed Friday with the presentation "Insomnia And Sleep Needs."

David Danskin, professor at the Counseling Center, discussed strategies used to overcome insomnia, commonly known as Disorders of Initiating and Maintaining Sleep.

Danskin said there are three categories of insomnia. The most common is referred to as "transient," which lasts a few days or weeks and is caused by temporary conditions such as jet lag and test

The second type also lasts a few days or weeks and is called "short term." This involves ongoing stress such as an illness, divorce or problems at work, he said.

The most intense of the three is "chronic" insomnia, which can last several months or years.

The amount of sleep needed each day varies from person to person, Danskin said. Two out of three people average seven to eight hours of sleep each night, one out of nine need nine or more hours, and one in five need only six or fewer hours, he said. Some who sleep only five or six ductive individuals than those who sleep seven or eight, Danskin said. The amount of sleep needed decreases with age, and the more stress one is under tends to increase sleep needs. Two of the most frequent methods used in attempting to cure insomnia are alcohol and sleeping pills. They don't pay off, he said, because both may result in more shallow, disrup-

Although "no one thing is right for everyone," systematic changes may help to improve sleep habits, Danskin said. The single most important factor is to wake up at the same time every morning, he said.

Because the body can easily slip into different sleep cycles, Danskin discouraged sleeping late, even if a person has a night of insomnia. Danskin advises people to be active the next day and not take naps. If a nap is absolutely needed, it should be taken before lunch, he said.

Danskin described a typical pattern for college students as staying out late Friday and Saturday nights, and "sacking in" Saturday and Sunday mornings.

He said these students expect to go to bed at their usual time on Sunday and wake up at their usual time Monhours seem to be happier, more pro- day morning. Instead, they have a FUIL N difficult time going to sleep and as a result sleep in on Monday and miss class, he said.

Because caffeine can affect the body for as long as 12 hours, intake should be kept to a minimum, Danskin said. Soft drinks, tea, chocolate and some medication contain caffeine and should be used sparingly, he said. Danskin also said to avoid smoking and limit snacking as bedtime nears.

Danskin said a person should allow 30 to 45 minutes of relaxation before going to bed. He said to consider alternatives such as listening to quiet music, writing letters, watching television and reading "mindless" material.

"Don't read the newspaper because you'll get riled up about those things," he said. It is important to exercise regularly, but exercising late and too much erotic activity can make sleep difficult.

Danskin said a person should go to bed when he is sleepy rather than at the same time every night. He said the room should be kept cool and blankets should be used to keep

A person should not worry about missing a few hours of sleep because the body will catch up, Danskin said. THE SUINOLE

Saving You Money

[LORD/'N LADY/] Hair Dosign & Skin Care Studio

218 S. 4th

for Christmas NOVEMBER

Super Specials

| ouper operiais | | | | | | | | |
|----------------|------|--|-------------|----------|-------------|-------|--|--|
| Sun. | Mon. | Tues. | Wed. | Thurs. | Fri. | Sat. | | |
| 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | | |
| | | Half price
Or | | | | | | |
| 9 | 10 | 11 | 12 | 13 | 14 | 15 | | |
| | | All perm
*Twenty pe | | | | | | |
| 16 | 17 | 18 | 19 | 20 | 21 | 22 | | |
| 1.7 | 100 | 0.40 | | | | | | |
| | * | $10
*Half price
 One | haircut-sha | mpoo & s | tyle $6.75 | ***** | | |
| 23 | * |  | haircut-sha | mpoo & s | tyle $6.75 | ***** | | |

You must bring this coupon calendar with you or the coupon from Thursday's Collegian coupon page Walk-ins Welcome

Call Lords'N Ladies Today for an appointment at 776-5651

PYRAMID PIZZA'S

MONDAY

Why be mad, when you can be GLAD?

Old Texthook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF! BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

MON.-SAT.

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

12-5

SUN.

SPBUY 1

SMALL TOPPING

In Aggieville Now Serving Coca Cola Products

PYRAMID PIZ

BUY 1 GET 1 FREE

Staff/Jeff Tuttle

Northern snow

A University of Nebraska field official shovels snow away from the yard lines so the referees can see to mark the ball during a timeout in the K-State-University of Nebraska football game Saturday in Lincoln, Neb.

Snow fell heavily during the first half of the game.

Bolivian exile invents takeover game

By The Associated Press

MIAMI - Have a hankering to be president, but find elections too bothersome?

Then try playing International Intrigue, a board game invented by a Bolivian exile for anyone who has ever dreamed about toppling a government.

Domingo Linale, 43, the game's inventor, hails from the South American nation that leads the world in military coups, averaging about one a year since the South American country won its independence from Spain in 1825.

Linale is a veteran plotter. He served as a provincial governor after a 1971 coup, and played a part in the last successful military takeover in 1980. When that regime was overthrown in 1982, he fled.

"I tried to make the game as realistic as possible," said Linale, a naturalized U.S. citizen, from his suburban home in Miami. "This is as close as you can get."

In International Intrigue, players can choose whether to defend the government or try to take it over, and whether they prefer to be the right wing or the left.

Players circle the board Monopolystyle, landing on squares such as the Capital City, the Ministry of Internal Affairs, the Army, and, of course, the Secret Police. Accumulate enough power points, and the player wins the

If the right-wing forces land on the wrong square, they may draw a card

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville and find Cuba has sent Soviet armaments to their left-wing enemies. Or the government may have its financial aid cut off by the U.S. Congress. The CIA could step in to aid the anti-communists, or the international press may leap to the side of Besides slowly accumulating power points, there is another way to win: calling on the gorilla, a Latin American term for bringing down the government by brute force rather than clever conspiracy. But as in real coup-making, failure exacts a high price.

Dairu Oueen

brazier. "Complete line of Brazier foods now at both stores!" Open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., til midnight Friday & Saturday For fast carry-out call 776-4117

1015 N. 3rd

12th & Moro Aggieville

WE TREAT YOU RIGHT THE STREET FOR THE STREET FROM THE STREET

'At Close Range' gives oppressive view of life

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

It's taken several months for "At Close Range," a new film starring Sean Penn and Christopher Walken, to finally make it to the Midwest. The studio wasn't quite sure what to do with the film. It clearly isn't the kind of stuff meant to turn Penn into a heartthrob. In fact, "At Close Range" is possibly the most disturbing picture of America since Martin Scorsese's "Taxi Driver."

Film Review

The movie is about the relationship between a father and a son. The father, played by Christopher Walken, is the leader of a group of thieves. Several years ago, he walked out on his family, and now his two sons, played by Sean Penn and Sean's real-life brother Christopher, are nearly adults. The oldest son, Brad (Sean Penn), is angry at the world. He smokes marijuana and uses hard drugs: "They make things stronger," he says.

His mother's newest live-in lover pushes Brad around, not that Brad doesn't deserve what he gets, but this is enough that when Brad's father shows up again, suddenly stepping through the door and waving hundred dollar bills, Brad is impressed.

Soon Brad is taken under his father's wing and eventually begins stealing for him. This gets complicated once Brad's father sees an informant talking to a police detective. Soon afterward Brad sees his father's gang murder the informant.

Stealing was OK according to Brad, but not murder. He no longer wants to have anything to do with his father, so he forms his own group of thieves and begins stealing farm equipment. When he gets caught, his father has reason to be concerned, especially once the police start pushing Brad to trade information about his father for his own freedom.

This story is brought to life with incredible attention to detail. Brad's home is a dingy, cluttered house, filled with well-worn furniture and cigarette smoke. His mother and grandmother are always weary, bags under their eyes and little life in their faces.

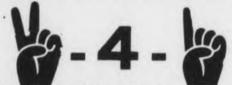

Director James Foley creates this atmosphere so realistically that every moment in this world becomes oppressive. Brad must live in this world, though. And since the story is based upon a true story, the movie becomes all the more powerful.

The film isn't without its problems. One problem is that director Foley rarely lets any scene go on for more than a few seconds at a time. Just as a scene begins to get interesting it fades out and Foley moves on to the next fragment of a scene. After a while, this method becomes aggravating.

Another problem is the film lacks a sense of humor. Everything in the movie is dreadfully serious. Foley locks us into this bleak vision of the world and then doesn't let us out for nearly two hours.

For many people this depressing, grimly realistic picture of life in America will be about as enjoyable as watching open-heart surgery, but the picture does end offering a glimmer of hope. And also to the movie's credit, it doesn't glorify any of the

MONDAY

Buy any size pizza & get the 2nd one FREE!

(Good on Mondays only with this coupon) 776-0004 FirstBank Center

NOVEMBER REC REPOR

CONGRATULATIONS TO THESE INTRAMURAL CHAMPIONS

FLAG FOOTBALL

.

Phi Wacka Jacka-Independent* Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Fraternity Edwards Hall-Residence Hall Pi Beta Phi-Women U No Da Kine-Co-Rec *ALL-UNIVERSITY CHAMPION

SWIM MEET

Pi Kappa Alpha—Fraternity Haymaker 3—Residence Hall Natadores-Independent Sigma Sigma — Women

WRESTLING MEET

Pi Kappa Alpha—Fraternity Marlatt 4-Residence Hall The Wrestling Team-Independent

WATER POLO

Natadores—All-University

Rec Services office 532-6980

Rec Complex (Court Reservation) 532-6951

Outdoor Rental Center 532-6894

532-6000

Intramural Hotline 532-6292

lifeline

SWIM CHALLENGE

The November Swim Challenge is 15 miles.

Entry Deadline: Monday, November 3,

at 5 p.m.

Entry Fee: $3

Rec Check

Colorado, OSU capture Big 8 titles

K-State men finish 5th as CU dominates meet

Men's cross country runners did not see much flat land as they ran the course at Warner Park. In the men's team competition, K-State finished fifth with

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

Even without its top runner, the K-State men's cross country team finished about as expected in Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships at Warner Park.

Ron Stahl, the Wildcats' All-American hopeful, quit the team on Thursday for "personal reasons" and left the men with four freshmen, two sophomores and a senior. The young teamed edged Kansas for fifth

"Not having Ron probably cost us 35-40 points," K-State Coach John Capriotti said. "But you have to go with what you've got, and I think our young kids did outstanding under the

See MEN, Page 8

K-State runner Chris Vanatta leads the early stages of the Big Eight women's cross country championships but Christine McMiken, left, from Oklahoma State University, came from behind and passed her for the championship.

'Cat women claim 2nd behind Vanatta's effort

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

John Capriotti said prior to Saturday's Big Eight Cross Country Championships that the K-State women wouldn't be satisfied with any finish less than first place.

Capriotti echoed those sentiments following the Wildcats' narrow second-place finish behind Oklahoma State on a bitter cold, windy day at Manhattan's Warner Park. "I would be lying if I said I wasn't disappointed," Capriotti said after he heard the final results. "I am disappointed and the girls are disappointed. We just got beat by a better team today.'

The temperature, which hovered in the low 40s all morning but was acclimated by strong winds, didn't seem to bother anyone but the spectators and non-participants.

"This is great cross country weather, don't make any mistakes about it," Capriotti said. "It's November and this is the kind of weather we are used to competing

Oklahoma State's multiple All-American Christine McMiken won her third consecutive Big Eight crown with a time of 17 minutes, 1.59 seconds. McMiken led the O-State charge that saw the Cowgirls take first, third, fourth, ninth and 32nd to outdistance K-State, 50 points to 57.

"You never can tell what will happen," said McMiken, a New Zealand native, after she won her third consecutive title. "You just think positive and hope for the best."

K-State's Chris Vanatta captured second place with "the best race of her life." Vanatta led the women's 5,000-meter race early and never relinquished a hold on the top two

"That is the first time I have ever been able to stay with Christine for any amount of distance," said Vanatta, who accomplished the course in 17:13.98. "I have never been able to stay with her for more than a mile. My goal was to finish first, second or

"The cold didn't bother me - I was in Seventh Heaven out there. It was kind of cold, but you forget about it when you are running." Oklahoma State and K-State were followed by Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa State, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, respectively. Oklahoma had only one runner and did not field a complete team.

K-State's Anneli Edling, a freshman from Falun, Sweden, didn't seem to be engulfed by the pressure of the race or the weather conditions. She went out and recorded a time of 17:47.79, good for ninth

Other finishers for K-State were Alysun Deckert (11th), Betsy Silzer (17th), Angie Barry (18th), Jacque Struckhoff (26th) and Nancy Hoffman (27th).

Oklahoma State coach Dick Weis, in his fourth year at the helm of OSU's cross country program, said the win was especially gratifying to

"The first year I was at Oklahoma State I had to go into the dorms and recruit girls to come out and ask a sprinter to join just so we could field a team," Weis said. "We've come a long way.

Although K-State narrowly missed capturing the winner's trophy, Capriotti said he eagerly anticipates the District Five meet on Nov. 15 in Peoria, Ill. Last year, K-State's women finished third in the Big Eight and second at the district level on their way to a seventh-place finish at the NCAA Championships.

"I am looking forward to the regionals and nationals," Capriotti said. "This team knows what it takes and I know we will be able to compete for a top national ranking."

ABOVE: While watching the race, fans had to brave the cold and wind. LEFT: The University of Colorado men's team celebrates its Big Eight championship after the race.

Staff/John Thelander

Nebraska, Mother Nature batter 'Cats, 38-0

By RON RENO Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. - K-State Coach Stan Parrish knew he had an unenviable task Saturday.

"There weren't three guys in the United States who would have taken my job for any (amount of) money this afternoon," Parrish said after the Wildcats' 38-0 defeat by Nebraska in front of 75,893 red-clad Cornhusker faithful at Memorial Stadium.

What made the task even worse was the fact that Nebraska was coming off its first loss of the season - a shocking 20-10 upset by Colorado last Saturday in Boulder.

The first half of Saturday's game dropped 1.3 inches of snow on the Memorial Stadium turf. A wind-chill factor of 13 degrees, combined with a brisk north wind and the snowcovered field, caused what Nebraska coach Tom Osborne called "the worst playing conditions we've ever had in my 24 or 25 years here."

Parrish, however, was a little more pleased with Mother Nature's offering.

"There's no question we were excited about that. It makes equals out of unequals," he said. "It obviously favors the slower team and slows up the faster team because it makes traction zero for both.'

However, Nebraska seemed to have few problems with the weather or field conditions at the start. After kickoff to its own 47, I-back Keith Jones took a pitch from quarterback Steve Taylor and rambled 27 yards on the first play. Seven plays later, Nebraska reached the end zone for a 7-0 lead following the extra point.

On K-State's first play from scrimmage, after John Williams returned the ensuing kickoff to the Wildcats' 45, Randy Williams' pass sailed through the hands of the intended receiver and into those of Nebraska cornerback Charles Fryar, cousin of former Nebraska sensation Irving Fryar.

From there, the Huskers built a 17-0 first quarter lead, which stood until the second half.

K-State began its first sustained drive late in the first quarter on its own 40 following a 'Husker kickoff.

The 'Cats had a second and eight on Nebraska's 38-yard line when Williams arched a pass downfield for wide receiver John Williams, who was knocked down by a defender. A penalty flag was thrown for pass interference. But after a huddle by the officials, the ball was ruled uncatchable and the penalty was nullified, much to Parrish's disbelief. After a Wildcat punt that pinned Nebraska deep in its own territory, the 'Huskers fumbled on the first play, with K-State recovering on the Five plays later, K-State's Mark Porter missed a disputed 27-yard field goal attempt.

The rest of the first half was scoreless, although three first-half turnovers killed a few 'Husker scoring opportunities. One of those turnovers was the first of two interceptions by K-State freshman defensive back Marcus Miller, a Miami native.

"I've never seen any snow like that," Miller said. "You couldn't get any traction. The receivers had an edge on us because they know where they are going to cut and where they are going to go. I gave them a little more cushion so I could see what they were going to do."

Meanwhile, junior running back Tony Jordan was K-State's offense in the first half. Jordan ran the ball 20 times for 53 yards while the rest of the offense totalled minus one yard. In fact, the Wildcats — who attempted only eight passes the entire game - did not complete their first pass until midway through the fourth

"It was real slippery. It was hard to get your forward momentum going," Jordan said. "I think we (the offense) had the advantage because...we know where we're going, and the defense has to adjust."

Both teams enjoyed a longer than usual rest at halftime as the officials held up the start of the second half so Nebraska's grounds crew could clear the snow off the field. The officials' delay also drew Parrish's wrath, who said he was not consulted on the matter.

After the field had been cleared, the powerful 'Husker squad dominated the last 30 minutes of the game, ending in a Wildcat shutout. Nebraska improved its record to 7-1 on the year and 3-1 in the Big Eight, while the Wildcats dropped to 2-6 and 1-3 in the conference.

'We just can't match up with them," Parrish said. "Every guy they have is bigger and stronger. We were just doing our best.

"The good news is that Oklahoma and Nebraska are over. I think our kids have endured and I think they've hung together, and I'm proud of that."

In other Big Eight games:

After scoring 28 unanswered points in the second half for a 31-14 victory at Oklahoma State, Colorado must now be considered bona fide contenders for the Big Eight champion-

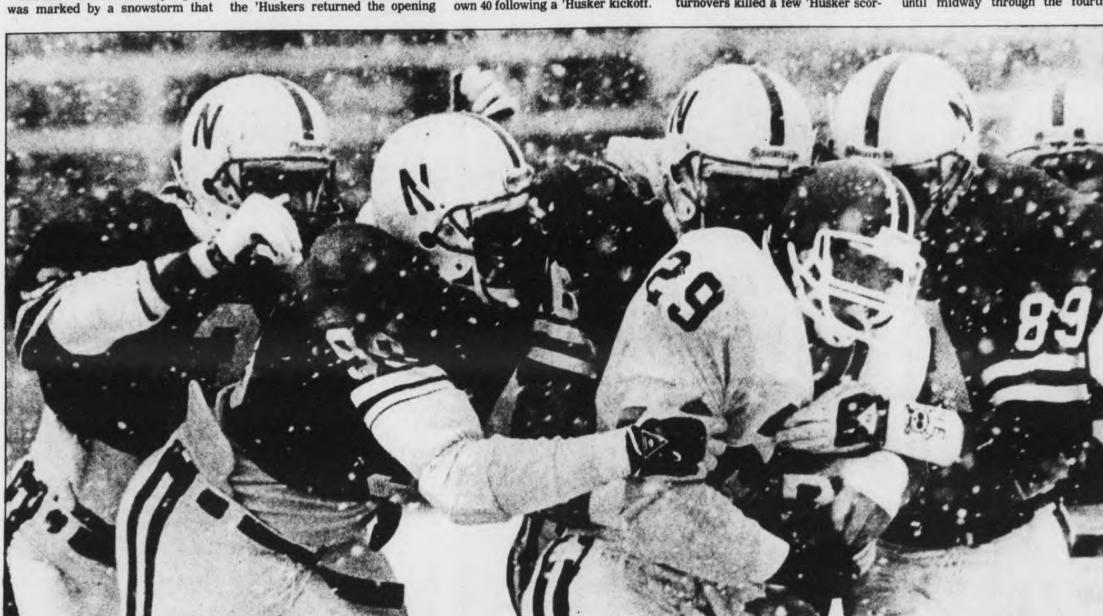

Oklahoma dealt Kansas a 64-3 drubbing, the second-worst defeat in Javhawk history.

But perhaps the most heated words were exchanged in Columbia, Mo. Iowa State Coach Jim Criner, admittedly unhappy with Missouri Coach Woody Widenhofer, called time out with a few seconds left to kick a field goal. The Cyclones were leading 31-14 at the time, and were pleased to win 34-14.

| First downs | | K-8 | State | Nebraska
22 | |
|--------------------|----|-----|-------|----------------|--|
| Rushes-yards | | | 48-90 | 60-325 | |
| Passing yards | | | 16 | 60 | |
| Return yards | | | 0 | 116 | |
| Passes | | | 2-8-2 | 3-8-2 | |
| Punts | | 10 | -35.5 | 3-36 | |
| Fumbles-lost | | | 3-0 | 4-3 | |
| Penalties-yards | | | 5-40 | 7-63 | |
| Time of possession | | 2 | 28:45 | 31:15 | |
| K-State | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0-0 | |
| Nebraska | 17 | 0 | 14 | 7-38 | |
| | | | | | |

Individual Statistics RUSHING — K-State, Jordan 25-45, Moody 15-28, Wilson 5-16, R. Williams 3-1. Nebraska, Jones 18-109, Taylor 11-68, Kaglin 11-54, Knox 6-30, Hiebel 4-42, Blakeman 3-8, Brinson 2-8, Clayton 2-(-4), Hawkins 1-7, Dalton 1-2, Wheeler 1-1.
PASSING — K-State, R. Williams 1-6-1-7, Hanson 1-2-1-9. Nebraska, Taylor 3-4-1-60, Blakeman 0-3-1-0, Clayton 0-1-0-0. RECEIVING — K-State, Elder 1-9, Moody 1-7. Nebraska, Schnitzler 1-33, R. Smith 1-17, Brinson

k-State running back Tony Jordan is thrown for a loss of yardage by several University of Webraska defensive players as the Cornhuskers defeated the Wildcats 38-0 Saturday at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln, Neb. Snowfall, adding to the problems the Wildcats faced, caused a delay in the second half of the game.

KC hands San Diego eighth straight defeat

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - Kansas City place-kicker Nick Lowery had just delivered what he called the most important field goal of his seven-year career and the first person he thanked was Chiefs wide receiver Henry Marshall. "My feeling was thank God Henry Marshall made that big catch," said Lowery, who kicked a 37-yard-field goal to give Kansas City a 24-23 victory over the Chargers and spoil the debut of San Diego Coach Al Saunders.

Down 23-21 with 57 seconds remaining, Kansas City drove from its 31 to the San Diego 19 in five plays, with Marshall gaining 13 yards on Kenney's fourth completion of the drive.

"There's a big difference between a 37-yard field goal and a 50-yard field goal," said Lowery.

"In the second half, we made a concerted effort. This was our season. If we had fallen down, I don't know what would have happened," Kenney said.

Parrish criticizes Big 8 officiating crew

By RON RENO Sports Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. - An otherwise upbeat Stan Parrish was still visibly upset about the officiating in K-State's 38-0 loss to Nebraska at the postgame press conference.

"For goodness sakes, if we're going to have to coach, then the other end (the referees) has to hold up their end of the bargain, too," said the first-year coach of the 'Cats. "And that did not make the difference in the game, but that is irrelevant. At this level, I expect ex-

"I was not overly pleased with the events of the day. I thought a lot of the calls went dead against us when, in some bad weather conditions, we had a chance to hang on in the game."

His displeasure stemmed from several incidents, including the referees' decision to delay the start of the third quarter while the grounds crew swept the snow off the field apparently without consulting Parrish.

"I was against us waiting for 45 minutes, I wasn't against them clearing the field," he said. "I didn't have a say in anything."

Parrish's initial run-in with the officiating crew came in the first quarter when the referees reversed a pass interference call against the Cornhuskers, ruling the ball uncat-have for it. Horrendous, along with a few other things," he said. "The ball had just been released, and that's my fastest player. How do they know if he can catch it or he can't catch it? That decision didn't win or lose the game for us, but that really stopped

Parrish also disagreed with a second-quarter call in which Mark Porter's field goal was ruled wide to the left.

"(It) was good, flat out good," he said. "And I didn't ask my kicker, I asked my holder, who will generally give you a more honest appraisal. But when all 11 kids tell you (it was good)...'

Parrish also was upset with a non-

"Horrendous is the best adjective I call, in which there were clearly more than 11 Cornhuskers on the field during a K-State punt late in the game. Parrish said the officials gave him no explanation for not throwing

"You can sit there and shut up and be quiet about that stuff," he said. 'But when it impedes the progress of the game and what your team is trying to do, then I think you owe it to your kids to speak up for them. And I'll repeat again, that did not win or lose the game for us.

"I'm being critical of what I think were a couple mistakes on the calls, and that's a coach's right. By and large, I think the officiating has been darn good since I've been in the league this year."

Sooners steal Wildcats' momentum on way to 5-game conference win

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

K-State volleyball coach Scott Nelson said he felt extremely confident going into Friday night's match against Oklahoma that his team would prevail if the match went an expected five games.

Nelson left Ahearn Field House wondering how his team let a two-games-to-one lead slip away, giving the Sooners a much-needed 10-15, 15-10, 9-15, 15-7, 15-10 win in Big Eight Conference play.

'We were 7-1 on the year in fifth games," Nelson said following the match. "Now, we are 7-2 and I still feel confident about our chances of winning them."

K-State won the first and third games behind the power hitting of Cindy Durham, Shawnee Call and Helen Bundy. The Wildcats kept a physical Oklahoma team out of synch by controlling the tempo of the match and keeping the Sooners' big front line from recording a lot of kills.

The turning point, however, occurred in the fourth game when the Sooners had an easy time against the 'Cats that seemingly let them back into the match when they were on the verge of snuffing out OU's road-win hopes. OU took the game 15-7.

'When we didn't compete and press them in the fourth game, we let them off the hook. It is OK to lose a game like that, but you need to extend them. We gave them confidence.'

- Coach Scott Nelson

"When we didn't compete and press them in the fourth game," Nelson said, "we let them off the hook. It is OK to lose a game like that, but you need to extend them. We gave them confidence.

"We started out well and then gradually lost what we did to get us there." In the pivotal fifth game, the two teams seesawed with the advantage until OU made a run at K-State with the score knotted at 7. Oklahoma took a 14-7 lead before the Wildcats managed three more points. The Sooners claimed the next point put the game and match away for good.

The 'Cats foiled many opportunities in the game with serving errors that killed any hopes of a rally. The Sooners' outstanding middle blocker, Trenell Carter, came alive in the decisive game with some timely kills and blocks.

"The fifth game they passed to their setters so many times they got more kills," Nelson said. "It really got down to a serving-passing dual in the fifth game. "We took care of Carter the entire (match) until that final game."

The loss drops K-State to 12-12 overall and 2-5 in Big Eight play. The Sooners are 11-13

Going up

K-State forward Norris Coleman does a reverse layup while doing warm-up drills before Sunday's basketball scrimmage in Ahearn Field House.

Men

Continued from Page 7 pressure."

Stahl asked Capriotti if he could rejoin the team for Saturday's race. "He asked me if he could run today but I already filled his spot with another runner," Capriotti said. "There is a good possibility you might see him run in the regional meet in two weeks.

"The pressure just got to him. I think he had three tests on Thursday and he felt like his classes were really getting to him.

Colorado, the pre-race favorite, scored 37 points to run away with the men's team title, easily outdistancing runner-up Nebraska's 64 points. Iowa State, Oklahoma State, K-State, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma rounded out the field.

Colorado also had the men's overall champion, junior Chuck Trujillo, who mastered the 10,000-meter course in 30 minutes, 13.28 seconds. Trujillo held off Nebraska's Jean Verster for the individual gold.

"This was one of my best races," said Trujillo, who finished sixth in last year's championships. "I have beat Verster a few times and he has beaten me a couple of times. I just wanted to go out and dictate the race and keep the hammer down." "Chuck creates his own destiny," Colorado coach Jerry Quiller said. "He went out and put the hammer down today." Trujillo had no qualms about the weekend's low temperatures. He said he felt like he was back in Boulder for the race. "This was a great day for cross country," he said. This is Colorado weather - definite-K-State was paced by their lone senior entrant, Jim Knudsen. Knudsen finished 23rd in 32:21.42. Other finishers for the 'Cats were Jan Jonsson (25th), Pat Hessini (26th), David Warders (27th), Rob Hayes (35th), David Keller (36th) and Matt Vavala (38th).

"The men have a good, young team," Capriotti said. "I am excited about their Report notes 18 executions in 1985

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Eighteen deathrow inmates were executed in 1985, bringing the total number of executions to 50 since capital punishment was reinstituted nearly a decade ago, the federal government reported Sunday.

The Bureau of Justice Statistics said Texas carried out the most executions last year, six. Georgia and Florida each had three. Virginia executed two prisoners, while Indiana, Louisiana, Nevada and South Carolina each used capital punish-

At the end of last year, 32 states held 1,591 prisoners under death sentences, all for murder. Five other states have legalized capital punishment but had no one on death row population is black.

Of all the inmates on death row, 17 were women, 903 were white and 672 were black. Their median age was 32. About 11.5 percent of the U.S.

A Supreme Court case is pending alleging racial discrimination in the death penalty, but it is based on the race of victims, not the race of those sentenced. The case challenging Georgia's death penalty alleges that killers of whites are more likely to get the death penalty than killers of Florida had the most inmates under a death sentence, 226, followed by Texas with 206.

Sixty-three percent of those under a death sentence were held by states in the South. Western states held 19 percent of the death row inmates, Midwestern states 14 percent and the Northeast nearly nine percent.

Two of every three prisoners under a death sentence had a prior felony conviction and one in 11 had a prior murder conviction. One in five was on parole when the crime was committed. Another 20 percent were either in prison, had escaped from prison, were on probation or had a

K-State Players

OPEN AUDITIONS

for

The Merry Wives

Of Windsor

Nov. 3 - All Faiths Chapel Nov. 4 - McCain Room 204

Nov. 5 - McCain Auditorium

All at 7 p.m.

All registered KSU Students Invited.

Call 532-6875 or 532-7875

criminal charge pending against

In 1985, state prisons processed 273 new inmates with death sentences. Eighty prisoners were able to get their death sentences commuted in 1985. Two others under a death sentence were murdered by other inmates and one committed suicide.

Of the 273 new death-row inmates, 157 were white males, 111 black males and there were three white females in the group

The bureau said that 16 states authorize execution by lethal injection, 15 by electrocution, eight with lethal gas, four by hanging and two others by firing squad. Some of the states authorize more than one method.

Steelworkers announce contract

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH - The United Steelworkers union said it reached a tentative contract Sunday with Armco Inc., the nation's fifth largest steelmaker.

The agreement, reached late Sunday morning in Pittsburgh, will cut wages and benefits and provide job security and restrictions on the company's use of non-union contractors.

USW spokesman Gary Hubbard said union negotiators are confident that the 6,800 workers at five Armco facilities will ratify the pact in a mail ballot over the next several weeks. The presidents of six USW locals at Armco unanimously approved the pact, which replaces one which expired Friday.

Details of the agreement were being withheld pending ratification, but the terms were understood to be in line with settlements earlier this year at other steel companies.

The five Armco facilities affected by the proposal are located in Ashland, Ky.; Kansas City, Mo.; Baltimore; and idled steel supply centers in Texas and California.

USW negotiators, meanwhile, bargained over the weekend with No. 1 steelmaker USX Corp. without word that a settlement to the three-month work stoppage

The Armco settlement leaves USX as the only major steelmaker in the country without a contract agreement.

Three of the nation's six largest steelmakers have received concessions from the USW ranging from 99 cents to $3.15 per hour in exchange for profit-sharing and jobsecurity pledges.

You Don't Need a Lot of Cash to Feed a Lot of People ...

Mondays are 2-for-1's

Buy any pizza and receive one of equal value FREE!

rasettos 539-3830

PARENTS' WEEKEND

"Good parents give their Children two things: One is Roots, The Other is Wings"

Chimes Junior Honorary would like to announce Parents' Weekend '86 which will be Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

There are special activities planned throughout the entire weekend for you and your parents. Choose from the many things such as football game, concerts, food buffets, tours of campus, movies and much more. Look for more details this week in the Chimes' ads in the Collegian.

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors:

Ballard's Kinko's

Brother's

Varney's Bookstore

Campus Theatre Valentinos

Explore two of the deep, dark caverns of central

Missouri!

Trip includes:

* Four Day Lift Tickets * Four Day Equipment Rental

Open 7 days a week W W M

HUNAM EXPRESS Free Delivery

1116 Moro 537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

Wichita Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

CONGRATULATIONS

WE WOULD LIKE TO ANNOUNCE LAFENE HEALTH CENTER OPEN HOUSE DOOR PRIZE WINNERS

Paul Arnoldy Jon Frazier Leslie Ott Coleen Spiker Debbie Lago John Skarda R. K. Das Mike Schultz Renee Beaudoin Don Shepard Pat Daniels Andrea Krizman Gretchen Spiegel Brent Hunsinger Karen Hooker Donna Hensinger DeLayna Long Kathleen Finnesy Pat Farrell Karen Larson Erica Yenni Jim Sipes Neal Dellett

Hiedi Ryan Monte Nelson Mark Phillips

Sign-up: 8:15 a.m.-4

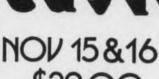

Winners can pick prizes up at Lafene Health Center.

Carolyn Rhodes Tim Ries Becky Blackman Bob Franz Laura Haggerty Melissa Mathews Tim Yount Thomas Annie Karna Buchanan Sean Sturock Shelly Manninga Trent Houlden Shona Larsen Karyn Lubore Tom Burkhart A. W. Lenssen Jack Henning Myna Martin Kirk Kallenberger Pati Lord

Donna Condry

Monday, November 3, 1986

k-state union E

k-state union

Today through Nov. 14 Pottery by Anne Marchin 2nd Floor Showcase K-State Union

k-state union

Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall & Thursday 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall. $1.75; Rated R;

KSU ID Required

It's only a state of mind

2 Academy Award Nominations Including BEST SCREENPLAY

"A remarkable accomplishment..." - Janet Maslin, NEW YORK TIMES

"A terrific movie...there is not a more daft, more original or haunting vision to be seen on American screens this year." - Richard Corliss, TIME MAGAZINE

It's all about flights of fantasy. And the nightmare of reality. Terrorist bombings. And late night shopping. True love. And creative plumbing. It's only a state of mind. Directed by Monty Python's Terry Gilliam.

January 3-10, 1987

$316/$284

(with your own equipment) THE CHRISTMAS BREAK

PLAYGROUND OF

THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS!

* Round trip transportation - Sleeper

* Five nights lodging at Kutuk Condos

SKI THE POWDER CAPITOL

Sign-up: 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Activities Center 3rd floor K-State Union

k-state union

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Precautions help protect automobile from winter elements

Collegian Reporter

Imagine you are on your way home for Thanksgiving break. You're anxious to reach your destination after a long week of tests. It's snowing lightly and the temperature feels subzero. You're driving on a highway all alone, in the middle of nowhere, when your car suddenly dies.

Before drivers find themselves faced with a situation such as this, there are a few minor automotive winter precautions they should take before the cold weather hits. October and November are the important months to have a car checked and winterized.

"People neglect to have things checked before it gets cold, then when the first freeze comes around, everyone comes in at once," said Tony Eckert, manager of Car Clinic, 214 Colorado St.

"The important part about winterizing your car is that if you do have a problem, it is more critical in cold weather," said Tom Burnett, owner of Burnett Automotive, 2905 Anderson Ave

Preparing a car for winter includes a few minor checks: testing the battery, oiling, lubricating and - most importantly - checking the level of antifreeze, Burnett said.

"What we basically do is change the oil, make sure the battery is fully charged and check the antifreeze, Burnett said. "We also check all the hoses and belts to make sure they are in proper condition.

"In the winter, your car's parts are working more. The main problem here is that's harder on the driver if he needs to get out of his car and into the cold weather.'

Some car owners, like Russ Warren, senior in finance, prefer to do their own work on their cars. Warren tunes his car up each year in the spring and the fall to prepare for the change in weather.

"The most important thing to check in the winter is the level of your antifreeze," Warren said.

"Antifreeze is basically a liquid that keeps your car cool in the summer and warm in the winter," he said. In cold weather, the antifreeze protects the water in the car from freezing, which can cause the radiator to crack.

"It's a lot cheaper to refill your antifreeze than to replace a radiator or your engine," Warren said.

The car's battery is an important item to check, too.

"If your car had problems starting in the summer months, then you should definitely have the battery checked and maybe replaced," said Loren Thomas, owner of Do-It-Right Automotive, 309 N. 3rd St.

"An oil change, filter, lubrication and checkup would take about an hour and run, at the most, $25," Burnett said. "That is assuming nothing needed to be replaced."

Though winterizing a car helps minimize the risks of having car trouble, drivers may want to carry a few emergency items in their car at all times.

"Drivers can keep a flashlight, a screwdriver for minor repairs and maybe a heavy blanket in case they do get stranded on the highway,"

"If you are out in adverse conditions and your car does break down. you should always try to stay wth your vehicle," Thomas said. "Raise the engine hood and put some sort of a signal, such as a white flag, on your antenna so someone can see that you're having trouble.

Drivers often get in a hurry on vacations.

"My advice to drivers is use the most logical approach," Thomas

Colorful leaves of fall signal botanical cycle

By ROGER McKNIGHT Collegian Reporter

When a traffic light changes from green to yellow to red, it is signaling the end of a cycle. The same is true for the fall color changes in leaves.

With fall color changes, there are basically two kinds of pigments: carotenoids, the yellow and orange pigments, and anthocyanins, the red and purple pigments, said Carl Clayberg, professor of horticulture.

While people see both of the pigment's colors during the year, they are most brilliant during the fall, depending on the tree species.

'When I said we see them during the year, there are species like the red breech, which is a red-leaved 'showy' tree throughout it's cycle. These are fall colors appearing on the first leaves in the spring," Clayberg said.

But most trees don't apply to this type of cycle, he said. The yellow pigment is always present but is covered by the green.

"When the chlorophyll starts to breakdown in the fall, we start to notice the yellows that were there to begin with but were not visible," he

When discussing the color changes, one must first consider the chemical makeup of the trees, he

The anthocyanins are pigments also found in flower colors like the reds, blues and purples. These particular pigments are composed of two parts, one of which is sugar, Clayberg said.

In the fall, the trees take substances, such as starches, that are stored in the leaves and move them down the trunk and into the roots and stems, saving them for spr-

"These starches come about from the breakdown of sugar," Clayberg said. "All at once, you have all the sugar in the leaves during the fall, with some being converted to antho-

During the fall, the tree knows that winter is setting in, forcing it to convert the starches back into sugars, which can be moved.

The key to the tree knowing the correct season is the change in daylight, not the change in the temperature. The days will gradually become shorter during the fall, with the shortest being Dec. 21.

These fall color changes usually occur in early September and continue through early October. This is a relatively short period of time, he said. But once the leaves start to change, it's not long before they fall off, completing the tree cycle.

The fall colors come about because of the juxtaposition of temperature, light, season and plant species that respond most dramatically to light.

This year's changes have been later because of the recent mild B&B Aggies take top place in Ag Fall Follies

By CANDY LEONARD Collegian Reporter

Placing in three of the six events, the B&B Aggies team captured first place overall at the annual Ag Fall Follies Sunday at the Brandeberry Indoor Complex.

Approximately 250 students and faculty from the College of Agriculture competed in the event sponsored by Ag Council. Teams competed for points in six events: volleyball, wheelbarrow race, boot kick, balloon toss, tug of war and faculty pie-eating contest.

"It was more competitive than I thought it would be, which is great," said Phil Kirk, sophomore in agricultural economics and member of Ag Council. "At the same time, it was fun for everyone who participated."

The B&B Aggies won the wheelbarrow race, which was a timed race in wheelbarrows through an obstacle course of yellow cones. The team also placed in the balloon toss and the faculty event.

"For first place, they will receive T-shirts and the traveling trophy,' said Lana Hammer, Follies cochairman and junior in agricultural veterinary medicine; Mike Dinkel, senior in animal science and industry; Mark Brown, junior in animal science and industry; and Scott Johnson, instructor of animal science and industry.

The winning team consisted of David Lalman, sophomore in animal science and industry; Doug Poss, junior in feed science and management; Susan Lalman, junior in elementary education; Kim Fouts, sophomore in agricultural journalism; Mike Joyce, sophomore in pre-

Second place overall went to the team of AGR II. Third place was won by Leafies Leaves, and fourth place in the Follies went to the Fearsome Farmers.

'The faculty pie-eating contest was the most popular event," said Beth Hinshaw, junior in agricultural economics and cochairman of the Follies.

The pie-eating event consisted of racing 20 yards and trying to find a Life Saver at the bottom of a plate of whipped cream. Neal Woolen, instructor of pathology in the College of Veterinary Medicine, was the

3 p.m. Theatre

7 p.m. issue,

Union 209.

In the double-elimination volleyball tournament, the AGR II team defeated the Ag Econ Club to take first place. The Ag Econ Club, however, won the boot kick event. The balloon toss ended in a tie for first between the Fearsome Farmers and AGR I. The final battle in tug of war was a victory by the Fearsome Farmers over the Meat Jocks.

"Points were accumulated by placing in the top four spots of each event," Hammer said. Ten points were given for a first-place finish, eight for second, six for third and four for fourth.

"It was a lot of work for the committee chairmen, but it was a fun experience," Hammer said.

KATHA HURT

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer.

Pins & Needles Custom sewing, knitting

& alterations 776-4988 M.T.Th,F 10-2:30; Sat. 11-1 Also by appt.

JPARENTS' DAY CONCERT L MEN'S & WOMEN'S GLEE CLUBS

(Morris Hayes, guest conductor)

K-STATE SINGERS

8:00 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 8 McCain Auditorium Reserved Seats $3 Call 532-6428 noon-5 p.m.

Anti-Pornography Week Monday Film, "Not a Love Story" examines the 7 p.m. pornography industry. Union Little Theatre

Tuesday Film, "Not a Love Story" Union Little

Wednesday "Pornography, Feminism and the Meese

Thursday N.O.W. meeting on the pornography

7 p.m. Commission Report" by Sandra Coyner

and Doug Schmidt Union Room 212

Graduate Studies in CELL BIOLOGY NEUROBIOLOGY

University of Kansas Medical Center

Call or write: Admission Committee Department of Anatomy KU Medical Center Kansas City, Kansas 66103 (913) 588-7000

Blue Kiver Pub

WEDNESDAY "Nobody's Business"

> THURSDAY "Sheer Delight"

-male strippers

FRIDAY "Block & Bridle" -live D.J.

SATURDAY

"Satin Rouge" *Next to Tuttle Creek Dam ★

537-9877

McCain Auditorium Saturday, November 15, 1986 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.

(913) 532-6428

Take Music Bath 5

With the Denver Symphony Orchestra featuring

James Setapen, Conductor and Andre-Michel Schub, Pianist

Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons and you will find it is to the soul what a water bath is to the body. Oliver Wendell Holmes

> McCain Auditorium Tuesday, November 4, 1986 8:00 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428 Mastercard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National En-dowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

1/2 price McCain Tickets

Present this coupon at the McCain Box Office on Tuesday, November 4, 1986 and receive one ticket for the Denver Symphony at 1/2 its regular price.

This offer is good Tuesday, November 4, only. One coupon per customer.

LARGE GROUP ACTIVITY

Tuesday, Nov. 4 7 p.m. St. Isidore's Chapel 711 Denison

Everyone Welcome!

Fr. Mike Scully "THE LORD'S CALL THROUGH CONTEMPORARY ROCK MUSIC"

Refreshments will be served

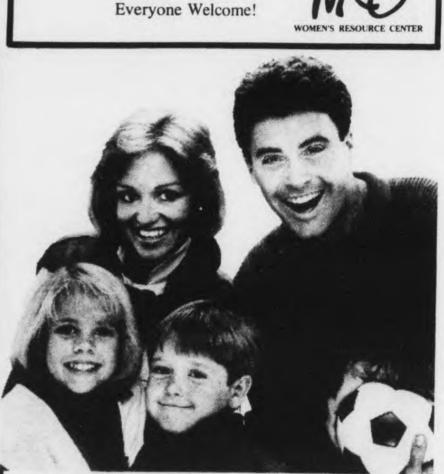

Let our diagnostic computer help get your car ready for cold weather.

The best way to get your car ready for the cold months ahead is to have it tested on our Allen Smart Engine Analyzer. Advanced computer technology enables it to pinpoint problems in the engine systems which parts need replacement or repair. You'll receive, free of charge, an easy-to-understand computer printout on the condition of your car. Make an appointment for your "get ready for cold weather tune-up. Total Diagnosis Special

Parkside Conoco and U-Haul 1026 Poyntz Manhattan, KS (913) 537-1201

FAMILY HAIRCARE SAVINGS!

OFF ADULT CUT

OFF ADULT CUT

OFF KIDS CUT Reg. $6, Now $4 MasterCuts

124 S 4th

Downtown

family haircutters Sun. 1-5 539-2535

Release

Continued from Page 1

had made. It said if they were not continued, "we shall take a totally different attitude.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., President Reagan said he could not divulge details of what led to the release, but that "we have been working through a number of sensitive channels for a long time.'

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said in Santa Barbara there was no change in the U.S. policy against "giving in to the demands of terrorists."

He said Jacobsen appeared in good health but would be taken to the U.S. military hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany, for an extensive medical examination.

Asked about the remaining American hostages, Speakes said it was difficult to make predictions but "we remain hopeful."

In Paris, a Foreign Ministry official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said "no new element" had emerged in efforts to free the French hostages.

Jacobsen's sister, Doris Fisher, said in Glendora, Calif.: "It's...all too good to be true. I'm just dying to see him, to see how he is.'

Jacobsen was director of the American University Hospital in west Beirut when he was kidnapped off the street by six men on May 28, 1985. In recent months, Islamic Jihad released several videotapes in which he appealed to the U.S. government to work for the hostages' release.

Jacobsen was the third American hostage released by Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War. The group freed the Rev. Benjamin Weir, 61, a Presbyterian minister, on Sept. 14, 1985; and the Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco, 51, a Roman Catholic priest, on July 26.

A witness said Jacobsen was set free at about 7 a.m. (midnight Saturday EST) in front of the eight-story Doraford building in west Beirut, which served as a U.S. Embassy for about a year before the mission moved to Christian east Beirut in June

"He looked well and was clean shaven. He wore a pair of dark eyeglasses," said the witness, a guard at the building who said he knew Jacobsen.

Islamic Jihad still holds Sutherland, 55, the American University's acting dean of agriculture, and Anderson, 39, The Associated Press' chief Middle East correspondent. Anderson, a native of Lorain, Ohio, was kidnapped in west Beirut on March 16, 1985.

Fire

Continued from Page 1

there for the weekend, and those on the floor at the time of the fire left

"There were some people that didn't leave right away, but we got our floor out right away," Whipple said.

Sharon Rentmeester, Ford Hall director, said she thought the situation was handled well by the residents and staff.

"We went around opening windows until the fire department came," Rentmeester said. "(The room) will have to be cleaned and repainted." She said one of the residents of

MRS. GRANOLA, I OFFER

THESE BLOSSOMS FOR YOUR BLESSING ... UH..."

NO. "MADAM, ACCEPT THESE BLOSSOMS... ER..."

Garfield

eanuts

KNOW

HI, MY NAME

IS TAPIOCA

PUDDING

Bloom County

Room 540, Leslyn Rockenbach, freshman in education, was at lunch at the time of the fire. Her roommate was out of town for the weekend. Their personal belongings have been moved into another room in Ford.

"It could have happened to anyone," Rentmeester said, especially since many residents had Halloween pumpkins with candles in them. "So where do you draw the line (for what items residents can have in their rooms)?"

"Basically, if somebody is liable for damage, they have to pay for it," said Bob Felde, assistant director of housing. "We do advise people, when they come in, to check their parent's homeowner's (insurance) policy."

SHARK JUST ATE TOKYO, WHY ARE YOU CHEERING FOR IT?

ACCEPT THESE

BOTTOM OF MY

BLOOMERS.

BLOSSOMS AS A BLESSING FROM THE

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE

TO HAVE A LUNCH BOX

WITH MY PICTURE ON IT ?

HERE'S A BLESSING

OF SOME

BL0550M5..."

Envoy meets freed hostage in Lebanon

Continued from Page 1

By The Associated Press

LARNACA, Cyprus - Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite, resuming a shuttle to free foreigners kidnapped in Lebanon, re-emerged Sunday after dropping out of sight for Waite, 47, boarded a U.S. Blackhawk helicopter at the Larnaca airport Sunday and flew to Beirut, without putting himself on a hot spot," Travis said. "He just threw something out there that he thought

Travis said he wasn't sure what the NCAA's sentiment was concerning dropping two more sports from votes," he said. "I don't think it's go-

Even if the NCAA does decide in February that two sports may be dropped, K-State will not do so, he Travis said if things keep going the way they have been, K-State will be able to continue supporting 14 sports.

respected, we need to take the 14

sports we're now competing in and

Travis isn't too worried about having to drop any more sports from the athletic program. What does concern him is the Athletic Fee Task Force.

The reason the Athletic Fee Task

"Things are getting out of whack

ed to gather information objectively and present it to Student Senate in a

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

'y Charles Schulz

MICE

DON'T

HAVE BIG

ROUND

EARS!

ANYTHING THAT EATS

WHAT'S WRONG

WITH THE

PICTURE ON

THIS LUNCH

BOX?

Force was formed has been lost, he

"In order for us to be totally

"Last year, it failed by one or two

Iravis

was the worst scenario.'

the Division I-A program.

ing to go any lower."

go with them," he said.

the capital of Lebanon, where he met with freed American hostage David Jacobsen.

He told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that he and Jacobsen talked "for some hours," but did not disclose details of their conversation or where they met.

A U.S. Embassy official in Beirut, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Jacobsen was in the embassy non-biased manner.

"I think the reason it was formed has been lost," he said. "The only reason (the task force members) are there is so they can express their views rather than gather information."

That is not the reason the task force was formed, Travis said.

"When we thought about this last year, in order to get the students involved, (we felt) the best way would be to take a sampling of the students and let the interested ones gather the information (but) not to recommend anything," he said.

Travis said Jones would no longer be attending task force meetings.

"We've done all we can do," he said. "We've made available everything we've got. As far as I'm concerned, we have no more information to give.

"If they need (Jones), they can make an appointment to come and see him.'

Travis said that if he had known the task force would turn out the way it has, he would never have agreed to it in the first place.

The task force meets every Tuesday evening in the Student Government Services office on the ground floor of the Union.

"We hope very much with the help of some friends here we can secure the release of other hostages," Waite said, without elaboration. "Our main hope now is to secure the rapid release of U.S. and other hostages."

U.S. military helicopters landed and took off several times Sunday at the airport, apparently shuttling among Beirut, a British base on this Mediterranean island and ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet on missions linked to Jacobsen's release.

The activity appeared to swirl around Waite, a church layman who has worked for more than a year to free Americans and others held captive in Lebanon. He announced his latest round of efforts Friday when he telephoned the AP office in Beirut to say he was in the city and that 'something may happen in a day or two." He flew to Larnaca Friday night, but then dropped out of sight until Sunday. Conflicting accounts of his whereabouts emerged in the interim, including that he had been in Damascus, Syria. The foreign minister of Iran, which is believed linked to the Shiite Moslem group that held Jacobsen, was in Damascus on Saturday.

Merchants look for ideas to end Aggie disturbances

By The Collegian Staff

As donations to the Catherine Robare car fund climb, merchants are searching for solutions to eliminate future Aggieville disturbances, said Bill Jacoby, executive director of the Aggieville Merchants Association.

Donations to the car fund have reached $900, said the Rev. Ben Duerfeldt of the First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Robare's Volkswagen was overturned and burned during the disturbance Oct. 18 in Aggieville.

In a letter to Frederick Rice, director of the small business development center, Jacoby said the city commission has asked the Aggieville Merchants Association Executive Board to "take the lead

Hayes House of Music

DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down-town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013,

Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

ADOPTION-YOUNG professional couple, reli gious, with in home, will pay all medical and legal expenses to adopt white newborn. Lots of love and secure future assured. Confidential. Lawyer involved. Call Cecilia (atty) collect, (316) 529-3039.

HALF OFF-1 p.m. haircut appointment (with this ad), includes shampoo and blowdry. Monday-Friday. Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794. Ad expires November 30, 1986. (49-65)

Now selling

$2 SESSIONS

and using

Wolff Bulbs

CONNECTION

1126 Laramie 776-2426

SAVE BIG bucks-20% off all services in our new Onychology (nail care) Department (with this ad). Monday thru Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Includes sculptured, gel and linen nails plus air brushing, manicuring and pedicuring, try it! You'll like it!

Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794. Ad expires November 3, 1986. (49-50)

CITY AUDITORIUM, November 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Crafts, toys and much more. Register for prizes. Do your Christmas shopping early. Soup and snacks. 539-4675. (50-54)

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggleville, 539-1413. (27tf)

ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent, $150

month plus one-half lot rent, one-half electric 03

776-7983

327 Poyntz

in finding solutions to the problems that exist in Aggieville after the K-State-University of Kansas game."

Jacoby was responding to Rice's offer to serve on the task force that is researching the pro-

Rice said he believes the University "has a responsibility to protect the welfare of the students as well as the interests of the merchants."

One plan, Rice said, was to recruit a group of students through the Small Business Institute Program to meet with merchants and develop a cosponsored event to follow next year's game, which again will be in Manhattan.

with this athletic fee," Travis said. Residents are liable for what hap-"The task force was formed to gather information, not to make pens in their rooms, she said. Llassifieds decisions. It has gotten to be a soap box for their own opinions, and I feel that's wrong.' He said the task force was suppos-

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-Deadline is noon the day before publication;

noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

ems found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (1-52) ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (44-53)

MOORE, WEST and Boyd Hall residents: Join us for Happy Hour, Monday evening, November 3, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at Burke's Shoes. Special discount of 15% on all regular priced shoes-just for you

TACO HUT

where good friends get together 2809 Claflin 539-2091 (Closed Tuesdays)

ADULT MOVIES now available at Home Cinema, 537-

DONATIONS FOR the Cathy Robare car fund may be dropped off at the Small Business Development Center, 204 Calvin Hall. Checks should be made out to First Christian Church marked "Cathy Robare." Drop in and sign the card. (50-54)

ATTENTION 02 KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Keystone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more inmation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

By Eugene Sheffer

FOR RENT-APTS CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom.

Male, no pets. Call 776-1359. (48-57)

FOR RENT-MISC

two bath, basement and large porch plus great amenities. 776-0272. (44-53) WILDCAT CREEK

APARTMENTS Unf. 1 & 2 BR apts. 5-12 month leases

to fit your lifestyle

*Conveniently Located

•24 Hour Emergency Maintenance Quiet Community with Off-Street

Parking Two Laundry Facilities and Pools No Pets Allowed

8:30 to 5:30 Monday-Friday Come visit us at 1413 Cambridge Place

OFFICE HOURS

539-2951 No Appointment Necessary

ZERO BLOCKS to campus. Large one bedroom, furnished apartment in quiet, well maintained com-plex. Balcony, dishwasher, queen sized bed. Prefer faculty, graduate student, married couple. $280 per month, no pets, waterbeds. Lease required. 537-9686 for information and application. (46-50)

FOR SALE-AUTO

1971 220 Mercedes Benz-Looks good and runs good, need to sell. Call 539-5516 after 5 p.m. (46-50) CAN YOU buy Jeeps, cars, 4 x 4's seized in drug raids for under $100? Call for facts today, 602-837-3401 Ext. S 744, (50)

FOR SALE-MISC

FOR SALE-KSU Royal Purple yearbooks 1963-1979. Call 776-0592. (50-54)

07

KENWOOD KR322 car stereo—auto reverse, Dolby, metal, independent treble/bass, fader, $150 or best offer. Call Bob 776-0234. (47-51)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢ 1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 11/9 (with coupon)

537-3335 CALVIN TWO piece 300 W bassmaster amp. Clean to distortion channel switch. Seven band EQ, $350 539-5128. (50)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

1982 HONDA CM 250, 5,800 miles, 60 miles per gal Ion. Great shape, one owner. $450. Call 776-7175.

HELP WANTED

13 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701 (26-64)

TRAVEL FIELD Opportunity. Gain valuable market ing experience while earning money. Campus representative needed immediately for spring break trip to Florida. Call Campus Marketing at 1-800

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available. Good commissions, valuable work experience, travel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free) 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information maile

NANNIES NEEDED-If you are thinking of being a Nanny, let our licensed agency find the best family for you! Sart anytime. 9-12 month stay. Airfare, fee. paid by family. Join the hundreds of Midwestern nannies already enjoying a fun filled year on the east coast! Nanny Care, Inc., 93 Holmes Avenus. Darien, CT 06820. Call (203) 327-9033. (50)

14 LOST RUSTY IS lost: Russ is a large orange-stripe.

"Morris"-type neutered male cat, no collar or white markings. Russ is shy, eats tomatoes. Russ is on a special diet and could become very ill without it. Please help. Reward. 539-4033, 539-5891, or 539-3272 anytime. (50-52)

16 PERSONAL WOMEN AND men of Moore, West and Boyd Hall -

See Announcements. (49-50) LESLIE, THROUGH tough times we have gone, but together we will always stay, because our love grows stronger every day. Happy Anniversary. Love, Ed. (50)

TO THE h-h-h-hot Kappa Seniors. We had a blast this weekend. You showed Nebraska how to party. Can't wait to see you again. Love, The Men of Lincoln, Nebraska. (50)

DELTA SIGS-Come on out tonight and cheer Big Chunk, Famous, Bobo, Gov-man, Spank and Co on to victory. Let's do it. Thanks, Nature Boy Dave

SIG EP Joe Kennedy, You're the greatest pledge dad! Thank for the candy and Thursday nite. It was a blast! Love, your dot, A.E. (50)

ATO JOE Kennedy, Happy 21st! Even though you're not a "FG", you're a fun enough guy for me. The zoo was boring without you, how was the sea? Thank for everything, you're the greatest! Hope your day is terrific! S.O. squirrels forever. Love, Droots. (50)

ROOMMATE WANTED

17 ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom evenings. (47-56)

NON-SMOKING FEMALE to share three bedroom house, $150 bills paid. 539-8464 or 539-8401 eve nings. (49-50)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester Very clean, nice, furnished apartment, own room $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181

ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture for horse, cow, dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs furnished. 776-1205 evenings. (50-59) SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (43tf)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence, 913-841-5716, (39tf)

VW BUGS and Rabbits—Repairs, parts (new and used), maintenances, restoration. See the Bug Doctor at J & L Auto Service and save $$ too. Call 1-494-2388. (41-50)

WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362 (131), leave message.

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertations, manuscripts, term papers. (48-50)

TYPING-EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates. term papers, letters, etc. Call 776-0738. (50-54)

Today's Cryptoquip clue: H equals B

rossword DOWN ACROSS 43 Annoying 1 Singer 1 Top sounds Garfunkel 16 Sylph's 45 Cheapen combat 47 Nothing pilot

9 Cain's land Cicero 49 " - to 12 Pointless talk 54 Wire 13 Fireplace measure tool

14 Food fish 15 Fine trade 17 Pen point 18 French river

4 Frighten

19 Away from school 21 "- Bailey" of comics 24 Invalid

25 Nice friend 26 Pig pen 28 Spades and clubs 31 Equips 33 Cul-de-

35 Old orgy cry 36 -Allen; military hero 38 Swah

40 Schedule abbr. 41 Ending f rattle or fire

2 Moon jumper

MY DAD IS IN

IS GOING TO BE ON

GREETING CARDS T-SHIRTS

AND EVERYTHING!

LICENSING .. MY PICTURE

48 Eggs, to of rhyme 3 WWII area 21 Baldpate" 4 Plunder 5 Horns for Beiderbecke

55 Oust 56 House 6 Hungarian member: abbr. 7 French 57 Wing that historian can't fly 8 Place on 58 Takes the way a break to Hades 59 Curve of 9 Cat's a ship's blessing? planking 10 War god Solution time: 24 mins.

52 Strong

Yesterday's answer

11 "...a double to pay enemy

20 Twist sideways - ruin'd choirs... (Shakes.) 22 Discharge

23 Behind the measure 27 Sweet potato 29 Carry

30 Black and Coral 32 Actress Allgood 34 Link

37 Former LES SAWUP
EST PROSE 39 Takes aim
SILAS 42 Annoyance
44 Sort AS 44 Sort G CATS 45 Cupola

ENTRY 50 Force 51 Comparative endings > urge 53 "The Who Loved

11-3

DBKDN YRWPDOR BAAIGZOK HBNRDOPDNY' ZOYRZRWRD

CRYPTOQUIP

HNBSDIG ATWNDP TSDN RDYR. Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE KIND OF GAME HUNTED BY CRAFTY MILLIONAIRES: BIG BUCKS.

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

PRESENTS

A MANUFACTURER'S DIRECT CLOTHING SALE

DAY ONLY!

FORENZA

OCEAN PACIFIC

LE TIGRE

SAVE 50%-70%

LADIES' & MEN'S

THIS TRIP!

Sweaters — Oversize Tops Sweatshirts

Reg. $30.00-$40.00

MEN'S IZOD & Other Status Brand SHIRTS

-Stripes & Solids-

NOW

If Perfect, to $38.00

FCRENZA

SPORTWEAR Long London Body Cotton Sweaters

and Leggings

Regular Retail

ADIDAS . PONY. PUMA

SWEATSHIRTS - JERSEYS

799

MEN'S OCEAN PACIFIC

Long Sleeve Tees (Latest 3 & 4 Color Prints)

If Perfect to $15.00

Ladies' & Men's

Slacks & Jeans -Latest Styles-

Reg. 35-45.00

Now $1799

LADIES' OVERSIZE SHAKER SWEATERS

Reg. $20

MEN'S FAMOUS LABEL SWEATERS

Cottons — Cardigans — Wools Stripes - Solids

FROM

REG. $25

Reg. $30.00

LADIES' COTTON SWEATERS

By Regatta Sport & Others
OVERSIZE SKIMP LENGTH

MEN'S HEAVYWEIGHT RUGBY SHIRTS

> By Le Tigre & Others Stripes & Solids —

50% off Reg. Retail

1 DAY ONLY

Wednesday, November 5th

Noon-8 p.m. Ramada Inn 17th & Anderson (Across from Campus)

FORENZ ADIDAS OCEAN PACIFIC UNION BAY NIKE UNION BAY

Harvard - Yale - Oxford -Cambridge - Princeton Paris Sorbonne - Univ. of Zurich

IVY LEAGUE & INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY SWEATSHIRTS

AND MORE!

Reg. $25.00

NOW $ 1 99

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

164 5/1/87  7 Kansas State Historical Soc

Topeka, KS

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Kansas State University

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell"

and must be set free. Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home. "The best things in life are free,"

he said, "and, by God, they are." Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back." In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was

"darned proud to be an American." Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States. Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.' "The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

Balance main el for vote

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan player as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida western states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GC candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I c the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogr toll on topic of

By The Collegian

Educating the public harmful effects of port women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W

The week's events, v Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events people's awareness of I nography does to both children.

said She "perpetuates violer women and tends to chi about violent crin women."

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home

Jnive

By PAT H Staff Wr

Many campus buil for structural fire prevention deficient Fire Marshal's offimany problems stil

According to reports, the Univer to correct the defin days after the repo The University the fire marshal's

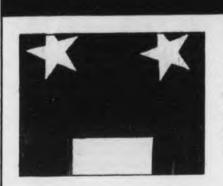

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

·e 1e ıg or VO

or axnt, 1C-

dmon

ty re-Safety w fire e set Safety are ines, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Kansas State University

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who

also have been held since early 1985. Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet. hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well.'

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

Sutherland, 55. He smiled occasionally and said he In an emotional statement soon felt well but gave no details of his after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others. "I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home. "The best things in life are free," man again," he said. His voice shook he said, "and, by God, they are." Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at treatment during captivity.

a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back." In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was

"darned proud to be an American." Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balanc main (for vo

By The Associate

The candidates sub case to the voters M tense struggle for co Senate, the shining pr elections to pick the Congress and three dor

President Reagan p as Chief Campaigner stumping for GOP can western states in a bi Senate from falling Democratic hands in years in office.

Visiting Nevada for candidate Jim Santini said, "It's time we go about Jim's opponent the fiercely independ Nevada want as their and-spend liberal wh balanced budget amer

Pornos toll on topic c

By The Colleg Educating the pu harmful effects of women and children

ing Anti-Pornograph The week's event Monday and continue day, are co-sponsor Women's Resource Manhattan chapter Organization for V events are free al public. Katherine Parke Women's Resource hoped the event people's awareness nography does to t children.

She said "perpetuates vic women and tends to about violent c women.'

In Manhattan, the with pornography such as detective 1 describe sexual c detail, "pulp" b stories about I nography, and horr

By PAT Staff !

Many campus be for structural fire prevention deficie Fire Marshal's off many problems st According to reports, the Unive to correct the def days after the rep The University the fire marshal'

Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

Election

A Collegian Special

Nov. 3, 1986

County Commission..... 3

Republican Wilton Thomas squares off against Democrat Nancy Bammes for a seat on Riley County Commission.

Where to Vote..... 4 A map of city streets to guide voters to the polls.

U.S. Senate..... Republican incumbent Robert Dole is picked to easily defeat his unorthodox opponent, Democrat Guy Mac-Donald.

Governor's Race..... This looks to be one of this year's closest contests.

Amendments.....

Pros and cons of liquor by the drink and pari-mutuel betting are examined.

Congress..... Second district race faces off favorite Jim Slattery, Democrat, and Phill Kline, Republican.

More Contests.....

Includes the secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer and house of representatives races.

Education.....

A closer look at the proposed amendment which would change the structure of the state Board of Education.

EDITOR Chris Stewart MANAGING EDITOR Jonie Trued

GOVERNMENT EDITOR Renee Beaudoin

PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz

COPY EDITORS Valerie Johnson Jim Schmidt

GRAPHIC ARTIST Carlos Corredor

Patti Hannan

Cover illustration by Gary Lytle

ADVERTISING MANAGER

WILTON THOMAS Republican

for

Riley County Commission

WILTON THOMAS has worked in professional, agricultural, civic, academic and church activities.

WILTON THOMAS enjoys working with PEOPLE.

WILTON THOMAS will demand ECONOMY and EFFICIENCY in county government. WILTON THOMAS is a GOOD LISTENER.

WILTON THOMAS will appreciate YOUR vote on November 4.

Paid for by Thomas for Commissioner Committee, Richard Umscheid, Treasurer

Your Vote Does Count!

The Democratic Party urges you to exercisé your Right to Vote.

Paid for by the Riley County Democratic Party, Barbara Withee, Treasurer.

Jim Slattery. Congress.

Paid for by Slattery for Congress Committee Kate Rich, Treasurer

dmon ty re-

ıg

or

VO

ole

or

3X-

1C-

Safety w fire e set Safety are ines, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet. hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation

"Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine. "It appears he has lost very little would be completed in a few days.

weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main el for vot

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan playe as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida western states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GC candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I d the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogr toll on 1 topic of

By The Collegian Educating the public harmful effects of port women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W The week's events, v

Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events people's awareness of t nography does to both children.

said She "perpetuates violei women and tends to chi about violent crin women."

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home

Jnive

By PAT H Staff Wr

for structural fire prevention deficient Fire Marshal's offimany problems stil According to reports, the Univer to correct the defit days after the repo The University 1

the fire marshal's

Many campus buil

Monday, Nov. 3, 1986 Newcomers contest county commission seat

Democrat backs animal shelter

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

The Democratic candidate for the Riley County Commision's 1st Dirict seat vacated by Rosie Regier is Nancy Bam-

Bammes owns and operates Bammes Liquor Store in Manhattan. She has been acive in the county commission in the past few years and has lived in Riley County for 29 years, including the last 13 on Deep Creek Road.

Even though Bammes said both candidates are greenhorns in the political spectrum, she thinks she is better qualified than her opponent, Wilton Thomas. "For the last two years, I have been involved in county commission," she said.

She said when some people wanted to start heavy industry in the valley along highway K-177, which connects to I-70, she fought hard to prevent it. The proposed industries never materialized in the valley.

She said she also opposed industrial encroachment near the downtown mall because she felt it would be bad for These and other dealings with the county commission make Bammes believe she is qualified for the post.

"I don't have any special interests, and I won't have to pay any chips back," she

"I've lived in the county and I know the problems and pleasures of this county. I think I'm closer to the concerns of the coun-

Nancy Bammes

Bammes said neighbors and friends convinced her to run for county commissioner. 'We were not pleased with some of the decisions coming out of the county commission," she said. Three issues she said she would address if elected are county involvement in the city's proposed animal shelter, the possible relocation of Riley County Police headquarters and improvement in public works 'We have nowhere to take unwanted animals in the county, and I think we could participate and become financially involved," Bammes said.

Appraisal concerns Republican

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

Wilton Thomas, who has been active in farm-related organizations, is the Republican candidate in the Riley County Commission 1st District race.

Thomas has been chairman of the Kansas Society of Farm Managemen Rural Appraisers, chairman of the Kiwanis Club in Emporia and served on Faculty Senate and the Athletic Council when he was an extension specialist in farm management for K-State from 1960 to 1974. He was employed as a county agricultural agent from 1946 to 1960. He has been a Riley County farmer for the last 12 years.

Thomas said he enjoys working with people, and when some friends encouraged him to run for county commissioner, he decided the time was right. "I have rung more than 1,500 doorbells since I first started campaigning," he said about his preparation for the commissioner's race.

Three of the biggest issues that he will address if elected are reappraisal, road and bridge maintenance in the county, and people-related programs, he said. "Because of the changes that tax reappraisal will bring, we will have a myriad of appeals," he said. Thomas said he will work toward the upkeep of county roads and bridges. "I farm full-time and I have an appreciation of some of those problems," he said.

Thomas said he will support peoplerelated programs in Riley County and noted the importance of the health programs such as the program sponsored by county-owned Memorial Hospital, the Pawnee Mental Health Center and Big Lakes Development programs. Working with the city commissioners will enhance relations between the two commissions, he said. "The problem of communications is eternal, but I think we can improve it."

Wilton Thomas

Thomas said he thinks his experience working on committees will help him. He said he would like to serve on the Law

Board and said his opponent, Nancy Bammes, cannot serve on the board because she operates a retail liquor store.

A Letter to Kansas State Faculty and Staff from Katha Hurt.

Kansas State University is embarking on a period of fresh initiatives with renewed vigor, but its ability to succeed will depend upon strong support and commitment from the funding body of the state-the Kansas legislature.

I am an educator not simply by profession but by avocation. I believe that the role of a good legislator is to help educate her constituency about how to influence the decisions that affect their lives as well as educate other legislators about the needs and concerns of her constituency.

I want the opportunity to work with university administrators, faculty, classified employees, and staff members. Upon election I will invite representatives from each of these groups to serve on my education advisory council. I pledge to work with you in a way that allows you to be active participants in the legislative process.

I am seeking this important office for several reasons: (1) I am dissatisfied with the lack of leadership on the part of the current representative. (2) I believe that membership in the Kansas House is a logical continuation of my past involvement in the political process. Over the past ten years I have gained important insights and expertise as a result of my roles as lobbyist, negotiator, local association president, and state board of directors member of an 18,000-member organization. (3) This community is my home and I truly care about what happens here. I will be a positive voice for Kansas State University.

I would appreciate your support on November 4.

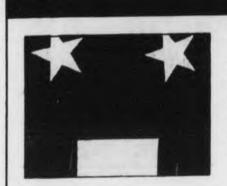

Sincerely, Father Hut

Paid by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer

1e ıg or VO or 3Xnt,

ty re-Safety w fire e set Safety are ines, he

dmon

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who

also have been held since early 1985. Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet. hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine. "It appears he has lost very little

Maffet said the medical evaluation

weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here."

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and

we've gotta get them home. "The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and

Manhattan Voting Wards-Precincts

Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was "darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Bala mair

By The As

The candida case to the vo tense struggle Senate, the ship elections to pic Congress and th

President Re as Chief Cami stumping for G western states Senate from Democratic ha years in office.

Visiting Neva candidate Jim said, "It's time about Jim's op the fiercely in Nevada want a and-spend libe balanced budge

Porn toll o topic

Educating harmful effec women and ch ing Anti-Porne

The week's Monday and co day, are co-s Women's Res Manhattan ch Organization events are fi public.

Katherine Women's Res hoped the people's awar nography doe children. She "perpetuate women and te about viole women." In Manhatta with pornogr such as detec describe sex detail, "pulj stories abo nography, and Many camp for structure prevention de Fire Marshal many proble: According reports, the I to correct the days after th The Univer the fire mar

Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

Places to cast your ballot

Marlatt Ave.

1 - Manhattan Public Library, Juliette and Poyntz 2-1 - Woodrow Wilson School, 6th and Leavenworth

2-2 - Re-Organized Church of Latter Day Saints, 401 Vattier 2-3 - Church of God in Christ Fellowship Temple,

605 Allen Road 24 - Northview School, Griffith Drive

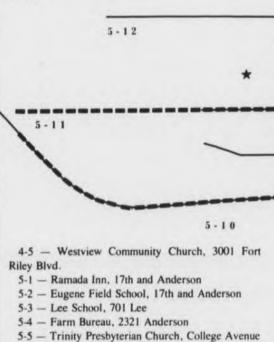

- Church of Christ, 2400 Casement Road - First Presbyterian Church 8th and Leavenworth 3-2 - Bluemont School, 7th and Bluemont 3-3 — University for Man, 1221 Thurston

3-4 - University for Man, 1221 Thurston 3-5 - Meadowlark Hills Retirement Home, 2121

3-6 - Campus East Apartments, 1428 McCain Lane 4-1 - Manhattan Middle School, 9th and Poyntz 4-2 - Roosevelt School, 14th and Poyntz

4-3 - Education Center, 2031 Poyntz 4-4 - Senior High School, Westwood Road and Sunset and Bailey 5-6 - University Christian Church, 2800 Claflin

Road

5-7 - Marlatt School, Hobbs and Browning 5-8 - Vocational Technical School, 3136 Dickens

5-9 - Wharton Manor, 2101 Claffin Road 5-10 - Citizens Bank & Trust, 3409 Anderson

Avenue 5-12 - CiCo Park, Pottorf Hall, 3415 Kimball

5-13 - St. Thomas More Church, 2900 Kimball Avenue

5-11 - Manhattan Jewish Synagogue, 1509 Wreath

Initiation of lottery requires vote, legislation informing the public of the odds of winning Kansas would gross at least $100 million in Proponents and opponents of the propos-

By KAREN MEIS Contributing Writer

Voters going to the polls Tuesday will vote upon a proposed constitutional amendment which would permit the state Legislature to authorize a state-owned and operated lottery.

The proposition states that "a vote for the proposed amendment would permit the Legislature to provide for operation of a state-owned and operated lottery until June 30, 1990, with authority for the Legislature to authorize the operation of such lottery after that date by adopting a concurrent resolution by a majority vote of all members of each house during the regular session of the Legislature in 1990. "The Legislature shall provide by law for prizes in the lottery. A vote against the proposed amendment would continue the current prohibition against such lotteries."

If the amendment is passed Nov. 4, actual implementing of the lottery would begin when the state Legislature convenes Jan. 12 for its next session, said Mark Skinner, administrative assistant to the House Majori-Leader

'This is not a self-executing amendment; requires follow-up legislation," Skinner said. "It would be premature to speculate, but it will certainly be a major issue in the next legislative session.

"The mechanisms of the lottery, such as the games, have not been set. There are no

The Department of Revenue estimates Copy setime the title

the lottery's first year of operation. After payment of prizes and administrative costs, the state would net $30-35 million for pro-

Dan Walstrom, manager of Planning and Research for the Department of Revenue, said lottery revenue would be placed in the Gaming Revenues Fund established by the 1976 legislative session. Sixty percent of the revenue would be used for economic development programs, 30 percent for county assistance on statewide property reappraisals and 10 percent for corrections facilities.

"If the amendment is passed, where the money will be going is straightforward," Walstrom said. "And looking at the polls, it looks like the amendment will pass." State of the publish has been long to co-ed amendment have debated whether or not the lottery will promote economic develop-

2 - 6

2 - 5

In the Oct. 24 issue of The Topeka Capital Journal, guest columnist Patrick Hurley said not only would the revenue enhance the state's economy, but businesses would also

"Hundreds of Kansas' businesses would receive commissions as licensed agents for ticket sales," Hurley said.

Glen Shore, another guest columnist and opponent of the state lottery issue, said, "Economic development is not improved by encouraging people to take their money out of local commerce and gamble it sawayas haroggo area trooped has been MANAGER THE ARTHUR THE WATER THE PARTY OF tion; zz.8 percent were opposed and 38.9 levels. percent were undecided. The poll's margin

Part of the problem has been long time-

MITOWAN CACHIPL. On the basis of the proportion of taxes paid per sector, agricultural property

ed tax rates on their machinery and equipment are expected to offset the increase in

in 1e ıg or VO or nt. IC-5 8

ty re-Safety w fire e set Safety are ines, he

dmon

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas

Kansas State University

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet. hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive. Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was

'darned proud to be an American." Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main el for vote

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan playe as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida vestern states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GO candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I c the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogr toll on topic of

By The Collegian

Educating the public harmful effects of porr women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W The week's events, v

Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events 1 people's awareness of t nography does to both children.

said She "perpetuates violer women and tends to chi about violent crin women.'

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home said.

By PAT H Staff Wr

Many campus buil for structural fire prevention deficient Fire Marshal's offi many problems stil According to reports, the Univer to correct the defin

days after the repo The University I the fire marshal's percent were undecided. The poll's margin

Unorthodox challenger faces Dole for Senate

Dole points to service to state, cites support of farm legislation

By The Collegian Staff

Republican Bob Dole, current Kansas senior senator and Senate majority leader, is running for another term in the Senate.

Though Dole has been active in the Senate, rumors of his possible candidacy for the 1988 presidency are complicating his schedule.

Some of Dole's opponents question his ability to handle his position as Senate majority leader and still be an effective senator for Kansas.

Dole emphasizes that he has not forgotten Kansas. He claims responsibility in part for the passage of the 1985 farm bill. While the bill isn't perfect, he helped make a compromise farm measure that at least freed the bill from a deadlock in Congress, a political brochure stated.

Dole supports legislation to increase U.S. agricultural exports. He has been active in restructuring the Farm Credit System and has urged changes in the Farmers Home Administration loan program so more money will be available to assist farmers. Dole's views on donations by political action committees differ from those of his opponent, Guy MacDonald. MacDonald refuses to accept large donations from the In an interview with the Topeka Capital-

Journal, Dole said PACs frequently allow

Bob Dole

greater involvement with politics by the average citizen. He says some reforms are needed to ensure that PACs do not use funds as influence.

Dole, a native of Russell, attended the University of Kansas before enlisting for World War II. After the war, he received a law degree from Washburn University and was Russell County attorney until being elected to the U.S. Senate in 1968.

MacDondald refuses advertising, says system 'inhibits' candidates

By MORGAN CHILSON Contributing Writer

Guy MacDonald is an unusual political candidate. He has never before run for public office, and he isn't running the "usual" political campaign. He is running for U.S. Senate against incumbent Republican Bob Dole.

MacDonald refuses to advertise on TV and won't take large donations from political action committees or corporations. He has spent $4,400 on his political

Can MacDonald win against Dole, one of the most difficult opponents to challenge?

"There is no serious candidate for public office that doesn't feel that he or she can win. I have to have the possibility that I can win this race," MacDonald said in a telephone interview.

MacDonald said his lack of advertising may impede him at the polls. But he blames this on the current political system rather than his personal method of campaigning.

"The system prevents, rather inhibits, qualified candidates from running for office unless they're capable of producing large amounts of money. It prevents good people from running for office," Mac-

Any candidate in Kansas realizes the importance of farm issues MacDonald said.

Guy MacDonald

MacDonald said people from the farm belt can work to solve the problems in agriculture.

"Agriculture is our single biggest industry and it is in crisis," he said.

MacDonald graduated from St. John's College in Philadelphia and spent three years in the Peace Corps. He has lived in Wichita since 1972.

Newspaper's survey gives Hayden slight edge in race

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The final media poll of the Kansas general election campaign, made public Sunday, gave Republican Mike Hayden a slight edge over Democrat Tom Docking in the governor's race, but the margin of error made the contest too close to call. The Topeka Capital-Journal's Kansas Poll showed the outcome in Tuesday's election rested with an unusually large undecided vote for a sampling taken this late - still 12 percent.

Of those responding to the survey, conducted for the Capital-Journal by Central Research Corp. of Topeka, 46 percent said they favored Hayden while 42 percent favored Docking.

The 46-42 margin for Hayden found in the Kansas Poll differed from results of the Kansas City Times-Kansas CBS Affiliates Poll taken Oct. 6-12, and the Wichita Eagle-Beacon's Kansas Survey taken Oct. 15-23.

The Times-CBS poll gave Docking 43.2 percent and Hayden 37.5 percent, and the Kansas Survey gave Docking 44.1 percent and Hayden 42.2 percent. Both the Times-

CBS and Eagle-Beacon polls also had margin of errors which made the race too close to call.

In other races surveyed for the Capital-Journal, the Kansas Poll found incumbent Republican Attorney General Robert T. Stephan with a lead of 48 percent to 38 percent over Democratic challenger Dennis Moore - with a sizeable 14 percent still undecided.

It also showed GOP Sen. Bob Dole and four incumbent congressmen all well in front of their opponents and should retain their seats in Congress.

Dole was favored by 69 percent of the 1,000 voters surveyed, with 19 percent for Democrat Guy MacDonald of Wichita and 12 percent undecided.

In the 1st District, Republican Pat Roberts held a 74-13 margin over Democrat Dale Lyon of Athol; in the 2nd District Democrat Jim Slattery led Republican Phill Kline of Lawrence, 80-15; in the 4th District Democrat Dan Glickman was ahead of Republican Bob Knight of Wichita, 63-30, and in the 5th District Republican Bob Whittaker led Democrat Kym Myers of Emporia, 74-13.

Classification amendment affects all property owners

By TOM SCHULTES Agriculture Editor

Statewide reappraisal is now a fact for owners of property in Kansas - but the total impact of that action may depend upon voters Tuesday. On that day, voters will be asked to decide the fate of a constitutional amendment regarding property classification for the purposes of taxation.

While the issue of classification has not received the vast publicity of the "sin" issues of pari-mutuel betting, the lottery and liquor by the drink, it will affect every owner of property in the state. Both Gov. John Carlin and Lt. Gov. Tom Docking have said the fate of the action will depend largely on how well voters have been educated. The amendment has also been endorsed by Republican gubernatorial candidate Mike

A poll published by The Wichita Eagle-Beacon on Oct. 26 indicated that 38.3 percent of voters were in favor of classification; 22.8 percent were opposed and 38.9 of error was 3.1 percent.

According to information supplied by the Kansas Department of Revenue, Division of Property Valuation, "Classification is a system wherein different types or classes of property may be assessed at different percentages of value for property tax purposes." This proposal is designed to replace the current constitutional requirement for a 'uniform and equal" system of assessment and taxation.

Current law requires all property to be assessed at 30 percent of its fair market value, but the state recognized that most types of real estate were assessed below that level, with only personal property and public utility properties being assessed at the prescribed level. With the statewide reappraisal, which was approved by the Kansas Senate in 1985, legislators feared a large shift in tax burdens, shifting away from properties now assessed at or near the 30 percent level and toward those properties assessed at lower gaps between assessments for residential would remain paying about 16 percent of property, and annual assessment of utilities and manufacturing plants. Thus, properties not assessed annually have lower assessments for taxation purposes.

Part of the problem has been long time-

The proposed amendment, as stated by the department of revenue, would require the assessment of property at the following percentages of market value:

-Residential property and vacant lots: Agricultural land: 30 percent of the use

-Commercial and industrial real property, public utility property and oil and natural gas property: 30 percent

-Commercial and industrial machinery and equipment: 20 percent. The equipment would be valued at its cost when new, less straight-line depreciation over its economic life, or seven years, whichever is the lesser time period.

-Merchants' and manufacturers' inventories and livestock: exempt. On the basis of the proportion of taxes paid per sector, agricultural property

the state's tax income if the classification amendment is approved. If the amendment is not approved, the agriculture sector would be faced with about 32 percent of the tax load after reappraisal.

According to the Eagle-Beacon, opponents of classification should not be put to a vote until statewide reappraisals are completed. Gov. Carlin, in support of the timing, has said the tax shift will occur if classification is not available when the new property values go into effect in 1989 The largest increase, according to preliminary studies, would cause the share of taxes paid by commercial and industrial real estate sectors, with an increase to 26.7 percent from the existing 21.8 percent. Without approval of the amendment, that percentage would increase to 33.9 percent.

The elimination of taxes on merchants and manufacturers' inventory, plus reduced tax rates on their machinery and equipment are expected to offset the increase in

ıg ole 3Xnt, 1C-

in

dmon

ty re-Safety w fire e set Safety are ines, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Kansas State University

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell"

and must be set free. Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maf-

conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here."

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others. "I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home. "The best things in life are free,"

he said, "and, by God, they are." Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S.

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

·e in 16 ıg

or le

or nt,

dmon

tv re-Safety w fire

e set

Safety

are ines, he ments

years,

Page 8

Bal ma

By Th

The canc case to the tense strug Senate, the elections to Congress at

President as Chief C stumping fo western sta Senate fro Democratic years in off Visiting candidate J said, "It's t about Jim's the fiercely Nevada wa: and-spend balanced by

Por top

By Educatir harmful e women and ing Anti-Po

The wee Monday an day, are c Women's Manhattan Organizati events are public.

Katherin Women's l hoped th people's av nography children. She

"perpetu women and about vi women."

In Manh with porn such as de describe detail, " stories a nography,

Many ca for struct prevention Fire Mars many pro Accord reports, th to correct days after The Uni the fire n Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

Candidates battle in hose for cancelled classes.

Tom Docking (D)

Biographical information

Brian and Margery. Platform

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Tom Docking occupied the following orty-first Lieutenant Governor of Kansas (1983-present);

Chairman of the Kansas Tax Review Commission;

Vice President of the Kansas Cavalry (government and business leaders who recruit industry on behalf of the state); Full Partner, Regan and McGannon Law Firm, Wichita;

Member of Kansas Bar Association and American Bar Association; Director of Arkansas City Union State Bank and Guymon National Bank and Trust Co. Docking has received the following academic degrees:

Bachelor of Arts, University of Kansas, in the fields of economics and Master of Business Administration, University of Kansas Institute for Public Policy and Business Research;

- Juris Doctor, University of Kansas School of Law.

Docking is the son of Robert Docking, governor of Kansas from 1967 to 1975, and the grandson of George Docking, governor of Kansas from 1957 to 1961. Docking married Jill Sadowsky Docking in 1977. They have two children,

Docking supports all five amendments that will appear on the ballot on Nov. 4. These include: pari-mutel betting, liquor-by-the-drink, a state-run lottery, property tax classification, and transferring power from the Kansas School Board to the Kansas Legislature. Law and order

- Opposes capital punishment because he believes it is not applied fairly across racial and economic grounds. Promises to strengthen law enforcement, prosecution and criminal penalties in the following manner: - Victims' bill of rights: provides treatment in the aftermath of a crime, restitution from the criminal and information regarding the status of and proceedings against the offender. Tougher drunk driving laws: longer sentences, steeper fines and mandatory prison time. - Protection against drug abuse: mandatory drug testing, where the need arises, such as college athletics, and seizure of all illegally obtained assets of drug dealers. Docking also promises to spend one day a month personally teaching drug education in Kansas schools. Qualified personnel in law enforcement: increases in the number of patrol troopers, increases in pay and extensive required training and continuing education. Community police centers: establishment of neighborhood police centers which will provide a closer contact between police and community. Better prosecution: instituting a system of well-paid, full-time county or district prosecutors. Tougher sentencing: ensuring that all violent criminals serve longer sentences and reducing the amount of time awarded for good behavior. Strict parole: continuing the unanimous parole board vote for release of Providing more prison space: holding all first-time, non-violent offenders in community corrections to make room for violent offenders. Perhaps building a new prison to provide additional space.

Supports waiting to add Washburn University to the Regents' system until the existing Regents' system is "stronger, better funded and more focused."

Promotes attracting quality faculty for institutes of higher education through salary increases; rewarding educational funds on the basis of quality, not quantity; and uniting business and educational communities to provide more jobs.

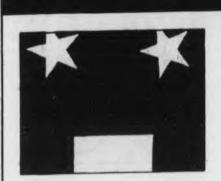

Plans to implement the following educational programs: Full University Tuition/Undergraduate Reward for excellence (FUTURE) which will give parents the means to save for their children's college education through a state fund which will guarantee full payment of tuition. Kansas Home Extension of Learning Program (Kan-Help) which will provide parents with the opportunity for greater involvement in public schools. Opposes any use of U.S. farm products as a tool of foreign policy, including implementation of a grain embargo against South Africa. Supports the State Board of Agriculture's procedure of interviewing candidates for the secretary of agriculture position.

Sales State of Cal

than to maximize their chance of pating in

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet. hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here."

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free,"

he said, "and, by God, they are." Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States. Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main el for vote

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan playe as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida western states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GC candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I c the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogr toll on topic of

By The Collegian

Educating the public harmful effects of port women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W

The week's events, 1 Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events 1 people's awareness of t nography does to both children.

said "perpetuates violer women and tends to ch about violent crin women."

She

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home

Unive

By PAT H Staff Wr

Many campus buil for structural fire prevention deficient Fire Marshal's offi many problems stil According to reports, the Univer

to correct the defit days after the repo The University I

Winter Intersession

INTERSESSION—WINTER AT KSU

The two weeks between Fall and Spring Semester are a special time at KSU-parking is easy, and life on campus is extremely pleasant. Intersession is an excellent way to take courses-it allows the student to pursue one course intensively, without interruptions and demands of other coursework or other campus activities. Classes generally meet for about three hours a day. Over 600 students will be enrolling in undergraduate or graduate classes, making their holiday season a festival of learning and sharing. It's a productive way to conquer the after-Christmas blahs.

Winter '87 Intersession offers 37 credit courses-mostly 1 or 2 credits each-from a wide variety of departments and colleges within KSU. Tuition and registration procedures are explained in this schedule. If this publication doesn't answer all your questions, please call the Division of Continuing Education at 532-5566 (toll-free in Kansas, 1-800-432-8222). Questions about specific course content or requirements should be addressed directly to the instructors.

REGISTRATION

Intersession is open to KSU students and to the public. Prior enrollment at KSU is not necessary and registration is a simple one-step process. Intersession registration will take place in the BASEMENT OF FARRELL LIBRARY; registration dates are December 8-10 and the registration staff will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. those three days. Additional registration will be accepted from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday at 317 Umberger Hall from December 11 through the first day of class. Tuition is due at the time of enrollment. (Some lab and materials fees are also due at this time. See schedule.) The decision as to which courses will "go" will be based on the number of registrations recorded by 4:00 p.m. on December 10. The go/drop list will be posted near the Information Desk in the K-State Union on Monday, December 15; go/drop information will also be available from the Continuing Education Registration office (317 Umberger Hall, 532-5566).

Students unable to enroll in person December 8-10 may phone or mail in their registration. These registrations will be processed (in the order in which they were received) ONLY if spaces remain in the class as of 4:00 p.m. on December 8. Students may request a friend to enroll for the fire marshal's

Students are asked to check with their advisors to ensure that the Intersession class will meet degree requirements.

BE PROMPT!!

Although registrations in most "go" classes will be accepted until the first day of Intersession, students are encouraged to register during the December 8-10 registration period at Farrell Library. The "go/drop" decision is based on enrollments collected during that period. Delays in student registration will result in courses being cancelled; students interested in Intersession classes should register early to be sure their preferred classes have a good chance of going as

LATE ENROLLMENTS

A $10 late fee will be charged for enrollments after the second class meeting ends, but before one-third of the class meetings have elapsed. A late fee of $25 will be charged for late enrollments after one-third of the class meetings have elapsed but before two-thirds of the class meetings have elapsed. NO ENROLLMENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER TWO-THIRDS OF THE CLASS MEETINGS HAVE ELAPSED.

COSTS

Tuition is $42 per undergraduate (UG) credit hour and $60 per graduate (G) credit hour and is due at the time of enrollment; tuition is the same for Kansas residents and for non-residents. Some classes will require lab fees, materials fees, or other costs, and these are indicated in the course listing. The lab and materials fees will be collected at registration. Lab fees collected by Continuing Education are non-refundable after the go/drop decision has been posted (December 15), except for courses which have been cancelled. Travel arrangements, for courses requiring them, must be made with the instructors as early as

CREDIT

The maximum credit allowed is three (3) hours per student. Anyone wishing to enroll in more than three credit hours must have written approval from his or her academic dean at the time of registration. STUDENTS WISHING TO SIGN UP FOR COURSES ON AN A-PASS-FAIL BASIS MUST DO SO AT THE TIME OF REGISTRATION, OR BEFORE ONE-THIRD OF THE CLASS MEETINGS HAVE ELAPSED.

January 2-13, 1987

December 8-10, 1986

Farrell Library Basement

kegist: atlon:

AUDIT

Intersession courses may not be audited; all students attending class must pay tuition.

GRADES

Intersession grades will be averaged into the student's KSU G.P.A. Grades will be mailed to students beginning February 2, 1987.

CANCELLED CLASSES

No individual notification about cancelled classes will be made. The "go/drop" notice will be posted in the K-State Union near the Information Desk on December 15. Students may also phone 532-5566 after that date to inquire. Students who enrolled in a cancelled class have the option of registering in another class or obtaining a full refund. Students must report to 317 Umberger Hall to officially DROP or ADD.

REFUNDS

All refunds must be made in person or in writing to the Division Registrar, 317 Umberger Hall. A 100% refund will be issued if the request is received before the second class begins, or if the class is cancelled. A 50% refund will be issued if received after the second class begins, but before one-third of the classes have ended. NO refunds will be issued after one-third of the them to maximize their chances of getting into na i matemprata o intere o se high brangit butch

SPECIAL REFUND CONDITION ON CLASSES WITH LIMITED ENROLLMENTS

Students enrolling in classes with an enrollment limit of 20 or fewer which have closed by the time the go/drop decision is posted will not be eligible for full refunds after that date. Students dropping these classes will be eligible only for a 75% refund between the go/drop decision and the second day of class. After the second class meeting, the refund policy is the same as for other courses: 50% refund before one-third of the class meetings have elapsed, and no refund for drops after that.

BOOKS

Textbooks (required or recommended) have been ordered for some classes and will be available at Varney's Bookstore at the start of Intersession. Information about textbooks is available from the instructor or from Varney's. Classes for which textbooks have been ordered are indicated with the letters TB at the end of the course description in this listing.

in

ıg

or

VO

ole

or

3X-nt,

1C-

28 dmon

ty re-

Safety

w fire

e set

Safety

are in-

es, he

ments

years,

Page 8

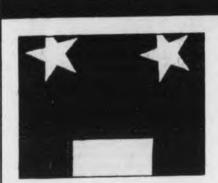

HOUSING

Overnight housing on campus is available to Intersession students at a very reasonable rate. Rooms in a K-State residence hall are available at $11 nightly for single rooms, and $9 for doubles. Intersession students interested in arranging to stay in the residence hall should contact Phil Schlee, KSU Housing Office, Pittman Building, 913-532-6453, to request room reservation forms. Advanced reservation is recommended.

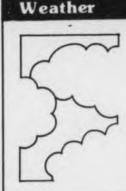

QUESTIONS?

Contact the Division of Continuing Education, 317 Umberger Hall, Kansas State University. Manhattan, KS 66506, or phone 532-5566, or toll-free in Kansas, 1-800-432-8222. For more information call 532-5566 (317 Umberger Hall)

Division of Continuing Education

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet. hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free,"

he said, "and, by God, they are." Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back." In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balar main for v

By The Asso

The candidates case to the voter tense struggle fc Senate, the shinin elections to pick Congress and thre

President Reaga as Chief Campai stumping for GOP western states in Senate from fal Democratic hand: years in office.

Visiting Nevada candidate Jim Sar said, "It's time w about Jim's oppor the fiercely indep Nevada want as t and-spend liberal balanced budget a

Porno toll o topic

By The Co Educating the harmful effects women and child ing Anti-Pornogra The week's ev Monday and cont day, are co-spon Women's Resour Manhattan chapt Organization for public. Katherine Pa Women's Resour hoped the eve people's awarene nography does to children.

events are free

She said "perpetuates women and tends about violent women."

In Manhattan, with pornograph such as detectiv describe sexual detail, "pulp" stories about nography, and he

By PA Staff

Many campus for structural f prevention defic Fire Marshal's (many problems : According to reports, the Univ to correct the de days after the re The University the fire marsha

AGRICULTURE

Ref. No. 94100 AGRON 615 Soil Problems: Dryland Farming (2 UG/G) Prof. Floyd Smith. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-Noon. Throckmorton Hall, Room 117.

Information pertaining to development and significance of dryland farming in the United States will be provided. Topics pertaining to climate, moisture control, and conservation will be emphasized. Means of coping with current agricultural problems will be featured. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94102 GRSC 790 Grain Science Problems: Baking Industry: The Management Challenge (1 UG/G) Prof. J.G. Ponte, Jr. January 7-January 9, 1987. Wednesday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Shellenberger Hall, Room 311.

The Management Challenge is a computeroriented management exercise designed to enhance management skills. The techniques utilized are applicable to all businesses, but examples shown are drawn from the baking industry. The decision and planning process is a "hands on", highly competitive experience that will provide a keen insight into how a modern corporation functions. The participants are divided into five competing corporations and are required to make many decisions on all company aspects: sales, production, finance, profitability, and growth. The computer accepts their decisions and provides feedback in the form of company statements, thus, measuring the effects of the decisions. In between decision-making events, lectures are given on various aspects of corporate management. No computer experience is necessary to participate in this course. All materials for the course are provided. Co-instructor will be Mr. Robert McGrath. Vice President-Administration, Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Greenwich, Connecticut. Limit: 30 Pre-req: some college education Fees: $42 UG/$60 G

Ref. No. 94103 PLPTH 920 Topics in Plant Pathology: Fungal Physiology (1 Prof. John Leslie. January 5-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 7:00-9:15 p.m. Throckmorton Hall, Room 116. A brief survey of fungal nutrition and physiology. Topics to be covered include: the control of acquisition and of metabolism of carbon, nitrogen, vitamins and inorganic nutrients; sociated with dormancy, growth, and reproduction of spores and mycelia; and the diverse products of and controls on secondary metabolites. TB Limit: 18

Pre-req: General Biochemistry or Principles of Horticultural Plant Physiology; General Genetics. Organic Chemistry. Recommended: Mycology Fees: $60 G

ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

Ref. No. 94104 ENVD 299

Problems in Basic Design (2 UG) Prof. Robert Bullock. January 3-January 12, 1987. Monday-Saturday from 8:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Seaton Court, Rooms 106A, 107, and 107A.

Studio rendering experience emphasizing rapid visualization of form, space, light, texture. and materials with felt tip markers, mixed media. and watercolors. Materials lists are available and a tentative sign-up sheet will be posted on Prof. Bullock's office door, 105C Seaton Court. Limit: 25

Pre-req: Minimum of one graphics, art, design. or drafting course Fees: $84 UG; plus $10 Xeroxing and lab fees to be collected at registration

Ref. No. 94105 ENVD 699 Problems in Environmental Design: Architecture and Planning of Greece (3 UG/G) Prof. Eleftherios Pavlides. December 26, 1986-January 12, 1987. Sunday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon (time varied).

The Architecture and Planning of Greece will be examined through studying Classical, Roman, and Byzantine sites and monuments and through visits to vernacular villages. Architects currently working in Athens will present their work. Professors in architecture from the University of Athens will address the issue of designing in such a visually and culturally rich context. Limit: 15 Pre-req: None

Fees: $126 UG/$180 G: plus $950 for airfare and hotel to be collected by the instructor by December 1

Ref. No. 94106 LAR 741 Problems in Landscape Architecture: Golf Course Design (2 UG/G) Prof. William Winslow. January 2-January 13. 1987. Sunday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

Seaton Hall, Room 317 An introduction to the theory and practice of golf course design. Lecture will cover the history and theory of golf course development, modern design approaches, and construction considerations. Practical application will be made by the student through the planning and design of a golf course site, and the subsequent production of working drawings for their design. Students are encouraged to talk with the instructor before January concerning equipment and supplies. Students may work individually or in small groups of 2-3 persons, with a number of project development options available. Interested students should see the instructor in Seaton Hall 311 regarding books that are available on subject for an order to be placed December 9, 1986.

Pre-req: Junior in College of Architecture and Design or permission of instructor Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94107

LAR 741 Problems in Landscape Architecture: Advanced Golf Course Design (2 UG/G) Prof. William Winslow. January 2-January 13. 1987. Sunday-Saturday from 1:00-5:00 p.m.

Seaton Hall. Room 251 and 317. A continuation of LAR 741: Problems in Landscape Architecture: Golf Course Design, emphasizing golf course detail and feature design. This class will be primarily a research/seminar format investigating the various aspects of golf course planning and design, construction, maintenance, and management.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: LAR 741: Golf Course Design or permission of instructor Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94108 PLAN 590 Problems in Planning: Water Resource Planning (1 UG/G) Prof. Nels Leutwiler. January 5-January 9, 1987.

Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton Hall, Room 252. Water Resource Planning will examine the current controversies over water supply and water quality. Water law, water conservation, pollution control, wetlands protection, and coastal zone management are among the issues that will be discussed. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None

Fees: $42 UG/$60 G

Ref. No. 94109 PLAN 780

Planning in Developing Areas (3 UG/G) Prof. Mark Lapping. January 2-January 15, 1987. Monday-Friday from 3:00-6:00 p.m. Seaton Hall. Room 200.

Examination of comparative regional and community systems of development, consideration of alternative approaches to planning, with emphasis on developing countries and underdeveloped areas in the rural United States.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: Introduction to Planning or equivalent Fees: $126 UG/$180 G: plus $7 Xerox fee to be coffected at registration

Ref. No. 94110 PLAN 815 Seminar in Planning: Water Resource Planning

Prof. Nels Leutwiler, January 5-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon, Seaton Hall, Room 252.

Water Resource Planning will examine the current controversies over water supply and water quality. Water law, water conservation, pollution control, wetlands protection, and coastal zone management are among the issues that will be discussed. Limit: 30

Pre-req: None Fees: $60 G

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Ref. No. 94111 ANTH 522 Special Topics in Anthropology: The Ecology of Human Health (1 UG) Instr. Jana Hesser. January 5-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 6:45-8:55 p.m., Throckmorton Hall, Room 117. The Ecology of Human Health will present an ecological model for the study of human health. The model will be applied in several case studies which contrast some of the health issues of developed nations with those of third world populations (e.g. chronic and degenerative diseases: malnutrition and infectious diseases). and which clearly demonstrate the interrelationship of environmental, biological, and behavioral parameters which define patterns of health and disease in human populations. TB. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None

Fees: $42 UG; plus $2.00 film rental fee to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94112 CMPSC 110 Introduction to Personal Computing (3 UG) Instructors Subbarao Venkatesh and Sheela Ramanna. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-

Friday from 9:00 a.m.-11:30 a.m. and 1:00-3:00 p.m. Fairchild Hall, Room 208. Introduction to the use of computers including history, programming, and problem solving; applications to various software packages such as text processing, spreadsheets, and data base. Limit: 25

Pre-req: College Algebra Fees: $126 UG; plus $25 Xeroxing and diskette fee to be paid at registration

dmon

ıg

or le

or ax-

nt,

1C-ty re-Safety w fire e set Safety are in-ments years, Page 8

es, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was "darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main el for vote

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan playe as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida western states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GC candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I c the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogr toll on topic of

By The Collegian Educating the public harmful effects of porr women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W

The week's events, v Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events 1 people's awareness of t nography does to both children. She said

"perpetuates viole women and tends to ch about violent crin women."

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home

Unive

By PAT H Staff Wr

Many campus buil for structural fire prevention deficient Fire Marshal's offimany problems stil According to reports, the Univer to correct the defit. days after the rept The University I

the fire marshal's

Ref. No. 94113 Fees: $84 UG: plus $25 Xeroxing and diskette fee to be paid at registration tour include the Changing of the Guard, the British Museum. Buckingham Palace and the tors, attend two on-campus sessions and will prepare a paper following the study tour.

Ret. No. 94114 ENGL 395 Topics in English: Literary Britain (2 UG) Prof. Ben Nyberg and Instructor Gary Clift.

Pre-req: None lected by instructors by November 14.

HIST 533

America (2 UG/G)

Prof. Robert Linder. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Eisenhower Hall, Room 201.

Religious Right, including American civil religion, the Fundamentalist movement, Ronald son, and the Moral Majority. TB Limit: 20 Pre-req: None

Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Prof. Charles Pearce. January 2-January 13. Kedzie Hall, Room 105.

journalism and mass communication. Introduction to microcomputer technology including practical information and hands-on experience with microcomputer terminology, devices and major applications. Specific applications to journalism ing and editing, computer-based graphics, page design and layout and desktop publishing. Students will provide a practical project relative to their particular needs and interests and using available software applications. No previous experience with computers is necessary. Limit: 20 Pre-req: Consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG

CMPSC 206 BASIC Language Laboratory (2 UG) instructors Richard Courtney and Chaya Yerrapragada. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m. Noon. Nichols Hall, Room Fundamentals of programming in BASIC; applications. Limit: 25 Pre-req: Knowledge of another programming language

December 26, 1986-January 11, 1987. Meeting days and locations will be arranged.

Students will visit literary sites including the homes of Dickens and Keats. Shakespeare's properties in Stratford, and Bath. Other sites on the Tower of London. Course fees include 10 theatre tickets to plays in Stratford. London, and Bath. Students will read a text provided by the instruc-

Fees: $84 UG; plus $1,380 for travel to be col-

Ref. No. 94115

Topics in the History of the Americas: A History of the New Religious Right in Modern

An in-depth study of the history, leadership, and programs of the New Religious Right in twentieth-century America. This will entail an examination of the historical background of the New Reagan and his presidency, and such NRR figures and support groups as Jerry Falwell, Pat Robert-

Ref. No. 94116 JMC 690 Problems in Mass Communications: Desktop Publishing (2 UG)

1987. Monday-Friday from 10:00 a.m.-Noon. The use of microcomputers in the practice of and mass communications including word process-

Ref. No. 94117

MATH 499 Undergraduate Topics in Mathematics: Linear Programming (2 UG)

Prof. Lyle Dixon. January 2-January 10, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Cardwell Hall, Room 131. The solution of certain maximum-minimum problems using linear programming techniques. Solution methods will include graphing, simplex method and computers. Limit: 25

Pre-req: College Algebra skills Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94118 MUSIC 220 Topics in Music: Basics in Choral Singing (1

Instr. Steven Rushing. January 5-January 9, 1987.

Monday-Friday from 7:00-10:00 p.m. McCain Auditorium, Room 204.

Principles and techniques of choral singing with an emphasis on proper vocal production and sight reading skills. Other topics include: diction, score marking, conducting patterns, and literature. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None

Fees: $42 UG

Ref. No. 94119 MUSIC 390

Special Studies in Music: Music for the Movies (2 UG) Instr. Alfred Cochran. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Mc-

Cain Auditorium, Room 105. A survey of the history of film music and an investigation into the various aspects of film scores and scoring practices. Principal composers, representative film scores, and current trends will be examined, including the work of Aaron Copland, Max Steiner, and John Williams. Particular films to be discussed include: Our Town, Casablanca, Robin Hood, Star Wars, The Red Pony, and Of Mice and Men. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None

Fees: $84 UG; plus $3 for film rental to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94120 MUSIC 390 Special Studies in Music: Beginning Recorder Playing (2 UG) Prof. Frank Sidorfsky. January 2-January 13,

1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-4:00 p.m. Mc-Cain Auditorium, Room 135. Participants will learn basics of recorder playing, and will be able to play folk tunes and other simple melodies. They will be able to progress on their own after this class. Class members should provide their own recorders or make arrangements with the instructor. TB ,

Limit: 15

Pre-req: Basic music reading or consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94121 MUSIC 425

Topics in Jazz: Combo Jazz (2 UG) Instr. Alfred Cochran. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-4:00 p.m. Mc-

Cain Auditorium, Room 105. A survey of combo jazz styles from 1900 to the present day. Various artists and styles will be covered and the development of critical listening abilities will be nurtured. Artists to be studied include Louis Armstrong, Benny Goodman, Charlie Parker, Miles Davis, John Coltraine, and Wynton Marsalis.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: Music 150 or consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94122 PHIL 397

Experimental Studies in Philosophy: Ethics in Child-Raising and Education (2 UG) Prof. Ron Smetana. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Cardwell Hall, Room 120.

Examines values and rights in the home and school. Topics include children's rights, parents' rights, rules and punishments for children, selfmotivated education, and compulsory education. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's. Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94138 SOCIO 301

Topics in Sociology: Problems and Issues of Terrorism (2 UG) Instr. Manjur Karim. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 7:00-9:30 p.m. Waters Hall,

The purpose of the course is to understand the issues of terrorism from a sociological perspective. Conscious efforts will be made to look at different, often conflicting political and philosophical perspectives on terrorism. A sociological analysis of terrorism will be undertaken by looking at the following aspects: 1) terrorism from a historical perspective; 2) modern terrorism: a theoretical analysis; 3) terrorism: state-sponsored and non-state; 4) selected case Limit: 30

Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG COURSE PENDING APPROVAL

Ref. No. 94123 STAT 708 Use of Statistical Computer Packages in Data Analysis (1 UG/G) Prof. Kenneth Kemp. January 5-January 9, 1987.

Monday-Saturday from 8:30-11:30 a.m. Denison Hall, Room 124.

Processing data primarily using the Statistical Analysis System (SAS) for analysis of variance, covariance, regression, correlation, and chi-square analysis plus data display using the Calcomp plotter. Also variable transformation and generation and creating data sets will be discussed. Limit: 100 Pre-req: STAT 702, 703

Fees: $42 UG/$60 G

Business Administration Ref. No. 94124

MANGT 498

Independent Studies in Management: Computer Concepts and Applications (3 UG) Instr. Linda Innes. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Calvin Hall, Room 010.

Development of computer concepts applicable to business situations through, for example, Wordstar. Concentration on file processing techniques, analysis of problems, and production of business documents. Demonstrations, lectures, and hands-on instruction will enable the student to perform input-output functions; process, store, and retrieve documents; format documents, tabulations, and reports; search and replace text; and merge file information with documents for distribution. TB Limit: 15

Pre-req: Beginning keyboarding skills Fees: $126 UG

Education Ref. No. 94125

EDAO 318

Adult and Continuing Education Colloquium: Maximizing Performance Seminar via Travel (2

Instr. Catherine Fung. December 26, 1986-January 1, 1987. Meeting days and time will be arranged. There will be an informational meeting on November 10 at 6:30 p.m. in the K-State Union, Room 205. Mexico: Merida and Traveling to meet new people, see new places. Enact positive whole brain activities. Students will be guided through a 30-hour interaction and self-exploration including 1) time management, 2) your energy, yourself, 3) personal profile system, 4) action projection, 5) maximizing performance/creativity. 6) values analysis, and 7) professional climate impact. Students are required to write a term paper on "positive ways in maximizing performance.

Limit: 15 Pre-reg: None Fees: $84 UG; plus $830 for materials, flight, lodging to be collected by the instructor by November 10

ments years, Page 8

ın

1e

ıg

or

VO

for ex-

nt,

1C-

dmon

ty re-

Safety

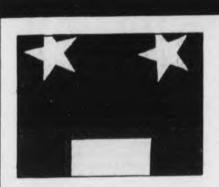

w fire

e set

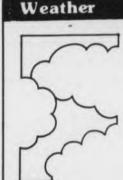

Safety

are in-

es, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Kansas State University

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news

conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating nor-

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to- Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the con-

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and he said, "and, by God, they are."

Sutherland, 55.

treatment during captivity

attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of

In praise of the Anglican envoy,

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was "darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only

Balaı main tor v

case to the vote tense struggle Senate, the shini elections to pick Congress and thr stumping for GO western states i Senate from fa Democratic han years in office. Visiting Neva candidate Jim S said, "It's time about Jim's opp the fiercely ind Nevada want as and-spend liber: balanced budget

By The

Educating tl harmful effect women and chi ing Anti-Porno The week's Organization public.

Women's Resc hoped the people's awar nography doe children.

"perpetuate women and ter about viole women."

In Manhatta with pornogr such as detec describe sex detail, "pulj stories abo nography, and

By

Many camp for structure prevention d Fire Marsha many proble According reports, the to correct th days after th The Unive the fire man

Ref. No. 94126

sional prospects.

Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94127

EDCI 502

Limit: 20

Study Skills Laboratory (2 UG)

Bluemont Hall, Room 116.

Prof. Charles Heerman. January 2-January 13.

student's reading skills, rates of comprehension,

Students develop a plan for learning, for improving their GPA, and, for developing their profes-

the student a good start for second semester.

Independent Study in Education: Teacher Assistant Program (1 or 2 UG)

Prof. Jackson Byars. January 5-January 9, 1987.

Monday-Friday. Meeting time will be arranged.

Location will be arranged by students who will work in public schools. Informational meeting is

Teacher Assistant Program will involve one or two weeks of participation in an elementary or secondary school classroom. Limited to students preparing for teacher certification.

Fees: $42 for 1 UG/$84 for 2 UG

Pre-req: Consent of instructor

Ref. No. 94128

November 19, 1986 at 4:30 p.m. in Bluemont vocabulary, and study skills. Also this course give

Study Skills Laboratory improves the college

1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-Noon.

EDCI 051

They include Terry A. Anderson, also have been held since early 1985.

remarkably well.'

mal foods and even had some wine.

since he's been here.

tinued captivity of the others.

we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his Waite, 47, refused comment on his days, and then I may be going back."

Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

By The Ass

The candidate

President Rea as Chief Campa

Porn toll c topic

Monday and co day, are co-sp Women's Resc Manhattan ch: events are fr

Katherine

She

EDCI 502 Independent Study in Education: Educational Field Experience (2 UG)

Prof. Ray Kurtz. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m., plus 2 pre- and post-sessions in Bluemont Hall, Room 254. Pre-session is Wed., Nov. 12, 1986 from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in Bluemont Hall, Room 254; post-session is Wed., Jan. 14, 1987 from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in Bluemont Hall, Room 254.

A field experience designed to acquaint prospective teachers (elementary and secondary) with a variety of teaching techniques, procedures, and classroom organizations. Students will be encouraged to observe in more than one classroom and/or school. Satisfies requirement of preprofessional laboratory. Limit: 25

Ref. No. 94129 EDCI 686 Topics in Education: Classroom Organization and Management (2 UG/G)

Prof. Paul Burden January 5-January 12, 1987. Monday-Saturday from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Bluemont Hall. Room 113. Classroom Organization and Management will identify: 1) causes of student misbehavior. 2) a variety of teacher responses to misbehavior. 3) management procedures teachers can use to minimize the occurrence of discipline problems. and 4) management guidelines for starting the school year (films, filmstrips, and discussions). Limit: 30 Pre-reg: None

Fees: $84 UG/$120 G; plus $11 Xeroxing fee to be paid at registration

Human Ecology

Ref. No. 94130 CT 650

Clothing and Textiles Study Tour: Brussels, Paris and London (2 UG) Instr. Bernard Rueschhoff. December 26, 1986-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00

Clothing and Textiles Study Tour will examine the design and merchandising of clothing and accessories. Discussions are planned with representatives of a number of trade associations and professional organizations. In Paris and London, a number of leading fashion accessory houses will be visited. Visits to fashion and folk costume museums and discussions with fashion marketing officials will also be planned.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: Textiles, plus 6 credit hours of Clothing and Textiles courses

Fees: $84 UG; plus $1,595 for travel and transportation to be collected by the instructor by November 3; $200 of this amount is due to the instructor as a deposit on November 3. However. enrollment will remain open until space is no longer available.

Ref. No. 94131 ID 499

Problems in Interior Design: Photography, A Visual Communicant in Design (1 UG) Instr. Bob Habiger. January 5-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:30-4:30 p.m. Justin Hall. Room 347.

A photography course for the beginning level photographer, exploring the art, technology and application of photography in design. Course content will include information on exposure, metering, equipment selection, composition, lighting expressing or recording design projects and design components. Students are required to have their own 35mm camera. Limit: 20

Pre-reg: None Fees: $42 UG; plus $17 for film, processing, and Xeroxing to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94132

DRIM 499 Problems in Dietetics, Restaurant and Institutional Management: Hotel and Restaurant Management Study Tour of Brussels, Paris and London (2 UG)

Instr. Charles Partlow. December 26. 1986-January 9, 1987. Monday-Saturday from 8:00 a.m-5 p.m.

The study tour will focus on the hospitality industry. Discussions are planned with executives while visiting various hotels and restaurants in Brussels, Paris, and London. Major operational concerns of the food and beverage industry also will be discussed. Limit: 30

Pre-req: Consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG; plus $1,595 for travel and transportation to be collected by the instructor by November 3. However, enrollment will remain open until space is no longer available.

Ref. No. 94133 HDFS 590

Proseminar in Child and Family: Building Family Strengths (2 UG/G) Instr. Ben Silliman. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Bluemont

Hall, Room 114. Models and traits of healthy family functioning in nuclear, single-parent, and reconstituted families as a basis for understanding and facilitating positive family interaction. TB Limit: 20

Pre-req: General Psychology or Introduction to Sociology Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94134 HDFS 590 Proseminar in Child and Family: Alternative Sexual Lifestyles (2 UG) Instr. Marie Saracino. January 2-January 13,

1987. Monday-Friday from 6:00-10:00 p.m. Justin Hall, Room 256. Discussion of research literature regarding alternative lifestyles. Cohabiting heterosexual. homosexual, lesbian, and bisexual lifestyles will be included as topics of discussion. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's. Limit: 30

Ref. No. 94135

HDFS 704

Seminar in Human Development and Family Studies: Microcomputers and Mainframes: Human Development and Family Studies Applications (2 UG/G)

Prof. Robert Poresky. January 5-January 13. 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Justin Hall, Room 325 and 329.

This two credit course will focus on the major uses of microcomputers by students: word processing and data processing; interfacing microcomputers with the mainframe for data analysis; use of the mainframe terminals and XEDIT; and an introduction to SPSS-X for mainframe data analysis. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's. Limit: 20 Pre-req: HDFS 890 and HDFS 650

Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

VETERINARY MEDICINE

Ref. No. 94136 PA 820

Computer Applications in Veterinary Medicine Prof. Joseph Smith. January 2-January 13, 1987.

Monday-Friday from 8:00-11:00 a.m. Vet Library, Room 406. Basic computer knowledge, use of general application program for veterinary use, including computer-assisted diagnosis of veterinary pro-

Limit: 14 Pre-req: SM 830 Fees: $120 G; plus $15.00 Xerox and diskette fee to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94137

Pregnancy Wastage in Domestic Animals (2 G) Prof. Stanley Dennis. January 2-January 13. 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

VCS Building, Room N-202. Study of pregnancy wastage of domestic animals. The course will cover the embryonic. fetal and neonatal periods and will include placental, fetal and neonatal lesions due to infections, non-infectious and genetic factors, and predators.

Pre-rey: PA 703 Present None.

Fees: $120 G; plus $20 Xerox fee to be collected using photography as a visual communication tool Fees: $84 UG

Fees: $84 UG

Per 284 CO

1e ıg Or ole for ent.

ac-

edmon

ety re-Safety w fire re set Safety are indes, he

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who

also have been held since early 1985. Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. 'Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main el for vot

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan playe as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida western states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GC candidate Jim Santini, the said. "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I c the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogr toll on topic of

By The Collegian

Educating the public harmful effects of porr women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W The week's events, v

Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events people's awareness of t nography does to both children.

She said "perpetuates viole women and tends to che about violent crin women."

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" bool stories about har nography, and home said.

Jnive

By PAT I Staff W:

Many campus buil for structural fire prevention deficient Fire Marshal's offi many problems stil According to reports, the Univer to correct the defidays after the repr

The University I the fire marshal's close governor's race

Mike Hayden (R)

Biographical information

Republican gubernatorial candidate Mike Hayden has occupied the following

- He has served as representative from the 120th District since 1972 and speaker of the house since 1983.

Member of the Agriculture and Livestock Committees, local government and legislative budget committees and the State Finance Council.

Chairman of the Interstate Cooperation Commission, the Legislative Coordinating Council, the Republican Caucus, and the Federal Audit, Post-Audit, and Ways and Means Committees.

Employed as an independent insurance agent with E.C. Mellick Agency in Atwood.

- Other positions Hayden has occupied include president of the U.S. Highway 36 Association, delegate to the 1984 Republican National Convention and member of the Executive Committee of the Kansas Republican Party.

K-State graduate with a bachelor of science degree in wildlife conservation in 1966. He served in the U.S. Army from 1967 to 1970, including 13 months in Vietnam. Upon completion of his service, Hayden taught biology on a graduate assistantship at Fort Hays State University and received a master of science degree in biology in 1974.

- Married Patti Hayden in 1968. They have two daughters: Chelsi, 10, and Anne, 5. Platform

- Hayden didn't support liquor by the drink and pari-mutuel betting in the Legislature because he was representing his constituents, said Representative Denise Apt, R-Iola, and spokesperson for Hayden.

If these amendments pass, he will "support (the amendments) as the will of the voters," said Representative Rochelle Chronister, R-Iola, and spokesperson for Hayden. Supports state-owned lottery.

Supports the amendments the state Board of Education and tax classification amendments. Apt said Hayden believes the writers of the Kansas Constitution had never intended the board to be without supervision or free from the checks and balances in the state's bureaucracy. Law and order

- Favors the death penalty for those convicted of first-degree murder. In order to tighten the parole process, Hayden said he'll sign a bill mandating a unanimous vote by the parole board before any violent offender is released. He would also like to analyze the state's probation system.

- Has proposed a seven-part plan against drug use. In 1982, Hayden supported the DUI laws and advocated local control of DUI programs.

Education Hayden supports the following:

Increasing teachers' compensation; specificially, raising the salaries of primary and secondary teachers to the national average;

 Reducing property tax by increasing state funding of school districts to 50 percent from current levels; Establishing a special commission to study school financing and develop a plan for the 1990s;

Increasing coordination of post-secondary institutions' efforts to provide academic and vocational instruction for the community;

Developing incentives for top high-school graduates to attend state universities and colleges: Expanding the research potential at state post-secondary institutions.

Supports including Washburn University in the Regents' school system. Supported the 2 percent increase in the local school district budget, the lowest increase in the state's history. Supported the special education mandate in 1974, but opposed the 1982 bill requiring the state to fund 100 percent of special education costs above the costs of educating children in regular programs. Sponsored a 1985 bill that would have allowed school boards to fire teaches who refused to sponsor extracurricular activities. Hayden supported the scholarship program for doctors who agree to practice in rural Kansas.

Hayden supports the following:

Expanding Kansas' national and international markets;

Improving the quality of Kansas products; Lowering the costs of production;

Increasing cooperation between urban and rural residents;

Diversifying Kansas' agricultural produce;
Supports the ban of trade with South Africa in protest of apartheid.

1g or VO for exent. ac-

edmon

ety re-Safety w fire re set Safety

s are in-des, he ements years,

Page 8

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Kansas State University

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour."

Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was "darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balan main tor vo

By The Associa

The candidates s case to the voters tense struggle for Senate, the shining elections to pick the Congress and three d

President Reagan as Chief Campaign stumping for GOP ca western states in a Senate from fallir Democratic hands i years in office.

Visiting Nevada f candidate Jim Santi said, "It's time we! about Jim's opponer the fiercely indeper Nevada want as the and-spend liberal w balanced budget am

Porno: toll or topic o

By The Colle

Educating the p harmful effects of women and children ing Anti-Pornograp The week's even

Monday and continu day, are co-sponso Women's Resource Manhattan chapter Organization for events are free a public.

Katherine Park Women's Resource hoped the event people's awareness nography does to children.

She "perpetuates vi women and tends to about violent c women." In Manhattan, th with pornography such as detective describe sexual detail, "pulp" b stories about 1 nography, and hon

By PAT Staff V

Many campus bu for structural fire prevention deficier Fire Marshal's off many problems sti According to reports, the Univer to correct the defi days after the repr

The University the fire marshal's Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

Liquor amendment establishes county option

By TERESA TEMME Staff Writer

Question two on the Nov. 4 ballot concerns a proposition to amend Section 10 of Article 15 of the Kansas constitution relating to intoxicating liquors. This amendment will authorize the legislature to allow and provide for county option in the sale of liquor by the individual drink in certain public

The following are the explanatory statements which have been adopted by the Kansas legislature and will be submitted to the voters on Nov. 4 for their rejection or approval:

"This proposed amendment would authorize the legislature to permit, license, regulate and tax the sale of intoxicating liquor by the drink in public places which are located in a county where the voters have approved such sale in their county. "A vote for the proposed amendment would permit the sale of liquor by the drink in public places which are located in a county where the voters approve such sale in their county." "A vote against the proposed amendment would continue the current prohibition against the sale of liquor by the drink in public places." Passage of this amendment will allow those counties that approve the amendment the authority to permit liquor by the drink their revenues in food sales." Counties that do not pass this amendment will allow liquor by the drink only in private

In the event this amendment is defeated, the present club card system will remain in Kansas. He said economic advantages will effect. The present system allows the restaurants serving liquor to reciprocate with each other.

On Sept. 14 in Beloit, Gov. John Carlin and the Rev. Richard Taylor debated whether voters should end the constitutional prohibition against liquor by the drink in public places. John Carlin supported the issue during his two terms as governor. Taylor, President of Kansans for Life at Its Best, has been a lobbyist on liquor issues for more than a decade. in establishments with at least 30 percent of Carlin said the issue is not a moral issue, but an economic one. He said it is the abuse of alcohol that creates problems, not the use of alcohol

Carlin said the passage of this amendment will aid economic development in stem from business expansion as a result of more restaurant, convention and recreational trade.

Taylor said the use of alcohol will result in its abuse. He said that passage of the amendment will lead to more families torn apart from alcoholism and more alcohol-related deaths on the highway. Carlin said the present law is hypocritical. Kansas is already a "wet" state which allows liquor by the drink in private clubs.

The hypocrisy of the law diverts attention away from the present alcohol-related problems, Carlin said, and added that concentration should be placed on enforcement and education concerning alcohol use.

Taylor said the present law keeps the cost of liquor up and the consumption down.

Allowing bets | Pari-mutuel wagering may let state retain money

By ANDY NELSON Collegian Reporter

Near Great Bend more than 100 years ago, a group of Kansas men organized the first greyhound dog meet in the state. But since Kansas became a state in 1861, the constitution has forbidden wagering on greyhound or any other type of racing.

However, in recent years a challenge to the constitution has arisen. And Kansas voters will decide Tuesday if wagering at the races will begin again after a 125-year absence.

Kansas has long been a state which has enjoyed notoriety as a center for raising top greyhounds and quarter horses for racing. The state ranks fourth in production of racing greyhounds and the headquarters for the National Greyhound Association is in Abilene. More than 700 members belong to the Kansas Quarter Horse Racing Association and the state ranks fifth in quarter horse breeding.

But the horses and dogs raised in Kansas don't race in the state and many owners must travel to one of the 36 states throughout the country which has racing to see their animals perform.

Supporters of the amendment see pari-mutuel wagering as a way to keep Kansans' money in Kansas and generate millions of dollars in revenue for state coffers.

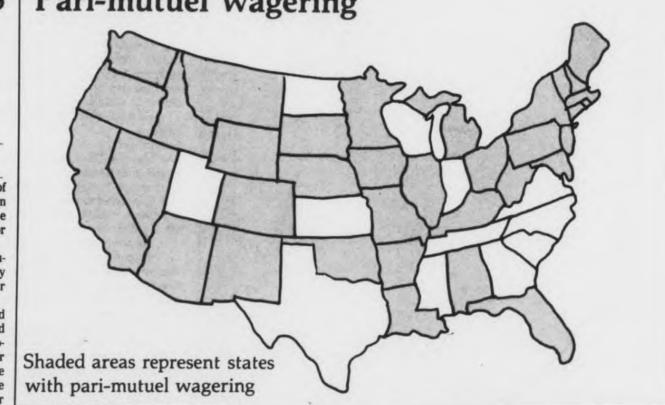

"The primary economic advantage to having parimutuel racing in this state is that it is going to keep millions of Kansas sports recreation dollars at home,' said George Smith, spokesman for Kansans for Pari-Mutuel.

The states which border Kansas all have pari-mutuel wagering. Smith said thousands of Kansans cross the borders to bet in Nebraska at Ak-Sar-Ben near Omaha and in New Mexico at the Kansas Futurity and Kansas

"The largest ecomomic return is not the tax on parimutuel wagering it is the peripheral activity that develops in terms of keeping the tourists at home, let alone others that might come in, and the goods and services and land value appreciation related to horse and dog breeding operations," said James Coffman, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine and chairman of the Kansas Pari-Mutuel Task Force.

The task force's role is not to decide whether parimutuel is good or bad but to work on the development of sound legislation that assures a credible and sustainable program should the amendment pass, Coffman said.

The task force has researched other states' programs to determine the good and bad of those systems and work on a proposal which would be the best for Kansas, he said. The substantial background work needed for developing the recommendations is complex and timeconsuming.

Opponents to the amendment see passage as a backward step to the state by fostering greed.

"Gambling appeals to greed," said the Rev. Richard Taylor Jr., head of Kansans for Life at Its Best. "The motive for shoplifting and gambling at the race track are exactly the same - get rich without earning it.

"I've said all over Kansas, 'If you can afford to go to Nebraska to gamble at the track, go ahead.' You can probaly afford to lose. But if the track is in Topeka, you will probably have people here that don't go to Nebraska; losing what they can't afford to lose," Taylor

The race tracks, should the amendment pass, will be operated by non-profit organizations patterned after the system used in Nebraska, Coffman said.

"The classic example of the best way to do it (establish a pari-mutuel system) is Nebraska," he said. 'Nebraska has never experienced that (corruption) problem.

Estimates vary on the amount of revenue pari-mutuel will generate should the system be implemented. A study conducted by William Terrell, associate professor of economics at Wichita State University, predicted that with five major pari-mutuel tracks in operation there would be $47 million in tax revenue.

However, most racing promoters don't see the state being able to support five tracks and believe the revenue will be far less than Terrell's estimate. "We feel that once racing is established, in place and operating, it should generate about $10 million per year to the state in direct pari-mutuel tax," Smith said.

The proposed enabling legislation for pari-mutuel racing states that 18 cents of each dollar wagered will be retained as pari-mutuel takeout. The 18 cents will then be divided three ways with the amounts determined by the Supporters say one possibility is 6 cents to the horsemen as purse money for putting on the show; not less than 3 cents nor more than 6 cents to the state as tax; and the remainder to the non-profit organization for operation of the track. The remaining 82 cents of each dollar wagered will be returned to the holders of winning

Coffman said the Kansas Pari-Mutuel Task Force explored the number of tracks to be supported at great length. Their final conclusion was that the legislation should not specify the number of tracks but that it should be determined by the marketplace and by a governor appointed racing commission.

House Concurrent Resolution 5024, the legislative bill that put pari-mutuel on the ballot, provides for "county option" on wagering. Should a county not pass the amendment then racing would not be allowed in that county. However, racing would be allowed in counties that vote against pari-mutuel if a majority of the voters in a countywide special election approved a proposal favoring racing, the bill indicates.

Voters have indicated strong support for the amendment in recent polls statewide. An Oct. 13 poll in the Collegian showed 76.5 percent of K-State students favoring pari-mutuel; 15.4 percent against the amendment; and 8.1 percent undecided on the issue.

:es

re

in

:he ng

for wo

ole

for ex-

ent,

ac-

edmon

ety re-Safety w fire re set Safety are indes, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985. Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well.'

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness

was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others. "I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was "darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main el for vot

By The Associated Pr

The candidates submitt case to the voters Monda tense struggle for contro Senate, the shining prize i elections to pick the natio Congress and three dozen g

President Reagan playe as Chief Campaigner to stumping for GOP candida western states in a bid to Senate from falling int Democratic hands in his years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GO candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I c the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sen and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendm

Pornogi toll on topic of

By The Collegian

Educating the public harmful effects of port women and children is t ing Anti-Pornography W

The week's events, v Monday and continue the day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Worr events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events v people's awareness of t nography does to both children.

said She "perpetuates viole women and tends to chi about violent crin women.'

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home

Unive

By PAT H Staff Wr

Many campus buil for structural fire prevention deficienc Fire Marshal's offic many problems still

According to f reports, the Univers to correct the defici days after the repor

The University ha the fire marshal's

Monday, Nov. 3, 1986 Slattery, Kline take similar stands

Challenger sees service to party as 'pertinent' to bid for position

> By KAREN MEIS Contributing Writer

Phill Kline, Republican candidate for 2nd District congressman and a third-year law it at the University of Kansas, said his Republican Party involvement at various levels is pertinent to his campaign.

Kline's Republican Party activities include being a precinct committeeman in Shawnee County, College Republican chairman at KU and chairman of the Kansas College Republicans. He was also associated with the Shawnee Republican Party and the Johnson County Republican Party

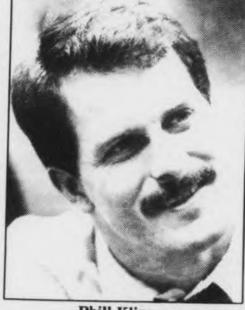

The only long-range answer to the farm problem, Kline said, is higher prices for farm products. He said he favors the use of government-owned food to feed starving people in "friendly" nations. This, he said, would reduce existing surpluses.

"With surpluses reduced, prices would inevitably rise, giving farmers an opportunity to make a living," Kline said. "No farm program will work without higher prices." Kline and his opponent, Democrat Jim Slattery, both favor continued support of federal programs designed to improve the quality and availability of education. With the cost of college education constantly escalating, Kline said he favors an educational IRA program. "Many estimates today place future costs

(for a college education) at well in excess of $60,000. Many middle-income families will simply be unable to raise that kind of money," Kline said. He said that educational savings accounts, similar to IRAs, will provide the best answer.

Phill Kline

Drug testing should be mandatory for those entrusted with maintaining public health and safety, Kline said. He also thinks these users should be rehabilitated, if possible, and moved to less sensitive posts if not.

Kline also agrees with Slattery that he favors the death penalty for drug pushers.

"Capital punishment for those who sell illegal drugs to minors should be written into law," Kline said.

Kline is a resident of Lawrence.

Incumbent stresses background as 'unique' qualification for post

By KAREN MEIS Contributing Writer

Democrat Jim Slattery, seeking his third two-year term as 2nd District congressman, said his background qualifies him to be a congressional candidate.

"The fact that I spent the first 20 years of my life on a family farm is very important; it gives me insight into the family farm problems," Slattery said. "I also started a small business (Brosius, Slattery and Meyer of Topeka) and have spent four years in the U.S. Congress, which uniquely qualifies me and is in sharp contrast to my opponent (Republican Phill Kline)."

The long-range answer to the farm problem, Slattery said, is to reduce the deficit, keep interest rates down, recapture lost international trade and improve the quality of

"We have to stop subsidizing loans to Latin American countries," he said, "which encourages them to increase their agricultural production and exports in competition with American agricultural ex-

"Certainly agriculture is the backbone of Kansas' economy, and we can never lose sight of that.' Slattery said he is "very supportive" of government funding for student loans and grants and is opposed to President Reagan's attempts to drastically cut federal educational funding.

"I for one would not have been able to complete my education without financial assistance," he said.

Jim Slattery

Slattery said he favors "very limited" drug testing for people involved in sensitive jobs related to the public sector.

"I have reservations on the reliability of drug tests," he said. "We need to balance individuals' rights of privacy. There is such a thing as going too far."

Slattery said he supports capital punishment when the sale of addictive narcotics to minors results in death. He said he would also support it in other limited situations, but not in circumstances when capital punishment would not act as a deterrent.

President leads rally to keep Senate majority

By The Associated Press

America chooses a new Congress and 36 governors on Tuesday, with President Reagan trying to rally voters to keep Republicans in control of the Senate "for the Gipper" and his conservative agenda.

In autumn campaign visits to 17 states, Reagan contrasted the economic recovery of his administration with the high interest rates and high inflation of the 1970s under the Democrats - who he again on Saturday called the "tax, tax, spend, spend crowd" and said he made America's military strong again.

Democrats countered that the nation's farms are depressed and her industries harmed by imports as a result of the policies ushered in under the Reagan Revolution. Said Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, on Saturday, "Democrats will fight to help Main Street prosper, not just Wall Street." The main prize in the costliest mid-term congressional campaign in history was control of the Senate in the 100th Congress. Republicans hold a 53-47 majority now, but are defending 22 of the 34 seats on the

Also at stake as Republicans tried to take the next step in a claimed national political realignment: The 435 seats in the House, although four Democrats and two Republicans were selected in Louisiana's unique open primary in September.

Three dozen governorships, the national arena where the GOP has its best opportunities for gains.

New Jersey, as well as thousands of local office holders.

- Ballot issues in 43 states, including several where lotteries have been propos-

Republicans had a huge financial advantage and a president with enduring popularity as they battled the "six-year itch" that afflicts administrations mid-way through their second terms. The average loss in similar elections in 1938, 1958, 1966 and 1974 is six or seven seats in the Senate and 53 in the House.

Democrats had far more modest gains in - State legislators in all 50 states save mind, claiming that the House had reached a rough political equillibrium since the congressional lines were drawn after the 1980 reapportionment.

Reagan traveled extensively in the nine weeks between Labor Day and the election, forecasting a second economic boom just like the one that occurred in his firm term, and declaring that he didn't seek reelection in 1984 to be a "six-year president."

By voting for Senate Republican candidates, he told his flag-draped campaign rallies, "You'll be winning one for yourselves ... and winning one for America. And yeah, you'll be winning one for the Gipper," he added in a reference to a movie role Reagan played during his days as an

The Reagan effort culminated with the purchase of five minutes of time on all three commercial television networks on Sunday night at a cost of $500,000.

The result, two days before Election Day, was a pitched battle for Senate control that hung on a series of cliffhanger races from North Carolina to North Dakota to Idaho and California and several states in bet-

Both sides were ready to claim victory. 'We're going to win," said David Johnson of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, predicting a 53-47

Democratic majority in the new Senate. Countered Tom Griscom, executive director at the GOP committee, "I think when it's all over we're going to have at least one more than they've got. That means we'll still be in control of the U.S.

Some of the most familiar Senate names seemed to be coasting to re-election, including Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas and Democrat John Glenn of Democrats looked for gains in Maryland.

where Rep. Barbara Mikulski was favored in a rare two-woman race to succeed retiring GOP Sen. Charles Mathias; Florida, where Democratic Gov. Bob Graham held a lead in the polls over freshman Sen. Paula Hawkins; and Nevada, where Rep. Harry Reid was viewed as a likely successor to retiring Republican Paul Laxalt.

Former Republican Gov. Christopher Bond was favored to win the seat being vacated by Democratic Sen. Thomas Eagleton in Missouri, and the GOP had eyes on the seat that Democratic presidential hopeful Gary Hart was leaving in Colorado, and the one Democratic Whip Alan Cranston was trying to hold onto in Califor-

But the most unpredictable races involved a handful of the first-term Republicans swept into the Senate on the strength of Reagan coattails in 1980 - Steve Symms of Idaho: Jim Abdnor of South Dakota; Mark Andrews of North Dakota; Mack Mattingly of Georgia; Jeremiah Denton of Alabama and Slade Gorton of Washington - as well as appointed Sen. James Broyhill in North Carolina.

There was far less suspense about future control of the House. Democrats held 253 seats in the old House, compared to 180 for the Republicans, and most analysts forecast a Democratic pickup of about 10

:es

re

in

:he ng

for wo

ole

for ex-

ent,

ac-

je 8

edmon ety re-Safety

w fire

re set Safety s are indes, he ements

years, Page 8

164 5/1/87  7 Kansas State Historical Soc

Topeka, KS

5-DIGIT 66612

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirt

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Mafbennital director told a news

By JEFFERY J. BIELSER

Staff Writer

During the past 12 years Joan Finney,

Democratic incumbent candidate for state treasurer, has been fighting to keep the treasurer's office accountable to the people.

He also said he wants to bring a change of "People aren't going to choose their next

"(Kansas Attorney General Robert)

attorney general on issues," Moore said.

The "more important (issue) is leadership.

Stephan provided very little effective leadership. Failure of leadership (is the) a leadership role in what Moore said he thought were major issues concerning the state of Kansas. He used the drug problem

"I've proposed mandatory sentences for Stephan announced that he was forming a 'Drug dealers aren't afraid of commit-search committee to look into the sentencing of large-scale drug dealers, Moore said.

tees, they are afraid of sentencing," he

Moore also said that he wants to bring pride back to the attorney general's office, something he said he thinks Stephan has

He said pride and trust in the office had been hurt through Stephan's refusal to disclose the details of the settlement of a sexual harassment suit brought against large-scale drug abusers," he said.

Moore said that Stephan has failed to take leadership to the attorney general's office

ten years for the state of Kansas.

for the first time in eight years.

big overriding issue."

as an example.

said.

damaged.

conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here."

Moore desires return of 'trust'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and

Lawsuit dominates race for attorney general

Sutherland, 55.

Stephan emphasizes accessibility

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balan main

By The Associ

The candidates case to the voters tense struggle for Senate, the shining elections to pick th Congress and three President Reagar as Chief Campaig stumping for GOP (Senate from falli Democratic hands years in office.

Visiting Nevada candidate Jim Sant said, "It's time we about Jim's opponthe fiercely indep Nevada want as th and-spend liberal balanced budget ar

Porno toll or topic

By The Col

Educating the harmful effects (women and childr ing Anti-Pornogra The week's ev

Monday and conti day, are co-spon Women's Resour Manhattan chapt Organization for events are free public.

Katherine Pa Women's Resour hoped the eve people's awarene nography does t children.

said She "perpetuates women and tends about violent women.'

In Manhattan, with pornograpi such as detectiv describe sexual detail, "pulp" stories about nography, and b said.

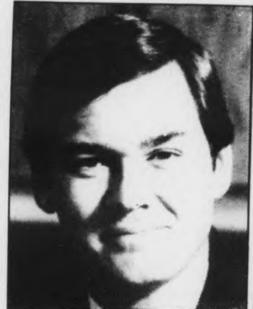

By P

Many campus for structural prevention defi-Fire Marshal's many problems According reports, the Un to correct the days after the r The Universi

the fire marsh association, she plans to focus much of her him by a former employee.

"Bob Stephan has professed openness in government," Moore said. "The point is Bob has set a very high standard for other government officials, but a lower standard for himself.'

dards for state officials through his work dealing with open meetings laws and other open-door type legislation in force in the "People have an absolute right to be proud of their attorney general," Moore said. "There is (now) a cloud over the office."

Dennis Moore

He said that Stephan has set the stan-

By VALERIE JOHNSON Contributing Writer

Attorney General Bob Stephan is running for his third term in office. Last November. he withdrew from the governor's race in the wake of continuing questions about his handling of a sexual harassment lawsuit in which he was the main defendent.

At the time of his withdrawal, he said he quit the race so the controversy over the lawsuit would not divert attention from "relevant political and philosophical issues" facing the state.

Throughout this campaign, the out-ofcourt settlement has been the issue on which his Democratic opponent, Dennis Moore, has focused. He has called for explanations about the settlement, which Stephan has declined to give.

Last week, Moore issued a television ad that showed a rock wall and claimed Stephan's refusal to fully disclose the outof-court settlement of the lawsuit constituted "stonewalling." Stephan responded by issuing a commercial charging Moore with mudslinging. In the ad, Stephan says he has not built a stone wall around himself. On the contrary, he says no office has been more accessible, and no officeholder more willing to listen. Other than this, it's difficult to find issues on which the candidates disagree. trongly favors the reinstitution Stephnishment for the crime of first of capita degree n. er in Kansas 1. Stephan said he will con-If re-ele tinue to w .. to address the problem of ual abuse of children, elderly abuse and spouse abuse.

Bob Stephan

Since Stephan founded Kansas Students Against Driving Drunk, more than 100 Kansas chapters out of 500 in the nation have

According to his campaign office, Stephan has been the foremost leader in the state in advocating restitution and justice for the victims of violent crime. His actions led to a restructuring of the state parole board and stricter parole decisions.

Stephan said with his urging the Kansas family violence, including physical and sex- Legislature passed tough, new drug laws.

66th District hopefuls highlight education, agriculture Sand upholds specific education

Hurt favors blue-collar training

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Contributing Writer

Democrat Katha Hurt thinks the 66th District needs a change. To bring this change she is running for the 66th District seat of the Kansas House of Representatives against 10-year incumbent, Ivan Sand. Hurt's experience as a member of the Agricultural Crisis Program Committee, Kansas National Education Association board of directors and other organizations will help her to sufficiently serve the people of the 66th District, she said.

The major issues in this campaign, according to Hurt, are agriculture, education and quality of life.

She said she believes the agricultural sector needs to keep its raw resources in Kansas instead of shipping them to other states to be processed.

"Farmers get $2 for a bushel of wheat and then that wheat is processed in other states," she said. "They (other states) make $2 for every eight ounces of cereal processed from that wheat."

Hurt and Sand agree that farmers who are out of work should be retrained so they can enter the work force and begin earning money to support their families. Hurt believes, however, that the retraining should concentrate on blue-collar skills so the unemployed farmers can find work in the industries. Both candidates said K-State should play a major role in these retraining programs.

With Hurt's teaching background and association with the state teacher's attention on higher education. She graduated from K-State with a master's degree in elementary education and has been a public school teacher for 14 years.

Katha Hurt

She thinks K-State should play a more dynamic role as a university that caters to the needs of the people and has more programs to attract economic development in Hurt also said she will support legislation to maintain affordable higher education and bring in additional scholarships and grants for the University. If elected, Hurt plans to find alternative funding for the University, which she says

Sand has not done.

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Contributing Writer Republican 66th District House Representative, Ivan Sand, has been in the Kansas Legislature for five terms, and he wants to Sand's significant positions, other than representative, include chairman of the House Local Government Committee, Riley County Commissioner and member of the Commerical and Financial Institutions

In the past, Sand has supported farm relief programs and farm credit legislation. Like his opponent, Katha Hurt, he is interested in retraining farmers who are out of work due to the agricultural crisis and getting the farm families back on their feet. "They (out of work farmers) have to be able to work and support their families," Sand said.

Like his opponent, Sand looks to K-State for assistance in retraining. He believes, however, that K-State should offer specific programs to educate the farmers instead of teaching them blue-collar skills. The candidates agree that K-State should be a univeristy leader in agricultural research. Sand said funding for education programs is one of his priorities as represen-

"It is being studied by a (legislative) task force, and I hope they can come up with a more fair system (of distributing state funds for education)," he said. "We have to increase aid to all the schools in Kansas." Sand also said control of the schools is essential to assure quality education for Kansans.

Ivan Sand

In answer to Hurt's accusations that he hasn't supported the University, Sand said that where K-State is concerned, his seniority and major party membership give him more influence to give the school the support it needs.

If re-elected, Sand also plans to place more funding emphasis on improving the state's highway system.

Sand is also supportive of the reappraisal of property in Kansas by the State and Valuation Department. This reappraisal, along with the proposed classification amendment, will affect the taxation rate in re

in

:he ng

for wo

ole

for ex-

ent.

iac-ze 8

edmon

fety re-Safety ew fire are set Safety s are inides, he rements 0 years, . Page 8

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985. Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.'

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others.

"I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S. government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was 'darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen.'

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance main ele for vote

By The Associated Pre

The candidates submitte case to the voters Monday tense struggle for control Senate, the shining prize in elections to pick the nation Congress and three dozen go

President Reagan played as Chief Campaigner to 1 stumping for GOP candidate western states in a bid to Senate from falling into Democratic hands in his f years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GO candidate Jim Santini, the said, "It's time we got the about Jim's opponent. I de the fiercely independent Nevada want as their sena and-spend liberal who is balanced budget amendme

Pornogr toll on v topic of

By The Collegian

Educating the public harmful effects of porn women and children is t' ing Anti-Pornography W The week's events, v

Monday and continue thr day, are co-sponsored Women's Resource Cer Manhattan chapter of Organization for Wom events are free and public.

Katherine Parker, Women's Resource Cer hoped the events v people's awareness of t nography does to both children.

She said "perpetuates viole women and tends to ch about violent crin women."

In Manhattan, the n with pornography ar such as detective ma describe sexual crir detail, "pulp" book stories about har nography, and home

Unive

By PAT H Staff Wr

Many campus build for structural fire prevention deficienc Fire Marshal's offic many problems still According to f

reports, the Univers to correct the defici days after the repor

The University ha the fire marshal's

Voter participation focus of secretary's race Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

Graves opposes sample ballots

By VALERIE JOHNSON Contributing Writer

Bill Graves, Republican candidate for secretary of state, said both he and his opponent, Democrat Judy Runnels, are quality candidates.

During a campaign visit to Manhattan Oct. 22 and 23, Graves said he has enjoyed working with Runnels during the past several years on Gov. John Carlin's staff and in the Legislature. But he questions her background in handling the more than 500 tasks assigned to the secretary of state, which range from the registration of all corporations doing business in Kansas to the appointment of notaries public for the state.

The secretary of state is chief elections officer in Kansas and is responsible for the appointment of election commissioners.

The secretary also maintains financial records for Kansas business and industry required by the Uniform Commercial Code and the filing of trademarks, service-marks and articles of incorporation. He or she also serves on the State Election Board, the State Rules and Regulations Board and the Land Survey Advisory Commission.

Graves said he understands the functions of the office because he has worked there for six years. He served as deputy assistant secretary of state for administrative services from August 1980 to January 1985, when he was appointed chief assistant secretary of state.

Graves said he is opposed to spending a lot of money to publish a sample ballot when the issues are already covered by the motes Kansas economic development.

Bill Graves

mass media. He does agree that the number of voters would increase if Kansans were better educated about the issues.

Graves is also opposed to the one-step postcard voter registration process supported by Runnels. The current process involves three steps. A person can register by mail by requesting a registration form from the election office.

A native of Salina, Graves received a business administration degree from Kansas Wesleyan University in 1975. He is a member of the Topeka Downtown Kiwanis Club and the Kansas Cavalry, which pro-

Runnels plans mail registration

By JEFFERY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

Between one-third and two-fifths of eligible Kansans are not registered to vote, and that concerns Democratic candidate for secretary of state Judy Runnels.

She says she wants a more aggressive voter registration program in Kansas, coupled with more extensive voter educa-

One of the proposals Runnels has made during her campaign is a one-step voter registration system, in which anyone wishing to vote can just send a post card with his or her name and address to the county clerk's office. Currently, Kansans can register by mail, but they must first send in a request for a voter registration card. Then, when the registration card arrives, they fill it out and mail it back to their country clerk. She said she would want a verification system to prevent any election fraud.

Runnels said she also wants more aggressive voter education programs as well. "I just want to give the people (of Kansas) the tools to make an informed vote," One of her top plans in this area is mailing an explanatory ballot before each election, she said. The ballots would be mailed before each election to help explain any special questions or issues in that election, Runnels said. They would contain the question in legal form, followed by a simplified explanation of it and, finally, a pro and con discussion of the question from two prominent people taking each side.

Judy Runnels

"I think you understand an issue (better) when you have views for it and against it," she said.

Once Kansans do register, they are generally very faithful voters, Runnels

In the last election, 80 percent of the registered voters in the state cast ballots,

But, she still wants to get the other portion of the eligible people to register, Run-

Candidates for state treasurer differ on role of office Challenger stresses cost-cutting

Incumbent wants accountability By JEFF BIELSER Staff Writer

During the past 12 years Joan Finney, Democratic incumbent candidate for state treasurer, has been fighting to keep the treasurer's office accountable to the people.

Two attempts have been made in those years to make the state treasurer an appointed rather than an elected official, Finney said. The latest attempt was by Gov. John Carlin in 1985, but it was defeated unanimously in the State Senate and with only one dissenting vote in the State House of Representatives.

Accountablility to the voters "is basic American government," she said.

"Let the people (the voters of Kansas) make their own mistakes, they can correct them" by voting again, Finney said. Keeping the treasurer's office elective is one of the things she said she is using from her record, on which she is running. K-State has benefited from some of her work, Finney said. A program that would allow students to pay their fees in installments has been worked out with the University, she said, although she doesn't know when the University will implement it. Along with working with programs like the installment payment program, Finney said her office also invests money from bond issues generated from building projects on campus.

She said her office also invests money from other bond issues as well. One of the most popular programs from her tenure as treasurer has been the Kansas Unclaimed Property Act, Finney said.

Joan Finney

In accordance with the act, the state finds unclaimed property, salaries or other money that is owed to Kansans and then makes an effort to return it to its proper

Since the program began in 1979, $12 million has been brought into the state and $4 million has been given back to the proper owners or their heirs, she said.

Helping farmers has been another of her goals by providing $46.5 million in low interest loans to farmers and small businesses, Finney said. However, she said she has used her campaign for another purpose - spreading the word about the farm situation in Kansas.

By VALERIE JOHNSON Contributing Writer Republican candidate for state treasurer, Larry Montgomery, has a few ideas in mind to decrease the cost of state government. Montgomery said the state does not have a designated chief financial officer to con-believes this task should be given to the state treasurer. If a state-appointed chief financial officer had been available to conduct long-range planning a few years ago, the recent sales tax increase would not have been centrate on long-range planning, and he necessary, Montgomery said. Because of improved cash management, state-of-the-art electronic data transfer and improved management efficiency, it may be feasible to improve the effectiveness of revenue forecasting and statistical analysis of national and state legislative tax changes, Montgomery said. Another idea proposed by Montgomery is a Kansas Remittance Center, where payment checks sent to the state would be deposited before the accompanying paperwork is processed. By adding two days worth of interest to these payments, he said the state could generate a minimum of $14 million a year in new revenues. Montgomery charges incumbent Joan Finney with spending too little time concentrating on ideas such as these and too much time traveling.

Montgomery said Finney and her staff spent $40,000 in state funds on travel during the current term, attending 62 conventions during the past four years.

Larry Montgomery

the last year than most Kansans will see in a lifetime," Montgomery said.

Montgomery said he chose to seek the office of Kansas state treasurer to help support positive cash management and prudent investment of taxpayers' resources. At the state level, he said citizens have generally been best served by the citizen politicians - those who seek to serve for a limited time and then return to private life.

Montgomery began his quarter-century career as a salesman for Kansas products at International Homes of Hutchinson.

He was selected as the Republican "She has been to more exotic resorts in nominee for lieutenant governor in 1978.

şe 8

re

in

he ng

for

.wo

ole

for ex-

ent,

ac-

edmon fety re-Safety

ew fire

are set

Safety s are inides, he rements

0 years, Page 8

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

164 5/1/87  Kansas State Historical Soc

Topeka, KS

5-DIGIT 66612

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Raimit when

abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in Lebanon.

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K Mof.

Monday, Nov. 3, 1986

conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well.'

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. 'Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others. "I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and

we've gotta get them home. 'The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back."

In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was "darned proud to be an American."

Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

is (returning) is only by the fact that Tom HOSTAGE, Page 3 ma

By 7 The cal

case to th tense stru Senate, th elections t Congress a

Presiden as Chief stumping for western st Senate fro Democratic years in off Visiting 1 candidate J said, "It's t about Jim's the fiercely Nevada wan and-spend li balanced but

Pori toll topic

Educating harmful effec women and ch ing Anti-Porne

Monday and co day, are co-sp Women's Resc Manhattan cha Organization 1 events are fro public.

The week's

Katherine F Women's Resou hoped the ev people's awarer nography does children.

She said "perpetuates women and tend. about violent women.'

In Manhattan, with pornograph such as detective describe sexual detail, "pulp" stories about nography, and ho

Univ

By PAT Staff V

Many campus bu for structural fire prevention deficier. Fire Marshal's offi many problems stil According to reports, the Univers to correct the defic days after the repor The University ha

the fire marshal's

State board question alters school control

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Contributing Writer

Overshadowed in publicity by proposals to allow liquor by the drink, state lottery and pari-mutuel betting, the education amendment is one few people are familiar

The purpose of the amendment is to settle a 13-year-old power struggle between the state Legislature and the state Board of Education over who has final control of public schools in Kansas.

As article six of the constitution now stands, the Board of Education decides policies and then sends them to a joint committee of House and Senate members, the Department of Education and the attorney general's office for review.

Under the proposed amendment, if the board did something the Legislature didn't agree with, lawmakers could pass legislation to prevent the policy from going into af-

Evelyn Whitcomb, 10-year veteran of the state Board of Education, said the Legislature already has plenty of purse string power over the board - if the Legislature doesn't like a state board proposal, the Legislature won't fund it.

Whitcomb said the passage of the amendment would hinder Kansas public education because there would be a conflict of interests. The Legislature deals with "roads and budgets and the lottery and liquor," she said. "The state board discusses nothing but education."

Rep. Elizabeth Baker, R-Derby, introduced the bill to put this proposal on the ballot. She said the purpose of the amendment is to make sure future board members don't authority over the board's decisions. make unwise changes in public schools.

make unwise changes in public schools.

The power struggle between the Legislature and state board began after a 1973 Kansas Supreme Court decision ruled that local school boards were subject to the "general supervision" of the state board. It also ruled that the state board had "selfexecuting" power, which means the Legislature cannot overrule the board.

In 1974, the Legislature tried to overturn the '73 decision by putting an amendment before the voters similar to the one to be seen on Tuesday's ballot. The amendment

Seven years later, in 1981, the state board changed some of the teacher certification requirements. When these changes were presented to the joint Rules and Regulations Committee, one lawmaker disputed the board's authority to make such

The board researched the issue and asked for the attorney general's opinion. The attorney general said the constitution provides that "...the state Board of Education, and not the Legislature, should supervise the public schools of Kansas."

"That is what put the burr under the Legislature's saddle," Whitcomb said.

A vote for the education amendment on Tuesday's ballot would allow the Legislature to develop and carry out public education policies for Kansas and terminate the state Board of Education's constitutional power to do so.

A vote against the proposition would allow the state Board of Education to hold its constitutional power to carry out public education policies. The Legislature, therefore would continue to have limited

Returns may indicate public attitude change Reagan, fighting to keep Republicans in

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The big prize in Tuesday's election is control of the Senate, but that will be only the most obvious symbol of what the balloting means for America's political future.

For Ronald Reagan, the immediate stake on Election Day is all too clear: will he spend the last two years of his presidency in a pitched battle with a Congress totally controlled by the Democrats? For the Democrats, winning control of the Senate would be their opportunity to set a Democratic agenda as the 1988 presidential campaign gets under way. The politicians who yearn to succeed

Reagan in the White House will study the returns for signs of what voters will want in 1988. Will they be looking for a continuation of the Reagan policies or a change in direc-

Republicans made realignment one of the political catchwords of the 1980s, and Tuesday's results will provide new evidence of whether that dream is dead or

Will young people and Christian fundamentalists continue voting heavily Republican? Are the South and West still GOP growth areas?

And what of black voters? Will their loyalty to the Democrats remain solid, with the party's candidates getting 90 percent or better of the black vote?

control of the Senate, has a bag full of stark images to describe the stakes in Tuesday's elections.

One of his favorite campaign lines: "The tax-and-tax, spend-and-spend crew is still lurking in the shadows, just waiting for a second chance."

"They're just itching to raise your taxes and rev up that inflationary money machine," he adds.

Despite the president's campaign rhetoric, tax increases are not at stake in this election. Even if the Democrats regain control of the Senate and are inclined to propose a tax increase, the president's veto power will remain a firm barrier unless he joins the move.

The shift in party might well change the odds when the Senate debates such issues as "Star Wars" and sending aid to the Contras fighting to overthrow the leftist government of Nicaragua.

A Democratic majority on the Senate Judiciary committee might take a far tougher look at future Reagan appointees to the federal bench

When Reagan swept many Republicans into office in his 1980 landslide, GOP leaders began talking about realignment, their belief that the country had taken a long-term turn to the right.

Editors note. This story is by Donald M. Hothberg, chief political writer for The Salociated Press.

- ---- quirements. Deficiencies ranged

100% A PERFECT RECORD

Ivan Sand has 100% supported KSU faculty and staff during his 10 years in the legislature.

RE-ELECT VAN SAND Republican Representative 66th District

questeu to to be provided, such as proper exiting, emergency lighting

- - mugeu m ure rast 50 years, See SAFETY, Page 8

aff/Gary Lytle

ie last apes

s chances

there are lidates in five of the s being ctory for least two ice, Dole

ctory for rtise ex-pponent.

y Mac-

Page 8

ds

Redmon

safety refe Safety few fire

are set

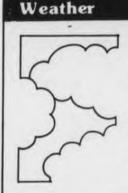

e Safety

es are in-odes, he

Don't forget to cast your ballot in today's general election. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Cloudy

Cloudy today with a 70 percent chance of rain, high in mid-40s. Wind northeast 5 to 10 mph.

On Sale

Beginning with a line of students, basketball season tickets went on sale Monday morning for the 1986 men's season. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Tuesday

November 4, 1986

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Kansas State University

Volume 93, Number 51

Freed Beirut captive calls for stronger effort

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen told Monday of his great joy in being released from more than 17 months of captivity but said other Americans still held by Lebanese kidnappers "are in hell" and must be set free.

Jacobsen, 55, arrived at the U.S. military air base in Wiesbaden one day after being freed by his Shiite Moslem captors. Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite accompanied Jacobsen, who was serving as administrator of the American University hospital in Beirut when he was abducted on May 28,1985.

Waite, who has negotiated to free the hostages since last year, said he would keep on seeking the release of five other Americans who are among 19 foreigners still missing in

They include Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the university, who also have been held since early 1985.

Jacobsen, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was examined at the Air Force hospital. Col. Charles K. Maffet, hospital director, told a news conference that, "although he is tired, our initial impression is that he is physically in very good condition. It also seems that he has dealt with the stresses of his captivity remarkably well."

Maffet said the medical evaluation would be completed in a few days. "Initial evaluation did not reveal any evidence of physical abuse," he said, adding that Jacobsen was eating normal foods and even had some wine.

"It appears he has lost very little weight. Again, he is fit." the colonel said. "He has had no medication since he's been here.

Jacobsen's family is to arrive to-

In an emotional statement soon after arrival, he said his happiness was greatly diminished by the continued captivity of the others. "I can't tell you how very, very happy I am here today. But it's with really mixed feelings to be a free man again," he said. His voice shook and he appeared on the verge of tears. "Those guys are in hell, and we've gotta get them home.

"The best things in life are free," he said, "and, by God, they are."

Jacobsen was in the hands of the pro-Iranian Shiite group Islamic Jihad, as are Anderson, 39, and Sutherland, 55.

He smiled occasionally and said he felt well but gave no details of his treatment during captivity.

Waite, 47, refused comment on his attempts to free the others. "We're being very careful about what we say for the moment because we're just at a very critical stage," he said. "I'll be here probably for a couple of days, and then I may be going back." In praise of the Anglican envoy, Jacobsen said: "Thank God for a man like Terry Waite. ... Terry was a man of hope in our darkest hour." Although he criticized the U.S.

government's handling of the Beirut

hostage situation when he was a captive, Jacobsen thanked the Reagan administration and said he was

"darned proud to be an American." Air Force spokesmen said they did not know when Jacobsen would return to the United States.

Several dozen U.S. military personnel and hundreds of reporters met the plane at Wiesbaden. Hanging from the flight control tower was a banner that read: "Welcome home, Mr. Jacobsen."

"The joy of this (returning) is only greatly lessened by the fact that Tom

See HOSTAGE, Page 3

Balance of Senate main election fight for voters' decision

By The Associated Press

The candidates submitted their case to the voters Monday in the tense struggle for control of the Senate, the shining prize in today's elections to pick the nation's 100th Congress and three dozen governors.

President Reagan played his role as Chief Campaigner to the end, stumping for GOP candidates in two western states in a bid to keep the Senate from falling into hostile Democratic hands in his final two years in office.

Visiting Nevada for GOP Senate candidate Jim Santini, the president said, "It's time we got the facts out about Jim's opponent. I don't think the fiercely independent people of Nevada want as their senator a taxand-spend liberal who is against a balanced budget amendment."

Then it was on to Costa Mesa, Calif., where the president holstered his partisan rhetoric in favor of a sentimental speech marking the end of what he termed "the last campaign." The real issue, he said, is "that future that all of us want: a future of prosperity, of freedom for the individual; above all, a future where America is safe and secure."

Leaders of both parties in the House of Representatives made their final forays of the nation's costliest mid-term campaign - and one of the nastiest. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt of Michigan, who chairs the Republican congressional campaign committee, headed for Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Texas and North Carolina. His Democratic counterpart, Rep. Tony Coelho of California, had a stop

See ELECTION, Page 8

Pornographic matter's toll on women, youth topic of week's events

By The Collegian Staff

Educating the public about the harmful effects of pornography on women and children is the goal during Anti-Pornography Week

The week's events, which began Monday and continue through Thursday, are co-sponsored by K-State's Women's Resource Center and the Manhattan chapter of the National Organization for Women. All the events are free and open to the public.

Katherine Parker, director of Women's Resource Center, said she hoped the events would raise people's awareness of the harm pornography does to both women and children.

said pornography "perpetuates violence against women and tends to change attitudes about violent crimes against

In Manhattan, the main problems with pornography are magazines, such as detective magazines which describe sexual crimes in great detail, "pulp" books containing stories about hard-core pornography, and home videos, Parker

She said some of these books and movies make abnormal sexual practices, such as incest and beastiality, seem more normal, and this concerns her.

"Pornography promotes violence against women," Parker said. Often, women are unwilling to participate in violent and pornographic acts, but are forced into it by their mate, she

"We are not opposed to sexuality, the human body or even erotica,' she said. "What we oppose is eroticized violence."

A documentary film examining the pornography industry, "Not a Love Story," was shown Monday at 7 p.m. and will be shown today at 3 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre. A discussion will follow the film.

"Pornography, Feminism, and the Meese Commission Report," a presentation by Sandra Coyner and Doug Schmidt, is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in Union 212.

The final event for the week will be Thursday when the Manhattan chapter of NOW will hold an open meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 209 to discuss "Strategies for Fighting Pornography in Manhattan.'

paign stop to laugh at a joke made by Jack Walker, Republican guber- pearance of a statewide tour Tuesday at the Manhattan Airport.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., takes time out from a cam-natorial candidate Mike Hayden's running mate. Dole made the last ap-

Dole supports Hayden, predicts races

By TOM SCHULTES Business/Government Editor

During the last stop of a statewide campaign swing, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., was in Manhattan Monday afternoon - but was concentrating more on the governor's race than his own re-election campaign.

Dole, upon his arrival at about 4:20 p.m., said he was pleased to see the nearly 100 persons at the airport lobby, where campaign signs for Dole were outnumbered natorial candidate Mike Hayden.

Dole was accompanied by Hayden's running mate, Jack Walker. Dole said that in the past the possibility of a successful candidate for statewide office from a small, western Kansas town may have been proper, but past elections had proven that question no longer relevant.

'People are pretty much alike' throughout Kansas, Dole said, adding that the team of Hayden, from by those for Republican guber- Atwood, and Walker, from Overland Park, provides a wellbalanced ticket for the state.

"I am very confident that (Hayden) is going to win," Dole Dole, who noted it has been many years since Kansans elected a Republican governor, said it was too late for politicking because most voters have made their deci-

Of Hayden's candidacy, Dole said 'he's learned the hard way," and is "a good, solid citizen."

In regard to the party's chances in other races, Dole said there are six to 10 new GOP candidates in governor's contests, with five of the Republican candidates being women. He predicted victory for the GOP candidates in at least two of those contests

In regard to his own race, Dole said he was not taking victory for granted, but did not advertise extensively because his opponent, Wichita Democrat Guy Mac-

See DOLE, Page 8

University lacks improvement funds for fire safety hazards

By PAT HUND

Staff Writer

Many campus buildings were cited for structural fire safety and fire prevention deficiencies by the State Fire Marshal's office last year, and many problems still exist.

According to fire inspection reports, the University was required to correct the deficiencies within 60 days after the reports were filed.

The University has complied with the fire marshal's office by asking the Legislature to appropriate funds to improve fire safety, said Larry Garvin, director of University plann-

"If we (K-State) make a request to the state Legislature for funding. then we have complied with the state fire marshal's office," Garvin said. Garvin said the University has been making fire safety improvements, but the lack of funding has thwarted the effort to make all the needed changes. As long as the University is making moves toward improving fire safety requirements, it is complying with fire safety codes requested by the fire marshal's office, said Ken Remfry, fire safety inspector at the office in Topeka. "It is a multi-million dollar process, so it can't all be done at once,"

Remfry said. The University has not been able to install emergency lights, exit lights and fire alarm systems in some University buildings which were some of the major deficiencies noted in the report, said John Lambert, director of the Department of Public Safety at K-State.

Lambert advises the University Planning Board of changes he believes should be made, although all decisions they make are independent of Lambert Inspectors from the fire marshal's office toured buildings last October and November and found that many buildings were not in compliance with current fire safety requirements. Deficiencies ranged from no fire alarm systems, insufficient accessibility and improper lights for emergencies to smaller user-responsibility problems such as improper storage of chemicals and obstructed fire exits.

State Fire Marshal Edward Redmon said state fire codes do not require that all buildings be renovated

each time the code changes. "We do believe there are items that enhance life safety which are requested to to be provided, such as proper exiting, emergency lighting and fire alarm systems," Redmon said.

Lambert said most fire safety requirements are in the Life Safety Codes handbook, while a few fire prevention requirements are set down by the National Fire Safety Protection Agency. LSC codes are included in that agencies' codes, he

Because fire safety requirements have changed in the last 50 years,

See SAFETY, Page 8

INTERNATIONAL

Priest vows to return to Lebanon

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Anglican envoy Terry Waite says he will return soon in his effort to free American captives in Lebanon, but his absence Monday, to accompany the latest hostage released, indicated a loss in momentum.

Waite's trip to West Germany with freed captive David Jacobsen meant a break in negotiations that could last several days at least. A statement from Islamic Jihad, the pro-Iranian Shiite group that held Jacobsen and still has at least two American captives, indicated contact between the U.S. government and the kidnappers. It said Washington was responsible for the "current approaches" on the hostages and warned of consequences "in case the American government fails to complete these approaches to arrive at the hoped-for results."

Asked what new "approaches" the United States was making, Speakes said: "I just don't have any comment on that."

What deal may have been made for the release of Jacobsen, 55, also was unclear. Reports from Beirut have suggested Islamic Jihad, whose name means Islamic Holy War, dropped its demand for release of 17 Shiites jailed in Kuwait for bombings of the U.S. and French embassies there in 1983.

Altimeter fails, causes plane crash

NICOSIA, Cyprus - A malfunctioning altimeter caused an Iranian military transport plane to crash into a mountain near the Afghan border, killing all 103 people aboard, Iran's official news agency reported Monday.

The American-built C-130 plane was transporting soldiers from the western Bakhtaran war front on Sunday to Zahedan, in southeastern Sistan-Baluchistan province, Iranian military authorities were quoted

Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980 Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, quoted an unidentified source in the provincial governor-general's office as saying: "The control tower of Zahedan airport had warned the pilot not to fly lower than 6,500 feet altitude, but due to a warning. The crash occurred six miles east of Zahedan, a desert city ringed technical defect in the altimeter, the pilot failed to heed the IRNA noted that previous reports put the death toll at 98. Without explanation, it said the count had risen to 103 passengers and crew.

Soviets allow family to aid relative

VIENNA, Austria - Inessa Fleurov and her family ended a 10-week battle for permission to leave the Soviet Union Monday and flew to Vienna en route to Israel, where she hopes to donate bone marrow to her leukemia-stricken brother.

"I am very happy that I am abroad now," Fleurov told reporters at Schwechat Airport after arriving from Moscow with her 38-yearold husband Viktor and their two daughters.

"I am free to go to Israel at any moment I want," said Fleurov, 37, fighting back tears of joy.

The Fleurovs said they expected to leave for Israel in the next day or two. "I hope I will (be able to help my brother) and I want to help him," Fleurov said in English. "I think that my will and his will together will save him.'

Fleurov's brother, Mikhail Shirman, flew to Reykjavik, Iceland, during the U.S.-Soviet summit last month to confront Soviet officials on his sister's behalf.

NATIONAL

Officials induct S. African envoy

WASHINGTON - Edward J. Perkins, the black diplomat sworn in Monday as U.S. ambassador to South Africa, said he felt "good will" toward all the people of that country but vowed to take carry with him America's "intolerance of racial apartness."

"All Americans share the same goals," Perkins told a standingroom-only crowd at his swearing-in ceremony at the State Department. "The American people have forcefully expressed their abhorrence of apartheid and their desire for a foreign policy that works to facilitate peaceful change in South Africa."

Perkins, a 20-year-veteran of the U.S. Agency for International Development and the State Department, was selected by President Reagan after a talent search that focused on black candidates. The goal was to drive home, in a personal way, the U.S. dislike for apartheid, the country's racial separation system.

Maid cleared of smuggling charges

RICHMOND, Va. - A federal judge on Monday dismissed a munitions smuggling case against Nancy Reagan's personal maid after the prosecutor said he had concluded there was no criminal intent.

Anita Sanabria Castelo, 45, was arrested after federal investigators found 70 cases of .22-caliber ammunition aboard a Paraguayan freighter docked at Richmond's Deepwater Terminal.

"Thank the Lord," she said after her brief appearance before U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr.

Michael Morchower,. Castelo's attorney, said he had come to court prepared to go to trial and had received an affidavit from the first lady attesting to his client's good character.

Castelo, who worked exclusively for Nancy Reagan, was placed on administrative leave last August after she was arrested. Asked if she thought she would be reinstated to her White House job, she replied, "I hope so."

Nancy Reagan's press secretary, Elaine Crispen, said the first lady "is anxious to have her back at work."

"I'm very, very happy that Anita was found innocent," Crispen quoted the first lady as saying.

REGIONAL

Brown case doubted to continue

TOPEKA - The reopened Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education desegregation case has ground close to a halt and may be finished after four weeks after 11 experts and a parade of Topeka residents and school administrators were witnesses in the case.

Gary Sebelius, defense attorney for the school district, said Monday it's doubtful the trial will resume on Nov. 10 with rebuttal testimony by one of his expert witnesses, William Clark, a population geographer from the University of California at Los Angeles.

But Sebelius won't rule out the possibility until Clark reads a transcript of testimony by a witness for the plaintiffs which was critical of the defense expert.

"We want our witness to have an opportunity to review the trial transcripts," Sebelius said. "In my mind, it's doubtful he'll come back to testify.'

If Clark does not return to the stand, it will mean the trial before U.S. District Judge Richard D. Rogers is over.

Rogers called the testimony in the case "innovative and well presented" and said it represented a range and caliber "that no other court has perhaps had the opportunity to hear."

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENTS can nominate teachers for the undergraduate teacher

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS has committee member applica-tions available today through Friday in the SGS office.

TODAY

LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUP sponsored by Women's Resource Center will meet at 7:30 p.m. For information, call 532-6444 or 532-6442.

ANTI-PORNOGRAPHY WEEK sponsored by Women's Resource Center will show the film "Not A Love Story" at 3 p.m. in Union Little Theatre, with a discussion following.

PRE-NURSING STUDENTS: Six schools of nursing present Nurses Day at K-State from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Union 212.

BLUE KEY HOMECOMING EVALUATION MEETING will be from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the Union

GREAT COMMISSION STUDENTS meet at 7:30 p.m. at 1543 Campus Road

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

INSTITUTION OF INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS meets at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. The speaker will be Don Fink from United Parcel Service.

SCUBA CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union 213. FLINT HILLS WATER SKI CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Bluemont 108

PEACE CORPS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

The topic will be on volunteers' experiences overseas.

BRANCH meets at 8:30 p.m. in Seaton 236. Group pictures will be taken at 8:45 p.m. The guest speaker will be Mike Duncan of Balderson, Inc.

by Father Mike Scully

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING STUDENT

BLOCK AND BRIDLE: Meet dressed for year book pictures at 7:10 p.m. in Fairchild 202. Meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in Umberger

RENEW meets at 7 p.m. at St. Isidores, 711 Denison Ave. The topic will be "The Lords Call"

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The topic will be "K-State's Horticulture Therapy Club" by Richard Mattson.

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS RECRUITMENT COMMITTEE meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 207

PHI ALPHA THETA meets at 10:45 a.m. in HUMAN ECOLOGY AMBASSADORS meet at

TAU KAPPA EPSILON LITTLE SISTERS

meet at 7 p.m. at the TKE hor PI SIGMA EPSILON meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. The topic will be "How to Get an Interview". Business dress is optional. Officers

SINGLE PARENTS INTEREST GROUP meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 169. Childcare will be

SAMS PROMOTION AND PUBLICITY meets at 8 p.m. at the Chi Omega house, 1516 McCain

EUROPEAN CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

SPURS meets at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign.

Reciprocals Than Showcase 0).....

Phil Becker, Treasurer. CAR WASH

Everyday!

25¢ Wash

- *Close to campus *Coin changer available
- *4 stalls for your
- convenience *New facility, new
- location, no traffic hassle

Conveniently located on the corner of Tuttle Creek Blvd. & Kimball Ave.

Ramada Inn

TUESDAY

99¢

Gin or Vodka Tonic Tom or John Collins

FREE Munchies

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

A PERFECT RECORD

Ivan Sand has 100% supported KSU faculty and staff during his 10 years in the legislature.

RE-ELECT VAN SAI

Republican Representative 66th District

NOMINATIONS for COLLEGE of EDUCATION OUTSTANDING UNDERGRADUATE TEACHING AWARD are due by November 21. Nomination forms available in Bluemont 006.

all perms until Nov. 8

Free Gift Wrap

Nov. 7, 8 and 9. Begin the weekend with activities on Friday evening, Nov. 7.

1224 Moro

-Art Gallery Exhibit in the Union art gallery, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

—Art Display, Union 2nd floor, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

-"Murphy's Romance" movie in the Union, 7 & 9 p.m. —Orchestra concert in McCain, 8 p.m.

Start planning your weekend now!

Kentucky Fried Chicken

Ben Franklin

Bonkers

Woody's Ladies Shop Country Kitchen

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors: Taco Hut By KIM GREENWOOD Collegian Reporter

K-State Union Bookstore pays more for used textbooks than the University of Kansas, Wichita State University and Fort Hays State University.

These are the results after polling Steve Jewett, textbook coordinator of KU; Jack Gilette, textbook supervisor of WSU; and Steve Gonzales, bookstore manager of Fort Hays State campus bookstores. The bookstores were asked when professors have to turn in their book orders to the bookstore; when the bookstore turns in the book orders to the publishers; how much the bookstore marks up new books; how much they buy back used books for, and how much they sell used books for.

The four bookstores vary in the amount they pay for used books. Fort Hays State pays 50 percent of what the student bought the book for, whether the book was new or used when the student bought it, Gonzales said.

KU and WSU pay 50 percent of the current new book price, even if the book was bought used.

K-State pays 60 percent of the publisher's list price (new book price) for books that professors will use again, said Jerry Fields, book department manager of K-State Union Bookstore.

Professors in all four universities are supposed to turn in their book orders to the bookstore in April for the fall semester and in October for the spring semester. Each bookstore gives the professors specific deadlines each semester. These dates give the publishers' representatives time to introduce new textbooks to the professors and allows the bookstores time to contact vendors to buy as many used textbooks as possible. The bookstores turn in their book orders to the publishers in June for for the spring semester. When teachers turn in book orders late, change their order, or if the books are not available, students have a delay in getting their books at the semester start.

All four bookstores mark up new books 20 percent to 25 percent of wholesale. The increase is to pay for overhead and freight expenses.

The four bookstores do not buy back books the professors will not use again. Vendors buy these books to sell to other schools which will continue to use the book. The prices paid to the students for these books are determined by the vendor in accordance with the amount of books he has in inventory and the demand he or she foresees for the book.

KU, WSU and K-State, charge 75 percent of new book price for used books when selling them to the students. The mark-up varies from book to book at Fort Hays State.

Center strives to improve quality of science teaching at lower levels

By LORI LUGINBILL Collegian Reporter

During the early years of academic experience, science is often a subject barely touched amidst reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic.

A new education center at K-State is hoping to put a spotlight on science education at the primary and secondary level.

The Kansas Board of Regents has approved the Center for Science Education, located in Bluemont Hall and coordinated by the College of concern by interested science and education faculty about the number of science educators and the quality of science education being conducted, said Mike Holen, associate dean for the College of Education.

A plan for the center grew out of a

"The idea started among faculty and was carried forward by the College of Education because of our interest in quality instruction," Holen

Since the center is relatively new, funding at this point is uncertain. However, the College of Education and the Provost's Office have allocated funds thus far, he said. Future funding is being sought through grant and contract applications, Holen said.

The center is ultimately expected to fulfill three major purposes, Holen

The first purpose is to provide a science resource material center to which students could write and request information, he said.

Another purpose would keep science teachers up-to-date on science education by providing innovative packages of instructional materials to them through in-service programs, Holen said.

"This would have a strong impact on in-service training and fulfill our responsibility to keep the field (science education) current," Holen

Finally, the center would provide training to future teachers of science education, he said.

Holen said he believes the center will make a substantial difference in the teacher preparation programs.

Many elementary school teachers are limited in experience and confidence when teaching science,

'There are so many interesting science issues students would love to deal with if teachers would present them in the proper way," Holen said. Activities implemented through the center will help develop skills and confidence elementary teachers need to teach science, he said. Currently, the center hopes to at least provide services statewide, Holen said.

However, through future efforts procedures have a potential to make regional and national impact, he

A full-time director, assistant director, secretary and library media person will be employed by the center, Holen said.

Graduate students will also be associated with the center and may attract more graduate students in science education, he said.

The center is currently involved with initiating projects, trying to attract science teachers to become involved, seeking funds and advertising the center's existence to science teacher groups at conferences and through direct contacts to surrounding school districts, Holen said.

The Spread

An Hors D'oeuvres

Buffet

Just $1 a plate

Monday-Friday

5-7 p.m.

DITTON CILUB

Music

With the Denver Symphony Orchestra

featuring

James Setapen, Conductor

and Andre-Michel Schub,

Pianist

Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons and you will find it is to the soul what a water

McCain Auditorium

Tuesday,

November 4, 1986

8:00 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428

Mastercard/Visa accepted

bath is to the body.

Oliver Wendell Holmes

Bath 5

Former professor to serve government

A former head of the Department of Political Science has recently been selected to membership in the National Academy of Public Administration. The academy, which was created by Congress in 1967, is equivalent to the National Academy of Science in its field, said Naomi Lynn, who left advice and counsel on the organization processes of the government at Lynn was selected by peers to become one of about 300 practioners ministration who comprise the National Academy. As an active member, she will be required to serve the federal government for to study a variety of public issues for Congress and for other federal agen-

Examples of the types of jobs they undertake, Lynn said, include a study to improve the recruitment, training and working environment of top presidential appointees; a study of organization and management options for space shuttle operations sponsored by NASA; and a study exploring the options for improved communication between the superpowers in an effort to reduce the risk

Lynn, who is currently dean of Urban and Public Affairs at Georgia State University, Atlanta, was a political science faculty member at K-State for 14 years, becoming department head in 1982, before leavment head.

She came to K-State in 1968 and was hired onto the faculty without a doctoral degree, Richter said. She then completed her doctorate by commuting from Manhattan to the University of Kansas, he said.

Through hard work and talent, Richter said, Lynn moved up through the ranks fairly rapidly, finally becoming department head in 1982. About this time, she was also elected to be vice president of the American Society for Public Administration, he said. This year she completed a term as president of

Lynn's recent election to the academy is a major honor, Richter specialized in public affairs.

in the field.

academy on Nov. 13, in Washington, D.C. As to length of membership, Lynn said, "As long as you are active and willing to participate, it is a various departments in the three col-information on the secondary major can be obtained from Royster.

ducted June 9 of that year.

did not elaborate.

A list of the classes and additional

Jacobsen said Anderson was

"fine" and he had seen the journalist frequently in the past 18 months, but Jacobsen said one of the three latest Americans kidnapped, acting university controller Joe Cicippio, is one of his closest personal friends and "I pray to God that he will be out

THE TCECREAM SOCIAL

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treatsstill America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere. Try our soft-serve. 1314 Westloop

Graduate Studies

CELL BIOLOGY NEUROBIOLOGY

University of Kansas Medical Center

Call or write: Admission Committee Department of Anatomy KU Medical Center Kansas City, Kansas 66103 (913) 588-7000

JANUARY LAST CHANCE!

Steamboat

5 NICHTS 1/4-9 *144

*184 7 NIGHTS 1/441

$183 5 NICHTS 1/4-9

*223 Keystone North Peak/

A-Basin *142

5 NICHTS 1/3-8 182

ORMATION AND RESERVATIONS

OLL FREE COLLECIATE WINTER SKI BREAK -800-321-5911

Never a dull moment

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Contmission. a state agency, and the National En-dowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

the academy in using their expertise William Richter, current departthe governor's task force.

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

K-State in 1984. Its purpose is to provide individual all levels. and scholars in the field of public ad-

Lynn will join fellow members of of nuclear war.

ing Manhattan in 1984.

At K-State, Lynn performed beneficial work, both for the department and the University, said that 18,000-member organization.

While in Kansas, Lynn served as a consultant to several state agencies and local governments, was a factfinder for the Kansas Public Employee Relations Board, and reviewed the State Department of Social and Rehabilitation Service for with the addition of Introduction to American Ethnic Studies. This introductory class along with Introduc-

Sutherland, Terry Anderson and to my deep grief the three other

Americans that have been kidnapped

Anderson was kidnapped on March

16, 1985, and Sutherland was ab-in the last month(s)," he said.

Continued from Page 1

Hostage

said. The academy, he said, is "the most prestigious club within the pro-The academy, Lynn said, comprises cabinet members, members of Congress, prominent business executives, professional government managers, and scholars who

All members, she said, share one important characteristic: they have each made a significant contribution to the field of public administration. Lynn said she attributes her election to the extensive writing she has done

Lynn will be inducted into the Regents authorize new ethnic studies program cerning the ethnic pluralism of students in any major can obtain the datory courses in the program. secondary major, he said. Fifteen additional course hours

American ethnic studies utilizes can be chosen from more than 75 courses already offered at K-State ethnic studies classes offered in leges, he said.

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

To more adequately prepare students to understand ethnic differences in the "real world," a new secondary major, American Ethnic Studies, is now offered at K-State. Phillip Royster, professor of English, is the coordinator of American Ethnic Studies, approved last week by the Board of Regents. The purpose of the program is "to make students more aware of the ethnic diversity of American society," he said. The program deals with "so-called white ethnic groups," including Jews, Russians, Swedish and Polish people and focuses on cultures that have been more commonly discriminated against, he said.

"We feel that it is the responsibility of Kansas State University and all American universities, to educate their undergraduate students con-

American society," Royster said, "that is, that we have many different ethnic groups that are all of equal value although some of them have experienced and are experiencing systematic discrimination.'

Royster said most professionals including social workers, teachers, doctors, and lawyers have positions in which they deal with diverse ethnic groups.

"All of these people are responsible for delivering services to people from various ethnic backgrounds and they will do that in a more informed way if they understand and respect differences caused by ethnic diversities," he said.

"Unless your going to do nothing but play with computers in a dungeon, you're going to need to understand ethnicity," he said. The colleges of arts and sciences, education and human ecology are tion to Anthropology, and a senior research project are the only man-participating in the program, but

WE'RE INTO SOMETHING GOOD!

award-winning hamburgers, a polish dog, fish sandwich or one of our three great Runzas! But don't forget to add an order of homemade onion rings, a salad and a German chocolate brownie!

At RUNZA we've got plenty of taste

Whatever you choose, order it at Runza today!!

1101 Moro

Aggieville

Homecoming Evaluation Meeting

Looking for an apartment?

Check Collegian Classifieds

TODAY 3:30-5 p.m. Union Key Room

All welcome to share their concerns on Homecoming 1986.

ELECT KATHA HURT SETH DISTRICT It's time for a change in the 66th District.

Paid by the Committee to Elect Katha Hurt, Phil Becker, treasurer.

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz

ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 332-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Regulation of rushes needed in fraternities

K-State fraternities may be breaking the law.

University's policy on alcohol persons not legally old enough to drink will not drink. K-State sororities do not use alcohol as part of their rush activities. Rush occurs twice a year - formal rush in the fall and informal rush under the same policy as in the spring.

has established an open-rush monitoring board could be formpolicy: rush parties for fraternities may be conducted any time during the year and at any location.

So, for the fraternities, there is no monitoring system to stop drinking at these functions. Greek Affairs has discussed the possibility of a monitoring board, but has not established one fraternities, Greek Affairs will because it would be too hard to not have the burden of responsend representatives all over the sibility for underage students

Enforce death penalty

ticles about death-penalty laws is upon us again. The problem is very simple; death-penalty laws are very rarely enforced. During the decade from 1975 to 1984 inclusive,

204,000 human beings were willfully slain by other human beings, according to a bulletin of the Bureau of Justice Statistics. Data are not available on the number of murders truly classifiable as first-degree murders. After the county and district attorneys and the local, politically appointed judges got through playing their parts, only 2,384 of those 204,000 murders drew the death

During that same decade only 32 persons were executed for murder. That is 1.3 percent of those given the death sentence, and only 0.15 percent of those willfully killing someone. Do you know of any law that serves its stated purpose if it is very seldom enforced? It is quite true that death-penalty laws, just by being on the books, cannot deter murders if rarely enforced, but that is not the fault of the law. It is the fault of chicken-hearted prosecuting attorneys, chicken-hearted juries and self-deified judges - up to and including the U.S. Supreme Court - which refuses to enforce the law, and who

Greek Affairs should pass a law stating that all rush parties Greek Affairs has adopted the should be alcohol-free so underage rush participants will not be served. A ruling like this makes sense because most of the rush participants are 17 to 18 years old.

Also, fraternity rush should be sororities - one informal and one But the Interfraternity Council formal rush each year. Then, a ed to guard against alcohol at these functions, both at sororities and fraternities. By eliminating the possibility of fraternity rush parties occurring at any time or any place, members of the board underage rush participants from could be present to monitor the functions. By eliminating the policy differences between sororities and drinking at rush parties.

Tip O'Neill leaves impact on U.S.

The 8th Congressional District in Massachusetts won't be the same after today and neither will the rest of the United States. When voters go to the polls in the 8th District, they won't have Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill to re-elect as their congressman. After 50 years of public service, the big Irish politician is retiring.

Tip's retirement and end to his term as Speaker of the House is recognized as a loss to this country by some, and a blessing by others. Whether the United States stands to lose or gain over his absence remains to be

It's too early to eulogize O'Neill, and too late to attack his ideology. Nonetheless, at times he is the epitome of a good politician and a bad politician as well.

O'Neill's greatest virtue that he displayed during his years as an elected representative is that he never forgot from where he came. When he started his public-service career 50 years ago as the son of a bricklayer in the blue-collar town of Cambridge, Mass., he portrayed the founding fathers' dream of an elected government representative of its people. Although he is now wealthier than most of his constituents, being of lower financial status than many of his colleagues has helped him stay close to the people he represents. Possibly this explains his philosophy that "all politics is local," and how, as a national figure, he can be personally acquainted with such a large number of people in his district.

Another of O'Neill's fine traits is that he doesn't succumb to every popular trend that comes along. Because of this, few people need to ask who he is and for what he stands. In 1967, he was one of the first Democrats to come out against the Vietnam War. As a result, he was scorned for his treason to the president, his party and the young men from the 8th who were doing their duty. His liberal views have frequently been opposed - even I don't agree with many of them - but they

PHIL

Collegian

NORDHUS

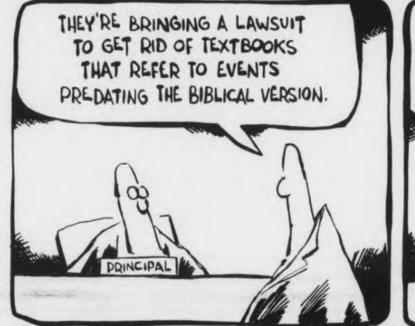

have rarely been misunderstood. The paradox about Tip O'Neill is that where he shines as a politician, he also fails. Never forgetting the folks back home, he has used his power as speaker to bring them benefits at the expense of the rest of the country. In fact, a 1983 presidential commission investigating waste in the federal government found that O'Neill was one of the six worst congressmen who funneled federal money into their districts against the interest of the rest of the country. For example, in 1983, he and a Senator from New Hampshire diverted $22.5 million to Boston College and the University of New Hampshire for building projects. When it was protested that the awarded money was supposed to come under competitive terms, he had Congress exempt the two schools from that requirement. He also had the secretary of education barred from enforcing a requirement that the school provide matching funds and waived a law requiring a panel of experts to review those kinds of grants. Apparently, all politics are local.

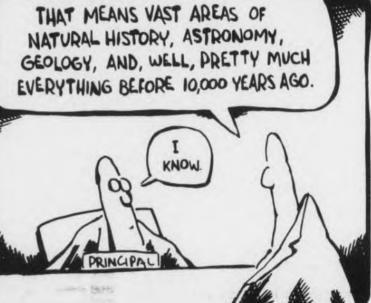

Tuesday, November 4, 1986 — 4

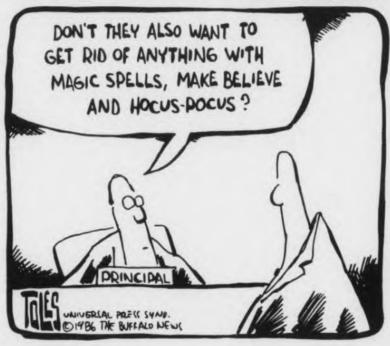

While Tip O'Neill is a firm believer that he and his colleagues should take to Congress what they tell their constituents back home, he has used his power to assail those in Congress who come from different parts of the country where ideas aren't the same as his even if those congressional members are of his party. When Sen. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, supported President Reagan's spending cuts in 1983, O'Neill and other party chiefs organized the removal of Gramm from his seat on the influential House Budget Committee. As a result, Gramm is now a Republican in the Senate because, as he stated. "I dared to practice in Washington what I preached at home."

Since Reagan became president, O'Neill has demonstrated that he is short on solutions to key issues such as spending, jobs and taxes. His answer has been to assault Reagan's programs with criticism, while offering no alternatives. A 1983 Washington Post/ABC News poll showed that the American public agreed - 60 percent said Democrats criticize Republicans instead of making their own proposals.

The failures of Tip O'Neill can only be found in his political philosophies. His dedication to the people of the United States champions all of his other successes. In his State of the Union address in February, Reagan appropriately said of O'Neill, touching off a round of extended applause, "On behalf of the American people, I want to salute you for your service to Congress and your country."

dollars, fine - don't play. The entire population benefits from the lot-

NOME, Alaska - For a reporter who covered the Alaska statehood debates in the Senate almost 33 years ago, it is a stunning experience to stand here on the "golden sands" of the Bering Sea and realize finally how much of a reach was embodied in that bold legislation.

More than any other action since World War II, the Alaska and Hawaii statehood bills guaranteed that the United States would be a true world power, as deeply involved in the Pacific and Asia as it is in the Atlantic and Europe. To the visitor, Hawaii presents a picture of lushness and seeming ease; Alaska, the stern beauty of the daunting wilderness. Flying out here from Fairbanks, the twin-engine charter carrying Republican gubernatorial candidate Arliss Sturgulewski traversed 400 miles of open land, with only half-a-dozen villages of 50 or 100 people along the Yukon River or the shore of Norton Sound.

Even on a day as sunny and mild as the one of my visit last week, it is clear that life on this frontier tests survival skills. Times are hard. The giant gold dredge, 14 stories high and long as a football field, working offshore is ready to be towed south to Seattle for the winter. Only one mine is open, and a local legislative candidate preparing for a week's swing through the North Slope oil camps, said, "It hurts to see how few are left working up there.'

Much has been written about the effect of the energy recession on Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. But no state has been as crippled as Alaska, which draws 85 percent of its state revenues from oil.

Those revenues next year are estimated to fall 50 percent short of projected state spending of $2.2 billion, creating what state Sen. Joe Josephson, D-Anchorage, calls "the toughest situation facing any governor and legislature next year."

State employees' unhappiness with economies ordered by Gov. Bill Sheffield DAVID BRODER

Syndicated

Columnist

a balanced budget. The effect of the economies already enacted is painfully visible in a place like Nome, where poverty, unemployment and alcoholism are chronic problems. Outreach programs by the local junior college are in jeopardy. So are funds for public health and food supplements, and the subsidy to the public radio stations that provide information to isolated villages When the state highway division chief, responsible for roads and airports in an area the size of New England, retired, his position was left open. Even the local National Guard contingent is rationed to two long-distance calls a day, requiring the commander to guress which outpost may have a problem that needs attention. The irony is that Alaska is also sitting on an endowment greater than that of any other state: "the permanent fund" of oil royalties which has reached $8 billion and continues to compound.

The principal is constitutionally protected as a legacy for future generations. The annual earnings provide a $550 cash payment for every man, woman and child in the state regardless of means - an entitlement which is viewed by Alaska politicians as being as Alaska survives modern hardships untouchable as Social Security payments are across the land.

But even after those payments are made and the "permanent fund" is indexed for inflation, an estimated $220 million will be left. Cowper and Sturgulewski have indicated they would use this money to cushion the current budget crunch. And both have told voters that the income tax abolished when the gusher of oil money began, may have to come back.

What may aid Alaska most in this difficult period is that most of its people have chosen to come to a place that tolerates their individuality, rewards their initiative and demands their courage.

At lunch here I met Ellen Greenberg, who left her comfortable position as a physics professor's wife in Juneau more than two years ago to come to this far frontier. She is the staff person for the Bering Strait regional strategy board, serving 8,000 people in a 24,000-square mile territory with almost no local government.

Unemployment is close to 20 percent, even with continued out-migration, but so few people are involved that significant victories can be gained by small steps: by ending the infighting and price-cutting among rival fishermen and fisheries, by alerting reindeer herdsmen to the competition for Japanese and Korean markets by Manchurian red deer breeders, or by encouraging Eskimo artists to attempt larger carvings instead of the tiny animal figurines that have flooded tourist stores.

"It's a slow, hard battle," she said. But Alaskans wouldn't be here if they were afraid of adversity.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

destroys its effectiveness by continually staying the executions of those few murderers who somehow were given the death penalty. The U.S. Supreme Court takes the lead in destroying the effectiveness of death-penalty laws by so circumscribing their wording that it is easy to find bases for endless appeals. In People vs. Lemuel Smith, a New York law was "struck down" because it did not provide for consideration by the jury of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Listen well all would-be murderers; it's OK to kill people if you have good reasons! I like to look past minutia and irrelevant statistics and concentrate on basic principles. Do you believe that if a would-be murderer knew for sure that if he did commit first-degree murder he would die, this would not deter him from that act a very high percent of the time?

> H.C. Fryer professor emeritus of statistics

Vote for amendments

Re: The letters, "Lottery unnecessary" by Kenneth Burkhard, and "Alcohol to blame" by Marilyn Clawson, in Wednesday's Collegian.

Fascinating.

It has been quite some time since I have seen the kind of fact-twisting and flawed reasoning presented in Wednesday's Collegian. I refer (with no real offense intended) to the letter by Burkhard and Clawson concerning the lottery and liquor-by-the-drink respectively. In Burkhard's attempt to sway voters away from the lottery, he tells us that only 30 cents from every dollar spent on it actually goes back to the state.

Well, sir, that is 30 cents more than we're making now. On the grand scale in which the lottery takes place, the economic benefits is met, the state would gain $30 million -Burkhard also tells us that Riley County are quite substantial. If the annual sales goal

Obviously, the season for irrelevant ar- could lose $3 million in sales if each human in the state spends $50 on the lottery

This statement is made under the false assumption that every dollar spent on the lottery would be money diverted from retail sales. It simply isn't true. By this analysis, businessmen would be suffering more in the "lottery infested" states than they do anywhere else. I challenge you to provide evidence indicating this. New York, Illinois, Colorado, etc., keep the lottery in existence for one simple reason: it works

Finally, Burkhard maintains that if we really need more money, we can add another small sales tax increase - to which I can only say - sure. How many of you want more sales tax? Oh, I know I do. Actually, here is where the beauty of the lottery is found. It is the perfect form of "taxation" because it is totally voluntary. If it is somehow against your moral character to win millions of tery as demonstrated in improvements that can be made in our schools, social services, highway systems and others. To throw away these benefits for the sake of conformity to some mindless, abstract moral code (which isn't and shouldn't be uniform in our society) is as despicable an act as I can think of.

I admire Clawson's concern about the problems of alcohol abuse, but I see no link between liquor-by-the-drink and the heinous crimes and misfortunate accidents cited in her letter. We don't have liquor-by-the-drink in Kansas, yet, sadly enough, every one of the social blights demonstrated does exist

A lack of liquor-by-the-drink, however, doesn't affect the drinking habits of many either, for if a body wants a drink, he can get it. Voting down liquor-by-the-drink does absolutely nothing to solve social ills. On the other hand, voting for it brings economic benefit. Conventions and other large gatherings would find Kansas much more appealing if the amendment were passed, and that spells a boost for our tiring (dead?)

The choices should be clear. We have nothing to lose and tons to gain. Think about it, then vote.

Lyle L. Tuck freshman in chemical engineering

Pedestrian safety

Editor,

People, if you're going to cross the street, make sure the car drivers can see you. Do not assume that they will stop if you are in the crosswalk; they may not see you in the

As I was driving on Denison, three figures suddenly appeared in front of my car. Fortunately, I noticed them in time to slow down, but if I had not, the consequences would have been serious. Even though these guys were in the crosswalk, they should not have assumed that the cars would automatically stop for them since oncoming headlights and dark clothing made them difficult to see. Be careful!

Naomi Regier Manhattan resident

Cyclones' last-minute points stirs controversy in Big Eight

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Is it right to call timeout with five seconds left and kick a field goal when your team is already leading 34-14?

That's what Jim Criner did Saturday in Iowa State's 37-14 victory at Missouri, an incident which had many Missouri people fuming.

Big Eight coaches without being told the question referred specifically to Iowa State, were asked at Monday's teleconference:

"In light of recent football scores, at what point if any does a team winning by a great margin instruct its offense to avoid scoring?"

A couple of the coaches indicated they were uncertain of what the question referred to. But not Oklahoma's Barry Switzer.

"When it's meaningless and when the ballgame is won," Switzer said. "We've never called time out ' Switzer noted that his Sooners were deep in Kansas territory in the closing seconds of Saturday's 64-3 "We had a touchdown called back that would have made it 71-3," he said. "We were down close. But we just told the quarterback to run a sneak. There's no need to score. "We've been in situations like that many times. It's meaningless. I think it's embarrassing. I won't even let my offensive coordinator call passes in the second half sometimes when we've got games out of reach because it will look like we're trying to score. I don't want to do that."

Criner said on Saturday that he was upset with remarks Missouri Coach Woody Widenhofer made last year indicating the Cyclones may have spied on Missouri practices. Criner said Monday he does not regret calling the time out to kick the field goal.

"I don't think a coach should be allowed to say anything he wants just to get his football team fired up," he said. "I think a football coach needs to control his players more than the Missouri players were controlled on Saturday. I don't think there's any excuse for their players, all the late hits, all the slugging and punching that went on. I was very upset and I was very angry, but I don't secondguess what I did.

"I'm proud of the fact our players did not get involved in all the melee," Criner added. "They kept their composure and their poise. They didn't punch back. They turned the other cheek, so to speak. I told them if they'd do that, I'd give them a chance to get even. Basically, we had our second unit in there. They had driven the ball downfield. They had been helped by a couple of late hits, and I think the kids deserved to Widenhofer said when contacted by the Associated Press earlier than he had taken steps to avoid any late-

"If he's upset with me personally, enough."

he should talk to me about it, Widenhofer said. "When you try to run up a score on a football team that's having problems, you're talking about 18- and 19-year-old kids. The only real incident I know of that was flagrant in the last couple of minutes, I jerked the kid out of the game and reprimanded him on the sideline. He did not get back into the

But Widenhofer indicated there are no hard feelings between him and Criner.

"We talked on the phone today and patched up our differences," he said. There's no reason for this to go on."

K-State's Stan Parrish was the only Big Eight coach besides Switzer who seemed to disapprove of what Criner did.

'This year I've been on the bottom end of some of those, but the game is 60 minutes long and you have to play the game for 60 minutes," Parrish said. "Every coach who has a big lead has his own philosophy on what to do. Certainly, there are no boundaries or limitations. You just have to expect whatever happens."

Asked his philosophy, Parrish said, "I've always felt when we had a game well in hand that I wanted to play my down-the-line players and give them some experience. I personally have just run the ball. Personally, I don't think there's another point to prove in the game. If you've got the game in hand, that's good

ICATs aim to aid Wildcats through fund raising, spirit

By TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

Clark Renfro vividly remembers attending K-State sporting events when he was young. He remembers the Wildcats' winning basketball tradition and the love the student body exhibited for their school's athletic teams.

Renfro came to K-State and in his years here he has seen the Wildcat basketball team drop out of the national rankings and the pride of the student body greatly diminish.

It was this which drove Renfro, his older brother Craig who is the athletic department's field representative for development and Associate Athletic Director Steve Miller to brainstorm and develop a new student pep club for the athletic department.

"ICAT" (I Contribute A Twenty) is structured around a fund-raising organization at Clemson University titled "IPTAY", or "I Pay Thirty A Year." Both clubs bring students in close contact with the activities of the athletic department, while at the same time generate funds for athletic scholar-

"We're in the stage of getting people aware of what's going and to generate a positive side to Wildcat athletics," Renfro said.

"It's simply a positive note which will hopefully get things started like it used to be.'

With the $20 membership fee, the student will receive a subscription to "Cat Tales" the athletic department's monthly newsletter, an ICAT decal, have monthly meetings with Wildcat coaches and starting next year, priority seating at basketball and football games and recognition in the football pro-

Miller said the organization has a two-fold purpose:

- 1) It will bring in additional revenue which will be pumped into the Mike Ahearn Scholarship Fund which pays for student-athlete scholarships.

2) It will identify those students who are truly interested in K-State athletics and give the athletic department an opportunity to track them following their departure from K-State.

"We just have to be creative in our attempts to raise money,' Miller said. "The club is in its neophyte stages. Right now we have 30 members and by the end of the year we expect 100 members.' Renfro has high hopes for the organization. Eventually, he would like to see membership near 1000 students, but he admits he doesn't think this year there will be an overflow of people rushing to join the organization.

"IPTAY is Clemson's entire base for fund-raising, if we can identify interested students while they're in school, maybe we can get them to keep giving after they graduate," Renfro said. "It will take an accumulation of people working hard and getting out to bring in 'the money.'

Both Miller and Renfro pointed out that the new club is in no way connected to the athletic department's proposed athletic fee, which Renfro described as "essential" to K-State's budget being competitive with other Big Eight schools.

Renfro said the club's intention is not to return $20 of goods for the membership fee, but instead to offer incentives to all K-Staters particularly to younger students to become more excited about K-State athletics.

Everything is changing in the athletic department and if we can put everything together, especially with the younger guys, maybe we can make things change," Renfro

And if Renfro can get things to change before he leaves K-State, it will be his chance to participate in all those things he remembers so clearly from his youth.

Netters lose; rugby squad captures win

By The Collegian Staff

The women's tennis team saw its overall record fall to 6-7 as K-State dropped two-ofthree matches Saturday at Wichita State.

K-State dumped Tulsa 6-3 in the opening round, but lost 6-3 to fellow Big Eight Conference member Iowa State and 5-4 to host

K-State was blanked in doubles matches against Iowa State and Wichita State, but the teams of Valerie Rive-Kristy Line and Lena Svennson-Annika Emtell paired for doubles wins against Tulsa.

"The doubles killed us... If we can win four singles matches, there is no reason why we can't win at least one doubles match," K-State coach Steve Bietau said.

Svennson and Emtell paced the 'Cats with undefeated performances in singles play.

The K-State rugby team won a hard fought match Saturday when they played Johnson County in Topeka.

After taking a 10-9 halftime lead, Johnson County came out fighting, but the Wildcats were able to stave off their efforts and prevail 28-24. K-State's record moved to 7-4. The 'Cats

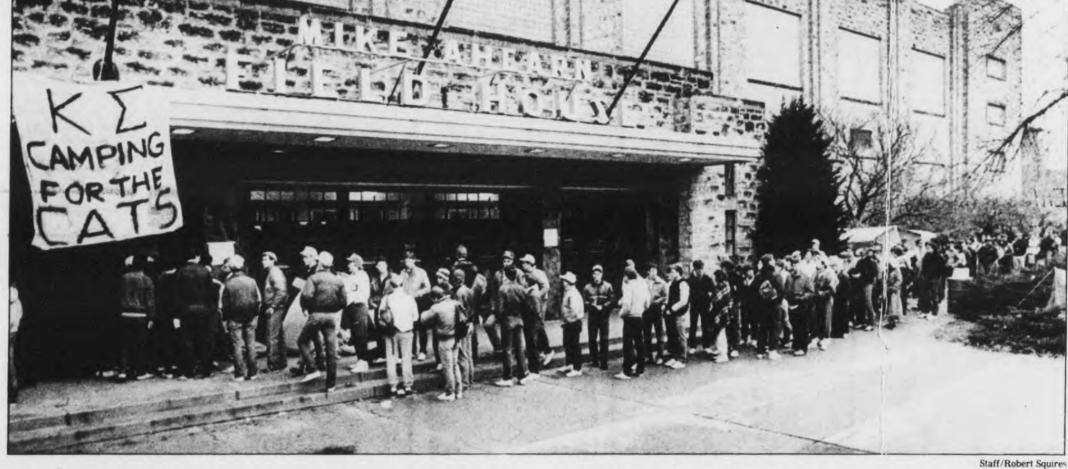

K-State's crew teams had to battle high winds and cold temperatures, but managed to complete "a most successful fall season" will next be in action this weekend when they travel to St. Joseph, Mo., to face Missouri with the annual Class Day Races and Captain's Banquet Saturday. "I am quite pleased with the progress of the crew. Last year at this time we had four teams out there, and now this year we have eight including the high school," Coach Don Rose said. Rough water on the lake forced an alteration in the format, but the races were held and the junior class prevailed in the men's division sprint with a 1:26. The seniors claimed second at 1:32 and the sophomores took third in 1:33.

In the women's division, the Manahattan High School team won with a 2:05, and K-State's novice entries recorded a 2:11 and a 2:14.

Students, many who have camped out for more than a week, wait in line for the athletic ticket office to open so they can buy 1986 men's basketball season tickets Monday morning at Ahearn Field House. More than half of the student season passes were sold by noon. Total sales reached 2,385 - 700 more than last year's first-day sales.

Season ticket sales end 7-day wait

By The Collegian Staff

The wait is over.

Student season tickets for the 1986 men's basketball campaign went on sale Monday morning, and initial sales totaled 2,385 - 700 more than last year's first-day figures, according to ticket manager Carol Adolph.

Approximately 60 people were in line when roll call was taken at 7 a.m. Monday - some eager fans had been camping by the east side of Ahearn Field House since Oct. 26 - and Adolph said the majority of the season passes were sold by noon.

"We started the line moving a little before 8 (a.m.) and we had most of those people gone by 11," Adolph said. She also said season ticket sales for the general public were running at about the same pace as last year.

"We've had some late applications coming in due to problems with the post office, but all in all it's going about the same as last year," Adolph said. "We expect a big push this week because payday was at the first of the month and that makes a big difference.'

Five thousand student season tickets were alloted for the 1986-87 campaign, and originally there was no limit established on the number of tickets an individual could purchase as long as a fee card was provided for each ticket bought.

But because of a potential problem with the number of tickets on living group was planning on purchasing, the basketball ticket sales committee initiated new regulations Friday.

The maximum amount of tickets that one student could buy was established at 40, and the committee also conducted "spot checks" at the campsite last weekend. All five representatives from a tent had to be present when checked or the person(s) were counted

Will Franken, a member of the ticket sales committee, said the process went smooth.

"I think a couple of people lost their place in line, but all in all I think everybody got what they wanted. Overall, (the committee) was pretty happy with the way things went," Franken said.

About 14 living groups pitched tents by the east side of Ahearn - reviving the once-lost tradition of K-State students camping out for basketball tickets.

In the past few years, a lottery system was used for ticket purchases, but with the return of former K-State basketball star Lon Kruger as riew K-State coach, the K-State student tradition had also returned.

Campers were greeted with a taste of winter weather this weekend, but were entertained Sunday afternoon with a free scrimmage by the players.

Season tickets, good for admission to 12 regular-seas on home games and two exhibition games cost $30 each, and are available in the Ahearn ticket office Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

The Wildcats scrimmage Thursday at Washburn University in Topeka, and host the U.S. Armed Forces team in a exhibition game Nov. 15 at Ahearn. On Nov. 22, K-State holds its annual purple-white scrimmage before entertaining the University of South Dakota in the season opener Nov. 29.

Tuesday IMPORT BEER NIGHT

Featuring Bottles of Mae's Favorite Beers from across the Seas

SHIPPING OVERSEAS?

Malaysia • Nigeria • Thailand Kenya • Iraq • Iran • Europe South America • Middle East To Over 100 countries Worldwide

SHOPPING FOR OVERSEAS?

Televisions, VCR's, Cameras, Stereos, Trunks and Luggage Major Appliances and Small Housewares 220 Volt 50 Cycle Our Biggest Sale Ever!

ABACO INTERNATIONAL SHIPPERS, INC. 1-800-621-4504

2020 N. Racine, Chicago, IL 60614

(call for details)

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

2-For-1 Thursdays

Bring in a friend and split the cost of a Design Cut on Thursdays with this coupon.

Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat 8-5

Expires 11-27-86

Commuter finds benefits outweigh difficulties

By CARLENE KAISER Collegian Reporter

As he sees the Manhattan interchange, Lee Coiner, 37-year-old senior in English education, realizes the 113-mile commute from Kansas City hasn't been so bad after all. He makes that trip three times a week as a long-clistance commuter student.

Coiner said he chose K.-State because of the excellent education program. Before he carne to K-State, he attended two years at the Junior College of Kansa:s City in 1968 and 1969 and one year at the University of Kansas in 1982. Last June, he started at K-State.

When he drives down I-70, Coiner thinks of many things: family, studies and what he will do v/hen he gets home. He said he believes the commuting is worth the effort and driving expense.

However, he said, it's irritating when classes are cancelled. He said he plans to commute this winter and stay in motels when the weather is bad.

Commuting for Coiner is nothing new, because he drove a semitractor trailer for Midwest/Sysma Foods before returning to school last June. He opted to attend K-State so that he could get through with his education sooner.

"I talked to the people at KU and they had changed their teaching program (from four years) to five years," Coiner said.

Also, Coiner said he was impressed with the campus and professors. He said the professors at K-State understanding demonstrated a willingness to work out solutions for his problems.

When he recently had eye surgery professors helped him make up the assignments he missed during the week. After the death of of his father instructors worked with him so that he didn't fall behind in his course work.

Coiner has a special interest in becoming an English teacher and coach, because his wife, Rita, is an English and French teacher at Harmon High School in Kansas City. Also, Coiner had teaching experience at his local church in Kan-

"If it wasn't for the support of my wife, I wouldn't be here today. She keeps me going when I feel all is no use and she wants me to accomplish my goals as much as I

Coiner not only has a wife to consider but four children: Brian, 12; Matt, 7; and 19-month-old twin daughters, Amanda and Ericka.

When he finally gets home after a day of classes, he goes to work on the docks unloading supplies for Midwest/Sysma Foods.

When he has free time at work, he studies his assignments and looks forward to the weekend when he can see his wife and kids.

"I don't regret the decision to come back to school. I know how important this education is to me and my future. So, rain, sleet or snow, I'll be here," he said.

Staff/Robert Squires

Lee Coiner, senior in English education, commutes three times a week from his home in Kansas City to attend classes at K-State. Coiner says he believes the 225-mile round trip is worth the effort, because of K-State's excellent education program.

Greeks opt to eat out, fund needy

By The Collegian Staff

Cooks at several greek organizations had the evening off Monday while living groups participated in a miss-a-meal project to raise money for the Flinthills Breadbasket.

"What we did was ask the greek organizations to forego a meal and donate the money from that meal to the Flinthills Breadbasket, an organization designed to help feed the needy in Riley County," said Mike Riley, senior in political science and member of the Order of Omega, a greek honorary that sponsored the event.

Twenty houses agreed to participate with most members not minding missing their evening meal.

"It really isn't too bad missing one meal when you consider that some people go for days without any food at all," said Mary McGroder, junior in physical education and member of Delta Delta Delta sorori-

By missing a meal each house saves an average of about $100 to donate to the Flinthills Breadbasket, Riley said. In one evening, with 20 houses participating about $2,000 can be raised for the hungry and needy in Riley County, he said.

An added incentive for participation was a 10 percent discount offered Monday evening by many of the area's eating establishments.

"This really is a good program because it is a very good fund-raiser for the Flinthills Breadbasket, and it is relatively easy to organize," Riley

HUNAM EXPRESS

Open 7 days a week Restaurant

17 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 5:39-8868 or 537-0886

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Pd. by Katha Hurt Campaign. Phil Becker, Treasurer

NIGHT ALL YOU CAN EAT

just $3.95 BBQ BEEF RIBS & FRIES BAKED BEANS

111 S. 4th, Downtown

1221 Moro • Aggieville Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (913) 537-7294

- SOFT-EXTENDED WEAR FOR SLEEPING
- · SOFT BIFOCAL
- OR DAMAGED LENSES PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE

Resume Service

Joyce's Hair Tamers Welcomes Back Dana

- where she was manager of Hair
- Dana has over 21/2 years of profes-
- Dana specializes in all phases of cosmetology

& New Customers

404 Humboldt 539-TAME

Drs. Price, Young and Odle, P.A. Optometrists All Types of Contact Lenses . SOFT-TINTED TO ENHANCE YOUR EYE COLOR sional experience . SOFT FOR ASTIGMATISM • FREE CONSULTATION Dana Welcomes Old 537-1118 Joyce's Hair Tamers 1119 WEST LOOP PLAZA

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores PERFORMANCE OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Old Textbook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study ·Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

9-9 Mon.-Sat.

12-5 Sun.

By The Collegian Staff

Southern Bakers Association has awarded the Kansas State Department of Grain Science and Industry $300,000 in scholarship funds for undergraduate students majoring in bakery science and management.

Charles W. Deyoe, head of the Department of Grain Science and Industry, said the scholarship was an indication that Southern Bakers wanted to take an active part in helping prepare and train personnel to meet the challenges of the Southern Bakers, he said, is looking for people with a good background and a strong interest in grain science. The association, with headquarters located in Atlanta, established a program at Florida State University but discontinued it in 1960. The program was then transferred to K-State, and in 1963 the bakery science and management program was established.

"K-State was chosen because they had similar programs in milling and food science," Deyoe said. The $300,000 is to be divided into four funds, each named after individuals who have made major contributions to bakery education.

The C.S. Broeman, Ronald P. Cooper, W.E. Long and L.A. Rumsey funds will each be used to provide an annual $4,000 scholarship to a student in bakery science from the states represented by Southern Bakers. The states included are Louisiana, Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Deyoe said the scholarship funds are deposited in a principal account and the interest generated will be used toward the scholarship. This will continue to provide new scholarships each year.

"The scholarship is a continuous, yearly program," he said. "It is permanently endowed."

Students eligible for the scholarships will not be chosen until next

"We're extremely pleased and are looking forward to working with Southern Bakers Association and accomplishing the goals they established for scholarships," Deyoe said.

Nurses shortage, recruitment focus of daylong conference

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

Representatives from five colleges in Kansas will be on campus today for K-State Nurses Day to talk about the current shortage of nurses and to introduce students to their pro-

Scheduled to attend the event are nursing faculty from Marymount College, Wichita State University, Washburn University, University of Kansas and Fort Hays State Univer-

The day's agenda features a discussion of the role of and the future of nurses followed by short presentations by each of the schools. The event will take place in beginnwith representatives from different schools and to examine the different programs offered by each.

Beyond this, however, Samelson said she has an even broader goal in mind this year - to acquaint more students with the nursing field in general. She said there is currently a shortage of nurses, both regionally and nationally. In Kansas, she said, these shortages are most visible in Manhattan, Kansas City and Topeka.

"We are watching the trends very closely," Samelson said, "but we are anticipating at the rate at which students are graduating that by 1990 there will be a real shortage.'

Enrollment in the pre-nursing program at K-State is down, but it is give students the opportunity to visit has scheduled a Nurse's Day as such. In the past, Samelson said, representives have come to K-State individually. Because of the shortage, however, the schools agreed that it would prove much more beneficial to come together, she said.

> Samelson said the emphasis of Nurse's Day will be on the four-year, bachelor of science nursing degree. The BSN level, she said, is where the real shortage exists. Samelson said there are many entry levels into nursing now. Layoffs the public hears about are of the Licensed Practical Nurses. LPNs, she said, are oneyear, trade-school educated nurses.

"Where the need will be is for people who can take greater responhility in the nursing profession and

Denver Symphony to give concert featuring noted pianist at McCain

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

The Denver Symphony continues its 53rd season with a performance in McCain Auditorium tonight. The symphony will perform Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat minor, Opus 23," Weber's overture to "Der Freischutz," and Hindemith's "Mathis der Mal.

The Denver Symphony is one of 34 major symphony orchestras, and has more than 80 members.

The symphony also features a conductor in his seventh season with them. James Setapen joined the symphony as an Exxon/Arts endowment conductor. He was educated at the Eastman School of Music and the Cleveland Institute of Music. He also studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria and in Sienna, Italy with the renowned conducting teacher Franco Ferrara. He was the unanimous first prize winner of the Oakland Symphony's American Conductor's Competition in 1978. He has been Music Director of the Alabama Chamber Orchestra and the Principal Conductor of the Cleveland Opera Theatre.

The symphony usually features

guests artists when it performs and tonight Andre-Michel Schub, pianist, will perform. Schub began piano studies at age 4 and was the first prize winner of the 1974 Naumburg International Piano Competition. Schub is also a recipient of the Avery Fisher Recital Award and in 1981 received the grand prize in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Schub has appeared with the major orchestras throughout the United States, Europe and the Orient.

The Denver Symphony had its first performance in November of 1934 at the Broadway Theatre in Denver. At this time the city was growing rapidly, as was the interest and support for music. The symphony continued to perform on grants from the city and county and free use of Auditorium Theatre. Almost 15 years after its origination, the symphony named its first full-time business manager, Helen Black, one of the first women managers in the country. Through the next 20 years the symphony expanded its members and started touring many midwestern states.

Brian Priestman became music director of the symphony in 1970, and held the position until the end of the 1977-78 season. During Priestman's tenure, the symphony released its first recording, featuring worldrenowned soprano Phyllis Curtin and pianist Nerine Barret. The symphony also made its debut appearances in 1974 at Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center for the Perfoming Arts in Washington, D.C.

The 1982-83 season marked the debut of the Denver Symphony concerts on television and as part of its 50th anniversary celebration a concert was broadcast live across the nation simulcast with a radio broad-

Last season, the symphony produced another recording, "The Denver Symphony Orchestra - Live at Boettcher." It also initiated the Rocky Mountain Music Festival, a week of concerts attended by more than 65,000 people.

The Denver Symphony performance is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal

Tickets for the symphony are on sale in McCain Box Office.

Classifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Now selling $2 SESSIONS and using Wolff Bulbs

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately availab Good commissions, valuable work experience tra-vel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free).

BABYSITTER WANTED: Special person to care for our one-year-old son Monday and Wednesday mornings at our house while mom teaches preschool on premises. Call 532-6839 Tuesday or Thursday mornings. (51-52)

ASSISTANT TO the Dean, Graduate School-Responsibilities include interpreting Graduate School regulations to the faculty, reviewing programs of study, evaluation of applications for admission, supervision of office staff, and assisting

Dean and Associate Dean Candidates mus at least a master's degree, an understanding gher education, ability to communicate with uate faculty, experience in a research oriented ersity Salary $25,000 range Kansas State ersity is a land-grant institution of about 00 students and 3.500 graduate students, lo-d in Manhattan Kansas Sendresume to John Johan, Associate Dean, Graduate School, Fair d 102 Manhattan, Kansas, 66506 by November 1986. Kansas State University is an equal op unity employer (51-52)

Y IS lost Russ is a large orange-stripe rris" type neutered male cat, no collar or white kings. Russ is shy, eats tomatoes. Russ is on a ase help Reward 539 4033 539 5891 or 539 2 anytime (50-52)

DF GM car keys. Union Recreation Center. Sun y between 6 and 8 p m. Phone 776-2333 (51-53)

RSONAL

HDAY GIRL Lort - Today even though I've got as to do. I just wanted to tell you l'il be thinking you! Happy Birthday! Hove you! Love your sis-

HA CHIs who partied in Emporia on Halloween

EGEEK-I had a great time a really great time his weekend, thanks Get excited for Friday night will be full of surprises! Maybe some all-star restling! Love, another geek (51)

I-O SOPHS: After five hours. Motel 6 was in sight nen came trick-or-treating to frats all thru th ight. The Theta XI haunted house was scary oo! Game day was so cold, we wished for the flue Lou. Here's to the girls who's plans had a leak flaybe next year, we'll have a real sheak (51) ETA SHAY-Well start out downtown Do y rave the bail money? If it goes well, we shall convicate, honey. If it goes poorly, well, mom, the naybe, for your 21st birthday, you'll have a convicted baby! Theta love, Susan (51)

LT CHRIS Just a note to thank you for the super date. I had lots of fun and the party was first rate Charlie's was a blast and quarters' was a ball, I ill never forget the fun with you, Jim, Kim, and my coat most of all! This formal is one! Il never forget Thanks for a great time! KKG Meg (51)

CKY THE Rat. Welcome back to KSU! When do we snuggle and eat nachos and cheese? Curious Cat

JTNAM/GOODNOW what a team. Homecoming this year was such a scream. We had more spirit than the rest Goodnow/Putnam is the hast Thanks and congratulations on a job well done

EAM SIGMA and coaches (John and Greg)-You came from the bottom to be #11 Your coaches thought it could never be done but all of you worked hard and won every one. I stood on the sideline and gave a cheer congratulations supe Sigmas-now go have a beer! Love you all Macher (51)

KAK ANDY-Did you happen to see the sunrise Sunday? Bet you had a blast, even got a gift! What are you going to do to our world? See ya! The Breakfast Club (51)

CHI-O PLEDGES - Sneaking was fun and we want to say thanks! You guys are awesome Love Erin Jane. Gretchen. Ashlyn. Amy. Sherye PS You may know us too well but remember we have the last

ROOMMATE WANTED

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom apartment close to campus Call Carla, 539-4301 evenings. (47-56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Very clean, nice, furnished apartment, own room, $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181

ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture for horse, cow. dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs fur nished, 776-1205 evenings, (50-59)

ONE-TWO female roommates wanted for spring semester. Apartment complex is very nice and two blocks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call Diane, 776-4965. (51-54)

FEMALE: SHARE five bedroom house, five month lease for second semester. Call 776-2103 after 5 p.m. (51-53)

FEMALE. SHARE four bedroom house. Close to campus, own room, washer, dryer, Call Janell, 539-

ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apart-

18 SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25. (111) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (43tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profesionally written and printed. Call 539-5007 (9tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence 913-841-5716 (3911)

WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura, 532-2362 (131), leave message TYPING-EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates.

Winter Intersession

INTERSESSION—WINTER AT KSU

The two weeks between Fall and Spring Semester are a special time at KSU-parking is easy, and life on campus is extremely pleasant. Intersession is an excellent way to take courses-it allows the student to pursue one course intensively, without interruptions and demands of other coursework or other campus activities. Classes generally meet for about three hours a day. Over 600 students will be enrolling in undergraduate or graduate classes, making their holiday season a festival of learning and sharing.

It's a productive way to conquer the after-

Christmas blahs Winter '87 Intersession offers 37 credit courses-mostly 1 or 2 credits each-from a wide variety of departments and colleges within KSU. Tuition and registration procedures are explained in this schedule. If this publication doesn't answer all your questions, please call the Division of Continuing Education at 532-5566 (toll-free in Kansas, 1-800-432-8222). Questions about specific course content or requirements should be addressed directly to the instructors.

REGISTRATION

Intersession is open to KSU students and to the public. Prior enrollment at KSU is not necessary and registration is a simple one-step process.

Intersession registration will take place in the BASEMENT OF FARRELL LIBRARY; registration dates are December 8-10 and the registration staff will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. those three days. Additional registration will be accepted from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday at 317 Umberger Hall from December 11 through the first day of class. Tuition is due at the time of enrollment. (Some lab and materials fees are also due at this time. See schedule.) The decision as to which courses will "go" will be based on the number of registrations recorded by 4:00 p.m. on December 10. The go/drop list will be posted near the Information Desk in the K-State Union on Monday, December 15; go/drop information will also be available from the Continuing Education Registration office (317 Umberger Hall, 532-5566).

Students unable to enroll in person December 8-10 may phone or mail in their registration. These registrations will be processed (in the order in which they were received) ONLY if spaces remain in the class as of 4:00 p.m. on December 8. Students may request a friend to enroll for them to maximize their chances of getting into their first-choice class.

Students are asked to check with their advisors to ensure that the Intersession class will meet degree requirements.

BE PROMPT!!

Although registrations in most "go" classes will be accepted until the first day of Intersession, students are encouraged to register during the December 8-10 registration period at Farrell Library. The "go/drop" decision is based on enrollments collected during that period. Delays in student registration will result in courses being cancelled; students interested in Intersession classes should register early to be sure their preferred classes have a good chance of going as

LATE ENROLLMENTS

A $10 late fee will be charged for enrollments after the second class meeting ends, but before one-third of the class meetings have clapsed. A late fee of $25 will be charged for late enrollments after one-third of the class meetings have elapsed but before two-thirds of the class meetings have elapsed. NO ENROLLMENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER TWO-THIRDS OF THE CLASS MEETINGS HAVE ELAPSED.

COSTS

Tuition is $42 per undergraduate (UG) credit hour and $60 per graduate (G) credit hour and is due at the time of enrollment; tuition is the same for Kansas residents and for non-residents. Some classes will require lab fees, materials fees, or other costs, and these are indicated in the course listing. The lab and materials fees will be collected at registration. Lab fees collected by Continuing Education are non-refundable after the go/drop decision has been posted (December 15). except for courses which have been cancelled. Travel arrangements, for courses requiring them, must be made with the instructors as early as possible

CREDIT

The maximum credit allowed is three (3) hours per student. Anyone wishing to enroll in more than three credit hours must have written approval from his or her academic dean at the time of registration. STUDENTS WISHING TO SIGN UP FOR COURSES ON AN A-PASS-FAIL BASIS MUST DO SO AT THE TIME OF REGISTRATION, OR BEFORE ONE-THIRD OF THE CLASS MEETINGS HAVE

January 2-13, 1987

December 8-10, 1986

Farrell Library Basement

kegistration:

AUDIT

Intersession courses may not be audited; all students attending class must pay tuition.

GRADES

Intersession grades will be averaged into the student's KSU G.P.A. Grades will be mailed to students beginning February 2, 1987.

CANCELLED CLASSES

No individual notification about cancelled classes will be made. The "go/drop" notice will be posted in the K-State Union near the Information Desk on December 15. Students may also phone 532-5566 after that date to inquire. Students who enrolled in a cancelled class have the option of registering in another class or obtaining a full refund. Students must report to 317 Umberger Hall to officially DROP or ADD.

REFUNDS

CONTROL OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

All refunds must be made in person or in writing to the Division Registrar, 317 Umberger Hall. A 100% refund will be issued if the request is received before the second class begins, or if the class is cancelled. A 50% refund will be issued if received after the second class begins, but before one-third of the classes have ended. NO refunds will be issued after one-third of the class meetings have ended. Lab or materials fees collected at registration are non-refundable except those for cancelled classes.

HOUSING

BOOKS

Overnight housing on campus is available to Intersession students at a very reasonable rate. Rooms in a K-State residence hall are available at $11 nightly for single rooms, and $9 for doubles. Intersession students interested in arranging to stay in the residence hall should contact Phil Schlee, KSU Housing Office, Pittman Building, 913-532-6453, to request room reservation forms. Advanced reservation is recommended.

SPECIAL REFUND

WITH LIMITED

ENROLLMENTS

no refund for drops after that.

course description in this listing.

CONDITION ON CLASSES

Students enrolling in classes with an

Students dropping these classes will be eligible decision and the second day of class. After the second class meeting, the refund policy is the same as for other courses: 50% refund before one-third of the class meetings have elapsed, and Textbooks (required or recommended) have been ordered for some classes and will be available at Varney's Bookstore at the start of available from the instructor or from Varney's.

Classes for which textbooks have been ordered are indicated with the letters TB at the end of the Intersession. Information about textbooks is be eligible for full refunds after that date.

only for a 75% refund between the go/drop enrollment limit of 20 or fewer which have closed by the time the go/drop decision is posted will not

QUESTIONS?

Contact the Division of Continuing Education. 317 Umberger Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506, or phone 532-5566, or toll-free in Kansas, 1-800-432-8222. For more information call 532-5566 (317 Umberger Hall

Division of Continuing Education

By The Collegian Staff

Southern Bakers Association has awarded the Kansas State Department of Grain Science and Industry $300,000 in scholarship funds for undergraduate students majoring in bakery science and management.

Charles W. Deyoe, head of the Department of Grain Science and Industry, said the scholarship was an indication that Southern Bakers wanted to take an active part in helping prepare and train personnel to meet the challenges of the future.

Southern Bakers, he said, is looking for people with a good background and a strong interest in grain science.

The association, with headquarters located in Atlanta, established a program at Florida State University but discontinued it in 1960. The program was then transferred to K-State, and in 1963 the bakery science and management program was established.

"K-State was chosen because they had similar programs in milling and food science," Deyoe said. The $300,000 is to be divided into four funds, each named after individuals who have made major contributions to bakery education. The C.S. Broeman, Ronald P.

Cooper, W.E. Long and L.A. Rumsey funds will each be used to provide an annual $4,000 scholarship to a student in bakery science from the states represented by Southern Bakers. The states included are Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Deyoe said the scholarship funds are deposited in a principal account and the interest generated will be used toward the scholarship. This will continue to provide new scholarships each year.

"The scholarship is a continuous, yearly program," he said. "It is permanently endowed."

Students eligible for the scholarships will not be chosen until next

"We're extremely pleased and are looking forward to working with Southern Bakers Association and accomplishing the goals they for established scholarships," Deyoe said.

Nurses shortage, recruitment focus of daylong conference

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

Representatives from five colleges in Kansas will be on campus today for K-State Nurses Day to talk about the current shortage of nurses and to introduce students to their programs.

Scheduled to attend the event are nursing faculty from Marymount College, Wichita State University, Washburn University, University of Kansas and Fort Hays State Univer-

The day's agenda features a discussion of the role of and the future of nurses followed by short with representatives from different schools and to examine the different programs offered by each.

Beyond this, however, Samelson said she has an even broader goal in mind this year - to acquaint more students with the nursing field in general. She said there is currently a shortage of nurses, both regionally and nationally. In Kansas, she said, these shortages are most visible in Manhattan, Kansas City and Topeka.

"We are watching the trends very closely," Samelson said, "but we are anticipating at the rate at which students are graduating that by 1990 there will be a real shortage

give students the opportunity to visit has scheduled a Nurse's Day as such. In the past, Samelson said, representives have come to K-State individually. Because of the shortage, however, the schools agreed that it would prove much more beneficial to come together, she said.

> Samelson said the emphasis of Nurse's Day will be on the four-year, bachelor of science nursing degree. The BSN level, she said, is where the real shortage exists. Samelson said there are many entry levels into nursing now. Layoffs the public hears about are of the Licensed Practical Nurses. LPNs, she said, are oneyear, trade-school educated nurses.

Denver Symphony to give concert featuring noted pianist at McCain

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

The Denver Symphony continues its 53rd season with a performance in McCain Auditorium tonight. The symphony will perform Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat minor, Opus 23," Weber's overture to "Der Freischutz," and Hindemith's "Mathis der Mal."

The Denver Symphony is one of 34 major symphony orchestras, and has more than 80 members

The symphony also features a conductor in his seventh season with them. James Setapen joined the symphony as an Exxon/Arts endowment conductor. He was educated at the Eastman School of Music and the Cleveland Institute of Music. He also studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria and in Sienna, Italy with the renowned conducting teacher Franco Ferrara. He was the unanimous first prize winner of the Oakland Symphony's American Conductor's Competition in 1978. He has been Music Director of the Alabama Chamber Orchestra and the Principal Conductor of the Cleveland Opera Theatre.

The symphony usually features

guests artists when it performs and tonight Andre-Michel Schub, pianist, will perform. Schub began piano studies at age 4 and was the first prize winner of the 1974 Naumburg International Piano Competition. Schub is also a recipient of the Avery Fisher Recital Award and in 1981 received the grand prize in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Schub has appeared with the major orchestras throughout the United States, Europe and the

The Denver Symphony had its first performance in November of 1934 at the Broadway Theatre in Denver. At this time the city was growing rapidly, as was the interest and support for music. The symphony continued to perform on grants from the city and county and free use of Auditorium Theatre. Almost 15 years after its origination, the symphony named its first full-time business manager, Helen Black, one of the first women managers in the country. Through the next 20 years the symphony expanded its members and started touring many midwestern states.

Brian Priestman became music director of the symphony in 1970, and held the position until the end of the 1977-78 season. During Priestman's tenure, the symphony released its first recording, featuring worldrenowned soprano Phyllis Curtin and pianist Nerine Barret. The symphony also made its debut appearances in 1974 at Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center for the Perfoming Arts in Washington, D.C.

The 1982-83 season marked the debut of the Denver Symphony concerts on television and as part of its 50th anniversary celebration a concert was broadcast live across the nation simulcast with a radio broad-

Last season, the symphony produced another recording, "The Denver Symphony Orchestra - Live at Boettcher." It also initiated the Rocky Mountain Music Festival, a week of concerts attended by more than 65,000 people.

The Denver Symphony performance is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federai agency

Tickets for the symphony are on sale in McCain Box Office.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive dave: 15 words or

Now selling $2 SESSIONS and using

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available Good commissions, valuable work experience, tra vel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free). 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information mai

BABYSITTER WANTED: Special person to care for our one-year-old son Monday and Wednesday mornings at our house while mom teaches preschool on premises. Call 532-6839 Tuesday or "hursday mornings. (51-52)

ISTANT TO the Dean. Graduate Schoolesponsibilities include interpreting Graduate thool regulations to the faculty reviewing proams of study, evaluation of applications for ad ission, supervision of office staff, and assisting e Dean and Associate Dean Candidates musi we at least a master's degree, an understanding gher education, ability to communicate with uate faculty, experience in a research orienter ersity Salary $25,000 range Kansas State rersity is a land-grant institution of about 00 students and 3.500 graduate students, lo d in Manhattan Kansas Send resume to Joh ponan, Associate Dean, Graduate School, Fair d 102, Manhattan, Kansas, 66506 by Novembe 1986. Kansas State University is an equal op-tunity employer (51-52)

Y IS lost Russ is a large orange-stripe rkings Russis shy eats tomatoes. Russis on a icial diet and could become very ill without it ase help. Reward 539-4033, 539-5891 or 539

OF GM carkeys, Union Recreation Center, Sur y between 6 and 8 p.m. Phone 776-2333, (51-53

RSONAL

'HDAY GIRL Lon-Today, even though I've got is to do. I just wanted to tell you I'll be thinking you! Happy Birthday! Hove you! Love your sis-

4A CHIs who partied in Emporia on Halloween GEEK—I had a great time a really great time s weekend, thanks. Get excited for Friday might will be full of surprises! Maybe some all-star estling! Love, another geek. (51)) SOPHS: After five hours. Motel 6 was in signt n came trick-or-treating to frats all thru the ht. The Theta Xi haunted house was scary of Game day was so cold, we wished for the e Lou. Here's to the girls who's plans had a least ybe next year, we'll have a real sneak (51) A SHAY-Well start out downtown Do y e the bail money? If it goes well, we shall be te, honey. If it goes poorly well mom, the ybe, for your 21st birthday you'll have a --ted baby! Theta love. Susan (51

CHRIS: Just a note to thank you for the supere. I had lots of fun and the party was first rate arlie's was a blast and quarters" was a ball. I li er forget the fun with you Jim Kim and my t most of all! This formal is one I'll never forget inks for a great time! KKG Meg. (51)

Y THE Rat. Welcome back to KSU! When do we ggle and eat nachos and cheese? Curious Cat

AM/GOODNOW what a team, Homecoming year was such a scream. We had more spirit the rest. Goodnow Putnam is the test nks and congratulations on a job well done

I SIGMA and coaches (John and Greg)-You he from the bottom to be #1! Your coaches ught it could never be done but all of you ked hard and won every one I stood on the iline and gave a cheer congratulations super mas-now go have a beer! Love you all, Ma-

ANDY-Did you happen to see the sunrise day? Bet you had a blast, even got a gift! What you going to do to our world? See ya! The akfast Club. (51)

PLEDGES - Sneaking was fun and we want to thanks! You guys are awesome Love Erin. e. Gretchen, Ashlyn, Amy, Sherye PS, You may w us too well, but remember, we have the last

DATAMME WANTED

IMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom tment close to campus. Call Carla. 539-4301 LE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester clean, nice, furnished apartme I/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181

ION-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science or to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture orse, cow. dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs fur ed. 776-1205 evenings. (50-59)

TWO female roommates wanted for spring seter. Apartment complex is very nice and two ks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call ie, 776-4965. (51-54)

LE: SHARE five bedroom house, five month e for second semester Call 776-2103 after 5 (51-53)

LE. SHARE four bedroom house. Close to pus, own room, washer, dryer, Call Janell, 539-

MATE WANTED to share two bedroom apart-t close to campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-5895.

IVICES VANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-y test. Confidential. Call 537-9180 103 S.

th St., Suite 25. (1tf) KAY Cosmetics—Anna Prockish. 931 Hum-t, 537-4246. (43tf) IES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-lly written and printed. Call 539-5007 (9tf) T ABORTION and contraceptive services in ince 913-841-5716 (39tf) PROCESSING. letter quality. editing. reasonates. Laura. 532-2362 (131). leave message

-EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates. papers. letters. etc. Call 776-0738 (50-54)

AGRICULTURE

Ref. No. 94100 AGRON 615 Soil Problems: Dryland Farming (2 UG/G) Prof. Floyd Smith. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-Noon.

Throckmorton Hall. Room 117. Information pertaining to development and significance of dryland farming in the United States will be provided. Topics pertaining to climate, moisture control, and conservation will be emphasized. Means of coping with current agricultural problems will be featured. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94102 GRSC 790 Grain Science Problems: Baking Industry: The Management Challenge (1 UG/G) Prof. J.G. Ponte, Jr. January 7-January 9, 1987. Wednesday-Friday from 8:30 a.m. 4:30 p.m. Shellenberger Hall, Room 311.

The Management Challenge is a computeroriented management exercise designed to enhance management skills. The techniques utilized are applicable to all businesses, but examples shown are drawn from the baking industry. The decision and planning process is a "hands on", highly competitive experience that will provide a keen insight into how a modern corporation functions. The participants are divided into five competing corporations and are required to make many decisions on all company aspects: sales, production, finance, profitability, and growth. The computer accepts their decisions and provides feedback in the form of company statements, thus, measuring the effects of the decisions. In between decision-making events, lectures are given on various aspects of corporate management. No computer experience is necessary to participate in this course. All materials for the course are provided. Co-instructor will be Mr. Robert McGrath. Vice President-Administration, Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Greenwich, Connecticut.

Pre-req: some college education Fees: $42 UG/$60 G

Ref. No. 94103

PLPTH 920 Topics in Plant Pathology: Fungal Physiology (1 Prof. John Leslie. January 5-January 13, 1987.

Monday-Friday from 7:00-9:15 p.m. Throckmorton Hall, Room 116. A brief survey of fungal nutrition and physiology. Topics to be covered include: the control of acquisition and of metabolism of car bon, nitrogen, vitamins and inorganic nutrients conditions associated with dormancy, growth, and reproduction of spores and mycelia; and the diverse products of and controls on secondary metabolites. TB

Pre-req: General Biochemistry or Principles of Horticultural Plant Physiology: General Genetics. Organic Chemistry. Recommended: Mycology Fees: $60 G

ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

Ref. No. 94104

ENVD 299 Problems in Basic Design (2 UG) Prof. Robert Bullock. January 3-January 12,

1987. Monday-Saturday from 8:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. Seaton Court, Rooms 106A, 107, and 107A. Studio rendering experience emphasizing rapid visualization of form, space, light, texture, and materials with felt tip markers, mixed media. and watercolors. Materials lists are available and a tentative sign-up sheet will be posted on Prof. Bullock's office door, 105C Seaton Court. Limit: 25

Pre-req: Minimum of one graphics, art, design, or drafting course Fees: $84 UG; plus $10 Xeroxing and lab fees to be collected at registration

Ref. No. 94105 ENVD 699 Problems in Environmental Design: Architecture and Planning of Greece (3 UG/G) Prof. Eleftherios Pavlides. December 26, 1986-January 12, 1987. Sunday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon (time varied). The Architecture and Planning of Greece will be examined through studying Classical, Roman, and Byzantine sites and monuments and through visits to vernacular villages. Architects currently working in Athens will present their work. Professors in architecture from the University of Athens will address the issue of designing in such a visually and culturally rich context. Limit: 15

Pre-reg: None Fees: $126 UG/$180 G: plus $950 for airfare and hotel to be collected by the instructor by

Ref. No. 94106 LAR 741 Problems in Landscape Architecture: Golf Course Design (2 UG/G)

Prof. William Winslow. January 2-January 13. 1987. Sunday-Saturday from 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. Seaton Hall, Room 317. An introduction to the theory and practice of golf course design. Lecture will cover the history and theory of golf course development, modern design approaches, and construction considerations. Practical application will be made by the student through the planning and design of a golf course site, and the subsequent production of working drawings for their design. Students are encouraged to talk with the instructor before January concerning equipment and supplies. Students may work individually or in small groups of 2-3 persons, with a number of project development options available. Interested students should see the instructor in Seaton Hall 311 regarding books that are available on subject for an order to be placed December 9, 1986. Limit: 20

Pre-req: Junior in College of Architecture and Design or permission of instructor Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94107 LAR 741 Problems in Landscape Architecture: Advanced Golf Course Design (2 UG/G)

Prof. William Winslow. January 2-January 13, 1987. Sunday-Saturday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Seaton Hall, Room 251 and 317. A continuation of LAR 741: Problems in Landscape Architecture: Golf Course Design, emphasizing golf course detail and feature design. This class will be primarily a research/seminar format investigating the various aspects of golf course planning and design, construction, maintenance, and management. Limit: 30

Pre-req: LAR 741: Golf Course Design or permission of instructor Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94108 PLAN 590 Problems in Planning: Water Resource Planning (1 UG/G) Prof. Nels Leutwiler. January 5-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton

Hall, Room 252. Water Resource Planning will examine the current controversies over water supply and water quality. Water law, water conservation, pollution control, wetlands protection, and coastal zone management are among the issues that will be

Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $42 UG/$60 G discussed.

Ref. No. 94109 PLAN 780 Planning in Developing Areas (3 UG/G) Prof. Mark Lapping. January 2-January 15, 1987. Monday-Friday from 3:00-6:00 p.m. Seaton Hall,

Examination of comparative regional and community systems of development, consideration of alternative approaches to planning, with emphasis on developing countries and underdeveloped areas in the rural United States.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: Introduction to Planning or equivalent Fees: $126 UG/$180 G; plus $7 Xerox fee to be collected at registration PLAN 815 Seminar in Planning: Water Resource Planning Prof. Nels Leutwiler. January 5-January 9, 1987.

Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Seaton Hall, Room 252. Water Resource Planning will examine the current controversies over water supply and water quality. Water law, water conservation, pollution control, wetlands protection, and coastal zone management are among the issues that will be discussed. Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $60 G

ARTS AND SCIENCES

ton Hall, Room 117.

Ref. No. 94111 ANTH 522 Special Topics in Anthropology: The Ecology of Human Health (1 UG) Instr. Jana Hesser. January 5-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 6:45-8:55 p.m., Throckmor-

The Ecology of Human Health will present an ecological model for the study of human health. The model will be applied in several case studies which contrast some of the health issues of developed nations with those of third world populations (e.g. chronic and degenerative diseases; malnutrition and infectious diseases). and which clearly demonstrate the interrelationship of environmental, biological, and behavioral parameters which define patterns of health and disease in human populations. TB. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: None Fees: $42 UG; plus $2.00 film rental fee to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94112 CMPSC 110 Introduction to Personal Computing (3 UG)

Instructors Subbarao Venkatesh and Sheela Ramanna. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-11:30 a.m. and 1:00-3:00 p.m. Fairchild Hall, Room 208. Introduction to the use of computers including history, programming, and problem solving; ap-text processing, spreadsheets, and data base. Pre-req: College Algebra Fees: $126 UG; plus $25 Xeroxing and diskette fee to be paid at registration plications to various software packages such as

By The Collegian Staff

Southern Bakers Association has awarded the Kansas State Department of Grain Science and Industry $300,000 in scholarship funds for undergraduate students majoring in bakery science and management.

Charles W. Deyoe, head of the Department of Grain Science and Industry, said the scholarship was an indication that Southern Bakers wanted to take an active part in helping prepare and train personnel to meet the challenges of the future.

Southern Bakers, he said, is looking for people with a good background and a strong interest in grain science.

The association, with headquarters located in Atlanta, established a program at Florida State University but discontinued it in 1960. The program was then transferred to K-State, and in 1963 the bakery science and management program was established.

"K-State was chosen because they had similar programs in milling and food science," Deyoe said. The $300,000 is to be divided into four funds, each named after individuals who have made major contributions to bakery education.

The C.S. Broeman, Ronald P. Cooper, W.E. Long and L.A. Rumsey funds will each be used to provide an annual $4,000 scholarship to a student in bakery science from the states represented by Southern Bakers. The states included are Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia are deposited in a principal account and the interest generated will be used toward the scholarship. This will continue to provide new scholarships each year.

"The scholarship is a continuous, yearly program," he said. "It is permanently endowed."

Students eligible for the scholarships will not be chosen until next fall

"We're extremely pleased and are looking forward to working with Southern Bakers Association and accomplishing the goals they established for scholarships," Deyoe said.

Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky. Deyoe said the scholarship funds

The Denver Symphony continues its 53rd season with a performance in McCain Auditorium tonight. The symphony will perform Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat minor, Opus 23," Weber's overture to

By LAURA HACKLEY

Collegian Reporter

"Der Freischutz," and Hindemith's "Mathis der Mal." The Denver Symphony is one of 34 major symphony orchestras, and has more than 80 members. The symphony also features a conductor in his seventh season with them. James Setapen joined the symphony as an Exxon/Arts endowment conductor. He was educated at the Eastman School of Music and the Cleveland Institute of Music. He also studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria and in Sienna, Itawith the renowned conducting teacher Franco Ferrara. He was the unanimous first prize winner of the Oakland Symphony's American Conductor's Competition in 1978. He has been Music Director of the Alabama Chamber Orchestra and the Principal Conductor of the Cleveland Opera Theatre.

The symphony usually features

guests artists when it performs and tonight Andre-Michel Schub, pianist, will perform. Schub began piano studies at age 4 and was the first prize winner of the 1974 Naumburg International Piano Competition. Schub is also a recipient of the Avery Fisher Recital Award and in 1981 received the grand prize in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Schub has appeared with the major orchestras throughout the United States, Europe and the Orient.

Denver Symphony to give concert

The Denver Symphony had its first performance in November of 1934 at the Broadway Theatre in Denver. At this time the city was growing rapidly, as was the interest and support for music. The symphony continued to perform on grants from the city and county and free use of Auditorium Theatre. Almost 15 years after its origination, the symphony named its first full-time business manager, Helen Black, one of the first women managers in the country. Through the next 20 years the symphony expanded its members and started touring many midwestern states.

Brian Priestman became music director of the symphony in 1970, and featuring noted pianist at McCain held the position until the end of the 1977-78 season. During Priestman's tenure, the symphony released its first recording, featuring worldrenowned soprano Phyllis Curtin and pianist Nerine Barret. The symphony also made its debut appearances in 1974 at Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center for the Perfoming Arts in Washington, D.C.

The 1982-83 season marked the debut of the Denver Symphony concerts on television and as part of its 50th anniversary celebration a concert was broadcast live across the nation simulcast with a radio broad-

Last season, the symphony produced another recording, "The Denver Symphony Orchestra — Live at Boettcher." It also initiated the Rocky Mountain Music Festival, a week of concerts attended by more than 65,000 people.

The Denver Symphony performance is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal

Tickets for the symphony are on sale in McCain Box Office.

Nurses shortage, recruitment focus of daylong conference

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

Representatives from five colleges in Kansas will be on campus today for K-State Nurses Day to talk about the current shortage of nurses and to introduce students to their pro-

Scheduled to attend the event are nursing faculty from Marymount College, Wichita State University, Washburn University, University of Kansas and Fort Hays State University.

The day's agenda features a discussion of the role of and the future of nurses followed by short presentations by each of the schools. The event will take place in beginn-

with representatives from different schools and to examine the different programs offered by each.

Beyond this, however, Samelson said she has an even broader goal in mind this year - to acquaint more students with the nursing field in general. She said there is currently a shortage of nurses, both regionally and nationally. In Kansas, she said, these shortages are most visible in Manhattan, Kansas City and Topeka.

"We are watching the trends very closely," Samelson said, "but we are anticipating at the rate at which students are graduating that by 1990 there will be a real shortage.'

Enrollment in the pre-nursing program at K-State is down, but it is where else too. Samelson give students the opportunity to visit has scheduled a Nurse's Day as such. In the past, Samelson said, representives have come to K-State individually. Because of the shortage, however, the schools agreed that it would prove much more beneficial to come together, she said.

> Samelson said the emphasis of Nurse's Day will be on the four-year, bachelor of science nursing degree. The BSN level, she said, is where the real shortage exists. Samelson said there are many entry levels into nursing now. Layoffs the public hears about are of the Licensed Practical Nurses. LPNs, she said, are oneyear, trade-school educated nurses.

"Where the need will be is for people who can take greater responsibility in the nursing profession and

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-

Now selling $2 SESSIONS and using Wolff Bulbs

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available Good commissions, valuable work experience, tra-vel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free). 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information matter.

BABYSITTER WANTED: Special person to care for our one-year-old son Monday and Wednesday mornings at our house while mom teaches pre-school on premises. Call 532-6839 Tuesday or Thursday mornings. (51-52)

ASSISTANT TO the Dean. Graduate School-Responsibilities include interpreting Graduate School regulations to the faculty, reviewing programs of study, evaluation of applications for ad mission, supervision of office staff, and assisting the Dean and Associate Dean Candidates must have at least a master's degree, an understanding what least a master's degree an understanding gher education, ability to communicate with uate faculty experience in a research oriented ersity Salary $25,000 range Kansas State resity is a land-grant institution of about 00 students and 3,500 graduate students. Iodin Manhattan Kansas Send resume to John ponan. Associate Dean Graduate School Fair d 102, Manhattan, Kansas, 66506 by November 1986. Kansas State University is an equal or unity employer (51-52)

Y IS lost Russ is a large orange-stripe arris type neutered male cat no collar or white rkings. Russ is shy eats tomatoes. Russ is on a ase help Reward 539-4033 539-5891 or 539-

OF GM car keys. Union Recreation Center Sun y between 6 and 8 p.m. Phone 776-2333 (51-53)

"HDAY GIRL Lon-Today even though I've got as to do. I just wanted to fell you !! you! Happy Birthday! I love you! Love your sm.

HA CHIs who partied in Emporia on Halloween

EGEEK-I had a great time a really great time his weekend, thanks. Get excited for Friday night will be full of surprises! Maybe some all-star restling! Love another geek. (51)

I-O SOPHS: After five hours. Motel 6 was in sight. nen came trick-or-treating to frats all thru th ight. The Theta Xi haunted house was scaryioo! Game day was so cold, we wished for the flue Lou. Here's to the girls who's plans had a leak Maybe next year, we'll have a real sheak (51)

ETA SHAY-Well start out downtown Do y rate, honey If it goes well, we shall call rate, honey If it goes poorly well, mom, the maybe, for your 21st birthday, you'll have a condicted baby! Theta love, Susan (51) HT CHRIS Just a note to thank you for the super

Charlie's was a blast and quarters was a ball. I in never forget the fun with you Jim. Kim. and my coat most of all! This formal is one l'il never forget Thanks for a great time! KKG Meg (51)

ICKY THE Rat. Welcome back to KSU! When do we snuggle and eat nachos and cheese? Curious Cat

UTNAM/GOODNOW what a team. Homecoming this year was such a scream. We had more spirit than the rest. Goodnow/Putnam is the test Thanks and congratulations on a job well do re Goodnow (51)

'EAM SIGMA and coaches (John and Gregi-You came from the bottom to be #1! Your coaches thought it could never be done, but all of you worked hard and won every one. I stood on the sideline and gave a cheer congratulations super Sigmas-now go have a beer! Love you all Ma-

AKAK ANDY—Did you happen to see the surrise Sunday? Bet you had a blast, even got a gift! What are you going to do to our world? See ya! The Breakfast Club. (51)

CHI-O PLEDGES - Sneaking was fun and we want to say thanks! You guys are awesome Love Erin Jane, Gretchen, Ashlyn, Amy, Sherye PS. You may know us too well, but remember, we have the tast word! (51)

ROOMMATE WANTED

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom apartment close to campus. Call Carla. 539-4301 evenings (47-56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester Very clean, nice, furnished apartment, own room. $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181.

ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture for horse, cow, dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs fur nished 776-1205 evenings (50-59) ONE-TWO female roommates wanted for spring semester. Apartment complex is very nice and two blocks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call Diane. 776-4965. (51-54)

FEMALE: SHARE five bedroom house, five month lease for second semester Call 776-2103 after 5 FEMALE: SHARE four bedroom house Close to campus, own room, washer, dryer, Call Janell, 539-ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apartment close to campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-5895. (51-59)

SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential Call 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Humboldt, 537-4246. (43tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-sionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reasonable rates. Laura. 532-2362 (131), leave message. (48-52)

TYPING—EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates. term papers, letters, etc. Call 776-0738. (50-54)

Instructors Richard Courtney and Chaya Yerrapragada. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Nichols Hall, Room Fundamentals of programming in BASIC; ap-

BASIC Language Laboratory (2 UG)

plications Limit: 25 Pre-req: Knowledge of another programming language Fees: $84 UG; plus $25 Xeroxing and diskette fee to be paid at registration

Ret. No. 94114 ENGL 395

Ref. No. 94113

CMPSC 206

Topics in English: Literary Britain (2 UG) Prof. Ben Nyberg and Instructor Gary Clift. December 26, 1986-January 11, 1987. Meeting days and locations will be arranged.

Students will visit literary sites including the homes of Dickens and Keats, Shakespeare's properties in Stratford, and Bath. Other sites on the tour include the Changing of the Guard, the British Museum. Buckingham Palace and the Tower of London. Course fees include 10 theatre tickets to plays in Stratford, London, and Bath. Students will read a text provided by the instructors, attend two on-campus sessions and will prepare a paper following the study tour. Limit: 30

Pre-rea: None Fees: $84 UG; plus $1,380 for travel to be collected by instructors by November 14.

Ref. No. 94115 HIST 533

Topics in the History of the Americas: A History of the New Religious Right in Modern America (2 UG/G)

Prof. Robert Linder. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Eisenhower Hall, Room 201. An in-depth study of the history, leadership, and programs of the New Religious Right in twentieth-century America. This will entail an examination of the historical background of the New Religious Right, including American civil religion, the Fundamentalist movement, Ronald Reagan and his presidency, and such NRR figures and support groups as Jerry Falwell, Pat Robertson, and the Moral Majority. TB Limit: 20

Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94116 JMC 690

Problems in Mass Communications: Desktop Publishing (2 UG) Prof. Charles Pearce. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 10:00 a.m.-Noon. Kedzie Hall, Room 105.

The use of microcomputers in the practice of journalism and mass communication. Introduction to microcomputer technology including practical information and hands-on experience with microcomputer terminology, devices and major applications. Specific applications to journalism and mass communications including word processing and editing, computer-based graphics, page design and layout and desktop publishing. Students will provide a practical project relative to their particular needs and interests and using available software applications. No previous experience with computers is necessary.

Pre-req: Consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94117 MATH 499

Undergraduate Topics in Mathematics: Linear Programming (2 UG) Prof. Lyle Dixon. January 2-January 10, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Cardwell Hall, Room 131.

The solution of certain maximum-minimum problems using linear programming techniques. Solution methods will include graphing, simplex method and computers. Limit: 25

Pre-req: College Algebra skills Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94118 MUSIC 220 Topics in Music: Basics in Choral Singing (1

Instr. Steven Rushing. January 5-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 7:00-10:00 p.m. McCain Auditorium, Room 204.

Principles and techniques of choral singing with an emphasis on proper vocal production and sight reading skills. Other topics include: diction, score marking, conducting patterns, and literature. Pre-req: None Fees: $42 UG

Ref. No. 94119 MUSIC 390

Special Studies in Music: Music for the Movies (2 UG)

Instr. Alfred Cochran. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m.-Noon. Mc-Cain Auditorium, Room 105.

A survey of the history of film music and an investigation into the various aspects of film scores and scoring practices. Principal composers, representative film scores, and current trends will be examined, including the work of Aaron Copland, Max Steiner, and John Williams. Particular films to be discussed include: Our Town, Casablanca, Robin Hood, Star Wars, The Red Pony, and Of Mice and Men. Limit: 30

Fees: $84 UG; plus $3 for film rental to be paid at registration

MUSIC 390 Special Studies in Music: Beginning Recorder

Playing (2 UG) Prof. Frank Sidorfsky. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-4:00 p.m. Mc-Cain Auditorium, Room 135.

Participants will learn basics of recorder playing, and will be able to play folk tunes and other simple melodies. They will be able to progress on their own after this class. Class members should provide their own recorders or make arrangements with the instructor. TB

Pre-req: Basic music reading or consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94121 MUSIC 425 Topics in Jazz: Combo Jazz (2 UG) Instr. Alfred Cochran. January 2-January 13,

1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-4:00 p.m. Mc-Cain Auditorium, Room 105. A survey of combo jazz styles from 1900 to the present day. Various artists and styles will be covered and the development of critical listening abilities will be nurtured. Artists to be studied include Louis Armstrong, Benny Goodman, Charlie Parker, Miles Davis, John Coltraine, and Wynton Marsalis. Limit: 30

Pre-req: Music 150 or consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG

PHIL 397

Experimental Studies in Philosophy: Ethics in Child-Raising and Education (2 UG) Prof. Ron Smetana, January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Cardwell

Hall, Room 120. Examines values and rights in the home and school. Topics include children's rights, parents' rights, rules and punishments for children, selfmotivated education, and compulsory education. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's. Limit: 15

Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG Ref. No. 94138

SOCIO 301 Topics in Sociology: Problems and Issues of Terrorism (2 UG) Instr. Manjur Karim. January 2-January 13, 1987.

Monday-Friday from 7:00-9:30 p.m. Waters Hall, The purpose of the course is to understand the issues of terrorism from a sociological perspective. Conscious efforts will be made to look at different, often conflicting political and philosophical perspectives on terrorism. A sociological analysis of terrorism will be undertaken by looking at the following aspects: 1) terrorism from a historical perspective; 2) modern terrorism: a theoretical analysis; 3) terrorism: state-sponsored and non-state; 4) selected case studies. Limit: 30 Pre-reg: None Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94123 STAT 708 Use of Statistical Computer Packages in Data Analysis (1 UG/G) Prof. Kenneth Kemp. January 5-January 9, 1987.

COURSE PENDING APPROVAL

CALL THE SECRETARION OF THE SECOND OF THE SE

Monday-Saturday from 8:30-11:30 a.m. Denison

Hall, Room 124 Processing data primarily using the Statistical Analysis System (SAS) for analysis of variance, covariance, regression, correlation, and chi-square analysis plus data display using the Calcomp plotter. Also variable transformation and generation and creating data sets will be discussed. Limit: 100 Pre-req: STAT 702, 703

Business Administration

Fees: $42 UG/$60 G

Ref. No. 94124 Independent Studies in Management: Computer Concepts and Applications (3 UG) Instr. Linda Innes. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Calvin Hall, Room 010.

Development of computer concepts applicable to business situations through, for example, Wordstar. Concentration on file processing techniques, analysis of problems, and production of business documents. Demonstrations, lectures, and hands-on instruction will enable the student to perform input-output functions; process, store, and retrieve documents; format documents, tabulations, and reports; search and replace text; and merge file information with documents for distribution. TB Pre-req: Beginning keyboarding skills Fees: $126 UG

Education

Adult and Continuing Education Colloquium: Maximizing Performance Seminar via Travel (2

Cancun. Traveling to meet new people, see new places. Enact positive whole brain activities. Students will be guided through a 30-hour interaction and self-exploration including 1) time management, 2) your energy, yourself, 3) personal profile system, 4) action projection, 5) maximizing performance/creativity, 6) values analysis, and 7) professional climate impact. Students are

Limit: 15 Pre-reg: None Fees: $84 UG; plus $830 for materials, flight, lodging to be collected by the instructor by

Ref. No. 94125

Instr. Catherine Fung. December 26,

1986-January 1, 1987. Meeting days and time will be arranged. There will be an informational meeting on November 10 at 6:30 p.m. in the K-State Union, Room 205. Mexico: Merida and required to write a term paper on "positive ways in maximizing performance."

By The Collegian Staff

Southern Bakers Association has awarded the Kansas State Department of Grain Science and Industry $300,000 in scholarship funds for undergraduate students majoring in bakery science and management.

Charles W. Deyoe, head of the Department of Grain Science and Industry, said the scholarship was an indication that Southern Bakers wanted to take an active part in helping prepare and train personnel to meet the challenges of the future.

Southern Bakers, he said, is looking for people with a good background and a strong interest in grain science.

The association, with headquarters located in Atlanta, established a program at Florida State University but discontinued it in 1960. The program was then transferred to K-State, and in 1963 the bakery science and management program was established. "K-State was chosen because they had similar programs in milling and food science," Deyoe said.

The $300,000 is to be divided into four funds, each named after individuals who have made major contributions to bakery education.

The C.S. Broeman, Ronald P. Cooper, W.E. Long and L.A. Rumsey funds will each be used to provide an annual $4,000 scholarship to a student in bakery science from the states represented by Southern Bakers. The states included are Louisiana, Arkansas,

Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Devoe said the scholarship funds are deposited in a principal account and the interest generated will be used toward the scholarship. This will continue to provide new scholarships each year.

"The scholarship is a continuous, yearly program," he said. "It is permanently endowed."

Students eligible for the scholarships will not be chosen until next

"We're extremely pleased and are looking forward to working with Southern Bakers Association and accomplishing the goals they established for scholarships," Deyoe said.

Nurses shortage, recruitment focus of daylong conference

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

Representatives from five colleges in Kansas will be on campus today for K-State Nurses Day to talk about the current shortage of nurses and to introduce students to their pro-

Scheduled to attend the event are nursing faculty from Marymount College, Wichita State University, Washburn University, University of Kansas and Fort Hays State Univer-

future

preser The e

ing at visor

Pho

The day's agenda features a discus

give students the opportunity to visit with representatives from different schools and to examine the different programs offered by each.

Beyond this, however, Samelson said she has an even broader goal in mind this year - to acquaint more students with the nursing field in general. She said there is currently a shortage of nurses, both regionally and nationally. In Kansas, she said, these shortages are most visible in Manhattan, Kansas City and Topeka.

'We are watching the trends very closely," Samelson said, "but we are anticipating at the rate at which has scheduled a Nurse's Day as such. In the past, Samelson said, representives have come to K-State individually. Because of the shortage, however, the schools agreed that it would prove much more beneficial to come together, she said.

Samelson said the emphasis of Nurse's Day will be on the four-year, bachelor of science nursing degree. The BSN level, she said, is where the real shortage exists. Samelson said there are many entry levels into nursing now. Layoffs the public hears about are of the Licensed Practical Nurses, LPNs, she said, are one-

Denver Symphony to give concert featuring noted pianist at McCain

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

The Denver Symphony continues its 53rd season with a performance in McCain Auditorium tonight. The symphony will perform Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat minor, Opus 23," Weber's overture to "Der Freischutz," and Hindemith's "Mathis der Mal."

The Denver Symphony is one of 34 major symphony orchestras, and has more than 80 members.

The symphony also features a conductor in his seventh season with them. James Setapen joined the symphony as an Exxon/Arts endowment conductor. He was educated at the Eastman School of Music and the Cleveland Institute of Music. He also studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria and in Sienna, Italy with the renowned conducting teacher Franco Ferrara. He was the unanimous first prize winner of the Oakland Symphony's American Conductor's Competition in 1978. He has been Music Director of the Alabama Chamber Orchestra and the Principal Conductor of the Cleveland Opera Theatre.

The symphony usually features

guests artists when it performs and tonight Andre-Michel Schub, pianist, will perform. Schub began piano studies at age 4 and was the first prize winner of the 1974 Naumburg International Piano Competition. Schub is also a recipient of the Avery Fisher Recital Award and in 1981 received the grand prize in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Schub has appeared with the major orchestras throughout the United States, Europe and the

The Denver Symphony had its first performance in November of 1934 at the Broadway Theatre in Denver. At this time the city was growing rapidly, as was the interest and support for music. The symphony continued to perform on grants from the city and county and free use of Auditorium Theatre. Almost 15 years after its origination, the symphony named its first full-time business manager, Helen Black, one of the first women managers in the country. Through the next 20 years the symphony expanded its members and started touring many midwestern states.

Brian Priestman became music director of the symphony in 1970, and held the position until the end of the 1977-78 season. During Priestman's tenure, the symphony released its first recording, featuring worldrenowned soprano Phyllis Curtin and pianist Nerine Barret. The symphony also made its debut appearances in 1974 at Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center for the Perfoming Arts in Washington, D.C.

The 1982-83 season marked the debut of the Denver Symphony concerts on television and as part of its 50th anniversary celebration a concert was broadcast live across the nation simulcast with a radio broad-

Last season, the symphony produced another recording, "The Denver Symphony Orchestra - Live at Boettcher." It also initiated the Rocky Mountain Music Festival, a week of concerts attended by more than 65,000 people.

The Denver Symphony performance is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federai

Tickets for the symphony are on sale in McCain Box Office.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 word over 15: Four consecu-

Now selling $2 SESSIONS and using

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available Good commissions, valuable work experience, tra vel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free). 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer.

BABYSITTER WANTED: Special person to care for our one-year-old son Monday and Wednesday mornings at our house while morn teaches proschool on premises. Call 532-6839 Tuesday or 5, (51-52)

Dean Graduate Schoolto the faculty, reviewing produation of applications for adin of office staff, and assisting ciate Dean Candidates must ter's degree, an understanding ability to communicate with perience in a research oriented $25,000 range. Kansas State nd-grant institution of about d 3.500 graduate students. lo Kansas Send resume to John ite Dean, Graduate School, Fair an: Kansas, 66506 by November iss is a large orange-stripe ered male cat, no collar or white shy eats tomatoes. Russ is on a ould become very ill without it ard 539-4033, 539-5891 or 539s, Union Recreation Center, Sun d 8 p.m. Phone 776-2333 (51-53)

16 wanted to tell you I'll be thinking thday! Hove you! Love your sis artied in Emporia on Halloween a great time a really great time anks. Get excited for Friday night.

surprises! Maybe some all-star another geek (51) er five hours. Motel 6 was in sight or-treating to frats, all thru the IXI haunted house was scary— was so cold, we wished for the

to the girls who's plans had a leak we'll have a real sneak (51) fil start out downtown Do y ney? If it goes well, we shall com-it goes poorly, well, mom. the 21st birthday you'll have a por ita love. Susan (51 a note to thank you for the super of fun and the party was first rate plast and quarters" was a ball. I in fun with you. Jim. Kim. and my This formal is one l'Il never forget at time! KKG Meg (51) lelcome back to KSU! When do we nachos and cheese? Curious Cat

> IOW what a team. Homecoming uch a scream. We had more spirit Goodnow Putnam is the rist ngratulations on a job well do to d coaches (John and Greg)-You bottom to be #11 Your coaches ld never be done but all of you ad won every one. I stood on the we a cheer congratulations super go have a beer! Love you all. Mad you happen to see the sunrise ou had a blast, even got a gift! What to do to our world? See ya! The -Sneaking was fun and we want to ou guys are awesome Love Erin t, Ashlyn, Amy Sherye PS You may ell but remember: we have the last

E WANTED

ANTED to share nice two bedroom use to campus. Call Carla. 539-4301 MATE wanted for spring semester. ;e. furnished apartment, own room. lus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181

KING female Vet or Animal Science a farmhouse. Free stall and pasture . dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs fur 205 evenings (50-59) ale roommates wanted for spring se-ment complex is very nice and two 65 (51-54) RE five bedroom house, five month

ond semester. Call 776-2103 after 5

RE four bedroom house. Close to room, washer, dryer Call Janell, 539-

'ANTED to share two bedroom aparto campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-5895.

BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S. iuite 25. (11f) smetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Hum-

OVER letters, and newsletters profestten and printed Call 539-5007 (9tf)

ORTION and contraceptive services in 313-841-5716. (3911) ESSING, letter quality, editing, reason

s. letters. etc. Call 776-0738 (50-54)

Ref. No. 94126 EDCI 051

Study Skills Laboratory (2 UG) Prof. Charles Heerman. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-Noon. Bluemont Hall, Room 116.

Study Skills Laboratory improves the college student's reading skills, rates of comprehension, vocabulary, and study skills. Also this course give the student a good start for second semester. Students develop a plan for learning, for improving their GPA, and, for developing their professional prospects. Limit: 20

Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94127 EDCI 502

Independent Study in Education: Teacher Assistant Program (1 or 2 UG) Prof. Jackson Byars. January 5-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday. Meeting time will be arranged.

Location will be arranged by students who will work in public schools. Informational meeting is November 19, 1986 at 4:30 p.m. in Bluemont Hall 217. Teacher Assistant Program will involve one or two weeks of participation in an elementary or secondary school classroom. Limited to students preparing for teacher certification.

Pre-reg: Consent of instructor Fees: $42 for 1 UG/$84 for 2 UG

Ref. No. 94128 EDCI 502 Independent Study in Education: Educational

Field Experience (2 UG) Prof. Ray Kurtz. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m., plus 2 pre- and post-sessions in Bluemont Hall, Room 254. Pre-session is Wed., Nov. 12, 1986 from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in Bluemont Hall, Room 254; post-session is Wed., Jan. 14, 1987 from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in Bluemont Hall, Room 254. A field experience designed to acquaint prospective teachers (elementary and secondary) with a variety of teaching techniques, procedures, and classroom organizations. Students will be encouraged to observe in more than one classroom and/or school. Satisfies requirement of preprofessional laboratory. Limit: 25 Pre-req: None

Fees: $84 UG

Ref. No. 94129 EDCI 686

Topics in Education: Classroom Organization and Management (2 UG/G) Prof. Paul Burden. January 5-January 12, 1987.

Monday-Saturday from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Bluemont Hall, Room 113.

Classroom Organization and Management will identify: 1) causes of student misbehavior, 2) a variety of teacher responses to misbehavior, 3) management procedures teachers can use to minimize the occurrence of discipline problems, and 4) management guidelines for starting the school year (films, filmstrips, and discussions). Limit: 30

Pre-req: None Fees: $84 UG/$120 G: plus $11 Xeroxing fee to be paid at registration

Human Ecology

Ref. No. 94130 CT 650 Clothing and Textiles Study Tour: Brussels,

Paris and London (2 UG) Instr. Bernard Rueschhoff. December 26. 1986-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Clothing and Textiles Study Tour will examine the design and merchandising of clothing and accessories. Discussions are planned with representatives of a number of trade associations and professional organizations. In Paris and London, a number of leading fashion accessory houses will be visited. Visits to fashion and folk costume museums and discussions with fashion marketing officials will also be planned. Limit: 30

Pre-req: Textiles, plus 6 credit hours of Clothing and Textiles courses

Fees: $84 UG: plus $1,595 for travel and transportation to be collected by the instructor by November 3: $200 of this amount is due to the instructor as a deposit on November 3. However. enrollment will remain open until space is no longer available.

Ref. No. 94131

Problems in Interior Design: Photography, A Visual Communicant in Design (1 UG) Instr. Bob Habiger. January 5-January 9, 1987. Monday-Friday from 1:30-4:30 p.m. Justin Hall.

A photography course for the beginning level photographer, exploring the art, technology and application of photography in design. Course content will include information on exposure, metering, equipment selection, composition, lighting and related photo/design concepts. The context is using photography as a visual communication tool expressing or recording design projects and design components. Students are required to have their own 35mm camera. Pre-req: None Fees: $42 UG; plus $17 for film, processing, and

Xeroxing to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94132

DRIM 499 Problems in Dietetics, Restaurant and Institutional Management: Hotel and Restaurant Management Study Tour of Brussels, Paris and

Instr. Charles Partlow. December 26, 1986-January 9, 1987. Monday-Saturday from 8:00 a.m-5 p.m.

The study tour will focus on the hospitality industry. Discussions are planned with executives while visiting various hotels and restaurants in Brussels, Paris, and London. Major operational concerns of the food and beverage industry also will be discussed.

Limit: 30 Pre-req: Consent of instructor Fees: $84 UG; plus $1,595 for travel and transportation to be collected by the instructor by November 3. However, enrollment will remain open until space is no longer available.

Ref. No. 94133 HDFS 590 Proseminar in Child and Family: Building

Family Strengths (2 UG/G) Instr. Ben Silliman. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Bluemont Hall, Room 114. Models and traits of healthy family functioning in nuclear, single-parent, and reconstituted families as a basis for understanding and facilitating positive family interaction. TB Limit: 20 Pre-req: General Psychology or Introduction to

Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Ref. No. 94134 HDFS 590 Proseminar in Child and Family: Alternative Sexual Lifestyles (2 UG)

Instr. Marie Saracino. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 6:00-10:00 p.m. Justin Hall, Room 256. Discussion of research literature regarding alternative lifestyles. Cohabiting heterosexual, homosexual, Jesbian, and bisexual lifestyles will be included as topics of discussion. Xeroxed materials to be purchased at Kinko's. Limit: 30 Pre-reg: None

Fees: $84 UG

PA 820 Computer Applications in Veterinary Medicine

VETERINARY MEDICINE

(2 G) Prof. Joseph Smith. January 2-January 13, 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00-11:00 a.m. Vet

HDFS 704

plications (2 UG/G)

chased at Kinko's.

Ref. No. 94136

Library, Room 406.

Fees: $84 UG/$120 G

Limit: 20

Hall. Room 325 and 329.

Seminar in Human Development and Family

Human Development and Family Studies Ap-

1987. Monday-Friday from 1:00-5:00 p.m. Justin

This two credit course will focus on the ma-

Studies: Microcomputers and Mainframes:

Prof. Robert Poresky. January 5-January 13.

jor uses of microcomputers by students: word processing and data processing: interfacing microcomputers with the mainframe for data analysis; use of the mainframe terminals and

Pre-req: HDFS 890 and HDFS 650

XEDIT: and an introduction to SPSS-X for mainframe data analysis. Xeroxed materials to be pur-

Basic computer knowledge, use of general application program for veterinary use, including computer-assisted diagnosis of veterinary pro-

Pre-req: SM 830 Fees: $120 G; plus $15.00 Xerox and diskette fee to be paid at registration

Ref. No. 94137 PA 850

Pregnancy Wastage in Domestic Animals (2 G)

Prof. Stanley Dennis. January 2-January 13. 1987. Monday-Friday from 8:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. VCS Building, Room N-202, Study of pregnancy wastage of domestic animals. The course will cover the embryonic, fetal and neonatal periods and will include placental, fetal and neonatal lesions due to infections, non-infectious and genetic factors, and predators. Limit: 30 Pre-req: PA 703

Fees: $120 G: plus $20 Xerox fee to be collected at registration

Laura. 532-2362 (131), leave message

PERIENCED typist, reasonable rates.

By The Collegian Staff

Southern Bakers Association has awarded the Kansas State Department of Grain Science and Industry $300,000 in scholarship funds for undergraduate students majoring in bakery science and management.

Charles W. Deyoe, head of the Department of Grain Science and Industry, said the scholarship was an indication that Southern Bakers wanted to take an active part in helping prepare and train personnel to meet the challenges of the future

Southern Bakers, he said, is looking for people with a good background and a strong interest in grain science.

The association, with headquarters located in Atlanta, established a program at Florida State University but discontinued it in 1960. The program was then transferred to K-State, and in 1963 the bakery science and management program was established.

"K-State was chosen because they had similar programs in milling and food science," Deyoe said.

The $300,000 is to be divided into four funds, each named after individuals who have made major contributions to bakery education.

The C.S. Broeman, Ronald P. Cooper, W.E. Long and L.A. Rumsey funds will each be used to provide an annual $4,000 scholarship to a student in bakery science from the states represented by Southern Bakers. The states included are Louisiana, Arkansas,

Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Deyoe said the scholarship funds are deposited in a principal account and the interest generated will be used toward the scholarship. This will continue to provide new scholarships each year.

"The scholarship is a continuous, yearly program," he said. "It is permanently endowed."

Students eligible for the scholarships will not be chosen until next

"We're extremely pleased and are looking forward to working with Southern Bakers Association and accomplishing the goals they established for scholarships," Deyoe said.

Nurses shortage, recruitment focus of daylong conference

By LISA SHEIKH Collegian Reporter

Representatives from five colleges in Kansas will be on campus today for K-State Nurses Day to talk about the current shortage of nurses and to introduce students to their pro-

Scheduled to attend the event are nursing faculty from Marymount College, Wichita State University, Washburn University, University of Kansas and Fort Hays State Univer-

The day's agenda features a discussion of the role of and the future of nurses followed by short presentations by each of the schools. The event will take place in beginning at 10 a.m. Union 212.

Phoebe Samelson, pre-nursing advisor and organizer of Nurse's Day, said one purpose of the event is to give students the opportunity to visit with representatives from different schools and to examine the different programs offered by each.

Bloom County

Beyond this, however, Samelson said she has an even broader goal in mind this year - to acquaint more students with the nursing field in general. She said there is currently a shortage of nurses, both regionally and nationally. In Kansas, she said, these shortages are most visible in Manhattan, Kansas City and Topeka.

"We are watching the trends very closely," Samelson said, "but we are anticipating at the rate at which students are graduating that by 1990 there will be a real shortage.'

Enrollment in the pre-nursing program at K-State is down, but it is down everywhere else too, Samelson said. At present approximately 70 students are in the K-State program. This is the first year that K-State has scheduled a Nurse's Day as such. In the past, Samelson said, representives have come to K-State individually. Because of the shortage. however, the schools agreed that it would prove much more beneficial to come together, she said.

Samelson said the emphasis of Nurse's Day will be on the four-year, bachelor of science nursing degree. The BSN level, she said, is where the real shortage exists. Samelson said there are many entry levels into nursing now. Layoffs the public hears about are of the Licensed Practical Nurses. LPNs, she said, are oneyear, trade-school educated nurses.

'Where the need will be is for people who can take greater responsibility in the nursing profession and provide the high quality of care that people are demanding now," she

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

eanuts

'y Charles Schulz

Crossword

1 Wood

unit

ient

5 Varnish

nanny

12 La Scala

Mostel

light?

urchin

of sheep

composi-phone's month

Cassidy

and the Kid" goddess mouse?

husband

18 Disease

19 Ravel

tion

24 Secrete

25 Jewish

26 "Butch

30 Ignited

31 Roman

32 "...man

21 Perse-

14 Actor

15 Night

17 Street

ingred-

ACROSS 33 Rising

8 Nanking 37 Defects

feature 41 Anger

13 Nigerian 42 Roman

young

36 Brewer's need

38 Pyramidal temple poet

43 Huge star

groupings 48 Mineral deposit

49 Piece out

Wiesel

fillers

52 Wind instr.

Solution time: 23 min.

Yesterday's answer 11-4

50 Author

51 Wallet

35 Worry

actresses

53 Spanish

DOWN

muralist

2 Spanish

3 - Bravo

4 Jeopardy

whopper

8 Flowering

6 Lawyer's

5 Told a

org.

7 Unites shrub

9 Simple tree

11 Tramp

16 Encore

edge

SCARE NO

20 Gambling

10 Sandarac

gold

1 Wheel part

21 Dutch

painter

Frans

23 Computer

22 Entrance

food?

24 Injuries

26 Oozings

heroine

gang

29 Diner sign person

34 Financier

Cecil

35 Bends

37 Monk's

title

38 Outdoor sport

39 English

river writer

41 Holly tree

44 "Wanted"

abbr.

poster

France

Z Defeat at

of healing

46 Goddess

(1869-1951)

40 French

27 Ibsen

28 Work

31 Stupid

Denver Symphony to give concert featuring noted pianist at McCain

By LAURA HACKLEY Collegian Reporter

The Denver Symphony continues its 53rd season with a performance in McCain Auditorium tonight. The symphony will perform Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1 in B Flat minor, Opus 23," Weber's overture to 'Der Freischutz," and Hindemith's "Mathis der Mal."

The Denver Symphony is one of 34 major symphony orchestras, and has more than 80 members.

The symphony also features a conductor in his seventh season with them. James Setapen joined the symphony as an Exxon/Arts endowment conductor. He was educated at the Eastman School of Music and the Cleveland Institute of Music. He also studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria and in Sienna, Italy with the renowned conducting teacher Franco Ferrara. He was the unanimous first prize winner of the Oakland Symphony's American Conductor's Competition in 1978. He has been Music Director of the Alabama Chamber Orchestra and the Principal Conductor of the Cleveland Opera Theatre.

The symphony usually features

guests artists when it performs and tonight Andre-Michel Schub, pianist, will perform. Schub began piano studies at age 4 and was the first prize winner of the 1974 Naumburg International Piano Competition. Schub is also a recipient of the Avery Fisher Recital Award and in 1981 received the grand prize in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Schub has appeared with the major orchestras throughout the United States, Europe and the Orient.

The Denver Symphony had its first performance in November of 1934 at the Broadway Theatre in Denver. At this time the city was growing rapidly, as was the interest and support for music. The symphony continued to perform on grants from the city and county and free use of Auditorium Theatre, Almost 15 years after its origination, the symphony named its first full-time business manager, Helen Black, one of the first women managers in the country. Through the next 20 years the symphony expanded its members and started touring many midwestern states.

Brian Priestman became music director of the symphony in 1970, and

Now selling

$2 SESSIONS

and using

Wolff Bulbs

SUN CONNECTION

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Keystone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, life

tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more

from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in formation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

Take your parents to a super

art show and sale, Saturday,

Nov. 8, from 9-5:30 at Cico

Park - West on Kimball

MEDICAL AND Veterinary Schools, Mexico and Philippines. Advanced accreditation for PhD. DDS. DVM. DPM degrees and transfer students. All schools comply with new regulations and requirements. All English programs. Live in U.S.A. Loan privileges Proven Student Services, Inc., PO Box

406. Inwood Station, New York, N.Y. 10034 Call

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

WILDCAT CREEK

APARTMENTS

Unf. 1 & 2 BR apts.

5-12 month leases

to fit your lifestyle

•24 Hour Emergency Maintenance

•Quiet Community with Off-Street

Two Laundry Facilities and Pools

OFFICE HOURS

8:30 to 5:30 Monday-Friday

Come visit us at

1413 Cambridge Place

539-2951

No Appointment Necessary

ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent. $150 month plus one-half lot rent, one-half electric Male, no pets. Call 776-1359 (48-57)

1126 Laramie

(212) 601-1888 (51-52)

FOR RENT-MISC

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

*Conveniently Located

No Pets Allowed

FOR RENT-APTS

776-2426

held the position until the end of the 1977-78 season. During Priestman's tenure, the symphony released its first recording, featuring worldrenowned soprano Phyllis Curtin and pianist Nerine Barret. The symphony also made its debut appearances in 1974 at Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center for the Perfoming Arts in Washington, D.C.

The 1982-83 season marked the debut of the Denver Symphony concerts on television and as part of its 50th anniversary celebration a concert was broadcast live across the nation simulcast with a radio broad-

Last season, the symphony produced another recording, "The Denver Symphony Orchestra - Live at Boettcher." It also initiated the Rocky Mountain Music Festival, a week of concerts attended by more than 65,000 people.

The Denver Symphony performance is made possible by support from the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal

Tickets for the symphony are on sale in McCain Box Office.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch, Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken 539-9469 (44-53)

ADULT MOVIES now available at Home Cinema, 537.

DONATIONS FOR the Cathy Robare car fund may be dropped off at the Small Business Developr Center, 204 Calvin Hall. Checks should be made out to First Christian Church marked "Cathy Robare." Drop in and sign the card. (50-54)

WANT TO play the assassination game? Call 532-2362 Laura (131), leave name and number. (51-54) ATTENTION ARTS and Crafts Vendors UPC Arts Committee is sponsoring our annual Arts and Crafts Sale December 4 and 5. Sign-up starts 9 a.m. November 17 in the Union Activities Center (3rd floor). For more information, call 532-6571. (51-52) CHOCOLATE, STRAWBERRY, Vanilla-Lose weight with 100% natural, herbal nutrition, 100% guaranteed. 776-6959. (51-54) 02

ATTENTION

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (45-59)

Hayes House of Music

DOD Guitar Effects 30% Off

327 Poyntz

776-7983

HALF OFF-1 p.m. haircut appointment (with this ad), includes shampoo and blowdry. Monday-Friday. Crum's Beauty College. 776-4794. Ad expires November 30, 1986 (49-65)

CITY AUDITORIUM, November 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Crafts, toys and much more. Register for prizes. Do your Christmas shopping early Soup and snacks. 539-4675. (50-54)

RYYTWGN

Z G J K

By Eugene Sheffer

amenities. 776-0272 (44-53) ONE BEDROOM apartment, available immediately $225 plus utilities, off Denison, 539-9842 (day), 776

8093 (evening), ask for Tim. (51-54)

CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom

two bath, basement and large porch plus great

FOR SALE-MISC KENWOOD KR322 car stereo-auto reverse. Dolby metal, independent treble/bass, fader, $150 or best offer Call Bob 776-0234 (47-51)

FOR SALE—KSU Royal Purple yearbooks 1963-1979 Call 776-0592 (50-54) The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 11/9 71 1117

CARVIN TWO piece 300 W bassmaster amp. Clean to 539-5128 (51)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 1982 HONDA CM 250, 5,800 miles, 60 miles per gal-ion. Great shape, one owner. $450. Call 776-7175. (48-52)

HELP WANTED 13 3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64)

WANTED: ST. Xavier High School in Junction City needs Assistant Boys Basketball Coach. Call 1-238-2841. (51-55)

GRADUATE STUDENT or upper level undergraduate position available to coordinate the summer pro-gram for high school students at KSU. Applicants must have a good academic record, be familiar with KSU operations, possess excellent organizational and communication skills, be available to work 15-20 hours/week immediately and be able to commit to the position through August 14, 1987. Call for complete position description (532-5575) or pick up a copy at 1623 Anderson Avenue. Application deadline November 12 (51-54)

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available Good commissions, valuable work experience, tra-vel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free). -800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer

BABYSITTER WANTED Special person to care for our one-year-old son Monday and Wednesday mornings at our house while mom teaches pre-school on premises. Call 532-6839 Tuesday or Thursday mornings. (51-52)

ASSISTANT TO the Dean Graduate School-Responsibilities include interpreting Graduate School regulations to the faculty, reviewing programs of study evaluation of applications for admission, supervision of office staff, and assisting the Dean and Associate Dean Candidates mus have at least a master's degree, an understanding of higher education, ability to communicate with graduate faculty, experience in a research oriented university. Salary, $25,000 range. Kansas, State University is a land-grant institution of about 18.000 students and 3,500 graduate students. Iocated in Manhattan Kansas Send resume to John P Noonan Associate Dean Graduate School Fair child 102, Manhattan, Kansas, 66506 by November 21, 1986. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer (51-52)

LOST

AUSTY IS lost. Russ is a large orange-stripe "Morris" type neutered male cat, no collar or white markings. Russ is shy, eats tomatoes. Russ is on a special diet and could become very ill without it Please help. Reward. 539-4033, 539-5891, or 539 3272 anytime (50-52)

SET OF GM carkeys Union Recreation Center Sur day between 6 and 8 p.m. Phone 776-2333 (51-53)

16

PERSONAL

BIRTHDAY GIRL Lori - Today even though I ve got tons to do. I just wanted to tell you I II be thinking of you! Happy Birthday! Hove you! Love your sis

ALPHA CHIs who partied in Emporia on Halloween This spoo's for you (51)

THE GEEK-I had a great time a really great time this weekend thanks. Get excited for Friday night it will be full of surprises! Maybe some all-star wrestling! Love, another geek (51) CHI-O SOPHS. After five hours. Motel 6 was in sight then came trick-or-treating to frats all thru thinight. The Theta Xi haunted house was scary-Boot Game day was so cold we wished for the Blue Lou. Here's to the girls who's plans had a least Maybe next year, we'll have a real sneak (51) THETA SHAY-Well start out downtown Do y have the bail money? If it goes well, we shall be brate, honey If it goes poorly well, mom, the maybe, for your 21st birthday, you'll have a convicted baby! Theta love. Susan (51 DELT CHRIS: Just a note to thank you for the super date. I had lots of fun and the party was first rate Charlie's was a blast and "quarters" was a ball 111 never forget the fun with you. Jim. Kim. and my coat most of all! This formal is one I'll never forget Thanks for a great time! KKG Meg (51) RICKY THE Rat. Welcome back to KSU! When do we snuggle and eat nachos and cheese? Curious Cat (51)

PUTNAM/GOODNOW what a team. Homecoming this year was such a scream. We had more spirit than the rest. Goodnow/Putnam is the test Thanks and congratulations on a job well done Goodnow (51)

TEAM SIGMA and coaches (John and Greg)-You came from the bottom to be #11 Your coaches thought it could never be done, but all of you worked hard and won every one. I stood on the sideline and gave a cheer congratulations super Sigmas-now go have a beer! Love you all. Ma-

AKAK ANDY—Did you happen to see the sunrise Sunday? Bet you had a blast, even got a gift! What are you going to do to our world? See ya! The Breakfast Club (51)

CHI-O PLEDGES - Sneaking was fun and we want to say thanks! You guys are awesome Love Erin Jane, Gretchen, Ashlyn, Amy, Sherye PS, You may know us too well but remember, we have the last

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroo apartment close to campus, Call Carla, 539-4301 evenings. (47 56) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Very clean, nice, furnished apartment, own roo $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181.

ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture torhorse, cow, dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs fur nished 776-1205 evenings (50-59)

(with coupon) ONE-TWO female roommates wanted for spring semester. Apartment complex is very nice and two blocks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call Diane, 776-4965. (51-54)

FEMALE: SHARE five bedroom house, five month lease for second semester Call 776-2103 after 5

FEMALE: SHARE four bedroom house. Close to campus, own room, washer, dryer, Call Janeil, 539-8431. (51-52)

ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apart ment close to campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-5895 (51-59)

18

boldt, 537-4246 (43tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes sionally written and printed Call 539-5007 (9tf)

WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reason able rates. Laura. 532-2362 (131), leave message

TYPING-EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates. term papers, letters, etc. Call 776-0738 (50-54)

ARIU

CRYPTOQUIP

JHYLOOA YITNUA ZLNTKGNN

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: EAGER STUDENT APPLY

ING TO BARTENDERS' INSTITUTE BRAVELY POURED

WJK

VGCCTKV TKCR YZT

11-4

OVER TEST.

SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish. 931 Hum-

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence 913-841-5716 (39tf)

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals Y

Continued from Page 1

there is a need to improve some building deficiencies due to the change in fire codes, Garvin said.

"The current code requirements are the result of continuous change," Garvin said.

Garvin said facilities planning determines what improvements will be made with the funds that are appropriated to them.

Variables such as cost benefits, the potential risk of existing problems in campus buildings, funding and planned renovation changes in the next few years are examined.

Because Calvin Hall will be renovated in two years, the decision was made not to install a fire alarm system until the renovation takes place, Garvin said.

"It doesn't make sense to install a fire alarm system now if you plan to remodel the building in two years," Lambert said.

Deficiencies noted in Calvin Hall include obstructed fire doors, exits to fire escapes through rooms which are locked when they are not in use, no fire alarm system, improperly identified fire exits and no emergency lighting.

These deficiencies were noted in the Life Safety Codes handbook.

While Calvin Hall does not meet current fire codes, various deficiencies also exist in many other campus

For example, while Ahearn Field House has been modified to seat 11,380 people, the existing exit doors only dictate a maximum occupancy load of 4,200, according to the LSC code, 9-23.

Garvin said he doesn't think there are any fire safety problems in campus buildings that put students and faculty "duly at risk."

"I don't think there are any buildings that would put my children at risk if they were inside," Garvin said.

If personnel at the state fire marshal's office feel that any building has a high degree of risk, then they can decide to close the building until those changes are made, Remfry

"We can order that such buildings must be closed," he said.

Remfry said he does not know of any instances where University buildings with fire prevention deficiencies have been closed because they were a threat to human life.

Legislative funding for fire safety

MEMO

TONIGHT

All Mixed

Tonite $2 Pitchers

The Jacks Wed. 5th One Night Only

improvements totaling $40,000 was appropriated for the installation of fire alarm systems in three campus buildings - Waters, Cardwell and Fairchild halls.

Another variable to consider is the amount of use each building has, Lambert said.

"We balance the equation (decide which buildings should be fixed) with many variables," Lambert said. Some deficiencies filed by the fire inspectors have been corrected, Lambert said. Many that were the responsibility of individual departments have been corrected, he said. "I have been happy with the departments because they don't have much money to work with, but they have corrected their problems," Lambert said. Currently, the University is installing smoke detector systems in residence halls.

Because smoke detectors were installed in Ford Hall, it made it easier to locate a fire in there Saturday.

'The staff was able to determine immediately where the fire was (because of the new smoke detector system)," said Thomas Frith, director of housing. "It was very helpful."

Lambert said he realizes that not all the deficiencies can be corrected immediately because of the financial situation in the state, but he remains hopeful that the deficiencies will be corrected.

"In the last four or five years, we have made great strides in meeting the code requirements with the remodeling of buildings," he said.

Lambert warns, however, about becoming complacent of the existing deficiencies in some campus buildings.

"We have been fortunate not to have any fire problems," he said.

Election

Continued from Page 1

in Annapolis, Md. on his schedule. Most of the attention nationally was focused on the Senate races. Republicans hold a 53-47 edge in the current Senate, but are defending 22 of the 34 seats on the ballot.

Democrats said they would gain more than enough seats to end six years of Republican rule. The GOP sounded less confident about predicting the outcome. The final straw polls seemed to swirl in the wind rather than blow in any discernible direction. One new survey had the race for the Georgia Senate seat tightening, another said the Republican incumbent was lengthening his lead.

Democrats said their best chances for gains are in Maryland and Nevada, where Republican incumbents are retiring, and Florida, where GOP Sen. Paula Hawkins is Republicans said they would pick up a seat in Missouri, where Democratic Sen. Thomas Eagleton is stepping down.

The races in Alabama, Colorado, Idaho, North Dakota and South Dakota all appeared too close to call, and all except Colorado featured incumbent Republicans battling to hold their seats. Incumbents seemed in slightly better shape but not safe in several more states, including Republican seats in Georgia, Alaska, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, and a Democratic seat in California. In the 435-member House, there was general agreement that Democrats would pad their current majority by as many as 10 seats. Republicans said that wouldn't be so bad, pointing out that in the last 30 years, the average election-year loss in the sixth year of a national administration is 47 seats.

Democrats hold a 253-180 edge in the current House. Two seats formerly held by Republicans are Republicans are counting on gains in the 36 statehouse races on the ballot, perhaps a pickup of 10 seats. Some of the best known governors seemed likely to win new terms, including Democrat Mario Cuomo of New York and Republicans George Deukmejian of California and James Thompson of Illinois.

In addition to the top of the ticket, there are thousands of candidates on the ballot for positions ranging from state legislator to local judge.

Forty-three states have referenda on the ballot, including six where voters are deciding whether to establish a lottery system. In Oregon, voters will decide whether to permit cultivation of marijuana for personal use.

After months of personal campaigning and millions spent on negative television advertisements, the candidates were running right to the end.

"This man I'm running against is dishonest, and he's dishonest in every way," said Idaho Democratic Gov. John Evans, challenging Republican Sen. Steve Symms in one of the country's closest contests.

In Florida, embattled GOP Sen. Paula Hawkins said that "at stake is the destiny of America" in the races for control of the Senate.

Art festival to showcase holiday ideas

By The Collegian Staff

From wooden puzzles to pottery, dolls to oil paintings, 43 artists will display their goods this Saturday at the Eighth Annual Christmas Art Festival.

The Christmas sale will take place from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at Pottorf Hall in CiCo Park and will feature the works of artists from across the Midwest.

Some of the goods to be shown are stained glass, woodcuts, crochet, wheat weaving, cornshuckery, dough art and rag weaving.

Other featured art exhibits include lace and scratch carved eggs, American photo art, tatting quilting, wood carving, counted cross-stitch and paper mache sculptures.

The art show is sponsored by the Manhattan Creative Arts Guild.

Continued from Page 1

Wefald, in extending a welcome from the University, said Dole has future as Majority Leader was voiced with less certainty. "I'm confident about being the

the Kansas governor's race, his Republican leader," he said, but noted the Republican's majority status may be lost to a 50-50 tie with the Democrats. He said he wasn't sure how that situation would be dealt with.

In regard to other Sentate races, Dole predicted that Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond would defeat Democratic challenger Harriet Woods in the Senate race in Missouri, but said other contests, such as in Colorado, were less predictable.

He said if the GOP can win three of four races in the South, "we have a chance" to retain majority control of the Senate.

Dole said the closeness of the governor's race in Kansas was not the reason he was still on the campaign trail. Dole was to travel to "If there are good candidates in our party, we should be out here working for them," Dole said. Dole also encouraged those in the audience to continue working for the party - and President Ronald Reagan - throughout the night Mon-

He said the president needs the help, and should receive it for his work during the past six years. Dole said the Reagan's ability to say no concerning nuclear arms in the recent Iceland summit will eventually result in an arms agreement. As a result, Dole said, "in 25 to 30 years people won't know that much about nuclear war...there won't be that threat."

Donald, did not advertise.

Ruth Ann Wefald, wife of University President Jon Wefald, presented a gift to Dole, noting his support for adult education and his assistance in obtaining funds for a satellite communications center.

'wonderful friends at K-State."

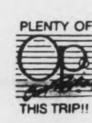

While Dole was upbeat in regard to

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

CLOTHING SALE

LADIES' & MEN'S

UNIONBAY

Sweaters — Oversize Tops

THIS TRIP!

Sweatshirts

ADIDAS . PONY.

SWEATSHIRTS - JERSEYS

FROM

IVY LEAGUE &

INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY SWEATSHIRTS

Harvard - Yale - Oxford -

Cambridge — Princeton Paris Sorbonne - Univ. of Zurich

MEN'S FAMOUS

LABEL SWEATERS

Cottons - Cardigans - Wools

Stripes - Solids

AND MORE!

Reg. $25.00

Reg. $30.00

799

PUMA

Reg. $30.00-$40.00

UNION BAY

MEN'S IZOD & Other Status Brand SHIRTS

MEN'S

OCEAN PACIFIC

Long Sleeve Tees

If Perfect to $15.00

LADIES' COTTON

SWEATERS

By Regatta Sport & Others

OVERSIZE SKIMP LENGTH

(Latest 3 & 4 Color Prints)

-Stripes & Solids--

If Perfect, to $38.00

NOW

Cotton Sweaters and Leggings

Regular Retail

FORENZA

Long London Body

UNIONBAY

-Latest Styles-

Reg. 35-45.00

LADIES' OVERSIZE SHAKER SWEATERS

NOW $

Reg. $20

MEN'S HEAVYWEIGHT RUGBY SHIRTS

- Stripes & Solids -

50% off Reg. Retail

1 DAY ONLY

FROM

REG. $25

Wednesday, November 5th Noon-8 p.m.

Ramada Inn 17th & Anderson (Across from Campus)

RENZA OCEAN PACIF

UNION BAY

TIGRE

SPORTWEAR

Ladies' & Men's Slacks & Jeans

Now

By Le Tigre & Others

Election Results

For more details on the issues and the winners and the losers in Election '86, see Page 6.

Mostly Cloudy

Mostly cloudy today, high in low 50s. Wind light and variable. Partly cloudy tonight, low around 40.

Sports

164 5/1/87  7
Kansas State Historical Soc
Topeka, KS

The K-State women's cross country team moved from eighth place to sixth place in the NCAA coaches' poll. See Page 10.

Kansas State Manhattan, Kansas 66506 Kansas State University

Wednesday

November 5, 1986

Volume 93, Number 52

Rural vote clinches Hayden victory

Kansas Governor-elect Mike Hayden receives a congratulatory kiss from his wife, Pat, early today at the Ramada Inn in Topeka after it was proclaimed he won the gubernatorial race.

Hayden won by a slim margin, pulling in a higher percentage of western Kansas votes. He is the first Republican governor to be elected in eight years.

Gov. John Carlin shakes hands with Lt. Gov. Tom Docking after Docking conceded the race to Mike Hayden.

Hayden election opens new era

With his wife, Pat, and other family members looking on, Hayden delivered his acceptance speech to a highly sup-

By PAT HUND Staff Writer

TOPEKA - A new political era dawned in Kansas when Republican Speaker of the House Mike Hayden was elected the state's 41st governor by a narrow margin over Lt. Gov. Tom Docking, the Democratic candidate.

Hayden won the governorship using a relentless flow of votes from the west to finally erode an early lead Docking had built in the metropolitan areas.

portive crowd at the Downtown Ramada Inn shortly after Docking conceded Not until 74 percent of the returns were in did Hayden take his first lead of the night — a 3,000-plus vote margin that brought a collective sigh of relief from Hayden backers at the headquarters at the Ramada Inn.

"It feels fantastic," Hayden said. "We will not violate the trust you have placed in us as the first family or in me as governor. Minutes earlier, a boisterous Republican crowd ushered Hayden through the ballroom to the podium, chanting, "We want Mike." Hayden lauded the efforts of those who voted for him, especially the supporters in the crowd.

"We couldn't have done it alone," he

See HAYDEN, Page 13

Republicans surrender Senate control

Senate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Democrats, picking off GOP seats around the nation on Tuesday, broke the Republicans' six-year hold on the Senate and served notice on President Reagan that his last two years in office will require "the art of government by compromise."

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas conceded at midnight that the

"Oh yeah, it's a question of whether it will be 53 or 55" Democrats, he said. Democrats harvested Republican seats in Maryland and Florida and were leading narrowly in half a dozen more

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, who hoped to become majority leader, said he had Democrats would win control of the first thought his party would win a 52-48 majority but as the returns came in, he confidently predicted, "I believe it's going to be better than that.'

Retiring Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., whose seat was another that Democrats hoped to pick up, said Republican control "was in jeopardy all along."

Republicans began the day trying to

See SENATE, Page 13

Election *

The Winners

Governor

Mike Hayden (R)

U.S. Senate

Bob Dole (R)

Congress, 2nd District

Jim Slattery (D)

Attorney General

Bob Stephan (R)

Secretary of State

Bill Graves (R)

Treasurer Joan Finney (D)

66th District Rep. Ivan Sand (R)

County Commission Wilton Thomas (R)

The Amendments

Liquor by the drink / Pari-mutuel -Classification >

Lottery -

Task force responds to criticism; discusses ways of taking action

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

Criticism flew at the Athletic Fee Task Force meeting Tuesday night in the Union as members objected to comments made by Athletic Director Larry Travis and as Student Senate Chairwoman Sally Traeger objected to comments made by task force members. Members took offense at Travis' statement that the group was biased and questioned the athletic department's motives in discontinuing the presence of business manager Mike Jones at their meetings

"I don't think the problem is that we're biased," said Doug Folk, task force chairman and junior in electrical engineering. "I think the problem will be (that) if we feel we're here to make a decision, we need to put forth facts."

"You can't expect any student to sit in here for a semester and not form an opinion," said Steve Ligon, task force member and senior in animal sciences and industry. "If someone asks me for my opinion, I'll tell them."

Folk said he believed the athletic department had supplied the task force with plenty of information.

"Personally, I feel like we've gotten all we need from the athletic department," he said. "I think it's time to start directing this thing Folk said he thought the task force needed to "go ahead and

See TASK, Page 13

Voters affirm 3 'sin' amendments in heavy county turnout Tuesday

From Staff and Wire Reports

After more than a century of tight liquor controls, including a prohibition period that lasted 68 years, Kansas voters overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment Tuesday to legalize county-option liquor by the drink At the same time, voters in this Bible Belt state approved amendments by substantial margins to allow local option pari-mutuel wagering and to establish a state-owned lottery. With 69 percent of the vote counted, liquor by the drink was passing 352,421 to 202,521 - a margin of 64 percent to 36 percent. The parimutuel question had gained a monumental 85 percent of the vote and the lottery had pulled 66-percent approval.

In Riley County, with 35 of the 49 precincts tabulated, the votes includ-

Pari-mutuel betting, passing Liquor by the drink, passing

9,119 to 5,108. - Lottery, passing 8,821 to 4,921. Classification of property, passing 10,638 to 3,914. State Board of Education amendment, failing 6,800 to 6,379.

Although there are 48 precincts for voting in the county, County Clerk Wanda Coder said absentee ballots are being counted as another precinct.

"The election (voter turnout) has been very heavy in Riley County," Coder said, adding that the county experienced a voter turnout of 68 percent, with 14,425 of 21,000 registered voters participating in Tuesday's

The liquor proposition eliminates the "open saloon" prohibition in the Kansas Constitution, leaving Utah as

See AMEND, Page 13

REGIONAL

104-year-old woman casts ballot

PITTSBURG — Florence Wisdom has been voting in Crawford County for as long as she can remember — and she has a pretty good memory for a 104-year-old woman.

She was the 44th person to vote in her precinct Tuesday. And in the 66 years since women's suffrage, Wisdom says she has never missed an opportunity to cast her ballot — regardless of weather or lack of transportation.

"It's important to vote," she said Tuesday, "but lots of people don't do it. It just don't make any difference to them."

Her idea about the importance of voting was probably influenced by her father, who worked in a tent for the election board years ago. Wisdom worked on the election board herself for 35 years.

She was 38 years old when women gained the right to vote and remembers going to vote in a horse and buggy. "There were not too many women who voted then," she said. "In later years, there's been a lot more."

Wisdom is a registered Democrat who hardly ever votes a straight party ticket but said she voted four times for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president.

Mechanic wins million in lottery

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — An airplane mechanic came forward Tuesday with the winning $1 million ticket in last week's Lotto game, Missouri lottery officials said.

Steven DiLorenzo, 39, of Plattsburg, called officials Tuesday morning to say he had the winning ticket, bearing the numbers 1, 5, 11, 16, 19 and 28, and it was validated at lottery headquarters in Jefferson City in the afternoon.

Lottery officials announced after Saturday night's drawing that one ticket with all six numbers on it had been sold, but didn't know who had it until they heard from DiLorenzo.

They said he bought the ticket at United Cooperatives in Smithville, using a combination of birth dates to choose his numbers. The Lotto game began Oct. 1, and the first grand prize winners, Ronald and Mary Ann Brinker, used the same technique to pick their numbers.

DiLorenzo told lottery officials he copied the numbers down while watching them being picked on the statewide television broadcast Saturday night, but didn't check his ticket until Sunday.

He showed it to his wife, Judith Ann, who first thought he had only four or five of the six numbers, then realized he had picked them all. DiLorenzo works as a mechanic for TWA in Kansas City, and he and his wife have an 11-year-old son. They told lottery officials they have had a number of medical bills this year and will use their winn-

Whooping cranes return to Kansas

ings to help pay for them.

GREAT BEND — A dozen whooping cranes were spotted at the Cheyenne Bottoms Wildlife area near Great Bend Tuesday morning, but they stayed only briefly before heading south.

Marvin Schwilling of the Kansas Fish and Game Department said that Monday and Tuesday seemed to be major migration days for the big birds, which are on the endangered species list but making a comeback.

He said the cranes started showing up at Cheyenne Bottoms Monday evening. The 12 birds seen there Tuesday were in three groups, but by mid-morning all but two of them had left.

"They've got a north wind, so they'll be moving today," said Schwilling, the department's project leader for non-game and endangered wildlife. "Normally, with a tailwind, we'll get strong migration."

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

BONKERS

presents

Johnny Reno & the Sax Maniacs

Friday, Nov. 7, 10 p.m., reserved seats available

Open from 3 p.m. to 3 a.m.

Aggieville

NATIONAL

White House denies Iran arms deal

WASHINGTON — The White House, seeking to curb speculation that an arms deal with Iran might have freed an American hostage in Beirut, on Tuesday reaffirmed a U.S. ban on weapons sales to that nation.

"As long as Iran advocates the use of terrorism, the U.S. embargo will continue," White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters aboard Air Force One.

Speakes was responding to reports that the United States might have sent an emissary to Iran to offer arms or communications equipment to help win the release of David Jacobsen, a hostage who was freed over the weekend after 17 months in the hands of a pro-Iranian group in Lebanon.

The White House spokesman also said that "the U.S. position on the Iran-Iraq war remains that the fighting should stop and the two sides should reach a negotiated settlement of their dispute."

Asked whether Iran remained on the list of nations the administration accuses of aiding terrorism, Speakes said, "Yes, there's been no manifestation of a definitive change in Iranian policy."

The ban was imposed in a declaration of national emergency announced on Nov. 14, 1979, by then-President Carter 10 days after Iranian militants seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The militants held U.S. diplomats hostage for 444 days.

President Reagan has reaffirmed that policy every year since taking office, issuing a statement in the first two weeks of November in 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984 and 1985.

Koch to recover stolen city flag

BOSTON — Despite demands by a "Red Sox Revenge Squad," New York Mayor Ed Koch will not have to dress up in a bunny suit to get back a stolen New York City flag.

In a World Series bet, Koch and Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn had agreed that the city whose team lost the World Series would fly the other's flag. A New York flag was raised Friday but stolen Monday by a group that demanded the Mets apologize "for the behavior of their security force and fans" and that Koch "dress up in a bunny outfit."

Flynn spokesman Frank Costello said Koch would get his flag back because the one flying here was bought by Boston to use rather than Koch's.

California hospitals' rates highest

WASHINGTON — Spending one day in a typical American hospital room cost $212 last year, with California the most expensive state to be hospitalized in, and Mississippi the least costly.

Hospital room charges jumped nearly 70 percent over five years, on average, from a 1980 cost of $127-a-day, according to statistics published by the Census Bureau. The figures were drawn from data compiled by the Health Insurance Association of America and the American Hospital Association.

Room charges were only part of the cost of a trip to the hospital. Adding in doctors fees, medication and other charges raised the average daily cost of a stay to $369 as of 1983, the most recent detailed statistics available from the hospital association. At that rate the average hospital stay was estimated at $2,789 by the group.

The health insurance association's 1985 study of hospital room charges found that the average daily cost was $281 in the Golden State. That was up from a daily rate of $161 five years earlier. Rounding out the five most costly states to be hospitalized were Alaska, $274-a-day; Michigan, $270; Pennsylvania, $256 ad Illinois, $247.

Ilue Kiver Pub

TONIGHT
"Nobody's Business"

$2 cover

THURSDAY NIGHT

"Sheer Delight"

Male Strippers!!! 9-12 p.m

Also: We are starting to receive new merchandise that was recently ordered

at our national show.

Check it out!!

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENTS can nominate teachers for the undergraduate teacher award in Bluemont 6.

EDUCATION MAJORS: Juniors with a 3.3 GPA and sophomores with a 3.6 GPA can sign up for Kappa Delta Pi education honorary in the Curriculum and Instruction office on the second floor of Bluemont. For more information, call 538-5728

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS has committee member applications available today through Friday in the SGS office.

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for $500 student cancer research awards in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec.

TODAY

A DIVORCE GROUP FOR MEN open to all males meets from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Parish Activities Center, 530 Poyntz Ave. For more information, call 532-6984 or 776-8821.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3. The topic will be "K-State's Horticulture Therapy Degree Program."

PHI ALPHA THETA will have its annual book sale from 8:30 a.m to 3:30 p.m. on Eisenhower's second floor.

ANTI-PORNOGRAPHY WEEK SPONSORED BY WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER presents "Pornography, Feminism and the Meese Commission Report" at 7 p.m. in Union 212.

PEACE CORPS meets all day in Holtz Placement Office.

DATA PROCESSING MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets for yearbook pictures at 7:15 p.m., in Fairchild 202.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Dennis M. Shockley at 2:30 p.m. in Union 202, The topic will be "George McGill of Kansas: Depression Senator."

PI TAU SIGMA meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 161.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING SENIORS: See Mary in the M.E. Office by 5 p.m. to sign up for composite pictures.

PHI ALPHA EPSILON will have initiation at 6 p.m. in Union Sunflower Room.

open meeting to all at 7 p.m. in Union 207.

ALTERNATIVE MUSIC BRIGADE meets at

THURSDAY

A.C.E. meets at 6 p.m. in Calvin 102.

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre.

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION

ASSOCIATION meets at 4 p.m. in Bluemont 217. The topic will be "Student-Teacher-Principal Relationships". IEEE meets at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

Group pictures will be taken after meeting.

ROWING ASSOCIATION meets for yearbook pictures at 7 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

DATA PROCESSING MANAGEMENT
ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union
Stateroom 3. The topic will be "Management In-

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212. The program will be the Farm Bureau Insurance

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 5:15 p.m. at the Theta Xi house. There will be a dinner at

PRE-VET MED CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Troter 201.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120. SAILING CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union

213. Elections for next year's commodore will be conducted.

A.G.C. STUDENT CHAPTER SEMINAR

meets at 4:30 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

PEACE CORPS meets all day in Holtz Place-

ANTI-PORNOGRAPHY WEEK SPONSORED BY WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER will present "Strategies for Pornography in Manhattan" at 7 p.m. in Union 209. There will be a NOW at 7 p.m. in Union 209. There will be a NOW meeting for present and potential members afterward.

U-LEARN INTERESTED VOLUNTEERS can sign up from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at a table in the Union.

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER meets at 8 p.m. For location, call 532-6442.

RACQUETBALL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 206.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Maureen Dever Lien at 9 a.m. in Justin 244. The dissertation topic will be "Copper Uptake Into Hair Via in Vivo Stable Isotope Dilution Analysis."

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

THE COUNTRY'S CALLING YOU

Come in and relax with prompt and friendly sit down service.

IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL TIME

Breakfast Served
24
Hours

We are located Just south of Wal-N and Motel 6.

Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner and Dessert Specials Everyday Late Night Snacks

COUNTRY KITCHEN.

420 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Manhattan (Next to Motel 6)

776-6301

Christmas Basic Sale!!

537-9591

Ben Franklin

Sale ends Saturday Nov. 8, 1986

- · Poinsettia picks: 59¢ each
- Christmas Yarn: 88¢/skein
 12 x 12 Christmas Aida: 2/$1
- Jingle Bells: 3/$1

-And Much More-

Westloop Center Manhattan 776-4910

1216 Laramie

New Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9a.m.-9p.m. Sat. 9a.m.-7p.m., Sun. 1-6p.m.

"Better Quality for Less"

PARENTS' WEEKEND '86

"Good Parents Give Their Children Two Things: One Is Roots, The Other Is Wings"

Chimes Junior Honorary is coordinating this weekend for Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

Before the game on Saturday, bring your parents to campus for some special events and tours!

- -Engineering Reception & Tours, Durland Hall, 9 a.m.
- -Campus Tours, begin at the Union, 10 a.m.
- -Mini-Classroom Sessions, Union 2nd Floor, 10 a.m.
- -Pre-game Buffet, Union Bluemont Room, 11 a.m.

And a very special thanks to these contributing sponsors:

Holiday Inn-Holidome Bonanza Sirloin Stockade Commonwealth-Westloop 6 Mr. Steak Bonkers

Serving You Two Ways!

From 11 to 5 we offer our MINI-SERVICE for a quick meal over a short lunch hour . . .

and after 5 we offer
FULL
AITRES

WAITRESS SERVICE for a more relaxed dining experience

Either Way-Try Us Soon!

1219 Bluemont—AGGIEVILLE

539-3166

Automotive DUI should not apply to airplanes, pilot says

By KIM GREENWOOD Collegian Reporter

Automotive charges of driving under the influence should not apply to airplanes, said Kelly McClain, recent graduate of K-State and member of the K-State Flying Club.

Most everyone obeys the rule "eight hours from bottle to throttle," McClain said. He said he hasn't seen or heard about anyone at the Manhattan airport who has flown under the influence of alcohol.

"Although I have, in the past, driven my car while under the influence of alcohol, I would never consider flying a plane while drunk," McClain said.

According to the Associated Press. up to 16,000 pilots continue to fly even after their automobile licenses have been suspended or revoked because of alcohol consumption or drug use.

The study was conducted by the Inspector General's office of the Department of Transportation. It compared names of 700,049 aviators with the National Drivers Registry list of 4 million motorists whose licenses had been suspended or revoked since 1960, for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

"Most of them are private or business pilots, but about a thousand are Class 1, or commercial pilots,' an unidentified DOT official said.

"Whether pilots consume alcoholic beverages more regularly than the population in general is open to question. But we do know that flying and drinking don't mix. As with driving, people who mix booze with flying have a lot of accidents. Fifteen percent is the figure often bandied about for the portion of fatal general aviation accidents that are alcohol related," according to Flying magazine.

According to Federal Aviation Administration regulations 91.11, no individual under the influence of alcohol or drugs may act as a pilot or crew member on a civil aircraft while having 0.04 percent or more by weight of alcohol in the blood. A pilot or crew member must wait at least eight hours from the last consumption of alcohol before flying.

More than half of all alcoholrelated aviation accidents occur at night. Pilots involved in night accidents tend to have less flying experience, indicating they may not be aware of the hazards of flying under the influence.

Daytime alcohol-related accidents generally involve older pilots, often having twice as much flying experience. Flying magazine states these statistics suggest a correlation between alcoholism and alcohol consumption.

To test the effects of alcohol consumption on flying abilities, Flying magazine's editors, Mac McClellan and Richard Collins, participated in an experiment involving alcohol and a flight simulator - a device like an airplane that gives pilots practice without leaving the ground.

The experiment involved three steps. The first step was for each pilot to fly the simulator while sober. The second flight occurred after each pilot obtained the blood alcohol content of 0.04 percent. The last simulated flight was done after each pilot had a blood alcohol content of at least 0.10 percent.

FAA regulations state a person cannot fly with an alcohol content of 0.04 percent. Most states consider an alcohol content of 0.10 percent as driving under the influence in an automobile

Jay Hopkins, SimuFlite's manager of instructional design, was the only sober person in the cockpit. He made several observations during the experiment.

 Alcohol makes pilots more sensitive to turbulence.

Basic control of the aircraft deteriorates.

- Crew members become lax in communication and the use of slang Conversations dangle. Communication with the Air Traffic Controller suffers. Poor reasoning results from lack of communication creating even worse confusion. - Pilots do not recognize their errors after drinking. - Alcohol affects the perception of reality adversely.

- Pilots lack concern and tend to become overconfident. "...concern was not present after the first drink, as they did not appear to have any concern about being able to complete the flight, yet that was when some of the flying was at its worst," Hopkins said.

"The eight-hour rule has been meticulously observed since it was enacted and, to me, the most foreign thing in the world would be to go flying after a few drinks. When I flew, I felt I was going to succeed only if I concentrated on the proper thing at the proper time. My flying was very cautious," Collins said.

"It appears that the FAA's new rule of 0.04 percent BAC (blood alcohol content) is valid because both Collins and I performed worse after one drink. On raw data, I think we would have been dead meat because the booze ruined my ability to scan the instruments and to think about more than one thing at a time," McClellan said.

"A pilot's first flight under the influence of alcohol could be an important factor in determining whether he will continue to drink and fly. If his experience on that first flight frightens him, he probably would not repeat it. However, if he thinks he has done well, he will not be as hesitant to try it again," Hopkins said.

"For those of us who love to fly and love to drink, the eight-hour rule is our only salvation because it keeps those activities a safe and workable distance apart," McClellan said.

University announces garden construction

By The Collegian Staff

The acquisition of a sufficient amount of funds has enabled University officials to announce plans for the construction of a new horticulture garden on the K-State campus this spring.

Paul Jennings, head of the Department of Horticulture, and Rusty Andrews, director of communications for the KSU Foundation, announced last week that the project had been pledged or given $70,000 of the $100,000 needed to complete construction of the garden.

"We're very pleased with the contributions and support we have received from the alumni and friends (of K-State and the horticulture department)," Andrews said.

A campaign to raise funds for the garden was initiated by Manhattan and University officials during special Arbor Day ceremonies at the site in March.

"We expect to reach our goal

(of $100,000) and are very excited about the building of the garden,"

Andrews said. He said that up to this point, most contributions have come from horticulture alumni and friends, but a campaign to approach corporations and foundations for the final $30,000 is in the process

The garden will be located along Denison Avenue near the horticulture conservatory and serve as a teaching and demonstration aid.

The garden will span an area of about three acres. Collections of turfgrass, hedge plants, junipers, ground covers and ornamental grasses will cover the area, which will include a rose garden, shrub collection, herb garden and rock and rock-wall gardens.

Plans are to incorporate the existing horticulture conservatory into the garden and to create a visitor center that will provide information to the public about the plantings.

AGGIEVILLE

Wednesday

$1.50

Former hostage reunites with children

Doctor says Jacobsen in good health

By The Associated Press

WIESBADEN, West Germany -David Jacobsen wept for joy Tuesday on seeing his children again and said he longed for the day other Americans held in Lebanon also are Jacobsen's three grown children arrived in nearby Frankfurt on Tuesday morning to see their father. He was released by his Shiite Moslem kidnappers in Beirut on Sunday after more than 17 months of captivity and now is undergoing medical tests at the U.S. Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden.

Hospital director Col. Charles K. Maffet told a news conference later Tuesday Jacobsen was in good health and would not need follow-up medical care.

The family had an emotional midday reunion at the hospital and the children welcomed their 55-year-old father to freedom with a song.

On Tuesday evening, Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite told a news conference in Wiesbaden he expects to hear within 24 hours from his contacts whether he will be returning to Beirut to negotiate the release of more Western hostages.

Jacobsen, a hospital administrator and a native of Huntington Beach, Calif., said he had been thinking about running for the U.S. Congress.

"Unfortunately my timing is very, very bad. The election is today," he told reporters. "So, you're going to have to wait off for two years. But I'm going to do it (run for Congress). It's going to happen, it's what's in my destiny.

He spoke to reporters from a flagdraped hospital balcony, where he appeared with his sons Eric and Paul and his daughter, Diane Duggan. They spent about 11/2 hours inside the hospital before emerging to meet journalists. Jacobsen hugged his children, who then played a recorded song about his homecoming, "When the Word Comes," written and sung by the two sons.

With tears in his eyes, Jacobsen said Tuesday was "a day of joy with

"I want to thank God for my kids, for their wisdom and their judgment.' But Jacobsen repeated earlier statements that he now hoped for the release of other Americans missing in Lebanon. "I hope to God they'il be coming out soon and by God I'll be down there with you (reporters) loving them, too," he said.

IN AGGIEVILLE USA Tonite $2 Pitchers

$1 Coolers Plus

Rock'n'Roll with

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as VISA and MasterCard. A Kansas licensed facility, Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since Comprehensive Health Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Roe) Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

WITH TRANSPORTATION JANUARY 3 - 11, 1987

TRIP INCLUDES:

THE OFFICIAL "COLLEGE DAYS" PACKAGE INCLUDES

Transportation package includes round log motor coach transportation from campus to Steamboat. You will depart campus Januars. 3, 1987 arriving the next day. Coaches will be ase to return Januars. 19, 1987 arriving home the next day. Coaches we use are the most modern and fully equipped available.

Village Primars as commodations will be at the Sheraton Thunderhead Condom insums. As commodations include a fireplace full kitchen, has counter area, color TV, balcons, outdoor heated pool, saunas, and hot tubs. For ated only about 2' cards from the lifts, coulcan't ask for more.

A four out of five day souvenir photo lift to ket at Steamboat

Full time travel reps to throw parties and take good care of cou A great schedule of parties and activities including hot tub happy hours, tainside wine and cheese parties, lots of free refreshments, good music, and

Ontional ski rentals at greatly reduced rates Optional ski lessons for all types of skiers at reduced rates

All taxes and tips included

* To sign up see Peggy

in Calvin Hall, Room 108, or for more information call Greg at 776-9543

- Information meeting at the University Ramada Inn, Room 425 Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 8:15 p.m.

AST CHANCE!

^{$}184

Steamboat 5 NICHTS 1/4-9 $144

$183 5 NIGHTS 1/4-9 $223 7 NICHTS 1/4-11 Keystone/

A-Basin $142 NIGHTS 1/3-8

TOLL FREE COLLECIATE WINTER SKI BREAK

Never a dull moment

House drinks Blended drinks Wines 616 N. 12th 539-9967

If you want a Pizza Hut use less dôugh.

toppings come through And a crispy texture for a pizza quite unlike any you've ever had. FOR DELIVERY CALL 539-7666

OR THE LOCATION NEAREST YOU) DELIVERY HOURS SAT-SUN 11 a.m. AGGIEVILLE UNTIL CLOSING 1121 MORO 539-7666 MON-FRI 5 p.m. UNTIL CLOSING WESTLOOP

2931 CLAFLIN 539-7447 3RD & MORO 776-4334

© 1986 Pizza Hut, Inc. At participating Pizza Hut* reseautants

Color Monitor Bonus Offer! Tandy 1000 EX Buy America's #1 PC Compatible and Get a Color Monitor at No Charge!

Reg. Separate Items 1098.95 Low As $37 Per Month* ■ 50% Faster Clock Speed Than

■ Includes Personal DeskMate™

the IBM® PC ■ Built-In Disk Drive ■ 256K Memory

Six-in-One Applications Software A true PC-compatible computer that's ready to use thousands of MS-DOS programs. Improved clock speed means you can run most of today's popular software faster than ever. Plug in joysticks, printer or a second disk drive without buying extra-cost adapters.

*CitiLine revolving credit from Citibank. Payment may vary depending upon balance. IBM/Reg. TM International Business Machines Corp. MS-DOS/TM Microsoft Corp. Personal DeskMate and DeskMate II/TM Tandy Corp.

2609 Anderson In Anderson Square 539-6151

Weekdays 9-6 Saturday 9-5 Closed Sunday EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Lillian Zier PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz

ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board. THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Efforts must continue to free other hostages forget the others in captivity.

Jacobsen's release must cerfreedom but also for the continued hope that two other released.

Waite, who has negotiated the freeing of the hostages for more than a year, is currently working on the release of the other could not do.

Throughout the campaign to Jihad, the affair has been shroudas to the treatment of the hostages and their whereabouts. American public expect to know

With one American hostage no all the details following such a longer living "in hell," most are touchy incident as a hostage rejoicing at the return of David release. Americans, now more Jacobsen, a former hostage held than ever, should focus on the reby the Islamic Jihad in Lebanon. maining hostages in Lebanon However, Americans must not with renewed hope of their

In Jacobsen's words, the tainly be praised not only for his hostages "are in hell, and we've gotta get them home." This plea should be enough to get everyone American hostages may soon be involved in this issue, especially with the hope that the other Anglican Church envoy Terry hostages may soon be freed with the help of Waite and a push from the American public.

If the American public can expect the release of the hostages, hostages. It was through Waite's some questions must go work that Jacobsen was released, unanswered. The secrecy may a job the American government help the return of the American hostages.

Once all the hostages are free the hostages of the Islamic returned, then the public has the right to know how the situation ed in secrecy, leaving questions was handled. Until then, the government must give every effort that it gave to the release of Not always, however, can the reporter Nicholas Daniloff from the Soviet Union.

Proposal would benefit student representation

Quick. When was the last time you visited with your student senator about an issue? Can't remember? Don't feel bad; you're not alone.

I'd be willing to bet that most students don't know their senators. And most senators don't know many of the constituents they represent. This leads to a vicious cycle of apathy, lack of participation in elections and poor representation of many segments of the University community.

One can't really blame current senators or student government leaders for this problem. I honestly believe they are making a good effort to get students involved and represented in this vital and educational activity. The problem lies in the method of electing senators.

As it stands, senators are elected by students in their colleges. One senator represents 300 students. Recent legislation also provides for one senator to represent 600 part-time students.

Thursday night, Student Senate will decide whether to allow students to vote to modify this form of representation. If senate approves, students will vote in February either to keep the current system or elect half of the senate by college and half by living district: greek, off campus and University housing. If enough people vote for the change, it will take effect in Februrary 1988, or the next regular election.

For example, I'm in the College of Arts and Sciences and I live off campus. At the polls, I would present my student ID card, then receive two ballots: one with a slate of arts and sciences senate candidates and one with a slate of off-campus candidates. The size of senate would not change under this plan.

This method of electing senators is aimed at solving problems before, during and after elections. Some examples:

- Many off-campus and University housing residents believe, right or wrong, that they don't stand a chance of being elected to senate. This is reflected in the fact that fewer than one-third of senators come from these living districts. Perhaps they feel overwhelmed by financial and logistic concerns that elections bring.

LEE WHITE Guest Columnist

 Similarly, a great number of off-campus and University housing residents don't vote in elections. Less than one-fourth of the students routinely turn out at the polls. Greeks have a good track record of involvement in student government and the elections. This is fantastic. But maybe if these traditionally apathetic groups had positions guaranteed to them, participation would increase while involvement of our greek friends would remain intact.

Some senators aren't involved in their colleges to the extent that provides for meaningful dialogue with constituents. But, alas, they are involved in their living districts. They socialize with friends from their house, floor, apartment complex or others close to home. If living district representation is implemented in conjuction with college representation, we will have approachable, recognizable senators with whom students can discuss issues and concerns.

I've spent many weeks researching this plan. It can be done economically and efficiently. In fact, this form of electing senators already is in place at Iowa State University and Oklahoma State University, peer institutions to K-State in the Big Eight. Only three institutions in the Big Eight - K-State, the University of Nebraska and the University of Colorado - have no living district representation in their senates.

Find out who your senators are and let them know you want a chance to vote on this referendum question. Together, we can build a bright future for dealing with important University-wide issues.

Lee White is a senior in journalism and mass communica-

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WAS A YOUNG SUPPLE GIRL WITH RUBY LIPS AND SNOW WHITE SKIN WHO SHACKED UP WITH SEVEN MIDGETS....

Violent pornography hurts society

On the third floor of Farrell Library is a large collection of publications with which you may be unfamiliar. The Government Documents section of the library is an incredibly jumbled collection of confusingly indexed regulations, hearings, maps, reports and other seemingly uninteresting things our government has been turning out. In an odd paradox, the Government Documents staff is incredibly well-informed and helpful at wading through the paper and finding what you need. My suggestion is to let them point you in the right direction before searching endlessly through the stacks.

A recent addition to the documents collection is a copy of the Attorney General's Report on Pornography. The Meese Commission Report, as it is commonly called, is a work comprising two volumes of almost 1,000 pages each. There are no illustrations except some fuzzy black and white photographs of the fully clothed commissioners toward the end. The report chronicles, among other things, a history of the pornographic industry and the enormous tax-free profits currently being made by distributors of this material. Through testimony and written descriptions, it catalogs the sickest, most depraved slice of America imaginable.

Among the pornography reviewed by the commission there were abundant examples of graphic oral, anal and genital sex acts, bondage, rape, torture and bestiality. These materials involved both adults (almost always women) and children. They were, and still are, available in print, photographs

Other material examined by the commission included examples of violent eroticism, sado-masochism, self-castration and (the sickest of all) "snuff films" showing genuine victims, not actors, who are raped, tortured and killed on film. Each description is clinically sterilized so as not to be pornographic in and of itself. If you are familiar with hard-core pornographic material, you'll understand that's probably why they left out

My guess is that most of us have never encountered real hard-core pornography. Penthouse and Playboy are family magazines compared to this stuff. The "adult book store" is the usual outlet for hard-core porn and is a fixture of places like Time Square in

DOUGLAS J. SCHMIDT Guest Columnist

New York City or the Combat Zone in Boston. You have to go to the big cities to find this stuff, right? Not necessarily.

Over the years, there has been a quiet invasion of very extreme hard-core pornography even into the conservative communities of the Midwest. As the movie "The Music Man" put it, "right here in River City" (i.e. Manhattan). On Route K-18 West, just before you get to the Manhattan Airport, is an adult book and video store. There you may purchase new and used triple-X-rated films, buy sexually explicit magazines (costing between $12 and $30) and rent pornographic video tapes.

Three of the more extreme video tapes that caught my eye were "Obedience School," 'The Domination of Tammy" and "Rape Dutchess." These are representative of the titles identified by the Meese Commission as being easily available and for general sale to the public through pornographic outlets. Their covers depicted nauseatingly graphic scenes of the bondage, submission, torture and mutilation of women. The store is also surprisingly well-stocked with leather restraints, assorted bondage implements and, at last count, a cat-o-nine tails whip. Does this sound so incredible in Manhattan?

The Meese Commission's final report calls for harsher restrictions on the manufacture, distribution and sale of all types of pornography. Relative to pornography involving violent sexual acts directed at women and children, I tend to agree. But where do you draw the line? The Meese Commission unfortunately went out hardest against the distributors of soft-core porn such as the neighborhood convenience store. Censorship is a very ugly business, and here lies the basic flaw in the commission's conclusions.

Hard-core porn is a quantum leap away from the run of the mill Penthouse and Playboy. Other magazines such as Hustler and True Detective Stories fall somewhere in between. Hard-core porn (and most soft-core porn) is detrimental because it is exploitive, degrading and demeaning to women. It also is offensive to the general public and to most human sensibilities and is potentially dangerous to children.

Wednesday, November 5, 1986 - 4

current the Unfortunately, administration's stance is anti-sex, antieducation and anti-civil liberties. They are using a worthy cause to further their own conservative view of normal sexuality. The people who suffer most will not be the producers and distributors of hard-core porn. This is what happens when you mix political motives with good intentions. You get political intentions be they good, bad or ab-

Pornography is bad on its own merit based on the very real, harmful effect it has on real people, not actors. Its basic premise as a form of entertainment is that women secretly want to be abused and that precocious children want to be molested. They struggle but eventually submit and enjoy being raped and dominated by men. Hard-core pornography is, I believe, one of the hallmarks of the decline of western civilization.

No one is immune to the effects of sexually contrived violence no matter how well insulated you think you are from it. It pervades many aspects of societal interaction, particularly the "normal" ways men and women in our society treat one another. Sexually exploitive images of women appear in television programming, popular music and advertising. It is my firm belief that a good deal of this trickles down from the top of the hard-core heap.

I highly recommend seeing the documentary film "Not a Love Story" produced by the National Film Board of Canada and available through the Women's Resource Center. It is an unnerving examination of the pornographic industry, its victims and its effect on society. I suggest you read the Attorney General's final report, not just accounts of it in the popular press. It is an education in itself. The report can be found in Farrell Library. Ask the documents staff; they'll know what you're looking for.

Douglas J. Schmidt is a graduate student in entomology.

'Should,' 'wants' must compromise

"Should" and "want" are old acquain-

Because of the fast friendship between "should" and my mother, "should" has been my constant, although sometimes unwanted, companion since my entrance into this world some 21 years ago.

"Should" was first introduced to me at the dinner table when I was just a tot. Commercials told my family that Gerber baby food was the hottest item in the grocery stores for my generation. Nutrition experts had been singing the praises of stewed prunes, chewable liver in jars and strained peas and carrots since the product's inception.

Everyone who was anyone kept telling my family that all good babies should eat this fine cuisine. Unfortunately, Mother decided to listen to her dear old friend "should" and bought the stuff. Like many other fortunate tots, I had the privilege of swallowing these processed meals.

Though my memory of this period is hazy, my intuition tells me that I also had a few brief encounters with "want." Although at this age I had never been formally introduced to it, I recall that I "wanted" something at every meeting.

But when an event approached that I had no desire to experience, "not," an impartial acquaintance of "want," accompanied it.

Conflict arose when Mother's friend "should" and my friends "not" and "want" met. An example of these meetings would be my nap time. My mother said I should take my nap, while I howled that I did not want to

Unless my temper tantrums could turn the

and the state of t

SUSAN BAIRD Collegian Columnist

battle in my favor, the insistence of "should" usually overwhelmed my allies. Time after time my will succumbed to the superior strength of "should."

As I grew older, my encounters with "should" increased. Occasionally, the wishes of "should" and "want" coincided. When the parental "should" said I should eat three meals each day, "want" said it would

Through the influence of my family and the parochial grade school I attended, the conservative morals of my hometown became instilled in my heart. My family was overjoyed at my acceptance of "should" into my

But upon entering college, I discovered a major difference between the policies of 'should" and "want."

Society's policies about studying hard, staying home after 10 p.m. and not drinking alcohol had been endorsed by "should" as the best policies to follow while attending college. Unfortunately, following these policies would not lead to an incredibly exciting life.

Once again conflict arose between

"should" and "want." But the outcome of the battles changed. Because my family was four hours away from Manhattan, the influence of "should" was severely diminished. "Want" became a more frequent victor.

On one occasion, I decided that I should pass up "Miami Vice" for U.S. Politics. At other times, I decided that I wanted to watch the ballet in McCain Auditorium, then study until 2 a.m.

Many times I listened to the opposing views but was unwilling to accept either's opinion. In these situations, "should" and "want" compromised.

While "should" said that I should stay home Wednesday night and read my political science, "want" reminded me that I had wanted to see my friends all week. We compromised. I stayed out until 11 p.m., then studied until 2 a.m.

Attending a university distant from my family has taught me an important lesson. "Should" and "want" often conflict in modern society. While "should's" advice is usually sound, "want" adds some sparkle to

When conflict arises between these two appealing views, a good path to follow is that of compromise.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words.

Hasenfus asks for 'mercy of the court'

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - A captured American mercenary said Tuesday he would ask the Nicaraguan government to show compassion if he is found guilty by a revolutionary court of terrorism and other crimes against the state.

Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., made the statement while being questioned by the prosecution and then his chief defense attorney in the afternoon session of the Sandinista People's Tribunal.

Near the end of the session, Hasenfus' Nicaraguan attorney Enrique Sotelo Borgen asked the cargo handler:

"If at the end of this trial you are to be found guilty and sentenced to prison, would you ask the Nicaragua government to be generous and show you compassion so you could return to your home and to your wife and small children?'

"Yes, I would," Hasenfus replied.

Hasenfus acknowledged that he was aboard a U.S.-made C-123 cargo plane that was flying arms to Nicaraguan rebels when the plane was shot down by Sandinista troops in Southern Nicaragua on Oct. 5.

He parachuted to safety but the three other crew members, two American pilots and a Nicaraguan radio operator, were killed in the

"The objective of our flights into Nicaragua was to resupply the FDN (Nicaraguan Democratic Force) and the UNO (United Nicaraguan Opposition) teams of the Contras," he told the three-member court. The rebels are referred to as Contras.

"Our objective of the air delivery of supplies to the Contras was to keep them resupplied so they could keep up their resistance against the Sandinista government," Hasenfus said.

He faces a maximum sentence of 30 years if convicted of terrorism, violating the maintenance of order and public security, and conspiracy.

Griffin Bell, a former U.S. attorney general who is assisting the defense, said Monday that Hasenfus "has thrown himself on the mercy of the court.'

Tuesday morning, Hasenfus, Sotelo Borgen, the president of the three-man tribunal and the assistant prosecutor viewed a videotape of an interview with the defendant broadcast on the CBS television program "60 Minutes."

Field trips important facet of museum course

By MARY LYNN GATSCHET Collegian Reporter

Field trips to museums may be a memory of elementary school for some, but such trips are an important tool of study in a new class called Introduction to Museum Studies.

Jessica Reichman, assistant curator of art, developed the class due to a need and interest among students. Reichman said several students had approached her wanting to learn more about art collections and museums. She decided to teach the class so she could reach a greater number of interested individuals.

The studies cover a wide range of museums, including art, history, science and technology museums, botanical gardens, zoos and historical homes.

The first step, Reichman said, was to define a museum. A museum can be a source of information, a source of relaxation or family recreation.

"It (a museum) can run the spectrum of being a very elitist type of institution to one of a very casual atmosphere," Reichman said. Other class sessions are devoted to the history of museums, museum museum. From there, students study the European progression until the first American museums, which are around 200 years old.

RELAX ON

OUR FAMOUS

SANTA CLAUS PATIO!

"That was very interesting for the students to discover that some of the museums in America are approaching 200 years old, which is really quite unusual for a nation in that we are relatively young in terms of world history," Reichman said.

In the class, the students also are introduced to fundamentals of exhibition design. There is a particular balance one has to achieve between a smooth traffic flow and elaborateness and detail of the exhibition. Reichman stressed the importance of good exhibition design being that people go to a museum to see the objects on display and not the Museum ethics is an interesting subject, Reichman said.

"It deals with directors and curators being honest in terms of where they get their artifacts," she said. "For instance, if they knowingly receive stolen goods from a country and pretend they do not know where they came from, or if they deal with an unscrupulous dealer who sells objects knowing that they were stolen or pilfered from another country, then that has to do with museum ethics."

Reichman said these violations of ethics are frequent, along with others. Another violation occurs when the director shares the same private interest in a type of collection as that of his museum. The conflict of interest sometimes causes the director to better his collection at the expense or loss of the museum's collec-

"Another example of museum ethics is if a museum doesn't take proper care of its objects or if its doors are never open to the public, then they're not acting in an ethical way," she said.

The latter part of the semester is focused on practical experience with proper care and handling of artworks. The class already has toured collections on campus, including the clothing and textile collection, curated by Ann Deegan, assistant professor of clothing textiles and interior design, and the anthropology collection, curated by Pat O'Brien, professor of sociology, anthropology and social work. It is planning trips to the Riley County Historical Museum amd Kansas Museum of Natural History in Topeka.

The tour in Topeka will include a regular guided tour through the museum, then the class will take a tour "behind the scenes" by observing storage areas and conservation labs where the props for exhibitions

Reichman plans to continue offering the class with no enrollment restrictions and no prerequisites every fall semester.

Commission changes firefighter's bonuses

By CHRISTINE DOLL Collegian Reporter

Despite objections from firefighters and their representative, the Manhattan City Commission voted Tuesday night to change the city firefighters' pay bonuses from longevity pay to a merit-pay system.

Longevity pay is based on how long the firefighter has been working. Merit pay is based on the amount of continued education the firefighter has and on his or her performance.

"I'm interested in paying additional money for above average performance," said Commissioner Dave Fiser.

Randall Forbes, attorney for the firefighters, said the firefighters gave up concessions in favor of the longevity program in the last contract.

"Three years ago, (the firefighters) compromised by agreeing to a lesser salary increase than offered by the city to obtain the longevity program," he stated in a letter to the commis-

Under the commission's plan, a firefighter would earn $500 in bonus pay if the individual received an exceptional rating by evaluators.

In the letter, Forbes stated the proposal's requirements for an exceptional rating were 'ridiculously stringent and do not fairly measure the firefighters who are putting out the desired ef-

For example, he said if a firefighter had a flat tire on the way to work, he would not be eligible for the $500 bonus pay because the requirements specify that attendance be perfect.

Assistant City Manager James Pearson, who represented the city in the negotiations, said Forbes was incorrect in that one tardy report "wouldn't affect the firefighter's overall rating."

In other action, the commissioners disagreed on the city's policy in deciding if architectual and engineering contracts should be awarded to "qualified" local

A committee advised the commission to select a Topeka engineering firm, which has handled other expansion projects for the water plant, instead of a Manhattan firm.

Fiser said the full commission, instead of a committee with representatives from the governing body, should hear both firms' proposals

Because it is the city's policy to award contracts to local companies, Fiser said the commission should hear the proposals and decide which firm will get the con-

A proposal for the full commission to select the firm was facing a vote when Commissioner Nancy Denning arrived. After 40 minutes additional debate, Denning voted in favor of the commission hearing the proposals, allowing the resolution to pass 3-2.

Local reports show significant voter turnout

By DERON JOHNSON Features Editor

A hotly-contested gubernatorial contest, the controversial "sin" amendments and fair weather likely combined to produce a high local voter turnout Tuesday.

Tad Schroeder, senior in marketing, said he supported all three "sin" amendments after voting Tuesday afternoon at Woodrow Wilson School, Sixth Street and Leavenworth Avenue. The "sin" issues are three proposed amendments to the state constitution that would allow for a state-operated lottery, liquor by the drink and parimutuel wagering.

"I voted for every one of them," Schroeder said. "I don't see the need for them not to be a part of Kansas." He said the need to keep lottery and pari-mutuel dollars in the state contributed to his decision.

Schroeder, who is from Abilene, said the prospect of locating a pari-

Amendments, race for governor spur electors

mutuel track there if the amendment is passed contributed to his "yes" vote. He also said liquor by the drink would be preferable for the state.

"Why not let them (state residents) go out and have a steak and a glass of wine?" he asked.

Although Schroeder said he supported Republican gubernatorial candidate Mike Hayden, he wasn't sure of the race's outcome.

"I think the governor's race will be very close," he said. "I hope Hayden Jayne Link, 615 Thurston St., voted at the Re-Organized Church of Latter Day Saints, 401 Vattier St. Link's votes were split on the "sin" issues.

"I voted for liquor by the drink but didn't vote for pari-mutuel or the lottery," she said. Link supported liquor by the drink because she said she believes the 30-percent food sales stipulation will prevent an exploitation of the amendment.

"It's not going to be like open saloons," she said. Link said the gambling amendments would encourage needless spending of money

"I think (gambling) gives people false hopes and they spend money in other places other than where they should," she said. Link voted "no" on the reclassification amendment as well. "I have a small business out of my home. If this bill goes through, people who have small businesses will have to pay an incredible amount of money to have a business out of the home," she said.

Steve Hoffman, 1219 Colorado St., also was split on the "sin" issues.

Hoffman said he voted "yes" for liquor by the drink and the lottery but voted "no" on pari-mutuel betting.

"It seems a little easier to regulate the lottery then the racing - a little easier to keep organized crime at an arm's length," he said.

However, Hoffman said, "I'd probably go (to the track)."

Voter turnout was, as predicted,

"I think we'll have 70 percent (voter turnout) at least," said Wanda Coder, county election officer and county clerk. "I think it's generally heavy all over the county." Coder said there are about 21,000 registered voters in Riley County.

Locally, four of five precincts polled by the Collegian supported Coder's claim of a heavy turnout. "Our turnout has been excellent," said Dorothy Branson, supervising judge of the 2nd Ward, 2nd Precinct. At 5:40 p.m., the precinct had recorded 211 voters.

"That's higher than normal for our precinct," Branson said. "Part of (the voter turnout) is because of the amendments."

Turnout also was heavy at the 5th Ward, 4th Precinct, where supervising judge Jeane Jubelt said more than 70 percent of the registered voters had voted. By 6:45 p.m., 325 had voted.

Mildred Yoder, supervising judge for the 4th Ward, 1st Precinct, said, "It's been better than 50 percent. By the time we're through, it'll be at least 60 percent." At 6:15 p.m., 231 people had voted.

"It's been pretty steady," Yoder said. "I'm real happy with it."

Heavy turnout was the rule in the 5th Ward, 1st Precinct, as well.

"We're past 50 percent," said Margaret Kitterman, supervising judge. Those voting by 6:30 p.m. had reached 325. Kitterman said many of the voters had been college students.

"We have had a preponderance of young people," she said. "It has been a steady stream all day."

See more election coverage, p. 12.

The situation wasn't as encouraging in the 1st Ward, however. Richard Bachamp, supervising judge, said, "We're not real excited about (the voter turnout). We're a little bit disappointed with the turnout being it was a general election."

As of 6 p.m., 116 people had voted in the precinct. Bachamp said he didn't know what to attribute to the Katha Hurt, Democratic candidate for the 66th District of the House of Representatives, gets a hug from her nephew, Rex Ziegler of Kansas City, Mo., after the final tally was announced indicating she lost the race to incumbent Republican Ivan Sand. Sand defeated Hurt by 138 votes.

Sand takes victory over Democrats in toughest race ever

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

JENNIFER LINDSEY Contributing Writer

Incumbent Ivan Sand, Republican 66th District House representative, defeated Democrat Katha Hurt by 138 votes in what he considered his toughest race ever.

'This was the most active race I've ever run," he said.

Sand attributed his victory to 10 years of experience as district representative.

Hurt said she intended from the beginning to go all-out in her challenge against Sand.

"We came out with the idea of winning," she said. Hurt attributed her strong candidacy to her campaign manager, Bob Shoop. Shoop, the father of one of Hurt's former first-grade students, said he contacted her after learning she was running for the position.

After meeting her last year, "I could see that she was a leader in whatever she was doing," he said. 'Katha has the energy and commitment to do whatever (is) necessary.

After final results were announced at about 1 a.m. today, Hurt wearily made her way home from The Wareham Room at The Cotton Club, where friends and supporters joined her in watching election returns. She left knowing she had accomplished some of her campaign objectives.

"We have come a far, far way," she said. "We've never made the Republicans work this hard in this district ever."

Hurt said the race also was personally rewarding.

"I have met hundreds of wonderful people," she said. "It has to go down in my books as a very positive ex-

Although the incumbent said he believed she ran a "terrific campaign," Sand said Hurt unjustly accused him of not supporting K-State. 'She attacked me. I've never been attacked before," he said.

Although he said he has no specific goals, Sand said one primary con cern will be to keep the budget funded and to place more emphasis on funding state highway system improvements.

"I look forward to working with the local government on a variety of issues that need help," he said.

Sand said he plans to develop specific programs to retrain and educate farmers that are out of Docking stresses Democratic pride in speech, thanks backers for help

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

TOPEKA - At 9 p.m. Tuesday, Lt. Gov. Tom Docking told a reporter from a Wichita television station that "I cannot say we have won, but victory is close." But by midnight, the Democratic candidate for the governorship in Kansas conceded.

In his remarks while conceding the race to Governor-elect Mike Hayden, Docking said that in defeat the Democratic party can "stand proud and tall."

"In the toughest of times we require the greatest measure of character," Docking said. "(Democrats) fought long and hard, and we can be proud of everything we've accomplished."

Party supporters, gathered at the Jayhawk Towers downtown, interrupted Docking several times shouting, "Next time, next time." "By damn, we have spirit," Docking said in response to the applause and shouts of encouragement.

Hayden, who has served as House back," he said. "We can make sure

'We have run a race on integrity and honor...one (for) which we can stand proud.

run a race on integrity and honor...one (for) which we can stand "We have spoken with clarity and issues can stand again." Docking said the Democratic party must press forward with improving

Gov. John Carlin continued the upbeat theme in his speech following Docking's comments.

"We've been down before as a par-Concerning his face against ty, but never out. We've always come

Tom Docking

Speaker for the past three years, Docking said, "He has run a good

On his own race, he said, "We have specificity about the issues. Our education and the economic condition in the state by promoting future jobs and a better economic base.

this continues as a two-party state.' State Democratic chairman Jim Parrish said, "(Kansas is) still a very Republican state (and that) is difficult for Democrats to overcome.

'The Democratic party has taken two giant steps forward, one small step back and (is) getting ready to take two more forward."

Parrish said the team of Docking, and his running mate, John Montgomery, a Junction City publisher, did not experience as great a loss in the western part of the state as had been anticipated in the Democratic

Docking is the son of Robert Docking, governor of Kansas from 1967 to 1975, and the grandson of George Docking, who served as Kansas governor from 1957 to 1961.

In addition to being a full partner in the law firm of Regan and McGannon in Wichita, Docking is director of Arkansas City Union State Bank and Guymon National Bank and Trust Co. He is also a member of the Kansas Bar Association and American Bar Association.

Della Wray Blythe of rural Manhattan hugs Nada Jo Thomas, wife of Wilton Thomas, winner of the county commission race, Tuesday at the local Republican headquarters after hearing Thomas was ahead by a substantial margin.

Thomas in 1st District seat, beats Bammes by 287 votes

By The Collegian Staff

With the final vote counts in early today, Wilton Thomas, the Republican candidate for county commission, defeated Democratic challenger Nancy Bammes by 287

Thomas garnered 1,820 votes, compared to Bammes' 1,533 in the race for the 1st District seat previously held by by Rosie Rieger, who decided not to seek re-election.

the past few years. She has been a resident of Riley County for 29 years. Thomas has been chairman of the Bammes, who owns and operates Bammes Liquor Store in Manhattan, has been active in county politics in Kansas Society of Farm Management and Rural Appraisers and chairman of the Kiwanis Club in Em-

He also has served on Faculty Senate and the Athletic Council while employed as an extension specialist in farm management for K-State from 1960 to 1974.

Thomas has been a Riley County farmer for the past 12 years.

"It would be hard to tag me as a liberal or conservative because I'm basically conservative in spending tax dollars but don't intend to be blind to business and job opportunities," Thomas said.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Democrats confidently proclaimed their continued control of the House of Representatives Tuesday and scored gains in the pivotal South, where a Republican political revival born of the Reagan era was undergoing a severe test.

Democrats took formerly Republican seats in Iowa's troubled farm country, in southern Maine, in Virginia and in South Carolina, and ousted GOP incumbents in the Mississippi Delta and in North

Republicans, as expected, won two previously Democratic open seats in Pennsylvania and Oklahoma, a close race for a Democratic open seat in Maryland and a muslinging contest in Loui-

Democrats overcome GOP challenge

By late evening, Democrats had won 135 seats and were leading in another 53 districts. Republicans claimed 92 districts and led in another 59.

A new generation of Kennedys also took its place in the Congress. Joseph P. Kennedy II, the son of slain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, coasted to an easy victory in the Boston, Mass., seat of retiring House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. But in Maryland his sister, Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, lost her uphill bid to unseat GOP Rep. Helen Delich Bentley.

The likely next speaker of the House, Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, easily won re-election to a 17th term, and most other leadership figures, including GOP Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., appeared assured of retaining their seats.

At mid-evening, O'Neill declared: "If there was a Reagan revolution, it's over."

"We've already won," Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said even before the polls closed.

Jim Bunning, who pitched two nohitters during a major league career with the Philadelphia Phillies and the Detroit Tigers, claimed a 55.6 percent win to hold the open seat for Republicans in Kentucky's 4th District, encompassing Louisville's suburbs.

Republicans also captured a formerly Democratic seat in Oklahoma, where former Tulsa mayor James Inhofe defeated Gary Allison, a 39-year-old law professor.

Feminist Bella Abzug lost a comeback bid against favored Republican incumbent Rep. Joseph DioGuardi in New York.

Group's dating service aims for compatibility

By JADA ALLERHEILIGEN Collegian Reporter

Whether the perfect evening is dinner and dancing, pizza and movies, or television and a warm fire, the Newman Ministries dating service aims to find each participant his or her perfect match.

The dating service is designed to give each participant a list of their 10 most compatible people on campus and their phone numbers.

"I know a lot of friends who sit at home during the weekends because they are afraid to call someone up and ask them out," said Russell Disberger, senior in finance and originator of the dating service.

"The dating service serves as an ice breaker. It provides people who are afraid to go out and meet others with a good excuse to call someone up and ask them out for a Coke," he

To use the dating service, one must donate a dollar and then fill out a multiple choice 17-item questionnaire.

Some of the questions include: "What do you feel is most important in someone you date? What's your idea of a perfect single meal? What animal are you like? How many days do you wear your jeans before washing? How often do you attend church?'

The answers are fed into a computer, and each participant receives a list of their 10 most compatible people and their phone numbers.

The dating service is open to anyone, and so far students from residence halls, fraternities, sororities and off-campus have participated.

"We've even had some married couples take the test to see if they really were compatible," Disberger

The fund-raiser began at the beginning of Homecoming week with booths set up at the Union, and it will run until the end of this week

"We hope to set up booths in some of the residence halls this week to obtain even greater participation,"

The results of the dating service will be available shortly after Thanksgiving, and a dance will be held at the beginning of December for the new matches.

At the dance, five a names will be drawn from all the participants, and the winners will each receive an expense-paid date — including limousine transportation, dinner and

"The five winners aren't required to take out someone on their list," Disberger said. "They can take anyone they want to."

The money raised will be used to finance Newman Ministries' statewide convention at Rock Springs Camp near Junction City in February. They will also make contributions to Big Brothers/Big Sisters and the Flint Hills Bread-

The dating service is sponsored by Newman Ministries, a Christian organization, and co-sponsored by La Ride Limousine Service and the Best Sound Around, a mobile DJ ser-

Bishops' letter has biases, group says

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - A proposed bishops' statement on the U.S. economy is confused about economic rights and puts too much emphasis on the state to help the poor, a prominent Roman Catholic lay group said Tuesday.

The critique came a week before the bishops are to take final action on their widely discussed pastoral letter, "Economic Justice for All."

Calling the letter one-sided, the lay group said the bishops "turn too readily to the state to direct economic activism, to create jobs, to determine foreign aid."

The lay critics also denounced the bishops' call for money to be diverted from defense spending. It is "seriously misleading" for the bishops to favor this "without saying how we could do so without making ourselves and our allies vulnerable to military blackmail or worse," they said.

An underlying theme of the letter appears to be a vision, not of justice based on liberty, but of an equality of income and wealth," the critics said.

"That concept of equality is incompatible with respect for liberty. It is also necessarily unfair, since individuals differ enormously both in talent and effort," they said.

The 29-member Lay Commission on Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy is co-chaired by former Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and lay Catholic scholar Michael Novak. The group also issued a critique of the first draft of the bishops' statement.

"Private economic initiative, and not the state, is the source of wealth in our country," Simon said, adding that "most prosperous nations are those built on the firm foundations of individual liberty and private

The 53,000-word pastoral letter is to be debated, amended and acted on next week in Washington at a meeting of U.S. bishops.

In nearly five years of hearings and revisions, the document has gone through two previous drafts, with a third one now up for adop-

The letter calls for a new experiment of "cooperation and partnership" among government, workers, managers and owners for the common good.

Citing the extent of poverty and joblessness in this country, the document calls for steps to establish full employment and a "floor of material well-being" for

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

PARENTS' DAY CONCERT L

MEN'S & WOMEN'S

GLEE CLUBS

(Morris Hayes, guest conductor)

K-STATE SINGERS

8:00 p.m.

McCain Auditorium Saturday, Nov. 8

Reserved Seats $3 Call 532-6428 noon-5 p.m.

general practice dedicated to Optometry in a friendly manner

We'd like to be your Optometric office

TO SLEEP WITH

- · Extended wear, Gas permeable, Tinted extended wear, Tinted soft contact lenses.
- All types of F.D.A. approved contacts.
- Approx. 5,000 contact lenses in stock.
- · Free consultation and trial contact lens fitting.

Drs Price, Young and Odle 1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan

537-1118

FORENZA

CLOTHING CONCEPTS

ADIDAS

OCEAN PACIFIC

UNION BAY

NIKE

UNION BAY

MANUFACTURER'S DIRECT CLOTHING SALE

OCEAN PACIFIC

UNION BAY

듄

TIGRE

NIKE

SAVE 50%-70%

LADIES' & MEN'S

Sweaters - Oversize Tops Sweatshirts

ADIDAS . PONY.

SWEATSHIRTS - JERSEYS

FROM

IVY LEAGUE &

INTERNATIONAL

UNIVERSITY SWEATSHIRTS

Harvard - Yale - Oxford -

Cambridge - Princeton

Paris Sorbonne - Univ. of Zurich

MEN'S FAMOUS

LABEL SWEATERS

Cottons - Cardigans - Wools

Stripes - Solids

AND MORE!

Reg. $25.00

Reg. $30.00

799

PUMA

PUMA

FROM

REG. $25

Reg. $30.00-$40.00

MEN'S IZOD & Other Status Brand SHIRTS

-Stripes & Solids-

MEN'S

OCEAN PACIFIC

Long Sleeve Tees

(Latest 3 & 4 Color Prints)

If Perfect to $15.00

LADIES' COTTON

SWEATERS

By Regatta Sport & Others

OVERSIZE SKIMP LENGTH

NOW

If Perfect, to $38.00

NOW

FORENZ SPORTWEAR

Long London Body Cotton Sweaters and Leggings

Regular Retail

Ladies' & Men's

UNIONBAY

Slacks & Jeans -Latest Styles-

Now

Reg. 35-45.00

LADIES' OVERSIZE SHAKER SWEATERS

NOW $ 1 99

Reg. $20

MEN'S HEAVYWEIGHT RUGBY SHIRTS

By Le Tigre & Others - Stripes & Solids -

50% off Reg. Retail

1 DAY ONLY

Wednesday, November 5th Noon-8 p.m.

Ramada Inn 17th & Anderson (Across from Campus)

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville HAPPY HOUR COPIES 31/2¢ From 6 p.m. to close includes 81/2 x 11 & 81/2 x 14/20# white only kinko's copies CHRISTMAS ART FESTIVAL Saturday, November 8 1986 Pottorf Hall in CiCo Park 9:00 - 5:30 Jean Station Jean

Model Search

Pick up details and entry form at Jean Station by 11/19/86

AGGIEVILLE - MANHATTAN

A Fowl Affair

Illustration by Andy Nelson

Story by Anne Brandsberg

TOP CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF

Feathered fowl makes a fancy feast

our o'clock on a November morning is cold, dark and usually miserable. But for duck hunters, it may be the most glorious part of the day.

Duck hunting season for the Manhattan area, in the low plains, is divided into three periods: Oct. 25 to Nov. 2, Nov. 8 to Dec. 7, and Dec. 24 to Jan. 4. Duck season closes and reopens to accomodate other game bird seasons. The staggered seasons are to prevent ducks and geese from being hunted at the same time.

Tim Day, senior in secondary education, said there are two techniques to hunt ducks. Driving up to a pond with ducks on it and scaring them into the air to shoot them is called puddle jumping. The more traditional way is to build a camouflaged blind. Hunters have to arrive at the blind before dawn to prevent being seen by the ducks.

"Ducks have really good eyesight. If you look up while they're flying over and they see your eyes, they won't come near. They're smarter than other birds," Day said.

Day said he hunts on private ponds because of a new law mandating the use of steel shot on public hunting grounds. Steel shot costs about three times as much as lead shot, Day said.

"There are probably as many ways to hunt and cook duck as there are hunters," Day said. "I don't cook them, my mom does. She roasts them or makes Chinese twice-fried duck."

How ducks taste depends on what they've been eating. If they've been eating high quality food out of an uncut crop field, they will have higher quality meat. Day said.

will have higher quality meat, Day said.

On the other hand, "If they been eating junk, they'll taste like junk," he said.

Having a hunting dog is a must for a duck hunter, Day said. Injured ducks can go down in the middle of the pond and will drown themselves. A dog will swim out to retrieve a duck in a lake. If a duck goes down in a marshy area, it can be lost in weeds where only a dog can find it.

Mike Keehn, graduate in pre-med, has been duck hunting since he was in third grade.

See DUCK, Page 9

Duck

Continued from Page 8

"You can build a blind and camouflage it up with trees and branches and float it on a lake until the ducks come. You've got to get up at 4 (a.m.) and sit and wait for them because it's dark and they can't see you. Ducks are smarter than geese. They're more skittish. They'll leave you alone if they see anything unusual. A goose will come and almost land on top of you.

"I'd rather pond jump than sit and wait for them - you get to sit in a warm truck. I've gone out and hunted behind a blind. You almost die of cold. One advantage of hunting from a truck is that you're more likely see them," Keehn said. "You can sit all morning in the cold and the ducks may never show. Besides, it's fun to sneak up on them, especially if there aren't many trees around. It's a challenge; it's fun.

go up at dawn is really beautiful," Keehn said.

Keehn thinks the steel shot law is a

"It's safer for us and for them. If they get wounded, they won't die of

Intramural Injuries

Injuries

Sports

Call

537-8305 Dr. Mark Hatesohl

Chiropractic Family Health Center 3252 Kimball Avenue (In the Candlewood Center)

lead poisoning, and there isn't lead in the water to poison anything else."

Keehn hunts in marshy areas around lakes or ponds in public hunting grounds. He said the points of bays on lakes like Tuttle Creek are good places to hunt because the water is shallow and the ducks have food nearby. He also said the best dog to hunt ducks with is a Labrador Retriever Keehn said there are two ways to dress a wild duck. He prefers plucking his birds over skinning them.

"Picking keeps the moisture in. They get tough if you skin them," he Keehn's recipe for roast duck is to first put the duck in a covered roaster with a little water. Then, add a cup of wine to bring out the flavor, a few onions and a little garlic salt. Some people don't like the flavor of wild duck, Keehn said. To draw out some of the wild flavor, a little cream may be added to the roaster. Keehn said to roast the duck at 350 degrees for an hour and a half or two hours until it is tender. If duck is a favorite dish, but hun-'Seeing a flight of geese or ducks ting isn't appealing as a sport, farmraised, government-inspected, 4- to 5-pound ducklings may be bought at Manhattan grocery stores for $5 to

> At the Manhattan Holiday Inn and Holidome, Burgundy's serves roast duck a' l'orange, said Jerry Reynard, Burgundy's food and beverage director.

'We get whole ducks just like you get chickens in the grocery store. We get them from our supplier in Lincoln, Neb., but you can buy them at the Dillon's meat counter," Reynard

Duck a' l'orange is roasted in the oven with an orange and peach stuffing in the bird, Reynard said. The fruity flavor of the stuffing is absorbed by the meat, and the stuffing is discarded. The duck is served with an orange sauce. "Duck is a heavier meat and has a heavier taste. You won't necessarily like duck if you like fried chicken. We don't grow up on duck; Americans grow up on chicken," Reynard said. 'We use farm-raised ducks because they have a milder taste and they are good and meaty. Shot ducks may be tough because they are flying from north to south. Farm-raised ducks are fattened up and ready to go on

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

Old Textbook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State
- Some from other universities
- •Old editions
- Wholesaler overstock

Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost!

Mon.-Sat.

12-5 Sun.

Shultz, U.S. arms control experts to measure post-summit attitudes

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State George P. Shultz headed for Vienna on Tuesday with a team of U.S. arms control specialists to test Soviet attitudes on nuclear weapons cuts, human rights and terrorism after the Iceland summit.

U.S. officials steered clear of predicting how Soviet Foreign they said Shultz was prepared to set up negotiating committees to tackle the details of the latest U.S. proposals, which include a 50 percent reduction in long-range nuclear missiles by 1991.

The setting for the Shultz-Shevardnadze talks Wednesday and 1975 Helsinki agreement. Its promise targets.

Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze of a freer exchange of people and would respond to Shultz' agenda. But ideas across the icy East-West divide will serve as a backdrop for an expected U.S. appeal to the Soviets to improve conditions in their country.

It is not clear how much influence the Soviets have on President Hafez Assad's government, or whether they intend to use it. Publicly, the Soviets have condemned acts of ter-Thursday is a 35-nation review of the rorism and have sometimes been

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery Restaurant

Dinner for HUNAM EXPRESS Free Delivery a Dollar 1116 Moro 537-0886

Every Monday thru Thursday 4-7 p.m. Dinner Buffet featuring

7 Hors D'oeuvres salads, pates, shrimp, stir frys, tacos, burgers, hot dogs, nachos, and much more.

Make a Meal! Drink Specials Monday-99¢ Draws

Tuesday-All Sours Wednesday—All Drinks $1.50 Thursday—99¢ Margaritas $1.50 Fuzzies

418 Poyntz Downtown

WANTED:

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

Spring Collegian Editor and Ad Manager

> Applications available in Kedzie 103

Applications due by 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 10, 1986 Kedzie Hall 103

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Take This Coupon To Wendy's

CHICKEN FRIED STEAK

Get a tender steak, choice of potato and a side salad for ONLY $2.99 ($1.00 SAVINGS) Offer Expires November 11, 1986

412 N. 3rd Street

3006 Anderson

Wednesday, November 5, 1986 For more information on any UPC events, call 532-6571

CAVING

Explore two of the deep, dark caverns of central Missouri on Nov. 15 and 16 for only $32.

4 p.m. in the Activities Center until Nov.11. Trip includes: Two nights lodging. Deville day, Maps and string

Let's Talk About Pride of K-State

"Is There Financial Aid for You?"

Larry Viterna, Director of Student Financial Assisstance, will address this question, and explain how the Gramm-Rudman Act will affect students. Mr. Viterna will also be available for questions. Be looking for more important talks in the "Let's Talk About It--Pride of K-State" series.

Tomorrow in the K-State Union Courtyard at noon, don't miss Larry Viterna!

BRAZIL

It's about flights of fantasy, the nightmare of reality. terrorist bombings, late night shopping, true love and creative plumbing. It's only a state of mind. Directed by Monty Python's Terry Gilliam.

Today at 7:30 p.m. in Forum Hall Tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre & 7:30 p.m. in Forum Hall

$1.75; Rated R; KSU ID required.

(() k-state union

Just when you think you've found the right guy, someone even worse comes along. This funny romance stars Sally Field and James Garner.

Friday and Saturday at 7 & 9:30 p.m. in Forum Hall;

$1.75; Rated PG-13; KSU ID required.

JOHN BELUSHI IN DAN AYKROYD

A Comic-Nightmare

A comic suburban nightmare starring John Belushi as the mild- mannered home owner and Dan Ackroyd as his off-the-wall neighbor.

> Friday and Saturday in Forum Hall at midnight; $1.75: Rated R: KSU ID required.

Wildcats make strides in rankings

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's women's cross country team earned a No. 6 ranking in the National Collegiate Athletic Association coaches' poll released Tuesday

According to Coach John Capriotti, the ranking is the highest ever received by a women's cross country squad at K-State.

"I'm very excited about the ranking," Capriotti said. "Of course, we're still disappointed about our second-place finish in the Big Eight meet, but with the rankings, it shows just how tough our conference is.' Oklahoma State, which edged the New poll ranks four Big 8 teams

Wildcats by seven points in the women's conference race Saturday at Warner Park, climbed to No. 4 in the poll.

Other Big Eight schools represented in the poll are Colorado (14th) and Nebraska (19th). Colorado and Nebraska placed third and fourth, respectively, at the Big Eight Texas earned the top spot in Tuesday's poll, followed by Wisconsin, Brigham Young, OSU and Kentucky.

The K-State women next run in the District Five meet Nov. 15 at Peoria, Ill. Last year, the Wildcats finished third in the Big Eight and second at the district level on their way to a seventh-place finish at the NCAA championships.

Three teams from the district meet advance to the national meet Nov. 24 at Tuscon, Ariz. Besides K-State, nationally ranked teams at the district meet will include OSU, Nebraska and Colorado.

| | 4.4.30 | * 1 | 08 | | | | | | Э, | C.A. | ٠, | т, | 35 | . * | | 9 | ,* | | | ж. | * | |
|----------------|--------|-----|----|-----|----|----|---|----|----|------|-----|----|----|-----|----|----|----|----|-----|----|---|---|
| Brigham Young | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Oklahoma State | 0 | | | 8) | - | 'n | | | è | - 10 | | +. | A | ý | | | | | . 9 | | + | , |
| Kentucky | | | | | | , | , | ķ | ı | . 4 | , | ų, | , | , | | ě. | , | 1 | . , | è | į | , |
| K-State | | A | | | | | | į. | | . , | | | ı | | Ç | | | | | , | | |
| Oregon | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Florida | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Arkansas | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| UCLA | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Alabama | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Stanford | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Clemson | | | | ĸ, | * | è | Ļ | v | 'n | - | 5. | þ, | | è | | | , | 4 | v | À | d | |
| Colorado | | | | . , | | ļ | , | ., | ĸ. | d | | ġ, | r | ı | ò | 4 | , | s. | | ė, | Ÿ | |
| lowa | | | g | | | 4 | á | | | Į. | . , | ŧ, | ÷ | i | Ġ | | | | 'n. | | | |
| Northwestern | | | į. | | | į | | i, | | | | į | | | į, | | | ģ | | | ģ | ė |
| Villanova | | | | | į. | | | | į. | | | | · | | | | Ç | | | | | |
| Colorado State | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Nebraska | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
| Wake Forest | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

The K-State women's cross country team moved up in the rankings from eighth place to sixth in a National Collegiate Athletic Association coaches' poll released Tuesday. Coach

John Capriotti said he was excited about the ranking despite the 'Cats' disappointing second-place finish in Saturday's Big Eight meet.

Raiders' back enjoys life of double-duty

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Napoleon McCallum believes in the work ethic. It's a good thing, because he is very busy these days.

"You've got to work hard if you really want something," McCallum said by telephone Tuesday from the U.S.S. Peleliu in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard, where he is the assistant food services officer. "That's been my philosophy.'

Ensign McCallum is a rookie running back for the Los Angeles Raiders, who picked him in the fourth round of last spring's NFL draft, believing he would not be available un-

McCallum attended the U.S. Naval Academy, and like all other service academy athletes, was committed to five years of active service.

But last summer, in an unprecedented move, the Navy decided that McCallum could play for the Raiders as long as it didn't interfere with his service obligation.

"I really love it in the NFL; it's been fun," McCallum said. "There was a lot of confusion at the beginning. I didn't know which way to go. As I have gotten a chance to play, I've gotten a little feel for the game. I still haven't gotten all of it."

McCallum thought he would return kicks and occasionally see action as a backup to All-Pro running back Marcus Allen. But that's not the ways things turned out.

"I never planned on Marcus getting hurt," McCallum said. "Playing in Marcus' place takes a toll on your body. It was real tough the past three weeks. I'm getting beat up, hit, sore, bruises all over the place.

"Marcus is back now. I only got a couple of plays last Sunday. I'm well-rested now. I'd gotten into a routine of really working hard, getting punished."

Allen suffered a severely sprained right ankle in the Raiders' third game. McCallum handled most of the club's rushing chores in its next five games. He has gained 359 yards on 91 carries and caught six passes for 54

"Considering his schedule, he's been remarkable," Coach Tom Flores said. "You hae to be a unique person to handle the schedule he has. He certainly has handled it well at a time when we needed a running back with Marcus' injury.'

Remaining '12th men' student-players waiting for chance to see game action

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Last month, K-State Coach Stan Parrish issued an open invitation to all University students to try out for the "12th man" position on his football squad in hopes they would help out on the special teams.

Parrish did find "a few good men" among the approximately 140 hopefuls who tried out. But evidently, they weren't quite as good as he would have liked.

Of the five players who remain on the squad from those tryouts, not one has seen any action in a Wildcat

"It's difficult for them jumping in in the middle of the season like they are," Parrish said. "Obviously, if we felt the skill levels of one or any of them were better than what we have, we would work them into the special teams. But that hasn't been the case, in all honesty.'

The five have mixed reactions

all expressed some regret at not having played.

'I don't think it's going very well," said sophomore Jeff Wong, one of the five, "because the 12th men haven't been doing much. We haven't been doing what we were supposed to do, like (play) on the kickoff team. which is what the (original) intention

'It's difficult for them jumping in the middle of the season like they are.'

- Stan Parrish

Senior Tony Randel had a little more positive assessment of his time on the squad.

"It's been a lot of fun. The players are really a good bunch of guys. That's the best part," he said, but then added, "I would like to get in (a game).

"I really didn't expect much when about their experience thus far, but I went out," said junior Ken Ufford. "We haven't gotten in a game, yet. But it really hasn't been bothering me because I've been thinking about going out for the team next year.

"But I've been getting to practice a lot, and we're learning some stuff. I was kind of hoping that we'd get to be in a game, but as of yet, I'm not sure if we will or not."

Parrish listed the group's lack of size (none are over 6 feet) and speed as reasons they haven't played in a

"They're not overly big people, and in comparison to players in our league, they're not overly fast," he said. "But they have come out and contributed and helped us in the practice situation. It's been a positive thing."

Most agreed they would do it all over again, though maybe with not quite as much enthusiasm as before.

"I'd do it again," Ufford said. "It's been worth it to me, just getting the chance to be on the team and work. It might help me next year if I decide to

"I probably would do it again," Wong said, "but I would give it a second thought."

"I think (I would do it again)," Randel said. "The fringe benefits are worth it. It's good excercise, and it's Senior Anthony Gorman was a little more reserved in his answer.

"Ask me at the end of the season," The fifth player still on the squad from the tryouts is freshman Robert While the debut of the 12th man concept has not been the success Parrish hoped it would be, he did say that he is considering making it an annual tradition. He did not say, however, if any of the five would see action for sure this season.

"They're out there working hard for us, and the opportunity may come that we'll be able to use them in the special teams situations, particularly if we have any injuries," he

Writers choose OU in pre-season voting

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Oklahoma will win the Big Eight basketball championship this season and Kansas' Danny Manning will be crowned the league's player of the year, says the eighth annual media poll.

Of the 54 writers and broadcasters taking part, 33 thought Oklahoma would win the title. Kansas, the defending Big Eight champion, was picked first on 18 ballots and Iowa State was the choice of three. The poll had Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa State finishing 1-2-3 in the league, followed by Missouri, K-State, Nebraska, Oklahoma State and Colorado.

Manning got 44 votes for player of the year. Also getting votes were Oklahoma's Darryl Kennedy, Missouri's Derrick Chievous, Iowa State's Jeff Grayer and K-State's Norris Col-

Harvey Grant, a 6-foot-9 swingman who transferred from junior college to Oklahoma this year, was predicted to be newcomer of the year.

The media has correctly picked the Big Eight champ in five of the seven previous polls.

go out for football.' Nationally-ranked Cornuskers smash K-State

By The Collegian Staff

When the Nebraska Cornhuskers and K-State met on the volleyball court last month in Manhattan, the match lasted less than 40 minutes. When K-State went to Lincoln Tuesday, the match lasted just over an hour, but the powerful 'Huskers overwhelmed K-State 15-5, 15-3, 15-5.

"They're (NU) playing real well," K-State Coach Scott Nelson said. "I think looking at how they played several weeks ago and how they played tonight, they've definitely im-

Nelson said he knew his Wildcats would have to catch Nebraska down and play at the top of their game if they even stood a chance to take a game from the No. 5-ranked Cornhuskers. After all, Nebraska has won 51 consecutive Big Eight matches. The last time NU lost was in 1982 in a five-game loss to Missouri.

"We played them a lot tougher (than last time), although the score doesn't indicate it," Nelson said.

In a match with such a powerful squad, winning was not what Nelson see from his young team were signs of progress, and he said they showed him what he was looking for. "We played more down the lines of how volleyball is supposed to be played tonight," he said. "But we were overpowered, and they had too many weapons.'

Some signs of offensive punch for the Wildcats came from Shawnee Call and Lynda Harshbarger. Call led the team with nine kills, while Harshbarger led the 'Cats with a 60-percent hitting efficiency. On

THE THE RESIDENCE TO SERVICE THE PARTY OF TH

was concerned with. All he wanted to defense, Helen Bundy produced nine

The loss dropped K-State's overall record to 12-13 and Big Eight mark to a disappointing 2-6. Nebraska improved its record to 20-4 and 9-0.

K-State, which has completed its home slate for the year, will play at Oklahoma on Friday and Oral Roberts on Saturday. The Sooners claimed a five-game win over K-State last Friday in Ahearn Field House. Nelson was hoping his team could beat the Sooners and move up in the conference standings.

AL's manager award won by Boston chief

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - This time, John McNamara won a close contest.

Eight days after his Boston Red Sox were edged by the New York Mets in the seventh game of the World Series, McNamara scored a narrow victory Tuesday to become American League Manager of the

"That was the furthest thing from my mind," he said of the award. "I would have rather had a win and let somebody else be manager of the

But the win didn't come in the sixth or seventh games of the World Series, even though Boston led both, and some of McNamara's decisions were questioned.

"You're going to be subject to second-guessers, but you stay with what got you there," he said at a news conference. "That's what we did.'

McNamara, 54, is the man who got the Red Sox to within one strike of the 1986 world championship after they finished in fifth place in the American League East in 1985. That accomplishment brought him the first manager of the year award in his 13 seasons at the helm of a major league team.

The self-effacing leader of the surprising Red Sox beat Bobby Valentine of the Texas Rangers by a single first-place vote

Circumstances may forgive Criner's final-minute field goal

I was always told by coaches when I was growing up that it isn't a good policy to degrade your opponent when you already have them beat. I'm just now discovering that maybe it was a lie. Ask Iowa State football coach Jim Criner - he'll agree. He and Missouri Coach Woody Widenhofer have some bad blood flowing between them, and it came spilling out on the field last Saturday when the two teams met in Columbia, Mo.

Last year, Widenhofer's Tigers defeated the Cyclones - it was Mizzou's only victory the entire season.

Through the other 10 losses, Widenehofer became known as a "pass the buck" man. It was rarely things he could be held accountable for that caused his team to lose.

Maybe it was the simple insult to Criner that he lost to the lowly Tigers last year, maybe it was Criner's stated dislike for Widenhofer's excuses, or maybe it was caused by influences of which none of us are

Whatever the reason, with five seconds remaining in the football game and Criner's Cyclones comfortably ahead 34-14, Criner called a timeout to set up a field goal, which the Cyclone kicker drilled.

An infuriated Widenhofer claimed there was no excuse for Criner to embarrass the Tigers in front of their home fans, while Criner said he simply wanted Widenhofer to have no excuses for the loss and desired revenge for the Tigers' tendency to pick fights with the Cy's after the game was in

TIM FITZGERALD Sports Editor

In general, what Criner did would have been inexcusable. But then again, this wasn't a game between Oklahoma and Kansas; it was a game between two fairly evenly matched football teams.

In fact, it was rather humorous to watch OU try not to score against KU and to witness the hapless Jayhawks stand by as the Sooners' backs waltzed into the end zone. The point is, though, OU coach Barry Switzer wasn't attempting to embarrass the 'Hawks. The 'Hawks managed to do it to themselves.

The ISU-MU game was prefaced by much talk by the two coaches, and previously bruised egos were supersensitized.

One of the great things about athletics is when you say you're going to kick the daylights out of your opposition. When you fail to do so, you lose more than simply a game. But when you're right, you can strut like a king

Maybe from Widenhofer's point of view, Criner shouldn't have been so hasty, but it will be interesting to see what happens next season if Widenhofer (permitting he still has his job) turns the tables on Criner.

In essence, those coaches from my youth were right - if you degrade a team one year, the next season they might find it necessary to do the same to you.

But what is a coach to do when he sees his team becoming punching bags for a team that is behind so far that it has nothing to lose by putting cheap shots on its opponents? From a coaching standpoint, it is important your team leave a big win with positive feel-

I would say one of the best ways to turn the tables on a desperate team is to stop the clock and kick their egos straight through the uprights. I think Criner would agree.

New intersection problems arise, but old concerns persist

By ROBIN HARNDEN Collegian Reporter

When a community is changing internally, such as with construction of Manhattan Town Center Mall, and expanding, as in the case of the Seth Child Road corridor, traffic concerns can become a major issue.

Another recent traffic-related issue concerns requests for a stoplight at the intersection of College Heights Road and Denison Avenue.

One case where changes may have created even more problems for an existing problem area is the case of traffic flow in the vicinity of Bluemont Avenue and North Third Street.

But, while changes create new ordeals, city officials are not ignoring the older problems, said Jerry Petty, deputy director of public works for the city.

A main problem is the fact that Bluemont Avenue crosses three wellused streets in less than a quarter of a mile: North Third Street, Tuttle Creek Boulevard and the frontage road in front of the Wal-Mart store, friends have gone clear around and 628 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Two traffic accidents in the surrounding area, one resulting in injuries, were investigated Friday afternoon by the Riley County Police Department, said Vickie Riniker. records clerk for RCPD.

Petty said the situation creates severe traffic congestion especially during peak traffic hours in the morning, when people are going to work, and again during the evening, when workers are traveling home.

"The conditions physically don't lend themselves to smooth traffic,"

Scott Case, freshman in agricultural economics, said he waited 10 minutes to turn onto Bluemont from the frontage road about 3:30 Thursday afternoon.

"I've had that problem before," Case said. "This is probably the worst time I've seen it, but it is bad a lot of the time," he said. "It's really bad for people coming out of Wal-

"It's been so bad that some of my come into the intersection on McCall Road from the north," he said.

Although traffic congestion may be an inconvenience in the area, the real problem is finding the "hundreds of thousands of dollars" to do something about it, Petty said.

"The problem (at the intersections) is such a major thing that to solve it would be a very expensive endeavor," he said.

"There's a concept, not a plan, that something could be done south of the intersections on the frontage road,"

"But the real solution is an interchange - an overpass or an underpass - like we have at Anderson and Seth Childs Road.'

Several years ago a traffic signal was placed at the intersection of Bluemont Avenue and the frontage road, but was removed after the city received numerous complaints, Petty said.

"The traffic signal is generally designed to handle peak-hour traffic," he said. "It worked fine at that intersection during those times, but people had to wait at other times, too. We received more complaints about that than we did before it was

Case said if the city does not have enough money to do something about the congestion at the intersections, he "wouldn't know what the answer would be."

"I've seen people almost get hit there where they merge," he said. "It's just a mess.

Petty said he knows people violate the stop signs at the Bluemontfrontage road intersection.

"If they don't see anyone coming from the other direction, they think they have to run the stop signs when they see that signal on Tuttle Creek Boulevard turn green," he said.

Part of the problem results from the rerouting of traffic from the downtown area, said Bob Smith, professor of civil engineering.

"Right now, it's extremely difficult to make things work well when you are working with bits and pieces," Smith said.

Businesses located in the area have noticed adverse effects due to congested traffic, said Vic Jury, owner of the Derby gasoline station at 720 N. Third St.

"Obviously, it kills business," Jury said. "It used to be our busiest time between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Now it's our slowest.

"My business got knocked down 15 to 20 percent," he said. "That hurts pretty bad."

Jury said the traffic problem is "definitely worse" because of the mall reroute. "It's always been bad, but it's never been this bad," he said. "It's taken a lot of money out of my pocket," Jury said. Tim Trechter, general manager of Sirloin Stockade at 100 Bluemont Ave., said he agrees there is a pro-

"I can't get people out of my parking lot at certain times of the day." Trechter said. "On Saturday, that line starts at 11 o'clock and is there

'We've seen traffic lined up from the Bluemont-Third Street intersection halfway down to Juliette," he said.

"We talk to a lot of travelers. They cannot believe a town this size has such a problem," he said. Trechter said the situation could be hurting business. "We're looking at an increase in sales now, but I have a strong feeling that they could be higher if it wasn't for this. Jury said some of the Derby station's regular customers have "gone elsewhere" to do business. "We'll never see them again," he

"Everyone is so concerned with the people downtown," Jury said. "People up at this end of the street got affected, too — and we didn't get anything out of it. "We got licked pretty good," Jury

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Students give opinions on K-State at second administrative luncheon

By MARTA MONTGOMERY Collegian Reporter

Twenty University students had the opportunity Tuesday to let the administration know exactly what they think about K-State.

The students were chosen at random to be invited to lunch with Robert Krause, vice president of institutional advancement and Pat Bosco, assistant vice president of institutional advancement.

Krause said the purpose of the luncheon was to get student feedback. He said the administration wants to know what prospective students find useful when they are choosing a university.

"We're interested in knowing what information they used to help them decide on K-State...what they liked and disliked about the University, and what they found helpful in mak-

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - More than one-fourth of American families with children - and more than 60 percent of those that are black - were headed by a single parent last year, the

"One of the most significant changes in family composition over the past 15 years has been the substantial growth in the number of one-parent families," the bureau

A major factor is that women are having children and getting married later - or not marrying at all - and that marriages are more likely to end in divorce, said Dr. Harriet P.

McAdoo, a professor of social work

As a result of these changes, she said, "children are being raised by their mothers for a significant

In addition, she said in an interview, there are a substantial number of out-of-wedlock pregnancies

among both black and white women.

A separate Census Bureau report on fertility last June said 20.2 percent number of years of their lives.

at Howard University.

said.

Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

ing a decision," he said. Topics at the luncheon included recruitment of high school students as well as retention of current University students.

The students were chosen at random because there was no preference toward freshmen or upperclassmen, Krause said. He said the administration is interested in knowing what aspect of K-State attracted any student.

"It was really neat because I feel a lot better about school now," said Tawnie Larson, junior in journalism and mass communications. "It was a good idea to do it because now I know that they (the administration) are trying to recruit people and make the University better.

"Most of us (the students) thought that spirit is better this year," she said. "I think a lot of that has to do with these meetings.

The luncheon was the second of this year. The first, with approximately 15 students participating, took place Sept. 30.

last year, as the stigma surrounding

Researchers at The Urban Institute suggested that young women are no longer rushing into wedlock once they become pregnant. Instead, they are considering their futures, including whether the father is a good potential husband material and how marriage will affect their educachildren last year, 8.8 million - 26.3 percent - were one-parent groups, compared with 12.9 percent in 1970,

The report said 60.1 percent of black families with children were maintained by a single parent, up from 35.7 percent 15 years earlier.

For whites, 20.8 percent had one parent, more than double the 10.1

The overwhelming majority of single-parent families are headed by women, accounting for 4.9 million of the 5.7 million white, single-parent families and 2.6 million of the 2.8

Of 33.4 million families with tional and economic outlook.

the bureau said.

percent of 1970.

million that are black

Study notes rise in single parents

unwed mothers lessens.

For Tuesday's luncheon, some new names were selected randomly, and some students invited to the first luncheon, but unable to attend, were invited again.

Attendance at the lunch Tuesday was higher than at the first, prompting Krause to say that if attendance continues to improve, the student/administration lunches could develop into a monthly event. He added that if those invited do not attend future lunches, the administration will try a new format.

Krause said one option to the lunch format would be speaking to campus groups and organizations to learn their opinions. He said the administration is more interested in dealing with students chosen at random because they have not already formed opinions on the issues.

"We are looking for straight, candid, non-solicited feedback," Krause

Single-parent families jumped by

Among blacks, the rate of increase

48.7 percent from 1970 to 1975, but rose by 26.9 percent from 1980 to 1985.

declined from 55.5 percent to 32.5 percent. Among whites, the growth rate eased from 44.2 percent to 23.4

percent in the two five-year periods.

fading increase is a result of the aging of the post-World War II "baby boom" generation, which is now outgrowing the prime ages for marriage as well as divorce, which most-

There were 20.6 million one-person households in 1985, up 12.6 percent from 1980. By contrast, one-person households jumped 28.5 percent bet-

Association

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

American Heart

CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR

ly occurs early in a marriage.

ween 1970 and 1975.

Dr. McAdoo said much of this of white births and 74.5 percent While still growing, the rate of in-among blacks were out of wedlock crease has eased somewhat.

Pakistanis draw near atomic goal

WASHINGTON - Pakistan has produced bomb-grade uranium and detonated an explosive device last month as denials, continues work on developing a nuclear weapon, according to a report published Tuesday.

The Washington Post, quoting unidentified sources and a classified Defense Intelligence Agency report, said the test of an explosive device between Sept. 18 and Sept. 21 was part of Pakistan's efforts

However, officials in India, by Pakistan.

"It seems that this earthquake has been misinterpreted a nuclear explosion," said P.K. Iyengar, director of India's atomic research center.

Iyengar and Raja Ramanna, chairman of that country's Atomic Energy Commission, said in New Delhi they were aware of an earthquake, not an explosion on Sept. 19 in

"If it was an atomic explosion, it should have been recorded by our instruments," Iyengar said.

Islamabad, Pakistan had no comment Tuesday on the sources as saying the test was Pakistan's second this year. The sources said the Pakistanis have been conducting the tests for years in an attempt to perfect a nuclear weapons triggering package.

By The Associated Press

that country, despite its

to build an implosion-type nuclear weapon.

which closely monitors Pakistan's nuclear program, said Tuesday the United States wrongly interpreted an earthquake as a nuclear test blast

The foreign ministry in

The Washington Post quoted

Personalized Physician Care Abortions Through All Legal Stages Free Pregnancy Tests Modern Medical Facilities 5107 E. Kellogg Wichita, Kansas

We'll Keep You Warm!

From Head

stocking caps & hats scarfs sweaters shirts jackets coats mittens & gloves long underwear wool socks

boots

. . . To Toe

THANK YOU

For helping to make Homecoming 1986 such a success!

Phi Eta Sigma

MID WEEK

The cord's Supper

The Presbyterian Church (USA), The United Methodist Church, The United Church of Christ, The Church of the Brethren

DANFORTH CHAPEL

COMMUNION

GATHER WITH US AT NOON EVERY OTHER WEDNESDAY FOR COMMUNION AT

Larry Butel Mike Martin H.J. Weichman Tim Ulrich Steve Thomas Stan Finck K-State Band Pridettes Men's Glee Women's Glee Stacy Smith Randy Pohlman Lon Kruger Beth Hartenstein Kay Stewart Herman Donner Pat Bosco Dr. Dave Mugler Amy Renz Steve Miller Rhonda Miracle Carol Rudd Sally Routson Mrs. Lon Kruger Dan Deines

Larry Erpelding

Alicia Martin

Mortar Board

Barb Pretzer

Walt Smith

Matt Nichols

KQLA-Ed Klimek

SPURS Chimes AGR & TKE Wood Haulers Beta Theta Pi Pledge Class Campbell Distributors KMKF Caroline Peine University Facilities Evelyn Hupe Bally Moving & Storage Cash Lumber and Supply 84 Lumber The Homestore Pepsi Bottling, Co. Mark Gaird Brian Gaskill Howard Woodbury KSU Cheerleaders University Relations Shelly Shaffer Kenny Mossman University Archives Larry Travis Stan Parrish Kay Young Norma Ross Jeff Pearson Sylvia Murphy

Dorothy Smith

K-State Collegian

K-State Union Staff

Republicans win statehouses, surrender control of Senate

By The Associated Press

The Republican Party shattered the Democrats' long-time grip on statehouses Tuesday, taking Alabama for the first time since Reconstruction and moving the GOP toward a pickup of at least eight more executive mansions.

In the process, the Republicans also rewrote the electoral history book in Florida, electing former Tampa Mayor Bob Martinez, a Democrat-turned-Republican, as the state's first Hispanic chief executive.

They got a measure of revenge, too, reclaiming Texas from the Democrats, as former GOP Gov. Bill Clements beat incumbent Democratic Gov. Mark White, the man who unseated Clements four

In Nebraska, longtime Republican Party activist Kay Orr defeated a woman opponent to take the state away from the Democrats.

Altogether, Republican candidates for governor won in eight states and were leading in three others now held by Democrats. Democrats won two states now held by the GOP, Tennessee and Pennsylvania.

If that trend held up, it would produce a net gain of nine seats, just shy of the 10 the GOP needed to capture a majority of the executive mansions. The Republicans have not held the balance of power in the statehouses since 1969, and Democrats had a 34-16 advantage going into Tuesday's elections.

But for the Republicans, more opportunities were available in contests in late-reporting western

On a night that Republicans conceded they were losing control of the Senate, the gubernatorial victories gave them a consolation prize.

With 19 gubernatorial vacancies, 15 of them created by retiring Democrats, Republicans saw an opportunity for major gains and a chance to capture a majority of governors for the first time since Democrats held 34 governorships and were defending 27 of them. The GOP was defending nine statehouses.

Wisconsin's Democratic incumbent, Gov. Anthony Earl, was trailing narrowly behind GOP challenger Tommy Thompson.

Most other incumbent governors were having an easier time of it, with New York Democrat Mario Cuomo winning big. Incumbent Democrats James Blanchard in Michigan, Michael Dukakis in Massachusetts, Richard Celeste in Ohio, Joe Frank Harris in Georgia, Bill Clinton in Arkansas, Rudolph Perpich in Minnesota, and William O'Neill in Connecticut all swept to re-election.

Republican Gov. James Thompson won another term in Illinois, Republican Edward Di Prete won reelection in Rhode Island, and John Sununu, chairman of the GOP governors, won another term in New Hampshire. In Iowa, Republican Gov. Terry Branstad was re-elected.

The GOP scored victories on Democratic turf in Florida. Alabama, Maine, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, South Carolina and New Mexico. Republicans also led in the Democratic-held states of Oklahoma, Idaho and Wisconsin.

But Democrats wrested both Tennessee and Pennsylvania, both states with two-term GOP governors retir-

In Alabama, where Democrats were splintered over a bitter nomination fight, Republican Guy Hunt defeated Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley to become the state's first GOP governor elected in 112 years.

Martinez's vitory over Democratic state legislator Steve Pajcic made him the first Hispanic to be elected governor of Florida. A Democrat until three years ago, Martinez is only the second Republican to win the Florida governorship.

In the hotly contested South Carolina race, Republican Rep. Carroll Campbell held a very small lead.

Another key state was Pennsylvania, which Democrat Robert Casey took from William Scranton III, culminating a race that focused on the youthful Scranton's past flirtations with drugs and Transcendental Meditation.

In Illinois, Republican Gov. James Thompson defeated Adlai Stevenson III, who was running under a thirdparty banner because of the nomination of supporters of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche as his running mates in the Democratic primary.

In hotly contested Nebraska - a race featuring two women nominees former Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis narrowly lost to Orr, a longtime Republican enthusiast of Reagan, who has been serving as the state treasurer.

Democrats took a governorship from the Republicans in Tennessee, where Ned Ray McWherter defeated former GOP Gov. Winfield Dunn in a state where a popular two-term GOP governor, Lamar Alexander, was prevented from seeking another

Voting day

The voting poll at the University for Man building, 1221 Thurston Street, continued to stay busy until closing time Tuesday. Reasons for the high voter turnout were the good weather and popular candidates and issues.

Attorney General Bob Stephan speaks to a Republican crowd at the Ramada Inn in Topeka after defeating his

Stephan narrowly defeats Moore; attorney general to serve 3rd term

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The intense, bitter campaign for the state's top law enforcement office ended Tuesday as voters re-elected incumbent Attorney General Robert T. Stephan, a Wichita Republican, to an unprecedented third four-year term over his Democratic challenger Den-

Stephan, 53, won a narrow victory ver Moore despite the controversy over his settlement of a sexual harassment and despite having earlier said he no longer wanted to be attorney general and wanted only to be governor. With 81 percent of the vote counted, Stephan claimed 341,325 votes, or 52 percent, to Moore's 316,457, or 48 percent.

Moore, 40, was trying to use his strong Johnson County base, where he has been district attorney 10 years, which is unusual for any Kansas Democrat, to vault him into statewide office.

In other battles for statewide of--State Treasurer Joan Finney, a Topeka Democrat, held off Republican challenger Larry Montgomery. With 81 percent of the ballots counted, Finney claimed 354,414 votes, or 55 percent, and Montgomery tallied 280,546 votes, or 44 percent.

Finney, won re-election to the post she's held since 1974. Montgomery, 49, of rural Topeka, failed in his attempt to make a political comeback after running for lieutenant governor on former Gov. Robert F. Bennett's losing

Ramada Inn

WEDNESDAY

99¢

Wine Coolers

and Spritzers

FREE Cajun

Hors D'oeuvres

4-7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

ticket in 1978. -Insurance Commissioner Fletcher Bell, a Lawrence Republican, easily defeated political novice Daniel M. Landers, a Mulvane Democrat. Bell claimed 428,750 votes, or 68 percent, and Landers had 200,185 votes, or 31 percent, with 81 percent of all ballots counted.

Bell, 57, has held the insurance commissioner's title since 1971 Landers, 40, is a native of New Orleans and an insurance broker.

-State Rep. Judy Runnels, D-Topeka, gave Bill Graves, a Salina Republican, a tough race for secretary of state. However, Graves prevailed and with 81 percent of the vote claimed 333,884 votes,

GOODSON

AUTO TRIM

Tailor Made Seat Covers

Tanneau Covers

Boat Covers

Convertible Tops

Vinyl Tops

Complete Auto, Truck

& Boat Upholstery

201 Sarber Lane

(behind Wal-Mart)

Manhattan, Kansas 66502

Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

Democratic opponent, Dennis Moore, to remain attorney general of Kansas. Dole, other incumbents claim victories

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - One of this nation's most powerful lawmakers, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, on Tuesday crushed his relatively unknown Democratic challenger, Guy Mac-Donald of Wichita, in winning reelection to a fourth six-year term in the U.S. Senate.

With 41 percent of the vote in, Dole held an overwhelming lead with total, to MacDonald's tally of 108,243 votes, or 29 percent.

Kansas' five-member delegation to Congress will join Dole in the victory column and return to Washington D.C. Only four of the state's five representatives in the U.S. House had opponents in the general election and none of the four challengers had any previous statewide political experience.

The incumbents winning Tuesday fourth-generation farmer from were Reps: Dan Glickman, a Wichita Democrat and senior member of the state's delegation; Jim Slattery, a Topeka Democrat; Pat Roberts, a Dodge City Republican; and Bob Whittaker, an Augusta Republican. Glickman beat Republican Bob Knight, 45, a Wichita city commissioner since 1979. With 63 percent of the vote counted, Glickman held a 262,746 votes, or 71 percent of the commanding lead with 73,085 votes, or 64 percent, to Knight's 40,486 votes, or 36 percent. Slattery held off a challenge by Republican Phill Kline, a 26-year-old law student from Lawrence. With 52 percent of the vote counted, Slattery claimed victory with 55,175 votes, or 73 percent, to Kline's 20,406 votes, or

Roberts pulled far ahead of his Democratic opponent, Dale Lyon, a Athol. With 23 percent of the total in, votes, or 30 percent. Roberts had 28,122 votes, or 73 percent, to Lyon's 10,213 votes, or 27 per-

Whittaker easily outdistanced Democrat Kym E. Myers, a lawyer who runs his family farm near Emporia. With 32 percent of the vote counted, Whittaker had 30,627 votes, or 70 percent, to Myers' total of 13,343

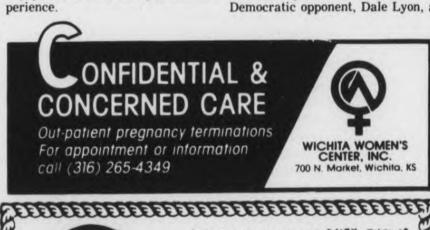

Rep. Jan Meyers, an Overland Park Republican, was unopposed for re-election to her second two-year term in the 3rd District.

The slate of contenders was a diverse group of candidates with one thing in common: all four were longshots to pull off an upset.

Collegian Classifieds Where K-State Shops

YOUR PHOTO NEEDS Delivered to Your Door WE HAVE EVERYTHING YOU NEED Wolfe's has a complete stock of cameras, lenses, darkroom supplies, video equipment and accessories. Name brands including Kodak, Canon, Nikon, Hasselblad, Olympus, Minolta and Maxxum, Sunpak, Pro, Sigma, Vivitar, Ricoh, Mitsubishi, Quasar, Bushnell and Celestron. We carry used equipment and will trade in your old equipment. AS NEAR AS YOUR PHONE Trained sales people to answer your questions and find what you are looking for. Fast delivery with UPS or US Mail; or Bus for rush deliveries. 635 Kansas Avenue * Phone 913-235-138 Topeka, Kansas 66601-1437

"Complete line of Brazier foods now at both stores!" Open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., til midnight Friday & Saturday

For fast carry-out call 776-4117 1015 N. 3rd

Aggieville Manhattan WE TREAT YOU RIGHT

3019 Anderson Ave. Village Plaza

Manhattan's #1 Pizza

537-4350

Task

Continued from Page 1

work on a proposal for an athletic fee."

"I don't think we're going to decide that there's no need for an athletic fee," he said.

Members held a lengthy discussion of how to present their decision to Senate. Some wanted to present Senate with a majority opinion of the members, while others wanted to take both sides of the issue to Senate.

"It's very unlikely that this committee is going to come up with a unanimous decision," said Kelly Lamborn, task force member and senior in journalism and mass communications.

Ligon said that whoever might make the decision "to propose or not propose" will have to "stick their neck out."

Traeger, senior in marketing, attended the meeting to tell task force members that Senate was scrapping the original plan of charging the group with presenting a written proposal to Senate.

Now, she said, the task force was "to gather information and come up with some recommendations." Traeger said in this way, the decision

"falls on Senate and not yourselves." Traeger told the group that the new charge "should take some weight" off their shoulders.

Telling task force members that they were "a gold mine of information," Traeger chastised them for voicing their opinions in last Thursday's Collegian.

"The survey was inappropriately timed," she said. "It was not the time for you to come out and give personal biases."

Ligon questioned why Traeger thought the task force members' opinions were inappropriately timed.

"I would assume that if you were going to come out with something like that, then, at that point, you have come to the end of your rope you've done all the research you can," Traeger said. "But from what I understand, that's not the case."

Traeger said she was "a little bit peeved" that she had no idea the questionnaire was going to be in the Collegian.

Had she known, Traeger said, she would have "strongly suggested" that task force members say they weren't yet in a position to give opi-

"That would be okay (stating your opinion) if you were coming to Student Senate this week and giving us the same thing that you gave the student body," she said.

Traeger said she had no problems with the task force members having differing opinions, but said she felt it was "too early to be voicing them." "I feel you were put in a very compromising position," she said. Traeger told task force members that the decision to modify their job was not meant to take any power away from them.

"In the end, it's going to be the Senate's decision anyway," she said, adding that "in the task forces in the past, that's the way it has been approached."

Traeger said she had not anticipated "the level of pressure or the level of importance that would be put on this particular committee." "I see a tremendous amount of pressure on you that doesn't need to be there," she said. Folk asked Traeger if the task force would be disbanded after its report to Senate. Traeger said it wouldn't be disbanded at that point. "I think the time you should probably be disbanded is when the issue is resolved."

Hayden

Continued from Page 1

The 42-year-old Hayden said the hard work of the people and his own drive made it possible for him to become governor

"If you work hard enough, there's not anything you can't do," he said. Clint Acheson, 52nd District representative who was re-elected to a third term Tuesday, analyzed Hayden's victory.

"I thought if he could hold his own in the urban counties, he would do all right," Acheson said. "I knew he could pull votes in from the rural areas. It looks that's exactly what he did."

Hayden has served 14 years in the Statehouse, including the last three as speaker of the house.

"We now have a governor who understands the legislative process," Acheson said. "It's going to be great to work with a governor who understands the issues.

Kelly Hayden, Hayden's campaign manager and brother, said he expected victory all along.

Senate

Continued from Page 1

defend a fragile 53-47 majority.

The Democrats needed a shift of only four seats in their favor to gain the majority party's right to appoint committee chairmen and set the Senate's legislative agenda. Their targets were vulnerable GOP freshmen who narrowly won office on the strength of Reagan's landside election in 1980.

Reagan responded with a plea to voters not to tie his hands with a hostile Congress under Democratic control during his final two years in

In the Midwest, Democrats took early leads over GOP incumbents in South Dakota, North Dakota and Wisconsin. In Colorado, Democratic Rep. Timothy Wirth was in a tossup race with GOP Rep. Ken Kramer for the seat of Sen. Gary Hart, who was leaving to pursue the Democratic presidential nomination in 1988.

However, Republicans took away a Democratic seat in Missouri.

Amend

Continued from Page 1

the only state in the nation with constitutional language that restricts the sale of alcoholic beverages to private clubs.

A similar liquor measure was defeated by a margin of about 11,000 votes in 1970.

Liquor by the drink and parimutuel wagering will be allowed only in counties where the propositions

ONE BEDROOM apartment, available immediately

8093 (evening), ask for Tim. (51-54)

FOR SALE-AUTO

FOR SALE-MISC

Phone 1-456-8114 (52-54)

4366 after 6 p.m. (52-54)

HELP WANTED

FOUND

(26-64)

03

$225 plus utilities, off Denison, 539-9842 (day), 776

FOR SALE-KSU Royal Purple yearbooks

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

MOBILE HOME-Huge lot, storage shed, north of

1982 HONDA CM 250, 5.800 miles, 60 miles per gal-

CHROME EXHAUST pipe for air-cooled VW Call 539-

3.000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59,230/ year. Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701.

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available

Good commissions, valuable work experience, tra-

1-800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer.

ASSISTANT TO the Dean. Graduate School-

Responsibilities include interpreting Graduate

School regulations to the faculty, reviewing pro grams of study, evaluation of applications for admission, supervision of office staff, and assisting the Dean and Associate Dean. Candidates must have at least a master's degree, an understanding of higher education, ability to communicate with graduate faculty, experience in a research oriented university Salary: $25,000 range Kansas State University is a land-grant institution of about 18,000 students and 3,500 graduate students, lo cated in Manhattan, Kansas. Send resume to John

P Noonan, Associate Dean, Graduate School, Fair-child 102, Manhattan, Kansas, 66506 by November

21, 1986. Kansas State University is an equal op-

WANTED: ST Xavier High School in Junction City

GRADUATE STUDENT or upper level undergraduate position available to coordinate the summer program for high school students at KSU. Applicants must have a good academic record, be familiar needs Assistant Boys Basketball Coach. Call 1-portunity employer (51-52)

238-2841. (51-55)

nefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free

Ion. Great shape, one owner, $450, Call 776-7175.

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

Manhattan. New hot water tank, carpet, $2,000.

are approved in the general election. Counties where both questions appeared headed for approval include the cities of Wichita, Kansas City, Overland Park, Lawrence and Topeka.

Initially, alcoholic beverages would be served to the public only in establishments that have sales of at least 30 percent food. Nevertheless, liquor would flow with the least restriction since voters approved statewide prohibition in 1880.

With passage of the lottery amendment, Kansas joins 22 other states.

assifieds

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

OPURT!

FUTURE

50N-IN-

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01 MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (1-52)

Bloom County

GREETINGS

AND

SALUTATIONS,

MR. GRANOLA

ADULT MOVIES now available at Home Cinema, 537-

DONATIONS FOR the Cathy Robare car fund may be dropped off at the Small Business Development Center, 204 Calvin Hall. Checks should be made out to First Christian Church marked "Cathy Robare." Drop in and sign the card. (50-54)

WANT TO play the assassination game? Call 532-2362 Laura (131), leave name and number. (51-54)

Christmas Art Festival at Cico Park Saturday 9-5:30

Sponsored by Manhattan Creative Arts Guild

ALWAYS HAPPY

TO HAVE ANOTHER

* MALE

IN THIS

PAMILY!

ATTENTION ARTS and Crafts Vendors UPC Arts Committee is sponsoring our annual Arts and Crafts Sale December 4 and 5. Sign-up starts 9 a.m. November 17 in the Union Activities Center (3rd floor). For more information, call 532-6571. (51-52)

CHOCOLATE, STRAWBERRY, Vanilla-Lose weight with 100% natural, herbal nutrition, 100% guaranteed. 776-6959. (51-54)

ATTENTION

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Keystone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more information toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

02

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts your door, VISA and MasterCard welcome, Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded wi first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

By Berke Breathed

TEEK

By Jim Davis

LET'S GO SHOOT A LARGE, WILD ANIMAL

AND EAT IT.

Hayes House of Music

DOD Guitar Effects

776-7983 327 Poyntz

BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shop-HALF OFF-1 p.m. haircut appointment (with this ping Center, Saturdays 8 a.m. Parking spot. ad), includes shampoo and blowdry. Monday-Fridow sticker, area advertising, $10. Manhattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (52-53) day. Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794. Ad expires November 30, 1986. (49-65)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢

(with coupon) Exp. Date 11/9

537 3335

539-4675 (50-54)

Take your parents to a super

MEDICAL AND Veterinary Schools, Mexico and Philippines. Advanced accreditation for PhD. DDS. DVM, DPM degrees and transfer students. All schools comply with new regulations and requirements. All English programs. Live in U.S.A. Loan privileges. Proven Student Services, Inc., P.O. Box 406, Inwood Station, New York, N.Y. 10034. Call (212) 601-1888. (51-52)

correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent, $150

CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom

WILDCAT CREEK APARTMENTS

Unf. 1 & 2 BR apts. 5-12 month leases

to fit your lifestyle *Conveniently Located

•Quiet Community with Off-Street

•No Pets Allowed

OFFICE HOURS 8:30 to 5:30 Monday-Friday Come visit us at 1413 Cambridge Place

539-2951 No Appointment Necessary

By Eugene Sheffer

YADJH

EDIKXH

Garfield

eanuts

SAY. HOW BOUT YOU AND ME CATCH SOME BALL

BREWS... SCREAM A FEW VULGARITIES AT WOMEN...

GAMES_DRINK A FEW

59 Stately

DOWN

3 Talk

1 Spanish

cloak

2 Seed coat wildly

5 "Que - hello)

nymph

By Charles Schulz

Crossword

ACROSS 1 Part of TLC 5 Huck's pal 8 Colorful 39 "- Cares?" fish 12 Ancient country 13 Respect tinged with fear 14 "Street

Scene playwright 15 Gambling

17 Sicilian city 18 Change 19 Formed 21 Coarse file 24 Tokyo, once 25 Recipe measures

28 Small rodent 30 Young demon 33 Meyers of TV 34 Kind of picture 35 And not 36 Storage compart37 Unique thing 38 Command to Rover

(Gershwin song) 41 For fear that 43 Desert waste 46 Pub measures 50 War god 51 Apronlike garment machines 54 Dill weed 9 Locate 55 Frost 56 One type 10 Teen of year 57 Audition prize?

11 Obverse of 58 Old adage a coin Solution time: 26 min.

Yesterday's answer 11-5

16 Coach Parseghian 20 Run-down

22 Washer cycle 23 Window curtain 4 Live coals 25 City vehicle

26 Swiss (Spanish canton 27 Stick toy 6 Nocturnal creature 29 Heal 7 Army meal 31 Extinct 8 Mountain bird

32 Delve nosily 34 Indigent precisely 38 Muffle problem 40 Waste maker? 42 Belgian > resort 43 River to the Moselle 44 Cartoonist Peter 45 Sacred bull 47 Mr. Coward 48 London > > trolley 49 Serpent lizard 52 River in Brazil 53 Never worn

CRYPTOQUIP

11-5 FEDHJXJD GYJ

DIKFY AL G 1 I

YJHFJL GYJ Yesterday's Cryptoquip: GETTING INTO FBI OFFICES IN NEW YORK CAN BE AN AWFULLY FRISKY

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals R

NICE ONE bedroom basement apartment with washer and dryer, $185 plus one-fifth utilities. Call 537-3318 (52-56)

30% Off

1/4 Hamburger

CITY AUDITORIUM, November 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Crafts, toys and much more. Register for prizes. Do your Christmas shopping early. Soup and snacks.

art show and sale, Saturday, Nov. 8, from 9-5:30 at Cico Park - West on Kimball

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non-12th, Aggieville, 539-1413 (27tf) month plus one-half lot rent, one-half electric Male, no pets. Call 776-1359. (48-57)

FOR RENT-APTS

ement and large porch plus great amenities. 776-0272. (44-53)

•24 Hour Emergency Maintenance

Parking Two Laundry Facilities and Pools

with KSU operations, possess excellent organiza-tional and communication skills, be available to work 15-20 hours/week immediately and be able to commit to the position through August 14, 1987. Call for complete position description (532-5575) or pick up a copy at 1623 Anderson Avenue Application deadline November 12 (51-54)

WANTED-AN Arts and Graphics major for part-time position. Retail experience preferred. Apply in per son at the Jean Station. (52-54) RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amusement parks, now accepting applications. For more information and an application, write: National Colle giate Recreation Service, PO. Box 8074, Hilton Head, S.C. 29938 (52-66) OVERSEAS JOBS Summer, year around Europe

South America, Australia, Asia All fields. $900-$2,000 month. Sightseeing, Free informa-tion, write IJC, PO, Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar. CAMPUS REPS needed-travel free: Position involves marketing and selling quality ski and beach trips on campus. Earn free trips and high commis-sions. Call John Eldredge at Great Destinations, 1-

800-258-9191 (52-56)

WE'RE LOOKING for a dependable woman or man Part-time with potential for full-time, long-term employment. Experience in camping, backpacking, and/or biking required. Come in for application. The Pathfinder, 1111 Moro, Aggieville, (52-54). STUDENT OPERATOR position, 15-30 hours per week Starting date November 17, 1986. Must be willing to work evenings, holidays, summer months, weekends and school breaks. Student with employment potential of two years will be given preference. Ranking factors such as GPA, general employment experience and experience as a computer operator will be considered. Appli-cations will be accepted through 4 p.m., Friday, November 7 in Administrative Computer Opera-tions, room 2B, basement of Farrell Library, Contact Dennis Reith. (52-54) JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 500 placed by us in Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Boston. Nine-twelve month commitment in exchange for excellent salary, room and board, air transporta-tion and benefits. All families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, P.O. Box 7068, Wilton, CT, 06897, Call 1-203-834-1742, Featured on Hour Magazine and the Today Show (52)

NANNY POSITIONS-Live in beautiful seaside Connecticut, one hour from New York City. Choose from carefully acreened families. Assist with childcare, light housekeeping. Room, board, $100-$200 per week, transportation paid, 12 month stay. Care For Kids, Inc., 1-203-838-6108/ 852 1184, P.O. Box 27, Rowayton, CT 06853, (52)

LOST

RUSTY IS lost: Russ is a large orange-stripe, "Morris"-type neutered male cat, no collar or white markings. Russ is shy, eats tomatoes. Russ is on a special diet and could become very ill without it ease help. Reward. 539-4033, 539-5891, or 539-3272 anytime. (50-52)

SET OF GM car keys, Union Recreation Center, Sun day between 6 and 8 p.m. Phone 776-2333, (51-53)

PERSONAL

06

07

13

KAPPA SIG Dan-Black, white, and red is your furry fame, colors we starred in what's my name? Love Mom. (52)

Your mom loves you and thinks you're sweet. Clue #2—I want you to know, I come from the state of the yellow rose. Love. Mom. (52) BETAS-THANKS for the haircuts, revenge is sweet

KAPPA SIG Fred -- How about those trick or treats!

Love, the caught DDD rock painters, (52) TO: ALPHA Z "Stinky" and M.O.M. Kelly - We didn't think we could love Mormons, but you changed our minds. Here's to spaghetti baths and Mr. Bub-ble all the time! Love, The Horndogs. (52)

TO "DRACULA'S Assistant" in the red tail coat who graced my cape with her charms on her way out of Brother's Friday night . . . I'm looking for an assistant. If you're interested, respond in Personals Phone number? —Drac. (52)

hot. Practice with cocoa and pepperm schnapps. ATOs and Pi Phis will finish tops. Get excited for U-Sing '86. Love, the ATOs. (52) SHAN M .- I'm so glad you're my friend, if I broke

PI PHIs - Carry a tune or not, we think that you all are anyone else's window—they would beat me on the head! You're the best! T. Rae. (52) DARYL, GOOD luck in Kansas City! I know you'll do a great job! Love, Janelle (52) TO MY D.U. little man: Happy Belated 19th! Hove you more than my feddy bear! Love, your KKG little woman. (52) TKE KIRK: Some Dad's are short, some Dad's are tall but you're the best, of them all! TS (52)

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom

Very clean, nice, furnished apartment, own ro $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181 BABYSITTER WANTED Special person to care for our one-year-old son Monday and Wednesday mornings at our house while mom teaches pre-ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture school on premises. Call 532-6839 Tuesday or Thursday mornings. (51-52) for horse, cow, dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs furnished. 776-1205 evenings. (50-59)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester

evenings (47-56)

ONE-TWO female roommates wanted for spring se mester. Apartment complex is very nice and two blocks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call Diane, 776-4965. (51-54)

FEMALE: SHARE five bedroom house, five month lease for second semester. Call 776-2103 after 5 p.m. (51-53) FEMALE: SHARE four bedroom house Close to campus, own room, washer, dryer, Call Janett, 539-

ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apart-ment close to campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-3759 NONSMOKING FEMALE - Large house with washer and dryer, central air and heat. Private room, util ties paid. $175/month thru May! Close to KSU 539-6628 evenings (52-59) MALE ROOMMATE wanted immediately to share nice two-bedroom apartment near campus. Good location with a very nice view of Manhattan. Located on McCain Lane. Call 539-1157. (52-53)

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free ping nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180 103 S

Fourth St., Suite 25, (11f) MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Hum boldt, 537-4246 (43tf)

RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters profes-sionally written and printed. Call 529:5007. (9tf)

ROSS CUSTOM SECRETARIAL

TERM PAPERS THESES DISSERTATIONS

RESUMES (with cover letters)

SERVICE

FACULTY MANUSCRIPTS Come see us at 614 N. 12th (across from Kite's) for your work to be done in a professional manner, quickly. We take pride in our work! We look forward to our association with the University community.

> Tel: 539-5147 Lee Ross, Owner

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence, 913-841-5716, (39tf) WORD PROCESSING, letter quality, editing, reason able rates. Laura, 532-2362 (131), leave message (48-52)

TYPING—EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates term papers, letters, etc. Call 776 0738 (50 54) TYPING-TERM papers, research papers, resumes cover letters, theses Call 539-2411 (5,*56)

WANTED

PASSENGER WANTED to Turson Process Arts querque area during Christinias spication. Share as penses, references required. Need to know seen 837 7709 (52 50)

DILLONS DOUBLE YOUR SAVINGS ON ALL MANUFACTURER'S "CENTS OFF" COUPONS UP TO AND INCLUDING 50¢ Ready To Fat Fully Casted IN VALUE.

"Ready To Eat Fully Cooked"

Prices Effective Nov. 5 - Nov. 11, 1986. Limit Rights Reserved - Prices Not Effective in Pittsburg, Kansas.

We're Having A

All month long we'll be featuring the whole mouthwatering variety of fresh-baked pies in our Bakery. Stop By and Partake!

Available Only In Stores With In-Store Bakeries.

35¢ Ea.

"Book of the Week"

Publisher's Suggested Retail

Hell Black & White

A.M./F.M. Radio features 3-way power. This set can be connected to AC current through AC adaptor at home. You can also enjoy the set in any car either by connecting it to the cigarette lighter with our cord or by using "D" size batteries. Perfect Christmas gift for student, sportsmen, boaters or campers. Ideal for dens, workshops, extra bedrooms, office or family

From The New York Times Best Seller List. . .

By Pat Conroy

from our Seafood Shoppe...

Additional Purchases

$19.95

(WHILE SUPPLIES LAST!)

2 Lb. Bag Food Club Light Brown or Powdered

(WITH COUPON BELOW)

Food Club

5 Lb. Bag

Additional Purchase Price 69¢ Ea.

(WITH COUPON BELOW)

Fresh Butterfish

(Available Only In Stores With Full-Service Seafood Shops.)

Pepperoni, Sausage, Cheese or Combination

Frozen, 10 oz. Pkg.

Super Coupon...

Food Club Sugar

59¢ WITH THIS COUPON!

Limit One 2 Lb. Bag w

(WITH COUPON BELOW)

Additional

Purchase

Price

79¢ Ea.

Additional Purchase Price 69¢ Ea.

39¢ WITH THIS COUPON!

Subar Conbour

Mega Pizza

Included In Double Coupon Program.)

Super Coupon...

Food Club Flour

(69¢ Additional Purchases)

39¢ THIS COUPON!

Limit One 5 Lb. Bag w/

One Gallon

(WITH COUPON BELOW)

from our Deli & Cheese Shop ... Emmber's Wafer Sliced

Corn Beef, Pastrami, Beef. or Smoked Beef

BONUS Special!

Libby or Carnation Evaporated

Cans

JIFF 8 oz. Buttermilk Biscuit, 6.5 oz. Pizza

Crust, 8% oz. Corn Muffin, 7 oz. Fruit Muffin Mixes, Apple Cinnamon, Honey Date, Banana, Blueberry Like, Pie Crust, 9 oz. Cake Mixes, Devils Food, White, Yellow, 8 oz. Fudge Brownie Mix, 71/2 oz. Frosting, White or Chocolate Fudge

Cheese on CHEESE Bagels! BONUS SPECIAL! "New 16 oz. Economy Chub. . .

Super Coupon...

Dillon Gallon Milk

Coupon Program Does Not Apply.

50¢ OFF WITH THIS COUPO

Fresh Bagels Reserved.

Try Cream

Golden Ripe

Ad Prices Effective Nov. 5-11, 1986. Limit Rights

(NO COUPON REQUIRED)

(NO COUPON REQUIRED)

Sports

Trode B....

アメマテステスキステステステステステステステステス ひょしょう もちらじは

As soccer grows in popularity, the K-State women's soccer team is expanding as more people take interest in the sport. See Page 6.

Kansas

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Thursday

November 6, 1986

Volume 93, Number 53

Vote expands burden on state Republicans

By TOM SCHULTES

Kansas State University

Business/Government Editor

Increased responsibility for the Republican Party and possible benefits for the presidential aspirations of Sen. Robert Dole are among the issues arising in the wake of Tuesday's election.

State Rep. Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, said he was "very satisfied" with the election of Mike Hayden because of the work he had put into both the primary and general election.

But, Knopp added, the victory gave him an increased "sense of responsibility" in that the Republicans will no longer have a Democratic administration to blame for actions.

"It's kind of sobering to think of the responsibility on the Republicans," he said. William Richter, head of the Department of Political Science, said the gubernatorial election turned out to be the "real cliffhanger" polls indicated.

Richter said Hayden's victory came about by the same factors used in his August primary election campaign, that of stressing his legislative experience and "a lot of spade work out in the state."

He said "a lot of heavy campaigning in the urban areas," and the selection of Overland Park Mayor Jack Walker as running mate made it possible for the candidate from western Kansas to carry a number of urban areas.

Richter also credited heavy radio coverage in targeted areas, and recent actions by Hayden, more acceptable to urban area residents, were also strong factors in his victory.

In regard to the swing to Democratic control of the U.S. Senate after Tuesday's election, Richter said that had to be the "major development on the national

He said the major impact is through the movement of Democrats into leadership positions, and the subsequent removal of present, Republican leaders from Senate leadership.

For current Majority Leader Bob Dole, Richter said he saw the change in Senate leadership as possibly being a positive one for the senior Republican senator from Kansas.

Richter said with Dole's workload reduced after the leadership changes take place, more time will be available for a campaign to receive the GOP nomination for the presidency. He said this increase in available campaigning time would probably offset any loss in prominence after losing the title of ma-

See REACT, Page 10

Return of Senate majority spurs Democratic rejoicing

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Democrats rejoiced Wednesday in midterm elections that restored them to power in the Senate and padded their majority in the House. President Reagan offered cooperation with the 100th Congress and said "our agenda remains unchanged" in his final two years in the White House.

Democratic National Chairman Paul Kirk declared the results pro-"tremendous psychological lift" for a party twice victimized by Reagan's presidential landslides.

"We can say it all in four words. The Democrats are back," Kirk said. "It was a dynamic victory, one that shifts the momentum in our direction as we prepare for the next national election.

"We expanded our base in the South and the West, which was necessary following the 1984 election," he said.

Democrats will hold a comfortable 55-45 majority in the new Senate, reversing the GOP edge of 53-47 in the old 99th Congress and giving them the control they lost in Democrats also won at least 258 House seats to 173 for the Republicans, for an increase of at least five. That was far fewer than historical standards would dictate, a result that heartened Republicans.

Four House races were still too close to call long after the last ballots were cast.

Republicans heralded their impressive gains in governor's races. They captured 11 seats currently held by Democrats, including Texas, Florida and Alabama for the first time since Reconstruction, and now control 24 of 50 gover-

"I think what we did in the South and across the Sun Belt is indicative that we're still in pretty good shape" as the two parties look toward 1988, said GOP Chairman Frank Fahrenkopf.

Reagan said the results prove the "political spectrum continues to move our way," and sought to disabuse Democrats of any ideas that he would serve out his term quietly as a lame duck.

"You can take it from me. Washington ain't seen nothing yet," he said in a variation of his refrain from the 1984 re-election campaign.

Reagan traveled over 25,000 miles in a bid to retain the Republican majority in the Senate, and he conceded, "This is not the outcome we sought." But, he add-

See DEMOCRATS, Page 9

Hayden expecting death penalty bill

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Flush from victory and basking in the adulation of his closest supporters, Mike Hayden said Wednesday he expects a bill restoring capital punishment to be on his desk in the governor's office by March. However, restoring the state's death penalty is not at the top of Hayden's agenda as he begins to take control of the Kansas bureaucracy and replace high-Democrats with seated Republicans loyal to the new gover-

"The budget has got to be a major priority," Hayden told his first news conference as governor-elect. "I've got to get my cabinet in place and we need to implement those constitutional amendments."

Besides choosing Hayden over Democrat Tom Docking in the governor's race, voters on Tuesday approved a massive revision of the Kansas Constitution, relaxing its ban on gambling to allow a staterun lottery and pari-mutuel wagering on horse and dog racing. The electorate also adopted an amendment which will allow liquor to be served by the drink in Kansas restaurants.

With the governor's title under his belt, Hayden said he would launch a search for new cabinet officers and begin preparing a budget to be submitted to the 1987 Legislature in January.

He said the "continuing economic stagnation in Kansas and the decline in our estimate tax receipts" would likely result in a very austere budget next year.

"I think it's important that we restore the balances in the general fund," Handen said. "We have a very low growth rate and we must increase the balances in our savings account. That means we won't have much to spend. And I think people are ready for a conservative government and a fiscally prudent governor."

The lottery and liquor-by-thedrink will be the easiest to put in place, Hayden said. However, it will not be as simple to gear up for pari-mutuel wagering because of the need to protect against organized crime from infiltrating it and due to the time needed to build tracks.

Relieving prison overcrowding and parole policy reformation also will be tackled by the new governor.

"It's going to take some time for the transition to a full new administration," Hayden said. However, Democratic heads in the bureaucracy will roll as the GOP patronage system is installed.

"It will take some months, but there will be major changes. We're going to make significant changes."

Guards in Kansas prisons and all state employees who carry firearms should prepare for drug testing, along with college athletes, Hayden said.

"I'm ready to go, too," Hayden said, referring to his own pledge to submit to drug testing.

Building a highway in southeast Kansas and bringing Washburn University in Topeka into the regents system are goals Hayden

See HAYDEN, Page 3

Staff/Andy Nelson

Kansas Governor-elect Mike Hayden, right, gives his mother, Ruth, a hug after presenting her a yellow rose Tuesday prior to his election speech. Hayden won 90 counties defeating Lt. Gov. Tom Docking by 32,000 votes.

Vote of '86 influences '88 election

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The 1986 elections have scrambled the equation for the 1988 presidential race, giving Bob Dole and Jack Kemp a stronger footing to challenge George Bush. while letting Democrats take center stage to offer an alternative agenda to President Reagan.

Of all the possible contenders for the White House, Sen. Paul Laxalt. R-Nev., appeared to have suffered the biggest blow from the Democrats' takeover of the Senate, which put them in charge of both houses of Congress for the first time since 1980

Laxalt voluntarily gave up a safe Senate seat, only to see it captured by Democrats.

A Democratic win "could affect my future plans," Laxalt had acknowledged in advance. "It would be a negative for me in 1988...(and) certainly is not going to give Paul Laxalt any brownie points" with GOP stalwarts.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado didn't run for reelection so he could campaign full time for the White House. His seat remained Democratic with the election of Rep. Timothy Wirth.

With only one declared candidate - former Delaware Gov. Pierre Du-Pont, a Republican — the 1988 race is in its infancy. However, it will pick up speed early next year with the formation of campaign exploratory committees, and then gather momentum over the next months with declarations of candidacy.

With the Democrats in power in the

See REAGAN, Page 10

Students list varied reasons for not donating body organs

By BARRY STEFFEN Collegian Reporter

A K-State psychology research team has found the fear of being declared dead prematurely, body disfigurement and an unwillingness to make decisions based on one's own death are three of the main reasons students avoid signing organ donation consent forms.

"A person who is an organ donator can save a number of lives because each organ in someone's body can go to a different recipient," said James Shanteau, professor of psychology.

"The problem is there aren't enough donators," he said.

Shanteau, five colleagues, five psychology graduate students and three undergraduate students have been studying the lack of organ donations during the past 18 months. They have completed three studies and will finish three more sometime this Shanteau said the first study was a survey of attitudes, opinions and knowledge people had about organ donation. The second dealt with the kinds of appeals most effective for influencing people to donate organs.

Finally, the group did an analysis of the image people perceived about their organs and bodies. They then tried to develop a relation between people's perceptions and whether they had or had not donated.

Shanteau said all the studies were done on K-State students, and some were compared to nationwide studies.

The team found in the first study that 10 percent to 13 percent of K-State students have signed organ donation consent forms compared to 5 percent to 20 percent of two national polls taken.

Thirty-five percent of all K-State students said they would be willing to donate an organ but had not taken steps to do so. In the two national polls, 33 percent were willing but had not taken steps. Shanteau said 90 percent to 95 percent of all K-State students are aware of the need for organ donators and how to go about it.

"We found the reasons people aren't donating are the psychological perceptions which exist," Shanteau said, "the fears and uncertainty in-

He said many people are concerned a doctor will declare death prematurely in order to obtain an

This is not true," Shanteau said. An independent validation (the person is dead) from a doctor not involved with the patient's case has to be given, and the next of kin has to be approached (to give permission for the removal of an organ)."

"The idea that doctors hover about just waiting to pluck out organs is strictly fictitious," Shanteau said. He said the idea organ donation causes body disfigurement is also false, and a number of donators have had open casket funerals. "They can even go as far to remove eyes and corneas, and no one will notice," Shanteau said. Another fear potential donors express is a general aversion to their "There are people 80 years old who haven't made out wills yet," Shanteau said. "People don't like to think about dying." He said young people in particular avoid procedures like wills and organ donations because of their youth and the fact they have so many things to look forward to.

This is a problem, because while members of the younger generation have stronger organs, they are involved in more activities which put them at a higher risk of death.

Shanteau said about 20,000 people die each year who might have been saved by organ donations. The medical technology is available, and there are a capable number of transplant facilities around the coun-

Shanteau said a transplant no longer means a short-term life. More than 80 percent of the patients who have received kidney transplants have survived 20 years or more, and 70 percent of the heart recipients have survived at least 15 years.

During the second study of organ donations the team compared students reactions to two different public service announcements

Shanteau said they found students responded more willingly to an announcement telling them "do it for yourself" than one centered toward 'do it to help others.'

"Ads are being designed in ways that are not very helpful in recruiting organ donors," Shanteau said. "People do this to feel better about themselves."

He said most advertising is centered toward helping others and asking people to help others, but people act according to their own feelings of self-fulfillment which means doing it for yourself.

Shanteau said during the third study the researchers found students have a considerable ignorance about where organs are located in their body, and people more obsessed with their bodies are less likely to donate.

The liver, spleen, pancreas and

See ORGAN, Page 9

INTERNATIONAL

Iran refuses hostage negotiations

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Iran's prime minister said Wednesday there was no possibility of negotiations with Washington, which Tehran claims sent former National Security adviser Robert McFarlane and four other Americans on a futile mission to mend relations

The Iranian parliament speaker, Hashemi Rafsanjani, indicated Tuesday that Iran might help free American hostages held in Lebanon if the United States sent badly needed weapons and spare

Published reports in the Middle East said secret negotiations between Iran and the United States led to the release Sunday of one American hostage, David Jacobsen, by a pro-Iranian group that says it holds two other Americans.

But Prime Minister Hussein Musavi was quoted Wednesday by Tehran Radio as saying, "There isn't any possibility of any kind of negotiations between us and America. The relations with America, because of its crimes against the Islamic revolution, is one as between the wolf and the lamb.'

REGIONAL

Judge releases Hayden's subpoena

MEADE, Kan. — Magistrate Michael A. Freelove granted a motion Wednesday quashing a subpoena which would have required Kansas Gov.-Elect Mike Hayden to appear at the preliminary hearing of a murder suspect in Meade County District Court.

Attorney Jack Dalton of Dodge City, representing Hayden, moved when the preliminary hearing opened Wednesday to have the subpoena stricken and Freelove granted the motion, said Evelyn Dye, clerk of the district court.

Dalton argued Hayden had no personal knowledge about the murder case involving John Goss. He said all of Hayden's information came from either newspaper accounts of the shooting death of Jan Amerin in Plains on Sept. 8, or a volunteer worker in Hayden's campaign, Jack Gleichenhaus of Topeka.

Goss' attorney, Linda Eckelman of Dodge City, obtained the subpoena, seeking to have Hayden appear to explain where he got his information for the flier. She claimed it contained information she didn't have as defense counsel for Goss.

Kansas approves liquor, wagering

TOPEKA — After the Kansas Legislature approves new liquor laws next spring, public liquor by the drink will be permitted under certain conditions in slightly more than one-third of the state's 105

The liquor-by-the-drink amendment carried in 36 counties on the way approval statewide 487,996 to 325,423 votes - a margin of 60 percent to 40 percent - in Tuesday's general election. Under the amendment, liquor by the drink will be allowed only in the 36 counties

The pari-mutuel question also gained 60 percent approval, 481,561 to 323,612, with only 21 counties rejecting it. The lottery amendment garnered 64 percent approval, 514,198 to 290,940.

The liquor proposition eliminates the "open saloon" prohibition in the Kansas Constitution. Utah is now the only state in the nation with constitutional language that restricts the sale of alcoholic beverages

A light voter turnout in eastern Kansas, coupled with strong opposition in western sections of the state, was blamed for the defeat of a similar liquor measure by a margin of about 11,000 votes in 1970.

Hansen

Nutrition Center

Across from Village Plaze

WEIDER BODY-BUILDING

ALL MAJOR BRANDS

OF NATURAL FOODS

WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS

VEGETARIAN PRODUCTS

· NATURAL DIET AIDS

HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m

BOOKS ON NUTRITION

DRIED FRUIT, NUTS & SEEDS

STOP BY TODAY *

PRODUCTS

HAPPY HOUR

From 6 p.m. to close includes 81/2 x11 & 81/2 x 14/20#

kinko's copies

COPIES

31/2¢

NATIONAL

Pope to visit U.S. cities next year

WASHINGTON - Pope John Paul II will visit eight Southern and Western U.S. cities next year, celebrating a series of outdoor Masses like the ones that drew millions of Americans on his 1979 trip to Eastern and Midwestern cities, the nation's bishops announced Wednesday.

The cities he will visit in September 1987, announced officially for the first time, are Miami; Columbia, S.C.; New Orleans; San Antonio, Texas; Phoenix, Ariz.; Los Angeles; Monterey, Calif., and San Francisco.

Besides the open-air Roman Catholic Masses and meetings with Catholic groups, he is also to meet with Jewish leaders in Miami and take part in a prayer service with representatives of various faiths at a stadium in Columbia, S.C., according to details of his trip released by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Reagan asks staff to stay with him

WASHINGTON - President Reagan acknowledged Wednesday the election did not provide the outcome he sought, but he asked his staff to stick with him in the twilight of his presidency "to complete the revolution that we have so well begun.

In a subdued but characteristically upbeat speech to White House aides a day after his 25,000-mile campaign to preserve a Republican Senate ended in disappointment, Reagan said, "For two years more, my friends, let us make history together."

And drawing a line for his 1984 re-election campaign pitch, he insisted Washington "ain't seen nothin' yet."

The president called Tuesday's election results, in which the Republicans scored victories in important governors races but lost the Senate for which he had campaigned hardest, "fairly good news"

Reagan's chief political strategist, Mitchell E. Daniels Jr., told reporters the loss of the Senate "was just a story of close elections, and our good fortune ran out." He recalled that the Republicans had won 17 of the 21 Senate races decided by two percentage points or less in 1980, 1982 and 1984 and said, "Last night, Lady Luck evened the score.'

"This is not the outcome we sought," the president acknowledged, "but our agenda remains unchanged, and I look forward to its attainment."

Jury awards store owners damages

SALT LAKE CITY - Logan police violated the civil rights of two video store owners when they charged them with renting R-rated movies to minors, a federal jury has found.

After deliberating nearly 15 hours over two days, the U.S. District Court jury on Tuesday awarded $25,000 in damages each to Video America Inc. owner Dennis England and his business partner, Stan

The suit claimed Logan Police Chief Ferris Groll and Officer Richard Hendricks violated the men's Fourth Amendment right against unreasonable search and seizure and rights to equal protec-

The store owners were charged in 1983 after a Video America employee rented "Emanuelle in Bangkok" and "Fritz the Cat" to two minor girls. The felony charges were dismissed, however, following a preliminary hearing.

Plaintiffs' attorney David R. Daines said the jury found in favor of his clients on every claim. The award of $50,000 plus attorney fees is larger than had been offered to the store owners in settlement negotiations, he said.

LIVING

ETHICAL WILLS

Union State Room #3

Noon TODAY

This series gives an excellent opportunity to receive the "bequest"

of a campus leader, in terms of what she/he hopes to leave humanity as guiding principles for life.

ANTONIA PIGNO

 Assistant Professor Farrell Library

Campus Bulletin

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS has committee member applica-tions available today and Friday in the SGS of-

TODAY

A.C.E. meets at 6 p.m. in Calvin 102.

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION meets at 4 p.m. in Bluemont 217. The topic will be "Student-Teacher-Principal Relationships".

IEEE meets at 7:30 p.m. in Fairchild 202 Group pictures will be taken after meeting.

ROWING ASSOCIATION meets to take year-

DATA PROCESSING MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT meets at 7 p.m. in Union 212. The program will be the Farm Bureau Insurance

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 5:15 p.m. at the Theta Xi house. There will be a dinner at

PRE-VET MED CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trot-AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL

SAILING CLUB meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 213. Elections for next year's commodore will be

AGC STUDENT CHAPTER SEMINAR meets

PEACE CORPS will be in the Holtz Career nning and Placement Office all day.

ANTI-PORNOGRAPHY WEEK, sponsored by Women's Resource Center, will present "Strategies for Pornography in Manhattan", at 7 p.m. in Union 209. There will be a NOW meeting for present and potential members afterward.

U-LEARN INTERESTED VOLUNTEERS can nign up from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at a table in the

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER

CAR WASH 25¢ Wash Everyday!

*Close to campus *Coin changer available

*4 stalls for your convenience

*New facility, new location, no traffic hassle

Conveniently located on the corner of Tuttle Creek Blvd. & Kimball Ave.

RACQUETBALL CLUB meets at 7 p.m.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Maureen Dever Lien at 9 a.m. in Justin 244. The dissertation topic will be "Copper Uptake Into Hair Via in Vivo Stable Isotope Dilution Applysis".

TAU BETA PI meets at 7 p.m. in Durland 173.

The meeting is mandatory for pledges AGRICULTURE COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in COLLEGE OF BUSINESS GRADUATE STU-DENT ASSOCIATION meets at 1 p.m. in Calvin 201. The guest speaker will be Bill Edison, presi-dent of Union National Bank.

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 204

RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Call 205.

COLLEGIATE 4-H meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 213. Yearbook pictures will be taken at 8 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

GRAIN SCIENCE CLUB meets at 6:30 p.m. in Shellenberger 311

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA CRESCENTS meet at 9

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meets at 6 p.m. in Durland 163. There will be a discussion about the spring conference in Dallas

PHI THETA KAPPA ALUMNI meets to take

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST meets at 7

$24.95 Eyeglass Special

Treat yourself to a new pair of eyeglasses! Choose any plastic or metal frame in stock, including designer eyewear. Add to your selection single vision or plastic lenses* and pay ONLY $24.95. Fashion plastic tints are included on this sale. Bifocals in flat top 25 or 28 mm styles, and round segments ONLY $25 additional. We can fill your doctor's prescription.

*This offer includes prescriptions which do not exceed (+) or () 4.00 diopters sphere on (-) 2.00 diopters cylinder. This ad cannot be used in conjunction with any other optical nontomorq

> Some Boutique Frames Not Included We use the highest quality lenses!

SALE ENDS: NOV. 8

OPTICAL STUDIO

1210 MORO • 537-1574

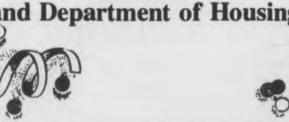

Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.; Sat. 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

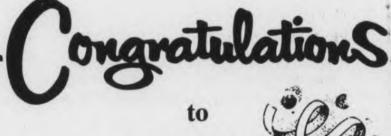

Jeff Wing

on your University nomination for the Truman Scholarship.

We wish you the best of luck.

KSUARH and Department of Housing

Mini Classroom Sessions Parents' Weekend '86

Attend one of these sessions with your parents from 10-10:45 a.m. Saturday

"Three-Mile Island, Chernobyl-And Facts of Life" by Herman Donnert, Nuclear Engineering Union 213

"Motivation Factors in our Consuming Society" by R.P. Coleman, Marketing Union 212

"Operational Amplifiers: Concepts and Analysis" by Edward Fowler, Electrical & Computer Engineering Union 206

> Special thanks to these sponsors: Drs. Price, Young & Odle, P.A. Doctors in Optometry Union National Bank

WANTED:

Spring Collegian Editor and Ad Manager

> Applications available in Kedzie 103

Applications due by 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 10, 1986 Kedzie Hall 103

Democrats gain seats in Kansas House

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - After eight years of declining numbers, Democrats picked up two seats in the Kansas House during Tuesday's general elections - a result that is likely to increase Democratic membership on a number of key legislative commit-

With only four exceptions, each of the 125 House districts will be represented by a member of the same political party as last year.

But because Democrats won in three districts formerly held by Republicans while only one Democratic district changed party hands, the GOP's margin during the 1987 session will be 74-51, compared to 76-49 during the past two years.

Aides to Democratic leaders in the House say the two additional seats will allow minority party membership to increase from seven to eight on each of the 21-member committees. Among the panels with 21 members are the House agriculture, taxation, education, energy, federal and state affairs and judiciary com-

At least 16 new lawmakers will make their debuts on the House floor when the Legislature convenes Jan. 12. But speculation was running high at the Capitol Wednesday that the number of freshman legislators may increase because some veteran Republicans may be named to posts in Gov.-Elect Mike Hayden's ad-

Twelve of the new House members emerged from races for seats left open by lawmakers who either retired or were defeated in the primary. One new legislator faced no opposition in the general election and three others knocked off incumbents.

Democratic House membership had dropped substantially since the party held a 65-60 majority in 1977 and 1978. During the following two years, Democrats held 56 seats and the margin slipped to 53 seats from 1981 through 1984.

An increase in Democratic committee memberships is significant because the party's positions would prevail on a 21-member panel if only three Republicans aligned themselves with the eight Democrats.

The four key races which led to the 5,567 votes cast in the race against Democratic gains in Tuesday's elec-

Democrat Elaine Wells' 25-vote victory in district that includes Osage and Lyon counties, where 7,643 votes were cast. Ms. Wells, of Carbondale, pulled ahead of incumbent Republican Rep. Burt DeBaun of Osage City as the final returns came in Wednesday morning.

 In Johnson County, where Democrat Carol Sader edged incumbent Rep. Bruce Mayfield, R-Overland Park, by only 126 votes out of 6,470 cast to claim the traditionally Republican seat.

- The upset of four-term Rep. Lloyd Polson, R-Vermillion, the chairman of the House Agriculture and Small Business Committee, by Democrat Bruce Larkin of Baileyville. Larkin defeated Polson by 1,325 votes out of 7,543 cast in the northeast Kansas district.

- Republican Tim Shallenburger's victory in an extreme southeast Kansas seat held by the Democrats for the past 16 years. Shallenburger, of Baxter Springs, rolled up a 857-vote margin out of Democrat Kent Lynch of Baxter Springs. Shallenburger will replace retiring Rep. Patricia Weaver.

General election contests took place in only 65 districts. Even before the first votes were counted Tuesday night, the Republicans were assured of holding on to 40 seats while the Democrats were guaranteed 20 spots on the floor in January.

The 40 state senators serve fouryear terms and do not come up for election until 1988.

Another race that was not decided until early Wednesday was in the western Barton County district that grabbed statewide attention this summer as a result of near even results in the Republican primary. The GOP primary race was settled by an unprecedented special election in September.

Republican Bob Mead of Pawnee Rock, who defeated incumbent Rep. Jerry Friedeman in the primary, had pulled away from Great Bend Democrat Walter Straub 3,798 to 3,234 when the final votes were plans to follow up.

Hayden

Continued from Page 1

"It's time to build a road in southeast Kansas and I believe the people there are ready to support one route and local governments are ready to participate," Hayden said. "It's going to take time to get if off the ground

"And I'll give very serious consideration to Washburn. I'd like to get the question of Washburn University resolved during my administra-

Hayden said he would not interfere in Gov. John Carlin's appointment of a new justice to the Kansas Supreme Court, to replace the retiring Chief Justice Alfred G. Schroeder. However, he wants to talk to Carlin about some upcoming vacancies on the Board of Regents.

"I don't think you should politicize the supreme court," he said. "But the regents is different and I hope to cooperate with the governor on the appointment of new regents."

Hayden said hard work and grassroots support were decisive in his 32,000-vote victory over Docking, in which the Republican carried 90 of the state's 105 counties.

"It was a great grassroots campaign," Hayden said as family and friends from his northwestern hometown of Atwood looked on in the House Chamber where he presided the past four years.

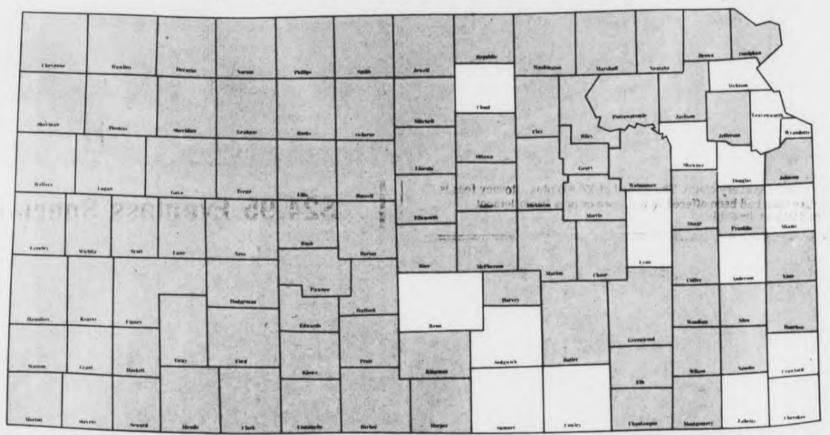

"It was a historic race in a lot of respects. It was a tremendous voter turnout and it was a hard-fought and aggressive campaign.'

Hayden said the success of Carlin, the Smolan Democrat who was barred by the Kansas Constitution from seeking a third consecutive term, gave him the inspiration and confidence that he, too, could win the governor's office.

"One reason I though this was possible is that John Carlin had been speaker of the House and he was from a smalltown, although not as far west as us, and he beat an incumbent governor," Hayden said. "That gave me the idea eight years ago that this thing was possible. There's a lot of similarities between us, in that

How the counties voted

Shaded areas represent counties won by Governor-elect Mike Hayden.

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

CONGRATULATIONS

"AFRO 86"

1986 INTROMURAL SOCCER CHAMPS

Jean Station

Jean Station Model

> Search Pick up details and entry form at Jean Station by 11/19/86

AGGIEVILLE - MANHATTAN

JANUARY LAST CHANCE! Steamboat

*184

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK PA

Optometrist

See Our Newly Opened Eyeglass Department

- •Large selection of the latest style frames
- •Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for one year
- ·As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lens patient
- •Most contact lenses available same day

For Your Complete Eye Care Needs, Call Us

776-9461 Local

404 Humblodt Professional Bldg. (Downtown)

1-800-432-0036 Out of Town in KS

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH

75¢ Wash 25¢ Dry "Free Parking" Visit our back room.

Open Sun.-Thurs. 24 Hours Daily Fri.-Sat. 4:30 a.m.-12 midnight

1118 Moro

Scott Herink, junior in sociology and correctional administration, leans over the edge of his lawn mower to keep his balance while he mowing Wednesday at the corner of Kimball and College avenues.

Student Senate to vote on representation bill

By The Collegian Staff

which would allow students to vote on how they would like to be represented by senators. The bill proposes students running for senate either represent their college or their living district.

If the proposal is approved tonight, students will vote on the representation issue during regular senate elections next February.

If approved at that time, the bill would allow 24 senators representing colleges and 24 representing living districts. Living districts designations, and the number of senators to represent those districts are: offcampus housing, 14 senators; residence halls, five senators; and greek membership, five senators. In other voting action tonight,

Stud. It Senate will vote tonight on senate will decide on the setting of ofhe Enhancement Referendum bill fice hours for each member. If passed, senators would be required to hold one office hour each week in the Student Government Services Office.

Senate will also vote on the ratification of the University's Literature and Notice Regulations. Among issues included in the bill are changes in poster registration, standards for posting and literature distribution and location rules.

A bill seeking allocation of $551 to the K-State Chapter of the American Institute of Architecture Students is also to be presented to senate tonight. The funds are being requested so the chapter can attend a national architecture forum during Thanksgiving vacation.

FACE THE ULTIMATE CHALLENGE Body By Schliebe

Most Physical Contest $1000 In Cash & Prizes Preliminaries TONIGHT & Tues. Nov. 11 at 9 p.m. To Enter Call 776-1750

Arts and Science College Student of the Semester

> Applications now available

Applications Due: Nov. 14 5 p.m.

Take applications to the Dean's office

Patti Hannan

EDITORIAL BOARD: Renee Beaudoin, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Laurie Fairburn, Judy Goldberg, Deron Johnson, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Phil Nordhus, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued, Lillian Zier. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 332-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Senators should vote 'yes' for referendum appropriately represent the interests of the entire student body. Sponsors of the bill, "Student Senate Representation Enhancement Referendum," believe it would result in better representation by dividing Senate delegates into college candidates and living district candidates.

The bill, to be debated in tonight's session, calls for a student referendum to decide the Students often spend more time with candidates who have a similar living style and may be more adequately represented by them. Interests pertaining directly to colleges would remain balanced and would not be negatively affected by the change.

In the bill, living districts are divided into greek, off-campus and residence hall housing. The division of seats would be determined proportionately by

The aim of Student Senate is to number of students living in each

Currently, 35 senators live in greek houses, 10 reside offcampus and one lives in a residence hall. Because candidates living in fraternities or sororities have had the advantage of increased organization and support by co-habitants, nongreeks may have had a defeatest attitide in the past and decided not to run or even vote.

Allowing candidates to run according to their living situations will most likely result in an increased number of off-campus and residence hall candidates with a better chance of winning.

The issue senators will debate tonight is not whether they believe representation should be split. They will determine if students will be given the opportunity to vote on the issue.

Senators should vote "yes" on

Thursday, November 6, 1986 — 4

'Bleeding heart' opinions tiresome

I've been trying for some weeks to rationalize the opinions of some of the columns and editorials in the Collegian. The only articles I've seen on the editorial page seemed to have the same theme, "Bleeding Heart Liberalism!" The editorial board has its opinions, but some of us are about to enter the real (and somewhat conservative) world. It seems to me that if President Reagan is doing such a poor job (as is portrayed) he wouldn't have been re-elected to a second term by such a wide margin.

Does anyone really know enough about "Star Wars" - Strategic Defense Initiative - to declare it right or wrong? There are two basic groups that oppose SDI: The people who don't understand it and live in a "Return of the Jedi" type of dream; and the Soviet Union. It is obvious why the Soviets are opposed. SDI has the potential to neutralize, or in more optimistic terms "kick the hell out their conventional intercontinental ballistic missiles. Obviously, that would not be to their advantage if "Ronnie's Machine" (ha ha!) decided to conquer Eastern Europe to find more unemployment and welfare recipients. The point is that SDI is not an offensive weapon system; that might be the reason it has the word "defense" in its name.

However, the first group - the people who do not understand SDI - does not seem to fit into that school of thinking. No, they are more in favor of cutting SDI (and the rest of the defense budget) to nothing. Then we would have enough money to pay farmers $5 per bushel for wheat and export it to every poor country in the world, save one; South Africa should be avoided, and publicly chastized at any cost. After all, if we get all foreign business to leave South Africa, we could feasibly ruin their economy causing widespread chaos, and from this a stable, humane democracy will arise. If you believe that, I've got some swampland just outside of "Oz" I'll let you have really cheap. What is more likely to happen is a black (Oh Boy! he's not white) military dictatorship. And I'm sure this dictatorship's sole concern will be to make those kids quit throwing rocks at

GEORGE

SUTTON

Columnist

Guest

Maybe I'm getting a little bit out of hand. I just don't think the defense budget needs to be butchered for the sake of cutting "something." I could see, however, putting some of our overweight social programs in the sauna for a while. Something's got to lighten them up. Whoops! Now I stepped on some more of those little bleeding heart toes. It's been proven time and again that America's defense contractors like to play capitalism to the hilt. But my point is that the defense budget is there to protect each and every one of us. If we don't like it, we can get an all expense paid, one-way ticket to the Soviet Union. Welfare, unemployment payments and other social programs are just as corrupt, and don't do most of us one bit of Unemployment in the United States is down, but there are still a lot of people out there sponging off the American working public. I thought it was in college where I learned that unemployment means the percent of people looking for work who can't find jobs. Does this mean it is a big job to walk to the unemployment/welfare office and file vour claim? I think some of these people even have children, maybe even six of them. I wonder what these kids think. Is it normal to live on welfare, is it all right, even status quo? That's what our generation is going to have to deal with

Socialism is built around the theme, "From each according to his ability, to each according to his need." I really don't think even the supporters of this classless (socialism is ideally a classless society) phrase meant for the working class (yuppies included) to support the dead weight in a society. I think even they would require some degree of effort before the free goodies are

Don't get the wrong idea. I support the social benefits system. But would it be possible to finance background checks of applicants for these programs by using the money currently supporting the dead weight in our society?

Some say I'm too "cold" in my old age. But I don't think I'm the only person on campus who is tired of hearing the "Bleeding Heart Blues" five times a week about anything and everything. It's good to hear about the latest nasty little trick some big company has played on the U.S. government. But we must also realize that there is just as much sponging going on that people like to overlook and ignore. Both things come out of the same pocketbooks, and at least those "Big Bad Companies" are producing a worthwhile product as opposed to an ill-affordable side ef-

George Sutton is a senior in electrical engineering.

Hayden's propaganda fails to affect election

Mike Hayden is the governorelect of Kansas. That in itself is curious considering Hayden's questionable campaign tactics. As part of Hayden's campaign, an inaccurate flier was mailed to thousands of Kansans.

The flier depicted Kansas as a state where there has been, "a total breakdown of law and order...." The Kansas Bureau of Investigation issued a report in September that stated violent crimes in the state were up 50 percent in the first six months of 1986. A few days later, however, the KBI announced that it was wrong - violent crime in Kansas had only risen 3.5 percent.

Unfortunately, Hayden's campaign people ignored or missed the second KBI statement and included in the crime flier a misleading headline from the original KBI story in the Wichita Eagle-Beacon. The headline was used without permission of the Eagle-Beacon. Republican Attorney General Robert Stephan said he could not agree with the assessment of a "total breakdown" of law and order. "In the midst of a heated campaign, I suppose an overzealous person might interpret a 2 percent rise differently than I do," the attorney general

The flier also stated that if Hayden had been governor, then Nathaniel Smith, who was convicted of second-degree murder in 1983 and later escaped to kill someone else, would have been executed before he had a chance to escape. However, Hayden has never claimed he supported capital punishment for seconddegree murderers - only firstdegree murderers.

"That was unfortunate." Kelley Hayden, Mike's press secretary and brother, said. However, he added that the flier was "emotionally correct. It was intended to elicit an emotional response." One must wonder if the emotional response the flier's incorrect information elicited had anything to do with the outcome of Tuesday's election results.

As Gov. John Carlin said, "To use inaccurate, misleading information and exaggerate to the extent they're are doing in this particular piece of propaganda shows no respect for the intelligence of Kansans."

'Newspeak' describes U.S. politics

In 1840, French philosopher Pierre Joseph Proudhon noted that preconceived ideas influence language and language in turn propogates preconceived ideas. He stated that a ball thrown into the air, for example, does not "fall from above to below" but moves according to gravitational effect toward the center of the earth.

"To 'descend from heaven," Proudhon wrote, "is as incorrect an expression as to 'mount to heaven.' And yet this expression will live as long as men use language." Proudhon was on to something. Imagine, calling an object something other than what it is just because others have done so.

The same principal was demonstrated a century later, when George Orwell used such phrases as "freedom is slavery" and "war is peace," to show how "Newspeak," a language with limited words, could limit people's ideas. If you don't have a word or a phrase to represent an idea, you can't very well express the idea.

The last few months I have been collecting my own examples of language-propogated myths and "Newspeak." There is the MX missile, for example, the most destructive weapon in the American arsenal. President Reagan calls the MX the "peacemaker," as if it were somehow needed to ensure peace. Given our already superfluous amount of nuclear weapons, however, that conclusion does not necessarily follow.

The name, however, is not completely inaccurate. There is one good reason to call the MX a "peacemaker." If it is ever used, it will surely bring everlasting peace to this planet. No one will be here to prove it, but there will be a peace of sorts.

Norman Black, the Associated Press military expert, gives another example of how words and their intended meanings differ. Black informs us that if the Navy's new Tomahawk missiles are "used in conjunction with attack aircraft, they could save lives by destroying defenses and clearing the way for

If we believe that, then saving lives is as easy as "destroying defenses and clearing the way for aerial assaults." The question is, whose lives will be saved and are their lives

POSTER DE BEREIO DE CONTRACTOR DE LA CON

SCOTT MILLER Collegian

more important than the lives of people who get in the way while the Tomahawk is "destroying defenses and clearing the way for aerial assaults?

Speaking of aerial assaults, we can ponder the language surrounding an event which took place in Libya last April. The event. which vaguely resembled an aerial assault, was a "strike." A "strike," as everyone knows, is part of a harmless game which is as American as apple pie. And if any innocent bystanders (say a 2-year-old daughter of one of the game's participants) should get hit by a foul ball or a wild pitch, well, that's part of the game.

The point is not to place blame, but to distinguish an aerial assault from a "strike" - the difference being who is on the receiv-

While on the subject of Libya, perhaps we should discuss the language of terrorism. Because of Col. Moammar Gadhafy's decision to use Libyan soil for terrorist training camps, the U.S. Air Force threw a "strike" his way. Of course in this country, we would never allow such a thing. Here, because no Central American nation has enough respect for democracy to use their land, we have freedom fighter training camps.

And woe to the outlaw nation who bombs our purple mountains' majesty while we're busy making the world safe for democracy. A terrorist is a terrorist, it would seem, unless the United States gives him money and then a terrorist is a freedom fighter.

Government, however, is not the only source of language-propogated myth. One of my political science texts cites former President John F. Kennedy's famous quote about not dismissing military dictatorships until we can be sure it won't lead to a leftist government. The text then explains, ...distasteful as it might be, we might have to stick with friendly dictatorships rather than run the risk of promoting pro-Soviet takeovers.'

That is an interesting assumption especially if we examine a few of those "friendly" dictatorships. Kennedy's administration was in the middle of a period of Guatemalan history (between 1954 and 1981) during which a series of "friendly" dictators were busy killing more than 83,500 Guatemalans. At one point, Kennedy sent the Green Berets to smash opposition to one of those "friendly" dictatorships.

Kennedy also authorized U.S. military advisers in El Salvador (which has since evolved from a "friendly" dictatorship into a "friendly" democracy) to organize the infrastructure of the death squads. Perhaps the families of the 40,000 Salvadorans murdered by the death squads in the last four years can take heart that their relatives died at the hands of a "friendly" democracy instead of the previously "friendly" dictator-

To whom exactly are these dictatorships so "friendly?" I think we can rule out the possibility that they are "friendly" to their own citizens and surely they're not the sort of dictatorships the American people would like to call friends. With friends like that...

With that thought, perhaps we should return to our own borders where President Reagan's $65 million project "to promote democracy" is well underway. Part of the money of "Project Democracy," as it was dubbed by Reagan, will be used to increase surveillance of anti-nuclear protesters. Even Orwell didn't think of that one.

So, nuclear weapons and aerial assaults (which are really "strikes") save lives, and terrorists are "freedom fighters." ("War is Peace," Orwell might add.) In "Newspeak," dictatorships are "friendly," "freedom is slavery" and as a general rule, democracy involves spying on peace protesters. It seems that Big Brother is watching.

Paying for destruction

Re: The article, "Destroyed car leaves owner bitter, puzzled," in the Oct. 27 Col-

The story of what happened to Catherine Robare and her automobile is sad enough. The letter you printed from Floyd Jack of Eureka, Calif., is nothing short of pathetic. "Every man a Wildcat!" indeed. Sounds more like a bunch of toothless alley cats who've seen too much of Rambo. Imagine what "manhood" and "courage" it takes to go up against a defenseless young woman in a little old Volkswagen. When one ponders enrollment problems here, it might pay to consider the image projected by this kind of

The American writer H.L. Mencken some years ago referred to the activities of "Boobus Americanus." Perhaps we can add to this genre the very sub-species of "Roobus Kansanagus."

It would appear that the cost of her medical expenses, the time lost from work and the replacement of her automobile is a debt owed to Robare by the parties responsible for the events after the KU football game: the liquor merchant of Aggieville, the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and the student proponents of more and bigger professional "amateur" athletics.

I suggest your "rah-rah" sports editor. Tim Fitzgerald, as a fitting candidate to take the lead in collecting this money since he is a great proponent of thinking that money can buy winning teams — something your survey a few weeks ago suggested was exactly the opposite of the truth, at least in regard to the Big Eight; schools who can't win assess athletic fees to make up their losses. Perhaps he can use the money to get some positive publicity for the University. One way to start would be to make amends to Robare for what some sad specimens of the Unviersity community inflicted upon her.

The only consolation one can take of the events of a fortnight ago is that it wasn't as bad as that of a few years back which suggests some progress in the character of the student body.

> Harold L. Orbach associate professor of sociology

Project designed to sensitize architects

By JULIE ANDSAGER Collegian Reporter

Fifteen students in the College of Architecture became temporarily blind, deaf and confined to wheelchairs for a week.

Their conditions resulted from "Design Sensitivity Week," Oct. 27-31, a concept originated by Jim DuBois, assistant professor of interior architecture, for his Interior Architecture Design Studio 5. The students involved were fifth-year interior architecture majors.

Students in the course have been working on the renovation of a historical landmark building in Kansas City as a design project this semester. DuBois thought they needed a break, so he used Design Sensitivity Week to give the students a change of pace and educate them on the necessity of handicap accessibili-

"Over the course of the semester, I noticed that the students were not being as diligent as probably they could be in taking into consideration handicapped renovation," DuBois said.

"The students were placed in the position of being a handicapped person. The main idea behind (Design Sensitivity Week) was to sensitize them to the handicapped person's needs because these people are professional designers and should take extreme care to incorporate designs for handicapped people," he said.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, students took turns being handicapped. They were confined to a wheelchair or blinded by wearing sunglasses with cotton balls behind the lenses. Deafness was accomplished with earplugs and portable radio headsets with the volume turned up loudly.

turned up loudly.

During the three hours they would normally be in studio, the students went in pairs — blind and deaf together or wheelchair-confined and blind or deaf — around campus to do special assignments.

DuBois assigned the "handicapped" pairs to visit a college on campus, gain access to the building where the college is housed and obtain a course curriculum for a junior ctudent in the college. The pairs then student in the college. The pairs then had to follow the course program and gain access to its classrooms and restroom facilities.

"We didn't do all the colleges," DuBois said. "The main idea was to get them around on campus to find out how hard it is to get around in a wheelchair and how hard it is for a blind person."

While they were handicapped, the students found several structural problems in buildings, DuBois said. For example, he said the doors in Durland Hall are heavy and hard for a person in a wheelchair to open.

Another problem was in some of the handicapped facilities themselves, said Joe Farmer, fifthyear student in interior architecture.

"We found so many ramps on campus that were just impossible to maneuver because of the slope. For someone alone, they were dangerous because you could almost tip over," Farmer said.

On Thursday, the students came back to studio to watch two videos. This time, though, half of them were deaf and half were blind. After the videos were over, they paired up to describe the videos to each other. Because one student couldn't hear, there were some communication problems, DuBois said. The blind students wrote most of their communication.

All of the class was blind on Friday. They tried to do some form of modeling or sketching. Sketching while blind was frustrating, Farmer

"You lift your pencil up and you don't know where to put it back down again," he said.

When the week ended, DuBois asked the students if their experiences would make a difference in their future designs.

"The answer was a unanimous 'yes," DuBois said. "They could sympathize with the handicapped before but couldn't emphathize with them because they had never been in that situation."

'We found so many ramps on campus that were just impossible to maneuver because of the slope. For someone alone, they were dangerous because you could almost tip over.'

—Joe Farmer

Farmer said he would definitely be more conscious of handicapped facilities in his work. While confined to the wheelchair, he found that tight spaces in elevators and bathrooms impaired his maneuverability.

"I see the importance now of defining circulation paths (for the blind), maybe with different textures and materials, so when they stray from their path they know they're no longer on track. It's like sidewalks and grass." Farmer said.

and grass," Farmer said.

DuBois said there are no laws requiring handicapped accessibility in commercial buildings. However, use of government funds in building any facility mandates handicapped accessibility. When facilities for handicapped people aren't required, installing them is usually left up to the developer paying for the building, he said.

"It would be the architect's responsibility to educate the client," DuBois said. "Of course, in most projects the client has the final say."

Blindness was the handicap his students feared the most, DuBois said. Farmer said being confined to a wheelchair was the most difficult physically because of the strength required and lack of accessibility in some areas, but blindness was worse for him.

"You're still able to get around being blind, but it's so difficult to orient yourself. Actually, when we did it we had somebody lead us around," Farmer said. "But when you think about being blind and trying to find your way around it's a lot scarier."

His next studio class will be participating in a Design Sensitivity Week, too, DuBois said.

"It's a personal feeling of mine that part of the spark for doing this was that handicapped persons shouldn't be treated as second-rate citizens. They have every right to enter a building through the front door. If we have to bring them through the backdoor, we're not doing them any justice," he said.

"I think it was a very good exercise," Farmer said, "but I have to wonder how it would be to be blind or deaf from birth and experience your environment. Even though we were blind and deaf, we had prior knowledge.

"It's easy to describe things by saying 'that looks like a statue' or 'that sounds like a car.' You have to wonder how you could describe how a car would sound to someone who had never heard one," he added.

Joint degree sponsor gives talk at benefit

By LISA CARLIN Collegian Reporter

One of the instigators of a program which allows students to receive a joint degree from Manhattan Christian College and K-State will speak Friday at MCC's 15th approach benefit dinner.

MCC's 15th annual benefit dinner.
W.F. Lown, president of MCC from 1955 to 1981, worked with K-State personnel to finalize plans for the degree program in 1968.
Lown is currently assistant to the president of Ozark Christian College, Joplin, Mo.

MCC's benefit dinner will be at 8 p.m. Friday at the University Christian Church, 2800 Claflin

The joint-degree program offers a wide variety of majors, said Dennis Glenn, MCC's coordinator of the program.

Glenn said the most common joint degrees are a bachelor's degree in Christian education from MCC combined with either a bachelor's of elementary or secondary education from K-State, and an MCC degree combined with a degree from the College of Human Ecology at the University.

The joint degrees offered through the University's College of Education require students to complete 150 hours of credit, said Michael Perl, director of student and professional services for the College of Education.

Of the 150 hours, a minimum of 60 hours must be from a North Central Association accredited school with at least 30 of those hours coming from K-State, he said. Many students can complete the program in five years, he

Jean Sego, assistant to the dean in the College of Human Ecology, said human development and family studies is the most common major combined with an MCC degree; although some students seeking a joint degree are enrolled in interior design or dietetics.

Glenn said about 40 MCC students are enrolled in both schools this semester, and about 35 MCC students are full-time students at K-State this semester. He said students have recently or currently enrolled in about 30 joint-degree programs.

"We continually add different programs. Especially those programs that are in demand or can be easily marketed," Glenn said.

Glenn said one of the advantages of the programs is its reciprocity. It offers a Christian college student a range of courses that a Christian college cannot provide, while at the same time, a K-State student can gain courses not offered at the University, such as Bible classes, he said.

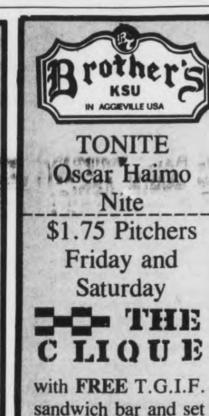

MCC's enrollment for the fall semester is 174 students, Glenn said. He said 74 percent of MCC's students are from Kansas, but the college also has students from neighboring states and foreign countries.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

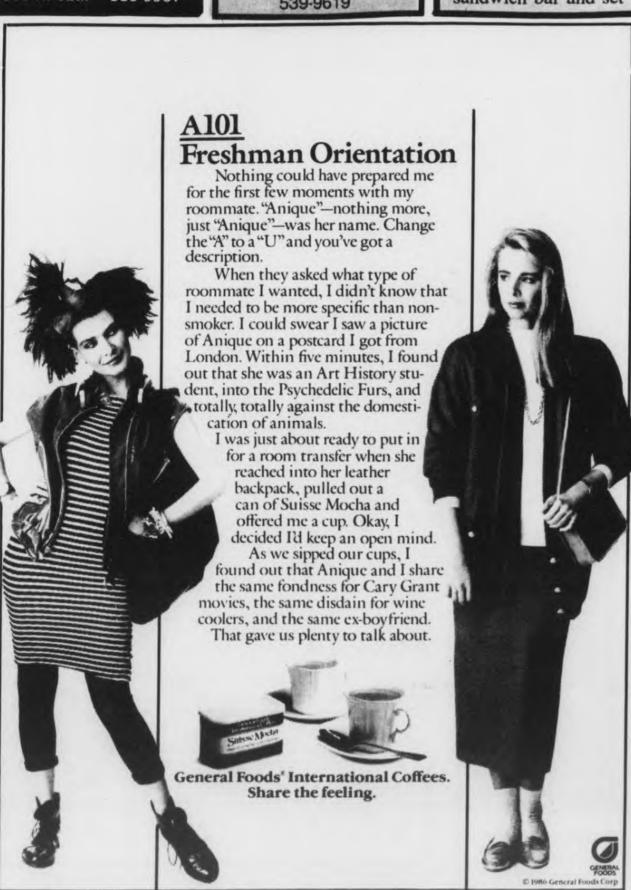

Draws
616 N. 12th 539-9967

PERSONAL RESIDENCE PROPERTY COMPANY CONTRACTOR CONTRACT

K-State women's soccer player Melissa McCranie heads the ball, in a a KU player look on. The team is tentatively scheduled to play at the match against University of Kansas, as teammate Rita Gregory and L.P. Washburn Recreation Area this weekend.

Women's soccer team attracts much interest after 'very erratic' past

By GREG BALES Collegian Reporter

Soccer attracts worldwide attention, and the sport's popularity is apparently spilling over to the University level.

"Soccer is the biggest game in the world. Bigger than the Super Bowl, World Series...all of them," said Doug Schmidt, coach of K-State's women's soccer team.

So, could more than 1 billion people be wrong about their favorite sport? Not according to Schmidt they aren't.

Interest in K-State's women's soccer sqaud has definitely taken an upswing from previous years. More than 50 women showed up at the preliminary meeting early in the semester, and a "good 30" practice three times a week.

K-State has had a women's soccer club since 1976, but, according to Schmidt, each year's turnout has been "very erratic." He said it was sometimes difficult just to fill the field with the minimum number of "Last year started out OK, but due to lack of organization and needed support, the women just started dropping out," Schmidt said. "I can't blame them. We couldn't promise them when or where we would prac-

Schmidt accredits the team's turn for the better to Joyce Conrow, president of the soccer club, and to the recognition from Student Governing Association which allocated nearly $600 to the program.

"This is the first year SGA has recognized us," he said. "It's great. We have some funds now to buy uniforms, pay referees and purchase equipment."

He said another plus for the women's club is the amount of youth and experienced players that have turned out this year.

"We've got a lot of women from the St.

Louis and Kansas City areas, where soccer is a lot bigger than it is around here," he said. "It's great to get these girls with previous experience, though it is not a necessity for those interested in playing.

"Soccer is the best sport one can play. There are fewer injuries and it is truly a team game - one where everyone on the field works together," Schmidt said are other reasons why soccer is gaining popularity.

Julie Fintel, freshman in general, agreed that soccer is "on its way back." As a child, Fintel said she used soccer as a tool for meeting new friends.

"I started playing about nine years ago," she said. "I used to have a challenge with the guys to be better."

Myna Martin, senior in elementary education, said this is the first chance she has ever had to play soccer.

"I've always wanted to play, but it was never offered in my school or community," she said. "I've always noticed the worldwide appeal of soccer on television. And when I visited Mexico, there were soccer fields everywhere down there...several in one area, not just one or two, here and Soccer is a difficult game, Martin said. She said soccer players need endurance, stamina and skill, and "you've got to know what the hell you're doing, or you'll run yourself to death.'

Schmidt said his motto of "winning isn't everything, playing is everything," keeps the team's enthusiasm and optimism of the team at a constant high level. And, added, "that's what we're here for."

K-State, 4-3, is tentatively scheduled to host Avila College Saturday and Wichita State University Sunday. Each game is slated to get underway at 11 a.m.

KU's Brown provides winning program, financial security

KANSAS CITY. Mo. - What is Larry Brown's value to the University of Kansas' basketball program? That's easy. He has accounted for 83 victories, three appearances in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament, one Big Eight regular-season championship and one Final Four berth in three years. Brown's financial worth to KU?

Let's suggest $1 million a year. That's easily what Brown is worth on paper to KU in NCAA appearances, ticket revenue and donations alone. And that's a modest year since Brown arrived in 1983.

Since Brown became head coach in the spring of 1983, Kansas' gross income from home basketball ticket sales has increased from $495,106 in 1982-83 to $952,252 last season. Season tickets increased from 6,979 to 13,995.

The Williams Educational Fund, KU's main athletic fund-raiser, has grown from $1,492,429 in annual donations to $2,419,000 this last fiscal

The Big Eight earned more than $2.1 million from the NCAA Tournament, including the $892,966 Kansas

By The Associated Press evaluation of what KU's increased brought home for its Final Four aptraction of what KU's increased brought home for its Final Four aptraction of what is fairly attraction of what KU's increased brought home for its Final Four aptraction of what is fairly attraction of what is fairly attraction. realized more than $250,000.

So add $450,000 in increased ticket sales, $250,000 from the NCAA and, just arbitrarily, $300,000 of the nearly $1 million in the increased donations last year.

Presto - Brown was a "Million

Dollar Man" in 1985-86. "Last year was the first year, we ever had sold out Allen Field House on a season-ticket basis," said Richard Konzem, executive director of the Williams Educational Fund. "I think you can tie a lot of that directly to the team and the coach. I think KU's increased money from fundraising, Konzem said, also could be attributed to leadership of Athletic Director Monte Johnson, who went to KU in 1982. Konzem said the Williams Fund also had gone from a manual to a computerized system in securing and dealing with donors.

"But obviously when you go to the Final Four, you have a lot of people talking about your program,

Konzem said. Brown's $1 million a year tag is even more impressive when you consider it doesn't include television

Brown's worth to Kansas also is for the Special Olympics, exhibited in the national publicity the Jayhawks have received since his ar-

There have been two Kansas pictures on the cover of Sports Illustrated magazine and numerous other articles in the national publication on Kansas basketball in the last three years.

Star forward Danny Manning, a Brown recruit, has been on the cover of numerous preseason basketball

Brown can even make money for other people. In January, he is being "When we go out and hit national advertisers in New York," said Todd Leiweke, a principal of Leiweke and Co., a firm that helps market KU athletics, "they have a vague idea what KU football is about and the same way for the KU Relays, but they have tremendous awareness of Larry Brown."

Brown takes the 1986 edition of the Kansas Jayhawks to Salina for an intrasquad scrimmage in the Bicentennial Center Nov. 11. KU's women's basketball team is slated to scrimmage before the men's outing.

Buffs drive for championship after dropping first 4 outings

By TOM MORRIS

Assistant Sports Editor There's no doubt about it, the Colorado Buffaloes are for real this season

After an 0-4 start, the Buffs have won four straight and are 4-0 in Big Eight Conference play for the first time since 1961.

Colorado scored 28 unanswered points in the second half Saturday to record a 31-14 win over Oklahoma State, and two weeks ago Coach Bill McCartney's sqaud notched a rare win over one of the "Big Two" with a 20-10 defeat of Nebraska

Who would have dreamed four weeks ago the Buffaloes would be gearing for a showdown with Oklahoma Nov. 15 to decide which school goes to the Orange Bowl?

McCartney, though, isn't ready to discuss Colorado's post-season bowl

"Right now, I want to go to the Folsom Bowl and play Kansas," he Colorado (4-4, 4-0) hosts Kansas

(3-5, 0-4) Saturday at Folsom Field in Boulder. The Big Eight/Raycom Network feature game of the week is Nebraska (7-1, 3-1) at Iowa State (5-3, 2-2). Kickoff from Cyclone

CST It's Nebraska's fourth television appearance this season and the Cyclones' second.

Stadium in Ames, Iowa is 11:48 a.m.,

Other conference matchups include Missouri (2-6, 1-3) at Oklahoma (7-1, 4-0) and Oklahoma State (3-5, 1-3) at K-State (2-6, 1-3).

Other statistics and quotes from around the conference include the following.

Kansas wide receiver Tom Quick was a roommate with Jayhawks' defensive tackle Phil Forte before getting married and starting a fami-

"I went from living with Forte to having a baby daughter," Quick said. "The only difference is I can understand my daughter when she

"Phil is always asking me to let him babysit, but I'm afraid to because I know I'll come home and she'll be playing Rambo," he added.

Iowa State quarterback Alex Espinosa has moved to seventh on the Big Eight career passing chart with 4,247 and needs 250 more yards to move ahead of ex-Nebraska signal caller David Humm (4,976).

Only five quarterbacks in conference history have thrown for more than 5,000 yards: Frank Seurer and David Jaynes, Kansas; Phil Bradley and Marlon Adler, Missouri and Lynn Dickey, K-State.

Colorado nose tackle Kyle Rappold has a 22-inch long pet crocodile known as "Big Eight.

"I had to have something to play with because nobody will date me, Rappold said. "I feed it raw chicken, little goldfish, sorority girls.'

Brian Bosworth, OU's All-American linebacker, is tentatively scheduled for appearance on "Late Night with David Letterman" the first week of December.

From the "Is this a great country or what?" department, Colorado safety Derrick Fulmer after the Buffs' win over Nebraska: "Girls I've never seen before were kissing

Typical of wishbone offenses, Oklahoma and Colorado rank last in the conference in passing offense, but the two schools are first and second, respectively, in yards receiving per passing attempt.

Missouri offensive tackle John Clay and Nebraska middle guard Danny Noonan are two of 13 finalists for the 1986 Lombardi Award presented annually to the college "lineman of the year." They were chosen by a 208-member selection committee, and the award will be presented to one of four finalists at a banquet Dec. 4. in Houston.

K-State coach Stan Parrish has an interesting appraisal of this week's opponent, Oklahoma State.

'(Their) state of mind will be interesting. They had high aspirations of a bowl game at the start of the season and even after playing Oklahoma and Nebraska back-to-back," Parrish said. One of 11 recipients of a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame $3,000 scholarship is Oklahoma linebacker Evan Gatewood, a first-year law student.

Oklahoma fullback Earl Johnson became the Big Eight's first running back to rush for 200 yards in a game this season with a 203-yard effort in OU's 64-3 rout of Kansas.

"This means an awful lot," Johnson said. "After two knee surgeries, I didn't know if I'd ever have another day like this. And there was no better way to do it than on TV...so my mother could see me." Thurman Thomas, Oklahoma State's All-American running back, is eighth on the conference career rushing list with 3,152 yards.

From the Big Eight archives: Outcome of the 1907 Iowa State-Nebraska game is disputed. Iowa State claims a 13-10 victory; Nebraska claims a 10-9 win.

Terry Miller set a Big Eight record for OSU in 1976 by scoring five touchdowns against K-State.

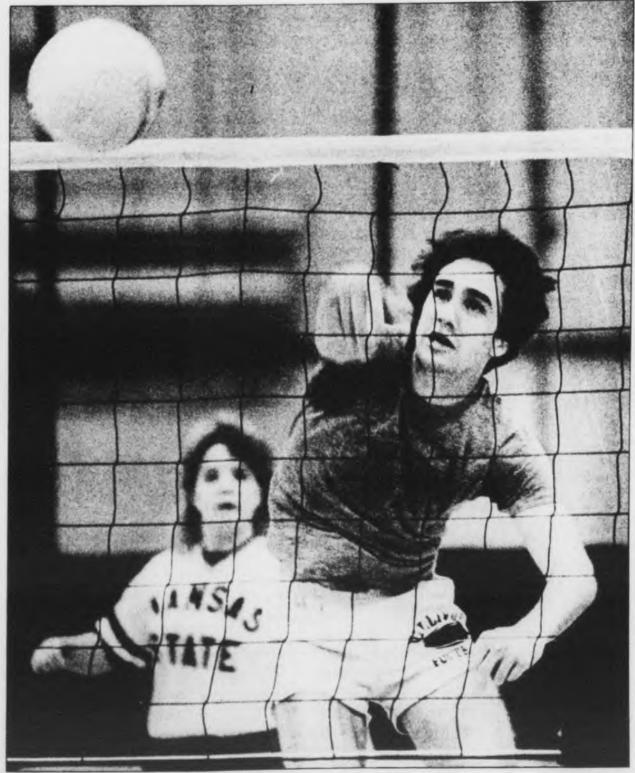

Nebraska and Iowa State will be celebrating the centennial anniversary of the series' inauguration which began in 1886. The 'Huskers won the first game 12-4 and has gone on to post a 65-13-2 margin.

Missouri hasn't won a game in Norman, Okla., since 1966.

Nebraska has had three Lombard winners in past years: Rich Glover, 1972; Dave Rimington, 1982; Dean Steinkuhler, 1983.

- The Big Eight rushing champion has gained 1,000 yards in each season since 1967, when Oklahoma State's Steve Owens led the conference with just 808 yards.

CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF

Super spike

Staff/Steve Wolgast

Creigh Lincoln, freshman in veterinary medicine, spikes for his team, the Dura Maters, Wednesday during intramural competition at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. The Dura Maters won the match.

Historian aims to make students better readers of history

By CAROL LENKNER Collegian Reporter

When this semester is over, students in the Introduction to History course will know genealogy means more than just a tree with names plotted on its branches.

The students in the course are researching their family histories as a class project, and the family tree is just a part of the narrative and descriptive history they will write, said Marion Gray Jr., associate professor of history.

The purpose of the course is to get the students in touch with the way historians work so they can be better readers of history, Gray said. The best way to familiarize them is through historical research. There are two broad classes of family history sources, Gray said. First, there are the private sources, which are those found within the family itself. These can be oral or written and may be material items such as artifacts and clothing.

Oral history includes interviewing people about their own experiences, he said. This aspect has a positive benefit, because people can find out interesting facts which put them in touch with family members.

The second classification of sources is public institutions where documents and records are stored.

"I recommend for my students to use the Riley County Genealogical Society," Gray said. "It is a good source of information and is within walking distance of campus.'

The Riley County Genealogical Society offers free beginning classes in genealogy and often has genealogists on hand to help with any problems with the research.

"To find your ancestors, you should first find them in a census," said Phyllis Eyestone, membership chairwoman of the Riley County Genealogical Society

"We have both territorial and agricultural censuses here," Eyestone said. "The agricultural census can tell you things like how many tilled acres, fenced acres and fruit trees your great-grandfather had on his farm.'

"When working on their family histories, I have the students in my class focus on change over time, Gray said. "They could look at changes in agriculture and farming if they prefer. It all depends on what the student sees as unique and characteristic of his family.

The student must cover three generations, but may use his or her own generation as one of the three, Gray said. Many are the first in their family to earn a college degree, so they focus on the educational changes in their family.

Jane Hart, sophomore in business administration, took Gray's class in the fall of 1985 and found the educational background of her family to be very interesting.

great-great-greatgrandfather was a professor of Greek and Latin at Trinity and Yale University," Hart said. "He left this Mississippi. Our family has his diary which describes how the slaves at Natchez were being treated at the time. He eventually moved to Kansas and was instrumental in starting a school here.

"Throughout history, my family has always been very educated," Hart said. "Although several did not have a formal education past the high school level, they were always reading. The farmhouses they lived in always had a library, no matter how small.

"I had an interest in genealogy even before doing the project," she said. "On my dad's side of the family, there has been a historian every generation. My grandfather and father were both historians, and I'm the next generation historian in our Hart said the assignment allowed her to discover insights into her family history.

"Working on this project gave me a chance to highlight my genealogy position to move to Natchez, with some of the facts that made the people come alive," Hart said.

"My family keeps very complete records. Among these are my greatgrandmother's passport from Sweden and several family pictures.

"I look at portraits of my greatgrandparents, and it amazes me how much they look like my dad and aunt," she said.

"My 11-year-old son enjoys looking at family pictures and listening to stories about his ancestors. He can see some of the family traits that have followed through the genera-

Hart stressed the importance of talking to older family members to find out some of the family history.

"I got quite a bit of information from my parents and grandparents," she said. "A lot can be missed if you don't talk to the older people in your family.

"People too often compartmentalize older people; it's as if they're afraid of talking to them.

"I have found most old people love to talk," she said. "Long-term memory is the last thing to go. Older people can be very lucid and detailed when describing events of the past."

Both Hart and Gray said it adds much to the research if the student is able to visit the area from which his ancestors came.

"People in hometowns can tell great stories about things they remember about your relatives,' Hart said. "It makes your ancestors come to life seeing what they have

"If you've never known the ancestors you're researching, it gives you a sense of knowing them. If you already know them, you may be able to see them in a different light.

"It can give one a rounded sense of belonging and continuity finding things that have happened in each generation. Seeing similarities can cause a sense of connectedness," she said.

"The archives part goes on forever," she said. "It's a lifetime process and I'll always be adding more information to it."

Award allows students to do cancer research

NOMINATIONS for

COLLEGE of EDUCATION

OUTSTANDING

UNDERGRADUATE

TEACHING AWARD

are due by November 21.

Nomination forms available in

Bluemont 006.

By MAUREEN MURPHY Collegian Reporter

The Division of Biology offers students an award that enables them to participate in cancer research at the undergraduate level.

"It's an award for being interested and motivated. It opens a lot of doors for students," said Terry Johnson, director for the Division of Biology and The Center for Basic Cancer Research.

"Often undergraduate students don't get the chance to participate in research. This is an unusual and exciting opportunity to get students into the research lab," Johnson said.

Johnson said the Student Cancer Research Award isn't given to students for what they have accomplished, but for research they will do in the future.

Any research students do is significant, said Pat Adams, administrative assistant to Johnson. They may not find a cure for cancer, but more than 200 forms of cancer exist, and any research helps the overall effort, she said. Any student in a health-related major is eligible for a research award. It is not restricted to biology majors, Johnson said. He said students in biochemistry, foods and nutrition, pre-nursing, psychology and sociology have applied for the $500 award.

"If someone is interested in competing, we're interested in helping them," he said. "This gives them an opportunity to get a taste of their career."

Johnson said he expects 20 to 30 students to apply for the award this year. He was unsure how many awards would be given, but approx-

He said most applicants have been juniors and seniors, although a few sophomores have applied.

Students begin applying for the Student Cancer Research Awards by contacting a faculty member in the Division of Biology, Johnson said. The division has about 25 faculty sponsors in varying areas of

Once a student finds a faculty sponsor, the student and sponsor work together to design and describe a proposed research project and state the relevance of the project to the study of cancer biology.

Completed applications are due at the Division of Biology by Dec. 5.

A committee selects award winners by reviewing students' applications, grade point averages, course work and career goals and assessing the feasibility of research project plans, he said.

Award winners will be working with a faculty sponsor in a research lab. About 80 people are currently working in cancer research at the center, Johnson said.

Recipients of the awards are announced at the beginning of the spring semester. After being selected, recipients have the choice of starting research immediately, during the summer or the following fall semester. Recipients' checks are awarded in a May banquet.

Research projects are designed to last for one semester, but many times students become very involved in their work and stay on in the lab longer than the required semester,

Johnson said students submit project summaries once their research is completed. Many students have their results published in peer review

Virtually all award recipients continue their education to work toward an advanced degree, he said.

In 1981, the first year the awards were offered, Johnson said three students received the $400 Student Cancer Research Awards. An increase in private donations has since led to expansion of awards and research, he said.

IMPORT BEER NIGHT

50¢ off All Imports

> All Day THURSDAYS

HOME OF THE AROUND the WORLD BEER CLUB

Open at noon Sundays!

Ramada Inn THURSDAY Margarita Madness 99¢

FREE Taco & Nacino Bar 4 7 p.m.

17th & Anderson Across from KSU

SHIPPING OVERSEAS?

Malaysia • Nigeria • Thailand Kenva • Iraq • Iran • Europe South America • Middle East To Over 100 countries Worldwide

SHOPPING FOR OVERSEAS?

Televisions, VCR's, Cameras, Stereos, Trunks and Luggage Major Appliances and Small Housewares 220 Volt 50 Cycle

Our Biggest Sale Ever! (call for details)

ABACO INTERNATIONAL SHIPPERS, INC. 1-800-621-4504

2020 N. Racine, Chicago, IL 60614

MANHATTAN WHY PAY

IF YOU THINK YOU'RE GETTING A GOOD DEAL ON YOUR

MUFFLER AND BRAKES

CALL MIDAS® AND SEE IF ITS REALLY TRUE

330 N. SETH CHILDS WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m. -5:30 p.m. Sat. 8 a.m.-12 p.m.

REGULAR MUFFLER INSTALLED

MOST CARS & LIGHT TRUCKS

LIFETIME BRAKES PER AXLE

HOLIDAY MAGIC MATCH UP A GREAT NEW HOLIDAY OUTFIT AND GET $10 OFF AND MORE ..

116 SOUTH FOURTH STREET DOWNTOWN MANHATTAN

MAURICES Fashion Doesn't Cost A Fortune For Men & Women At

U-LearN gives gay, lesbian group office

By The Collegian Staff

After a search for a permanent campus location, the Gay and Lesbian Resource Center was allocated office space in the basement of Holton Hall last May.

U-LearN gave GLRC office space adjacent to U-LearN's resource room, said Patrick Orth, senior in interior architecture and co-president of GLRC.

U-Learn offered the space to GLRC because U-LearN's available resources include information on human sexuality and gay and lesbian relationships, Orth said.

"We aren't part of U-LearN. We are our own organization," Orth

The allocation of office space has provided GLRC with a location where individuals can seek information about the organization and counseling.

GLRC was organized at K-State about three years ago. Orth said GLRC asked for an allocation of space through Student Senate, but the request was denied.

GLRC sponsors dances, talent "We don't do one-on-one counsel-shows and potluck dinners. They also have women's and men's support groups, Orth said. Meetings are held once a week, and "rap sessions" are held every two weeks or so, he said. GLRC also sponsors speakers every two to three weeks. Most of the speeches deal with homosexual issues, but not all of them, Orth said. GLRC doesn't offer individual counseling, he said, but counseling is available through the Counseling Center, Lafene and the Fone Crisis

ing. It's usually done by groups. This way the person sitting next to them on both sides can help," Orth said. GLRC volunteers give speeches to psychology, child development and human sexuality classes that range in size from nine to 200 students, he

The speeches are usually given by a panel of four - two men and two women. The volunteers not only provide the classes with statistical information, but also talk about their personal experiences as homosexuals.

Discussion features evils of pornography

By The Collegian Staff

Not speaking up against por-nography is "denying our own humanity," said Sandra Coyner, director of women's studies, in a presentation Wednesday.

"I am sick and tired of people saying pornography is harmless," said Coyner, one of two speakers addressing an audience of about 40 people in the Union.

Pornography is an $8 billion industry which almost invariably involves women.

Pornography has changed drastically since the last report in the late '60s, said Doug Schmidt, graduate student in entomology and second speaker at the event.

The pornography of the '60s is "so tame," it wouldn't sell today, Schmidt said.

The Meese commission report on pornography defined the two kinds of pornography - hard-core and soft-core. Hard-core consists live shows that feature actual violent and degrading sex acts against women and children. Softcore is magazines such as Playboy, Penthouse and X-rated movies

"If you would have grown up in one of those bookstores (one that sells hard-core pornography), you would have never known sex as a loving and tender act," Schmidt

Sexually violent pornography increases aggression and causes changes in attitudes, Coyner said.

Meese's Commission on Pornography divided it into four categories - sexually violent material, non-violent material depicting degradation, nonviolent and non-degrading materials and nudity, Coyner said.

The commission studied materials and spoke with police, sex offenders and social scien-

Housing department begins hall staff selections

By The Collegian Staff

The interviewing and selection processes for the hiring of University residence hall staff for next year began last week and will be completed no later than Dec. 5.

"We're looking for upperclassmen who will represent the halls and K-State in a positive manner," said Roseanne Proite, assistant director of housing. "We want people who will act as good role models for underclassmen."

Proite said hiring processes begin in the residence halls and each hall has its own selection processes. Students who make cuts in the hall interviews then interview with a selection committee in the department of housing.

There are 50 to 60 positions open, and there will probably be 90 to 100 students apply for positions, she

"We always have more qualified candidates than positions available and that's nice to know because they (residence hall staff) are a very important link for us (housing department) in communication.'

Student applicants must fulfill, maintain and participate in several requirements in order to qualify and be considered for a resident staff

Applicants must have and maintain a 2.25 cumulative grade point average and have a junior, senior or graduate standing.

Group living experience, particularly K-State residence halls, is also a requirement.

Proite said students selected must complete with a grade of C or better a course designed specifically for the resident hall staff position

Students selected for resident hall staff positions have several responsibilities including administrative, community building, role model and programming.

Carlin said Hayden won because he

"Mike Hayden had the best grassroots effort - his telephone banks, his mail and his dedicated people in every county. Tom got more breaks than Mike did. Hayden made two major mistakes that were more visible. But his actual campaign operation was better. Hayden had the horses statewide, county by close to bring out the Republican

"He had a massive effort at the county, to get the job done.

"clearly ran the best campaign."

Carlin plans to ensure smooth leadership transfer, he says

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Retiring Democratic Gov. John Carlin said Wednesday he will do everything possible to ensure a smooth transfer of power to governor-elect Mike Hayden because "there are so many important decisions which must be made.' Carlin said the transition period is important because of the need to address the deterioration of the state's economy and to quickly prepare the new budget to be presented to the 1987 Legislature. "I intend to be very cooperative about the transition - non-partisan and non-political," Carlin told reporters at a news conference. "The financial crisis is as bad as it's been described all summer. (Hayden's) got some major budget decisions to make. I intend to be very helpful to the extent that help is wanted.'

Discussion of the budget, pending appointees to the Kansas Board of Regents and the logistics regarding vacating of Cedar Crest, the governor's mansion, all must be ironed out and Carlin said he hopes to meet later this week with Havden to discuss them.

The state financial condition is of particular concern and Carlin said he will meet with reporters again Friday to discuss a report due late

DPMA

Data Processing

Management Assn. meets

Tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3

Featured Speaker:

Sang Kim

Topic: MIS

All CS, IS and business

majors welcome

Thursday from a group of financial leaves office Jan. 12. experts who predict income the state can expect from its taxes

The so-called consensus revenue estimating panel is expected to drastically reduce is projections of tax-generated income for the remainding eight months of the current fiscal year. Depending on the depth of the shortfall in income, Carlin may be forced to take emergency measures to avert a crisis.

"I'll be talking to Mike about that," Carlin said. "We've got to be coordinated on this thing. We don't want to be going in different directions. We can't be shooting in the dark on this."

Carlin had some advice for Hayden, who will become the state's 41st governor when the incumbent

McCain Auditorium

Saturday, November 15, 1986 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Tickets and Information

(913) 532-6428

Nastercard/Visa accepted

"Mike Hayden will have to take a different approach to this office than he did as speaker. It's the responsibility of the governor to-lead - to be out front instead of behind, dragging your feet. Mike has to learn how to delegate responsibility. I think he tended, as speaker, to be sort of a one-man show. His staff was not plugged into the decision-making process.'

The governor refused to take any pokes at the Republican, saying it was time to be optimistic about the future and give Hayden a chance to be a statesman.

"He's got a lot of major decisions ahead and I think it's time to give him a chance to do what's right.'

The Spread

An Hors D oeuvres

Buffet

Just $1 a plate

COTTON

O DOWNTOWN

Pitchers

Priced Right

*Wine Coolers

$1 every day

Laramie Plaza

776-6338

Monday

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

Saturday

Friday

$1.50

$1.75

$2.00

$1.00

$2.25

$2.25

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt In analyzing the race for governor, that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! The Original -- FREE SAMPLES--T.N.T I Can't Believe It's Thursdays 4 7 p.m. YOGURT 50¢ Tacos Frozen Yogurt Stores 999 Margaritas OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

ANY and ALL MIXED DRINKS (all brands, all drinks)

80¢ Draws S1.00 Wine ALL DAY & ALL NIGHT!

AGGIE STATION RESTAURANT & BAR 1115 MORO • 776-0030 vote and it was very effective."

Carlin said he felt Docking made poor use of the issues, such as multibank holding companies and the constitutional amendments on gambling and liquor-by-the-drink. He said Docking should have done more to link himself with the amendments and publicize Hayden's opposition to them.

"Those issues were not used very effectively. I thought liquor, parimutuel, the lottery and multibank could have been used more, for example, in Wichita where they could have used his opposition to each of those to put Hayden at odds with that community. That opposition was not communicated very well."

He also noted Docking was slow to respond to Hayden television spots which purported to add up the cost of Docking's campaign promises.

"They did some damage with them and there was no good way to come back. The ads were not accurate or fair. But they probably were effec-

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery HUNAM EXPRESS

537-0886 1116 Moro (eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

12-5

Sun.

Restaurant

Y'R DUDS

SUDS Laundromat

NOW OPEN 25¢ Dry 75¢ Wash

Plenty of FREE Parking

Student Services Center 1453 Anderson

Blue River Pub TONIGHT "Sheer Delight"

$3 Cover Male Strippers!!! 9-12 p.m. FRIDAY LIVE D.J.!

NO KSUID required New to Tuttle Creek Dam 537 9877

(1) ld Textbook Sale

UP TO 80% OFF!

BOOKS AS LOW AS 49¢

- Hundreds of new & used textbooks
- Various fields of study
- Some previously used at K-State

9-9 Mon.-Sat.

 Some from other universities Old editions Wholesaler overstock Don't pass up this great opportunity to add to your personal library at a fraction of the regular cost:

We would like to thank the following for making the Second Annual Ag Fall Follies a success:

Wes Fowler

Dr. John Riley Mike Jones Referees and Officials Clovia Committee Members and all time and service.

Ag Council Jean Isaacson Paige Hunt Kenby Clawson Marilyn Clawson Bart Johnson others who contributed their

ROCKY MOUNTAIN BONKERS

presents

Johnny Reno & the Sax Maniacs

Fri., Nov. 7-Reserved seats available

Party begins at 10 p.m.

If you missed them at the Welcome Back Concert, catch them at Bonkers!

1216 Laramie Aggieville

Open from 3 p.m. to 3 a.m.

537-9591

Democrats

Continued from Page 1

ed in a White House speech to his staff, "Our agenda remains unchanged, and we look forward to its attainment.'

Most of the attention was focused on the Senate races, where GOP Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said, "We took a bath."

Republican leaders blamed their loss on negative advertising, a low voter turnout and defeats in extremely close races that GOP candidates had won six years ago. Final results showed that seven first-term Republican senators fell on Tuesday.

Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said, "We look forward to cooperating with the president." But he also made it clear Democrats intend to pursue their own legislative agenda, and said he means to enact farm and trade measures even if the president resists.

"I would hope that the president would read the message that was sent by the American people," Byrd said. "And that message is: Look, your economic policies have not worked in so many instances.

The new Democrats in the Senate included Rep. Wyche Fowler in Georgia, Rep. Richard Shelby in Alabama, Rep. Tom Daschle in South Dakota, former Rep. Brock Adams in Washington, Gov. Bob Graham in Florida, state Tax Commissioner Kent Conrad in North Dakota, and former Gov. Terry Sanford in North Carolina, all of whom ousted GOP freshmen seeking new terms

Rep. Barbara Mikulski in Maryland and Rep. Harry Reid in Nevada won seats being vacated by Republicans. Rep. John Breaux held an open Democratic seat in Louisiana, and Rep. Tim Wirth kept Gary Hart's seat in the Democratic column in Colorado.

U-LearN maintains list of odd jobs

By JUDI WALTER Collegian Reporter

Students faced with a budget crunch often search the "want ads" for odd job opportunities but overlook services available through a campus resource - U-LearN.

U-LearN acts as a liaison between those seeking odd jobs and those who have things that need done, said Debbie Paap, senior in fine arts and associate coordinator of the service.

U-LearN keeps a listing of students and Manhattan residents seeking jobs. No restrictions or requirements must be met by those wishing to be included on the lists, Paap said.

Lists include those seeking four types of jobs - typists, babysitters, tutors and odd jobs.

If a person calls U-LearN looking for someone to do a specific job, the caller will be given names from the appropriate list, she said.

U-LearN volunteers check off names that have been given out to allow more people a chance to be contacted, said John Thornton, junior in information systems and U-LearN volunteer.

Information about the job seeker's previous experience is gathered to give out along with the interested student's name.

People interested in being included on the babysitters' list are asked for years of experience and references, Paap said.

Typists are asked how many words per minute they can type and how much they would charge per page, she said. Most of the tutors listed are in math and the sciences, Paap said, although some are available in other

People on the odd jobs list can specify any work preference, Thornton said, although most of them list housecleaning

The job listing program has been

KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vall or Key-

stone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift

tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more

from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in 8th Annual Christmas Arts football stadium 1/2 mile on Festival, Saturday before, during and after OSU game. Just west of

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

Treat Your Parents To

The Best Mexican Food

in Town at

Taco Hut!!

Parents Welcome!

mation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

02

ATTENTION

Kimball.

available through U-LearN for more than four years, Paap said.

Students interested in the program can contact U-LearN to get their names listed, she said. U-LearN cannot promise anyone a job, but staff members will keep names on file in case someone calls in looking for assistance.

Because U-LearN is only providing a "middle man" service, it cannot guarantee hours, wages or how many jobs a person will receive, Paap said.

Laura Kelly, sophomore in secondary education, has been listed as a tutor since the beginning of the fall semester.

"If I were in a position where I needed a tutor, I would be glad that there is a place where I could turn to," Kelly said.

"If someone needed extra money, U-LearN would be a great opportuni-

AVAILABLE NOW-Spacious two bedroom right

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, spring semester-

ONE BEDROOM fully furnished apartments. Available January 1. Close to campus, laundry facilities available. Call 776-9124. (53-75)

WILDCAT CREEK

APARTMENTS

Unf. 1 & 2 BR apts.

5-12 month leases

to fit your lifestyle

•24 Hour Emergency Maintenance

Quiet Community with Off-Street

Two Laundry Facilities and Pools

OFFICE HOURS

8:30 to 5:30 Monday-Friday

Come visit us at

1413 Cambridge Place

539-2951

No Appointment Necessary

ZERO AND two blocks from campus in quiet, well-maintained modern complexes. One bedroom furnished apartments $280 and $216 per month. Prefer faculty, graduate student, married couple.

January 1st, twelve month lease. No pets, waterbeds. 537-9686 for information and application.

BUYING OR selling a car, truck, motorcycle, RV, boat, trailer? See Wheel 'n' Deal, Blue Hills Shopning Center, Seturdays 8 a.m. Parking acct, window sticker, area advertising, $10. Mannattan Emergency Shelter, 537-3113. (52-53)

1982 COUGAR — Loaded, excellent condition, priced to sell. 532-6786, George H. or 776-2049. (53-57)

FOR SALE-1975 Oldsmobile 88. One owner car, in good running condition. Phone 539-4031, (53-56)

FOR SALE-KSU Royal Purple yearbooks

FOR SALE-Four 5-spoke chrome wheels, price negotiable. Phone 539-6450, ask for Dale. (53-54)

The Ritz Denison & Claflin

69¢

1/4 Hamburger

537 3335

FOR SALE: KSU/OSU football tickets, reasonably

FOR SALE: Green parrot with food, cage, and perch.

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

MOBILE HOME-Huge lot, storage shed, north of

CHROME EXHAUST pipe for air-cooled VW. Call 539-

FOUND-LONG haired blue point Siamese cat, fe-

MAN'S GOLD ring at Rec Complex Monday evening.

male. Contact me at 537-0692 or 537-9560. (53-54)

Call 539-0405 between 9:30 and 10 p.m. to identify.

Manhattan. New hot water tank, carpet, $2,000.

07

10

13

*Conveniently Located

Parking

No Pets Allowed

FOR SALE-AUTO

FOR SALE-MISC

Exp. Date 11/9

priced. 776-1861. (53-54)

Phone 1-456-8114 (52-54)

4366 after 6 p.m. (52-54)

HELP WANTED

FOUND

(53.55)

Call 532-3909 after 6 p.m. (53-54)

1963-1979. Call 776-0592. (50-54)

one-half block from campus, $118 per month, 539-us and Aggieville. Call anytime:

across from cam 537-8846. (53-57)

Continued from Page 1

thyroid were some of the organs students were unfamiliar with and could not locate in the human body. The heart, lungs, kidneys and brain were organs students tended to be able to identify.

Students who saw their organs as less emotional and mysterious and more understandable were more likely to have donated or be willing to donate.

Shanteau said the team's next three studies will include looking at the conceptions people have of brain death and will compare Hispanics and Caucasians' willingness to become denators.

"If there's one thing people should do whether they want to donate or not," Shanteau said, "it's talk to their family members and make it known how they feel."

Jassifieds

01

'VE DETER-

ARE WERKS.

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Display Classified Rates

e day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.) Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glemour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (53-75)

FOR GOD'S SAKE,

LOLA, WHY A

PENGUIN 3

Garfield

SUPPOSE YOU THINK YOU LOOK LIKE A SHARK

YOU GOT IT,

BUSTER

Bloom County

Take your parents to a super art show and sale, Saturday, Nov. 8, from 9-5:30 at Cico Park - West on Kimball

Avenue. ASK ME about Mary Kay Cosmetics! Janet Milliken, 539-9469. (44-53)

ADULT MOVIES now available at Home Cinema, 537-1115. (49-53)

DONATIONS FOR the Cathy Robare car fund may be dropped off at the Small Business Development Center, 204 Calvin Hall. Checks should be made out to First Christian Church marked "Cathy Robare." Drop in and sign the card. (50-54)

Christmas Art Festival at Cico Park Saturday 9-5:30

Sponsored by Manhattan Creative Arts Guild

HONEY ... YOU KNOW

BETTER THAN A ... A

PENGUIN. HOW

ABOUT THAT

TOLEDO @

WANT TO play the assassination game? Call 532-2362 Laura (131), leave name and number. (51-54)

TOLEPO ..?

WELL YOU PON'T

LIKE A SHARK!

K-STATE GREEK Staff will meet in Union 208 at 4 p.m.

CHOCOLATE, STRAWBERRY, and vanilla! Lose weight, feel great, and earn money with 100% nat-ural herbal nutrition, 100% guaranteed. Cindi Kennaley, 776-6959. (53-59)

LAMBDA CHI Crescents: Important Crescent initiation meeting Thursday, November 6th at 9 p.m. at the Lambda Chi house. Please make every effort to

Now selling $2 SESSIONS and using

Wolff Bulbs 1126 Laramie

776-2426

ZOOEY ... THE

RUMMER FOR

MOWKEYS "?

THE SCUM

By Berke Breathed

HOW ABOUT

By Jim Davis

WELL JUST

WAIT UNTIL MY

FIN COMES BACK FROM

THE CLEANERS!

By Charles Schulz

HALF OFF-1 p.m. haircut appointment (with this ad), includes shampoo and blowdry. Monday-Fr day. Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794. Ad expires November 30, 1986. (49-65)

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects 30% Off

327 Poyntz

2809 Claflin

776-7983

03

539-2091

CITY AUDITORIUM, November 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Crafts, toys and much more. Register for prizes, Do your Christmas shopping early. Soup and snacks TROPICAL TAN

SCA Wolff Sun Center ★SCA Wolff Beds

Patented Double parabolic reflection system Patented Acrylic-98% Permeability to Ultra-Violet Light

★SCA Wolff

Nuvalarium Bulbs 5th generation Wolff bulb. Gives darker, longer lasting tan. Last Day To Buy 10 sessions-$20

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent, $150 month plus one-half lot rent, one-half electric Male, no pets. Call 776-1359. (48-57)

FOR RENT-APTS

CLOSE TO Aggieville-Spacious three bedroom two bath, basement and large porch plus great amenities, 776-0272, (44-53)

NICE ONE bedroom basement apartment with washer and dryer, $185 plus one-fifth utilities. Call 537-3318. (52-56)

PFKYRX'N

By Eugene Sheffer

year Now hiring. Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701. (26-64) TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available.

3.000 GOVERNMENT jobs list $16,040-$59,230/

Good commissions, valuable work experience, travel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free), 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer. (47-58)

WANTED: ST. Xavier High School in Junction City needs Assistant Boys Basketball Coach. Call 1-238-2841 (51-55) GRADUATE STUDENT or upper level undergraduate position available to coordinate the summer pro-gram for high school students at KSU. Applicants must have a good academic record, be familiar with KSU operations, possess excellent organiza-tional and communication skills, be available to work 15-20 hours/week immediately and be able to commit to the position through August 14, 1987 Call for complete position description (532-5575) or pick up a copy at 1623 Anderson Avenue. Application deadline November 12. (51-54)

WANTED-AN Arts and Graphics major for part-time position. Retail experience preferred. Apply in person at the Jean Station. (52-54)

RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amusement parks, now accepting applications. For more information and an application, write: National Colle-giate Recreation Service, PO. Box 8074, Hilton Head, S.C. 29938 (52-66) OVERSEAS JOBS. Summer, year around. Europe,

South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-$2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information, write IJC, P.O. Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar CA 92625. (52-71) CAMPUS REPS needed-travel free: Position in volves marketing and selling quality ski and beach trips on campus. Earn free trips and high commissions. Call John Eldredge at Great Destinations, 1-800-258-9191. (52-56)

STUDENT OPERATOR position, 15-30 hours per week. Starting date November 17, 1986. Must be willing to work evenings, holidays, summer months, weekends and school breaks. Student with employment potential of two years will be given preference. Ranking factors such as GPA, general employment experience and experience as a computer operator will be considered. Applications will be accepted through 4 p.m., Friday, November 7 in Administrative Computer Operations, room 2B, basement of Farrell Library. ConWE'RE LOOKING for a dependable woman or man Part-time with potential for full-time, long-term employment. Experience in camping, backpacking, and/or biking required. Come in for application. The Pathfinder, 1111 Moro, Aggieville. (52-54)

JOIN OUR "Nanny Network" of over 500 placed by us in Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Boston. Nine-twelve month commitment in exchange for excellent salary, room and board, air transporta-tion and benefits. All families prescreened by us for you to choose from. Helping Hands, P.O. Box 7068, Wilton, CT, 06897. Call 1-203-834-1742. Featured on Hour Magazine and the Today Show (52) STUDENT HELP-Office work, typing skills, computer experience, afternoons only, prefer four hour block, Forestry Department. Phone 532-5752, ask for Pat. (53-55)

PART-TIME help, 15-20 hours per week. Retail sales experience helpful, 537-2051, (53-54)

14

LOST SET OF GM car keys, Union Recreation Center, Sun day between 6 and 8 p.m. Phone 776-2333. (51-53)

NOTICES 15 MARIE'S COSTUME Rentals, 1631 Humboldt, 539

PERSONAL U-LEARN VOLUNTEERS-Thanks for a great semes ter so far! We couldn't do it without you! T.J.D. (53)

day. Parking in the rear. (53-65)

KAPPA SIG Fred—A caring and understanding mother!'ll be. Clue #3: if you don't get your Algebra done, you better not talk to me. Love, Mom. (53) AD Pi Mandy, Just a little note to tell my daughter she is the greatest! Lion love, Angie. (53)

PHI KAP Jed: I missed you Tuesday night. I'm look ing forward to a fun year with you as my big brother—your lil sis. (53)

K-STATE GREEK Newspaper Staff ... See An ouncements (53)

MOM, DAD, and Jason-Thanks for coming on Par ents' Day. Love, Jeff and Amy. (53)

TO THE friends of Renee Whitney: She has arrived in Switzerland and is enjoying her stay - but would love to hear from home! Her address is: Rente

Whitney; American College of Switzerland; 1854 P.S. Her birthday is November 13th. (53-54) TO BD and LLS-Thanks for the flowers and balloon

You're really great friends. JO. (53) LAMBDA CHI Crescents - See Announcements (53)

FUGS-HERE is the Personal you have been asking for. Your owe me one. Claud. (53) AZD BABIES Beth R. and Cheryl H.: Oh my, a daughter and a granddaughter who can both chug! think our family is getting to be quite lush-clous Here's to more of those losing occasions! My new dot and granddot are awesome! -Fuzzies. Shell ley. (53)

Clovia New Members. Get excited, tonight's the tonight you weren't out of mind, just out of sight

We got together and took a small poll Tonight around nine you'll all get a roll.

The Actives

COUNTRY CLUB Kim-Half dead you are-today's your day. Your spirit is still with us during work and during play. So in memory of you, we'll be mourning at Annie Mae's. Oooo. - Kristina, Mi chelle, Amy. (53)

SAE DOUG (Alias Pooh-Bear) - Today is you birthday happy 22! Just wanted you to know I'm thinking of you. Love, Ellie. (53)

AZD DOT Ash-This morning was a blast, yet it is just the beginning of the special times we will share. I know we will make a great pair! (Pigs will live on forever!) Fuzzy luv, Mom Rash. (53)

ROOMMATE WANTED

ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom apartment close to campus. Call Carla, 539-4301 evenings. (47-56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester Very clean, dice, furnished apartment, own room $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181 (50-54)

ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture for horse, cow, dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs furnished. 776-1205 evenings. (50-59)

mester. Apartment complex is very nice and two blocks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call Diane, 776-4965. (51-54) FEMALE: SHARE five bedroom house, five month

ONE-TWO female roommates wanted for spring se-lease for second semester. Call 776-2103 after 5 p.m. (51-53) ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apart ment close to campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-3759. NONSMOKING FEMALE—Large house with washer and dryer, central air and heat. Private room, utilities paid, $175/month thru May! Close to KSU. 539-

6628 evenings. (52-59) MALE ROOMMATE wanted immediately to share nice two-bedroom apartment near campus. Good location with a very nice view of Manhattan. Located on McCain Lane. Call 539-1157. (52-53) SERVICES 18

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Anna Prockish, 931 Hum boldt, 537-4246. (43tf) RESUMES, COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (3911) TYPING-EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates.

term papers, letters, etc. Call 776-0738. (50-54) TYPING—TERM papers, research papers, resumes, cover letters, theses. Call 539-2411. (52-56) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word processor, 1011

Juliette, 537-3314. Specializing in theses, dissertans, manuscripts, term papers. (53-55) WANTED 21

PASSENGER WANTED to Tucson, Phoenix, Albuquerque area during Christmas vacation. Share ex penses, references required. Need to know soon. 537-7709. (52-54)

Crossword

eanuts

part

7 Portal

8 Tail, in book

10 Matador's

11 Octagon inscription

a way 9 Newsstand

6 Longevity

0

EMYX

1 React to Wallace O'Neill a cad? 40 Morse E 5 Loony 42 Ark units DOWN 8 Swift 45 Bank office 1 Gingery planes 49 Retirecookie 12 Nick's 2 Solitary ment wife 3 Scope accts. 13 Past 50 Words with 4 Kansas 14 Owlish king or Indian remark mode 5 Logarithm vault or

Norman

56 Fraternal group

bean joke

55 TV's

15 "Many 52 Type of Day" 16 New: prefix 53 Diplomacy 17 Hairdo 54 Practical 18 Butter

20 Forage grass 22 Roof ornament 57 Classifieds 23 Watch pocket 24 Throb

type

27 Computer programs 32 Health retreat 33 - Ellen Ewing

34 Dovecote sound 35 Nuts and bolts 38 By the

of one's teeth

Yesterday's answer 11-6

Solution time: 28 min.

58 Trees in an 19 Elevator choice 21 Salamander 24 Bat wood

25 Acct. worker 26 Library book 28 Wilder's - Town" 29 Stable

30 French king 31 Long, long time 36 Some worshipers

37 Sopping

props

38 Binding aid 41 Choice word 42 Quote 43 Russian river 44 Great tale 46 Coward of the theater 47 Silent one 48 Towel word 51 "...the that's born to be king

PARTITION OF A WAR WAR IN THE WAR IN THE PARTY OF THE PAR

CRYPTOQUIP

JKFMHI XNYKWX VFPZ PDF WFMNPH: " Z X J M D Z KE RKFIX." Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE GARDENER I HIRED IS TOO ROUGH AROUND THE HEDGES

Today's Cryptoquip clue: H equals N

PV

Reagan

Continued from Page 1

Senate, "we're going to have an opportunity to set the agenda...to put into sharper focus what's at stake," said Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware, who is eyeing the presidential race.

"We have laid the groundwork for taking back the White House two years from now," exulted Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who won a close race for a fourth term but is not, himself, rumored as a 1988 can-

Republican strategist John Sears, assessing the election results, said the "best news was for Bob Dole, worst for George Bush."

When the 100th Congress is seated in January, Dole will trade his title of Senate majority leader for Senate minority leader. He still will be in a position of leadership, but won't be tied down by having to run the Senate.

The other side of the coin is that he won't have the arm-twisting power he had before, and the spotlight will

Dole said the net result may be that it's easier for him to run for president.

"I don't know I will do that, but I will not have the burden of setting the agenda on a daily basis - first one there in the morning and turning off the lights in the evening," Dole Appearing on a television show with with Dole and Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y, Biden said, "If I were George Bush, I'd be worried about the two guys I'm on this program with."

Among possible Democratic candidates, New York Gov. Mario Cuomo won re-election in a landslide of record proportions.

Biden will have a new forum for his campaign, possibly the chairmanship of the Senate Judiciary Commit-

Likewise, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., will become head of the Senate Armed Services Committee, giving him a high-profile position as Congress debates Star Wars and arms control. Rep. Wyche Fowler won the other Georgia Senate for the Democrats, and that's a plus for Nunn.

In the House, Rep. Richard A. Gephardt of Missouri, also a possible Democratic candidate, won re-

React

Continued from Page 1 jority leader.

Richter said Dole has announced he will make a final decision on a presidential bid for 1988 next spring. Several persons in the audience at Manhattan Municipal Airport when Dole arrived in the city Monday afternoon were wearing "Dole '88"

On the issue of the "sin" amendments, Knopp, who has announced he will seek the Hayden's position of House Majority Leader, said there will be some controversy on how the lottery, pari-mutuel wagering and liquor by the drink are put into place.

reg. $10

one coupon per person

Don't Lose Your Summer Tan! TANNING SPECIAL: $2 Sessions!

Lower Level Mall, 411 Poyntz M-F 9-6

537-1332

Cash-Saving Coupon!

Special Feels So Lively Perms.....$30 $25 Warm & Gentle Perms.....$45...

All Perms include cut & style The First 20 customers to make an appointment can enjoy these specials

PLUS FREE Shampoo, Conditioner & Hair Spray with a Warm & Gentle Perm!

ALSO Ear Piercing Reg. $7.... Now $5 Joyce's Hair Tamers 404 Humboldt

> Buy A Large, Get A Small FREE!

Buy a 16" pizza and get a 10" pizza FREE with this coupon Not good with other specials. Expires Nov. 12, 1986 rserro.

Hours: M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Aggieville Special: 99¢ Whopper after 10 p.m. only (must ask for special before ordering)

Buy a Chicken Sandwich and get a

WHOPPER JR. FREE

Expires 11/13/86

AL-BASHA

GREEK & MEDITERRANEAN FOOD 537-7533 1209 Laramie St.

50¢ off Gyro Sandwich

FREE DELIVERY for orders of $10 or more after 4 p.m.

> *Come in & try our new Hamburger sandwich on pita bread

THE MOST DELICIOUS TREAT IN TOWN.

November Super Specials

Half-Price Haircut, shampoo & style

One-Half Off All Nail Services

Register to win a 20" color TV with remote control

Both specials good with this coupon only til Nov. 15, 1986

Look for more LORDY'n LADYY

776-5651 Design ESkin Care Studio Coupons next week

It's only a state of mind.

It's all about flights of fantasy. And the nightmare of reality. Terrorist bombings. And late night shopping. True love. And creative plumbing. It's only a state of mind. Directed by Monty

"A terrific moviz...there is not a more daft, m original or haunting vision to be seen on American screens this year."

Python's Terry Gilliam.

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub 12th & Moro-Aggieville

expires 11-12-86 with this coupon only void with other offers

LAFLIN Books & Copies

Bring this ad in for

10 FREE SELF-SERVICE COPIES 81/2 X 11 white

Exp. date 11/14/86

FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 776-3771

M-F 8 a.m.-9 p.m. Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Sun. Noon-9 p.m.

Great copies. Great people.

25% OFF copies on 81/2 X 11/20- white and 50% off cotton bond

Exp. date 11/13/86

Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 7:30-Midnight Fri. 7:30-7, Sat. 9-5

Sun. 10-Midnight

1110 Laramie 537-7340

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

We are pleased to announce the arrival of

Sebastian Cellophanes

transparent, temporary hair color $15 with this coupon, a regular $25 value.

Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat. 8-5

Expires 11-28-86

NOV 15&16 132.00

MIDDAY ARTS presents

"Demonstration of European Knitting by Elizabeth Glowacki"

Wednesday, Nov. 12

Union Art Gallery

Noon - 12:30 p.m.

Free!

SICH-UPT 6-18-74-400 PM-ACTIVITIES CENTUA STUDENTS - OCT 22 - NOV11 TENERAL - CCT 1 - NOV11

Larry Viterna,

Director of Student Financial Services "Is There Financial Aid for You?" How the Gramm-Rudman Act will affect students.

TODAY! Noon-Union Courtyard

"Let's Talk About It"-Pride of K-State Series

- Richard Coris , TIME MAGAZINE

Union Movies!

Today at 3:30 in Little Theatre, 7:30 p.m. In Forum Hall. Rated R.

$1.75; KSU ID Required;

A comic suburban nightmare starring John Belushi as the mild-mannered homeowner and Dan Ackroyd as his off-the-wall neighbor.

NEICHBORS is the funniest comedy I've seen this year. It manages to elicit belly laughs just about every 10 seconds."

-Frank Sanello, LOS ANGFLES DAILY NEWS

JOHN BELUSHI N DAN AYKROYD

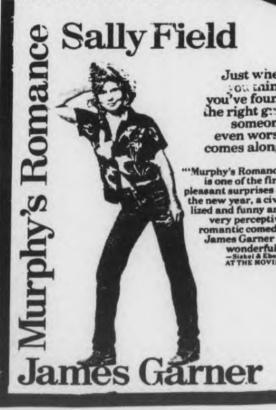

Tomorrow and Saturday, 12 Midnight in Forum Hall. $1.75; KSU ID Required; Rated R.

k-state union upc feature films

TOTAL TRANSPORTED THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF

Just when you've found he right gry, even worse comes along.

very perceptive

"Sally Field...gives what is undoubtedly the sexiest perfor-mance of her career." - Michael Wilmington, LOS ANGELES TIMES

Tomorrow and Saturday,

7 and 9:30 p.m.

in Forum Hall.

$1.75;

KSU ID Required;

Rated PG-13.

2Ac-demy Award

Nominations

2 Academy Award

Nominations

Including

BEST ACTOR

Romance

Murphy's Romance' is one of the first leasant surprises of the new year, a civi-lized and funny and

Stopping OSU

Kansas State Historical Soc

K-State's football team will try to stop Oklahoma State and its All-American running back Thurman Thomas Saturday at KSU Stadium. See Page 7.

Kansas State Collegian

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Friday

November 7, 1986

Volume 93, Number 54

Kansas to incur revenue shortfall

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

TOPEKA — Income from state taxes will be $93 million less than originally projected in the current fiscal year and the state will face a $13 million deficit by year's end on June 30 without emergency action by the governor, officials announced late Thursday.

The state Consensus Revenue Estimating Group made the projection, saying Gov. John Carlin and governor-elect Mike Hayden will have to implement an immediate budget cut of 1-2 percent, cut $13 million from the budget Hayden submits to the 1987 Legislature, or seek a tax increase to avert a deficit in the state general fund bank account.

The Kansas Constitution prohibits deficit spending by lawmakers so action must be taken to prevent the general fund from falling into the red.

Carlin, who is retiring Jan. 12 and turning over the reins of state government to Hayden, said he was not shocked by the revised projections.

"The numbers do not in any way shock me," Carlin said. "We knew going in it would be at least $40 million and had prepared for that. Now, it's a matter of working with the new administration. I want to be sure what I do is consistent with what Mike wants.

"If I chop in one area and he adds it back and chops in another area, nobody is served by that."

Hayden could not be reached for comment Thursday. Sue Peterson, administrative assistant to Hayden, said:

"Although he's been campaigning, he (Hayden) knows what's been going on, and he knew it was going to be less than an ideal situation.

"He'll have some comments tomorrow. He wanted an opportunity to look at it and know what the numbers say."

She said no meeting has been arranged to have the budget division brief Hayden on the Consensus Estimating Group's report, and didn't know if one would be right now.

Senate delays decision on representation bill

By DARLA RYAN Collegian Reporter

After 40 minutes of debate, Student Senate voted to postpone until Nov. 20 voting on the Student Representation Enhancement Referendum bill.

The motion for postponement passed, allowing time for additional research.

The bill would allow students to vote on whether they would like to be represented by living group or college. Currently, senators are elected to represent their college only. If the referendum is approved by the students, residence halls, off-campus and greek housing units would also be represented.

The motion for postponment was made by Wally Brockoff, junior in agricutural economics.

"If we're taking this to the students we want them to make an informed decision," he said.

Brockoff said he felt the bill had a lot of unanswered questions. He also said he wanted the sponsors to attach a fact sheet to clarify the bill and explain how the change would affect them.

If senate approves the bill next week, students will have the opportunity to vote on it in the general election next February.

If passed by the students, Senate will restructure to allow 24 senators representing colleges and 24 senators to represent living districts.

Living district representation would then be broken down into 14 senators from offcampus, five from residence halls and five from greek membership.

Currently, 35 senators are from greek

Currently, 35 senators are from greek houses, 10 off-campus senators and one from a residence hall.

In other business, Senate amended, and passed a bill requiring Senate members to keep office hours. The amendment made an exception for veterinary medicine students to the bill because of their lack of free time.

"There's no question that juniors and seniors in vet med do not have an hour to spare," said Catherine Sayler, senior in veterinary medicine. "I'm not sure about freshmen and sophomores."

Ron Hues, chairman of the Graduate Student Council, opposed the amendment because it didn't include graduate students.

"It's hard enough for grads to find time for Senate," he said. "This will just make it less attractive for them."

Mike Riley, senior in political science, also opposed the amendment.

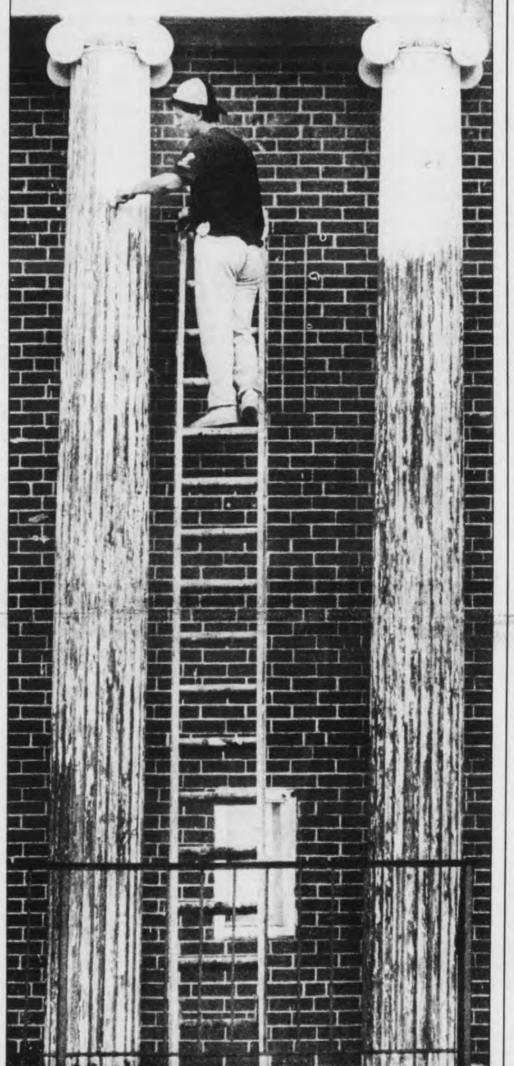

"People need to start realizing before they run that Senate is a lot more than a Thursday night commitment," he said.

After the amendment passed, Sally Traeger, senior in marketing and Senate chairwoman, said the senators would have to first be trained before holding office hours because the main responsibility of the senator on duty is to answer the phone and answer questions.

Senate also approved the Revision of KSU Literature and Notice Regulations bill. The bill makes changes in poster registration, standards for posting and literature distribution and location rules.

Senate also heard first reading on a bill requesting $551 to the K-State Chapter of the American Institute of Architecture Students. The funds will be used so members of the chapter can attend a national architecture forum during Thanksgiving vacation.

Senate also heard first reading on Opposition to Mandatory Drug Testing of Students. This bill includes all students, not athletes exclusively

Pillar painting

John Anderson, freshman in journalism and mass communications, brushes paint on the pillars at the Sigma Nu fraternity Thursday as part of a pledge project.

Reagan seeks to play down hostage deal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan on Thursday tried to quell reports that his administration helped win release of three hostages held in Lebanon by aiding the transfer of defense supplies by Israel to Iran.

Israel, with the blessing of the White House, shipped Iran spare parts and missiles for U.S.-made F-4 jet fighters as well as parts for American-made C-130 planes, radars and other war supplies, according to the Los Angeles Times.

Reagan, asked by reporters whether he had a deal with Iran, said: "No comment, but could I suggest an appeal to all of you with regard to this, that the speculation, the commenting and all on a story that came out of the Middle East ... one that to us has no foundation, that all of that is making it more difficult for us in our effort to get the other hostages free."

Later, White House spokesman Albert Brashear refused to specify which story Reagan meant when he said it had "no foundation."

"I'm just not going to comment on what he was referring to, which stories might be factual and which are not. I just can't do that right now because it would be dangerous for me to do so," Brashear said.

Reports of the deal began appearing after the speaker of the Iranian parliament, Hashemi Rafsanjani, said in a speech Tuesday that former White House national security adviser Robert McFarlane had visited Tehran, had been confined to his hotel room and then expelled. McFarlane carried a message from Reagan, said Rafsanjani.

The White House has declined to comment on Rafsanjani's remarks, and McFarlane told reporters in Cleveland Thursday that he could not offer any specifics.

According to reports published Thursday in the Los Angeles Times and the Washington Post, administration officials began working with Israeli authorities 18 months ago to arrange top-secret deliveries to Tehran of U.S. arms desperately needed by Iran in its seesaw war with Iraq.

The shipments, made with the personal approval of Reagan, began last year and led to the release of three American hostages, most recently David Jacobsen, who was freed last Sunday by Lebanese Shi'ite Moslem extremists with ties to Iran, according to the reports.

Earlier shipments led to the release of two other American hostages, the Rev. Benjamin Weir in September 1985 and the Rev. Lawrence Jenco last July, the reports said.

The Times reported that the deal with Iran was worked out by McFarlane before he stepped down as Reagan's national security adviser earlier this year.

McFarlane traveled to Iran several times with a top aide, Lt. Col. Oliver North, the National Security Council's deputy director for political and military affairs, the Times reported.

The operation was run almost entirely by the White House and was kept secret from officials in the State, Defense and Treasury Departments until several months ago, when word began to circulate, the Times reported.

Legislative panel to initiate hearing on sin amendments

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A legislative committee will launch hearings next week aimed at drafting legislation to implement the three sin amendments voters approved during Tuesday's general election, and leaders of the panel say they hope for quick action when the Kansas Legislature convenes in January.

"We will move very swiftly on our work," said Sen. Edward Reilly, R-Leavenworth, chairman of the Special Committee on Federal and State Affairs, said Wednesday. The committee will begin hearings Nov. 12 on proposals to govern the newly approved lottery, parimutuel and liquor-by-the-drink amendments.

The vice chairman of the committee, Rep. Robert H. Miller, R-Wellington, said he hopes the implementing legislation will be prefiled before the 1987 session begins. The panel has scheduled three days of hearings next week.

"We'll be ready on the first day of the session," Miller said.

Gov.-elect Mike Hayden also said he hopes the start-up measures would be enacted quickly because voters have signaled they want them implemented fairly and quickly.

"I think we're going to move with expediency to get them implemented," Hayden said. "We're also going to make sure they're squeaky clean, that criminal elements cannot take advantage of them and that Kansas will benefit."

All three propositions were approved Tuesday by margins of between 60 and 64 percent. Limited public liquor by the drink and parimutuel wagering will be legal only in counties where the proposals gained a majority of the vote.

Although Reilly said he believes it would be "a great disservice" to the state if the Legislature stood in the way of implementation, Miller recalled past legislative battles over those issues and said he is unsure when Legislatures might pass the proposals.

"In the past on liquor bills, there was always a lot of maneuvering to put in provisions that were designed to get around our liquor laws a little bit more," said Miller, the chairman of the standing House Federal and State Affairs Committee.

See AMEND, Page 12

New law alters student aid status

By The Collegian Staff

Changes approved by President Ronald Reagan Oct. 17 in the Higher Education Act of 1965, will affect students hoping to file for financial aid as "independents," the director of student financial assistance said Thursday.

are not taken into account in financial aid applications of students who are independent, said Larry Viterna, director of student financial aid, in a speech titled "Is There Financial Aid for Me?"

The income and assets of parents

Viterna's speech in the Union Courtyard was part of the "Let's Talk About It" series sponsored by Union Program Council's Issues and Ideas.

The new definition is important, Viterna said, because it may change the status of some students.

Under the law change, a student must be 24 years old to be considered an independent, he said. Previously, requirements included no age restriction. The only exceptions are veterans of the armed forces; orphans; students with legal dependents other than a spouse; married or graduate students not being claimed as an income-tax exemption by parents or guardians in 1987; and single undergraduates who were not claimed as a tax exemption by parents or guardians in 1985 or '86 and who earned at least $4,000 income in the past fiscal year.

Viterna said proof of independent income will be required of students seeking independent status. This added requirement is meant to assure that the student could actually support himself. Previously, students who were not claimed as a tax exemption by their parents were not required to prove independent income.

More immediate changes, he said, have occurred in the Guaranteed Student Loan policy. Students who apply are now required to fill out a family financial statement.

Previously, GSL money provided an automatic replacement for funds a family would otherwise contribute to a student's education. Under the change, GSLs will only cover those costs that are above the family's means, Viterna said.

However, he said, the limits on how much can be borrowed also have changed. Currently, an undergraduate can receive up to $2,500 per year in a GSL. Beginning in January, Viterna said, for students receiving new loans, the limit will be $2,625 for freshmen and sophomores. For juniors and seniors, the limit will be $4,000. Graduate students will have a limit of $7,500.

"That's a significant increase on a yearly basis," he said.

Also, new to student financial aid is a program called debt management counseling. Student financial assistance offices are required to provide information on the kinds of debts students are incurring to pay for education and how they will be able to pay them back, Viterna said.

K-State has a newly acquired personal computer in the financial See AID, Page 12

INTERNATIONAL

Philippine minister denies plot

MANILA, Philippines — The head of security for Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile on Friday denied knowledge of any military plot against President Corazon Aquino's government.

"It's not true," Col. Gregorio Honasan told reporters. "We don't know anything (about the report). It's the newspapers talking not us."

Honasan spoke following an announcement Thursday that Gen. Fidel Ramos, the armed forces chief of staff, had ordered commanders to "neutralize" plots against the government.

The order cited a report in the respected newspaper Business Day that disaffected members of the military planned a "surgical operation" to seize control of the government, oust "inept and left-leaning" members but keep Aquino as president.

S. Africans battle police, 5 killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Five people were killed in a two-hour battle with police, and uniformed white men in a bus shot an 11-year-old boy to death, residents of the black township of Soweto and Thursday.

The government said only four people, including the boy, were killed Wednesday in the township outside Johannesburg. It said police fired birdshot at a crowd which was throwing gasoline bombs.

Soweto residents interviewed Thursday said shooting broke out about 9 p.m. near the homes of anti-apartheid activists Winnie Mandela and Albertina Sisulu when police arrived in armored cars to evict people who have refused to pay increased rents for government houses.

REGIONAL

Water bill changes project plans

OMAHA, Neb. — The passage of the first major federal water resources bill since 1970 could begin a new era of water project development in the Midwest, experts said Thursday.

The bill is significant because it changes the way projects are developed and financed, West said at a news conference.

The legislation requires communities to share development costs with the federal government, a departure from the practice of having the federal government pay most of the cost for major projects.

Local costs for projects could range from 25 percent to 100 percent.

President Reagan is expected to sign the bill.

The Corps' Kansas City District next week will outline the bill's impact on that district. A major priority will be the Brush Creek flood control project in Kansas City.

While all of the specifics of the legislation have not been revealed, several major projects have been authorized:

$51.9 million in wildlife habitat along the Missouri River.
 $44.6 million for the Perry Creek project to control flooding in Sioux City, Iowa.

Bank erosion control on the Platte River and tributaries in Nebraska.

NATIONAL

THE RESERVE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF

Convicted spy faces life in prison

BALTIMORE — Former Navy radioman John A. Walker Jr., admitted head of a family spy ring, was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday and his son Michael was given a 25-year term by a judge who urged they be denied parole.

"Your task was to defend your country; you chose to betray it,"
U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey II told the elder Walker, 49, who received nearly $1 million from the Soviet Union for his spying.
"Your motive was pure greed and you were paid handsomely for your traitorous acts," Harvey said.

The judge, a World War II veteran, expressed personal revulsion that two enlisted servicemen could turn against their country, and added, "In my opinion, your espionage activities have caused tremendous harm to the national security of this country."

Evidence showed Walker used his high-level Navy security clearance to obtain classified information about Navy communications, ship locations and routes, weapons and sensor data and Navy tactics, and delivered it to the Soviets, pulling family members into the arrangement. His brother Arthur, 52, is serving a life term for es-

Rebels assault diplomats at UN

UNITED NATIONS — The Afghan war spilled into the corridors of the United Nations Thursday as Afghan diplomats assaulted two visiting anti-government rebels in an effort to keep them from holding a news conference.

The scuffle came a day after the General Assembly approved 122-20 a resolution calling for immediate withdrawal of more than 100,000 Soviet troops who are helping the Afghan regime fight the Mansoor Suhail, press attache of Pakistan's U.N. mission, said three members of the Afghan U.N. delegation attacked two Afghan rebels when the visitors stepped off an escalator on the third floor of the U.N. headquarters building.

"They just pounced on them and began punching and shoving," said Suhail, who was accompanying the two representatives of the Islamic Union of Afghanistan Mujahedeen.

Kassebaum loses leadership role

WASHINGTON — Sen. Nancy Kassebaum said Thursday that her proposal to revamp product liability laws for general aviation will face a more difficult battle next year because of party leadership changes in the Senate.

The Kansas Republican, who will lose her chairmanship of the Commerce subcommittee on aviation now that Democrats control the Senate, said the aviation liability bill illustrates how Kansas and other states represented by Republican senators will be affected by this week's mid-term elections.

Republicans like Kassebaum and Sen. Bob Dole who has served as majority leader for the past two years, will no longer have the power to set legislative priorities and the timetable for consideration of bills.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS has committee member applications available today through Nov. 17 in the SGS

CENTER FOR BASIC CANCER RESEARCH, DIVISION OF BIOLOGY has applications available for $500 student cancer research awards in Ackert 233. Applications are due Dec.

FORMER VAN ZILE RESIDENTS: Putnam Hall has old Van Zile trophies, if interested pick one up at Putnam.

TODAY

BIG LAKES DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER meets from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Big Lakes Developmental Center, 1500 Hayes Drive.

SATURDAY

NEWMAN will have a spaghetti dinner at 5 p.m. at St. Isidore's, 711 Denison Ave.

SUNDAY

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS will have a training session for all committee members at 7:30 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. Students interested in applying for

NEWMAN meets at 7 p.m. at St. Isidore's, 711

ALPHA TAU OMEGA LITTLE SISTERS meet

she bus meet at 9 p.m. at the DU house.

MENNONITE STUDENT GROUP meets at 6:30 p.m. at 421 16th St., Apt. 4.

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 10 p.m. at the Acacia house.

MONDAY

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big Eight Room. There will be a presentation by RETAIL FLORICULTURE CLUB meets for yearbook pictures and field trip at 7:15 p.m. in Fairchild 202.

Fairchild 202.

SENATE COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE meets at 6 p.m. in Union 204. Attendance is impor-

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL meets at 5 p.m. n Justin 254.

APPAREL DESIGN COLLECTIVE meets at 7 .m. in Justin 252.

PI SIGMA EPSILON meets at 7:30 p.m. in Jnion 204. New members are welcome.

WOMEN IN COMMUNICATIONS, INC. meets

t 7:30 p.m. in Union 209.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 7 p.m. in Union

Correction

The time of the Manhattan Christian College benefit dinner was incorrectly reported in Thursday's Collegian. The time is 6 p.m. today at the University Christian Church, 2800 Claflin Road.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

KKC. AAA. AAT. AEA

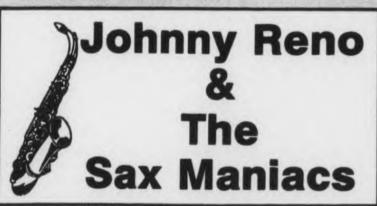

OPENHOUSE

You are cordially invited to the Fairchild Neighborhood Open House Sunday, Nov. 9, 1986 2-4 p.m.

-ΦΔΘ·ΣΝ·ΘΞ·ΛΧΑ·

BONKERS presents tonight only

Friday, Nov. 7

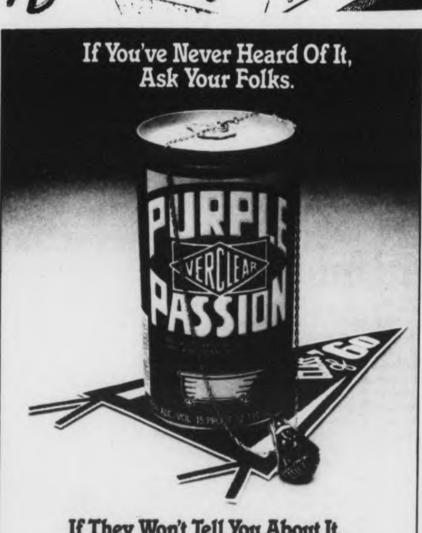

If you missed them at the Welcome Back Concert, catch them at Bonkers.

Party begins at 10 p.m. T.G.I.F. Free Hors D'oeuvres

1216 Laramie Aggieville

537-9591

If They Won't Tell You About It, Then You Know It Must Be Great.

Purple Passion. Out of the bathtub, into the can, and onto the shelves of your favorite store. Discover it for yourself. From Roots to Wines of

All-University Honorary Parents

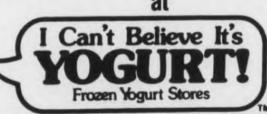

Chimes Junior Honorary would like to congratulate this year's selected parents:

Mr. & Mrs. Ken Peirce from Hutchinson

Parents of Kathy & Ken Peirce

PARENTS' WEEKEND '86

"Purple and White"
Swirl CONES and CUPS

50% DISCOUNT (on purple & white swirl cones and cups excluding waffle cones)

This Saturday, Nov. 8 to Everyone Wearing

Something Purple!

Enjoy the taste of Ice Cream but with one-fifth the fat and half the calories

GO CATS!

We'll be cheering you on to victory at Parents' Weekend against Oklahoma State

FREE SAMPLES
EVERY TIME
YOU COME IN

Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. daily Noon-11 p.m. Sunday 705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers, Aggieville

Weekend of fun planned for parents

By KELLY KLOVER Collegian Reporter

The Kansas State Orchestra will sound off the beginning of Parents' Weekend '86 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

Under the direction of conductor Adrian Bryttan, the orchestra will give a free performance starting at 8 p.m. for students and their parents.

Events for students and their parents will continue Saturday including receptions, tours and lectures in individual colleges.

The College of Engineering will host a reception for parents of engineering students, along with tours of the college facilities, at 9 a.m. Saturday, in the atrium lobby of Durland Hall.

A reception honoring scholarship recipients in the College of Arts and speak on "Motivation Factors in Sciences will be from 9:30 to 11 a.m. in the McCain Auditorium foyer.

All University campus tours, both walking and video, originate at the Union and will be offered from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Tour hours were planned to provide an option for parents unable to attend the football game, said Mark Buyle, junior in marketing and president of Chimes Junior Honorary, the organization which sponsors Parents' Weekend.

Beginning at 10 a.m. in Union rooms 206, 212 and 213, K-State professors will conduct 45-minute, mini-classroom sessions. Hermann J. Donnert, professor of nuclear engineering, will lecture on "Three-Mile Island, Chernobyl, and Facts of Life"; Richard P. Coleman, professor of marketing, will

Our Consuming Society"; and Edward R. Fowler, professor of electrical and computer engineering, will discuss "Operational Amplifiers: Concepts and

A pre-football game buffet luncheon is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Union Bluemont Room. No reservations are required.

To celebrate Fort Riley Day, also scheduled Nov. 8, a flag football match between the University intramural champs and the Fort Riley team is set for 10 a.m. at the intramural fields adjacent to the KSU Stadium.

Fort Riley's First Infantry Division will display military and artillery equipment from noon to 3 p.m. near the stadium. Kick-off time for the K-State and Oklahoma State University football game is at 1:30 p.m. Among halftime activities is the presentation of K-State's 1986 Honorary Parents, Ken and Barbara Peirce of Hutchinson.

Both K-State alumni, the Peirces were nominated by their children Kathy and Ken Peirce, both K-State students. The Peirces were selected in a campuswide essay writing contest sponsored by Chimes earlier this semester.

An evening buffet will follow the game from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. The dinner is $8 for adults and $4 for children 12 and under. Reservations are required.

The Men's Glee Club, celebrating its 30th reunion, will perform along with the Women's Glee Club and the K-State Singers at 8 p.m. Saturday in McCain. Admission is $3.

GM to close 11 plants due to operating losses

By The Associated Press

DETROIT - General Motors Corp., ending weeks of speculation, announced today it will close 11 plants employing 29,000 people in four states.

"The decision...is the first phase of the GM reorganization and modernization program, and other assembly, stamping, engine and component facilities are under study," the automaker said.

Closings were expected after GM announced third-quarter operating losses of about $338 million.

The 11 operations are in Michigan,

Ohio, Missouri and Illinois. They include the Fleetwood and Clark Street assembly plants, with 6,600 employees in Detroit, to be closed by the end of 1987; the Flint Body-Pontiac assembly operation making Chevrolets, Buicks and Oldsmobiles in Flint and Pontiac, with 4,500 employees, by the end of 1987; and the Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada group plant that produces Chevrolet Camaros and Pontiac Firebirds, with 4,000 employees in Cincinnati, in mid-1988. Also to be closed is a stamping plant in Hamilton, Ohio, with 2,500 employees

Also, a GM Truck & Bus Group plant employing 2,200 people in St. Louis, by mid 1987; a Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac group stamping plant that produces body panels, with 2,900 employees at Willow Springs, Ill.; and the Conner Street stamping plant in Detroit, with 700 workers. GM said the three stamping plants will be phased out gradually, and will be closed by 1990.

The other two closings are the Pontiac Central- Plant, has 2,200 employees building trucks and buses, by August 1988; and the Truck and Bus Assembly plant No. 1 in Flint, which employs 3,450 people, by August 1987. A second production line at that Flint plant will not be af-

The GM assembly plant in Van Nuys, Calif., will remain open, according to unidentified sources quoted today by the Daily News of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles

The 39-year-old facility, the last all-domestic auto factory on the West Coast, makes the Pontiac Firebird and Chevrolet Camaro, which are to be phased out in 1989. But the plant will not be closed because it has a Japanese-style "team concept" approach to management, the papers

The company said it will establish transition teams to provide counseling and other services to employees at the plants to be closed. Some of the workers can transfer to other GM

New law may stop illegal immigration

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, signing into law the most sweeping immigration reform in more than 30 years, expressed hope Thursday that the measure will preserve "one of the most sacred possessions of our people -American citizenship."

Millions of illegal aliens may become eligible to remain in the United States legally under the act, approved in the waning days of the 99th Congress after years of political wrangling.

But sponsors of the measure have expressed fears the complex law may trigger an administrative measure, noted that illegal immigration "should not ... be seen as a problem between the United States and its neighbors.'

Some opponents of the measure had argued the bill would prompt widespread discrimination against such groups as Hispanics. For aliens who have been living in Reagan, before signing the the United States illegally since before 1982, the bill contains an amnesty provision that will enable them to obtain temporary legal residency. That can be converted to permanent residency status after 18 months for those who can demonstrate a minimal understanding of English and some knowledge of U.S. history and government.

Local NOW members plan strategies in campaign to fight pornography

By CAROL LENKNER

Collegian Reporter The Manhattan chapter of the National Organization for Women discussed "Strategies for Fighting Pornography in Manhattan" at an open meeting Thursday night. "The purpose of the meeting is to generate ideas and come to a decision on strategies which we think will work," said Sandra Coyner, director of women's studies and president of the Mahattan chapter of NOW.

Anti-pornography Week, cosponsored by NOW and the Women's Resource Center, is part of a campaign to raise public awareness about the harmful effects of por-

PLUS

Smooth & Melty Mints

OPEN M-F Noon-8 p.m.

Sat. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

427 Poyntz 776-4498 %

Downtown

Wedding Ornaments

·Party Dresses

Unity Candles

The Manhattan chapter of NOW is concerned about the effects of hardcore pornography, especially that which is violent, Coyner said.

The possibility of approaching customers before they enter stores that sell hard-core pornographic material was supported by several members of the group. Some participants suggested that informative flyers be distributed to customers, asking them to think again before purchasing hard-core pornographic

Other group members disagreed with pamphlet distribution.

"I don't believe that pamphlets are an effective method of changing a

TGIF GUEST BARTENDER & Bobby Stacks COMPON LIVIB 5-7 p.m. TONIGHT

.........

person's mind about an issue," said Ron Bishop, sophomore in general. "I usually already have some opinions formed and don't change my mind just because someone hands me a pamphlet." Another suggested approach was to ask retailers - either in a letter or in person — to remove pornographic materials because of the harm caused by hard-core pornography.

"If NOW members just tell the merchants to remove the magazines from their shelves, they will probably get a response of 'Why?" Coyner said. "It would be important to offer the merchants an explana-

"Included in this explanation would be statistics and evidence of the relationship of pornography and

Members agreed that it would be important to take a positive approach when trying to get the merchants to stop selling pornographic magazines

"You do not want to take the approach some other organizations have taken, making businesses buckle because of pressure," Bishop said. "It is better to make the business look good."

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

FRIDAY

NOW members agreed a certificate program rewarding participating businesses would be a good idea. A slogan, such as "Manhattan Against Violence Against Women," would be printed on the certificates.

The group also supported a recommendation for the development of a public service announcement for radio broadcast.

Another SAMPLE WEEK at Taco Hut!!

Starts Sunday, Nov. 9th through Nov. 15th Sunday Taco Dinner $1.77 reg. $2.15 Monday . . . Taco Burgers 2 for $1 . . . reg. 75¢ each Closed Tuesday See you on Wednesday!!! Wednesday Tostados 85¢ reg. $1.20 Thursday Tacos 3 for $1.25 reg. 55¢ each Friday . . . Burrito or Sancho 88¢ . . . reg. $1.25 each Saturday Chili Burrito $1.77..... reg. $2.15

VODKA DRINKS $1.50 DRAWS 75¢

Free Hors D'oeuvres 616 N. 12th

539-9967

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE SATURDAY TONIC DRINKS SCHNAPPS $1.00

"Welcome Parents!" Open at 11 a.m.

> 616 N.12th 539-9967

We're There When You Need

Fri. & Sat.

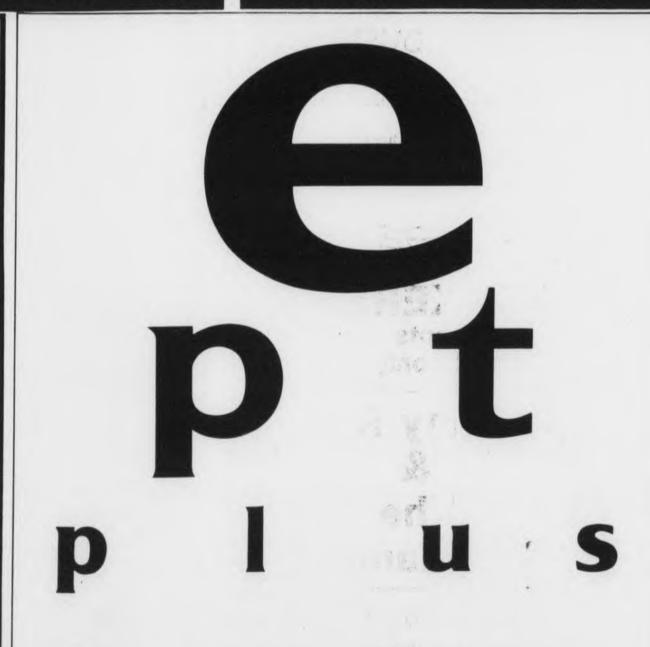

Emergency Care 24 Hours A Day

It's easy to avoid thinking about accidents or sudden illness, or to think that it could never happen to you or your family. But emergencies do happen, every day and it's good to know that help is immediately available. Our staff of skilled health care professionals are committed to your good health in our community. Remember we're there when you

105 SUNSET AVENUE 913-778-3300

COLUMN TAR A SERVICE DE LA COLUMN DE LA COLU

The pregnancy test for your eyes only.

Private, portable, and easy to read, e.p.t. Plus™ can tell you if you're pregnant in as fast as 10 minutes. You can use it as soon as one day after a missed period. And e.p.t. Plus has proven 99% accurate in lab tests. e.p.t. Plus, a fast and easy way to know for sure.

Patti Hannan

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 332-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Task force examines fee, develops opinion whack with this athletic fee," Athletic Director Larry Travis said earlier this week. Does that mean the Athletic Fee Task Force members are not doing their jobs? Or simply that they are not finding the facts Travis wants them to find?

Travis claims the task force was formed last year to gather information and to give students a chance to decide for themselves whether they are willing to increase the amount of money they must pay each semester.

Doug Folk, task force chairman and junior in electrical engineering, said, "I don't think the problem is that we're biased. I think the problem will be (that) if we feel we're here to make a decision, we need to put forth facts."

How true. Thus far, there have been no public complaints that the task force members are not completing their assignments only Travis' that they are form-

"Things are getting out of ing opinions about the facts they find.

> Travis seems to believe opinions are OK as long as they agree with his opinions. He said if he knew task force members were going to form opinions, then he would have never allowed the task force to form. Earlier in the year, he said he probably could have implemented the athletic fee without student consent, and now, when some of the task force members are beginning to form opinions, Travis claims he should not have formed the task force.

It is not possible for the task force members to examine the facts closely, and not form opinions about them. If the task force members are presenting their findings to Student Senate and are adding their own opinions, Senate should be diverse enough to question the task force members on their findings. If their opinions are not supported by facts, then that should be brought to light through questioning in Senate.

Survey finds liberals on modern campuses

the 1980s say they are middle-ofthe road, a recent national survey concluded that they are just as liberal as college students of the same age in the 1960s.

The survey captured the essence by pointing out that the times and social norms have changed. People do not take changed values of society into account when they make sweeping generalizations about the "new conservative college student."

The survey was conducted every year for the last 20 years by the University of California at Los Angeles' Higher Education Research Department. It has involved 1,250 colleges and universities, surveying both students and faculty.

The survey did show that students have a more liberal approach to life in general, but it dealt very little with political attitudes.

behavior such as drinking among men and women, and the fact that they are drinking more and

Although college students of using drugs less. It also addressed smoking among women, which has increased. The conclusion was that this generation is more liberal. In modern society, the cultural norm is more liberal overall.

> The study showed more people drinking than taking drugs, but in the '60s, the radical "flower children" were smoking marijuana while now members of all social groups do. It is more of an accepted norm in society.

> The survey also stated that women make up a higher percentage of those seeking higher education, which is stating the obvious. Women are bound to go forward just as most trends go forward.

The few political issues addressed showed that students are in favor of a national health insurance, increased taxation of the wealthy, legal abortions and The study considered social strong government intervention in the areas of environmentalism and conservationalism - traditionally liberal ideals.

Kansans fail to look past emotional issue emotional issue such as capital punishment rather than addressing pertinent issues such as economic development, raising state revenues and bailing out the farm economy, one must wonder about the mentality of Kansas

Fortunately, now that the campaign is over and Mike Hayden has won the governorship, he has said the state's budget will be his priority upon taking office. How Hayden plans to deal with the negative flow of funds remains to be seen as he did not expound on the issue during his campaign.

upon voters emotions with issues elections.

When a political candidate wins such as capital punishment. Furan election by campaigning on an ther evidence of this highly visible, yet safe, type of campaigning can be seen in the federal drugtesting promotion. No candidate would admit to opposing drug tests; it would appear he was not in favor of a wholesome America. The candidate can vocally support the issue and gain positive publicity.

In Kansas, where crime is not prevalent but is more visible when it occurs, capital punishment is the kind of emotional issue candidates can use to their advantage. As students, we have a responsibility to see through the emotional issues and look for Candidates can easily play leadership in candidates in future

ollegiam Editorial

Democrats find ball in their court

For the first time in several days, the sun shone warmly on my face as I stepped outside my dorm Wednesday morning. Like the early November weather, the haze of the elections was gone and the crisp blue skies reflected the clear mandate the American voters decreed at the poles the previous day Having enjoyed my best night's sleep in six years, I smiled at the prospect of a Democratically controlled national legislature and said, "It's morning again in America."

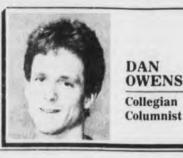

Please excuse me for gloating a bit over the surprisingly strong showing the Democrats made in this week's elections, but it's been a few years since I was able to celebrate an election. Post-election euphoria fades quickly, however, and a more realistic assessment of the United States' political future is in order.

Without question, the Democrats have come out on top in 1986. One hears of the Republican capture of several governorships and state legislatures, and their smaller than expected losses in the U.S. House of Representatives. But the big cigar was the fight for control of the U.S. Senate, and the Republicans got smoked.

Prestige aside, Democratic control of the Senate will allow them to assume voting control and the chairs on the important Senate committees. In addition, they will by and large determine the order and nature of the legislative agenda in the Senate, and should be able to work more closely with the Democratically controlled House of Representatives.

The more important question however, is what the Democrats will do with their newly won power. I don't believe significant policy reversals will be forthcoming in the next two years. The Democrats will certainly move legislative politics toward the center, but a major shift toward "leftist" policies is not going to occur between now and 1988.

One reason is that many of the ranking Democrats who will chair those important Senate committees are as conservative or more so than the Republicans they succeed. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, is certainly more conservative on many issues than is the outgoing Bob Packwood, R-Ore., whom he will replace as Finance Committee Chair-

And the Pentagon may start asking for Ted Kennedy after Sam Nunn, D-Ga., gets rolling as Armed Services Committee Chairman. His sharp intellect will challenge Pentagon strategy from a conservative viewpoint. He will also bring needed energy to military reform legislation, something that was lacking in the otherwise laudable efforts of the outgoing chairman Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Another reason not to expect a big shift to the left is that there is a commonality amongst Democrats and Republicans on many major issues including drug control, the Strategic Defense Initiative and reducing the federal deficit.

And like the outgoing Republicans, the Democrats probably won't get the deficit down. The reason, as most economists will tell you, is taxes need to be raised to really reduce the deficit. The new Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said Wednesday night on the McNeil/Lehrer report, "If taxes are raised, it will be at the president's initiative.

To be sure, there will be differences between the Democrats and the president such as environmental protection, trade restrictions, agricultural policy and what programs should be cut to reduce the deficit. And there's a good chance the Democrats will be able to stop the shameful U.S. support of the Contra terrorists (oops, I forgot, the Freedom Fighters) in Nicaragua.

Friday, November 7, 1986 - 4

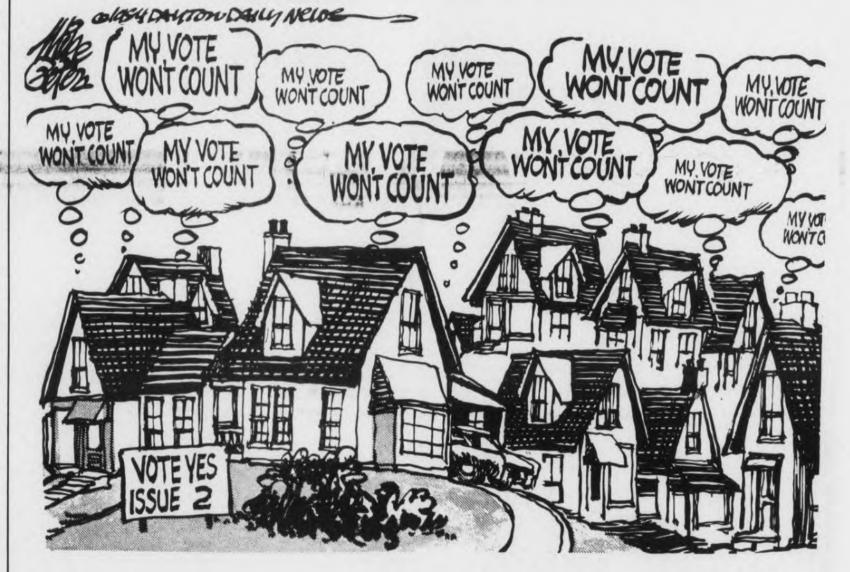

The Democrats are going have the 1988 elections on their minds throughout this legislative session. They will seek to rebuild their party and define its agenda in preparation for the 1988 presidential election year, and aren't going to take many extreme positions which could hurt them while Reagan is in the White House; they will check the "Reagan Revolution," not reverse it.

President Reagan stuck his neck out for the Republican Senate candidates this election and has been chastized by some for risking so much. Indeed, my initial thought on this was "a smart rat knows when to abandon ship.'

But it isn't reasonable to assume the president would abandon his party when so much was a stake. If he hadn't supported the Senate candidates, he'd be getting blamed for their losses. Now, no one can say Reagan didn't support his friends in their time of need. That support, or rather its ineffectiveness, has provided the Democrats with a major revelation about Reagan - his popularity is not transferable.

Indeed, this election has shown that Reagan will not be able to bestow his blessing upon a Republican presidential nominee and thereby significantly affect the 1988 White House race. Democrats seeking the presidency in 1988 have to be pleased with this revelation, as should all Americans. Succession, after all, is not to be transferred in the United States - it is to be earned.

Success against Reagan's campaign efforts has rejuvenated the Democratic Party, giving Democrats the confidence they need to move their party's agenda forward instead of bickering about how best to survive the Reagan years. Tuesday's elections put the Democrats in control of their party's political future. If they fail to establish a viable alternative to the "Reagan Revolution," they'll only have themselves to blame.

Musing on events of election week

It's been one of those weeks with a lot of things going on, so here are my thoughts on just a few.

On voting: Congratulations, people, you actually voted. The percentage going to the polls was higher than usual, more than 70 percent, which is pretty amazing considering how apathetic Americans can be when it comes to politicians.

It is one of those things - rights - we take so much for granted. But if we take voting for granted we have no reason to complain about how and if our government is doing anything. It is one of those items we have to be aware of and have to keep doing until we get it right.

It's a lot like our freedom - loosely defined - which we take for granted and assume will always be there. But what happens if it's not? What happens if the freedoms we enjoy become specters of the past? What happens if we become a society so apathetic as to allow another world war - which, of course, will definitely be the "war to end all wars?"

Voting is a needed means of expression; it is not something to be taken lightly or to be ignored. The system may not always work the way we think it should, but think of how it would break down if we didn't participate at

It may be, and probably is, very idealistic of me to think we the people make a difference. But I can't see it working any other way, especially for us. We take so many rights and freedoms for granted that it would be impossible for us to live any other way.

Anyway, thanks for voting and not being apathetic. On television:

I watch too much television. It's a habit I can't quite bring myself to break, although this semester may be the TV's downfall. I own my own video cassette recorder; it's a lifesaver for a small screen addict like myself. But I am having trouble finding the time to watch the programs I tape. If I don't have time to watch when the show originally airs, when do I find time to watch the tape? That is one dilemma I haven't quite solved but I'm working on it. (Most of the time at the expense of homework.) In fact, this weekend will be spent catching up on at least two weeks of my favorite programs.

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

On movies: I wish I could find a job as a movie reviewer. That would be heaven. Can you imagine being paid to go to movies? I am not only a small screen addict but a silver screen fanatic as well. It's not at all unusual for me to attend a movie or two a day, and/or several during one weekend. I enjoy the escape and the production elements of movies, whether I'm watching on the big screen or the little screen.

I'm a product of my training and environment, a person who thrives on watching

It's a shame the local theaters have quit offering so many afternoon showings - I love going to the movies at 4 or 4:30 p.m. and then going home for supper and an evening of television. (Yes, I know - it should read 'home for supper and an evening of homework.")

On spelling: Why does it appear that a large percentage of college students can't spell? Maybe it's my imagination, but it seems a lot of us are unable to spell even the simplest words.

Even within my own major - those of us trained to communicate — it is not unusual to have misspelled words, poor punctuation, poor grammar and incoherent phrasing.

Did we all skip class the years we should have been learning how to write, talk and spell? Is it just the rebellious nature of the young not to learn? Is it poor teaching methods during our formative years? Or have we all learned to hate reading since the television, sports, other people and conversations seem more important?

I can't blame everything on TV. It is a learning tool to be used to the best advantage, or it can be abused if used improperly. But I do know quite a few people who hate to read, and so they can't spell.

Sorry, spelling is one of my pet peeves. On the Pride of Wildcat Land:

I left the auditorium and entered the stillness of the evening. The only sounds breaking the silence were the distant rumblings of cars and the faint sounds of people walking on campus. The quiet was in direct and startling contrast to the event I had just styles of the conductors, the enthusiasm of the participants and the appreciation of the audience.

It was an event highlighted by the singular

It was the band's "Twist and Shout" con-

The KSU Marching Band, the Pride of Wildcat Land, is definitely one group everyone has to see and hear to appreciate, I am continually amazed at the talent, the pride, the enthusiasm and the fun this group exhibits during the home football games and especially during this concert. The program was filled with outstanding solos, excellent harmony and a wide range of music. My congratulations and thanks to the band members and the band's supporting cast. It was an evening to enjoy, and I did, immensely.

Bad football behavior

I enjoyed attending the recent K-State vs. University of Kansas football game in Manhattan. K-State played well and won, it was a beautiful day and it was good to get back to Manhattan.

However, I was disappointed in the use of vulgar language by some of the student section in cheers directed at KU. The use of fourletter words at the KU game isn't anything new — it occurred 15-20 years ago while I was attending K-State. It wasn't in good taste then, either.

There are several reasons fans should refrain from that type of vocal support: God's word prohibits such displays; it reflects poorly upon the University; it sets a bad example for younger people attending the game (God holds us responsible and we will be held accountable), it causes some alumni to wonder whether it's worth supporting (financially) a program that inadvertently breeds such behavior.

Re: The cartoon in Wednesday's Collegian.

I am writing this letter in representation of the small Colombian community at K-State.

Wednesday's cariacature that appeared in the Collegian has some of us highly upset at being compared to and associated with Communist Russians, terrorist Lybians and Perhaps it's time that my fellow students become acquainted with Colombia. It may come as a surprise to some of you, but coffee beans, marijuana and cocaine do not dot the countryside coast to coast. Nor do we all look like Juan Valdez, Pancho Villa or whomever

Colombia has a democratic form of government, with presidential elections every four years (sound familiar?), and two political parties, liberal and conservative

(sound familiar?). It is rich in natural resources, including oil and gas, full of beautiful beaches, has one of the most progressive cities in South America in Bogota,

the capital, and many excellent universities.

Colombia also has freedom of the press,

that was holding the bag of cocaine.

Poor comparison

Editor,

fanatic Iranians.

Bill Burdett, D.V.M. 1971 K-State graduate freedom of speech and many of the other benefits, privileges and rights we share in the United States - just like Iran, Lybia and Russia, right?

Cocaine, for the most part, is not grown in Colombia, but the processing laboratories are, and sadly, in great numbers. I challenge you to find one of our political leaders speaking fondly of those who deal in this filthy trade or support their actions. Again, just like those others, right? The market for cocaine, however, is in the United States and, unfortunately, so is the drug problem. But who's bombing buildings and kidnapping people to force the American public to use cocaine, the Colombians? The only reason there is a drug problem is because of ourselves. But we can blame that on someone else, too. It's easier that way. Blame the Colombians; after all, they're the ones bringing the stuff over here. Or are they?

In the future, when your paper, through pictures and words, be they yours or your colleague's at the Dayton Daily News, decides to debase a country and its people by association with extreme and erratic factions of other lands, do your homework. You'll find out there's much more than you find fit to print.

Rafael A. Bassi graduate student in civil engineering

Irresponsible writing

Re: Kirk Caraway's column, "Bible fundamentalists imperialistic" in Monday's Col-

I was thoroughly shocked when I read Caraway's column. I know there are people in the world, along with K-State, who believe as he does. That's his right, as it is the right of all those who think they are nothing more than hairless apes. What shocked me so, aside from the obvious, is his lack of profes-

If he is wanting to become a professional journalist, he should research his topic much more. I would be surprised if any research was even done. There are multitudes of mistakes, not only in his thinking, but also in his information. And that is a lack of professionalism. For example, the Bible is not an "ancient book." Something ancient is something that has no more use today. He may have no use for it, but there are millions of people who do have a use for it.

One think I have learned in my 20 years of life is that if you are going to criticize religion or politics then you had better know what you are talking about. One cannot be opinionated when talking of those two subjects, whether it be in debate or editorial form. And that is what has been done.

Read between the lines, and he is saying he wants religious leaders, such as Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson to stay in the dark, so he and all his friends can abort babies while doing drugs during casual homosexual sex. That's probably not what he means, but that is definitely what he is saying. It is also a lack of professionalism.

Just be a professional. Criticize religion and politics all you want if that's what turns you on. But don't do it wrong. Do it right. Writing affects people. The kind of writing he did is exactly what he was speaking against. Robertson and Falwell imperialistic? You don't have to be famous to be imperialistic.

Wendall Sexton junior in theatre

Death penalty wrong

Re: H.C. Fryer's letter, "Enforce death penalty," in Tuesday's Collegian.

In the last paragraph of his editorial, Fryer poses the question: "Do you believe that if a would-be murderer knew for sure that if he did commit first-degree murder he would die, this would not deter him from that act a very high percent of the time?"

Obviously, Fryer believes so. I, on the other hand, do not.

Why? Everyone who kills, except those who kill in the heated fury of the moment (for example, a jealous lover), prepares a way of escape. The killer never intends to be caught. And in the crimes of profound feeling and heated fury, consequences are thrown to the wind and the certainty of the punishment of death does not prevent the act. I contend that a would-be murderer does not, even if time permits, give any consideration to the punishment that may result from his actions. Man cannot be controlled by fear.

I believe strongly that capital punishment is wrong. I believe that the state continues to kill its victims, not so much to defend society against them - for it could do that equally well by imprisonment - but to appease the mob's emotions of hatred and vengeance.

It is also totally inconceivable that the support for capital punishment is strongest in the so-called Bible Belt of our nation, of which Kansas is definitely a member. (There lies a contradiction somewhere in that fact, but I shall leave the Bible-toting lynch mobs to hunt for it.)

Lastly, I believe it is appropriate to quote Clarence Darrow - once an outspoken leader in the fight against capital punishment - "I may hate the sin, but never the

Richard B. Pride senior in accounting

Both sides of story

Re: George Sutton's guest column, "Bleeding heart' opinions tiresome," in Thursday's Collegian.

I have two things to say: First, as a senior in electrical engineering, you should know by now that a university is a place for sharing opinions and hearing "both sides of the story." If you are tired of that bleeding heart liberalism and you think you have some valid points against them, go ahead, tell the world about it. I'm sure your heart can bleed as good as the next person.

Secondly, my suggestion to you is, if it's that disturbing to read an opinion which differs from your opinion, you have the prerogative not to read it. This is America you know, where apathy is widespread and reading is voluntary.

Aida Dabbas graduate in education

Column lacks reason

Offer good at participating Hardee's* Restaurants.

Re: George Sutton's guest column, "Bleeding heart' opinions tiresome," in Thursday's Collegian.

There is a significant difference between Sutton's column and the editorials he complains about. The recent Collegian editorials, for the most part, have been defensible examples of rational political discourse, complete with evidence, examples and relatively sound reasoning.

Sutton's column, on the other hand, is full of what we do not need more of in American politics: oversimplification, false dichotomies, faulty inferences and ad hominem attacks. At the same time, he fails to provide credible evidence for any of his controversial claims.

Well-reasoned arguments are seldoni tiresome except to those who don't like to think or question their prejudices. Redbaiting, implicit racism and vacuous sloganeering are not only more tiresome they are also more dangerous

Edward Schiappa K-State debate coach

Newspaper half-truths

Re: Kirk Caraway's column, "Reagan's lies, errors endanger U.S." in the Oct. 27 Col-

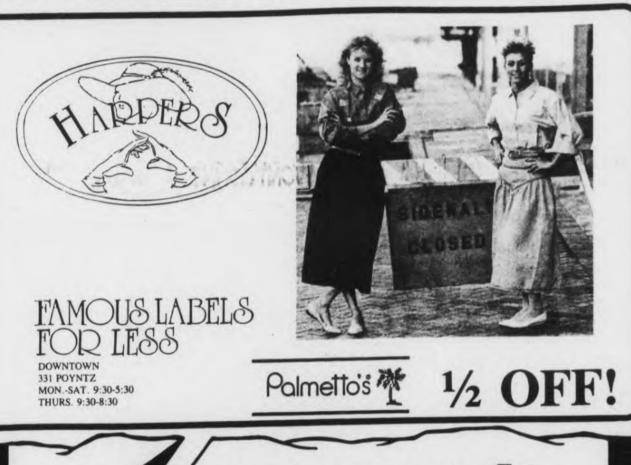

After reading Caraway's column, I found it hard to shake the mental picture comparing Reagan to a toxic waste dump and his farfetched stories to the lethal trash that seeps out of the dump and eventually poisons many innocent people. Why the Collegian continues to tarnish its once shiny name by printing such rubbish I'll never know.

Who has committed a greater wrong? A democratic government, led by a representative twice elected by the people, who attempts to precipitate the unseating of a deranged, murderous, terrorist (Gadhafy) by non-violent means (use of media to create a false sense of insecurity) only after numerous innocent citizens have been butchered in cold blood; or a segment of the media, which was originally founded to present unbiased data to the people, which now spews out biased, one-sided half-truths against some of the most revered positions in our society at an alarming rate.

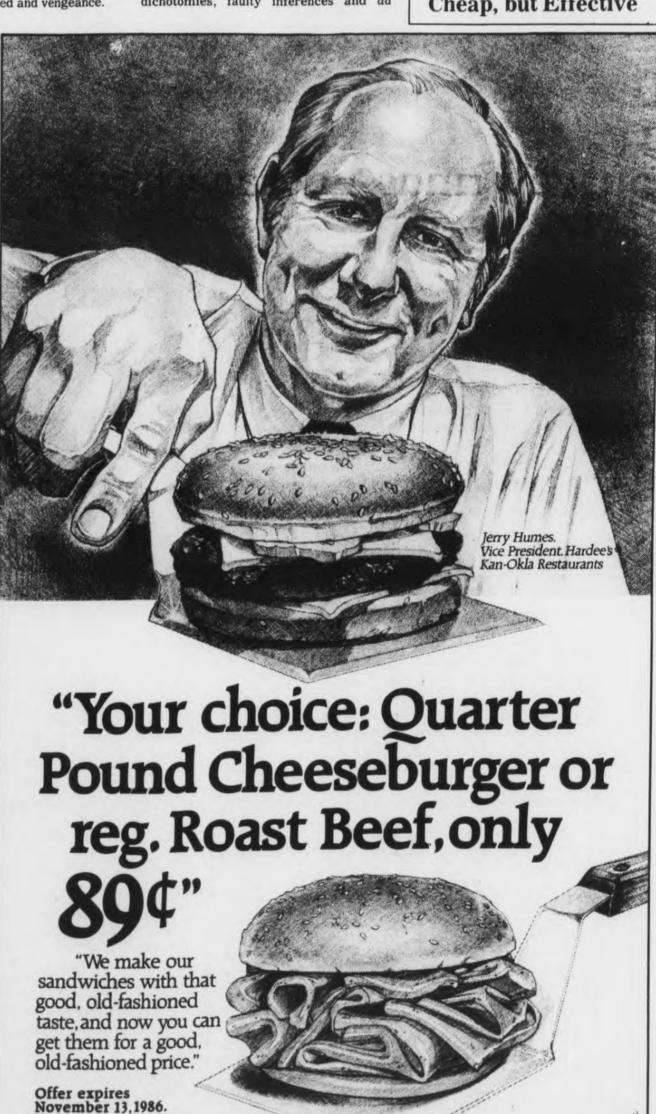

Why is it "bad" for a government to tell half-truths, but "good" for a newspaper to do so? It appears to me to be a classic case of the criminal concealing a smoking pistol beneath his jacket shouting "there he goes, boys" and pointing at a man up the street. Maybe once more readers begin to see through Caraway's treacherous fog of deception, this criminal can be brought to justice.

Rande Repp freshman in general arts and science i

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Hardee's.

By SCOTT ROBERTS Collegian Reporter

The Black Student Union is preparing for its first "Parents Weekend" today and Saturday to help raise funds for the upcoming Big Eight Black Student Government Convention at the University of Oklahoma in February.

The theme of the engagement is "We're Stepping Out," and to encourage parents to participate, the council has scheduled many activities for the weekend, said BSU President Andrea Shelton, senior in human development.

Parents will have the opportunity to attend a special talent contest given by the members of the BSU council Friday, and a chili feed and reception will be Saturday at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries. The weekend will come to a close Saturday evening with a parent-student party from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Union Catskellar.

BSU is a non-profit organization concerned with the issues and activities of the black student, faculty and staff at K-State, Shelton

She said the weekend is an entertainment opportunity for the parents to relax, meet other parents, faculty members and students and to see what is going on at the University.

from the parents weekend activities will help cut the costs of the conference," Sheldon said. the trip to Oklahoma for those members who have come out and supported us and have become said she is asking for support really active with the BSU," said from the Office of Admissions, Tracy Davis, BSU parliamentarian and sophomore in pre-

"The BSU council will have the opportunity to 'network' and exchange ideas with the various other Big Eight BSU councils at the Black Student Government Convention," Shelton said.

"At the conference, we will attend educational workshops where we will discuss issues regarding apathy, discrimination, black greek affairs and black retention rates on Big Eight campuses," she said.

The purpose of the convention is to find resolutions to concerns of the black students who attend Big Eight universities, she said.

The conference will also feature a career and exhibit fair. Prominent black businesses will have booths set up to provide information pertaining to internships, resume tecniques and job open-ings within their companies.

Other scheduled social events include a gospel extravaganza, an all-greek step show and a black king and queen pageant.

The Coca Cola Co. will be sponsoring a special benefit concert for the delegates. The featured guests will include Ashford and Simpson, Debbie Allen, MTUME and Cameo.

"This year the black students at K-State appear to be more involved with the BSU. With this type of enthusiasm among the black "The funds that we will receive students, faculty and staff, success will definitely be achieved at

'Next year the conference will be held at K-State," she said. She SGS office and the Office of the President.

WELCOME PARENTS

Kick-off The Weekend With Us

-SATURDAY-

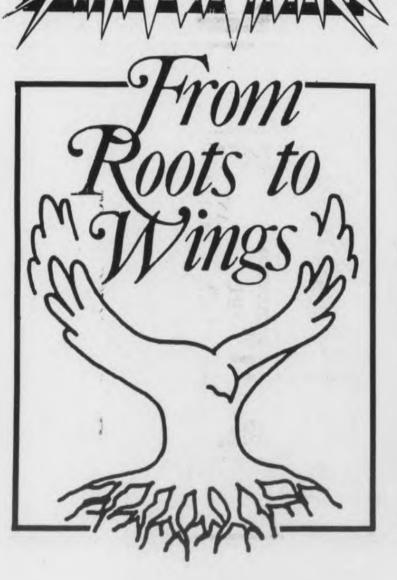

Pre-game Party 10 a.m.

-Coming WEDNESDAY Nov. 12-SWEATER WEATHER CONTEST

Prizes awarded for the most colorful, oldest & weirdest sweaters.

See Monday's ad for more information. —Contest sponsored by BUD LIGHT—

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS!! ALL ITEMS 50% OFF AND MORE! FOUNTAIN YOUTH GIFTS UNIQUE Open Mon.-Sat. FirstBank Center

Panel to name issues affecting farmers

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - State Secretary of Agriculture Sam Brownback announced the formation Thursday of a 14-member panel representing government, businesses and farm groups to "identify issues" that will affect the future of agriculture in Brownback said the Commission on Future of Kansas Agriculture would meet for the first time Nov. 25 and was scheduled to draw up its preliminary findings by March 15. The commission's final report will be due next October, he said.

From the producers of

The HIDING PLACE and JONI...

"THE PRODIGAL is a profound commentary on

Sponsored by Baptist Student Union

"BLUE VELVET is a mystery ... a masterpiece ...

a visionary story of sexual awakening, of good and evil, a trip to the underworld."

"Erotically charged . . . Whether you're attracted or repelled by Lynch's brilliantly bizarre vision, one thing is for sure, you've never seen anything like it in your life."

Blue Velvet

DOLBY STEREO

WESTLOOP

our present condition...a mirror in which we all see ourselves. It is a Christian film in the best and deepest sense. I hope and pray it will reach a wide audience.

Monday, Nov. 10

K-State Union Little Theater

turning point in your life.

A major motion picture that could be the

the realism of the story line—the dialogue—the relevancy of the lyrics of the songs—all of it is first class—plus the incredible

"How long I've longed for films of this caliber to be produced—

"I don't think anyone can contest the fact that agriculture in Kansas is in the process of going through a major change, reorganization that has brought on accompanying trauma and opportunity," Brownback said. Brownback, who will be chairman of the commission, said the state has no control over many decisions affecting the future of Kansas agriculture which will be made at the federal

"But what I'm after is what we in Kansas can do and should do," Brownback said.

For example, Brownback said the commission could make recommen-

FREE ADMISSION PG

DAILY 4:30-7:00-9:30

dations on ways to provide farmers more direct access to consumers.

"We've got 27 farmers markets out there in the state of Kansas and the question is whether we should have 127 or 227," Brownback said.

The commission will be composed of four legislators - two Democrats and two Republicans - three farmers or ranchers, the director of the state Committee on Farm Organizations, and representatives of the Kansas League of Municipalities, Wichita Farm Credit Services, Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Kansas Bankers Association and Kansas

State University's College of Agriculture.

The farmers and ranchers on the commission will be appointed by the State Board of Agriculture, which Brownback said unanimously endorsed the panel's formation.

Brownback said the commission will "identify issues and list alternatives" but should refrain from becoming an advocacy group on ways to solve farmers' problems.

"We hope our vigor and interest in the situation out there in farm country will make this different than just another commission," Brownback

■PARENTS' DAY CONCERT L

MEN'S & WOMEN'S

GLEE CLUBS

(Morris Hayes, guest conductor)

K-STATE SINGERS 8:00 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 8 McCain Auditorium

Reserved Seats $3 Call 532-6428 noon-5 p.m.

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State would like to mvite you to bbat Services

p.m.

nhattan is Congregation 1509 Weath Ave.

Oneg (Food!) to follow

For a ride, call 776-1963 or Victor Force at 776-8325

MAT. SAT./SUN. 2 p.m. 5% OR

SUNDAY

*WINTER COATS *SWEATERS

*LEVIS

*SHIRTS

*JEAN JACKETS

*SPORT COATS

*SOCK & TIES

ON SALE SATURDAY and SUNDAY ONLY

SATURDAY 10-6 OPEN SUNDAY 1-5

Parents'-Weekend-86

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7

8 a.m.-5 p.m., Art Display, K-State Union Art Gallery 7 and 9:30 p.m., Film, "Murphy's Romance," Forum Hall, Union lower level 8 p.m., Orchestra Concert, McCain Auditorium

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8

9 a.m.-Noon, Engineering Reception and Tours, Reception in the Atrium of Durland Hall

Tours of Durland, Seaton and Ward 10 a.m.-3 p.m., Campus Tours

BEFERT AND AND PROPERTY OF THE PERTY.

Walking and video tours begin at the Union 9:30-11 a.m., Arts and Science Scholarship Reception, fover of McCain Auditorium

10-10:45 a.m., Mini-Classroom Sessions, 1. "Three-Mile Island, Chernobyl - And Facts of Life,"

2. "Motivation Factors in Our Consuming Society," Union

3. "Operational Amplifiers: Concepts and Analysis," Union

10 a.m., Flag Football Intramural Game Between K-State Champs and Fort Riley

11 a.m.-1 p.m., Pre-Game Buffet, Bluemont Room, Union

Second Floor Noon-3 p.m., Static Military Equipment Display at the football stadium

1:30 p.m., Football Game

KSU vs. Oklahoma State Univ. at the football stadium Halftime, Introduction of the All-University Parents 5:30-7 p.m., Parents' Weekend Buffet, Union Ballroom, second floor

7 and 9:30 p.m., "Murphy's Romance," Union Forum

8 p.m., Singers and Glee Concert, McCain Auditorium

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 9

2 p.m.-4 p.m., Fairchild Area Open House of selected fraternities and sororities

Cut and Save

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut for the 1986-87 season.

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

CONCENTRATION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY O

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

> By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not.

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that.

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, "you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.'

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch."

Of the 14 players suiting up for the 'Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season - especially in the scoring depart-

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I

g man whose ng everyday. ing up - he's elf-esteem is He is feeling d I think if he afidence, he I good player

ajority of the he great size 's major colhough a firm rs quick, ac-: players that

), playing a s the lack of ger, who has -and-cut type are just try atton. directly after

'opeka for an at Washburn Center. The ison Nov. 29 la State in hits ith un

IEILIGEN orter

ty athletic udget cuts, thletes and empting to ³ financial tous fund-teams and ti are spon-4 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some

p our track s currently in the Big iid. ck team) s needed to no one is it and help noney," he to 50 track and five ipate in the ations will h lap ran. are giving ch lap we

o K-State, l at Nory where he run-a-thons oximately time event of $10,000 is :hievable, k we might ttle."

s just one is attempdget cuts. ing home the forma-IN, Page 8

(The system) is just as new to the Entertainment Plus eisure Arts — A Weekly Feature of the Collegian November 7, 1986 INSIDE: Art for Auction, p. 3 Versatile Horn, p. 4 For a Song, p. 6

Women's by Mossman is to bring succe gram this see "I think we season on it said during n Ahearn Field big, and we'r been in past bunch that he they work ha "It's not n you're bankir have a lot of (of young won going to get s Mossman g 16-13 last seas

the Big Eigl players retur Mossman is assimilating i to the system "You have "

K-State C doesn't hesita thinks it's g Wildcats to Saturday. Parrish's a the point: stop Hart Lee Dyl play duo.

However, ke and Dykes, tw ference's mos be an easy ass Thomas, a year, has got ting start this the first eight 191-pound so come on in gaining 170 y 24-6 win over and 70 last we "We've got got to contain Parrish said. the big play of To say the major factor wins over Kyears. In 1984 listed as a thir 206 yards in a victory at KS Thomas score first quarter a rushing in a Stillwater.

"They give back and he c K-State defen said. "He does run the ball ar do is over-pu he's so quick t den cut back field."

Dykes, the player in the presents a dif He has 40 pa yards and for sorely test me improving Wi has been ridd "We've got

we can on Dy! "He's a big p Oklahoma last year incl

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut

Women's be

Mossman is to bring succ

gram this ser

said during n

Ahearn Field

big, and we're

been in past;

bunch that ha

they work har

you're bankin

have a lot of c

of young wom

going to get s

Mossman gi

16-13 last seas

the Big Eigh

players retur Mossman is 1

assimilating &

to the system "You have t

K-State Co

doesn't hesitat

thinks it's ge

Wildcats to t

Parrish's ar

the point: stop

Hart Lee Dyk play duo.

However, k€ and Dykes, two ference's most

be an easy ass Thomas, a year, has gott ting start this the first eight 191-pound sop

come on in I

Stillwater.

"They give back and he c

K-State defen said. "He doe:

run the ball ar.

do is over-pu

he's so quick t

den cut back

Dykes, the player in the presents a dit

He has 40 pa

yards and four sorely test mer

improving Wil

has been riddle

we can on Dyke

"He's a big pla

last year inclu

Oklahoma S

"We've got t

field."

Saturday.

"It's not m

"I think we season on ir as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

Television Index KSNT (NBC) WIBW (CBS) KLDH (ABC) KSHB (IND) KTWU (PBS) WGN (IND) WTBS (IND) Premium cable: HBO, Showtime,

Friday, November 7, 1986

CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Printertainment

EDITOR Chris Stewart ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Laurie Fairburn PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Jim Dietz ADVERTISING MANAGER Patti Hannan GRAPHIC ARTIST

Carlos Corredor

On Our Cover

The versatile tones of the saxophone make it "The Horn of Plenty," as Kenny Glover, sophomore in musical education, knows. Invented in 1838, it was not until the early 1900s that the sax gained credibility and widespread use in dance bands and symphonies. The sax was part of French military bands in the 1800s and the instrument began appearing in vaudeville bands after the turn of the century.

Flowers are courtesy of Aggieville Flower. Illustration by Chris Stewart.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------------|------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo, | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Wholly | Tale Theatre
Movie: | "Dreamchild"
Cont'd | Business
SportsCente |
| 8:00 | " | " " | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Moses!" | "The Quinns" | Movie:
"The Four | SpeedWeek
Auto Racing |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil, Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Rancho | Movie:
"Prime Risk" | Movie:
"The Last | Seasons" | IMSA GT
Series |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Notorious" | " | Run", | Movie:
"Bringing Up | Auto Racing
SportsLook |
| 11:30 | Password | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Society
Society | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"A Matter Of | Movie:
"Bad | Baby'' | Aerobics
Running |
| 12:30 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"The | Life And
Death" | Medicine" | Movie:
"Steel" | CFL Footba
B.C. at |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Mysteryl | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Migrants"
WomanWatch | Flashback | Movie:
"I Know Why | " | Winnipeg |
| 2:30 | 141101010101 | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Kitchen
Painting | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Prof. Beetoven
Worst Witch | The Caged
Bird Sings" | "Mad Max
Beyond | Auto Racin
Frontier 50 |
| 3:00 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurts | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | " | Thanksgiving
Movie: | Thunder-
dome" | Roller Derb |
| A:00 | Diff. Strokes | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Movie:
"Florida | "The Quinns" | Movie:
"Dreamchild" | Sallboardin
Fishing |
| 5:00
5:30 | | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | Straits" | I'm A Fool | Movie: | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNell /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Inside The
NFL | Faerie Tale
Theatre | "Hollywood
Ghost Stories" | SportsCent
Wrestling |
| 7:00 | | Scarecrow | Webster
Mr. Belvedere | Barnaby Jones | Wash, Week
Wall St, Wk. | Movie:
"Cahill: United | NBA
Basketball | Movie:
"Bad | Movie:
"Bad | Movie:
"The Goonies" | Racing |
| 8:00 | | And Mrs. King
Dallas | SI. Hammer
Sidekicks | National
Geographic | Economics
McLaughlin | States
Marshal" | Chicago Bulls at Detroit | Medicine" | Medicine" | | Top Rank
Boxing |
| 9:00 | | Falcon Crest | Starmen | National Geographic | Innovation
Market | News | Pistons
Sanford | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Eric Clapton
And Friends | Movie:
"Night Patrol" | Tyrone Trio
vs. Luis |
| 10:00 | News | News
Come | Buddles
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Night Tracks -
Power Play | " | Movie:
"Nightmare On | M. Headroom | Santana
SportsCent |
| 11:30 | Tonight " | Dating Game
Lifestyles | Movie: | News
Movie: | Ctry. Express | "Legend Of The | Night Tracks | Movie:
"The Holcroft | Elm Street"
Messiest Of | Movie:
"Snow | NFL Game
Hydroplane |
| 12:30 | Evening News | Be Thinner
CHIPs | " " | "Wake Island" | | Seven Golden
Vampires" | Night Tracks | Covenant" | Gallagher | Bunnies"
Movie | Racing
Running |

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|-------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------------------|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|--------------------------|--------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | | B'stain Bears
Wildfire | Wuzzles
Care Bears | Tom And Jerry
Kideo TV | Algebra | Farm Report
World Tom. | Wrestling | Movie:
"Runaway" | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | "Continental
Divide" Cont'd | Fishin' Hole |
| 8:00 | Smurfs | Muppets | Flintstone
Kids | " " | Deaf Mosaic
Hometime | Charlando
Business | National
Geographic | Cont'd
The Talk Show | "Polly Of The Circus" | Movie:
"Gremlins" | Fishing
Fishing |
| 9:00 | Chipmunks | Playhouse
Teen Wolf | Ghostbusters
Pd. Pupples | Bugs Bunny
And Porky Pig | S. Previews
Old House | People
Wild Kingdom | Explorer | Inside The
NFL | Movie:
"Royal | " | Running
Boating |
| 10:30 | Foofur
Universe | Galaxy High
Circus | Bugs Bunny
New Ewoks | Puttin' On | Motorweek
Dr. Marc | Photon
Transformers | Cimarron Strip | Movie:
"Johnny | Wedding" | Movie:
"King Kong" | Outdoors |
| 11:00 | Locker Room
College | Hulk Hogan | Weekend
Littles | Lifestyles | Painting
Vict. Garden | Jem
Movie: | College | Dangerously"
Movie: | Movie:
"Amadeus" | : | SpoCtr.
Horse Show |
| 12:30 | Football
Nebraska at | News
TBA | Bandstand
Dukes Of | Lost In Space | Sesame Street | "Stampede" | Football
Vanderbilt at | "Protocol" | . " | In America
Movie | Jumping |
| 1:00 | Iowa State | Be Thinner
College | Hazzard
Taxi | Incredible
Hulk | Write Course
Write Course | Movie: | Kentucky | Movie: | " | : | Racquetball |
| 2:00 | " Ninth Crusade | Football
North | Pregame
College | Bionic Woman | Society
Society | "Tarzan And
The Amazons" | " | "Irreconcilable
Differences" | Q.E.D. | British Rock | Auto Racing
World Sports |
| 3:00 | Auto Racing | Carolina at Clemson | Football
Miami at | Battlestar
Galactica | Psychology
Psychology | Soul Train | Bonanza | All-Star Rock | Movie:
"Explorers" | Movie:
"Gremlins" | Car Fuji 1000
Trap Shoot |
| 4:00 | Auto Racing | " " | Pittsburgh | Buck Rogers | Congress
Congress | Puttin' On
Good Times | O. Wilson
Motorweek | Concert
Movie: | " | ,, | Women's
Bowling |
| 5:00 | | Own Backyard
CBS News | " | Black Sheep
Squadron | GED
GED | It's A Living
Big Family | Wrestling | "Victor /
Victoria" | Bobby And
Sarah | Movie:
"Continental | Pro Tour
Scholastic |
| 6:00 | | Mama's Family
Country Music | Buddies
9 To 5 | Throb
Big Family | Creatures
Great & Small | Country
At The Movies | College
Football | | Movie:
"A Christmas | Divide" | F'ball Scores
College |
| | Facts Of Life | Wizard | Life With Lucy
Ellen Burstyn | Lifestyles | WndrWks. | Movie:
"Death Wish | Cal-Berkeley
at Ariz. St. | Movie:
"Power" | Story" | Movie:
"Serial" | Football
Louisiana |
| 0:00 | Golden Girls | Movie:
"Lassiter" | Heart Of The
City | Movie:
"My Darling | Austin City
Limits | II" | | n. | Movie:
"Amadeus" | In America | State at
Alabama |
| 9:30 | | Lassiter | Spenser: For Hire | Clementine" | Special Oper. | News | Sanford | Movie:
"Porky's II: | ii. | Movie:
"Ellie" | " |
| 10:30 | | News | Taxi | M.T. Moore
Movie: | I, Claudius | Write Songs
Lifestyles | Night Tracks:
Chartbusters | The Next Day"
Movie: | | Movie: | F'ball Rpt.
SportsCenter |
| 4 4:00 | Saturday | Solid Gold | Movie: | "Damien: | Ferlinghetti's | Police Story | Night Tracks | "Runaway" | Movie | "Lovelines" | Wrestling |
| 1 1:30 | _ | It's A Living At The Movies | Saddles" | Omen II" | | " " " " " " " " " " " " " " " " " " " | Night Tracks | Movie | Movie:
"Wild Life" | Movie | College
Football |

Centucky Fried Chicken. 9 PIECES ONLY $7.29

CONTRACTOR SERVED CONTRACTOR SECTION S

12:30 MTV Top 20

*Great for tailgate parties or post-game celebrations! 3002 Anderson

Expires 11-13-86

ENJOY YOUR LEISURE TIME! Discover LAUNDRY LAND

Drop off your laundry . . . we'll do it for you 7 days a week!

Bring us all your washables for same day wash-dry-fold laundry service. Dry cleaning and self service also available. Try our quick professional service, you'll be glad you did! 2048 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-1939

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 - the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not.'

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, "you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch."

Of the 14 players suiting up for the 'Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons play ing a more dynamic role this season especially in the scoring depart-

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I

g man whose ng everyday. ing up - he's elf-esteem is He is feeling d I think if he afidence, he I good player

ajority of the he great size 's major colhough a firm rs quick, acplayers that the lack of ger, who has and-cut type are just tryation. lirectly after

), playing a opeka for an at Washburn lenter. The son Nov. 29 a State in hits ith un

EILIGEN orter y athletic idget cuts, hletes and empting to financial ous fund-eams and i are spon-1 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some our track : currently in the Big id.

k team) needed to no one is t and help ioney," he

to 50 track and five pate in the ations will h lap ran. are giving ch lap we

o K-State, at Nory where he run-a-thons oximately time event of $10,000 is hievable.' k we might tle."

: just one is attempiget cuts. ng home he forma-V. Page 8 gaining 170 y: 24-6 win over ! and 70 last we "We've got got to contain Parrish said. the big play or To say the major factor wins over Kyears. In 1984 listed as a thir 206 yards in a victory at KS Thomas score first quarter a rushing in a

f/John Thela

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut

Women's be

Mossman is to bring succe

gram this see

said during n

Ahearn Field

big, and we're

been in past ;

bunch that ha

they work har

you're bankin

have a lot of c

of young wom

going to get s

16-13 last seas

the Big Eigh

players retur

Mossman is 1

assimilating s

to the system

"You have t

K-State Co

doesn't hesitat

thinks it's ge

Wildcats to t

Parrish's at

the point: stop

Hart Lee Dyk

However, ke

and Dykes, two

ference's most

be an easy ass

Thomas, a

year, has gott

ting start this

the first eight

191-pound sop

come on in I

gaining 170 y

24-6 win over !

and 70 last we got to contain

Parrish said.

the big play or

To say the major factor

wins over K-

years. In 1984

listed as a thir

206 yards in a victory at KS!

Thomas score

first quarter a rushing in a

"They give

back and he c

K-State defen

said. "He does

run the ball ar

do is over-pu

he's so quick t

den cut back

Dykes, the

player in the

presents a dif

He has 40 pa

vards and four sorely test me

improving Wil-

has been riddle

"We've got I we can on Dyke

"He's a big pla

last year inclu

Oklahoma S

field."

Stillwater.

"We've got

Saturday.

play duo.

Mossman gi

this year.'

"It's not m

"I think we season on ir as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares for the 1986-87 season.

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

Art auction to raise funds for scholars

By MARTA MONTGOMERY Collegian Reporter

Almost 90 pieces of artwork have been donated for sale at the seventh annual Art Scholarship Auction, sponsored by the Department of Art and Union National Bank and Trust Co.

An exhibit of the artwork opens tomorrow at Union National Bank and Trust Co., 727 Poyntz Ave., and will remain on display until the auction Nov. 14.

Alumni, faculty, students, recipients of art scholarships from K-State and community art patrons donated the artwork, which are auctioned to raise funds for art scholarships. Pat Hagan, instructor of art, said the auction is expected to raise approximately $10,000.

Although there is no minimum bid on any piece, Hagan said people may submit written bids before the auction begins. In that case, the bidding will begin with the price offered on the written bid.

Hagan said one name which is expected to draw a great deal of attention is alumni Alan Shields, an internationally known artist.

"He probably has a piece of work in every museum in New York City," Hagan said. "He has work in the Spenser Museum in Lawrence, and the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, Mo. I could go on and on." She said it is not unlikely that his work will be bid on before the auction begins

Tickets for the auction are $20 per person; $25 per couple. When a person is the highest bidder on a piece, the price of the ticket is deducted from the amount they

Hagan said it is difficult to predict how many people will attend the auction. Last year approximately 100 bid numbers were issued, but a larger number of people were in attendance. This year they expect to see the same number of people.

Three thousand fliers have been sent to faculty at universities across Kansas, art patrons, K-State alumni and Kansas museums informing them of the Preceding the 8 p.m. auction will be a wine and cheese party with a viewing of the art at 7.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------------|------------------------------|---------------------------------|--------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | | Jerry Falwell | Jimmy
Swaggart | Superfriends
Superfriends | Algebra | R. Schuller
Of Faith | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Fraggle Rock
Movie: | Moonstone
Gem | Movie:
"Cocoon" | College
Football |
| | | Discovery | Kenneth
Copeland | Wrestling | Sesame Street | Sunday Mass
Superman | Cont'd
Andy Griffith | "Eleni" | Faerie Tale
Theatre | " | SpeedWeek
Magic Years |
| 9:30 | | Truth Oral Roberts | It Is Written
David Brinkley | Wild, Wild
West | Mister Rogers
Special | Cisco Kid
Lone Ranger | Good News
Movie: | Movie: | Movie:
"Gremlins" | Movie:
"Twentieth | Scholastic
SpoCtr. |
| 10:30 | Swaggart | Sunday | Abb. & Cost. | Maverick | Sesame Street | Rawhide | "North By Northwest" | "The Bride" | : | Century"
Movie: | SportsCenter
Sunday: NFL |
| 4 4:00 | World Tom. Meet Press | Morning | Wrestling | Star Trek | Reading
Secret City | Wild, Wild
West | " | Moments In | Paper Chase | "The Final
Countdown" | Gameday
NFL Game |
| 4 0:00 | B. Valesente
Spts. Legend | NFL Today NFL Football | Movie:
"Blazing | Movie:
"Tarzan's | Wash. Week
Wall St. Wk. | Movie | Movie: | Sports
Movie: | Movie:
"Stop, You're | Movie: | Auto Racing
S. Remo Rall |
| 1 ≥:30 | Child's Fund
Movie: | Washington Redskins at | Saddles" | Secret
Treasure" | Money World
Vintage Years | Movie: | "Doctor
Zhivago" | "Movers & Shakers" | Killing Me"
Movie: | "Just The Way
You Are" | Auto Racing
Formula One |
| 2:00 | "Walk, Don't
Run" | Packers | Kung Fu | Movie:
"Ma And Pa | Shakespeare
Hour | "Union
Station" | | Not News
Movie: | "Jaws" | M. Headroom | Grand Prix o
Australia |
| 0:00 | NFL Football | NFL Football | Movie:
"Walking Tail, | Kettle At
Waikiki" | Firing Line | Movie: | " | "Kidço" | Movie: | Movie:
"Jaws" | Auto Racing
LPGA Golf |
| 4:00 | Chargers at | St. Louis Cardinals at | Part 2" | Movie:
"The Ghost | TBA
Espanol | "Rio Grande" | World Of | Fraggle Rock | "The Minstrel
Man" | " | Mazda Japar
Classic |
| 4:30
5:30 | Denver | San Francisco
49ers | Fame | And Mrs.
Muir" | The Africans | Fame | Audubon
New Beaver | Movie:
"Grease" | Movie: | Movie: | Roller Derby |
| 6:30 | | 60 Minutes | Disney Sunday
Movie | Solid Gold | Wild America
Nature Profiles | The Land And | Wrestling | " | "Victor /
Victoria" | "Weird
Science" | SportsCente
NFL Stars |
| 7:00 | | Murder, She
Wrote | morio | New Gidget
It's A Living | Nature | Its People
Love Boat | National
Geographic | Movie:
"The Bride" | : | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Wrestling |
| | "Perry Mason:
The Case Of | Movie:
"Monte Carlo" | Movie:
"Splash" | Ted Knight
Check It Out! | Masterpiece
Theatre | Odd Couple | Explorer |  | Movie:
"Death Wish | " | |
| 9:30 | | " | " | Tales
Write Songs | Great
Performances | News | Sports Page
Jerry Falwell | Moments In
Sports | 3"
Brothers | Movie:
"Blow Out" | Billiards
World Open |
| 10:30 | | News
Big Family | Taxi
Football | Mama's Family
Movie: | Movie:
"Mrs. Mike" | Tales
Lou Grant | J. Ankerberg | Movie:
"No Small | Bizarre
Movie: | " | SportsCente |
| 4 4:00 | Stan Parrish | Business Day
Review | Mannix | "The Man Who
Knew Too | , | Fame | Jimmy
Swaggart | Affair" | "Gremlins" | Movie:
"The Final | NFL's Greate
Moments |
| 1 1:30 | Gene Scott | THE THE T | Fame | Much" | | Cannon | World Tom. | Movie: | Movie | Countdown"
Movie | Top Rank
Boxing |

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|------------------------------|-------------------------|----------------------------|
| 7:00 | | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"One On One" | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"Angel And | Business
SportsCente |
| 8:30 | | " | " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | | Underground" | The Badman" | Play Golf
LPGA Golf |
| 9:30 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"The Easy | Movie:
'Transylvania | Movie:
"The Outrage" | MaxTrax
Movie: | Mazda Japa
Classic |
| 10:30 | Januardi. | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Way", | 6-5000" | " | "Dummy" | Sports
SportsLook |
| 1 1:00 | Password | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Second-Hand | Movie:
"Hambone | Movie: | Aerobics
Road Racing |
| 12:30 | News | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"An Annapolis | Hearts" | And Hillie"
Movie: | "American
Dreamer" | College
Football |
| | Lives | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nature | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Story" | Movie:
"Breakin' 2 | "Major
Barbara" | Movie: | " |
| 2:30 | | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | TBA
McLaughlin | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Electric
Boogaloo" | " | "Great
Expectations" | |
| 3:00 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurts | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | High Powder | Peter No-Tail | Movie: | Wrestling |
| | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Movie:
"The River" | Redhawk | "Our Time" | Cup
Fishing |
| | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | New Beaver
Down To Earth | | Monkey's Paw
Music School | Movie:
"Cat Ballou" | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 6:00 | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Fraggle Rock | Q.E.D. | " | SportsCente
NFL Films |
| 7:00 | | Kate & Allie
My Sister Sam | MacGyver | Barnaby Jones | Universe
Changed | National
Geographic | Movie:
"All The Fine | Movie:
"Transylvania | Picnic | Movie:
"Dummy" | Magic Years
NFL Matchu |
| 8:00 | | Movie:
"Monte Carlo" | NFL Football
Miami | Movie:
"A Little | Making Of A
Continent | National
Geographic | Young
Cannibals" | 6-5000" | " | " | Skate
America |
| 9:00 | | " " | Dolphins at
Cleveland | Romance" | Story Of
English | News | Movie: | Surveillance | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"American | Roller Derby |
| 10:30 | News | News
Dating Game | Browns | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | "The Woman
Hunter" | Movie:
"Choose Me" | Underground" | Dreamer" | Racing
SportsCenter |
| 11:00 | 0 | Night Heat | Football
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | J. McLaughlin | Movie: | National
Geographic | " | Movie:
"Red Sonja" | Movie:
"Key | Bodybuildin
Mixed Pairs |
| 12:00 | Letterman | Movie:
"Possessed" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Land Of The
Pharaohs" | Explorer | Movie:
"Nutcracker" | Movie | Exchange"
Movie | Triathlon |

Lee's Western Wear

$5 OFF

—All Women's Boots!

*In stock only

Open: 9-5:30 Daily, 9-8:30 Thurs. Located 21/2 miles east on Hwy. 24 (With Coupon) Expires 11/15/86

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 — the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not."

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, "you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor."

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch."

Of the 14 players suiting up for the 'Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons. A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season — especially in the scoring department.

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "1

g man whose ng everyday, ing up — he's self-esteem is He is feeling d I think if he ufidence, he I good player

ajority of the he great size 's major colhough a firm rs quick, acplayers that

o, playing a the lack of ger, who has and-cut type are just tryation."

lirectly after 'opeka for an at Washburn Center. The son Nov. 29 a State in hits ith un

IEILIGEN orter

ty athletic udget cuts, thletes and empting to a financial lous fund-

teams and ti are spon-4 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some p our track s currently in the Big uid.

s needed to no one is at and help noney," he

to 50 track and five pate in the ations will h lap ran. are giving ch lap we

o K-State, at Nory where he cun-a-thons oximately time event of $10,000 is thievable," k we might ttle."

s just one is attempdget cuts. ing home the forma-IN, Page 8

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut

Women's b

Mossman is to bring succ

gram this se

said during

Ahearn Field

big, and we'r

been in past bunch that h

they work ha

you're banki

have a lot of

of young wo

going to get wossman 16-13 last se€

the Big Ei

players retu

Mossman is

assimilating

to the system "You have

K-State

doesn't hesit thinks it's

Wildcats to Parrish's

the point: st

Hart Lee D

However,

and Dykes,

ference's m

be an easy

Thomas.

year, has g

ting start th

the first eig

191-pound s

come on ir gaining 170

24-6 win ove

and 70 last v

got to conta

Parrish said

the big play

To say th

major facto

years. In 19

listed as a th

206 yards ir victory at F

Thomas sco

first quarter

rushing in Stillwater.

back and he

K-State def

said. "He de run the ball

do is over-

he's so quic

den cut bac

Dykes, th

player in th

field."

"They giv wins over

"We've go

play duo.

Saturday.

this year.'

"It's not 1

"I think we season on

as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

Friday, November 7, 1986

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not."

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, 'you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.'

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition. 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch.'

Of the 14 players suiting up for the Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons. A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season - especially in the scoring depart-

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I g man whose ng everyday. ing up - he's elf-esteem is He is feeling d I think if he afidence, he l good player

ajority of the he great size 's major colhough a firm rs quick, ac-: players that the lack of ger, who has -and-cut type are just try ation. lirectly after

), playing a

'opeka for an at Washburn Center. The son Nov. 29 a State in

The first recording of saxophone music was made on April 23, 1892, by a woman named Bessie Meeklens. She performed 12 saxophone solos with piano accompaniment, mostly slowpaced, simple pieces.

The popularity of the saxophone exploded after 1918, causing, says Gee, "a much greater furor than the electric guitar of the 1960s." Saxophone groups became widely

Lefebre, known as the "Saxophone

1870s and 1880s, and joined the band of with his own quartet in the early 1900s.

Lefebre also supervised the construc-

King," was a popular soloist in the John Philip Sousa. He became an tion of the first saxophone in the Adolphe Sax.

American citizen in 1884, and toured

United States in 1885. The design, of course, was based on the model by popular on the vaudeville stage, bringing criticism from members of the "legitimate" world of music. Yet, against the end of World War I and the roaring '20s, criticism went virtually unnoticed.

From 1919 to 1925, more than 500,000 saxophones were sold. Times were good, people felt like dancing and the dance orchestras added this new instrument. As jazz left New Orleans for places like Chicago and Kansas City, the saxophone was added to the trio of cornet, clarinet and trombone. People like Lester Young and Charley Parker, who had popularized the jam session in Kansas City, took their innovations and variations to New York. There, the small jazz bands grew into Big Bands, and the mood-provoking tones of the sax were here to stay.

From that time, the credibility of the saxophone has never been in question.

the Horn of Plenty

hether it pours out low and slow as heavy molasses, or pierces the night like the silver streak of a shooting star, there's no mistaking the sound of a saxophone.

Since its invention, the saxophone has found a place in French military bands, symphonies, dance halls, jazz jam sessions, big bands and today's pop music. But it wasn't always considered a respectable instrument. And whether you're more familiar with Clarence Clemons and David Sandborn or Rudy Wiedoeft and Charlie Parker, the history of the saxophone is a story to tell.

Its inventor was Antoine-Joseph Sax, later known as Adolphe Sax, a Frenchman born Nov. 6, 1814. His father, Charles-Joseph Sax, was a cabinetmaker and amateur musician who played the serpent — a bass wood instrument covered with leather, now obsolete. Forced to move his family to Brussels after the factory he worked in closed, Charles began to make instruments - serpents and flutes at first, then clarinets, bassoons and brass instruments. His craftsmanship gained him quite a reputation, and at age 27 he was appointed by King William I to be the official instrument-maker of the court of the Netherlands.

Adolphe, one of 11 children, experimented with bits of metal in his father's workshop, making toys. Encouraged by his father to study the structure of instruments as they were being made, Adolphe was able to make keys and other instrument parts by his early teens. At 14, he became a student at the Royal School of Singing (forerunner of the Royal Conservatory) and studied the clarinet.

Described in many historical sources as a virtuoso, his inventiveness and skill pulled him away from performance study and inspired him to attempt improvements on his instrument. At 16, he entered two flutes and a clarinet, all made of solid ivory, for display at the Brussels Exhibition. He received encouraging response, and five years later his 24-key clarinet received honorable mention. In "Saxophone Soloists and their Music, 1844-1985," author Harry R. Gee writes that the specifications and boring techniques used for this instrument, first designed in 1838, have remained unrivaled to this day.

Sax continued to design woodwind and brass instruments, and his achievements provided the impetus for another form: a conical-shaped reed instrument made of brass. He entered his instruments in the 1841 Belgian Exhibition.

Yet his genius was also a source of frustration. Although the judging committee recommended he receive the highest award, he was denied the First Gold Medal on the grounds that, at 27, he was too young for such an honor. Disgusted, he moved to Paris.

It was in Paris that Sax perfected his design and construction of the saxophone, and on June 28, 1846, a patent was issued for his family of saxophones.

The tonal quality and the harmonious possibilities intrigued and impressed both friends and contemporary composers, and, though approached cautiously, compositions were written to include or feature the saxophone.

One of the earliest admirers was Georges Kastner, secretary to the commissioner of French military music. He wrote an instructional method for use in the regiments, securing a position for the saxophone in infantry and cavalry bands by 1867.

As early as 1846, the saxophone was being taught in Paris; by 1850, it was being taught in Switzerland. Sax himself became professor of saxophone at the Paris Conservatory in 1857 and continued teaching for 13 years, instructing more than 150 students. In 1870, defeat in the Franco-Prussian War financially brought an end to saxophone study at the Conservatory. Although strong support for the saxophone waned, it continued to be taught at regional conservatories through the early 1900s.

Sax died in 1894, and much of the interest in the saxophone died soon after. Although composer-friends of Sax made occasional efforts to use the instrument, most composers regressed to their earlier methods of orchestration. The saxophone might still live a subdued existence, primarily in the French military bands, except it became known to the British and Americans early in the 20th century.

To be credited for promoting the saxophone, especially in England and the United States, is Edouard A. Lefebre. After meeting Sax in Paris, Lefebre promised to devote his life to the study of the saxophone and promoting its use. He toured widely in Europe and came to the United States where he was a featured soloist with the 22nd Regiment Band in New York City on Nov. 18, 1873. By the end of the 1800s, a saxophone section was included in most American bands.

un

IEILIGEN orter ty athletic udget cuts. thletes and empting to tous fund-teams and ti are spon-4 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some p our track s currently) in the Big aid.

ck team) s needed to e no one is it and help noney," he

to 50 track and five ipate in the lations will th lap ran. are giving ich lap we to K-State, d at Norty where he run-a-thons coximately

-time event of $10,000 is chievable, ik we might ittle. is just one

1 is attempidget cuts. ring home the forma-

UN, Page 8

last year in

Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut for the 1986-87 season.

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

> By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 - the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not.'

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, "you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.'

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch."

Of the 14 players suiting up for the 'Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons, A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season - especially in the scoring depart-

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I

g man whose ng everyday. ing up - he's elf-esteem is He is feeling d I think if he afidence, he I good player

ajority of the he great size 's major colhough a firm rs quick, ac-: players that

), playing a

; the lack of

ger, who has

-and-cut type are just try ation. lirectly after 'opeka for an at Washburn Center. The son Nov. 29

a State in

hits ith un

IEILIGEN orter

ty athletic udget cuts, thletes and empting to a financial tous fund-

teams and ti are spon-4 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some p our track s currently) in the Big aid.

ck team) s needed to e no one is it and help noney," he

to 50 track and five ipate in the lations will th lap ran. are giving ich lap we

to K-State, 'i at Norty where he run-a-thons coximately

-time event of $10,000 is chievable. ak we might ittle."

is just one

1 is attempidget cuts. ring home the forma-UN, Page 8

Friday, November 7, 1986 Story by Laurie Fairburn Illustration by Chris Stewart

Women's ba Mossman is c to bring succe gram this sear "I think we season on ir said during n Ahearn Field

big, and we're

been in past y

bunch that ha they work har "It's not m you're bankin have a lot of c of young wom going to get si

Mossman gi 16-13 last seas the Big Eigh players retur; Mossman is assimilating s to the system "You have t

K-State Co doesn't hesital thinks it's go Wildcats to t Saturday.

Parrish's at the point: stop Hart Lee Dyk play duo. However, ke and Dykes, two ference's most be an easy ass Thomas, a year, has gott ting start this the first eight 191-pound sop come on in 1 and 70 last we "We've got got to contain Parrish said. the big play or gaining 170 y 24-6 win over!

To say the major factor wins over Kyears. In 1984 listed as a thir 206 yards in a victory at KS Thomas score first quarter a rushing in a Stillwater.

"They give back and he c K-State defen said. "He doe run the ball ar do is over-pu he's so quick t den cut back : field."

Dykes, the player in the presents a dit He has 40 pa yards and four sorely test me improving Wilhas been riddle

"We've got I we can on Dyke "He's a big pla Oklahoma S last year inclu

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut

By RON RENO

Women's b

Mossman is to bring succe

gram this se-

said during n

Ahearn Field

big, and we'r

been in past bunch that he

they work has "It's not m

you're bankir

have a lot of c

of young won

going to get s

Mossman g

16-13 last seas

the Big Eigl

players retur

Mossman is assimilating s

to the system

"You have !

K-State Co

doesn't hesitat

thinks it's ge

Wildcats to 1

Parrish's ar

the point: stop

Hart Lee Dyk

However, ke

and Dykes, two

ference's most

be an easy ass

Thomas, a

year, has gott

ting start this

the first eight

191-pound sop

come on in r

gaining 170 y

24-6 win over 1

and 70 last wegot to contain

Parrish said.

the big play or

major factor

wins over K-

years. In 1984.

listed as a thir

206 yards in ε

victory at KSI

Thomas scor€

first quarter a

rushing in a

"They give !

back and he c

K-State defen

said. "He does

run the ball an

do is over-pur

he's so quick t den cut back a

Dykes, the

player in the

presents a dit

He has 40 pa

yards and four sorely test men

improving Wile

has been riddle

we can on Dyke

"He's a big pla

last year inclu-

Oklahoma S

"We've got t

field."

Stillwater.

To say the

"We've got !

Saturday.

play duo.

"I think we season on it as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles of the 12 players on our roster, six of a positive attitude," Green said. made the closeness and the unity

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 - the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not.'

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the transfers as it is to the kids returning

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, 'you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch."

Of the 14 players suiting up for the Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons. A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season - especially in the scoring depart-

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "1 think Lance is a young man whose afidance is improving everyday.

> ng up — he's elf-esteem is He is feeling d I think if he didence, he good player ijority of the he great size 's major colhough a firm rs quick, acplayers that the lack of ger, who has -and-cut type are just try ation. lirectly after 'opeka for an at Washburn

Center. The son Nov. 29

ta State in ), playing a hits ith

un IEILIGEN

orter ty athletic udget cuts, thletes and empting to a financial ous fund-

ESDN

teams and ti are spon-4 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some p our track s currently

id. ck team) s needed to no one is it and help in the Big

noney," he to 50 track and five pate in the ations will h lap ran. are giving ch lap we o K-State.

at Nory where he un-a-thons oximately time event of $10,000 is hievable, k we might ttle." s just one is attempdget cuts. ing home the forma-

JN. Page 8

Friday, November 7, 1986

Groups assist zoo through song contest

By KELLI CARR Collegian Reporter

At 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21, the air of McCain Auditorium will fill with melodic voices in song during the 19th Annual All-University Sing Competition.

The revenues from the tickets, which cost $2.50 each, are traditionally given to the Sunset Zoo for a variety of uses.

"The money collected from U-Sing built the children's zoo. Last year the money went to the costs of building the children's petting corral," said Don Wixom, curator of zoo education. Called Greek Sing in the 1950s and '60s, the event became known as U-Sing in 1967. The name was changed to include residence halls and cooperative houses as well as fraternities and sororities. U-Sing has in the past been sponsored by Interfraternity Council and the Office of Greek Affairs and is currently co-sponsored by Sigma Chi fraternity and Greek Affairs. The members of Sigma Chi organize the event, with Greek Affairs assisting with the financing. The purpose of U-Sing is to support the Children's Zoo. Todd Crenshaw, senior in music education, and chairman of U-Sing, said, "Sigma Chi became involved and eventually became the coordinators of U-Sing as a community philanthropy project, because of the expressed interests of Thomas C. Roberts and J. Robert Wilson, two Sigma Chi alumni. This year, five groups will be participating. Crenshaw said the number of groups is down from last year's seven participants, but he is anticipating the event's continued success

Participating will be members of Chi Omega and Phi Delta Theta; Delta Delta Delta and Lambda Chi Alpha; Kappa Delta and FarmHouse; Kappa Kappa Gamma and Beta Theta Pi; and Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Tau Omega. Last year's winners were Kappa Alpha Theta and FarmHouse.

"The groups who are participating in the competition are determined in the spring but they are not allowed to practice until the fall semester," said Scott

See SONG, Page 7

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------|--------------------------------|----------------------------|------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|------------------------|---------------------------|-------------------------|--------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo, | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"A Soldier's | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCente |
| 8:00 | | " | | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Story" | Underground" | "Brigadoon" | Golf
Auto Racing |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"The | Movie:
"Bad | Movie:
"Painted Hills" | M. Headroom | Fuji 1000
Hydroplane |
| 10:00 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Macomber
Affair" | Medicine" | "I Know Why | Movie:
"The Goonles" | Racing
SportsLook |
| 11:30 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Wholly | The Caged
Bird Sings" | " | Aerobics
Outdoors |
| 4 0:00 | News | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Fighter | Moses!" | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Movie:
"Casey's | '85 Patriots
Top Rank |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Masterpiece
Theatre | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Squadron" | Movie:
"Cocoon" | " | Shadow" | Boxing
Tyrone Trice |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Mod. Maturity
Living | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | " | Bobby And
Sarah | Movie:
"Twentieth | vs. Luis
Santana |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Movie:
"Elmchanted | Movie:
"Great | Century"
Movie: | Women's
Bowling |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Forest"
Movie: | Expectations" | "Brigadoon" | Pro Tour
Scholastic |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | "Mass
Appeal" | I'm A Fool | Movie: | SportsLook
NBA Today |
| 6:00 | | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNell /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Movie Makers | Paper Chase | "Born Free" | SportsCente
Moments |
| 7:00 | 71110 | Downtown | Who's Boss?
Growing Pains | Barnaby Jones | Nova | Movie:
"Love And | NBA
Basketball | Movie:
"Teachers" | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Movie:
"The Goonies" | Wrestling |
| 8:00 | | Movie:
"The George | Moonlighting | Movie:
"Never Give | The Africans | Bullets" | Spurs at
Rockets | " | | : | Top Rank
Boxing |
| 9:30 | | McKenna
Story" | Jack And Mike | An Inch" | Tenko, | News | Movie: | Movie:
"Cocoon" | Movie:
"The Assisi | Movie:
"Zapped!" | James
Quick |
| 10:30 | | News
Dating Game | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | "The Fighting Sullivans" | : | Underground" | Movie: | SportsCente |
| 11:30 | David | Simon &
Simon | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Newsleaders | Movie: | Movie: | Movie:
"To Live And | "I Know Why
The Caged | "Snow
Bunnies" | NFL Films
Truck And |
| 10:00 | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Anatomy Of
An Illness" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Torn Curtain" | "Hello Down
There" | Die In L.A." | Bird Sings"
Movie | "Warning
Sign" | Tractor Pull
Fishing |

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | НВО | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|--------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|------------------------|--------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Blame It On | PJ & Pres. Son | Movie Cont'd
Movie: | Business
SportsCente |
| 8:00 | " | " " | " " | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | The Night"
Movie: | Faerie Tale
Theatre | "Continental
Divide" | NBA Today
Aviation |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Bathing | "Airplane!" | Movie:
"Remains To | Movie: | Special
Boating |
| 10:30 | Jeopardy
Scrabble | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Beauty" | Phil Collins | Be Seen"
Movie: | "The Hasty
Heart" | SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Congress
Algebra | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"Protocol" | "Oh God! You
Devil" | Movie: | Aerobics
Auto Racing |
| 40:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | Movie:
"Al Capone" | " | Movie: | "The
Candidate" | IMSA GT
Series |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To | Hillbillies
Green Acres | Nova_ | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | #
| Not News
Movie: | "Bad
Medicine" | Movie: | Auto Racing
ARCA Late |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Story Of
English | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | "Florida
Straits" | Thanksgiving | "Forever
Darling" | Model
Sportsman |
| 3:30 | | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | Prof. Beetoven | Faerie Tale
Theatre | Movie:
"Born | PGA Golf
Isuzu |
| 4.00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Survival | PJ & Pres. Son | Yesterday" | Kapalua
International |
| 4:30
5:30 | | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | Movie:
"Prime Risk" | Movie:
"Royal | "She's
Working Her | SportsLook
Outdoors |
| 0:00 | News | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNeil /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | # | Wedding" | Way Through
College" | SportsCenter
Auto Racing |
| 7:00 | | New Mike | P. Strangers
Head Of Class | Barnaby Jones | Great
Performances | Movie:
"The French | Movie:
"The Maltese | Movie:
"Airplane!" | Brothers
Bizarre | Movie:
"Continental | CART
Phoenix 200 |
| 8:00 | " | Magnum, P.I. | Dynasty | Movie:
"Shark's | " | Connection" | Falcon" | Not News | Messiest Of
Gallagher | Divide" | Basketball
U.S.S.R. at |
| 9:30 | You Again?
St. Elsewhere | Equalizer | Hotel | Paradise" | God And | News | Movie:
"Tribute To A | Movie:
"Florida | Movie:
"Bad | Movie:
"The New | Georgia Tech |
| 10:30 | News | News
Dating Comp | Buddies
M*A*S*H | Late Show | Money
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Bad Man" | Straits"
Movie: | Medicine" | Kids"
Movie: | Cup
SportsCente |
| 4 4:00 | " | Dating Game
Hot Shots | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Old House | Movie: | Movie:
"55 Days At | "The Bride" | Movie:
"City Limits" | "Out Of Control" | Auto Racing
Fishing |
| 12:30 | Letterman
Gene Scott | Movie:
"Cracking Up" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "The Apartment" | Peking" | | Movie | "Blood
Simple" | Fishing
NBA Today |

1107 N. 3rd

new BEGINNINGS

12 Sessions for $25

New Beginnings will donate $5 to the junior class at Manhattan High School towards their prom with each $25 tanning purchase.

537-1003

(with coupon) Expires 11/30/86

Buy any 6" sub, get one of equal value FREE!

Now through Nov. 13 (with coupon)

*Void with any other offer

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut

By RON RENO

Women's bask

Mossman is con

to bring success

gram this seaso

said during me

Ahearn Field H

big, and we're)

been in past ye bunch that has they work hard

you're banking

have a lot of co

of young wome

going to get sor

16-13 last season

the Big Eight players return

Mossman is fa

assimilating se

to the system is

"You have to

K-State Co.

doesn't hesitate thinks it's goi

Wildcats to be Saturday.

Parrish's ans

the point: stop 7

Hart Lee Dyke

However, kee

and Dykes, two

ference's most

be an easy assi

ting start this y

the first eight

191-pound soph

come on in re gaining 170 ya 24-6 win over K and 70 last wee got to contain l

Parrish said.

the big play on

To say the major factor

wins over K-S

years. In 1984,

listed as a third

206 yards in a victory at KSI

Thomas score

first quarter ar

rushing in a

"They give h

back and he ci

K-State defens

said. "He does

run the ball an

do is over-pur

he's so quick th

den cut back &

Dykes, the

player in the

presents a dif

He has 40 par

yards and four

sorely test mer

improving Wil

has been riddle

we can on Dyke

"He's a big pla

Oklahoma S last year inclu-

"We've got t

field."

Stillwater.

"We've got to

Thomas, a 1 year, has gotte

play duo.

this year.' Mossman gui

"It's not mu

"I think we're season on int as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

of the 12 players on our roster, six of a positive attitude," Green said. made the closeness and the unity "We're really young right now and really good, which makes us a lot

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

> By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 - the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not."

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the transfers as it is to the kids returning or the freshmen or anyone else. We

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, "you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch.'

Of the 14 players suiting up for the 'Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season especially in the scoring department.

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I think Lance is a young man whose confidence is improving everyday.

g up - he's f-esteem is e is feeling I think if he idence, he ood player ority of the e great size major colough a firm ; quick, acplayers that er, who has nd-cut type are just try rectly after peka for an t Washburn enter. The on Nov. 29

1 State in

playing a

the lack of

nits

EILIGEN orter

un

y athletic dget cuts, aletes and empting to financial us fund-> eams and i are spon-1 p.m. Fri-Christian of raising raise some our track currently in the Big

id. :k team) needed to no one is t and help ioney," he to 50 track and five pate in the ations will h lap ran. are giving ch lap we to K-State. i at Norty where he run-a-thons toximately

> -time event of $10,000 is chievable," ik we might ittle." is just one a is attempidget cuts. ring home I the forma-UN, Page 8

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1986

| | KSNT | WIBW | KTKA | KSHB | KTWU | WGN | WTBS | нво | SHOW | MAX | ESPN |
|-------|--------------------------------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 7:00 | Today | CBS Morning
News | Good Morning
America | My Little Pony
Defenders | Special
Mister Rogers | Bozo | Jeannie
Bewitched | Movie:
"Breakin' 2 | Movie:
"Baby: Secret | M. Headroom
British Rock | Business
SportsCente |
| 8:00 | | : | ,, | GoBots
Beaver | Sesame Street | Hillbillies | Down To Earth
I Love Lucy | Electric
Boogaloo" | Of The Lost
Legend" | Movie: | Horse Wk.
Cup |
| 9:00 | Hour Magazine | Pyramid
Card Sharks | Jeannie
$1 Mil. Chance | Family Ties
M.T. Moore | Sesame Street | Waltons | Movie:
"Born | Movie:
"Kidco" | Movie:
"The Tartars" | "Great
Expectations" | Horse Show
Jumping |
| 10:30 | | Price Is Right | Fame Fortune
Family Ties | Laverne &
Shirley | Body Electric
Hatha Yoga | Big Valley | Beautiful" | " | Movie: | In America | "
SportsLook |
| 11:00 | Password
Wheel Fortune | Young And
The Restless | Ryan's Hope
Loving | Bewitched
My 3 Sons | Write Course
Psychology | Falcon Crest | Perry Mason | Movie:
"The War Boy" | "Victor /
Victoria" | Movie:
"The Awful | Aerobics
Outdoors |
| 12:00 | News
Days Of Our | Midday
As The World | All My
Children | Get Smart
Andy Griffith | Sesame Street | News | "Scared
Straight! | Movie: | | Truth"
Movie: | Basketball
U.S.S.R. at |
| 1:00 | Lives
Another World | Turns
Capitol | One Life To
Live | Hillbilles
Green Acres | Shakespeare
Hour | Dick Van Dyke
Carol Burnett | Another
Story" | "Runaway" | Movie:
"The Minstrel | "The Front" | Georgia Tec |
| 2:00 | Santa Barbara | Guiding Light | General
Hospital | Munsters
Zoobilee Zoo | Search For
The Killers | Andy Griffith
Heathcliff | Tom & Jerry
And Friends | Movie | Man''. | M. Headroom
Movie: | Racing
Skate |
| 3:00 | Happy Days | Magnum, P.I. | Ghostbusters
Dennis | Scooby Doo
Smurfs | Cooking
Aerobics | Ghostbusters
Smurfs | Scooby Doo
Flintstones | " | Redhawk
Movie: | "The Goonies" | America
Billiards |
| 4:00 | Diff. Strokes
Facts Of Life | Donahue | ThunderCats
G.I. Joe | Flinstones
Jetsons | Mister Rogers
3-2-1 Contact | G.I. Joe
Transformers | Gilligan
Rocky Road | Movie: | "Isaac
Littlefeathers" | Movie: | World Open
Fishing |
| 5:00 | 3's Company
NBC News | News
CBS News | People's Court
ABC News | Diff. Strokes
Gimme Break | Sesame Street | Facts Of Life
Good Times | Andy Griffith
Safe At Home | "Johnny
Dangerously" | Monkey's Paw | "Cocoon" | SportsLook
SportsCente |
| 6:00 | News
Wheel Fortune | News
Newlyweds | Benson
M*A*S*H | WKRP
Barney Miller | MacNell /
Lehrer | Barney Miller
Benson | Sanford
Honeymooners | Movie:
"Grease" | Eric Clapton
And Friends | Movie: | PGA Golf
Isuzu |
| 7:00 | Cosby Show
Family Ties | Simon &
Simon | Our World | Movie:
"The Sting" | Ten Who
Dared | Movie:
"The First | Portrait Of
America | , | Movie:
"Baby: Secret | "Dreamchild" | Kapalua
International |
| 8:00 | Cheers
Night Court | Knots Landing | The Colbys | " | Mysteryl
"Brat Farrar" | Deadly Sin" | World Of
Audubon | Movie:
"Power" | Of The Lost
Legend" | Movie:
"Deadly | College
Football |
| 9:00 | Hill Street
Blues | Kay O'Brien | 20 / 20 | | A.C. Clarke
S. Previews | News | Goodwill
Games | " | Movie:
"Crimes Of | Force" | G'ling at S.C.
St. or Ind. St. |
| 10:30 | News
Tonight | News
Dating Game | Buddles
M*A*S*H | Late Show | TV Classics
Business Rpt. | Honeymooners
Magnum, P.I. | Opening
Ceremonies | Inside The
NFL | Passion" | M. Headroom
Movie: | at N. Iowa |
| 11:00 | David | Adderty | Nightline
700 Club | News
I Love Lucy | Computer | Movie: | Movie:
"God Is My | Surveillance | Movie:
"Victor / | "The Goonies" | SportsCenter
Auto Racing |
| 10:00 | Letterman
Gene Scott | "Nothing
Personal" | Rifleman | Dick Van Dyke
Three Stooges | | "Trader Horn" | Co-Pilot" | "No Small
Affair" | Victoria" | Movie | S. Remo Rall
Horse Wk. |

Friday, November 7, 1986

Continued from Page 6 Jones, sophomore in secondary education and public relations chairman for U-Sing.

The only requirements for the competition are a time limit of approximately 12 minutes, and each group must be able to perform the songs it has selected.

Crenshaw said the time limit may not be as strict this year because of the lower number of participants. There are no regulations imposed on groups as to the choices made for the type of songs performed. "The most popular songs in the past have been Negro spirituals and sacred pieces," Crenshaw said. He said some groups choose old English madrigals or four-part choruses. "Pop tunes have been tried, but unless they are really well done, they don't seem to go over big with the judges," he said.

"The judges must have a choral background, they must be able to determine quality note tone in the vocals and they must be able to identify professionalism in each performance," Jones said.

All shows starting before 6p.m.—all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night!

CAMPUS

Daily at 7 and 9:20 Matinee Sat. & Sun. at 2:15 and 4:30

rocodile Daily DUNDEE 4:30 Look who's 7 - 9:30 sneaking Matinee into town! & Sun. PG-13 at 2

R WESTLOOP DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10

SKY BANDITS

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25

MATINEE SAT. & SUN.

AT 2:20

Blue Velvet Daily at 4:30 - 7 - 9:30

Matinee Sat. & Sun. at 2 Rated R

> WHOOPI GOLDBERG JUMPIN' JACK FLASH Daily at 4:40 - 7:10 - 9:20

Matinee Sat. & Sun. at 2:10

Nobody's Fool Daily at 4:45 - 7:20 - 9:25

Matinee Sat. & Sun. at 2:20 Rated PG-13

CONTROL TO SERVER BUTTON BUTTON TO THE

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 - the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not."

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the

MOST PHYSICAL FITNESS CONTEST

Over $1,000 in PRIZES

Nov. 17-20

Sign-up at Nautilus or Bonkers

in Aggieville

Nautilus * Total Fitness Club

A SHOWTIME PAY CABLE EXCLUSIVE

Harrison Ford unravels a murder case witnessed by a young Amish boy.

ONLY ON SHOWTIME...NOT ON HBO!

SHOWTIME

accessories & gifts for the home!

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, "you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.'

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch."

Of the 14 players suiting up for the Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons. A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season especially in the scoring department.

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I

1100 MORO

AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN 776-1654

em is eeling k if he olayer > of the at size a firm k, acrs that ack of it type ist try y after for an shburn The Jov. 29 ate in Playing the hits before they're hits

PYRAMID PIZZA'S FALL SPECIAL

BY-THE-SLICE AND FAST. FREE DELIVERY

PYRAMID

CHRISTMAS OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY 12-5 p.m. 20% OFF ALL CHRISTMAS ITEMS Free Refreshments 1205 Moro • In Aggieville • 539-7694 Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30 • Thur til 8:30 • Sunday 1-5 p.m.

Manhattan Cable T.V. 610 Humboldt

Free Refreshments

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654 Mon.-Thur. 8:30-8:30 • Fri.-Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sunday 12-5

Sports 1

By RON R Sports Wr

Women's basketba.

"I think we're ban

season on intangib

said during media d Ahearn Field House.

big, and we're not as been in past years,

bunch that has a gr

have a lot of confide of young women, an going to get some th

Mossman guides a

16-13 last season and the Big Eight. Bu

players returning

Mossman is faced assimilating severa to the system in a h "You have to keep

this year."

they work hard. "It's not much to you're banking on it

Mossman is counting to bring success to he gram this season.

K-State Coach doesn't hesitate wh thinks it's going Wildcats to beat Saturday.

Parrish's answer the point: stop Thur Hart Lee Dykes, t play duo.

However, keepir and Dykes, two of t ference's most gift be an easy assignm Thomas, a 1,650 year, has gotten o ting start this year the first eight gan 191-pound sophom come on in recen gaining 170 yards 24-6 win over Kans and 70 last week a

"We've got to stu got to contain him Parrish said. "We the big play on us.

To say the leas major factor in wins over K-State years. In 1984, Th listed as a third-str 206 yards in a 34victory at KSU St Thomas scored th first quarter and p rushing in a 35-8 Stillwater.

"They give him back and he creat K-State defensive said. "He doesn't run the ball and w. do is over-pursue he's so quick that den cut back acre field."

Dykes, the mos player in the nati presents a differe He has 40 pass yards and four to a sorely test memb improving Wildca has been riddled

"We've got to a we can on Dykes "He's a big play

Oklahoma Stat last year includir

移花

GEN hletic

ting to ancial funds and 3 sponn. Fri-

t cuts.

s and ristian aising e some r track rrently he Big team) eded to one is nd help ey," he

0 track d five e in the ms will ip ran. giving lap we

K-State, it Norvhere he -a-thons imately

ae event

$10,000 is evable." we might just one s attempget cuts. ag home he forma-

V. Page 8

Sports KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN, Friday, November 7, 1986 K-State coaches introduce basketball squads

Staff/John Thelander

K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger fields questions during media day Thursday afternoon in Ahearn Gymnasium. Kruger, who is making his debut

as head coach of the Wildcats, said the team is fighting injuries as it prepares

Lady Cats' hopes relying on intangibles

By RON RENO Sports Writer

Women's basketball coach Matilda Mossman is counting on intangibles to bring success to her Lady Cat program this season.

"I think we're banking most of our season on intangibles," Mossman said during media day Thursday at Ahearn Field House. "We're not very big, and we're not as quick as we've been in past years, but we've got a bunch that has a great attitude and they work hard.

"It's not much to bank on when you're banking on intangibles, but I have a lot of confidence in this group of young women, and I think they're going to get some things done for us this year.'

Mossman guides a team that went 16-13 last season and finished sixth in the Big Eight. But with only six players returning from that team, Mossman is faced with the task of assimilating several new players into the system in a hurry.

"You have to keep in mind that out of the 12 players on our roster, six of those people have never played a minute of Big Eight basketball, and that's kind of scary," said Mossman, who is in her third year at K-State.

The other major obstacle Mossman must overcome is a lack of size on her squad. Only two players stand more than six-foot tall senior Sue Leiding and redshirt freshman Stephanie Lane.

Despite those drawbacks, Mossman still has three sound tangibles to bank on - seniors Carlissa Thomas, Susan Green and Leiding.

"Those three are the backbone of our squad," Mossman said. "I think we have a lot of leadership with those

"If we can keep all three healthy, and keep them playing at a consistent level all year long, I have a lot of confidence that we'll get some things done," she added.

Those three seniors understand their roles well.

"Mostly, I see my role as providing good leadership - trying to maintain a positive attitude," Green said. "We're really young right now, and the younger players are being bombarded with a lot of information...But I have extreme confidence in the new players. I think we're inexperienced, but I think we'll make up for it with desire."

Thomas, while also impressed with the quality of the newcomers, said she was eager for the season to

"I'm kind of anxious to see what we have," she said. "We've got a lot of people on the team this year that are ready to play and want to play."

"I do kind of see myself as a leader this year," Thomas added. "We need the leadership to carry us."

The newcomers appear to be responding to the seniors' leader-

"The seniors are real strong leaders this year," freshman Amy Davidson said, "and that's what is going to help the freshmen adjust quicker.

"The fact that they accepted us into the basketball team right away made the closeness and the unity really good, which makes us a lot more comfortable.

After two weeks of practice, Mossman said she believes her club should finish somewhere in the middle during the Big Eight race, but has the "opportunity to move up just because of the people we have in our program."

Mossman said a relatively easy early-season schedule should benefit the team - especially the younger players. However, she said, the schedule, as a whole, will be considerably tougher.

"It's not going to be an easy year for us by any means," she said. "Our kids are going to have to work hard, and every game is going to be a bat-

The Lady Cats open the 1986-87 campaign Nov. 28-29 when they host the McCall Pattern Classic at Ahearn Field House. Texas-Arlington, Western Illinois and Loyola-Marymount are the invited

Kruger says work is needed before team is ready to play

By TONY CARBAJO Sports Writer

After hearing Lon Kruger address the media Wednesday afternoon at the annual basketball media day, one begins to understand why K-State began practice at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 15 the first official day teams can

"We are a long ways from being ready to play a ball game," firstyear head coach Lon Kruger said. "It is hard to believe (a team) is ready to play at this point because we certainly are not.'

Kruger has the unenviable task of molding seven newcomers and six holdovers from last season into a fluid unit that can elevate the team from the not-so-familiar depths of the Big Eight Conference race.

A former All-Big Eight performer at K-State, Kruger recruited the junior-college ranks hard last year in anticipation of quickly turning the team around. Any hopes the 'Cats have this year lie in how rapidly the newcomers mesh together and how quickly they adjust to the ever-tough Big Eight schedule.

"Because of the transfers, we are probably behind," Kruger said. "Not the transfers...themselves, but because everything is new. The transfers don't contribute to that. (The system) is just as new to the transfers as it is to the kids returning or the freshmen or anyone else. We are a long way from being ready to play a ballgame."

There is a trend among juniorcollege transfers to be sub-par in their first season because of new surroundings and then blossom into full potential during their senior year. Does Kruger foresee this happening to the Wildcats?

"If you have that luxury, to make the total transition into the season. that is great," Kruger said about easing transfers into the team. "Our players knew from day one that we are in it for the whole.

Two transfers that Kruger will rely on are 6-foot-7 forward Charles Bledsoe and 6-foot-5 guard Mitch Richmond. The tandem followed Moberly Mo.) Community College coach Dana Altman to K-State when he was hired by Kruger as an assistant.

Richmond was a First Team Juco All-American selection last season while Bledsoe received Honorable Mention All-America honors for his play at Moberly.

"When you watch them as I did when recruiting them," Kruger said, 'you gain an appreciation for them. Both are probably better players than I had maybe anticipated in a lot of ways. They are better all-around players. I think Bledsoe shoots with better range than I anticipated, and Richmond just has outstanding instincts for the game and is a tremendous competitor.

Richmond and Bledsoe help make up the base of six players that Kruger said have outperformed the others thus far in practice. In addition, 6-foot-8 forward Norris Coleman, 6-foot-5 guard Mark Dobbins, 6-foot-5 forward Lance Simmons and 5-foot-11 guard Lynn Smith comprise Kruger's top six.

"If we were to play a game tonight," Kruger said, "we would select our starting five from within that bunch.'

Of the 14 players suiting up for the 'Cats, Kruger said the most pleasant surprise has been Simmons. A sophomore, Simmons saw limited playing time last year when he averaged 1.5 points and 1.4 rebounds per contest coming off the bench.

Kruger said he sees Simmons playing a more dynamic role this season especially in the scoring depart-

"Lance has really been playing well in practice," Kruger said. "I think Lance is a young man whose confidence is improving everyday. He is more-or-less growing up - he's a sophomore now. His self-esteem is raising with each day. He is feeling better about himself, and I think if he keeps gaining that confidence, he will turn out to be a real good player for us.' Simmons, like the majority of the 1986-87 Wildcats, lacks the great size that is evident on today's major college teams. Kruger, although a firm believer in height, favors quick, accurate shooters over the players that merely present size.

"We are dictated to, playing a style that complements the lack of size we have," said Kruger, who has installed a motion pass-and-cut type offense this season. "We are just trying to establish a foundation.

K-State players left, directly after the media session, for Topeka for an intrasquad scrimmage at Washburn University's Petro Center. The Wildcats open the season Nov. 29 against South Dakota State in Ahearn Field House.

Team hits cuts with fund run

By JADA ALLERHEILIGEN

Collegian Reporter

teams are facing budget cuts, but one group of athletes and their coach, are attempting to offset some of the financial crunch with various fund-coach John Capriotti are sponsoring a run-a-thon 4 p.m. Friday at the R.V. Christian

Track in hopes of raising extra money to keep our track program where it's currently at - one of the top in the Big understand the cuts needed to be made, therefore no one is too proud to get out and help raise some extra money," he

Capriotti said 40 to 50 track team members and five coaches will participate in the one-hour run. Donations will be collected for each lap ran.

us a dollar for each lap we run," Capriotti said.

$18,000

"Many sponsors are giving

Before coming to K-State,

Capriotti coached at Northwestern University where he sponsored similiar run-a-thons that raised approximately at K-State the goal of $10,000 is realistic and yet achievable," he said. "I even think we might

The run-a-thon is just one way the track team is attempting to offset budget cuts.

Parking cars during home football games and the forma-

See RUN, Page 8

exceed the goal a little."

"I feel for a first-time event

"We (the track team)

Eight," Capriotti said.

"We are trying to raise some

K-State's track teams and raising events.

$10,000.

Certain University athletic

Dykes, Thomas provide OSU's offensive power

By TOM PERRIN Sports Writer

K-State Coach Stan Parrish doesn't hesitate when asked what he thinks it's going to take for the Wildcats to beat Oklahoma State Saturday.

Parrish's answer is short and to the point: stop Thurman Thomas and Hart Lee Dykes, the Cowboys' bigplay duo.

However, keeping tabs on Thomas and Dykes, two of the Big Eight Conference's most gifted athletes, won't be an easy assignment.

Thomas, a 1,650-yard rusher last year, has gotten off to a disappointing start this year with 659 yards in the first eight games. The 5-foot-11, 191-pound sophomore tailback has come on in recent weeks though, gaining 170 yards in the Cowboys' 24-6 win over Kansas two weeks ago and 70 last week against Colorado.

"We've got to stop Thomas. We've got to contain him the best we can," Parrish said. "We can't let him get the big play on us."

To say the least, Thomas was a major factor in Oklahoma State's wins over K-State in the last two years. In 1984, Thomas, at the time listed as a third-string player, gained 206 yards in a 34-6 Oklahoma State victory at KSU Stadium. Last year, Thomas scored three times in the first quarter and picked up 213 yards rushing in a 35-3 Cowboy rout at Stillwater.

"They give him the ball seven feet back and he creates his own holes," K-State defensive tackle Jeff Hurd said. "He doesn't have a set place to run the ball and what you don't try to do is over-pursue because because he's so quick that he can all of a sudden cut back across the grain of the Dykes, the most highly recruited player in the nation two years ago, presents a different type of threat. He has 40 pass receptions for 511 yards and four touchdowns and will sorely test members of a young, but improving Wildcat secondary which has been riddled by injuries.

"We've got to do as good a job as we can on Dykes also," Parrish said. "He's a big play guy."

Oklahoma State, which went 8-4 last year including a loss to Florida

State in the Gator Bowl, is a worsethan-expected 3-5 (1-3 Big Eight) this year. A bowl team in each of the past three seasons, the Cowboys are more or less going through the motions this Still, Parrish has plenty of respect for Oklahoma State coach Pat Jones' "They've got good players on both sides of the ball," Parrish said.

Among the Cowboys' top defensive players are All-American candidate defensive back Mark Moore (71 tackles) and linebacker Jerry Deckard (66 tackles).

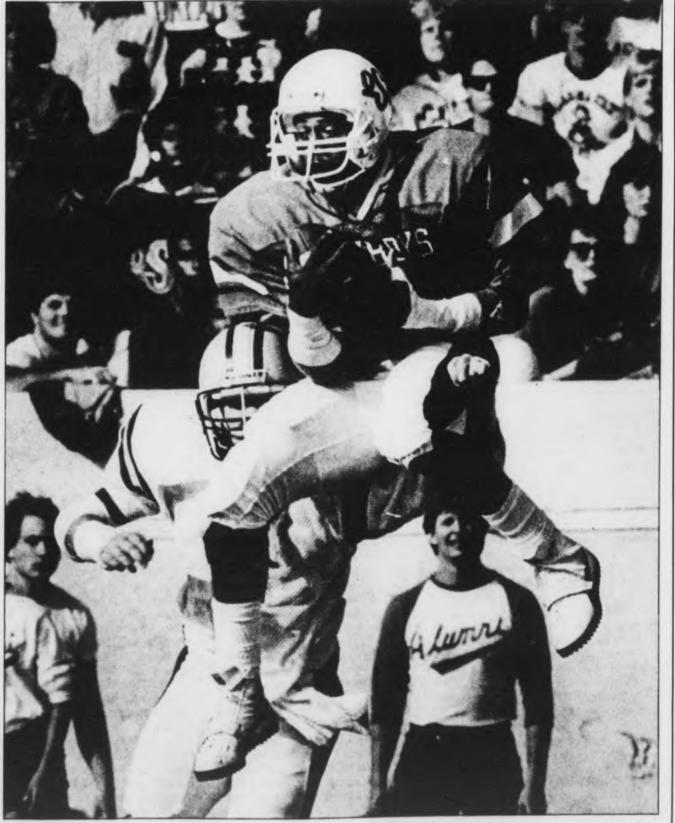

Motivation has been a big key in both K-State wins this season and Parrish said K-State will enter Saturday's game on an emotional high.

Asked if the Wildcats were as mentally prepared as they were for the Kansas game (a 29-12 K-State win), Parrish said, "I don't know if we have that fire. That fire was something else. But we've had more zip in our practices this week than in any week since that ballgame."

The game begins an important stretch run in the K-State schedule which closes with a road game next week against Iowa State and the Nov. 22 home game against resurgent Colorado.

"I want to win this game very much," Parrish said. "It will propel us into the last couple. Hopefully, we'll stay competitive, upbeat and moving in the right direction."

NOTES: Game time at KSU Stadium is 1:30 p.m...It's also Parents' Day...Radio broadcast of the game can be heard on WIBW (580 AM)...Parrish announced earlier in the week that the K-State locker room would be open to the media the remainder of the season after being closed for the first five games. Parrish experimented with an open locker room in the Missouri and Kansas games and decided to stay with it...K-State enters the game with no new injuries and didn't lose a player in the 38-0 loss last week at Nebraska...Oklahoma State was ahead 14-3 last week against Colorado, but the Buffaloes came back for a 31-14 victory at Stillwater...The Cowboys' victories have come against Southwestern Louisiana, Illinois State and Kansas.

Oklahoma State wide receiver Bobby Riley catches a pass on the way to a 35-3 Cowboy win over the 'Cats last year in Stillwater. The two teams will meet again Saturday for a 1:30 rematch at KSU Stadium.

By ROGER McKNIGHT Collegian Reporter

For the second time in one week, K-State's volleyball team will battle Big Eight Conference opponent

Oklahoma. The Wildcats challenge the Sooners tonight at Lloyd Noble Arena in Norman.

K-State will conclude its two-day road trip in Oklahoma by squaring off against the Lady Titans of Oral Roberts University, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Oklahoma is a team K-State matches up well with, Coach Scott Nelson said. The 'Cats lost a fivegame match to OU 10-15, 15-10, 9-15, 15-7, 15-10 at home last Friday.

Heading into this week's matches, the Sooners had the No.-2 offensive team in the Big Eight conference, followed by No. 3 K State. The Wildcats are the second-best blocking team behind Nebraska, while OU is rated third.

"OU was runner-up in the conference last year and we were third, behind Nebraska. They are traditionally one of the top schools in the conference," Nelson said.

"We are going to need a highspirited effort down in Oklahoma. OU is a tough place to play because they are very vocal and love to distract the opposing teams," Nelson said.

The characteristics of every Oklahoma team include being big and physical, Nelson said. Nebraska discovered the advantage in this type of team several years ago and Oklahoma followed suit.

"In volleyball, when you have this type of athlete, you can dictate the flow and tempo of the match at the net with your hitting and blocking," Nelson said. "We are in that same transition but we don't have the experience on the court."

Nelson said there is parity among the majority of the conference teams. With the exception of Nebraska and Colorado, Big Eight contests have almost always gone four or five games.

"Right now there is a logiam, having four teams in the Big Eight with two wins apiece. This third win is important," Nelson said.

Nelson said the remaining two Big Eight matches will determine the seeding for the post-season tournament Nov. 21-23 in Kansas City, Mo.

"Ideally, a team wants to finish in the top three in the conference. The reason is if you finish fourth or fifth, you will play one match and then meet No. 1 Nebraska in the semifinals. We want to stay opposite of them until the finals," Nelson said.

Helen Bundy now leads the conference in blocking with an average of 1.39 blocks per game. She captured the Big Eight's blocking title last year, even though she is the shortest player at the middle hitter's position at 5-foot-10.

The Sooners' Trenell Carter and Kerri Mulry are fifth and sixth in the same category with 1.15 and 1.14 blocks per game, respectively.

Oral Roberts is on a roll, as it has won 14 of its last 15 outings. K-State defeated ORU earlier this season in a hard-fought, five-game victory.

"They have a couple of excellent outside hitters that pull a lot of their offensive load for them. This will be a real tough road test for us because our backs are against the wall," Nelson said.

"This will be a good test for our team as we head into the home stretch for the conference champion-

Purple team wins 81-52 during game in Topeka

By The Collegian Staff

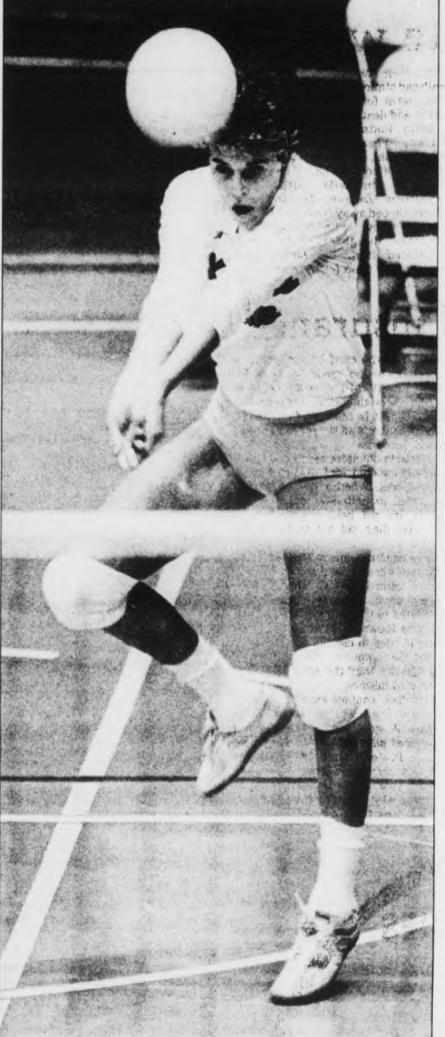

K-State's Purple team downed the White squad 81-52 during an intrasquad scrimmage Thursday night at Washburn University in Topeka before an estimated crowd of 2,100.

Lance Simmons, a 6-foot-5 forward, paced the Purple team with 9-of-10 shooting from the field and a total of 20 points. Norris Coleman chipped in 15 points - including a - and hauled three-point basket down seven rebounds, and the House.

Moberly, Mo. Community College transfers Charles Bledsoe and Mitch Richmond combined for 22 points and 16 rebounds.

Michael McCraven, a 6-foot-9 transfer center from Kaskaskia, Ill. Community College led the White team with 21 points. He hit 9-of-12 shots from the floor.

K-State will next see action at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 15 when it hosts the U.S. Armed Forces team at Ahearn Field Outside hitter and Wildest team captain Mary Kinsey returns the ball during game; it is sign one or two (recruits), but we sign one or two (recruits), but we built buil challenge the University of Oklahoma Friday night in Norman.

Butler County star proclaims intention to play for K-State

By TOM MORRIS Assistant Sports Editor

Carlos Diggins, a 6-foot-4 sophomore forward from Butler County Community College, announced Thursday he would sign with K-State and basketball coach Lon Kruger during the NCAA's early-signing period Nov. 12-19.

Diggins said he also considered Oklahoma and Michigan, but announced his decision to sign with the Cats at a 4 p.m. press conference in El Dorado.

"I like (K-State) for a couple of reasons," Diggins said. "One, because the coaching staff seemed to me like they would stick with their players through thick or thin.

'Another reason I chose Kansas State is the coaches stressed academics to me and my parents. When I made my visit to Manhattan, it was more like a business meeting. The coaches were straight up and truthful with me about everything."

Diggins plans to complete the 1986-87 season at El Dorado and will transfer to K-State next fall.

First-year men's basketball coach Lon Kruger did not know of Diggins' decision until the Wildcats were set to scrimmage Thursday night at Washburn University in Topeka.

"We've heard he's announced his decision, and we are pleased by the news. We are excited he chose K-State," Kruger said.

Kruger doesn't expect any other possible recruits to sign next week.

"(Diggins is) probably the only one who we are recruiting that will make a decision in November," he said. "We have a couple more (interested recruits), but I don't believe they will sign next week.'

Kruger said the early signing period is a good idea for players who know exactly where they want to go to school.

"I think considerations need to be made when coaches change schools or when programs go on probation," Kruger said. "I realize that a player signs with a school, but the majority part in that decision is usually the player-coach relationship.'

In his freshman year at Butler County, Diggins helped guide the Grizzlies to a 24-7 overall mark during the 1985-86 campaign with an average of 18 points, four rebounds, three assists and two steals per in second place behind Hutchinson in comes."

the western division of the Kansas Jayhawk Juco Conference.

Diggins was also selected as an All-KJJC player and was recently named on the top 10 players in the junior-college ranks by The Sporting Diggins said Oklahoma didn't appeal to him because of its lack of academic commitment, and the opportunity to work his way into a starting position sooner at K-State swayed him from Michigan.

"I don't want to make them sound bad, but Oklahoma didn't stress academics to me at all. OU appeared to me like they would use you for two years and then be done with you. If you don't make the pros, and without that degree, there's nothing left," Diggins said.

'We've heard he's announced his decision, and we are pleased by the news.'

Lon Kruger

"As for Michigan, it was a good program as far as academics and everything was concerned," he added. "But I felt that I could come in and play quicker at KSU, and at Michigan I'd probably be used as a seventh or eighth man.

Another 'Cat prospect, Manhattan High School's J.T. Marshall, said Wednesday he would not sign early with any college. The Street and Smith Basketball Yearbook lists Marshall - a preseason All-State candidate - as an honorable mention top prep player in the country.

The 6-foot-5 Marshall, who is also being recruited by Colorado State. Creighton and Drake, said he will visit Colorado State this weekend and will save the remainder of his recruiting tours until spring. He plans to announce his choice in April.

"I'd still like to go to the East Coast and play for one of the Big East Conference schools," Marshall said. "By not signing early, I'm leaving the doors open. I think I'll have a great senior year."

As for the K-State women's program, Coach Matilda Mossman said she didn't know if any players she has recruited will sign this month.

"We're still waiting because we really don't know at this time," she said. "There's a possibility we might sign one or two (recruits), but we

Oddsmakers refuse wagers on Miami-Pitt game after injury

By The Associated Press

What a guy, Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson. Not only does he have the No. 1-ranked college football team in the nation but he also has compas-

No one, you see, feels worse than Johnson about the season-ending back injury Pitt quarterback John Congemi suffered last week against Syracuse.

Is Congemi some distant relative of Johnson's? Nope.

Is Congemi a leftover from Johnson's days (1977-78) as Pitt's defensive coordinator? No way.

The problem for Johnson and his staff is that "we don't know what type of offense to prepare for or what quarterback to prepare for" when the Hurricanes visit Pitt on Saturday. "We've got to keep things very basic in our defensive scheme and be prepared for almost anything."

Weep not for the Hurricanes, folks. They are ranked eighth nationally in scoring defense and fourth in total defense.

Johnson isn't the only one with problems. The oddsmakers listed Miami 150-150-5-.500. as a 16-point favorite but took the game off the board - no college boards? - when they learned about Congemi's injury. Unfortunately, peerless prognosticators can't do that. The pick is: Miami 35-13.

Last week's prediction record was 37 right - including Mississippi over LSU and two other Upset Specials and 14 wrong for a percentage of .725; for the season, 328-124-7-.726. Against the point spread, last week's mark was 19-18-1-.514; for the year,

Maryland at No. 2 Penn State (favored by 18): Penn State 38-14. No. 3 Michigan (by 31) at Purdue:

Michigan 56-7. Missouri at No. 4 Oklahoma (by 42): Oklahoma 42-3.

California at No. 5 Arizona State (by 27): Arizona State 35-7.

No. 18 LSU at No. 6 Alabama (by 91/2): Alabama 24-13.

No. 7 Nebraska (by 27) at Iowa State: Nebraska 38-7. Cincinnati at No. 9 Auburn (by 27): Auburn 37-14.

31/2): Arkansas 28-24.

Northwestern at No. 11 Ohio State (by 31): Ohio State 49-0. Stanford at No. 12 UCLA (by 13):

UCLA 27-20. No. 13 Washington (by 22) at Oregon State: Washington 41-7. No. 15 North Carolina State (by 8) at Virginia: Upset Special of the Week, Virginia 21-20.

No. 16 Iowa (by 17) at Illinois: Iowa 24-17. No. 17 Arizona (by 10) at

No. 10 Arkansas at Baylor (by Washington State: Arizona 28-14. No. 19 Georgia (by 1) vs. Florida at Jacksonville: Florida 21-17.

> (by 7): Clemson 24-20. Air Force (by 81/2) at Army: War of the wishbones. Second Upset

North Carolina at No. 20 Clemson

Special, Army 24-21. Florida State (by 6) at South

Carolina: Third Upset Special, South Carolina 35-30.

Tulsa (by 6) at New Mexico: Fourth Upset Special, New Mexico

Holmes calls it quits because of 'decisions'

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Larry Holmes announced his retirement from boxing Thursday three days after he turned 37. It was the second time the former heavyweight champion has announced his retirement, but this time he said it will stick. Following a news conference at Larry Holmes' Commodore Inn outside Phillipsburg, N.J., Holmes told The Associated Press in a telephone interview: "I'm tired of people using me.

I'm tired of fighting and I'm tired of not getting the decisions I earn-

"I got old, too." Holmes first said he would retire after fighting David Bey on March 15, 1985. He stopped Bey in the 10th round to make his record 47-0. If he had stuck to his decision he would have joined Rocky Marciano, 49-0, as the only heavyweight champions to retire unbeaten.

But Holmes fought and outpointed Carl Williams. Then on Sept. 15, 1985, in a bid to equal Marciano's record, he defended the International Boxing Federation title against light heavyweight champion Michael

Spinks won a close, but unanimous 15-round decision, then kept the title on a disputed 15-round split decision last April

Holmes appealed to the IBF to overturn the decision, but the appeal was rejected.

"I'm 50-0," Holmes said. "People know it. They can question the 49th (the outcome of the first Spinks fight), but they can't question the 50th.' In retiring, Holmes said he was walking away from a proposed fight with Tyrell Biggs, the 1984 Olympic super heavyweight champion.

Holmes turned pro in 1973 "to make money." He took home $63 from a $100 purse, but made millions of dollars in his career.

On June 9, 1978, Holmes won the World Boxing Council title, which he defended 17 times before he relinquished it in December, 1983, rather than fight Greg Page for the purse promoter Don King was offering. Recognized as champion by the IBF, Holmes defended that title four times before losing to

In a fine career, which was overshadowed by Muhammad Ali, who preceded him as the world's premier heavyweight, Holmes considers the highlights winning the title, then fighting Gerry Cooney."

In an atmosphere of rancor, with charges of racism on both sides, Holmes stopped Cooney in the 13th round June 11, 1982. The previously unbeaten Cooney was given an excellent chance of becoming the first white heavyweight champion since Ingemar Johansson in 1959-60.

KU coach replaces Orth with freshman

LAWRENCE - Freshman Kelly Donohoe will replace Mike Orth at quarterback for Kansas when the Jayhawks play Saturday at Colorado, Coach Bob Valesente said Thursday.

By The Associated Press

Orth has completed 50 percent of his passes this season and passed for 1,490 yards, but has led Kansas to just three touchdowns in the last four games after passing for four touchdowns against Southern Illinois.

"I'm looking for something different to get us a spark," said Valesente, who is winless in the Big Eight in his first season as head coach. "Kelly has worked hard in practice. This is not a gift. He deserves an opportunity to move the

The plan for Donohoe, all-state quarterback from Harrisonville, Mo., was to redshirt him this season while he learned the offense and prepare him for the 1987 season after Orth graduated.

Orth, however, has thrown 11 interceptions and the Jayhawks have lost four in a row, including a 29-12 loss to Kansas State and a 64-3 loss to Oklahoma last week.

Playing in Kansas! last three games would cost Donohoe a year of 'Our seniors deserve to finish strong," Valesente said. "I can't worry about next season. I'm worried about winning these last three games.'

Donohoe, 6-foot-1 and 180 pounds, passed for 4,324 yards and 35 touchdowns in three seasons at Harrisonville, finishing with a 32-4 record.

"Everything's come a lot quicker that I'd anticipated," said Donohoe, who moved up to second string on the depth chart after the loss to Kansas

"I have confidence in my ability and I'll just have to wait and see

Valesente has defended Orth, starting this year after the graduation of Mike Norseth.

"Mike has done a lot of good things this year," Valesente said. "I think he doesn't deserve some of the criticism he's been getting this year because his supporting cast hasn't been producing like they should be."

Orth's passing yardage this season is seventh best in Kansas history, 135 yards behind Frank Seurer's 1982 total and 192 yards behind Norseth's 1984 total. His career yardage of 2,097 yards is sixth-best in Kansas

Post-Super Bowl blues haunt Bears

By The Associated Press

Nine games into the 1986 NFL season, the Chicago Bears are no more than just another good team. A contender for a second straight Super Bowl? Of course.

But the team that dominated the league in 1985 is at this point no better a bet to represent the NFC in Pasadena than the Redskins, Giants, Rams or Cowboys, all of whom were blown away en route to New Orleans a year ago.

"There can't be perfection anymore," Coach Mike Ditka conceded the day after the 20-17 loss to the Rams left a team that was 18-1 a year ago at 7-2. "We are not head and shoulders above the league. From now on, it's going to be a run right to the end.

Bill Walsh, coach of last year's designated dynasty, the San Francisco 49ers, went through it last year the post-Super Bowl malaise that can do in even the most talented

Yes, the Bears have had injuries. Jim McMahon is still nursing an aching shoulder, Walter Payton dislocated a toe Monday night, and Richard Dent, Mike Singletary and sundry other stars have been aching.

But the Bears blew a lot of people out without McMahon last year -Steve Fuller was the quarterback, for example, in the 44-0 rout of Dallas. And the other NFC contenders have had their own injury problems.

The 7-2 Redskins are down to thirdstring linebackers; the 7-2 Giants to third-string wide receivers; the 7-2 Rams are without Pro Bowl defenders Jim Collins and Gary Green; and the 6-3 Cowboys have been without Tony Dorsett and Danny White for much of the year. Add the 49ers, 5-3-1, and aching most of all. Joe Montana is at least impor-

* Confidences as and To tant to them as McMahon is to the Cut to Walsh, who went through the same thing with the 49ers last year, when they barely qualified for a wildcard spot at 10-6 a year after going 18-1.

"It doesn't take much to lose that little bit of an edge it takes to win in this league," he said when the 49ers were struggling at this point last year. "You forget how hard you work to get to a Super Bowl and you don't quite have the concentration.'

Then listen to Singletary, Chicago's middle linebacker and defensive leader, who said in an interview aired by ABC at halftime of Monday night's game:

"We're not as cohesive as we were last season. It's just little things that haven't come together. And some players seem more interested in endorsements and things than getting ready."

Continued from Page 7

tion of a track booster program are other ways in which the team is trying to meet its total goal of $20,000. There are two ways we can handle the budget cuts. We can sit around crying and complaining, or we can go out and raise money and not worry about it. We, as a team, chose the latter," Capriotti said.

"Sometimes people think of the athletes as prima donnas, but with our team it's not that way," Capriotti said. "Several of our All-American athletes are out there at 7 a.m. on home football game days to park

The K-State coach said the athletes are supportive of the fund-raising measures.

'With the lowest budget in the Big Eight, we want to continue being one of the top competitors, and the money raised will help in that way," he said.

War survivors reunite with family who 'saved their lives'

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - For 21/2 years, a family of Polish Jews hid from the Nazis in a trench the size of two coffins under a Christian couple's home. Again and again, the Jews begged their benefactors: Please poison our bread, please give us a gun to end our

"No," Jozef and Stephania Macugowski told the Razda family. "One day the war will be over. As long as we live, you will live. We will never let you die." This weekend, the two families will gentiles who put their lives on the line for Jews in peril. "If the Nazis had caught them saving us, they would have killed them before killing us," said Zahava Burack, who was 9 years old when she, her parents and two of her sisters were taken in by the Macugowskis.

than 40 years. The Polish couple is coming to New York, where Israeli officials will honor them as "righteous among the nations" —

One night in 1942, Jews in their town of Nowy Korczyn were told to embrace for the first time in more leave their homes and march to the railroad station for "relocation," the Nazi term for deportation to slave labor and death camps.

Louis Radza, a juice manufacturer, recalled that Jozef Macugowski, an acquaintance, had casually offered his help if needed.

Radza, his wife, Gitla, and daughters Zahava, Miriam and Sarah slipped away from the line and sought refuge with Macugowski. Another daughter, Rita, was separated from the family and boarded the train for the concentration camp.

and never saw the light of day. The Macugowskis told nobody about what they were doing - not their parents, not their brothers and

The Macugowsks never wavered, despite the risk of their own lives,

despite Poland's own history of anti-

Semitism that made many Poles

That night, they and the Radzas dug a trench under the floorboards of a storage room; this ditch, 5 feet wide by 7 feet long by 20 inches deep,

was to be the Jews' home for 21/2 years, during which time they never spoke in voices louder than a whisper turn their backs on the Jews.

sisters, not their young children. Late at night, they would knock on the floor three times. The floor boards would open, and the Macugowskis would pass down bread and water.

With war's end, the floorboards opened for good. Burack remembers her first bath ("heaven") and everyone's wobbly legs - Russian soldiers beat her parents because they believed the Jews were drunk, and hiding vodka.

Six months after the war, the family was reunited with Rita; she had survived the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp. The family was among the lucky ones

Ultimately, the Razdas all settled around New York.

Louis and Gitla Razda kept in touch with the Macugowskis until the Razdas' deaths 10 years ago. Burack asked an official of the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai Brith to seek out the Macugowskis when he visited Poland earlier this

He found them - their street had been renamed - and Burack placed a tearful trans-Atlantic telephone call to the people who had saved her.

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

Banks advise credit card insurance

By DON SCOTT

Collegian Reporter

A credit card can be as dangerous in some people's hands as giving a pyromaniac matches. Even more serious is having those credit cards lost or stolen.

A individual owning either a Visa or MasterCard is liable for $50 when their card been lost or stolen and charged on prior to being reported.

"If they've been stolen and they report them immediately, they only have to pay up to $50," said Kelli Carr, senior in public relations and University consumer relations board director. "They don't have to pay for any unauthorized charges made after they have notified the issuer of the card of the loss or theft of the card."

Carr said if a person's purse or wallet gets stolen with their Visa or MasterCard in it, they should report the incident to the Visa International Loss/Stolen Department at 1-800-336-8472.

"The best thing they can do is to report it immediately, night or day," she said.

A list of credit card numbers should be kept in a safe place in case of a possible loss or theft.

A Visa correspondent with the Visa International Loss/Stolen Department said the credit card's account number is necessary to put a block on the person's account. If the number is lost or unknown, the card holder at least needs to know the name of the bank that issued the

"We block the account and call the bank; then no one can use it," said a Visa consulting correspondent.

The correspondent said they will then notify the bank telling them what the card holder reported to the Visa operator. The bank will then issue a new credit card with a new account number to the person.

Loss of credit cards needs to be reported within the first 24 to 48 hours. After that it would be up to the discretion of the bank to set the liability limit.

Another protection device for consumers who use credit cards is credit card insurance. In addition to banks offering insurance that can be automatically charged to your card, there are several independent credit card insurance services.

One credit card insurance plan titl-

CitiBank. The card holder registers all of his or her credit cards under the Protection Plus insurance plan, and if the credit cards have been lost or stolen, it is reported to CitiBank which contacts all the person's credit card lenders.

Department store credit cards are usually handled according to similar procedures. When a loss or theft is reported immediately, card owners often are not held responsible for charges they did not make on the card. For example, loss or theft of a J.C. Penney's credit card should be called in immediately to the J.C. Penney's credit department and also reported to the police. The card will then be shown as lost or stolen. If someone tries to use the lost or stolen card, the computer will automatically identify that the card has been reported missing.

'If they contact us, then we get them in touch with the home office. Then it goes on computer and becomes unavailable for use," said Dave Prater, owner of University Amoco service station. "You can prove your credit through receipts. That is why it is important that you ed "Protection Plus" is offered by don't throw them away."

IN AGGIEVILLE [

THE BEST

WHEN YOU BUY 1 AT REGULAR PRICE, YOUR SECOND IS ONLY 1 CENT

Offer good through 11/16/86 only at: Piñata Restaurante

One coupon per visit

1219 Bluemont in Aggieville 539-3166

STEREO GIVE-A-WAY

Register to win a FREE STEREO at Wendy's. Drawing will be

CHICKEN FRIED STEAK SPECIAL

Get a tender steak, choice of potato, side salad and a roll for

ONLY $2.99

TONIGHT 7:30 p.m.

WE'LL WATCH "TRIP TO BOUNTIFUE AT THE WATCH "TRIP TO BOUNTIFUE STARRING GERALDINE PAIGE HAVE POPCORN AND DISCUSS THE MOVIE. HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE!

Another program of Ecumenical Christian Ministries. The Campus Ministry of: The Church of the Brethren, The United Church of Christ, The Presbyterian Church (USA); The United Methodist Church

Sponsored by CUMENICAL

RISTIAN VISTRIES

WELCOME PARENTS!

The students, faculty and alumni of Kansas State University welcome you to this special weekend for you!

> Parents' Weekend is coordinated by Chimes Junior Honorary

"Good parents give their Children two things: One Is Roots, The Other Is Wings"

A very special thanks to these contributing living groups:

Alpha Chi Omega

Alpha Delta Pi Alpha Gamma Rho

Chi Omega

Beta Sigma Psi

Clovia

Delta Sigma Phi Delta Tau Delta FarmHouse

Goodnow

Kappa Alpha Theta Kappa Delta

Kappa Kappa Gamma Lambda Chi Pi Beta Phi Smith Scholarship House Tau Kappa Epsilon

Theta Xi

SPECIAL KSU/OSU BUFFET & HOURS! IVALENTINO'S BUFFET,

To celebrate K-State's third day game (and third victory), we're opening up our buffet ALL DAY, on Saturday, Nov. 8. Tackle Valentino's buffet 11 a.m. through 8 p.m. . . and then enjoy the game.

Of course, all of our NEW players, like our double crust pizza, pasta salads and seafood casserole will be starting. And, don't forget our returning squad . . . pizza, baked lasagne and salad bar.

NOV. 8 BUFFET HOURS: 11 a.m.-8 p.m.

And remember Valentino's other option plays: Half-baked pizzas and our regular take-out service. Available all day, for our game plan.

VALENTINO'S GAME DAY BUFFET PENALTIES

BUFFET PRIVILEGES Intentional bumping or shoving to get to the new buffet items.

DELAY OF BUFFET TIME

Buffet clock expires for taking too long to decide what to put

Intentional holding or clutching of patron to impair selection

3019 Anderson Ave. Village Plaza Shopping Center 537-4350

Staff/Gary Lytle

tion," she said. "There are some herbariums that still have plants from the 1600s. That's why this type of

The files have been created over the years by professors and taxonomy students at K-State, along with contributions from other univer-

T.M. Barkley, professor of biology and curator of the herbarium, has worked with professors from the other universities in creating the files and in writing a book that summarizes facts about plants in the region, titled "Flora of the Great botany is called old-fashioned.

Guest tenor

Tenor George Gray and the K-State Orchestra rehearse Thursday night in sponsored by the Kansas Arts Commission and the Manhattan Arts Coun-

McCain Auditorium under the direction of Adrian Bryttan. The concert, cil begins at 8 p.m. Friday in McCain Auditorium and is free to the public.

Plant library aids researchers, students

By DARLA RYAN Collegian Reporter

The top floor of Bushnell Hall looks like a library. Large steel cabinets lined up in alphabetical order fill the room, and the place is so quiet you could hear a pin drop. But it's not your average library. It's full of

It's called a herbarium and is used by botany students, researchers, farmers and gardners to identify everyone's favorite plant - the weed.

Linda Davis, graduate student in botany and herbarium assistant, has the job of helping people identify and classify their plants. After identifying the plants, she informs them of any harmful effects the plant may have on their crop, lawn or garden.

simply by looking at them.

"I can usually look at the flowering part of a plant and tell what it is,' she said. But when someone brings in just the root or stem of a plant, Davis said, it is necessary to use the files because the plants all look so much

The files consist of thousands of weed specimens, dried, labeled and arranged in alphabetical order according to their plant families. Davis must narrow the plant in question to its possible family, then look for it in the files, comparing the two plants under microscope to confirm its

Specimens include 100-year-old weeds

ed in a file.

The plants are dried by placing them in a book-like device that can be tightened to apply pressure. The book is then placed under heat to

The plants are then labeled by family, where they can be found and the type of habitat in which they live.

After being mounted on paper and glued down, the specimens are plac-

the 1800s that are in perfect condi-

"We have plants that date back to enhance drying time and kill bugs.

"With animals there's no inbetween," she said. "If you see a squirrel, you know it's a squirrel, but with plants there could be several different families of plants all in one.

"The boundaries between plant species is not clear because plants breed so sloppily," she said.

That's when the older specimens are useful, Davis said. By looking at old specimens, Davis said she can tell how the plant has evolved to form a new plant.

Davis is also in charge of preparing these specimens.

'Before we add any plants to the files, they must be dried and mounted," she said. Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

regov's WELCOME PARENTS SPECIAL GAME DAY MENU

Aggieville Flowers

12th & Laramie Sweetheart

Roses $6 a dozen

Cash & Carry 537-9549 Mon.-Sat. 10-5

THE Jean Station

Jean Station Model Search

Pick up details and entry form at Jean Station by 11/19/86

AGGIEVILLE - MANHATTAN

and holiday decorations, don't miss the Buttons & Bows Arts & Crafts Fair Saturday 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Seven Dolors School & Luckey High building, 60 booths, food craft demonstrations, kids'photos with Santa, lots more.

Juliette & Pierre Sts.

SATURDAY Open at

Noon $2.50 Pitchers

"Welcome Parents!"

> FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 539-9619

Friday Night

2605 Stagg Hill Rd.

Fried Chicken or Spaghetti with Meat Sauce All You Can Eat

Only $3.95 with

Salad Bar

Saturday Gourmet Specials

776-1234

featuring Prime Rib or Steak & Shrimp only $5.95 Open Sunday 9-3

Serving Breakfast until 1 p.m. Sunday

Arts and Science College Student of the Semester

> Applications now available

Applications Due: Nov. 25 5 p.m.

Take applications to the Dean's office

Regents seek nominees for Honors Academy

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The Kansas Board of Regents is seeking nominations to the Kansas Regents Honors Academy.

Frank Becker, chairman of the regents panel, recently wrote to all Kansas high schools soliciting nominations for the academy, which will be hosted by Fort Hays State University through its College Studies for the Gifted program.

The honors academy is a state program to provide intensive study in academic areas typically not offered by local schools.

School principals and counselors have been asked to forward the names of nominees to Fort Hays and the students then will be asked to apply and 150 students will be selected.

The academy will open June 6 and close a month late on July 3. The university is developing to courses, entitled "Living Reflectively in a Scientific World" and "Societal Transition and Emerging Futures.' Each course will include lectures and group dicsussions and they will be offered for college credits.

"Not only will the students be able to work directly with outstanding, nationally recognized faculty, but will also have an opportunity to participate in cultural activities on the Fort Hays campus during their stay," said Stanley Z. Koplik, executive director of the regents.

All costs for room and board at university dormitories, books and materials for the classes will be paid

Circle K club faces membership drop

By LYNETTE HAMILTON Collegian Reporter

Circle K International, the club that sponsors the campus bloodmobile, has seen better days.

Four years ago when Troy Millsap, senior in secondary education, joined Circle K, it was one of the biggest clubs on campus. Now it is one of the "One reason for this change was the top-heaviness of the club. Everyone was either a junior or a senior, and when they graduated, I was the only one left," Millsap said.

Charlene Nichols, junior at Manhattan Christian College, joined last year after asking a friend about which organization to join.

"I wanted to become more involved on campus and was looking more toward service organizations. Circle K was the cheapest as far as dues were concerned," Nichols said. "I also wanted the challenge and opportunity of working on the bloodmobile."

Circle K International is a service organization for college men and women and is sponsored by a local Kiwanis Club, in cooperation with University officials.

Club activities include meetings, social functions and service projects directed at confronting social problems in the community, Millsap

Through personal involvement on campus and in the community, Circle K members develop valuable leadership and organizational skills,

Both Nichols and Millsap are trying hard to keep Circle K an active club. Without members they cannot pay the International dues and Kiwanis sponsor fee, which places the club on a "non-meeting" status until conditions have improved to maintain the club or until the club charter is revoked.

Any Circle K club which has been on "non-meeting" status for one full year risks having its charter revoked. However, if a specific request is received by the International Office from the sponsoring Kiwanis Club or district governor or administrator, a Circle K club can remain on "nonmeeting" status more than two "Hopefully, it won't come to that," Millsap said.

Open 7 days a week B W A M EXPRESS Free Delivery Restaurant

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Welcome Parents

Come to scrumpdillyishusland for all your favorite Dairy Queen Treats!

Dairy Queen Brazier 1015 North 3rd • Manhattan 12th & Moro • Aggieville

Manhattan Creative Arts Guile CHRISTMAS ART FESTIVAL Saturday, November 8 1986 Pottorf Hall in CiCo Park 9:00 - 5:30 Food served all day

MIDDLE EAST CHALLENGE

A Public Lecture by: Ahmad Kanaan

Place: Room 212 K-State Union Date: Friday, Nov. 7, 1986 Time: 6:30 p.m.

Sponsored by MCA Muslim Community Association

Professor receives federal grant for swine embryo research

By JULIE REYNOLDS Collegian Reporter

An associate professor at K-State has received a three year, $207,000 grant to research swine embryos and their relationships with the sow's

Duane Davis, associate professor of animal sciences and industry, received the competitive grant from the United States Department of Agriculture to fund basic research in reproductive physiology in animals.

As a part of the research, the embryos are removed from the sow and analyzed at 11-20 days of age.

We are doing this research relationship. because this is the time when a lot of embryos (die) and only 60 percent of the embryos become piglets," Davis said. The research being done at this point involves trying to understand the interaction between the embryo and the sow. The interaction includes how, and when, the embryo moves and where the embryo is located in the uterus at various stages Davis said two local hormones, Prostaglandin F2 alpha and Prostaglandin E2, are believed to play an important role in the sow-embryo PGE2 may be a factor in the maintenance of early pregnancy by preventing PGF2 alpha from inducing estrous, the reproductive cycle in "Our research is designed to determones are produced by both the embryo and uterus," Davis said. By determining and measuring the amount of hormones produced, Davis said he hopes to understand mine how much of each of these horwhy some swine embryos are victims of early embryonic death. After being recovered from the sow's uterus, the embryos are placed in a dish of culture medium, in a sterile atmosphere and kept at body temperature. The dish is placed on a platform that rocks back and forth. "This is as close as we have come in creating an atmosphere that resembles a sow's uterus," Davis said.

The amount of hormones released into the culture medium is measured in additition to the amount of hormones contained in the embryos themselves.

Questions concerning embryo survival may be answered if the amount of each hormone produced is deter-

One question Davis is attempting to answer with his research is, "Do embryos that produce or release more prostaglandins grow faster?"

"At 10-11 days of age, some embryos are already twice as large as others," Davis said.

At the time when embryos are 11-20 days old, allotment of nutrients and space in the uterus is taking place, Davis said.

Embryos that grow faster take up more space in the uterus and are more likely to survive, he said. Other embryos are pushed aside and eventually die.

"Another question we will try to answer is, 'Is there some way we can give each embryo an equal space in the uterus?" he said.

Davis said the research is also concerned with the different hormones which may regulate how much of each hormone is produced. Davis' research also involves working with the University of Kansas Medical School in Kansas City. "Things we are working on are basic to reproduction in mammals, which medical doctors are also interested in," Davis said.

More than 180 grant applications were presented to the USDA.

lassifieds

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15: Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

YOU IN THERE ?

WANT TO play the assassination game? Call 532-2362 Laura (131), leave name and number. (51-54)

DONATIONS FOR the Cathy Robare car fund may be dropped off at the Small Business Development Center, 204 Calvin Hall. Checks should be made out to First Christian Church marked "Cathy Robare." Drop in and sign the card. (50-54)

COMING

TURTLE

Garfield

MY LITTLE

Bloom County

ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (53-75)

8th Annual Christmas Arts Festival, Saturday before, during and after OSU game. Just west of football stadium 1/2 mile on Parents Welcome! Kimball.

CHOCOLATE, STRAWBERRY, and vanilla! Lose weight, feel great, and earn money with 100% nat-ural herbal nutrition, 100% guaranteed. Cindi Kennaley, 776-6959. (53-59)

ATTENTION

BEERTH AND WATCHING

THOME WONDERFUL TV

THPORTS PROGRAMTH.

ATTENTION EARLY Christmas shoppers! Shop by mail at 40% below retail! Take our catalog down town and compare prices! Over 3,000 quality gifts to choose from. Fast service, we deliver free to your door. VISA and MasterCard welcome. Send $3 for fully illustrated color catalog (refunded with first order) to The Debmar Company, Box 1013, Dept. 81, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. (45-59)

Take your parents to a super art show and sale, Saturday, Nov. 8, from 9-5:30 at Cico Park - West on Kimball

HALF OFF-1 p.m. haircut appointment (with this ad), includes shampoo and blowdry. Monday-Friday. Crum's Beauty College, 776-4794. Ad expires KSU WINTER ski weeks to Steamboat, Vail or Keystone with five or seven nights deluxe lodging, lift

NEW Releases

The Pointer Sisters Police Kenny Rogers

Windham Hill Samantha Fox Krokus And More!

At The Sound Shop In Aggieville

By Berke Breathed

APPARENTLY.

IT INVOLVES

VOMITING!

By Jim Davis

0

0

THOUGHT IT WAS SAFE TO HAVE

BREAKFAST ...

tickets, mountain picnic, parties, ski race, more, from $142! Hurry, call Sunchase Tours for more in-formation toll free 1-800-321-5911 today! (38-55)

FOR RENT-MISC

539-4675. (50-54)

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

CITY AUDITORIUM, November 8, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Crafts, toys and much more. Register for prizes. Do your Christmas shopping early. Soup and snacks.

ONE BEDROOM in mobile trailer for rent, $150 month plus one-half lot rent, one-half electric. Male, no pets. Call 776-1359. (48-57)

FOR RENT-APTS

04 NICE ONE bedroom basement apartment with washer and dryer, $185 plus one-fifth utilities. Call 537-3318. (52-56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, spring semester one-half block from campus, $118 per month, 539-

> WILDCAT CREEK APARTMENTS

Unf. 1 & 2 BR apts. 5-12 month leases

to fit your lifestyle *Conveniently Located

•24 Hour Emergency Maintenance Quiet Community with Off-Street Parking Two Laundry Facilities and Pools

 No Pets Allowed OFFICE HOURS 8:30 to 5:30 Monday-Friday

Come visit us at 1413 Cambridge Place 539-2951

No Appointment Necessary

ONE BEDROOM fully furnished apartments. Available January 1. Close to campus, laundry facilities available. Call 776-9124. (53-75)

ZERO AND two blocks from campus in quiet, wellmaintained modern complexes. One bedroom furnished apartments $280 and $216 per month. Prefer faculty, graduate student, married couple. January 1st, twelve month lease. No pets, waterbeds. 537-9686 for information and application

06

FOR SALE-AUTO 1982 COUGAR—Loaded, excellent condition, priced to sell. 532-6786, George H. or 776-2049. (53-57)

good running condition. Phone 539-4031. (53-56) 1977 OLDS Cutlass Supreme. Runs good, new tires, air conditioning, AM-FM, needs body work. Good price. 776-9881 after 6 p.m. (54-56)

FOR SALE-1975 Oldsmobile 88. One owner car, in

FOR SALE-MISC 07

FOR SALE—KSU Royal Purple yearbooks 1963-1979. Call 776-0592. (50-54)

SUN NO CONNECTION

Now selling $2 SESSIONS and using Wolff Bulbs

1126 Laramie 776-2426

FOR SALE-Four 5-spoke chrome wheels, price ne gotiable. Phone 539-6450, ask for Dale. (53-54)

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off 776-7983 327 Poyntz

SKIS-DYNASTAR 180 cm., Solomon bindings, Caber boots-101/2, Scott poles. $225/best offer Kent, 537-2857. (54-56)

By Eugene Sheffer

NTZ

Crossword

ACROSS 1 Did emperor

carpentry 38 Tours work 6 In the 41 Race part manner of 43 Kernel 9 Cumber-

topper

holder

Across

light's

44 See 35

45 Mimic

47 Flash-

kin product 53 Mythic

flyer

54 Peculiar for one 12 Rotund 13 Chess pieces

land,

14 Author Umberto 49 Vote in 15 Trattoria 52 Keats offering stress's aid 18 Mideast

16 Seam-

vessel 20 Previously owned 21 CSA leader

23 Patriotic org. 24 Word with box or release 25 Lawman Wyatt 27 Shellac ingredient 29 Decorative 31 Alterer, at times

35 Kitchen item

Yesterday's answer

37 Infamous 57 Pertaining 17 Call it a day to sound 19 Actress

> 21 MGM 2 Law org. mascot 22 Pitcher 4 This, in Baja 24 Singer 5 College

Black

Zadora 26 Sire or dam 28 Head of cattle

30 Make lace

32 Speaker's

look

38 String

ties

9 V constituaid 33 Cor-10 Lot units onado's gold 55 Fix a hem 11 Tadpole 34 Emulate

56 Reverence homes Raffles Solution time: 26 min. 36 Quick

DOWN

1 Drench

3 "Horse

opera"

VIPs

6 Current

7 Regan's

father

"guest"

8 Picnic

ents

bit

THE ANSWER IS ...

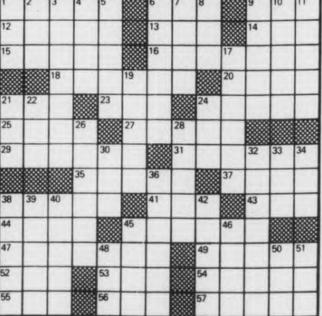

UH...15...UH...15...

11-7

39 Dodge 40 Extend a subscription 42 Wave to 45 Ship's front 46 Butter replacement

48 Period 50 Spy org. 51 - Aviv

11-7

QSRX WTSDMDXZZXD

ASDXM; ZWX NTZQ'G RCG

AED SG

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: NOTICE OF ORACLE'S DARING ESCAPE FROM OUR PRISON: "MEDIUM AT LARGE.

CRYPTOQUIP

Today's Cryptoquip clue: S equals I

FOR SALE: KSU/OSU football tickets, reasonably priced. 776-1861. (53-54)

The Ritz Denison & Claffin 69¢

1/4 Hamburger Exp. Date 11/9 (with coupon) 537-3335

FOR SALE: Green parrot with food, cage, and perch Call 532-3909 after 6 p.m. (53-54)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08 MOBILE HOME-Huge lot, storage shed, north of Manhattan, New hot water tank, carpet, $2,000. Phone 1-456-8114, (52-54)

FOUND

CHROME EXHAUST pipe for air-cooled VW. Call 539-4366 after 6 p.m. (52-54)

FOUND—LONG-haired blue point Siamese cat, fe-male. Contact me at 537-0692 or 537-9560. [53-54] MAN'S GOLD ring at Rec Complex Monday evening Call 539-0405 between 9:30 and 10 p.m. to identify

FREE

FREE: TWO Halloween kittens abandoned on my front porch. Male: approximately 4 months, black female: approximately 10 months, orange and black. Very affectionate. Help these beautiful creatures find a good home. 776-0833 between 1-5 p.m. Friday. (54)

HELP WANTED

3,000 GOVERNMENT jobs list. $16,040-$59.230 year. Now hiring Call 805-687-6000, ext. R-9701

TRAVEL FIELD position immediately available Good commissions, valuable work experience fravel, and other benefits. Call Brad Nelson (toll free). 1-800-433-7747 for a complete information mailer

WANTED: ST. Xavier High-School in Junction City needs Assistant Boys Basketball Coach, Call 1-238-2841. (51-55)

GRADUATE STUDENT or upper level undergraduate position available to coordinate the summer pro-gram for high school students at KSU Applicants nust have a good academic record, be familiar with KSU operations, possess excellent organiza tional and communication skills, be available to work 15-20 hours/week immediately and be able to commit to the position through August 14, 1987 Call for complete position description (532-5575) or pick up a copy at 1623 Anderson Avenue. Appli cation deadline November 12 (51.54) WANTED-AN Arts and Graphics major for part-time position. Retail experience preferred. Apply in per son at the Jean Station 152-54 RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amusement parks, now accepting applications. For more information and an application, write: National Colle-giate Recreation Service, PO Box 8074, Hilton Head, S.C. 29938 (52-66)

OVERSEAS JOBS. Summer, year around. Europe, South America, Australia, Asia. All fields. $900-$2,000 month. Sightseeing. Free information, write IJC, PO. Box 52-KS2. Corona Del Mar. CA 92625. (52-71) CAMPUS REPS needed-travel free: Position in volves marketing and selling quality ski and beach trips on campus. Earn free trips and high commis-Call John Eldredge at Great Destinations, 1-800-258-9191 (52-56) WE'RE LOOKING for a dependable woman or man. Part-time with potential for full-time long-term employment. Experience in camping, backpack-ing, and/or biking required. Come in for applica-tion. The Pathfinder, 1111 Moro, Aggleville, (52-54)

STUDENT OPERATOR position, 15-30 hours per week. Starting date November 17, 1986. Must be months, weekends and school breaks. Studen with employment potential of two years will be given preference. Ranking factors such as GPA general employment experience and experience as a computer operator will be considered. Appli cations will be accepted through 4 p.m. Friday. November 7 in Administrative Computer Opera tions, room 2B, basement of Farrell Library Con tact Dennis Reith (52-54)

STUDENT HELP-Office work, typing skills, computer experience, afternoons only, prefer four hour block, Forestry Department, Phone 532-5752, ask for Pat. (53-55)

PART-TIME help, 15-20 hours per week. Refail sales experience helpful, 537-2051. (53-54)

DENTAL ASSISTANT-Experience necessary Position open January 5th Please send resume or ap-ply at 404 Humboldt. Suite B. Monday thru Friday nings. Dr Clark D Danner (54-63)

NOTICES

MARIE'S COSTUME Rentals, 1631 Humboldt, 539. 5200, 10 a m -6 p m, daily, closed 5 day. Parking in the rear. (53 65)

Christmas Art Festival at Cico Park Saturday 9-5:30

Sponsored by Manhattan

Creative Arts Guild

SPAGHETTI DINNER—All you can eat! $3, bring this ad for 50¢ discount. St. Isidores Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison across from West Stadium Saturday, November 8, 1986, 5–7 p.m. Sponsored by Newman Ministries. (54) PERSONAL 16

TO THE friends of Renee Whitney: She has arrived in Switzerland and is enjoying her stay—but would love to hear from 'home.' Her address is: Renee Whitney: American College of Switzerland. 1854; Leysin, Suisse. She would love to hear from you! P.S. Her birthday is November 13th (53-54) TRI-SIG SHANNON-My wonderful roomie, you trips and party will never be the same without you! Love—your #202 Roomie. (54) KKG KELLY: The semester has been fun. I wish you didn't have to run. Go show K.C. that you're number one. L and L, Kyle. (54)

Beebo Deeb. Hove you like a big dog. Boston, r

LADIES OF Ford Hall! We're looking forward to giv ing tuck-ins on Monday and Tuesday nights, No-vember 10th and 11th! Contact your floor president for details. - The Phi Kappa Theta pledge class. (54) PIKE ACTIVES: We're not coming back this time! Send search party for DA, Cubby, and KB, last seen at Union. (54)

CLAUDIA JO Sangster—Hope no fleas infest you on your 24th Birthday—Have a Happy! (54)

JUMPIN JACK Flash: You say when, and I'll be ready to leave our mark on KSU. Mouse. (54)

MY BEAUTIFUL One-Happy Anniversary! It's as great as ever. Hang in there. You are in my mind. Missing you! Much love—J. (54)

GAMMA PHI Heidi - The past few months have be a blast, we looked ahead and forgot the past. We took the time and took the chance, and now our friendship will always last. Happy Birthday! Love

KKG STEPHANIE and Brenda-My mom's the best and grandma's next; on Sunday we'll meet, and go on a road trip to eat. I can't wait. Love you both like a big dog. Love-Dot. (54)

PI KAP Johnnie, Just want you to know babe, I love you so! ILYJ! Mishel. (54)

KKG PLEDGES. We snuck on Halloween, to Nebraska we went, we visited Agnes and stayed at Motel 6. We'll never forget Rickey's or the Omaha Mail, the stories we told or the snow we saw fall. Thanks for taking us we couldn't have had more fun, we'll treasure the memories cause you all are # 1. L and L. Active Sneakers. (54)

KAPPA SIG Mark B. Good luck at the American Royal. Hope you and Morhaba are both feeling your pats! Love, M. H and J. (54)

TRI DELT Jill: Rumor thru Hollywood is that you're no longer a teen! Happy Birthday! Wish we could cel-ebrate with you—Clark G. and Jana. (54)

SHARLA BUNNY, what's hoppin? (54) DELT OBIE. You're the best daddy in the whole world and I wouldn't trade you for anything. You're sexy. too. Have a super weekend. Love -- your "Drunken" dot. (54)

AD Pi's: We'll throw the bachelor party, you throw the shower. Then prepare to wed near the tower! Women get ready; this ain't no foolin'. We'll all be just a ragein' and rulein' (54) AZD CHERYL H .- Who taught you how to chug? Shouldn't you be studying? I'm telling! Your real brother-Craig (54) ACACIA: YOU'VE got nuts, we've got the bolts, can hardly wait to see the results! Thetas. (54) KSU LVST Judging Team. Best of luck at the Royal

ROOMMATE WANTED ROOMMATE WANTED to share nice two bedroom apartment close to campus. Call Carla, 539-4301

Be confident, you're all winners. (54)

evenings (47-56)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester Very clean, nice, furnished apartment $200/month plus one-half utilities. Call 537-7181 ONE NON-SMOKING female Vet or Animal Science major to share farmhouse. Free stall and pasture for horse, cow, dog. Fireplace wood, beef, eggs furnished, 776-1205 evenings, (50-59) ONE-TWO female roommates wanted for spring se mester Apartment complex is very nice and two blocks from campus. Rent is reasonable. Call

Diane, 776-4965 (51-54) ROOMMATE WANTED to share two bedroom apart ment close to campus. Call 537-1586 or 776-3759

NONEMOKING FEMALE-Large house with washer and dryer central air and heat. Private room, utili-ties paid, $175/month thru May! Close to KSU 539-ROOMMATE-MALE/female, two bedroom house

$120/month, including utilities. Call 537-9624, (54)

SERVICES 18 PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25 (11f)

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Anna Prockish, 931 Hum boldt 537-4246 (43tf) RESUMES. COVER letters, and newsletters professionally written and printed. Call 539-5007. (9tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence 913-841-5716. (39tf) TYPING — EXPERIENCED typist, reasonable rates, term papers, letters, etc. Call 776-0738, (50-54)

TYPING—TERM papers, research papers, resumes, cover letters, theses, Call 539-2411 (52-56) MARTIE'S TYPING Service Word processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314 Specializing in theses, disserta-tions, manuscripts, term papers. (53-55)

WANTED PASSENGER WANTED to Tucson, Phoenix, Albuquerque area during Christmas vacation Share ex

enses, references required. Need to know soon 537-7709 (52-54)

WELCOMES 23 WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza Church School 9:45 a.m.; Worship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to church—776-8790 after 9 a.m. (54)

School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m. Evening Service, 6 p.m., Prayer Service, Wednes day, 7 pm (54) ST LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services. Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10.45 a.m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday (54)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday

First United Methodist Church 612 Pewntz 8 45 a m. Commannion first Sunday of the month

9.45 a.n. Church School

8.45 a.n. & H.a.n. Worship Sursery provided for all services John D. Stoneking Pastor TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN - Worship Service 10:45 a.m.: Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church all Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office.

539-3921 (54) WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Bivd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Adult Sunday School Class meets 9:45 a.m. at the church office 2607 Allison. College Care cell meets Saturday, 6:30 p.m., also Bible Study Tuesday evenings—contact 539-5369 For any additional information, call 537-7173. (54)

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:45 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (54) WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service. 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton teacher Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford. Pastor: Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (54) MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions

daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (54) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training. 6 p.m. Sunday. Wednesday Evening Prayer Service. 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (54)

FIRST LUTHERAN, 10th and Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (54) ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church—6th and Poyntz. Communion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call

eanuts

YES MA'AM .. I KNOW

THE ANSWER

I...AM UNDERGOING

"MALE

BONDING "

WITH YOUR

FATHER.

By Charles Schulz

Arms control session closes in uncertainty

By The Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria - U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze failed Thursday to make headway toward curbing nuclear weapons and left the future of arms control and superpower summits in doubt.

Shultz told reporters after his five hours of talks with Shevardnadze over two days: "I can't say that the meetings have moved arms control matters along in any significant way, and I regret this."

Shevardnadze said he was returning to Moscow "with a bitter taste" after being confronted with "a mixed bag of old

HAPPY HOUR

From 6 p.m. to close includes 81/2 x11

31/2¢

mothballed views and approaches."

Summing up the meetings, which took place while Shevardnadze and Shultz were in Vienna for a conference on human rights and East-West relations, one senior U.S. official said: "It was a

Another senior U.S. official, also speaking on condition of anonymity, said there would be no further high-level sessions until the Soviets indicated a willingness to negotiate constructive-

Shevardnadze said another superpower summit "will all depend on further contacts."

A senior U.S. official said he expected no change in basic Soviet positions.

REGISTER

FOR

1102 Laramie Main St. in Ogden 2706 Anderson

Aid

Continued from Page 1

assistance office which is programmed for this purpose, he said. Students will be able to use the computer to determine how much they have accumulated in loan debts and predict how long it will take to pay back the loans using an estimated income of their future jobs.

Another positive outcome of the new law, Viterna said, is loan consolidation. By this, he said, students will be allowed to make one payment to cover all of their loans if their loan debt is $5,000 or more.

Among the more general provisions of reauthorization is the requirement that students maintain a C grade average in order to continue receiving financial aid, Viterna said. Previously, students were required to meet "satisfactory progress requirements" set by the University,

Viterna also discussed recently approved tax reform legislation. Under the new policy, which goes into effect

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS

THE DRAWING FOR ONE 20 LB. TURKEY AT EACH MINI MART WILL BE ON NOVEMBER 21. NEED

NOT BE PRESENT TO WIN. REGISTER AS MANY

TIMES AS YOU LIKE. Located for

NO

PURCHASE

NECESSARY

Country Store

Jan. 1, grants, scholarships and assistantships will be considered taxable income, for any amount which exceeds the cost of tuition, books, fees and any other required supplies. Viterna, in his recommendations to the students, said the most important thing to do is to meet deadlines. The application deadline for academic scholarships is Jan. 15. For need-based financial aid, which includes work study programs, the deadline is March 15.

In addition, he said, students need to talk to senators, congressmen, state legislators, members of the Board of Regents as well as the Student Financial Assistance Office.

"Your voice is very, very important when it comes to the outcome of programs for financial aid," he said.

Amend

Continued from Page 1

"There were always legislators who wanted to get their pet projects included," Miller said.

In addition, Miller said infighting between factions in the liquor industry also could slow consideration of the liquor proposals. Miller said private club interests may square off against restaurants in counties where liquor by the drink will be allowed, and he predicted the usual squabbles between liquor and beer sellers.

Miller also predicted that opponents of liquor by the drink and gambling issues, such as the Rev.

Richard Taylor and his anti-liquor, anti-gambling group called Kansans For Life at Its Best!, will work hard to make the implementing legislation as restrictive as possible.

"I'll try to minimize the personal, social and economic damage caused by increased availability of our most abused drug and by the public swindle called lottery and pari-mutuel betting," Taylor said.

Hayden, who supported the lottery but voted against resolutions to put the liquor by the drink and parimutuel issues on the ballot, said he wants to see the lottery become the top legislative priority because it would produce the most revenue. "In my own mind, it makes sense to expedite that one as soon as possible," Hayden said.

Makes old-fashioned ice cream treatsstill America's #1 dairy treat. You'll love our atmosphere. Try our soft-serve. 537-7079 1314 Westloop

"Satin Rage"

$2 Cover

9-12 p.m. *NO KSU required - Next to Tuttle Creek Dam 537-9877

• PENIX

1445 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS

Burritos only 19¢ each

2-Liter Pepsi

Potato Chips Buy one, Get one

Guy's

FREE

7½ oz. size

This coupon good for one FREE 44-oz. Super Big Gulp fountain drink at the Manhattan, Kansas 7-ELEVEN Store.

OFFER EXPIRES NOVEMBER 15, 1986

PRICES GOOD AT MANHATTAN, KS STORE THROUGH NOV. 15, 1986

